In the telegram the governors commended the commission for reserving educational TV channels, thus providing "further cultural and educational opportunities for the nation."

The governors said that action has been taken in all the states and that progress has been made toward activation of the channels allocated to them, but they asked that sufficient time be given for local groups and commissions to prepare plans to be considered by legislatures, eight of which cannot consider them before 1955.

The FCC date is state action by June 1, 1953 or the channels would be open to commercial operators.

New Rodeo Room Will Feature Music And Food

The Ranch House yesterday announced the opening of its new Rodeo Room, which will be open Tuesday through Saturday, from 8 to 12 p.m.

Decorated in ranch style, the dining room will serve beer, wine, champagne, dinners an dsnacks. The Rodeo Room will be completely separate from the other dining rooms and is under the management of Frank Sherwood and Gene Laughler, students at Carolina.

Wednesday & Thursday
SPECIALS

COTTON DRESS SALE
1 Rack at 2 for $5.00
Ladies and Children

One Rack at 2 for $7.00
Sanforized—Fast Colors

New Shipment
Assorted Colors—All Sizes
$6.95

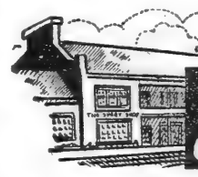
OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY
BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

Inspect IT!

Don't take anti-freeze efficiency for granted. Let us check to be sure that it's protecting your engine. Drive up!

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR

POE MOTOR CO.
112 W. Franklin
DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH



Any Man Who Would Give A Woman THE UNFAIR SEX, Would Give Tigers Claw-Sharpeners

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

SALE

Crease Resistant
IMPORTED
LINEN SLACKS
only
$10.95

Yes you can buy these genuine imported crease-resistant linen slacks now on this Sale for only $10.95. You'll find all the new spring shades. Hurry down as they will sell fast at this low price.

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

the shocking story of the women who prowled the Paris nights ...and the man who sought their love ...and gave them greatness!

ROMULUS presents
JOSÉ FERRER
in John Huston's
MOULIN ROUGE
COLOR BY Technicolor
with ZSA ZSA GABOR · SUZANNE FLON and introducing COLETTE MARCHAND

STARTS TOMORROW
Varsity

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Continued sunny with 80 high. Yesterday's high, 75; low, 45.

The Daily Tar Heel

ROUGE
A reviewer reviews a flick. See p. 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 135 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

TRAGEDY AND happiness were happening this week. In the picture at top Stewardess Beverly Nelson, one of two survivors of a San Francisco Bay plane crash, sits in an ambulance after rescue. Her face and hair still are smeared with oil. At bottom, repatriated prisoner of war Pfc. Robert Stell of Baltimore is being worked on by the medics on an operating table near Freedom Village. Stell is talking to newsmen.—NEA Telephotos.

Job Compensation Given Grid Player

Colorado Supreme Court Declares Injury During Practice Entitles Man To Allowance

DENVER, April 22—(Special)—A former Denver University football player is entitled to worker compensation because of footblal injuries, Colorado Supreme Court recently ruled.

The player, Ernest Nemeth, 25, of East Chicago, Ind., in claiming the benefits said that his back was injured during Spring practice in April 1950. Nemeth said that at the time of his injury he was receiving $50 monthly from the university for working on the campus tennis courts, with $10 a month deducted for meals.

The State Industrial Commission ruled that Nemeth should be paid $11.87 a week for his back injury until further notice. The commission was upheld by the district court and the decision was appealed to the Supreme Court by the university's insurance company.

The court's opinion said that Nemeth had been told by university officials that "it would be decided on the football field who receives the meals and jobs." It went on to say that his employment depended on his playing football and he could no longer play.

Student Budget On The Spike Tonight At Legislature Meeting

Student lawmakers will meet tonight at 7:30 in Phi Hall to figure out how student government will spend next year's $74,550.

The budget was presented to the Legislature several weeks ago and it will probably get the final solon stamp of approval tonight.

Consensus among legislators yesterday was that the budget suggested by the Finance Committee will be approved without too much hassel. However, the Debate Council's budget, one of the many items dependent on the student government bank account, may be viewed more closely, legislators hinted yesterday.

The budget is a six-page affair drawn up for an estimated 5,200 Secretary-Treasurer Ed Gross and enrollment. It was prepared by his committee.

Top budget items, The Daily Tar Heel and The Yackety Yack, will be considered.

Tonight's session will be the last of this term. The new crop of lawmakers will take over at the following meeting, so budget doings are expected to be wrapped up.

Compared to last year's budget, student government estimates it will have more money to spend for the various services. Last year's income from student fees was $71,550 compared to this year's $74,550.

Among the student activities supported by the student government are the Carolina Forum, Debate Council, Graham Memorial, Men's Interdormitory Council, Independent Coed Board, University Club, Class Organizations and the Publications Board.

Medical Center Program Opens This Morning

The first of a two-day dedication program, packed with medical dignatories, opens today at the big new health center on med hill on Pittsboro Road.

Hundreds of visitors will attend the exercises which get underway at 10:45 with a general convocation in Memorial Hall. Dr. Joseph T. Wearn, dean and professor of medicine, Western Reserve University School of Medicine and director of medicine for the University Hospital, Cleveland, will be the principal speaker.

The two-day program will mark the formal dedication of the North Carolina Memorial Hospital, the School of Dentistry, the School of Nursing and the expanded new four-year School of Medicine.

Sessions both days are open to the public and the various new buildings will be open for inspection tours.

For the convenience of visitors, about 40 courtesy cars will be located at strategic points about the campus. The cars will be furnished and driven by medical and dental students and will be at the disposal of dedication guests both days.

There will also be a corps of student guides who will be stationed about the campus to give information to direct visitors about the new buildings. Classes in the Medical, Dental and Nursing schols will be suspended after 10 o'clock both mornings so the students may participate in the activities.

In addition to Dr. Wearn's address, this morning's program will include greetings from the presidents of North Carolina Medical Society, North Carolina Dental Society, North Carolina Nurses' Association, and North Carolina Hospital Association.

Preregistration

Appointment books for preregistration in General College will be in Room 308 of South Building beginning Tuesday through May 2.

Actual preregistration for the Fall and Summer terms will take place May 4-15.

Copies Flood Capitol Of DTH Trustee Issue

Constituents can be assured that at least once their legislators had an abundance of good reading material and facts before them.

Copies of The Daily Tar Heel were placed on the desk of every state senator and representative early Tuesday morning of the issue on the election of Trustees.

Later in the day more were sent because of an uncertainty as to whether the first copies had been delivered. Janitors who had just finished cleaning up the first group, didn't seem at all pleased when the second batch arrived.

MRS. G. B. HANNAFORD

Diamond Talk Tonight At 8 In New East

Contributions science and industry have made to the beauty of diamonds and contributions diamonds have made to history will be discussed tonight.

Mrs. Gladys Babson Hannaford, diamond lecturer, will address Sigma Gamma Epsilon, geological fraternity, tonight at 8 o'clock in New East. Her address will be called "Diamond Information, Please."

She will tell how she has seen individual prospectors mine for diamonds with a pick and a pail, and how she has seen expensive modern machinery used to blast diamonds out of the throat of an old volcano three-quarters of a mile under the ground or dig them from under 40 feet of dune sand.

Mrs. Hanaford also will discuss the long development of the process of cutting diamonds from the times of the ancient Indians who merely cut off the rough corners of the stone, to the Belgian who first invented modern cutting methods about 1475, to the twentieth century method in which each facet is cut at the best possible angle for obtaining maximum brilliance.

NEWS IN BRIEF

TOKYO — Liberated American soldiers told yesterday of seeing American war prisoners "pushed off a cliff and left there to die" during a horror-filled Korean death march and how others were deliberately bayoetted by Chinese guards in a Red prison camp. One said "there were so many who died" in the camps and on forced marches he could not guess the number. Released Allied war prisoners have told of the deaths of more than 1,170 United Nations POW's on forced marches or through brutality and neglect in Communist prison camps.

★

PANMUNJOM — The United Nations called on the Reds to sit down yesterday in a conference of liaison officers "to discuss matters in connection with the current repatriation operation." The unexpected UN demand touched off immediate speculation the Communists may be asked to answer charges by returning Allied prisoners that the Reds are not living up to their agreement to return all Allied sick and wounded war prisoners during the present exchange.

★

WASHINGTON — The Senate Appropriations Committee summoned acting Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith to Capitol Hill yesterday for a secret report on Communist atrocities against American war prisoners. News reports that the Reds were welshing evoked congressional demands for a delay in truce talks.

UN Week At Hill Designated To Run From April 24 To May 2

April 24 to May 2 has been declared "Carolina United Nations Week" in a proclamation signed by President Gordon Gray, Chancellor Robert B. House and Bob Gorham, president-elect of the student body.

The week's activities begin with a banquet in the South Dining Room of Lenoir Hall tomorrow evening at 6:15. Reservations may be made at $1.50 a plate at the Y office until noon tomorrow.

Following the banquet Dr. Frank P. Graham will make an address at 8 o'clock in Hill Hall. The address originally was scheduled for Memorial Hall.

On Tuesday evening after a debate at 8 o'clock resolved: that the UN be revised into a United World Government in the Dialectic Senate Hall, the United Kingdom delegation to the Model Assembly will give a tea.

During the week displays on the UN prepared by John Gilsdorf can be see in the show cases of the library.

Miss Ruth Current, The Winner

State Home Demonstration Agent Gets Chi O Annual Service Award

Miss Ruth Current, State Home Demonstration Agent for the last 16 years, was presented the annual Distinguished Service Award for the outstanding woman in the state during the last year by the Epsilon Beta chapter of Chi Omega sorority here.

The award was presented by Chancellor Robert B. House at ceremonies following a banquet at the Carolina Inn. Alice Hicks of Faison, incoming president of the sorority, presided.

The citation read: "Ruth Current, North Carolina State Home Demonstration Agent for 16 years, District Home Demonstration Agent of Iredell County for two years, guide to more than 2,000 home demonstration clubs with membership exceeding 70,000 persons and educator in the area of family life.

"For her vision, leadership, and selfless contribution to improved rural living through citizenship, training, and adult education, Ruth Current has been acclaimed throughout the state and throughout the nation."

The Award Committee was composed of Chancellor House, Dean Katherine Carmichael, Dean Susan Grey Akers, Prof. E. J. Woodhouse, and Miss Verna Stanton, Raleigh.

Several annual awards to members of the Chi Omega sorority were also presented at the banquet. The presentations were made to the following by Miss Marguerite Grady of Fayetteville: Mary Jo Paul, Washington, N. C., scholarship pledge award; Alice Hicks, Faison, outstanding pledge award; Margaret Johnston, Charlotte, outstanding active award.

The out-going president, Miss Jayne Adams of Charlotte, made the presentations to the following: Margaret Sears, Raleigh, scholarship award to the senior active, and Bonnie Baker, Carrboro, scholarship active award.

Miss Current, in expressing her gratitude and appreciation, said that "no honor or tribute has — and I am sure never will— meant as much as this one."

Russian Change In Tactics Shouldn't Lull Free World, Harriman Says InTalk Here

CAMPUS SEEN

Local bopster's remark as movie he-man breaks neck off whiskey fifth by banging it on table, "Man, dig that bottle opener.

*

Lamp post as green as the Spring grass as Buildings Department hauls out its paint brushes.

*

Sunday dress on Wednesday as high schoolers invade campus for Planetarium treat.

Trustee Tells Of Navy Tour

Victor S. Bryant, member of the Board of Trustees and the board's Executive Committee, took on a different role yesterday to tell 300 NROTC midshipmen about his experiences with the Navy.

Bryant toured a Navy Task Force last year as a civilian guest on board the U.S.S. Wooster, a cruiser. During the trip, he watched the Navy go to work and save survivors from the Destroyer Hobson collision with the Carrier Wasp.

In the Carroll Hall auditorium yesterday afternoon, he gave a minute-by-minute account of the events before the accident, explaining the mistakes the Hobson commander could have made. The collision resulted in the loss of 176 lives, the destruction of the Hobson, and the bow of the Wasp.

Oratory Medal Entries Asked Of '53 Seniors

The Mangum Medal, given annually to a senior for excellence in oratory, will be awarded May 13 this year under the joint sponsorship of the Di and the Phi.

Originally given to that student considered most outstanding in forensics and scholarship, the award is now judged by a faculty panel on the basis of a specially prepared speech.

The medal is the oldest undergraduate prize at the University, having been established in 1878 in memory of Willie Person Mangum, and continued, except for a temporary interruption during World War II, ever since. The Di and the Phi took over sponsorship of the competition last year. Last year's winner was John Schnorrenburg.

Any senior who will graduate not later than at the end of the first term next year is eligible to enter. Each contestant must deliver an original oration on any subject he chooses. It should be about 10 minutes long, or from a 1,200 to 1,500 word manuscript. The competition will be held in the Phi Hall (New East, fourth floor) at 8 o'clock on the night of May 13.

Seniors wishing to enter are asked to notify Dean E. L. Mackie's office at 313 South Building not later than May 6, giving their name and the title of their speech.

Notes Trends Of New Order Ruling Russia

While the Kremlin may have changed its tactics, there has been no indication it has changed its objectives, Averell Harriman said in a speech here last night.

And he warned his Carroll Auditorium audience of 300 that regardless of Russia's shift in methods, there should not be a letdown in this country's preparedness.

"Since it's not polite anymore to call anyone an isolationist, I should like to say I'm afraid we are getting some relaxationists," the former Russian ambassador and American government official said. Such a relaxation in our defense efforts must not come; "this of all times is the time we should not falter—this is the time to press forward."

Harriman made some "observations" on the present situation in Russia. "It appears Malenkov (Stalin's successor) realizes that the Russian people resent one-man domination and Malenkov evidently is reversing some of the trends" along this line.

The speaker cited the reduction from 15 to nine in the Presidium (formerly Politburo), and the cut to five in the number of advisors to Malenkov. Later, in answer to a question, Harriman said he believed Malenkov and Beria (head of Russian Security police) are working together. "Evidently they believe if they hang together, they can hang anyone else."

Harriman suggested that perhaps some of the letup in Russia's aggressive tendencies was that "the tensions of the outside world are being reflected too much in Russia."

He evaluated Molotov's role in the new Russian regime as not a "political factor, even though he may be a technical advisor."

In regard to his Russian observations, Harriman reminded his audience 'these are all surmises."

Stalin realized he made a blunder in Korea, Harriman opined. "He thought the United Nations would be discredited as the Japanese did to the League in the early thirties."

Harriman, again in answer to a post-speech question, advanced an idea for current Red China-Russia difficulties. While ambassador to Russia during World War II, Harriman said Stalin told him that China would need contact with the West to give her machinery and other goods. "We can't supply it," Harriman quoted Stalin as saying. Perhaps that's one of the difficulties today, Harriman suggested.

Harriman appeared under the auspices of the Carolina Forum, a student group which brings prominent speakers in the fields of private business, government and education to the campus. At present he is president of Union Pacific Railroad.

He spent last night in Chapel Hill and will return north today.

Rather than guess what the Kremlin is going to do, we should adopt another attitude, the speaker said. He recalled the recent statement by the mayor of free Berlin. "Far more important," the German mayor has said, " is what we of the free nations do." Harriman called this "very profound."

Harriman told his audience that "the peace we seek is not easy . . . High taxes will be on us for years to come." He suggested regarding taxes as "an investment in our security." This generation, he continued, is the "most fortunate" in U. S. history for "I believe we have it in our power to bring America to peace."

"I believe we can believe the Communist idea that this is the age of the Communist Manifesto. I believe we can make it the age of the Declaration of Independence," he concluded.

AVERELL HARRIMAN
. . . 'no time to falter'

Band Concert Slated Before Fleece Tapping

The University Concert Band will present the first in a series of annual Spring concerts next Monday evening in Memorial Hall. at 7:15.

This concert will be in conjunction with the 50th Anniversary Tapping Ceremonies of the Order of the Golden Fleece.

There will be three marches, "The American Way" by Goldman; "Men of Ohio" by Fillmore, and "Skyways" by Yoder. All three of these composers are well known for their marches. Novelty and folk music numbers include "Wing Ding" by Singer; "Suite of Old American Dances" by Bennett, and "Mariana" by Singer. Popular music includes selections from Garshwin's "Porgy and Bess" and a "Vincent Youmans Fantasy." Classical music on the program will present "Second Suite in F" by Host; and "Psyche and Eros" by Franck.

The doors will be closed at 7:30 because of the tapping ceremonies. Conducting will be Earl Slocum, director of the University Band and Orchestra for a period of almost 20 years. Admission is free.

Movie Benefit Ticket Sale To Aid YMCA

Fraternities, sororities, faculty members, dorm residents, civic organizations and local merchants have all joined forces to aid the YWCA in selling tickets to the screen production of "The Member of the Wedding."

The movie version of the prize-winning play has the entire Broadway cast including Ethel Waters, Julie Harris and Brandon deWilde. Andrew Gutierrez, manager of the Varsity Theater is allowing the Y a portion of the profits on all tickets sold before the showing of the movie next Wednesday and Thursday, April 29 and 30.

Tickets are now on sale at regular prices at the Little Shop, the University Florist, Town and Campus and Ledbetter Pickard, according to Pat Todd, chairman of the ticket drive.

DKE, Sigma Nu, Chi Phi, Phi Delt, Beta, Sigma Chi, SAE, Theta Chi and Chi Psi fraternities will aid in the drive as well as all sororities, many of the faculty members and all girls' dormitories. Local civic organizations selling movie tickets are the Y-Teens, the Jaycees, Kiwanians and the Junior Service League.

Julie Harris has won the Donaldson and New York Drama Critics Circle awards for her performance in the Broadway production of "The Member of the Wedding." Stanley Kramer and Fred Zimmerman, producer and director of the movie, were the team who combined to make "High Noon" an Academy Award winner.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Richard Creed, Ken Sanford, Ellen Woods, J. D. Wright, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Tom Neal Jr., Jennie Lynn, Joyce Adams.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

The Past: A Future Promise

Bill Roth's resignation as Graham Memorial director is bad news for students.

In the past two years, Roth has worked hard to make the student union building a place for more campus activity. Through the creation of the Student Union Activities Board (SUAB), students have enjoyed a series of outstanding movies, Polgar, the hypnotist, and other entertainment features. The SUAB was established by Roth and Ken Penegar, chairman of the GM Board of Directors.

Perhaps Roth's greatest achievement was his work to get a new student union building. Though State and W.C. have large, new quarters, we are handicapped with a building away from the center of the camuus and only half as large as necessary. (Our present student union is supposed to have two big wings extending back onto the Morehead Planetarium parking lot.) Two years ago, no one thought it possible that a new student union building would even be discussed. With Roth's drive and spark, however, a strong movement got underway. Plans were drawn up, support gotten, and the Legislature's Advisory Budget Commission discussed the matter this year. We don't have the building yet, but the groundwork has been laid.

Bill has been interested in Scouting for as long as such interest is possible. He now takes on a professional job with the Boy Scouts. We hope that very soon we are able to call him Chief Scout Executive. His past work indicates great things to come.

Spring For Sure

We were a little concerned about the invasion of Northern weather this far south. The wind made the shutters tremble; people exhaled fog. Something was wrong.

But this week, to quote a news story we ran three weeks ago, "Winter took a curtain call during Spring's act." In a few days the weather will almost be like summer. There will be no mention of the midwestern blizzards, Chicago's icy atmosphere, and frozen peach crops. Indian winter has left us for good (we hope).

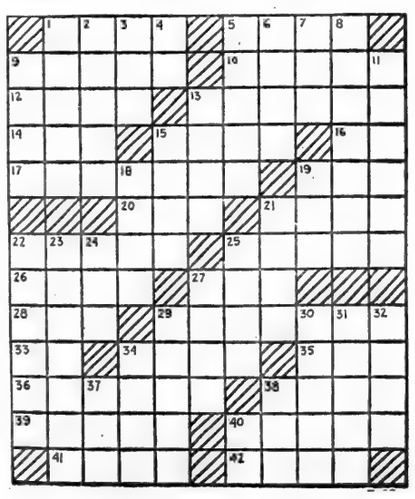
The orboretum is enjoying another plush Spring. The new business buildings are almost architecturally bearable because the new grass and the trees are beginning to hide them.

And speaking of grass, we believe that we have kept an unproclaimed, but highly implied editorial pledge that we made last November. For years we have read editorials about keeping off the grass. Our pledge was that there would be no "Keep Off" grass columns. We rather like to tramp on the grass. Its one of the bigger things in life. Not that we aren't willing to give nature a chance at Springtime and grow some grass, but we always feel that "Keep Off the Grass" signs are infringements of the right to enjoy nature. We have been able to work out a happy medium so that we can enjoy the grass and still have enough to look at.

We were going to crusade against the barbed wire fences erected on the lawns around Aycock dorm but we see students have taken care of that problem. There should be no objection on the part of students of just plain wire fences put up around this time of the year, though.

Whatever your sentiments on fences, we ask that if you trample over the new tufts of green stuff, take time and enjoy its brilliant verdure.

DAILY CROSSWORD



ACROSS
1. Island republic
5. Electric catfish
9. Marshal
10. Come in
12. Precious stone
13. Shake
14. Girl's name
15. An indefinite quantity
16. I am (contracted)
17. Deprives of sensation
19. Past
20. Regret
21. Monetary unit (Siam)
22. A young codfish
25. One's strong point
26. Sound, as bells
27. Wire measure
28. Some
29. Conveniently
33. Part of "to be"
34. Magic stick
35. Long, feathered scarf
36. A delicate point
38. Artificial alloy of gold or silver (Egypt. Archeol.)
39. Drench
40. Smooth with an iron
41. Seines
42. Man's name (poss.)

DOWN
1. Unrefined
2. Of the city
3. Shore recess
4. Affirmative vote (var.)
5. Quantities of paper
6. Poker stake
7. Coin (Siam.)
8. Pleasure
9. Native of Arabia
11. Far distant in space
13. Flowing garment
15. Complacent
18. River (Russ.)
19. River (Switz.)
21. Courageous
22. European country (poss.)
23. A boarding house (Fr.)
24. Beam
25. Discover
27. Great quantity
29. Detests
30. Norwegian playwright
31. Loamy deposit (Mississippi valley)
32. Sweet potatoes
34. Point of the compass
37. Hint
38. Constellation
40. Greek letter

3-23

Yesterday's Answer

—Alice Chapman—

Real Stories

If all your classes were held in a two million dollar building of a streamlined 1953 model would you complain?

If you were a student of sunbathing, fresh air, and beach combing courses in a Florida college would you find it possible to be unhappy?

Then suppose you as business manager of a large mid-western school had amassed through careful budgeting $800,000 for your school and the state comptroller demanded your return of this unspent sum to the state treasury. Wouldn't you let your hair down, lift your voice up, and cry?

Finally imagine yourself in the shoes of a state legislator offering the chancellor of your state University a $5,000,000 increase in yearly appropriations. Would you not be tempted to righteous indignation when the University paper condemned your legislature for financial neglect after he refused the sum.

Here are the real stories behind these make-believe situations.

On the Charlottesville, Virginia campus the 2 million dollar academic building is under serveillance. The architect forgot to provide for pencil sharpeners and waste backets in this rambling structure. However, some farsighted soul ordered cartons of waste backets which have arrived and are still obstructing the corridor in which they were unloaded. One English professor has solved the problem by leaning out of the window to sharpen his pencil with a pen-knife. How else could you eliminate the need for both pencil-sharpeners and waste backets?

* * *

Although Miami University sounds like paradise when they tell it to the people up North, one man on the inside has other things to say. He wrote to the editor that he could almost see his notebook through the mushroom cloud of smoke that descended daily in class. As one not addicted to the nicotine drug, he dedicated the following poem to his classmates.

"Buying a pack of cigarettes
Seems pretty silly to me.
Just take a trip to the classroom
And breathe the damn smoke free."

* * *

In the case of Iowa State College vs. the state comptroller, nearly $800,000 will go to the winning side. The comptroller has unearthed a 1933 law stating that all unspent funds must be put in the treasury at the end of each fiscal year. The college board feels this is a most unbusiness-like procedure since it will leave them broke at regular intervals. Since the college has used the surplus alrady in plac of regular appropriations they may be allowed to keep their nest egg.

* * *

The most amazing man that exists in college life today is the chancellor of the University of Georgia who apparently turned down an offer from the appropriations committee two years ago for a $5,000,000 increase. He simply stated that the money was not needed. Meanwhile practically every other educational institution in the entire universe has been pleading for salary raises, new buildings, and modern equipment. Mr. Chancellor in Athens must have forgotten that an institution dies if it refuses to grow or won't at least keep its professors alive by paying them a salary.

Lately editorials and other blasting elements have been deploring the state of the Georgia funds—in regard to the University. The Georgia legislature has issued a plea to the students to save their school from "misunderstanding by the officials concerning the needs in Georgia which demand a great University."

The Levin Scoop of the Week. . . . Henry Shavitz has got the cutest little cocker spaniel, and he named it Ming Toy. It seems that Ming Toy is a wonder dog. He gave a pint of blood and Henry gets to wear the pin. Ming Toy is taking Gumpert's place at the bunk house . . . bye now.

"Sure—I Want To Promote Outdoor Life"

—John Taylor—

Moulin Rouge

Paris of the late 19th century—glamorous, ugly, enticing, depraved. The City of the wild, baschanalian can-can, city of unbelievable poverty and filth, city of fashion and elegance, and city of Toulouse - Lautrec, who loved it as his very life and sketched it in all its beauty and degradation. The painter and his city have been brought to the screen by director John Huston in the film "Moulin Rouge," which begins a three-day run today at the Varsity.

Henri de Toulouse - Lautrec was born of an aristocratic family of the provinces. Doomed to the life of a hideous, deformed dwarf by a childhood accident, he moved to Paris to find solace in drink, women, and above all, in his paintings. There he found a second home in the cafe, the Moulin Rouge, which he immortalized in his posters for it. At the age of 37, his anguished life came to an end as a result of an over-abundance of cognac.

Based on Pierre la Mure's novel of the same name, "Moulin Rouge" bursts forth onto the screen with a brilliance of color and excitement seldom equalled in the movies. With its use of brilliant but subdued technicolor, it captures the flavor of the painter's works, and indeed of Paris itself. The dancers, the actresses, the harlots, the drunkards, the lechers are all there and give the film an unmistakably realistic, but fantastic atmosphere.

The film centers around Toplouse-Lautrec's paintings and his women, the latter as varied an array of females as is likely to be seen on any screen. Prominent among the sundry assortment are Marie Charlet, a streetwalker, whom he loved and who deserted him; Myriamme Hayem, the model, who was the only woman to truly love him; singer Jane Avril, the frivolous butterfly, whom he made famous with his drawings; and La Gouloue, the can-can dancer whom he inadvertently ruined.

Jose Ferrer doubles as the painter and as his father and strangely enough brings more understanding to the latter and relatively minor role than he does to the artist. Physically he bears an uncanny ressemblance to Lautrec—the shattered frame of body, the bushy black beard, the pince-nez, and the bowler. But there is no manifestation of the inner turmoil and torture of the man. It is surprising that the combination of as good an actor as Ferrer with as meaty a role as is the painter produces only a superficial and empty surface effect.

It is dancer Colette Marchand, who has never acted before, who takes the honors for the film. She is vulgar, grasping, coarse, and altogether right in her characterization. In the role of Jane Avil Zsa-Zsa Gabor plays Zsa-Zsa Gabor and plays it delightfully. Katherine Kath's La Goulue is wildly exuberant in the can-can and starkly tragic in the drunk scene. With no notable exceptions, the rest of the cast give vivid, colorful performances.

Credit for the success of "Moulin Rouge" must be divided equally between director John Huston, designer Marcel Vertes, and special technicolor consultant Eliot Elisofon. Huston, who also co-authored the script, takes his large cast through scenes ranging from frenzied abandonment to the depths of despair and wrings from them every ounce of the proper emotion for each individual moment. Vertes and Elisofon combine forces to present the most stunning and appropriate use of color that this reviewer has ever seen.

For true excitement visually and emotionally, "Moulin Rouge" is most highly recommended.

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower went back to work yesterday with the satisfied smile of a man who has twice broken 90 on one of the nation's toughest golf courses. The heavy load of official business awaiting him at his White House desk left him little time to gloat over the "immeasurable improvement" in his golf game that he achieved during an eight-day vacation at Augusta, Ga.

—Louis Kraar—

Down the Road A Piece

SANFORD—Just why I let them talk me into getting into a car at two in the morning and whiz down the thirty-five mile ribbon of highway to this dot on the Carolina map, I'll never know.

But that's just one of the things you do when Spring starts, I guess.

Flying down the straight stretch of deserted road, you get a feeling of being alone that one doesn't enjoy too often. The air blows in through the cracks in the windows, you relax from tiredness and start talking a little more freely than you would usually. The whole experience really uninhibits you.

"You know, this is really college," said one of my companions. "It's these crazy things that you do once in a while that make things great. Sure, you've got to study and get something out of your education. But this is part of it too."

I had just begun to agree with my philosophical companion when I noticed that it was about 3 a.m. and that we were easing the car into a sleepy all-night eatery.

The eating place had everything you'd expect—dirty dishes, good food and a porcine looking truck driver drowsing at a corner table. A couple of the fellows primed the ancient juke box with a handful of nickels, and it started grinding out the usual popular pains.

Ham tastes exceptionally good in the early morning hours, and slow as a Russian peasant's thought processes, I found myself waking up.

A tired soldier swung onto the chair a few down from where we all sat laughing and talking about how many classes we would miss the next day, how good the food was and the other trivial things that you talk about at 3 a.m. that don't seem trivial then.

"Where are you goin'?" one of the guys asked the soldier.

"Lawson," the soldier said.

I thought about how far that was away from this little junction. And then started to feel glad again, this time about not being in the service yet.

The sleepy soldier payed his check and left in a beat up Chevy. We left right afterwards, hitting that black span of highway a little faster on the return trip.

"Yes, just one of those crazy things you do in college," I agreed with my friend. I thought about those unopened books back at the room. Then I closed my eyes, leaned against the back of the seat. It was nice to have it quiet and be able to think along.

The next morning, as I trudged to class, I thought about a drowsy soldier going somewhere in the early morning hours and a bunch of college boys doing one of those crazy things you do when you're in college. I felt like hell.

—A. Z. F. Wood, Jr.—

The Young Man

In the Journalism department here there is a man under whom everybody should take at least one course. He is Phillips Russell and he teaches creative writing. He has been doing so since 1931.

You've probably seen him around the campus if you don't know him. He is a very spare man of some sixty-eight years with a full moustache and eyes the color of the sea on a balmy day. His eyebrows are likewise full and bushy, and if you get too close you're liable to get stabbed by one particularly long one over his right eye. The striking facial features are in keeping with the man, his thoughts, his actions, and his attitude toward the educational system and life in general.

If you have any creative aspirations, whether literary or not, Mr. Russell is your man. He can be of invaluable technical assistance, for he is well-qualified. He has written in every literary medium: novel, biography, history; short story, article, and poetry. He has made good money in every medium except poetry. He seems especially partial to the biography, or at least that's what the general public thinks. He has published biographies of Benjamin Franklin, John Paul Jones, William the Conqueror, Ralph Waldo Emerson, and of a Chapel Hill friend: "The Woman Who Rang The Bell," which won the North Carolina Mayflower Cup. And he is currently working on a biography of Thomas Jefferson.

But if you have absolutely no literary inclinations whatsoever, even if you're in the School of Business Administration, you will still benefit from a course under Phillips Russell. For he is concerned primarily with 1953. Concerned about yesterday and last century, yes, but only in so far as they affect today. He has read a tremendous amount during his life, all the way from Homer to Hemingway, from Gibbons' Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire to Cuppy's Decline and Fall of Practically Everybody, but he strongly believes that books are of subordinate importance. Common, simple, everyday life is his course, its theme and its purpose, and his prime objective is to INTEREST the students. He is successful.

Don't take Mr. Russell's course as a crip or a fill-in. It's a writing course, and he expects you to write, and write a lot. And he has given two A's since 1931. His explanation for this is simple: writing is an imperfect art and an A grade is perfection. Indeed it is a wonder that he has given A's at all.

But you don't go to class to hear a lecture by a bored professor and get callouses on your fingers from taking notes. No, his class is a class of discussion and disagreement, and you would not even have to take any notes—you remember what goes on without doing so.

Mr. Russell's motto is "Bring on the bear," which means he wants the action of the story or article first and later the background and past. Then he wants the development of the action (not the background), next the climax and last the denouement. He teaches his course the same way he writes a book and, incidentally, the way he lives. He is a man of action and the present. Let's just say he's in the stream of Life.

Two Conference Foes Here Today

Tar Heels Favored Over Cats; Need Win To Hold First Place

By Tom Peacock

Carolina's baseball team has a chance to firmly establish its undisputed hold on first place in the southern division of Conference play today at 3:30 on Emerson Field at the expense of the Davidson Wildcats.

Lefty Joe Morgan or righthander Joe Pazdan will probably take the pitching duties today. Pazdan went the distance in Carolina's 18-5 rout of the Wildcats earlier in the season.

Davidson is still looking for its first Conference win, and though the Cats have high hopes of killing Carolina's six game winning streak, the Tar Heels are heavy favorites.

Carolina Coaches Bunn Hearn and Walt Rabb are pleased with the .357 clip that reserve third baseman Bobby Williams has been hitting since starter Bruce Holt injured his ankle in the first Davidson game. Holt is back in uniform but the strength of his ankle is still a question mark.

White Hits Well

Holt is the better of the two in the field, but the only game in which Williams has failed to hit was Virginia when Rabb placed him at cleanup. Williams' pace is tops for all batters with 20 or more at bats, while Holt was hitting .190 when he was hurt.

Wayne White, left fielder and captain of the Tar Heels, follows Williams with a .325 average. White collected one hit in two times at bat in Carolina's 5-2 win over Duke Tuesday, a 370 foot clout that had to go as a ground rules double.

Connie Gravitte and Harry Lee Lloyd are the other two regulars hitting over .300, with pitcher Bill Lore and reserve catcher Ed Hooks both topping the list with .417 and .376. Lloyd fell after leading the team early in the season, but a two for four output against Duke pushed him back above .300. Fred Dale fell from the heavy hitting class after a futile day against Duke.

Won Last Start

Morgan won his last start Saturday when he went the distance against a good Virginia team at Charlottesville. He held the Cavaliers to eight hits to give him his first win of the season, 8-5. He lasted only 3⅓ innings in his first start and was charged with the loss. Morgan had a 1-0 record last year, coming up from the jayvees late in the season.

Starting for Carolina will be Will Frye or Ed Hooks catcher, Bob Henning at first, Harry Lloyd at second, Fred Dale at short, and Holt or Williams at third. Gravitte, Albert Long, Ken Keller, White, John Motsinger, and John Stowe are all candidates for the outfield depending on the Davidson pitcher.

Righthander Ish Bennett is a probable starter for the visitors. Catcher Bert Downs, second baseman Johnny Gray, shortstop Buzzy Hope, first baseman Arnold Whisnant, center fielder George Thomas, third baseman Bill Morris, right fielder John Morrow, and left fielder Fred Stowe complete the Wildcat lineup.

Frosh Awards Have Arrived For Winners

Freshman numeral awards have arrived and can be picked up from Sarge Keller at the equipment room anytime from 9:00-4:30.

Receiving awards are:

Junior Varsity Basketball

Bob Kimzey, Gerald McCabe, Tom Osborne, Tom Shores, Jim Tyler, Jim Walker, Charles Wickham, Joe Williams, John Woods, Joe Zigarelli.

Junior Varsity Wrestling

Jim Butler, Tom Ferguson, Bill Ginn, Nick Marcopulos, Harold Schwartz, Broadus Thompson, John Tyndall, Zack Waters, Ogburn Yates.

Freshman Swimming

Billy Armfield, Dick Baker, Clarence Boyd, Owen Cook, Pete Dannenbaum, Ira Davis, Fred Dieffenbauch, Charlie Eldridge, John Harden, Scotty Hester, Lee Holmes, Bill Horner, Don Huntington, John Hussey, Jim McAllister, Steve Owen, Jack Parks, Charles Perry, John Tice, Burt Veasey, John Woltz.

Play Tryouts Thursday At 4

Tryouts will be held tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the Playmakers Theater for the last full-length student production of the season, Frank Groseclose's "Judgment Over Daniel."

The play, which is described as the story of a family "broken and disunified for lack of any working human ideal of kindness and understanding," will be directed by John Miller of Signal Mountain, Tenn., with Thomas M. Patterson of the Playmakers staff as advisor. It is scheduled for production May 14 and 15.

"Judgment Over Daniel" requires a cast of three women and three men, with two boys of 8 and 11. Scripts will be available at 113 Murphey late today for those interested in reading them in advance.

Thornton, Ferree Lose Matches In 2d Round Of North-South

PINEHURST, April 22. (Special)—Carolina lost its last two entrants in the North-South Amateur here this morning as both Jim Ferree and Bill Thornton bowed out in the tourney's second round.

Thornton lost one up to Walter Peek and Ferree fell before one of the tournament favorites, Mal Galletta, 2 and 1.

Thornton furnished one of the high lights of the first day's play when he sank a hole-in-one, the third of his career, on the seventeenth hole and went on to beat Dr. George Trainor of Rochester, N. Y. one up.

Bob Black, number-one man on the Carolina team, lost yesterday in first round play to Alex Welsh 3 and 2. Bill Williamson, the fourth Tar Heel entrant, shot an 80 in qualifying along with 11 other shooters, but failed in the sudden death playoff yesterday morning which sent six of the 12 into the first round.

Ferree had a tough man in Galletta. The St. Albans, N. Y. swinger had a 72 in qualifying, including five birdies and five bogies in his round.

The four Tar Heels returned to Chapel Hill today to join their team which meets Wake Forest at the University's Finley golf course on Monday. The Carolina team is also scheduled to play in the Southern Intercollegiates at Athens, Ga. starting Thursday.

MURALS

Today's Softball

4:00—Field 1, ZBT vs. SAE 2; field 2, Theta Chi vs. TEP 2; field 3, Chi Phi vs. Chi Psi 2; field 4, KA vs. Delta Psi; field 5, Pi Kappa Phi vs. Delta Upsilon.

5:00—Field 1, Med School 1 vs. BVP; field 2, Med School 3 vs. Law School; field 3, Phi Delta Chi vs. Phi Delt 2; field 4, Sigma Chi vs. DKE 2; field 5, TEP 1 vs. DKE 1.

Today's Tennis

4:00—Phi Delt 2 vs. (Winner of DKE 2 vs. Zete 3); ATO vs. Phi Gam 1.

5:00—Med School 4 vs. Mangum; Law School 2 vs. Med School 2.

Today's Horseshoes

7:00—Sigma Chi 5 vs. Sigma Nu 2; Delta Sig vs. TEP.

7:40—Chi Phi vs. PiKA 2; Theta Chi 1 vs. Pi Lamb 1.

8:20—SPE 4 vs. SPE 2; ATO vs. Delta Upsilon 1.

Letter Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Monogram Club tonight at 7:15 in the Club room. All members are urged to attend.

UNC Grapplers Name Gregory, Pawlik Leaders

Harry Pawlik of Albemarle and Arthur Gregory of Halifax have been elected co-captains of Carolina's 1953 wrestling team.

They succeed Edward Haines of Philadelphia who led the 1952 grapplers.

Gregory is a rising senior who wrestled in the 147-pound division for the Tar Heels last season. He lost bouts in the Davidson, Virginia and Maryland matches, but won over V.M.I. and N. C. State and whestled well in the Southern Conference meet.

Pawlik won four matches, lost four and drew one decision in varsity competition this year and was a regular member of the varsity team as a sophomore the year before. He is also co-captain of the 1953 soccer team. He wrestled in the 123-pound classification.

The Tar Heels, coached by Sam Barnes, won three matches and lost seven during the 1952-53 season.

"SAILOR TOM" SHARKEY, one of the last of the old-time heavyweight boxing greats, died last week in San Francisco and was buried Monday. The 79-year old pugilist is pictured here (left) in 1945 with former heavyweight champ im Jeffries. Jeffries beat Sharkey in an 1899 25-round bout.—NEA Telephoto.

Connor Dorm Leads Campus Chess Tourney

With only two rounds remaining to play Connor Dorm leads the campus chess team tournament with a perfect 4-0 record. Cobb Dorm is second at 3-1.

Seymour Geisser and Joe Levin have won all of their four games to give Connor its lead. In the next round's top match Cobb will meet Connor.

Pairings for the fifth round are: 1. Connor vs. Cobb; 2 Old East vs. Joyned 1; 3. Alexander vs. Joyner 2; 4 Law School 1 vs. Pi Lambda Phi; 5. Old West vs. Law School 2.

Match With Duke May Decide Southern Conference Champs

Carolina and Duke's tennis teams meet here this afternoon at 3:00 in a match that may decide the outcome of Southern Conference tennis standings.

The Tar Heels and Blue Devils are undefeated in league activity and the likelihood of an upset win over either of these two powers by other loop teams is remote. The same situation existed at last year's match when the Tar Heels dropped a thrilling 5-4 decision to the Blue Devils, the first loss to the Duke team in a quarter of a century. It gave Duke the title although later in the conference tournament the Tar Heels won the singles and doubles championships.

The teams are evenly matched again and have compiled excellent records over the season. The Tar Heels are undefeatd while the Blue Devils have lost only to powerful Rollins and Miami, both of those bouts early in the year on a Southern trip.

The Tar Heels go into the big match with Dell Sylvia, Southern Conference singles champion, at number one, followed by freshman Tommy Bradford, sophomores Herbert Browne and Bobby Payne, freshman Don Thompson and sophomore Ronnie Kerdasha, Pete Green, a freshman from West Palm Beach, Fla., will team with Sylvia in the number one doubles.

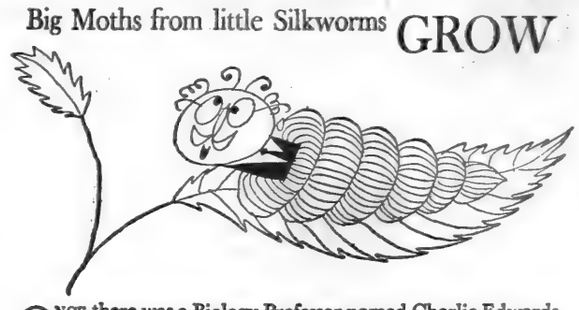
Pete's cousin, Bobby, is a freshman star on the Duke team, and he'll see action with Norm Shellenger, Kes Deimling, Ralph Paris, Dave Schimmel and Buzzy Hettleman. The Greens have played a doubles team in junior play for several years in Florida net circles and have won numerous titles.

Deimling and Browne are former National Interscholastic champions.

Shellenger will face Sylvia in the feature match in the resumption of a heated rivalry. Last year Shellenger lost to Sylvia in five sets in the Southern Conference championships in the semifinal round. Hettleman, Schimmel, and Green are undefeated in dual meet action this season, while undefeated Tar Heels include Sylvia, Bradford, Payne, Kerdasha, Thompson and Greene, Browne has lost only one match.

The match will get under way at 3 o'clock on the varsity courts here. The public is invited.

Cheerleader Tryouts



Tryouts for Cheerleaders for the coming year will be held in Kenan Stadium today at 4 o'clock.

Any Man Who Would Give A Woman THE UNFAIR SEX Would Give Tigers Claw-Sharpeners

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. FRANKLIN ST.

Big Moths from little Silkworms GROW

ONCE there was a Biology Professor named Charlie Edwards. Charlie was a likeable chap, but the strain of marking exams was a little too much for him. Finally, one day, he completely flipped his lid. Crawling on his belly, he informed startled students and faculty members alike that he was, indeed, a silkworm!

He hurried to his room, grabbed a spool of silk thread, and built a huge cocoon around him. Day after day he stayed in his cocoon, repeating over and over,

"I am a silkworm! I am a silkworm! I am a silkworm!"

The other members of the faculty held a meeting to decide what was to be done with poor Charlie. "I've got it!", cried Bob Sutton, a physics instructor, leaping to his feet. He explained his plan . . . and the other professors agreed. They hurried down to the Van Heusen dealer and bought a few Vanispun Sport Shirts.

"Look, Charlie," they said to Professor Edwards. "These smart new Van Heusen Vanispun Sport Shirts look exactly like silk. They feel like silk. They're handsomely tailored in the season's smartest new colors. Yet they cost only $4.95 apiece . . . far less than silk sport shirts. So you see, you're wasting your time being a silkworm!"

Charlie Edwards peered over the top of his cocoon and examined the good-looking Van Heusen Vanispun Sport Shirt.

"Egad, you're right!", he shouted, leaping out of his cocoon and flapping his arms wildly. "Now I can turn into a moth and fly away!"

Complete Line of Van Heusen Men's Wear

TOWN AND CAMPUS

LOOK

FREE RECORDS CAN BE YOURS

JOIN THE DAL E FAIRLESS RECORD CLUB TODAY

DALE FAIRLESS GLEN LENNOX

Open Friday 'til 9, Sunday 1-5

SPECIAL PRE-RELEASE ENGAGEMENT

SHAMELESS, SEDUCTIVE PARIS... with lifted skirts and open arms she awaits you at the Moulin Rouge!

Starts Today For 3 Days

ADMISSION PRICE:

ADULTS	MATINEE	55c
	NIGHT	74c
CHILDREN	ALL DAY	20c

Varsity

Here comes 'Moulin Rouge'!

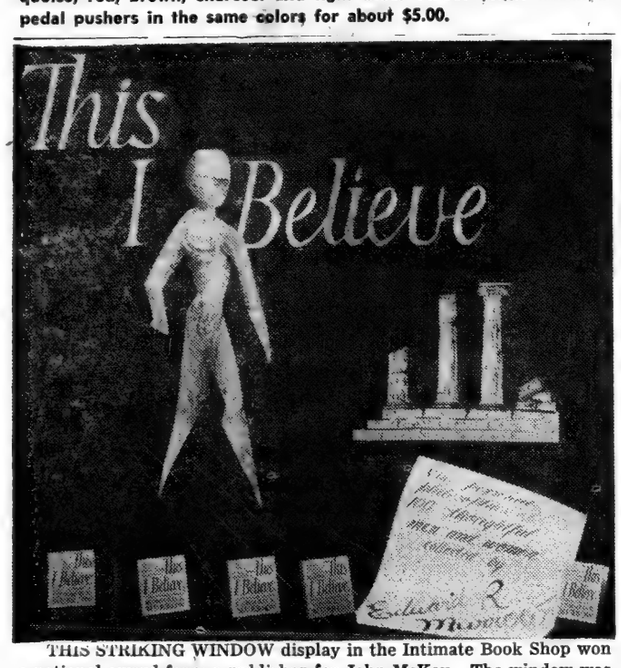
Winner of Three ACADEMY AWARDS

Every detail of this film leaves its inspiring touch. John Huston has created the masterpiece of his notable career!"
—Alton Cook, World-Telegram & Sun

"The most beautiful picture ever made!
Excellent! Beyond compare! The year's finest major American film!"
—Archer Winsten, Post

"Highest rating! Super fine!
Paris has never been so beautiful on the screen. Scenes are alive with vitality and character, greater than in any picture I've ever seen!"
—Wanda Hale, News

"A magnificent motion picture achievement!
Beautiful to behold. Filmed in a novel kind of Technicolor which makes every scene a new and captivating experience!"
—Otis Guernsey, Jr., Herald Tribune



"Fascinating!
Bound to become one of the most talked about pictures of the year! The most imaginative use yet of Technicolor!"
—Rose Pelswick, Journal-American

"It's exquisiteness is superlative!
Unquestionably the most vivacious and exciting illustration of bohemian Paris ever splashed upon the screen!"
—Bosley Crowther, Times

Features at: 1:00, 3:08, 5:16, 7:24, 9:32

GOOD FOR THOSE PARTIES at Hogan's and beach weekends is this combination of cotton denim pedal pushers and jacket. Featured in Harper's Bazaar, the jacket comes in solid tones of turquoise, red, brown, charcoal and light blue. About $6.00. Checked pedal pushers in the same colors for about $5.00.

THIS STRIKING WINDOW display in the Intimate Book Shop won a national award from a publisher for John McKey. The window was in connection with Ed Murrow's "This I Believe."

WUNC

Today's Program Schedule:
7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—Night Duty.
8—Durham Civic Club Concert.
9:30—Matters of Note by Dr. Wilton Mason.
10:30—News and coming events.

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre
3 MILES WEST OF CARRBORO • HIWAY 54
TONIGHT ONLY
JOHN GARFIELD • SHELLEY WINTERS
He RAN All The Way

IT'S DANNY BOY... in a MUSICAL WONDER-WORLD OF FUN AND FROLIC!
DANNY KAYE
GENE TIERNEY
CORINNE CALVET
On the Riviera
TECHNICOLOR
NOW PLAYING
Carolina

Woman's Glee Club

The Woman's Glee Club meets this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Hill Hall.

Freshman Camp Counselors

All men who want to be counselors for the 1953 Freshman Camp are asked to attend a meeting tonight at 7 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. Cabinet Room. Plans are being made for the selection of a permanent chairman, recreation, speakers and group discussions.

Folk Music Band

The Folk Music Band will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Y.M.C.A., second floor and all who are interested in folk music are invited to attend.

Butner Youth Center

The Y.M.C.A. is sponsoring a trip to Butner Youth Center on Sunday from 1:45 to 6 p.m. Those wishing to attend are asked to sign up on the bulletin board in the "Y" office.

Education Examination

Graduate students who wish to take the Comprehensive Examination for the Masters Degree in Education should register in the Education office, 127 Peabody, with Mrs. Mary Davis by April 25.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club will meet tonight at 6 o'clock on the upstairs dining room of Lenoir Hall.

India Films

Movies on India originally scheduled for tomorrow night will be shown on Saturday night at 8 o'clock in Gerrard Hall.

Student Party

Student Party legislators will meet tonight at 6:15 in the Grail Room fo Graham Memorial.

Semper Fidelis Society

The Semper Fidelis Society will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Naval Armory for the election of officers for the coming year.

School Play

Try-outs for the Chapel Hill Art Guild's production of "Rip Van Winkle" will be held today immediately after school in the school auditorium. All Chapel Hill School children all eligible for parts in this classic comedy, which will be produced on May 13 and 14.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR RENT 6A

FOR RENT: THREE ROOM FURnished apartment. Call 9-3661.
1-c8005-1

Campus Carousel

By Deenie Schoeppe

By Deenie Schoeppe

Society got slightly overlooked last week, but we're making up for it with two society pages this week (I hope). Here's a small catch-up on what was missed, and tomorrow's column just shows all kinds of promise.

IDC, the Blue-White, The Black and White and the All White took the lead in this weekend's activities.

Gene Williams and his Band of Tomorrow plus the Pied Pipers made a "couldn't be better" weekend for the IDC.

Those Blue and White sponsors looked mighty pretty at the game Saturday.

As for the Black and White, that was the Kappa Sig Formal Saturday night and the All White, the great monstrous Old South Ball given by and for KA's from UNC, State and Wake Forest. It is given in the true tradition of the Old South with Southern belles and bearded gentlemen.

The Golden Bear happily presents the party award of the week to the Lambda Chi's for the PJ party they gave the KD's a week ago last Thursday.

Chi Phi's were hosts Thursday afternoon, evening and Friday morning to the Phi Delta Theta's at the annual Azalea Festival held in honor of the Chi Phi's azalea. It bloomed this year. Refreshments were served.

So what would be a column without a Sigma Chi getting pinned? Bill Moore, Burlington, has parted with one of the few remaining pins. Now wearing it is Jean Bradley, Duke coed, also of Burlington. Not to be outdone, Sigma Chi Tommy McAllister, Charlotte, will marry Harriet Whitmore, WC senior from Charlotte.

Friend Wallace Pridgen of the Sigma Nu house also got pinned. To Betty Reese Sugg, a student at Peace College and from Wilson.

St. A's entertained Alumni with their annual "swing-out" this weekend. Cocktail parties for the alums were held Friday and Saturday afternoons.

TEP's partied at the house after the IDC dance Saturday night.

Phi Kaps and dates enjoyed a cocktail party Saturday before the Blue-White game. They managed to have a small party last Saturday in the patio too.

Phi Gam alums, actives and faculty members attended the fraternity's Alumni dinner Saturday night at the Carolina Inn.

ADPi's were given a party by the Phi Gams after the Carnival last Friday.

SAE's and Chi O's began the weekend early with a beer party at Hogan's Thursday. Monday night the Chi O's had their Eclusian(?) banquet at the Inn and entertained faculty members Wednesday afternoon with a tea from 4 to 6.

New coeds on campus were invited to dinner with the KD's last Wednesday.

Dee Funai, Alpha Gam from Richmond is the big news at the Alpha Gam house. She's newly engaged to Jay Clark, Sanford.

Phi Delta Chi's had a welcome home party for all their travelling members this weekend.

Lane Buchlev, Tryon, will be initiated into Pi Phi tonight.

PiKA's entertained the Chi O's with dinner at the house and a party at the Country club Tuesday.

Another pinning is that of Pi Lam Don Kurtz, Rock Hill, S. C. to Margie Russ, Columbia, S. C. Pi Lam brothers journeyed to Wrightsville to do their partying last weekend.

Chi Phi pledges had a small beer party (those who survived the Azalea Festival) Saturday at Hogan's.

Lambda Chi's are saying they have a pinning again. It's Bill Sellars, Burlington, and Sara Walker of Oxford. They also partied at the beach last weekend.

AKPsi's finished up the IDC partying with a party of their own at the house.

ZBT new actives were so pleased that they gave the old actives a party Saturday.

TEP's entertained their families at family day Sunday afternoon.

The big scoop of the week was a pinning at the Phi Kap house but for some reason it can't be printed. Well tune in tomorrow.

KA Ned Harbin Named Ugliest Man On Campus

Ned Harbin, senior from Winston-Salem, was named "Ugliest Man on the Campus" Friday after a week of penny-a-vote competition. Theta Chi fraternity, sponsor of the contest, will present $52 to the American Cancer Society as a result of the contest, according to contest chairman Robert Skillen.

Harbin, sponsored by Kappa Alpha fraternity in the contest, will receive many prizes donated by Chapel Hill merchants.

Kappa Sigma's Honor Pledges With Weekend

Miss Mase Chapin, Tri Delt of Richmond, Va., was crowned swetheart of Alpha Mu chapter of Kappa Sigma this weekend at the fraternity's annual Black and White formal.

Weekend festivities began Friday with a buffet dinner at the chapter house, followed by a cabin party complete with katinka and a combo.

Brunch was served at the house Saturday and members gave a champaigne party at the Chapel Hill Country Club. A steak dinner at the Chez Gourmet preceded the dance. The Duke Ambassadors furnished music for the evening.

Pledges and their dates formed the traditional star and crescent at intermission at which time the Kappa Sig sweetheart was crowned. Following the dance, favors of jewelry boxes were presented and the group returned to the house for breakfast.

Pledges and their dates were Gaither Walser, Lexington, president, with Sue Gill, Wheeling, W. Va.; Dick Mason, Gastonia, vice-president, with Phyllis Aycock, Concord; Bob Little, Wadesboro, secretary-treasurer, with Frances Capehart, Orlando, Fla.; Ed Borden, Goldsboro, sergeant at arms, with JoAnn Bridges, Washington, D. C.; Ed Bizzell, Goldsboro, with Jan Thomas, Tampa, Fla.; Bill Carter, Pinehurst, with Lynn Tyrrell, Killeen, Tex.; Eloy Doolan, Savannah, Ga., with Molly Current, Gastonia; Hazzard Grindstaff, Asheville, with Toni Kelly, Charleston, W. Va.;

John Lambert, Rocky River, O., with Virginia Whiteman, Atlanta; Charles Norwood, Goldsboro, with Dawson Thompson, Goldsboro; Jimmy Tyler, Kinston, with Joyce Long, Kinston; Henry Walker, Kinston, with Betsy Williams, Raleigh; Charlie Wickham, Kinston, with Jean Guy, Kinston; Tom Zachary, Graham, with Betty Lou Ivey.

TRI DELT INITIATES

Alpha Sigma chapter of Delta Delta Delta sorority announces nine new initiates.

They are Sara Bostick, Gainesville, Ga.; Janet Harris, Raleigh; Peggy Murchison, Raleigh; Nancy Murray, Raleigh; Snooky Stone, Wrightsville; Pearl Buchanan, Hendersonville; Jane Kennedy, Asheville; Jane Holleman, Dublin, Ga.; and Virginia Whiteman, Atlanta, Ga.

LAMBDA CHI INITIATES

Newly-initiated members of Lambda Chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma are Clinton Rogers, Durham; Al Norberg, New York City; Dick Nixon, Charlotte; Bill Callman, Burlington.

Flanagan's Orchestra To Play For Carolina Cotillion Dance

ROCKY MOUNT, April 21 — (Special)—Jim Wilgus, Publicity chairman of the Carolina Cotillion Club, of Rocky Mount, announced today that plans are almost complete for the 73rd annual June German, scheduled to be held June 19.

Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra have been engaged for the big dance which will be staged in Planter's Warehouse No. 2. Flanagan and his orchestra are The Disc Jockey's choice for America's No. 1 Band according to the Billboard Magazine 1953 poll.

Admittance to the dance will be by invitation only. Mr. Wilgus stated that bids are now being printed and the office will be open in Planter's No. 2 warehouse at least three weeks prior to the date of the dance. In accordance with the policy of the Club, only men wearing black evening clothes will be admitted to the dance floor and young ladies who will take part in the active figure must wear floor length evening gowns.

The dance to be given June 19

RALPH FLANAGAN

will be hte 73rd annual June German and it is expected that the usual number of active and honorary members, and their guests will fill the warehouse to capacity as in all past years.

Novitt Elected To Lead ZBT's, Initiates Named

Mitchell Novitt, Walterboro, S. C., will preside over Alpha chapter of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity for the coming year.

Other fraternity officers include Lewis Simon, Augusta, Ga., vice-president; Richard Adelsheim, Pittsburg, Pa., treasurer; Arthur Barbanell, New York City, secretary; and Edward Nelson, Washington, D. C., historian.

New initiates of the chapter are Jay Goldburg, Augusta, Ga.; Charles Katzenstein, New York City; Edward H. Nelson, Washington, D. C.; Howard Reiss, Maplewood, N. J.; and Allan G. Resnick, Miami, Fla.

Joseph Rosenberg, Troy, Ala., has been named "Best Pledge" and Charles Katzenstein was given the scholarship award.

Alpha Kappa Kappa

Dr. James Harland, professor of archeology, will address the members of Alpha Kappa Kappa medical fraternity tonight at 6 o'clock.

JUST RECEIVED
New Shipment of
Denim Slacks
Smartly tailored in regular slack style in the following colors:
• Faded Blue
• Sage
Only 3.95
Sizes 28 to 42
Get Several Pairs Now
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

Rate With Your Date
Make the Germans weekend a special occasion for your best girl. Place your order now for her flowers.
CAROLINA FLOWER SHOP
OPPOSITE THE POST OFFICE

Test CAMELS for 30 days for MILDNESS and FLAVOR

THERE MUST BE A REASON WHY Camel is America's most popular cigarette—leading all other brands by billions! Camels have the two things smokers want most—rich, full flavor and cool, cool mildness... pack after pack! Try Camels for 30 days and see how mild, how flavorful, how thoroughly enjoyable they are as your steady smoke!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

More People Smoke CAMELS than any other cigarette

WEATHER
Warm with 80 high. Yesterday's high, 80; low 59.

The Daily Tar Heel

HEALTH
Today's paper has 4 pages of good health. You'll find it in a special supplement

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 136 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, APRIL 24, 1953 EIGHT PAGES TODAY

THESE THIRTEEN YOUNG LADIES will serve as sponsors for officers and other members of the German Club which will hold its anual Spring finals in Woollen Gymnasium tomorrow from 8 to 12 o'clock. Top row, left to right: Misses Jane Schoolfield, Danville, Va., with R. Bryant Hare, Wilmington, past president of the German Club; Virginia Brown Albemarle, with Jake Rountree, Mt. Airy, secretary; Betty Reese Sugg, Snow Hill, with Wallace Pridgen, Wilson, treasurer; Anita Caine, Greensboro, with Jim Schenck, Greensboro, president; Second row: Misses Temple St. Clair, Bluefield, W. Va., with Alex McMillian Charlotte; Suzanne Robinson, Gastonia, with Bill Current, Gastonia; Nancy Rose, Charlotte, with Skippy Roddey Charlotte; Bruce Carr, Rocky Mount, with Gordon Taylor Richlands; Third row: Misses Betty McGlaughon Kingsport, Tenn., with Bill Yates, Burlington; Priscilla Henrich, Westfield, N. J. with John Baldridge, Winston-Salem; Kay Boyette, Carthage, with Swain Stephenson, Halifax; Sandra Whitlock, Washington D. C., with Roger Kingsbury, Washington, D. C.; and Mary Elizabeth Lindeman, Virginia Beach, Va., with Henry V. Wilson, Dover, Del.

New Unit Of Deltas Will Form

The 71st Chapter of Delta Upsilon, national social fraternity, will be installed tomorrow at the University.

Thirty brothers of the local Delta fraternity will take the brotherhood pledge at the installation ceremony in the Dialectic Senate Hall at 10 a.m. H. Norris Harrison, Chestertown, Md., Chairman of the Installation Committee for the North Carolina Chapter, will preside over the ceremonies. He will be assisted by J. C. Grimes, General Secretary of Delta Upsilon; Charles F. Jennings, National Treasurer of D.U.; Dr. Milton S. Heath, Dr. G. Nelson Furbeck and Sydney S. Paine.

After the installation ceremony, the brothers, their parents and visiting DU's will have a luncheon at the chapter house. From 2 until 5 p.m. a reception will be held at the house for the newest chapter in the fraternity which was founded in 1834. The installation banquet will be from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Carolina Inn. The brothers and their dates will attend the Germans Dance in a group later.

Officers of the new fraternity are Herman Husbands, president; Jim Finch, vice-president; Jim Rollins, recording secretary; Dan Radar, house manager; Horace Golightly, alumni secretary and Neal Harrington, corresponding secretary.

German Club Officers Elected

Newly-elected officers of the German Club are Jim Schenck, Greensboro, Delta Kappa Epsilon, president; Pat Samonds, Durham, Phi Delta Theta, vice-president; Jake Rountree, Mt. Airy, Pi Kappa Alpha, secretary; Wallace Pridgen, Wallace, Sigma Nu, treasurer.

Dr. Graham Sets Speeches For Students, Health Center

Former University President Speaks To Students At 8

Dr. Frank P. Graham, former president of the Consolidated University, will address the UNC student body tonight at 8 o'clock in Hill Hall.

Topic of Dr. Graham's address will be "The United Nations and Some of Its Achievements." He will be introduced by Chancellor Robert B. House.

Dr. Graham resigned as president of the Consolidated University in 1949 to accept an appointment as U. S. Senator. He was defeated by Willis Smith in 1950 when he sought reelection and since then has served as United Nations mediator.

An informal banquet honoring Dr. Graham will be held in the South Dining Room of Lenoir Hall tonight at 6:15.

Today's Exercises End Health Center Dedication Service

The University Health Center dedication will be concluded this morning when Dr. Frank P. Graham, United Nations mediator, will deliver the dedicatory address in Memorial Hall at 10:45.

Hundreds of doctors, dentists, nurses, and hospital administrators and other officials from all sections of the State are expected this morning for the talk.

Dr. Joseph T. Wearn, Dean and professor of medicine at Western Reserve University School of Medicine and director of medicine for the University Hospitals, Cleveland, addressed yesterday's opening convocation.

Yesterday afternoon the various professional groups held separate meetings with Dr. David P. Barr, professor of medicine, Cornell University, addressing the medical group; Dr. Lloyd H. Dodd, Decatur, Ill., addressing the dentists; Mrs. Lucile Petry Leone, assistant surgean general and chief nurse officer, U. S. Public Health Service, addressing the nurses; and Dr. Malcolm T. MacEachern, director of Professional Relations, American Hospital Association, Chicago, speaking to hospital afficials.

Leone spoke again in Gerrard Hall and the alumni of the Medical School held a dinner meeting in Lenoir Hall last night.

Dr. Barr, who addresses a group meeting of physicians here yesterday said, the University Health Center "marks the beginning of a glorious adventure which is being watched by all medical educators and by all who are concerned with the public health."

Dr. Barr was one of four speakers who addressed professional groups of physicians, dentists, nurses and hospital officials who are attending the two-day dedication program.

"In its concept and commencement every citizen of North Carolina may take justifiable pride," he said.

Declaring that Memorial Hospital "is much more than a local convenience and more than the usual University Hospital," Dr. Barr said, "it is the hospital of the people of North Carolina, established as a token of their belief in the necessity of health for everyone, of their faith in those who guide the policies of the University and of their hope that it will fuse its resources with other activities to foster adequate medical care throughout the State."

Dr. Barr commended the faculty which he described as vigorous and enlightened and, he said, "through its Division of Health Affairs, it possesses almost unique opportunities for cooperation, correlation and team play both in education and community service."

DR. FRANK GRAHAM

$74,550 OK'd For New Year By Legislature

BULLETIN

Reversing an earlier decision, the Student Legislature killed a rider in the Student Government budget bill which would turn over all surpluses made by student agencies, particularly the Publications board, to the general surplus fund.

In doing this, legislators were left empty - handed with no budget approved. Vice President Jim McLeod, who broke a tie vote and thus killed the Student Party efforts, called a special session of the Legislature for Monday night.

Ed Gross, outgoing Secretary-Treasurer made an impassioned speech calling for the adoption of an amendment which cut out of the budget bill an earlier surplus rider. Gross pointed out that the Publications Board, the budget Committee and Secretary Treasurer were united in their opposition to such a measure.

By Louis Kraar

The student Legislature session last night ended with approval of a $74,550 budget and legislator Gene Cook's (SP) labeling the Publications Board "an errant stepchild."

Cook strongly censured the Publications Board in a tersely worded speech. The purpose of the talk was to push through a move to put surplus publication funds back into the student government till at the year's end. The move passed.

"Student government has a lot of services to run," Cook said.

(See 074,550, page 8)

UNC's Budget For 1953-55 In 3rd Reading

RALEIGH, April 24—The University's budget request, part of a $14,250,000 proposed institutional appropriation, passed its semi-finals on the Senate floor here yesterday.

Chapel Hill is due to get $1,001,000 for permanent improvements under a bond issue if the bill goes through.

The bill passed the required three readings in the House early this week. It will face its third reading in the Senate today and informed persons here see no especially rough going in the final stage of its progress.

There were moments of some doubt yesterday when Sen. Fred McIntyre of Mecklenburg offered an amendment to have the entire appropriation submitted to public referendum. When this amendment was defeated, McIntyre offered another to slash off $500,000 for the Institute of Government and a smaller amount for alterations to the fourth floor of the Dental School. Senators Hobgood, Curry and others made speeches in opposition to the second amendment, and it too was defeated.

McIntyre said he was fully aware of the great service of the Institute, but he felt its expansion could be delayed for another two years. This bill covers appropriations for the 1953-55 biennium.

Dorsey Playing SpringGermans Dance, Concert

Tommy Dorsey, that Sentimental Gentleman of Swing, swings onto campus tomorrow for a concert in the afternoon and a dance that night.

The Memorial Hall concert will be from 4 until 6 p.m., and the Woollen Gym dance from 8 until midnight. The dance is formal.

This is the last of three yearly dances sponsored by the German Club and its 13 member fraternities. Earlier presentations this year were Ray Anthony and Charlie Spivak, in the Winter and Fall respectively.

Students were reminded yesterday by the Dance Committee about the rules in effect for the concert and dance, particularly those on drinking.

Dorsey played here several years ago and was involved in litigation with the German Club when it was charged he didn't bring his full complement of musicians.

New Hospital Handles Food With Precision

By Sally Schindel

"A butcher, a baker . . ." the North Carolina Memorial Hospital has everything but a "candlestick-maker."

The hospital's Dietary Department, a busy community in itself, takes care of food preparation for patients, staff members and employees. Directed by Miss Mary Anderson, its facilities — which spread all over the ground floor and part of the first floor with small kitchens on each ward — contain the most modern equipment available.

The largest subdivision within the department is that of food

(See HOSPITAL, page 6)

Development, Expansion of North Carolina Public Health Program Traced Over Years

By Robert W. Madry

After struggling through growing pains for almost a decade, the North Carolina Good Health Program has passed the stage of adolescence and is well along the way to maturity.

Whereas in 1947 there were 33 counties in the State without a hospital bed, there are today only 17 such counties.

Dr. Pohn A. Ferrell, executive secretary, North Carolina Medical Care Commission, reports that a total of 147 projects looking toward a healthier North Carolina have been initiated since the program was activated in 1947.

Of these, 71 are local general hospital projects which have been completed or are under construction or have been approved. A breakdown shows that 46 have been completed, 18 are under construction, and seven are being processed. In addition, seven state-owned hospital projects have been completed and one, the 100-bed TB hospital here, is under construction.

A total of 35 health centers have been approved and 16 have been completed.

A total of 33 nurses homes have been provided for, and 15 have been completed.

Fourth In Nation

Dr. Ferrell says that a recent national survey made by the University of Michigan School of Public Health shows North Carolina to be rated fourth in new hospital beds since World War II for all types of hospitals.

North Carolina stood second in the number of new general local hospital beds constructed for two years or more after orld War II.

The State has had a phenomenal increase in hospital beds in the last quarter of the century. In 1924 there were 2,186 (local general). In 1947 the figure had increased to 9,635, and the total is now estimated at 13,700.

Size of the hospitals ranges from 20-bed institutions such as those at Bryson City, Sparta and Belhaven to the 300-bed Cone Hospital at Greensboro and the 400-bed Teaching Hospital erected at Chapel Hill, entirely with State funds, in conjunction with the University's expanded four-year Medical School. Some 13 of the new plants have 100 beds or more, and 19 expansion projects have involved or resulted in hospitals of 100 or more beds.

At tha ttime, statisticians went into a huddle and came up with the revelation that:

1. When Mr. Average North Carolinian, his wife and children got sick, there were 44 others states in which he stood a better chance to get a doctor promptly.

2. If Mr. Average Tar Heel, his wife or children got sick enough to need a hospital, there were 41 other states in which he stood a better chance to get a hospital bed.

3. If his wife were going to in which she would have a bethave a baby, there were 40 states ter chance of living through it.

4. In 38 other states the baby would have had a better chance to live through its second summer.

5. Furthermore, if the baby lived, there were 47 other states in which he would have had a better chance to meet moderate qualifications required by the Army.

The statistics also revealed that during World War II, 47 of the 48 selective service rejections for states had a lower percentage in physical defects.

At that time the two four-year medical schools in the state were turning out only 35 doctors a year to practice in the state—an inadequate supply in view of the

(See EXPANDED, page 2)

This is an aerial view of the Health Center here. Marked features are: (1) two dormitories for nursing students, (2) residence for house staff and interns, (3) main offices and classroom building of School of Nursing, (4) 411-bed North Carolina Memorial Hospital, (5) excavation for 75-bed Psychiatric wing, (6) 100-bed chest disease unit—Gravely Sanatorium, (7) infirmary with two top floors devoted to obstetrics, (8) Out-Patient Department and cancer research facilities, (9) Medical School and Public Health Building, (10) site of six temporary classroom buildings, four of which are used by the School of Public Health, (11) two new wings of the Medical School Building, (12) School of Dentistry, (13) Chapel Hill-Pittsboro Highway, (14) entrance driveways and part of parking area for the hospital. Some of the work under construction when this photograph was taken has been completed.

Indian Movies Are Tomorrow In Gerrard Hall

Six short movies on India will be shown in Gerrard Hall tomorrow at 8 p.m.

This is the third program in a series sponsored by the YMCA World Relatedness Commission in cooperation with the students from India. Dr. B. A. S. Iyengar, of Mysore State, India, is chairman of this series of programs.

The program originally was announced for today but has been postponed one day because of Dr. Frank Graham's talk.

The titles of the films to be shown tomorrow are: "Ladakh Diary," "Handicrafts of India," which is on Indian art; "Santiniketan," which tells about the educational center started by the late Dr. Tagore in the eastern part of India, near Calcutta. This gives an aspect of the educational program of India.

"From Silkworm to Parachute" —describes the famous industry of India. "Kathak"—is on the Indian dance. "Drums of Manipur"—on Indian dance.

Expanded Program Answers North Carolina Health Needs

(Continued from page 1)

great need.

These and other equally glaring shortcomings were reiterated time and again—in the press, radio and in public addresses as the movement for better health for all North Carolinians gained momentum and finally swept the state.

The campaign soon gained such momentum that the 1947 North Carolina Legislature appropriated funds to set in motion the machinery for the program. And under the leadership of former Gov. W. Kerr Scott, a strong advocate of the program, the 1949 and 1951 Legislatures made additional appropriations for medical care and for the long needed School of Dentistry for the state.

Leaders in the program realized at the outset that additional hospitals could not provide the health services so urgently needed unless the state trained the additional doctors, nurses and technicians needed to operate them.

Expanded UNC Program

That is why one of the principal features of this program called for the expansion of the University's two-year Medical School into a four-year school, and the establishment of a teaching hospital and a School of Nursing.

The University's part in the program also called for the establishment of the School of Dentistry (by the 1949 Legislature) and the expansion and strengthening of the Schools of Public Health and the School of Pharmacy, now fully accredited.

The next step was to coordinate these closely allied units into one overall administrative organization. So the University, with the approval of the trustees, created the Division of Health Affairs and named as its administrator Dr. Henry Toole Clark, Jr., a native of the state and an alumnus, class of 1937 whose record as assistant director of Strong Memorial Hospital, Rochester, N. Y., and more recently as director of the Vanderbilt University Hospital, Nashville, Tenn., has been recognized in medical and hospital circles.

The University thus became the cornerstone of the statewide program.

Division of Health Affairs

Dr. Clark, in one of his reports on the Division of Health Affairs, revealed that "there are few complete medical centers in the world of the type envisioned for the University."

Citing the reasons for creation of the new Division, Dr. Clark pointed out that:

1. Where facilities are easily accessible, a central department in one school can serve the teaching needs of the students in other schools. This makes for strong central departments and economy of operation.

2. A close grouping of buildings staff in going from class to class.

3. The existence of all primary training programs in the health field will make for completeness of training in each field. Thus, instruction in many special fields which is not available to students in so many other schools will be readily available here.

4. By living and working and playing together, the students in the several units should develop a team philosophy of service which will carry into their home communities.

5. Because of the extensive and varied facilities, the comprehensive service which can be rendered is impressive.

6. The great stimulus to research which will come from the fact that all branches of the health services are represented in a concentrated area is obvious.

The benefits to the people of North Carolina which will result from the establishment of the Division were also cited by Dr. Clark.

The foremost contribution, he said, will be "the training of men and women in all of the primary fields of health services, and in to be our community leaders."

many additional specialized fields,

There will be an expanding program of post-graduate instruction to keep graduates abreast of current advances, he said, through refresher courses and in-service training, and in the various counties through extension courses.

Steady Increase in Services

The program calls for a gradual increase in service to the people of the state. These are perhaps best illustrated now by consultation services rendered to county health departments and field workers by the School of Public Health.

In time, too, many of the new hospitals already constructed or being constructed in North Carolina will get help in the forms of interns and resident physicians rotating from the University Hospital, part-time services of radiologists, pathologists and anesthesiologists, and the consultation services of a trained hospital administrator and his assistants in the various special fields of hospital operation, Dr. Clark said.

A broad program of services to individuals is also planned. Thus individuals with medical or dental problems too difficult to be handled at the community level will have ready access to the best of treatment facilities at the University.

Medical School and Hospital

The largest units in the new Division are the 74-year-old Medical School and the new Teaching Hospital which opened last fall.

A School of Medicine was first established at the University in 1879 under the direction of Dr. Thomas W. Harris. A year later a pharmacy school was established in connection with the school of Medicine.

The School of Medicine has been a member of the Association of Mmerican Medical Colleges since 1908. The School of Pharmacy has been a member of the Association of Colleges of Pharmacy since 1917.

Dean W. Reece Berryhill of the Medical School is one of the strongest supporters of the Division of Health Affairs. A native of the state and a University graduate, class of '21, he returned to Chapel Hill from Western Reserve University in 1933 and succeded the late Dr. W. deB. MacNider as Dean in 1941.

The 1947, 1949 and 1951 Legislatures appropriated funds for the construction and operation of the hospital and dormitories for staff members, for the expansion of the Medical School, and for the new Schools of Dentistry and Nursing.

The Hospital was opened informally last September when the first patients were admitted. Since then the Hospital has had 1,625 bed patients and 10,893 out patients. There were also 1,076 visits to the emergency room. It now has 125 beds available, and all of the rooms that have been opened to date are usually occupied.

By the end of 1954 when it is scheduled to be in full operation, it will have 411 beds in the main wing and 75 in the psychiatric wing. The hospital's patients to date have come from 88 of the state's 100 counties.

Construction on the psychiatric wing began at the first of this year. It will be attached to the rear of the hospital and will be parallel to the University infirmary. One floor will be for the treatment of alcoholic patients.

The 100-bed Gravely Tuberculosis Hospital, which is located adjacent to the teaching hospital, is nearing completion. Funds for this unit were appropriated by the 1949 and 1951 Legislatures. The federal government also appropriated $500,000 through the Medical Care Commission under the Hill-Burton Act. This unit is under the control of the North Carolina Sanatorium Board of Directors.

Dr. Robert R. Cadmus is director of the teaching hospital.

The Medical School now has an enrollment of 166 students on its three classes. Of these, all but four are North Carolinians. In 1953-54 there will be four classes and the first class will graduate in medicine at the University since the Raleigh branch closed in 1910. Thus, exactly 75 years after Dr. Harris began medical instruction at the University, the first class will graduate from the complete Medical School on the University campus.

Over the years the University School of Medicine has been the largest single source of supply of doctors for the state. It has trained in excess of 2,000 physicians, of whom 1,578 are living. At present there are approximately 700 of its graduates practicing in 86 counties in North Carolina.

The present junior medical class, composed of 47 students from North Carolina and one from out of state, will graduate in 1954. A class of 60 freshmen will be admitted this fall and during the coming scholastic year all four classes of the expanded Medical School will be in operation.

School of Nursing

The School of Nursing, which occupied its new building—a part of the Division of Health Affairs—this year, has an enrollment of 47 in its two classes. Ninety-three per cent are from North Carolina.

Dean Elizabeth Kemble said it is hoped that 50 students can be admitted this fall and each year hereafter. This means that the School, at full capacity, will have an annual enrollment of 200 student nurses.

The Nursing School had its informal opening in January and is being dedicated formally along with the Hospital, Dental School, and other new additions.

Dental School

The School of Dentistry, which admitted its first class in 1950, moved into its new home last September.

The School's teaching clinic for the diagnosis and treatment of patients began operation at the same time. Since September some 1,100 adults and 550 children have registered for dental treatment.

This fall the school will begin a training program for dental hygienists. Present plans call for the admission of 15 girls to each class.

Dr. John C. Brauer is dean of the School of Dentistry.

School of Public Health

The 13-year-old School of Public Health, one of only two such schools in the Southeastern states, has continued its remarkable growth although its departments are scattered about the campus in temporary or semi-permanent spots. Its regular quarters are located in the Medical Building.

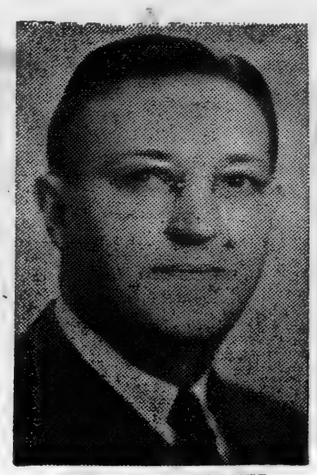
Dean Edward G. McGavran reports an enrollment of 76 in the School of Public Health. Of these 21 are undergraduate students and 65 are graduate students. Twenty are from North Carolina.

In 1951-52 the School of Public Health conferred a total of 97 degrees, 31 of which were master of public health degrees, 29 were masters of science in public health, 10 were masters of science in sanitary engineering, two were Ph.D.'s and 15 weree bachelor of science degrees in public health nursing.

School of Pharmacy

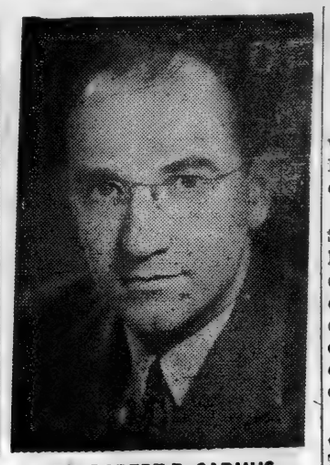
The School of Pharmacy, established in 1880, currently has an enrollmtnt of 166 students in its students and 12 graduate students. Ninety-eight per cent of the students are from North Carolina.

Last year this school conferred 46 degrees. Since its graduate program was established five doctorate degrees have been awarded, according to Dean Edward A. Brecht Jr., graduate activities supported almost exclusively with "outside" funds—from the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Foundation, Inc., and from a growing group of drug manufacturers and individual contributors.

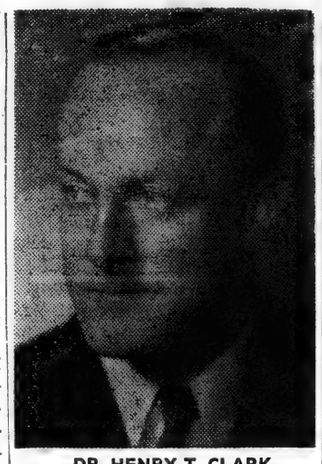


Despite its recognized national standing, the School of Pharmacy is not training enough pharmacists to fill the needs of the state. This is the only such school in North Carolina. A new and larger building is an urgent need if North Carolina's demands for more registered pharmacists is to be met, health officials say.

Present plans call for locating the proposed new School of Pharmacy and School of Public Health buildings in the area of the Division of Health Affairs.



This is the general picture of developments to date. And this means that the goal to provide adequate health services for all the people of the state—and a healthier, wealthier, happier North Carolina—has come a step nearer realization this week with the dedication of the University's Health Center.

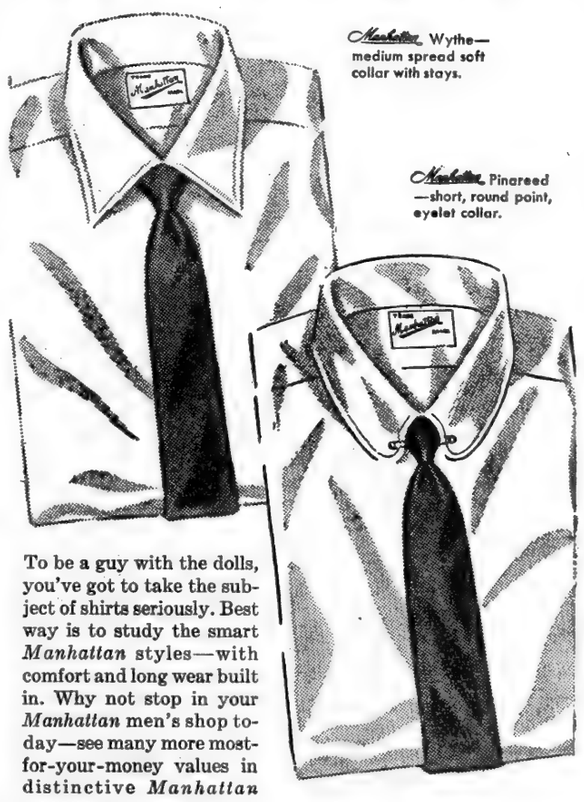


DEAN ELIZABETH KEMBLE

DR. JOHN C. BRAUER

DR. ROBERT R. CADMUS

DR. HENRY T. CLARK



PEPSI-COLA
Bottling Company
OF DURHAM
305 South St. Durham

Gals Delight —
267 Ways
To Torment
Men —
Whoopee!
See
The Unfair
Sex
At

THE INTIMATE
BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Sure way to bring on the dancing girls

Manhattan Wythe—medium spread soft collar with stays.

Manhattan Pinareed—short, round point, eyelet collar.

To be a guy with the dolls, you've got to take the subject of shirts seriously. Best way is to study the smart Manhattan styles—with comfort and long wear built in. Why not stop in your Manhattan men's shop today—see many more most-for-your-money values in distinctive Manhattan menswear.

Manhattan®

HALLMARK CARDS INVITES YOU TO AN IMPORTANT TELEVISION EVENT

MR. MAURICE EVANS

in his two-hour television production of WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE'S

HAMLET

ON

THE HALLMARK HALL OF FAME

with MISS SARAH CHURCHILL

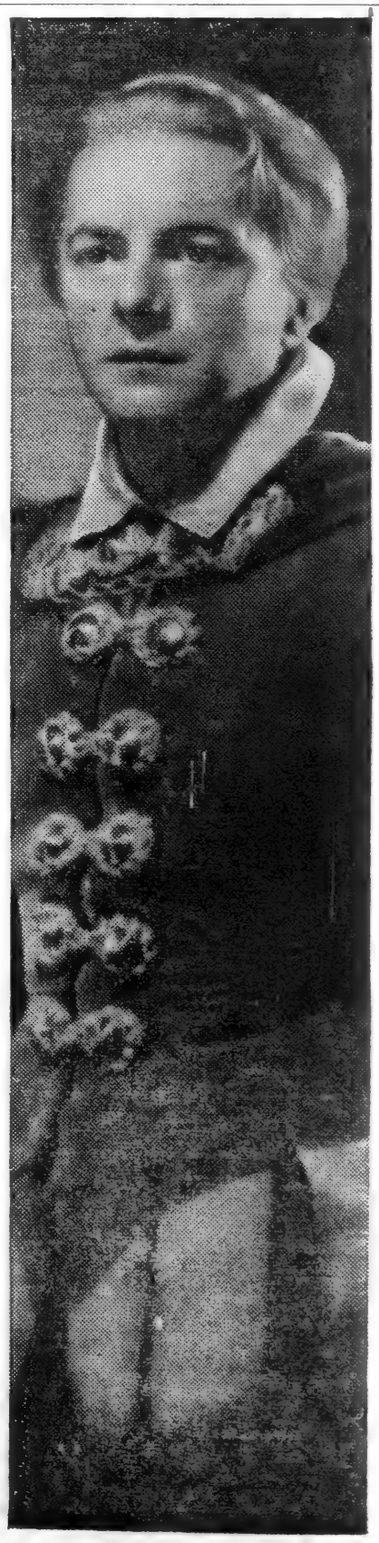
Sunday afternoon, April 26, nationwide on NBC Television

Hallmark Cards proudly presents for the first time on television this complete two-hour, streamlined version of the most popular play ever written—Shakespeare's immortal "Hamlet."

It will star Mr. Maurice Evans with one of the most distinguished companies ever to appear on television.

This special program is brought you by Hallmark Cards and the fine stores that feature them, as part of a year 'round program of bringing you "the very best" in entertainment.

Every Sunday throughout the year Hallmark Cards invites you to two dramatic programs honoring men and women—both famous and little known—who have helped make a better, happier world.

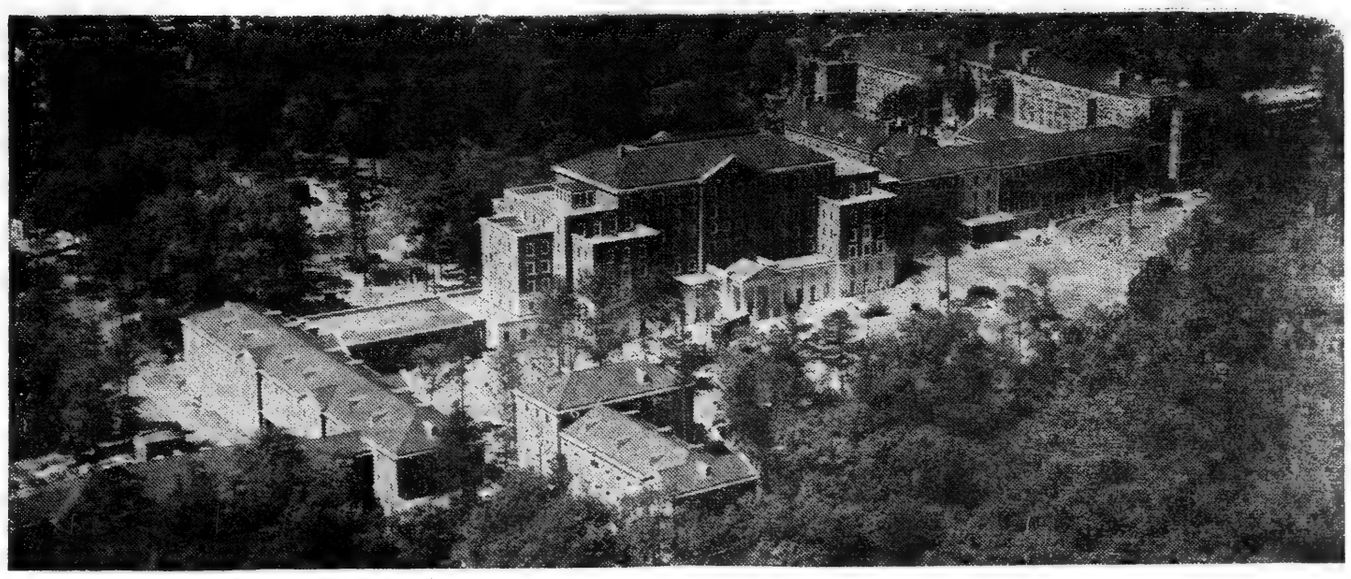


Every Sunday — NBC Television Network. The Hallmark Hall of Fame on TV starring Sarah Churchill. Directed by Albert McCleery.

Every Sunday night—CBS radio Network. The Hallmark radio Hall of Fame starring Lionel Barrymore. Directed by William Gay.

Hallmark Cards

"When you care enough to send the very best"



WELCOME

THE MERCHANTS OF CHAPEL HILL

Invite You To Attend The Opening Of The

North Carolina Memorial Hospital

FRIDAY, APRIL 24th

The Sport Shop	John M. Foushee INSURANCE AGENCY	Bennett & Blocksidge	Berman's Dept. Store
Andrews & Henninger	Eubanks Drug Co.	Sutton's Drug Store	Foister's Camera Store INC.
Fowler's Food Store	Colonial Motors	Electric Construction Co.	Lloyd Electric Co.
Carolina Flower Shop	Riggsbee-Hinson FURNITURE CO.	Abernethy's Music & FURNISHINGS	BRADY'S
Smith-Prevost Cleaners	University Service Station	Fitch Lumber Co.	The Little Shop
THE PINES	HAZZARD MOTOR CO.	Chapel Hill Cleaners	University Printery
Carolina Sport Shop	Town & Campus	Carolina Cab Co.	Village Laundry & CLEANERS INC.
Carolina Barber Shop	Carolina Pharmacy	University Cleaners	Dale Fairless

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Richard Creed, Ken Sanford, Ellen Woods, J. D. Wright, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Tom Neal Jr., Jennie Lynn, Joyce Adams.

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Cornell Wright, Ruffin Woody, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Home For A While

He had talked to Stalin, Malenkov, Churchill and the rest. He was America's roving diplomat. He was in charge of the Mutual Security Agency. He was a strong candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. He was ambassador to Russia. And best of all, he wasn't afraid to speak out on controversial issues.

This was W. Averell Harriman, here Wednesday night, receptive to questions, full of peal in delivering a short, but weighty speech. There were less than 300 students to greet him, though.

Where the other 4500 students were, we wouldn't know. W always thought students were just a little bit concerned about world affairs, about Russia, about Stalin and Malenkov, about the draft, about what's going to happen in the future, but we were wrong. Perhaps the drowsiness of Spring has overcome all.

How do foreigners feel about us? "We want to be loved; we want respect and confidence . . . we've got it for the most part," said Harriman. "but European countries stake their whole future on American stability ,so when a Congressman makes a wild speech about foreigners, they are sensitive and react unfavorably.

He wouldn't have backed down as Harold Stassen did in handling Sen. McCarthy's deal with the Greek shipowners trade with Communist countries. But he thinks Stassen is doing an excellent job.

"Stalin considered Korea a great blunder" on Russian's part.

There are indication that a change in tactics will be made by the Russians, "but no change in fundamental objectives"—in reference to the new Korean peace efforts.

On the Kremlin. "Under Malenkov, there seems to be a resentment against the domination of one man. There are indications that there will be power in more than one hand.

On the Yalta and Potsdam agreements. There is more nonsense than sense about the controversy). Stalin broke all the agreements except the military. The world would not be a different place if the agreements had not been made . . . "

On U.S. segregation and its effects abroad: The question of racial prejudice in this country is serious question in international affairs," and always will be. "Over a billion people are colored—black, tan, yellow. They resent the white man because of his long history of exploitation." But, the United States is gaining increasing respect. Our race problems here are grossly exaggerated by the Communist propaganda.

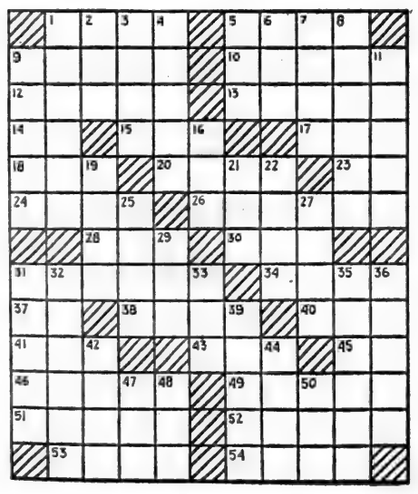
On Joe McCarthy: "you mean, the head of the State Department?" (in ansering question).

On Beria and Malenkov: As long as Malenkov and Beria hang to-they can hang anyone else. Looks like Beria is essential to Malenkov. It's a question of hich gets to the door first."

On Tito: If he ever goes back to the Kremlin, it Will be in a coffin. His 1948 break with the Russians was irrevocable."

And so on. You could get more out of Harriman's speech and his response to questions than all the news reports and weekly news upplements together. It was a real experience, worthy of every students attention.

Mr. Harriman's seech was the final resentation in a series of outstanding programs presented by the Carolina Forum. Mrs. Roosevelt and former Secretary of the Army Frank Pace were among the other good speakers. Next year, the forum ought to redouble its efforts to increase students participation in these programs. Lighting torch to student participation in these programs. Lighting a torch to student indifference would be worth all the hard work necessary.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Point of land
5. Wan
9. Drawing-room
10. Levels
12. Clean, as feathers
13. Consider carefully
14. Gold (Her.)
15. Vat
17. Measure (Annamese)
18. Spinning toy
20. Shake-spearean character
23. Depart
24. Stupefy
26. Attic
28. Cover
30. Wages
31. Metal projectile
34. Bulky timbers
37. Close to
38. Enough (poet.)
40. Little child
41. Slow under-hand ball (Cricket)
43. Bark, as a dog
45. Exist
46. Bobbin
49. A thin fabric
51. River (N. Fr.)
52. Concluded
53. On the ocean
54. Chair

DOWN
1. Vegetable
2. Malt beverage
3. Bard
4. Boredom
5. Bench-like seat in church
6. Hail!
7. Wreaths of flowers (Hawaii)
8. Hire
9. Blemishes
11. Discharge a gun
16. Sack
19. Haul
21. Breach
22. Verbal
25. River (Afr.)
27. Peasant (India)
29. Lair
31. Kind of wood
32. State of ideal perfection
33. Plaything
35. Glass with a stem
36. Horse
39. Flutters
42. Stud
44. Kind of cornbread
47. Undivided
48. Grassy meadow
50. Girl's name

PLUS ANEW
RETE ROAR
REVERE ORES
OF SILL SAL
BEL FIAT TO EROS APACHE
FIG SIR
BUTTER LOST
ON EMIT WAR
ASP STOW GU
TEAR EMERGE
AVID ERIE
LEDA SEAR
3-25

Yesterday's Answer

CPU Roundtable

Now that all the turmoil of the annual election period has receded into the barely remembered past, we think it's about time that we did some really serious chattering on that institution which everybody was so busy chattering about two weeks ago, yet could not define in a doctor's dissertation.

This coming Sunday night, according to its custom, the Carolina Political Union will meet at 8:00 p.m. in the Grail Room to discuss what it believes to be one of the most eternally pressing problems facing the student here at Carolina, namely that association of functions, which we optimistically call student government.

Just what is the role of student government in student life here at Carolina? What functions does student government serve which are not served or rather could not be served by a voluntary aggregation of interested students? Is student government presently worth the $74,000 supplied annually by the students? Would, perhaps, Carolina be a better and more scholarly place without this parody of self-government?

The above questions and many others will be dealt with in what we are certain will be a most heated discussion on Saturday night when the CPU tries to find out what is wrong with student government as we now have it, whether it should be continued with or without modifications, or completely abolished. All persons are invited to participate in discussion of this problem during this interesting session.

Ron Levin

Passing Remark

Every Wednesday is "Y Court" Hour for your raving reporter and today the question was "Do You Think South Building is Here to Stay"? Unfortunately we cannot publish all of the replies, but here are a few well chosen words of wisdom from people whom you know on the campus. "Uncle" Brooks Lawson said he wasn't sure but he'd like to take Y Court back with him to Kentucky when he goes. It's all so jolly . . . . (That's okay with me, Unc, just leave George here.) Irv Vinnik refused to answer on the grounds that it might tend to cremate him. (This kid's been watching too much TV.) The reply of the morning was given by Bud "Bet a Million" Maddie, who said he'd be here long after South Building was gone. My sympathies, Bud.

Jane Kelly told me that the student nurses aren't quite satisfied out at the hotel, but still want a television set in every room, so they can watch "My Dove Lucy" and "Fishnet." Tough luck girls, but from what I hear things are pretty tough all over. (Keep trying though, remember Florence Nightingale.) Speaking of the TV show, "My Dove Lucy", Jane King said she would forget all about the video set, if she could just have Desi Arnaz. My, my this younger generation.

Cary Holliday tells me there is a new, brand new fraternity on campus. It's sort of an exclusive affair, and goes by the handle of Sigma Rho Lambda. In fact it's so exclusive that I can't find out anything about it, but I think it's something like the well known national organization of EYB, of which Alpha chapter here on campus is very active, according to recent confidential statistics issued by the Ill Duce, Norman G. Norm, I suggest you look into this. Your rights are being threatened and who knows where this may lead.

And now for the Levin Quip of the Day. Today the award goes to Barry Winston, promising young schizophrenic from Isolation, Idaho. Barry asked me if I knew who the world's first bopster was and I said no, and his reply . . . Simple . . . Teddy Roosevelt who said Man, dig that canal . . . bye now.

Use
Daily Tar Heel
Want Ads

"Who's Got Hold Of What Here?"

Drew Pearson

The Washington

Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—The other day the Senate Internal Security Committee questioned Gregory Silvermaster, former treasury official, regarding allegations that he had filmed secret documents for Russia in the basement of his Silver Spring home during the war.

The date of this Senate cross-examination was April 16, 1953.

On Sept. 7, 1947, however, almost seven years before, this columnist revealed the first inside story about the Silver Spring soviet spy ring and gave considerably more facts than the senators did last week. The column read:

"Here is how the Soviet spy ring operated almost under the nose of the White House. One treasury official, formerly with the Agriculture Deartment, had a photo laboratory in Silver Spring, Md., on the outskirts of Washington. He worked in the treasury's procurement division, which deals with the purchase of supplies. Two war department officials—one a major in the air corps—who were attached to the treasury to advise on the purchase of aviation materiel, took blueprints and confidential army plans out of the treasury and war departments to a friend's laboratory, where they were photographed.

"Then the photographs were turned over to a soviet agent who carried them to New York and gave them to the head of Russia's top secret police, the NKVD. This took place while the war was in progress.

"Although the officials involved held minor positions, two of them handled important aviation secrets and one was an expert in Pushing B-29 production.

"Army officers, when questioned, admitted privately that they had qnown for some time that the Russians had been able to build B-29s. In fact, U.S. intelligence reports indicate that several B-29s were finished by the Russians some time ago.' '

The above column was publishlished as a result of independent, personal journalistic investigation without the protection of senatorial privilege. It incurred the usual risk of libel, inherent in any difficult piece of journalistic digging. It would seem therefore that the Senate Internal Security Committee, with all its power to subpoena witnesses and its protection from libel suits, could find something more up to date to investigate than facts published seven years ago.

For instance, the committee could well investigate how the Kremlin is using satellite legations and embassies for propaganda and espionage work among foreign-born Americans.

Most of this is done through certain communist legations right here in the nation's capital and under the nose of the Senate Internal Security Committee-among them the Hungarian, Czech, Rumanian and others.

The Senate Committee did some excellent work regarding this three or four years ago, but latest development is the manner in which the Hungarian communist legation in Washington collects money from Hungarian-Americans to help poorly fed relatives in Hungary, then uses the money for propaganda and espionage work in the United States.

The system works through the United States Relief Parcel Service, which, judging from its high-sounding name, appears to be run by the U.S. government. Actually, however, it's operated under the supervision of the Hungarian Communist government in the following manner:

You deposit $10.50 or almost any other amount with USRPS in the United States, and the Hungarian government in turn delivers the food to your friend or relative in Hungary. The goods are obtained from Hungarian government-owned cooperatives. But the money you deposit remains in the U.S.A. to finance communist expenses here. In addition, the Hungarian government makes a profit on the transaction in Hungary.

John Jamison

Sentimental Gentleman

Let's head right in with an out-on-no-limb prediction that Memorial Hall will be packed to its outdated rafters tomorrow afternoon for the German Club's Dorsey concert. The old master gives a great show, and the word got to North Carolina long before this college generation.

There may be a few, however, who have never heard a Dorsey concert, and many more who haven't heard him in a long time. And there may be some who have the idea that Tommy ain't what he used to be, that he is of the old Lombardo school with little appeal to a college audience.

Well, the fact is Dorsey does have a self-admitted love for the old songs. But I'll eat my copy pencil if you don't relive some mighty pleasant moments when he trombones into "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You," "Marie," "Sunny Side of the Street," "Boogie Woogie," "Song of India," or "I'll Never Smile Again."

Three Daily Tar Heel staffers did some of this pleasant reliving last Christmas Eve when Dorsey was playing in the Blue Room of the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans. We were wonderfully impressed by the precision of his music, the good pacing and the completely professional yet inspired manner demonstrated by the band.

We had been fortunate enough to have a bull session with one of the Dorsey musicians before we visited the Blue Room, so we witnessed the show with something of a personal interest. The night before we went to the Blue Room we had dropped in on Dick Martin who presides nightly over "Moonglow with Martin" from WWL. The studios are on the second floor of the Roosevelt and Dorsey's first-seat trumpet player, Eddie Schwazer (I'm not sure about the last name), had drifted upstairs to chat with Martin. Also present was Bandleader Teddy Philips whose tune "Wishin' " achieved considerable popularity a while back. Philips was appearing with Tony Bennett at the Jung Hotel.

Such a conversation you'd love to hear. Martin knows music and musicians like few disc jockeys in the country do, so he could speak with as much authority as Eddy or Teddy.

The point is, out of this bull session came a character sketch of "The Sentimental Gentleman" that no press agent could match. "Tommy is a slave driver in rehearsals," Eddy said with the greatest reverence, "but when we get on the bandstand we play it right. You don't play a bad note in this band. He doesn't allow it. Just look back at the turnover of musicians in the band. I've been with him a year and a half now, and I'm pretty sure that's a record, not to brag or anything. It just shows what a perfectionist he is ."

Martin and Phillips assured us that this was the feeling of musicians all over the country. There is a great deal of respect, and less jealousy than you'd think, among show people for a truly great member of their profession.

Tommy Dorsey is now 43, graying a little, and "kinda distinguished looking," as Eddy said. He's been on the top for about 17 years. During that time his record sales have reached 70,000,000. He may not be as commercial as Anthony, but I think he's still the master of them all. I think you'll agree.

The Silent Generation

We were blasted from a sound sleep the other night by a hot-rod belonging to one of the swains of a neighboring belle. And lying there, listening to the hoots, honks, squawks, squeals, and screeches of the youthful gathering, we gave ourself to some vague and edgy speculation on the state of the younger generation, and especially to the melancholy analysis of our young people contained in an article entitled "The Silent Generation," by Thorton Wilder in this month's Harper's.

Mr. Wilder sees the new younger generation as a moldy and rather uninspiring lot, an evaluation with which we are occasionally tempted to agree, though for less tolerant reasons than those listed by Mr. Wilder. Our young people, he finds, carry no banners, fight no causes, and want little from the world but security. They are silent, he believes, not only through caution, but through thoughtlessness. They are disillusioned by the mistakes of the past and the unrest of the present. They want to conform. They are looking for a faith.

Maybe. We are always a little hesitant to make statements about the younger generation because, if for no other reason, we aren't real sure where the younger generation takes up and leaves off. In our day (hot dog!) we had "youths" all the way up to 36 years old, leading rallies and issuing pamphlets like mad, and making a living from it.

But assuming that these demons of hell outside our midnight window qualify for the category, we offer a mild dissent to the Wilder theory. It is solid literary custom, of course, to regard each oncoming generation as a tragic thing, caught in the web of man's inhuman clumsiness. We had a fine time ourself being part of the "lost generation," before war, parenthood and mortgages brought us back to reality, and we wouldn't for anything deny to this generation the traditional privilege of drinking its beer over long thoughts on life's dank horizons.

But somehow, despite the dire predictions and pleasant self-pity that attend its adolescence, each generation manages to take its place in maturity with remarkable adaptability, little better or worse than the preceding one. Our cabinet members and industrial giants were produced by the jazz age. The "lost generation" has found itself running a prosperous, fascinating land, can still concern itself for the ills of humanity and the fate of a younger generation that is as puzzling as younger generations have ever been to the older generation.

Perhaps they are frightened, silent, security-conscious and thoughtful, these children of ours. But it is a strange search for security that is conducted at 85 miles an hour with a Hollywood muffler. It is strange, too, that all the deviates from this silent, timid, thoughtful throng, should hold their raucous midnight conclaves right beneath our window. If this is the silent generation, we wish they'd act like it.

Marbry Beats Cats, 11-0, For First Shutout Of Year

Bob Williams GravitteHomer To Lead Nine

By Tom Peacock

Righthander Don Marbry pitched Carolina's first shutout of the season yesterday, holding Davidson to four singles over the route while the Tar Heels pounded out 13 hits for a 11-0 home win.

Rightfielder Connie Gravitte and third baseman Bobby Williams led Carolina at the plate in its seventh straight win. Gravitte blasted two doubles and a homer, Williams a home run, triple, and single.

The baseball team will resume its Big Four play tomorrow afternoon at Wake Forest. The Tar Heels are now tied with N. C. State for first place in the Big Four.

Marbry was never behind his conference foes in taking his second win against no losses. He struck out seven, walked only four, and three well executed double plays by the Carolina infield squelched any Davidson scoring threat.

Davidson starter Ish Bennett took the loss, pitching seven innings before bowing out for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Carolina collected eight runs and 11 hits off him, then greeted reliefer John Smith with three more runs and two hits in the eighth.

The Wildcats started shakily, allowing the Tar Heels a run on a hit, two errors, and a passed ball in the first inning. After four frames Carolina still held a one run lead.

Carolina clinched things in the fifth with a three run outburst on singles by Harry Lee Lloyd and Wayne White and Gravitte's long home run to right center.

The Tar Heels poured four more runs on the hapless Bennett in the seventh. A walk to Fred Dale, Williams' home run, doubles by Gravitte and John Motsinger, and a single by Ed Hooks accounted for the big inning.

Davidson	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Hope, ss	3	0	1	1	1	1
Gray, 2b	3	0	0	2	6	0
Stowe, lf	3	0	0	0	1	1
Whisnant, 1b	4	0	0	12	1	1
Thomas, cf	3	0	0	1	0	0
Morris, 3b	4	0	1	0	0	0
DeVane, rf	3	0	1	0	0	0
G'well, c	3	0	0	8	0	0
Bennett, p	1	0	0	0	4	0
xTeeter	1	0	1	0	0	0
Smith, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
xxMorrow	1	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	29	0	4	24	13	3

xSingled for Bennett in 8th.
xxGrounded out for Thomas in 9th.

Carolina	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Lloyd, 2b	5	2	2	4	5	0
Dale, ss	2	2	0	2	3	2
Williams, 3b	5	2	3	0	3	0
White, lf	5	1	2	2	0	0
Gravitte, rf	5	3	3	2	0	0
M'singer, cf	4	1	1	3	0	0
Hooks, c	3	0	2	6	0	0
Mosier, 1b	4	0	0	7	1	0
Marbry, p	4	0	0	1	0	0
Totals	37	11	13	27	11	2

Davidson	000	000	000	0
Carolina	100	030	43x	11

Runs batted in: White, Williams, (4), Gravitte (3), Motsinger, Hooks; Two - base hits: Williams; Three-base hits: Williams; Home runs: Gravitte, Williams; Stolen bases: Hope; Sacrifices: Dale; Double plays: Gray and Whisnant; Dale, Lloyd, and Mosier ;Williams, Lloyd, and Mosier (2); Left on bases: Davidson, 6; Carolina, 7; Base on balls — off: Bennett, 3; Marbry, 4; Smith 1; Struck out—by: Bennett, 7; Marbry, 6; Smith 1; Hits—off: Bennett, 11 in 7 innings; Smith, 2 in 1 inning; Wild pitches: Bennett, Marbry; Passed balls: Glidewell (2); Losing pitcher: Bennett; Time of game: 2:08; Uumpires: Kolach and Loring.

Sylvia Leads Netters In 7-2 Win; Team Wins Fifteenth Straighth Without Loss

By Vardy Buckalew

Led by Del Sylvia, the Carolina tennis team took five out of six singles matches from Duke yesterday afternoon, and went on to defeat the Blue Devils, 7-2, getting revenge for one of the two defeats they suffered last season.

The tennis team will play its next match on Saturday when they meet Davidson at 2:30 p.m. on the varsity courts. It will be the second to last home match of the season for the Tar Heels.

Don Thompson's victory over terday afternoon, and went on to Bob Green in the number five singles match was the decisive one as the other five matches ended with Carolina holding a 4-1 edge. Thompson had to go three sets and had to come from behind, but he finally won out, 7-9, 6-2, 6-2.

The doubles matches were just practice after Carolina's victories in the singles. However, they produced some good tennis, and all of them went to three sets.

Sylvia was the first one through as he finished off lanky Norm Shellinger in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2. Shellinger was slow and deliberate, the kind who makes a try at every shot and returns most of them.

However, Sylvia's powerful passing shots and fine net game were too much for the Duke number one man. He was never able to get an edge in either one of the sets.

The number two match was perhaps the most exciting of the afternoon as Tom Bradford toiled for an hour and forty-five minutes before beating Kess Deimling, 8-6, 8-6.

Deimling, Duke's number one man last year, put up a good fight before losing to Bradford's steady playing. Deimling was a little too slow for Bradford's backhand passing shots, which the left-hander cut loose time after time.

The only singles loss of the afternoon came when Bob Payne, playing in the number four position, lost in straight sets to Buzz Hettleman, 6-3, 6-1. The other loss was in the number one doubles when Thompson and Bradford lost in three sets to Deimling and Paris.

The summaries:

Singles—Sylvia (UNC) defeated Shellinger (D), 6-2, 6-2; Bradford (UNC) defeated Deimling (D), 8-6, 8-6; Browne (UNC) defeated Schimmel (UNC), 4-6, 6-2, 6-4; Hettleman (D) defeated Payne (UNC), 6-3, 6-1; Thompson (UNC) defeated Green (D), 7-9, 6-2, 6-2; Green (UNC) defeated Paris (D), 6-4, 6-3.

Doubles — Deimling and Paris (D) defeated Thompson and Bradford (UNC), 2-6, 7-5, 6-2; Sylvia and Green (UNC) defeated Green and Shellinger (D), 6-2, 4-6, 6-2; Payne and Browne (UNC) defeated Schimmel and Hettleman (D), 3-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Tar Heels Will Compete In Pennsylvania Relays

Carolina coaches Dale Ransom and Joe Hilton, accompanied by a nucleus of the Tar Heel track squad, left yesterday for the Pennsylvania Relays which are being held this Friday and Saturday in Philadelphia.

This event which is slated as one of the top national attractions of the outdoor track season will see athletes representing almost every university and college in the East as well as many Southern and Middle Western schools.

Representing Carolina in the meet will be Roger Morris, Bobby Barden, Bill Cornell, Bobby Bell, Sonny Beal and Charlie Scott. Morris will be entered in the shot put and the discus events, Barden will run in the two mile distance event, and Cornell, Beall, Scott and Bell will be entered as a shuttle relay team.

Freshman broad jump star, Charlie Yarborough, and stellar sprinter, Jeff Newton, were unable to make the trip. Yarborough has been sidelined with a twisted ankle and Newton is out with a pulled leg muscle received in the Maryland meet.

Jayvee Golf Team Meets Durham Today

Carolina's junior varsity golf team has its second match of the season this afternoon at 2:00 against Durham High School at Finley golf course.

The Jayvees beat Myers Park High School of Charlotte, 15½-11½, earlier in the year.

Phil Kress led the team in that match with a two-under par 70. Others who have shown well in practice have been Gaither Walser, Joe Correll, Eddie Pell, Charlie Erdman and Jim Sykes.

Junior Varsity Nine To Play Blue Devils At Home Tomorrow

The junior varsity baseball team, recent winners over Duke, 17-6, will meet Wake Forest at Emerson Field tomorrow afternoon.

The Tar Babies put away the Dukes on Tuesday in one of their best hitting performances of the year. The Carolina team collected 15 hits against the Blue Imps.

After starting slowly the team scored runs in each of three innings to win with ease. Charlie Aycock limited the Blue Imps to nine hits in that game. Coach Henry House had not announced tomorrow's starting pitcher late yesterday afternoon.

MILTON'S PRESENTS

Egyptian Cotton

Classic Polo Shirts

$3.95

Every detail expresses quality—every wearing proves it. Fine, mercerized lisle—washable, of course. Make your selection now from our wide range of distinctive colors—and get a head start on summer.

Expressly made for us by TWEKA of Holland

Milton's Clothing Cupboard

SHAMELESS, SEDUCTIVE PARIS!

Varsity

TO-D-A-Y & SAT.

Admission Matinee 55c
Nite 74c
Children All Day 20c

LATE SHOW SATURDAY NITE!

co-starring DOROTHY MALONE · PRESTON FOSTER · ALEX NICOL and introducing RUTH HAMPTON

SUNDAY — MONDAY

J ARTHUR RANKS

"CRASH OF SILENCE"

(formerly STORY OF MANDY)

starring

Phyllis Calvert — Jack Hawkins

We Welcome you to the opening of the

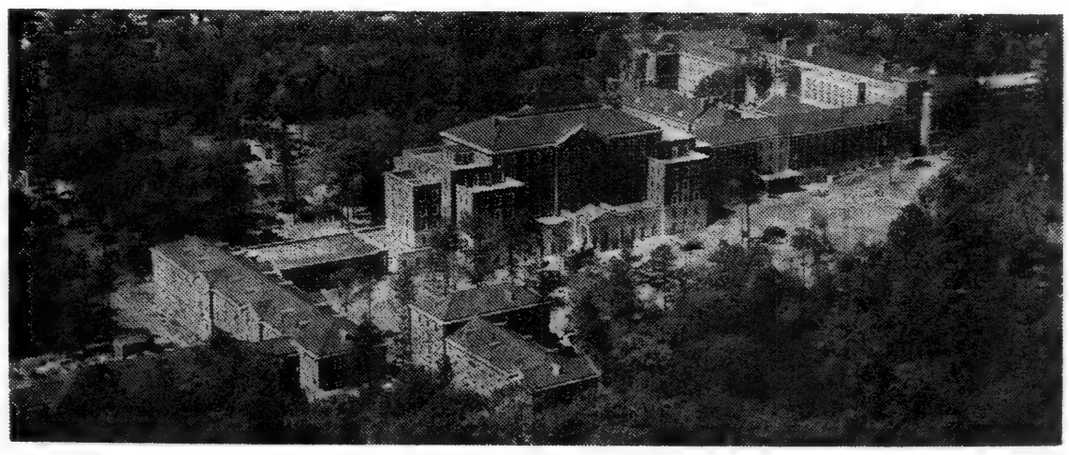
NORTH CAROLINA MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Come in and browse. Old maps, prints and books

UNICORN BOOKSHOP

Phone 9-6173 Over Sutton's

THE BIG WEEKEND IS HERE!



Get your film and flashbulbs now for Germans. The Spring dances are a wonderful opportunity for those perfect snapshots of special events.

don't miss out!

OPEN SUNDAY AFTERNOONS

FOISTER'S CAMERA STORE

We Are Proud of The Fact That Our Firm Was Selected To Do The...

Heating Installation for the N. C. Memorial Hospital

AND THE

Plumbing Installation for the University of North Carolina Medical School Addition, Nursing School Building and the Internes Quarters.

ROWE-GOODWIN-JONES, Inc.

Plumbing-Heating-Air Conditioning-Sheet Metal Work

—CONTRACTORS—

2726 Guess Road Phone 8-9677 Durham, N. C.

PARK - VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre
3 MILES WEST OF CARRBORO • HIGHWAY 54

TONIGHT & SATURDAY

HURRICANE SMITH TECHNICOLOR

Yvonne De CARLO · John IRELAND

TEACHERS WANTED

Minimum 1953-1954 salaries anticipated for degree teachers without previous experience: bachelor's $2,700 and up, master's $3,000 and up, doctor's $3,300 and up. Generous increase for each year of previous or subsequent public school experience in or out of state to much higher maximum. Excellent retirement program and many other advantages including continuing contract or permanent tenure legislation. Not "Can I afford to teach in Florida," but "Can I afford not to teach in Florida?" White teachers only. Free registration. Write for application form. Tell your friends.

TEACHER PLACEMENT SERVICE
1436 Palmer Tr. Jacksonville 7, Fla.
"FLORIDA POSITIONS ONLY"

Brilliant Tar Heel Health Program Of 1944 Has Progressed In Rapid, Rewarding Campaign

By Dr. Henry T. Clark Jr.
Division of Health Affairs

Back in 1944 a distinguished group of 50 representative North Carolinians was asked by Governor Broughton to study the health needs of the state and to recommend a program to meet these needs. The results of the study startled most citizens. By many of the yardsticks which can be used to measure comparative health standards, e.g., physicians per 1,000 rejected because of physical depopulation, per cent of draftees fects, infant and maternal mortality rates, hospital beds per 1,000 population, etc., North Carolina ranked very poorly as a state. A brilliant action program was charted under the battle-cry of "More Doctors, More Hospitals, More Insurance."

The campaign for improved health standards was carried to the people of the State in 1945 and 1946. As one consequence, the General Assemblies of 1947, 1949, and 1951 made significant appropriations for new health facilities and services.

Where We Stand

Since 1946, in the field of "More Hospitals," North Carolina ranks second in the country in new hospital beds which have been built or are presently under construction. Many of the past needs for health facilities are being filled.

Considerable progress has been made since 1946 in the field of medical economics, also, with Blue Cross and Blue Shield enrollments having expanded markedly and many local governmental agencies having assumed a greater responsibility for the care of indigent patients. Major problems of financing health care have yet to be overcome, however.

In the field of "More Doctors" (or, more accurately, of more health personnel) it was proposed in the 1944 report that a complete health training center be developed at the University by converting the existing two-year School of Medicine to a full four-year program, by activating a new teaching hospital and new Schools of Dentistry and Nursing, and by strengthening the long-established Schools of Pharmacy and Public Health.

In 1947, planning was started ties of the University. In October, 1949, construction was begun on the first new major unit, the North Carolina Memorial Hospital. Other construction was started in the months that followed. New staffs have been assembled and these are being expanded. New curricula have been and are being planned and new teaching programs started.

The tooling-up phase of the basiccomponents of the enlarged Health Center is nearly complete.

Current Picture

The following is a brief summary of the current picture in the Division of Health Affairs:

Construction of the 411-bed North Carolina Memorial Hospital was essentially completed by the early fall of 1952 and the Hospital accepted its first patient last September 2. At present, some 122 beds plus complete laboratory and out-patient facilities are in operation to serve patients referred from all parts of North Carolina with a wide variety of complex medical problems. Over 6,000 such patients have already been served during this beginning operation period of the Hospital. An excellent basic hospital service staff has been assembled and this is being expanded as the days go by to provide for an orderly activation of a complex teaching and service facility.

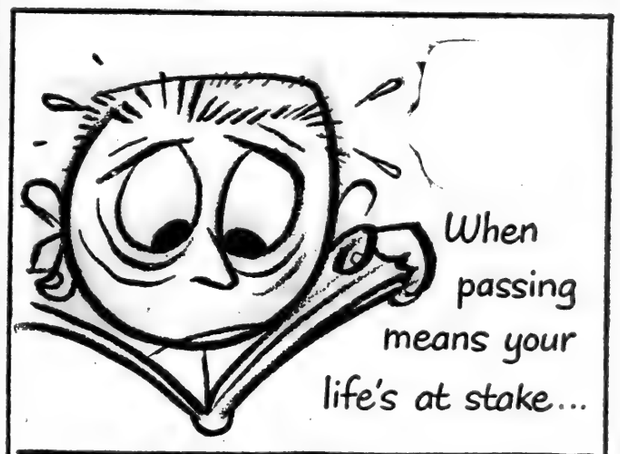
An 80-bed psychiatric wing, khich will contain one floor on alcoholic patients, is under construction. It is currently expected that this wing will be ready to accept patients during the summer of 1954. Construction on a 100-bed tuberculosis unit, a new facility of the North Carolina Sanitorium system, has reached an advanced stage. This unit should be ready to receive patients in the late summer of 1953.

The School of Medicine rapidly expanded its clinical staff during the past year and started its first class of third-year students in the fall of 1952. The first class of students from this expanded program will be graduated in June, 1954. A "north wing" to the School of Medicine building, which provides enlarged facilities for three basic science departments, was completed and put into use in the fall of 1952. A similar "south wing" is under construction and should be ready for use by September, 1953. Plans are nearing completion for the inauguration of a new training program for laboratroy technicians by the School of Medicine., beginning in September, 1953.

The new School of Dentistry building, which was begun in May, 1951, was essentially completed by September, 1952. It was immediately put into use as a clinical facility for the training of dental students. The first class of dentists will be graduated from this school in June, 1954. Already, many low-income patients from all parts of North Carolina have been given service in the dental clinics. A new program for training dental hygienists is scheduled for activation in September, 1953.

The new School of Nursing building and dormitories were completed during the fall of 1952 and are occupied by two classes of student nurses in residence. The first of these classes will be graduated for service in North Carolina in June, 1955. Plans are now being drawn for the activation of a training program for practical nurses and the inauguration of a master's degree program for graduate nurses.

The Schools of Public Health and Pharmacy are carrying forward their normal program. As an indication of their vigor, however, the School of Public Health added a twelth department, the Department of Mentay Health(during the past year, and the School of Pharmacy awarded its first Ph.D. degree at the last University's commencement. Both of these schools are urgently in need of better housing in order to serve the people of this state more effectively.

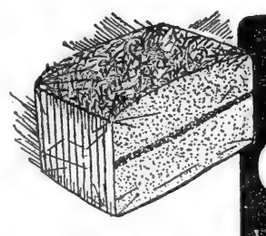


Although this main tooling-up phase of the Division of Health Affairs is approaching an end, there is an enormous job ahead of expanding faculties, of maintaining sound financing and of carrying forward excellent teaching, research, and service programs. There is an equally large task ahead of making available the benefits of this Health Center to the communities and rural areas of the state. The future health of North Carolina is a big job. However, the size of the task seems less when compared with the size of the opportunity.

Start your weekends the safe, easy way. Stop in in for a check-up and let us service your car with PURE OIL products.

CARE WHILE SAFE YOUR CAR

POE MOTOR CO.
112 W. Franklin
DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH



A&P's Low Food Prices Assure You Big Savings!

A&P

Peg O'Silver Whole Kernel White Corn - - - 2 16-Oz. Cans 35c
A&P Grape Juice - - - 24-Oz. Bot. 29c
Packers Label Pie Apples - - - - - 20-Oz. Can 23c
Sunnyfield Corn Flakes - - - - 18-Oz. Pkg. 23c

Jane Parker Plain or Sugared DONUTS Doz. Pkg. 19c

White House Apple Jelly - - 12-Oz. Glass 15c
Phillips Beans & Franks 12-Oz. Can 21c
Sultana Imitation Vanilla Extract - 8-Oz. Bot. 11c
Kitchen Charm Wax Paper - - - Roll 21c
Jello Pudding & Pie Fillings 3 Pkgs. 25c

Gerbers Strained Foods 3 4½-Oz. Jars 29c
Gerbers Chopped Foods 8-Oz. Jar 14c
Tenderleaf Tea 4-Oz. Pkg. 31c
Rainbow Facial Tissue Angel Soft 400 Sheet Pkg. 25c
White Facial Tissue Angel Soft 400 Sheet Pkg. 23c

Cranberry Sauce Ocean Spray Delicious With Chicken - 16-Oz Can 20c
Libby's Peas - - - - - - 17-Oz. Can 23c
Tomato Juice Libby's - - - - 46-Oz. Can 17c
King Syrup - - - - - - 1½-Lb. Bot. 23c
Sunbrite Cleanser - - - - 13-Oz. Can 8c
Swift'ning - - - 1-Lb. Tin 29c 3-Lb. Tin 85c
Jewel Oil - - - Pint Bot. 33c Qt. Bot. 63c
Camay Soap - - - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c
Ivory Snow - - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c

So Blendable...So Dependable ...SO THRIFTY!
The All-Purpose Pure Vegetable SHORTENING
3 LB. TIN 79c 1-LB. TIN 29c

An A&P Exclusive!
FOR CAKES • PIES • PERFECT FRIES

For Dependable Carrying Quality, A&P's Famous "Super Right" Meat Buys!
Your Best Meat Buys!

Super Right Heavy Western Beef Top Round Steak - - - Lb. 79c
Super Right Heavy Western Beef—7 inch Cut Standing Rib Roast - - - - - - - Lb. 69c
Freshly Ground Beef - - - - - Lb. 43c
Wilson Corn King Sliced Bacon - - - - - Lb. 55c
Nice Size Fat Backs - - - - - - Lb. 15c
Swift Premium Franks - - - - - - - - - 1-Lb. Pkg. 49c
Super Right Dressed & Drawn—Whole or Cut Up Fryers - - - - - - - - Lb. 49¢

For Delicate Fresh Flavor try Ann Page MAYONNAISE

Pint Jar 29c Quart Jar 49c
COME SEE AT A&P!
Ann Page Sparkle Sherbet Mix - 3 Pkgs. 25c
ANN PAGE TOMATO KETCHUP 14-Oz. Bot. 17c

Oxydol - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c Giant Pkg. 65c
Air Wick - - - - - - - - Bot. 59c
Dial Soap - - - - - - - 2 Comp. Bars 25c
Dial Soap - - - - - - - 2 Bath Bars 35c
Tuna Chicken of The Sea Bite Size - - - - - 3¼-Oz. Can 20c
Tuna Chicken of The Sea Fancy White - - - - - 7-Oz. Can 39c
Pard Dog Food - - - - - 16-Oz. Can 15c
Argo Starch - - - - - - 8-Oz. Pkg. 6c

Save on A&P's Farm Fresh Fruits & Vegetables
These Prices Effective Thru Saturday April 25th

Florida — Size 54-64's GRAPEFRUIT 4 For 29¢
Yellow Onions - - - - Lb. 5c
Crisp Celery 3-Doz. Size - - Stalk 15c
Golden Ripe BANANAS - - - 2 Lbs. 25c
Lettuce Crisp 4-Doz. Size - - - - 2 Head 25c
Juicy Florida ORANGES 8 Lb. Bag 45c

AMERICA'S FOREMOST FOOD RETAILER . . . SINCE 1859
A&P Super Markets
THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

WEST FRANKLIN STREET

University Nursing School Program Geared To Needs And Aspirations Of Young Students

At the University School of Nursing, the program is directly geared to the needs and aspirations of the student who wishes to become a mature, effective person as well as a good nurse. This view of the student is both realistic and appealing.

The nurse-in-training is encouraged to take part in all phases of campus life: Social, cultural, religious, student government and other extra-curricular activities. Although she lives in the Nurses' Residence, she is a full member of the college community. Each student is assigned a faculty adviser, who acts as her counselor during her college career.

The first year's courses stress the maintennace of good health through sensible living, both for the student herself and for the community and individuals within it. At the same time, she is taking regular college work in English, history, anthropology, sociology and psychology. These, in addition to the basic sciences required in her training, give her the cultural background she needs as a well-rounded person who wishes to develop interests outside of her profession.

As she progresses in her college years, she becomes increasingly competent in caring for the sick person, with constant emphasis on maintaining health and preventing illness. Her own interests are never lost sight of. For instance, while she is attending lectures on obstetrics and getting experience in the delivery room and clinic of the hospital, she is also taking a course on marriage and the family.

Dean Kemble Well-Qualified

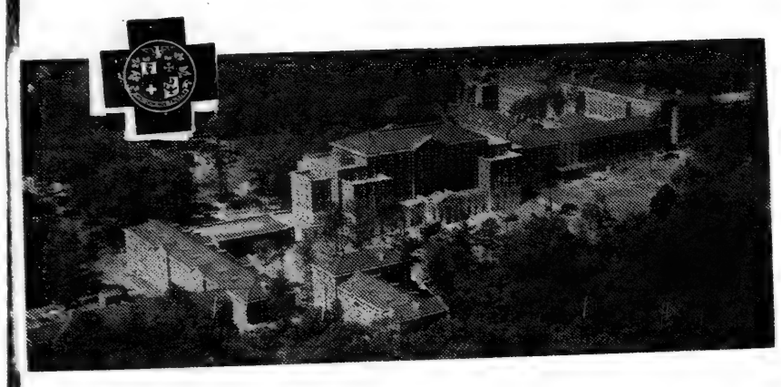
Dean Elizabeth L. Kemble of the School of Nursing has an impressive record in her field and seems well-qualified for her position in the Health Center.

She is a native of Greenville, Ohio. She received her diploma in nursing from the University of Cincinnati and her BS in nursing education from New York University. She obtained an MA and the degree of doctor of education from Teachers College, Columbia University.

Formerly director of the department of Measurement and Guidance of the National League of Nursing Education, she was also associate director of the Nurse Testing Division of the Psychological Corporation in New York. She has taught courses in tests and measurements to nurses at St. John's University, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Hunter College of the City of New York; Teachers College, Columbia University, and New York University.

Dean Kemble has held administrative and teaching positions in Ohio, New Jersey and New York, and has done educational work with practical nurses student nurses and graduate nurses. At the national level, she is chairman of one committee and a member of three others with reference to nursing. She is president of the Southern Division of the American Nurses Association and chairman of the Southern Regional Education Board's Committe on Nursing Education.

Leave Your Laundry



— AT —

THE GLEN LENNOX LAUNDROMAT

WHILE YOU SHOP COLONIAL STORE

Congratulations,

Memorial Hospital

Hospital Care Association of Durham is proud to add Memorial Hospital, Chapel Hill, to its roster of more than 250 Member Hospitals which guarantee the benefits provided in our Blue Cross Certificate of membership.

THE HOSPITAL CARE PLAN COVERS . . . ROOM AND BOARD (WARD BED PAID IN FULL OR ALLOWANCE FOR SEMI-PRIVATE OR PRIVATE ROOM) . . . UNLIMITED USE OF ALL STANDARD EXTRAS . . . UNLIMITED OUT-PATIENT CARE IN ACCIDENT CASES — FOR UP TO 70 DAYS PER YEAR MEMBER PER CAUSE. PLUS LIBERAL ALLOWANCES FOR SURGICAL AND MATERNITY CARE.

University Faculty Members

You are invited to apply for membership on our University of North Carolina Group Plan. Dues payable monthly on a payroll deduction basis.

Students and Townspeople

Ask about our non-group Plan. Pay your does by mail quarterly, semi-annually or annually.

THE HOSPITAL CARE ASSOCIATION INC.

HOME OFFICE

Durham, North Carolina

"First and Finest in Tar Heel Health Service"

Special Low Price!

OUR PRIDE LARGE 18-OUNCE SIZE ANGEL FOOD CAKE 49¢

Serve with Strawberries or Delicious CS Freestone Canned Peaches

Regular 59¢ Value!

COLONIAL STORES MARK OF QUALITY FOODS

NEW LOW PRICES ON FROZEN FOODS!

Ready to Mix & Serve—Realgold LEMONADE 2 6-OZ. CANS 29c

SEABROOK FARMS SPEARS OF BROCCOLI 10-OZ. 29c

SEABROOK FARMS FRESH-FROZEN CAULIFLOWER 10-OZ. 29c

SEABROOK FARMS FROZEN CUT GREEN BEANS 10-OZ. 19c

SOMERDALE BABY GREEN LIMA BEANS 2 10-OZ. 33c

SEABROOK FARMS MIXED PEAS AND CARROTS 10-OZ. 19c

SEABROOK FARMS EXTRA FANCY SWEET PEAS 2 10-OZ. 35c

Flori-Tropic Fresh-Frozen LIMEADE 2 6-OZ. CANS 33c

Redgate Top-Quality Alaskan Pink SALMON TALL CAN 49c

FROM ORCHARD-RIPE APPLES—WHITEHOUSE APPLE SAUCE 2 17-OZ. CANS 35c

FINE FOR SALADS—MOTHER'S SALAD DRESSING PINT JAR 25c

SOFT, ABSORBENT TOILET TISSUE NORTHERN 3 ROLLS 25c

OLD VIRGINIA APPLE JELLY 1-LB. JAR 19c

SOUP FOR LUNCH!—CAMPBELL'S CONDENSED TOMATO SOUP 2 NO. 1 CANS 23c

NABISCO PREMIUM SALTINE CRACKERS 1-LB. PKG. 23c

FOR CAKES THAT DELIGHT—SWIFT'S JEWEL SHORTENING 3-LB. CTN. 73c

OUR PRIDE OLD FASHIONED BREAD 1-LB. LOAF 15c

OUR PRIDE SUGAR-GLAZED DOUGHNUTS CTN. DOZ. 35c

Lettuce CRISP, TENDER, FRESH, ICEBURG extra large head... 10¢

Colonial Pride, U. S. Choice, Top-Quality Milk-Fed VEAL VALUES!

Tender, Nourishing and Economical!

COLONIAL PRIDE, U. S. CHOICE VEAL CHOPS RIB LB. 79c LOIN LB. 89c

Colonial Pride, U. S. Choice Veal SIRLOIN STEAK LB. 89c

Colonial Pride, U. S. Choice Round VEAL CUTLETS LB. 89c

Colonial Pride, U. S. Choice Veal JIFFY STEAKS LB. 89c

Colonial Pride, U. S. Choice Shoulder Cut VEAL CHOPS LB. 49c

Colonial Pride, U. S. Choice Boneless VEAL STEW LB. 45c

Colonial Pride, U. S. Choice VEAL ROAST LB. 47c

CHOOSE FROM OUR COMPLETE VARIETY OF FRESH SEAFOODS!

Colonial Pride, U. S. Choice Veal PATTIES LB. 49c

Armour Star or Swift Premium FRANKS LB. 49c

Salt Meat STREAK-O-LEAN LB. 29c

Chef's Pride Prepared B-B-Q FRYERS LB. 95c

Chef's Pride—Prepared Cole SLAW 1-LB. CUP 25c

Tradewind's Breaded Fantail SHRIMP LB. 73c

Gorton's Cello-Wrapped Flounder FILLETS LB. 59c

Extra Fancy Virginia WINESAP APPLES 2 LBS. 29c

FANCY FIRM RIPE SLICING TOMATOES CARTON 19c

FIRM MEDIUM SIZE HEADS GREEN CABBAGE 2 LBS. 9c

U. S. No. 1 New Red Bliss POTATOES SIZE "A" 5 LBS. 30c

LAUNDRY SOAP OCTAGON 3 BARS 23c

ASSORTED FLAVORS BURNETT'S INSTANT PUDDINGS 4½-OZ PKG. 13c

GET FLOODS OF SUDS WITH SUPER SUDS LGE. 27c

TOILET SOAP—2 BATH 23c PALMOLIVE 3 REG. 23c

JUST RINSE—NO WIPING VEL DETERGENT LGE. 29c

FABULOUS FAB FOR DISHES LGE. 29c

TOILET SOAP OCTAGON 2 BARS 13c

2 BATH 23c—CASHMERE BOUQUET 3 REG. 23c

NANCY CARTER Tested RECIPES

Baked Corn Pudding

2 cups chopped cooked fresh corn, or CS whole kernel corn
2 Pick-of-the-Nest eggs
1 teaspoon sugar
1½ tablespoons melted Triangle Butter
2 cups scalded milk
1¾ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Drain corn and chop before measuring. Beat eggs slightly. Combine all ingredients; pour into a greased 1½ quart casserole. Set in pan of warm water; bake in slow oven, 325 degrees, 1¼ hours. Makes 5 to 6 servings. NOTE: For variety, these may be added just before baking: ½ cup minced cooked ham; ¼ cup crisply cooked, crumbled bacon; or ½ cup grated sharp cheese.

Your TOTAL Food Bill is Less when you Shop CS!

COLONIAL STORES

Hospital Has Huge Kitchens, Expert Help

(Continued from page 1)

production, which purchases and prepares all of the food for patients and the cafeteria. It is managed by Miss Birshal Williams and Mrs. Sara Gaines.

The extensive main kitchen is located on the ground floor of the hospital. With its units for vegetable preparation, salad preparation, meats and soups, baking, pot washing and cooking, it looks like a combination bakery butchershop and corner grocery.

For instance, the meat unit or "butcher shop" has a meat saw, tenderizer, scales and even a hamburger machine, which, by a flick of a lever will press seasoned meat into patties ready for cooking. For food that will be used immediately there's a meat box or fish box; for cold storage there's a walled in deep freeze.

The vegetable preparation unit is filled with such time-saving devices as a mammoth potato peeler, a vegetable box, and an electrocut, which can do anything with fresh vegetables from dicing or shredding them to cutting up french fried potatoes.

Cooking the vegetables may be done in nine ovens, two broilers and huge steam jacketed kettles.

Either cakes, cookies or Danish pastry are always brewing in the three ovens of the bakery, no matter what hour of day. This unit makes hot breads and pastries for the entire hospital—a full time job.

To get the food to the serving pantries on each floor electric trucks are used. These keep the food hot until it is served to the patients.

The pantries have modern keynotes such as stainless steel counter tops, silverware, gray plastic dishes, green trays and individual coffee pots. Although the food is prepared in the main kitchen, it is not put on the plates until it reaches the individual kitchens. Each serving is standardized.

As for transporting the food to the cafeteria, these hot trucks also are used. However, for the cafeteria, located on the first floor, the food is prepared as needed with a freshly-cooked supply going up about every 20 minutes. Adjoining the cafeteria, which includes an attractively furnished dining room decorated in shades of rose, is the Snack Bar. The cafeteria serves approximately 200 at breakfast, 350 at noon and 175 at supper.

The Therapeutic division of the Dietary Department, which supervises the regular and special diets for the patients as well as carrying on research, has a staff of three registered dieticians and two supervisors with Miss Dorothy E. Tate as its director.

Although there is no distinction between the staff patients and private patients in menus, which are non-selective, the department likes of the patient within reason. likes of the patient withing reason. The regular diets are written from the cafeteria's menus, which are planned a week in advance, and the special diet is kept as close to the others as possible.

For the special meals which make up 40 per cent of the patient diets, the food is dished up on trays in the Special Diet Kitchen, adjoining the main kitchen, and put on heated trucks. From there it goes to the patients.

In addition to the patient care inside the hospital, the Therapeutic division is also responsible for instructing people in the Out Patient Department on special diets if they need them.

Campus Carousel

By Deenie Schoeppe

Following is a list of pins exchanged within the past week: (This ought to save time, space and energy.)

Kappa Sigs. Two here. Friend and UP chairman, Walt McFall, Asheville, has parted with the pin. Wearing it with her Tri Delt pin is Anne McClamroch, Chapel Hill.

And Chi Omega Ann Patterson, Edenton, got pinned to some Kappa Sig. Think it was Charlie Scott. From Graham. They certainly do like "Ann's" at that house. Congratulations of Ann "Mase" Chapin, Kappa Sig sweetheart.

Find yourself a chair cause this is a shock. An SAE got pinned. To a coed. Who has caused this monstrous piece of news? Fred Hutchins, Winston-Salem, and Tri Delt Snookie Stone, Wrightsville Beach.

TEP house Norm Goldin, Raleigh, joins the ranks. He pinned Carmel Adler, Asheville.

KA Richard Guthrie, Winston-Salem, pinned Peggy Deuchle, also f Winston. She's a Duke coed.

And the Pika's too. Bill Isenhour, Hickory, is pinned to Larue Huffman, WC student from Hickory.

Like to know who lost a pin at the Sigma Chi house this week? Doug Baker, Keston. New owner is Betty Lane of Greensboro, junior at WC.

Pi Kappa Phi's will celebrate their annual weekend with the "Rose Ball" at the Inn tomorrow night. They'll also have a Hogan's party tonight and a cocktail party at the house tomorrow night from 1 to 3.

Germans shows great promise of trouble to make sure they get enough partying in.

Sigma Nu's will have a party at Clearwater tonight and a cocktail party at the house tomorrow before the concert.

SPE's will go to Raleigh for a party tonight.

Pi Lams will have a cabin party in Durham tonight and a cocktail party after the concert.

Putt Davis, Phi Delt, cartoonist, humorist, and part owner of the Goody Shop, will grace the campus once more. He's 4-F.

Two KA's will attend Germans. Say you've had a few big weekends recently?

Phi Gams will go beachward to Myrtle and Morehead for the weekend.

Sigma Chi's are also planning a beach party this weekend.

ATO's will have a party at Crabtree tonight and another at the house after Germans.

There won't be a lake within miles that doesn't have a party by it tonight. The Zete's will take over Smith's Lake and then Hogan's tomorrow.

Phi Kaps will observe Germans with a breakfast at the house after the dance.

Chi Phi's will entertain the KD's Tuesday night with a party and supper at Hogan's.

St. A's are on their way to Crabtree for a party tonight too.

Chi Psi's will do things differently and have a hayride to Hogan's tonight.

Delta Sigma Pi's will party at the house tomorrow after or between Germans.

Champagne for the Kappa Sigs (what else?) tomorrow afternoon.

Here's an engagement we missed a few weeks back. Barbara Cox, Asheboro, received a beautiful ring from Buck Buchanan, Chi Phi from Hendersonville.

If you're among those at Hogan's, you'll also see the Pika's who are having a supper and a party there tonight.

Sigma Nu's went to Peace College Wednesday to serenade new pin-ups.

Chi O's had a party with the Alpha Gams yesterday.

For the weekend the KA's will have a cocktail party at the house tomorrow and a beer party Sunday. Most of them are going to the beach, however.

The campus has gone animal-crazy. To the extent that the St. A's even have a skunk for a pet. Or could you tell? The Chi Phi's had a duck too, but it died from over-indulgence in alcohol.

Beta's and dates will drink French 75 at the Country club tonight.

The local Pi Phi's will entertain the Duke chapter with dinner and a skit in honor of the sorority's Founders' Day Tuesday.

Parting remark: all those rumors about Phi Delts being pinned are vicious lies. Huh, Buddy?

SPONSORS FOR THE 1953 ANNUAL CAROLINA Sig Ep Ball of Sigma Phi Epsilon are, first row, Miss Orchard Hord, Concord, sponsored by Don Corl of N. C. Beta, North Carolina State College; Miss Aleen Palmer, Pittsburgh, Pa., sponsored by George Boltz of N. C. Beta, North Carolina State College; Miss Flora Furr, Concord, N. C., sponsored by Fred Prescott of N. C. Delta, University of North Carolina; Miss Betty Jean Flynn, Winston-Salem, N. C., sponsored by Thurman L. Williams Jr., of N. C. Delta, University of North Carolina. Second row, Miss Sandy Carter, Morganton, N. C., sponsored by Merv Swing of N. C. Gamma, Duke University; Miss Tancy Lee Panossian, Arlington, Va., sponsored by Donald de Laski of N. C. Gamma, Duke University. Third row, Miss Nancy Shofner, Columbia, S. C. sponsored by Bill Townsend of N. C. Zeta, Wake Forest College; Miss Betty Ray Florence, Burlington, N. C., sponsored by Taylor H. Sanford Jr., of N. C. Zeta, Wake Forest College; Miss Jo Tilley, Durham,sponsored by Fred Hasty of N. C. Eta, High Point College; Miss Helen Swaringen, High Point, N. C., sponsored by Koy Dawkins of N. C. Eta, High Point College. Not pictured are sponsors from N. C. Epsilon, Davidson College, and S. C. Alpha, University of South Carolina. The dance is this weekend in Raleigh.

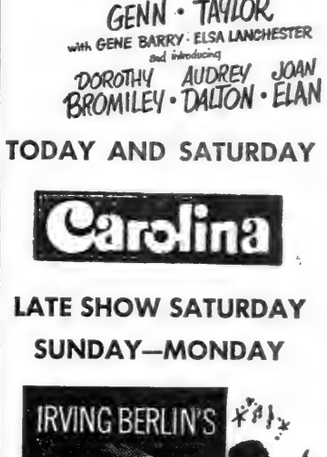
Di-Phi Debate Is Won By Phi

Reversing a three year record the Phi Assembly won the annual Di-Phi Debate Tuesday night.

The question in debate was a confederation of Europe with the Phi upholding the affirmative and the Di the negative.

Representing the Phi were Fred Crawford, Don Angell, Dayton Estes, Dick Iobst, Ham Horton, and Bob Pace. Speaking for the Di were David Reid, Clyde Smith, Bob Clampitt, Bev Webb, Mike Soaper and Gerald Parker. Don Angell was selected as best speaker.

Phi Kappa Sig Names Eleven New Pledges



Eleven were pledged into Lambda Chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma on Wednesday, April 22. The new pledges are Bill Reid, Asheville; Jerry Vayda, Bayonne, N. J.; Allan Frucci, Jacksonville; Job Belcher, Norfolk, Va.; Owen Knop, Milwaukee, Wisc.; John Milan, New York, N. Y.; Fred Blake, Hillsboro; Charles Sharpless, Philadelphia, Pa.; James Roquemore, Andrews, S. C.; Gene Moring, Raleigh; Norm Lane, Roselle, N. J.

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B

MUST SALE—1951 STUDEBAKER Land Cruiser with automatic transmission. All extras. $1,450. Call 96519. (chg 1 8003 2)

ARMY PVT. LOUIS A PUMPHREY, of Cottondale, Ala., one of the American prisoners of war returned by the Communists at Panmunjom, talks with Mrs. Mark W. Clark, wife of the United Nations Supreme Commander. Pumphrey, one of the first men to be repatriated, is in a Tokyo, Japan hospital. — NEA Radiophoto.

$74,550 Budget Approved; Publications Board Censured

(Continued from page 1)

Later, he continued, "In past history, the trend of thought has been that the Publications Board and student government are equal things. It's gotten so that we either have student government or the Publications Board."

The SP legislator went on to say that he thought they weren't equal. "Publications are a part of student government, which inci- Publications Board, still exists."

Walt Dear, chairman of the Publications Board, took the floor and explained the Board's policy and workings for the past year. Dear pointed out that the reserve fund of $7,000 in bonds was "a very necessary item as an emergency fund and for needed improvements."

Cook replied that he only wanted the money left over from publications to be given back to student government, not the board's bonds.

Secretary-treasurer Ed Gross said, "I hate to see a future Legislature decide to cut its surpluses." He added, "And if Legislature decides to appropriate surplus funds, it sets a very dangerous precedent."

The student budget, according to Gross, is figured on a tentative basis, according to next year's expected enrollment. The secretary-treasurer said that financial advice on the matter had been received.

"I don't see the point of trying to put this into the general surplus fund," concluded Gross.

According to the amendment tacked on to the budget any profits or funds left over from operation of the Publications Board will go back to student government.

Tob McDonald spoke against against Cook's proposal, saying that many long-range plans would depend on the profits accumulated.

The rest of the lengthy budget passed in quick order. Among the various student activities supported by the budget are the Carolina Forum, Debate Council, Graham Memorial, Men's Interdormitory Council, Independent Coed Board, University Club, class organizations and the Publications Board.

Charlotte Davis, editor of the Carolina Quarterly, put in a request for $500. Late last night, debate on the request was still in progress. Tom Lloyd, former editor of the literary magazine, also took the floor and said he didn't think the magazine ought to get the money from Leislature.

Sol Cherry (UP) and Gene Cook (SP) gave what they called "an old soldier's speech," since it was their last legislature session. Cherry declared, "Tonight is the last meeting for both of us." The group applauded loudly.

The much-debated Council appropriation passed without any debate last night. The group was given $1,800.

For many legislators, this was their last session. The new crop of student lawmakers take over at the following meeting, with vice-president Baxter Miller presiding.

Final Exam Schedule

The final examination schedule for Spring Quarter was released yesterday by Edwin S. Lanier, director of Central Records.

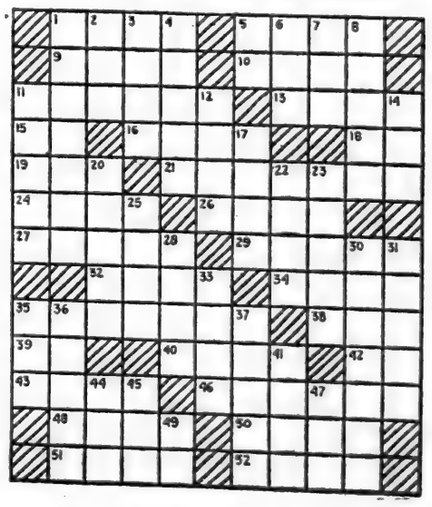
No student may be excused from a scheduled examination except by the University Infirmary, in case of illness, or by his General College Faculty adviser or by his dean, in case of any other emergency compelling his absence.

All 3 p.m. classes and Bus. Adm. 71 & 72 and all classes not otherwise provided for in this schedule	Saturday, May 30, 8:30 a.m.
All 10 a.m. classes	Saturday, May 30, 2 p.m.
Common Examination (All French, German, and Spanish courses numbered 1, 2, 3 & 4)	Monday, June 1, 8:30 a.m.
All 11 a.m. classes	Monday, June 1, 2 p.m.
All 1 p.m. classes	Tuesday, June 2, 8:30 a.m.
All 12 noon classes	Tuesday, une 2, 2 p.m.
All 2 p.m. classes and zoology 104	Wednesday, June 3 8:30 a.m.
All 8 a.m. classes	Wednesday, June 3, 2 p.m.
All 9 a.m. classes	Thursday, June 4, 8:30 a.m.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1. Stuff
5. Native of Arabia
9. Teutonic character
10. Fodder vat
11. Middle
13. Daub of color
15. Avenue (abbr.)
16. Part of a check
18. Toward
19. Apple seed
21. Droopy in posture
24. Beige
26. Ireland
27. Harvests
29. Dipped out, as liquid
32. Seize
34. Tibetan priest
35. Act as chairman
38. Soak flax
39. Sloth
40. Story
42. Music note
43. Fellow
46. Bog
48. Roman garment
50. Fragrant tree
51. Wild ox (Celebes)
52. Modified plant (Bot.)



DOWN

1. A cleft
2. Flow
3. Emmets
4. Encounters
5. Like
6. Vein of a leaf
7. Entire amount
8. Stall
11. Prance
12. Measuring stick
14. Lad
17. Cook quickly in water
20. Talk
22. River (Russ.)
23. Pinaceous tree
25. Java tree
28. A short comic play
30. Standing out of water (Bot.)
31. Fruits of the palm
33. Dutch cheese
35. Knave of clubs
36. Lariat
37. Run away and marry
41. Man's name
44. Unit of weight
45. Self
47. Miscellany
49. Rough lava

■	SINS	■	HAKE	■	■	■	■	■	■	■
SKOAL	■	ALOST	■	■	■	■	■	■	■	■
TINGE	■	MARNE	■	■	■	■	■	■	■	■
AL	SEB	■	EEL	■	■	■	■	■	■	■
IRI	■	PECTASE	■	■	■	■	■	■	■	■
REDS	■	GOA	■	■	■	■	■	■	■	■
STENOGRAPHY	■	■	■	■	■	■	■	■	■	■
■	ARIA	■	LIEU	■	■	■	■	■	■	■
PAMPERS	■	NAN	■	■	■	■	■	■	■	■
IGA	■	SUM	RM	■	■	■	■	■	■	■
PUNTS	■	BALSA	■	■	■	■	■	■	■	■
STEEP	■	ARYAN	■	■	■	■	■	■	■	■
EDDY	■	SLEY	■	■	■	■	■	■	■	■

3-27

Yesterday's Answer

Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
5-21-53

WEATHER
Fair and warm with 80 high. Yesterday's high and low, 85 and 60.

The Daily Tar Heel

ADIEU
The editor takes his leave on page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 137 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. SUNDAY, APRIL 26, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

Better To Shout In UN Than Shoot--Graham

"It's better for people in the United Nations to shout at each other than to shoot at each other on the battlefield," Dr. Frank P. Graham, former president of the Consolidated University said Friday night.

Now a UN mediator trying to solve territorial problems for India and Pakistan, he told a packed Hill Hall audience that the United Nations serves as a forum of public opinion.

Rejecting the charges that the UN merely serves as a forum of propaganda, Dr. Graham noted that all the debates and speeches of the Russians get the final test in the General Assembly when a vote is taken. "The propaganda of germ warfare or aggression in Korea" is proven as propaganda when the 60 nations vote, he said.

Were there no United Nations, "world opinion would not be tested by any positive vote," he observed. On the great issues, a vote is recorded, generally 54-6, and the propaganda efforts are defeated.

The removal of Russian forces from Iran soon after World War II is an example of the great moral force of world opinion that the UN can muster.

Other major problems of the UN include the technical assistance program, "Not a program to help backward people, but a program of cooperation for the improvement of education, health, agriculture, and productive powers" to make the world a better place to live in. Dr. Graham cited the World Health Organization as a vital UN agency which helps reduce the rate of disease around the world.

As another major objective, the UN is concerned with "the direct handling of danger spots of the world." Palestine, Greece, Iran, and the subcontinent of Asia are places where the UN has dealt effectively in preventing outbreaks which might lead to another world war. He explained that the UN was the guiding spirit in making peace with the Dutch and the Republic of Indonesia possible.

In a question-answer period following the speech, Dr. Graham suggested that the abused veto power in the five-member Security Council "either be abolished or restricted so it will not paralyze the work of the UN." When the UN charter comes up for revision in 1955, Dr. Graham thinks that an international police force ought to be provided for. He also recommends that the General Assembly be able to make suggestions about matters on the Security Council agenda. Now, the Assembly can't give its opinion on Security Council debate topics.

Dr. Graham is in favor of admitting any one nation which would subscribe to the charter. He pointed out that Communist China is an aggressor against the United Nations and therefore is ineligible.

When he was working on the UN Committee of Good Offices in Indonesia, Dr. Graham was blasted by the Communists as a "tool of the Fentagon, an agent for Wall Street, and a front for American and Dutch imperialists." He commented, "It was news to Wall Street."

The Friday night speech marked the first day of celebration for United Nations Week held here by students of UNC. It was the second major speech for Dr. Graham. Earlier he had given the dedication address to the North Carolina Memorial Hospital.

Garrett Will Lecture At Catholic U. This Summer

Allen McCain Garrett of the Department of music here will give lectures in music at the summer session of the Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C., from June 24 through August 8.

Dear's Last Day

This is Walt Dear's last day as editor of The Daily Tar Heel. Tuesday former Managing Editor Rolfe Neill will take over.

Dear has served since last November when he was elected to replace Barry Farber who was drafted.

Neill was unopposed for the editor's job in Spring elections.

Graham Says NC Is Destined For Big Things

North Carolina is destined to become one of the great university and medical centers of the world, Dr. Frank P. Graham said here Friday.

Dr. Graham delivered the dedicatory address at impressive exercises at which President Gordon Gray formally accepted in behalf of the University the North Carolina Memorial Hospital, the Schools and Dentistry and Nursing, and the expanded new four-year Medical School.

North Carolina's potential leadership as one of the great health centers stems from "the creative cooperation of its three great Medical Schools , at Winston-Salem, Durham, and Chapel Hill, and all the colleges, schools, and agencies of the people's life," Dr. Graham said.

The Health Center at the University represents one of the few complete medical centers in the country of this type, said Dr. Graham, who was one of the most effective advocates of the Good Health Movement inaugurated a decade ago when he was president of the University.

Pointing out the varied and comprehensive facilities of the new Health Center, cornerstone of the Statewide program, Dr. Graham cited the provision for strong central departments, the close groupings of buildings, economy of operation, the concentration in one area of the various health services in all the primary fields, the resultant stimulus to research, the expanding progress of post-graduate instruction through in-service training and refresher courses, and the development of a team philosophy of service that will be carried into home communities.

Staff Writers Given Awards By Press Club

Four Daily Tar Heel staff writers were awarded the Press Club's certificates of merit recently for superior writing during the Winter Quarter.

The entire staff also receive a special award for the quarter's work.

In the feature writing division, Sally Schindel took the award for her stories dealing chiefly with the interesting aspects of the new hospital's operation. She will be the newspaper's new feature editor.

Tom Peacock, assistant sports editor, won the award in the sports-writing division for his coverage of intercollegiate athletics during the Winter Quarter.

The award for the best work on the editorial page last quarter went to Columnist John Gibson. Gibson is a graduate student and instructor in anthropology.

Straight news writing award went to John Jamison for his coverage of the University administration.

Award winners received in addition to the certificate a one-year subscription to Time Magazine.

Cheer Tryouts Two More Days

Newly-elected head cheerleader Jim Fountain will continue tryouts tomorrow and Tuesday to choose the rest of his squad.

Tryouts are held in Kenan Stadium at 4 o'clock.

Fountain said previous experience is not necessary but listed "prerequisites" as "interest, enthusiasm and coordination. Those who can tumble," he added, "are particularly needed."

REPATRIATED American troops troops have begun calling home on special long-distance hookups from Japan—with the Red Cross paying the toll charges. First man to get his call through was Marine Pvt. Louis Pumphrey (above), of Tuscaloosa, Ala., who talked with his sister, Manie Mae Moses.—NEA Radiophoto.

Appropriations Measure Gets Final Approval

RALEIGH, April 25—A budget bill that allows the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill $1,001,000 for permanent improvements passed the final reading on the Senate floor yesterday and became law.

The University's budget request was part of a $14,250,000 proposed institutional appropriation. It passed the required three readings in the House earlier this week.

Some moments of doubt arose on the second reading of the money bill when Sen. Fred McIntyre of Mecklenburg offered an amendment to have the entire appropriation submitted to public referendum.

When this amendment was defeated, McIntyre offered another to slash off $500,000 for the Institute of Government and a smaller amount for alterations to the fourth floor of the Dental School. The second amendment proposed by McIntyre was also defeated.

The University at Chapel Hill actually receives only $773,000. Included in this figure is $500,000 for the Institute of Government, to match a proposed gift of the same amount; $196,000 for the renovation of dormitories, $41,000 for the renovation of Bingham Hall, and $36,000 for the excavation of a basement for Peabody Hall.

For the Division of Health Affairs, the Legislature granted the following: equipment for south wing, Medical School, $50,000; completion of post graduate facilities, Dental School, $143,000; remodeling of third floor area Medical School, $25,000; and completion of equipment, cancer research floor, $10,000.

The new appropriation law does not include the salaries of two Consolidated University officers associated with President Gray's development program. The President had previously asked that these salaries be included in the final budget.

It's BYOB Tonight At Disc Party

Jimmy Capps of "Our Best to You" fame will conduct music under the stars tonight from 8 until 10 o'clock on the lawn in front of Graham Memorial.

The program will consist of requests made by Carolina students last week in the Y Court, Lenoir Hall and at Graham Memorial.

Capps presides over Raleigh station WPTF's popular late evening request program. The program is built around sentimental music and its dedications mainly are for college students.

Capps is originally from Charlotte and began his radio activity as a staff member of WSOC, a Charlotte station. Later he went to Greenville, S. C. and WFBC. It was at Greenville he originated his record show.

Since 1947 Capps has been announcing for WPTF.

Capps was on campus in 1951 to emcee a program of music presented by two local composer-songwriters. Later he presented the same "music under the stars" type program as tonight's for the campus in front of Graham Memorial.

Tonight's presentation is sponsored by the University Club. It's BYOB—Bring Your Own Blanket.

Marine Corps Open To Coeds

Training for Marine Corps women officer candidates will be held again this year at Quantico, Virginia, beginning in June.

Captain Nate Adams, USMC, who is in charge of interviewing candidates for the training program in this area, said the class is known as the Marine Corps Women Officers Training Class. It consists of 12 weeks of special training designed to prepare the individual candidate for the responsible work she will have later on as a commissioned officer in the Corps.

Graduates of the Women Officers Training Class who will recieve commissions as Second Lieutenants, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve will be considered for assignments in such fields as personnel, administration, supply and public information.

"Women Marine Officers are a real part of the Corps." Captain Adams said. "They receive the same pay, allowances, and benefits as do male officers of the same rank. They are now serving on active duty in this country, Europe and Hawaii."

Qualified young women who are still attending college (or are recent graduates), are eligible to enroll in the Marine Corps Women Officers Training Class. Captain Adams pointed out, however, all applications for the June class must be in to Marine Corps headquarters by June 1. Application blanks and further information about the class are available at Marine Corps Officer Procurement Officer, USMC-RS, 1400 Pennsylvania Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Golden Fleece To Celebrate 50th Anniversary Tomorrow With Public Tap Ceremony

The order of the Golden Fleece will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary tomorrow night with a public tapping ceremony in Memorial Hall.

The ceremony will start at 7:15. Doors will be locked at 7:30. Included in the ceremony will be a concert by the University Concert Band conducted by Mr. Earl Slocum. The Fleece has also announced that it will recognize the living member of the Order who has been picked by his fellow Argonauts in a secret ballot as the "Argonaut of the Half Century."

Following the public recognition of the Argonaut of the Half Century, the Fleece will honor the students whom it has chosen for recognition. This will be the first revelation of the names to anyone outside the present active order.

A representative of the Fleece stated that a "fairly large and representative group of students" would be tapped this year during the traditional ceremonies. At this time the officers for the past year, Jason, Hyparchos, Grammateus and Chrystopher, will be announced.

The Fleece is the highest honorary organization on campus and is the oldest group of its type in the country still to engage in public tapping ceremonies. Its membership is limited in no way.

It was fifty years ago, in 1903, that the Fleece was founded by three outstanding faculty members, Dr. Henry Horace Williams, Dr. Eben Alexander and Dr. Edward Kidder Graham. Dr. Alexander, a professor of Greek, suggested that the group adopt the legend of Jason and his quest for the Golden Fleece as the basis for their symbolism. This was done, and its symbolism will still be predominant in the ceremonies this year.

The Order taps students on the basis of their contribution, character and service. The more than 500 students tapped in the past have included Gov. William B. Umstead, President Gordon Gray, Lt.-Gov. Luther Hodges, Kay Kyser, Dr. Frank P. Graham and Thomas Wolfe.

THE REV. TOM EDWARDS

Rev. Edwards Gives Sermon Here Tonight

The YWCA's final University Sermon program will be delivered tonight at 8:30 in Hill Hall by the Rev. Tom T. Edwards of Durham.

Mr. Edwards, who is from St. Philip's Episcopal Church, will speak on "Spiritual Knowledge". He is a native of Winston-Salem and received his B.A. degree at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn.

University Sermons are presented quarterly under the auspices of a Y committee headed by Pat Aydlett. Ministers of wide experience and different denominations are presented each time for the benefit of all UNC students.

Arthur Spaugh will introduce Mr. Edwards, Sue Bullock will read scripture and Marilyn Habel, new YWCA president, will give the invocation. Rosemary Scovil will give the benediction. Organist Dowd Davis will accompany the mixed Glee club in their three presentations, "O Rejoice Ye Christians Loudly," "Adoremus Te," and "God of All Nations."

YW Benefit Ticket Sale Continues Until Tuesday

Tickets to "The Member of the Wedding" will be on sale at regular prices through Tuesday at the Y, Little Shop, University Florist, Town and Campus and Ledbetter-Pickard.

A part of the proceeds from all tickets sold at these places will go to the YWCA. No money received after Tuesday will go to the YWCA.

Fraternities, sororities, dormitory residents, faculty members and local civic organizations are all aiding the YWCA in this fund drive. Rights to ticket sales were given to the Y by Andrew Gutierrez,

Student Solons To Hold Budget Meet Monday

The student legislature will meet tomorrow night for a special session to tie up the budget's loose ends.

Although the budget was approved once last week, an argument over an amendment tacked on by Gene Cook (SP) resulted in reconsideration.

Cook pushed through an amendment to put surplus publication funds back into the student government till. It passed amid great controversy sparked by Cook's blasting the Publications Board.

Later Student Party leaders introduced a motion changing the amendment's wording, but the SP move didn't go through.

Then UP's Sol Cherry introduced a motion to kill the amendment. Ed Gross, secretary - treasurer, spoke for Cherry's move. The vote resulted in a 13-13 tie. Breaking the tie, Speaker Jim McLeod voted for killing the amendment.

SP legislative leaders decided to meet today at 3 o'clock in Roland Parker lounges for a "harmony session." Publications Board representatives will also be present.

Cook's contended that the Publications Board was beginning to take precedence over student government. He said he thought that any money left over from Publication Board operations should go back to the student government funds.

Vesper Service Slated Today By Council

The Intercollegiate Council, a group of students from Duke University, North Carolina College and UNC, will present the vespers program at North Carolina College in Durham this afternoon at 4:30.

A special feature of the program this afternoon will be a chorus formed by students from the three participating schools. This group will present several special musical numbers and lead in the singing of the hymns for the service.

The speaker will be Dr. Martin Goldstein, a German physician now studying at Duke University. He will address the congregation on "The International Protestant Movement."

The Intercollegiate Council has been organized by representatives of several of the religious groups on the campuses of Duke, NCC and UNC in order to promote friendships between these three student bodies.

Seasons Show At Planetarium

"Reasons for the Seasons" is the title of the current presentation in the Morehead Planetarium.

Performances will be given every night of the week at 8:30 and in the afternoons on Saturdays at 3 and on Sundays at 3 and 4 through May 25.

A device to show apparent changing of the earth's axis, as viewed from the sun, is used to illustrate how the seasonal cycle occurs. Four huge earths are projected on the Planetarium dome to enable a complete survey of the periodic relationship between Earth and Sun. The celestial equator and ecliptic (apparent path of the Sun) are actually superimposed on the Planetarium sky to illustrate the progressive changes which bring about the seasons.

29 Trustees In Without Debate Over Hill, Et Al

RALEIGH, April 25—The General Assembly has formally elected 29 Trustees for the University of North Carolina and very little was said about the prominent names ignored in the selection.

The state legislature met in joint session Friday and listened to the names that had come from the Joint Committee of University Trustees. Then without any floor bickering, it accepted all 29 names and disbanded.

Every assemblyman voted "aye" but two. Sen. Edwin Pate sounded a "present" since, as he explained later, his name was on the list. Rep. Richard Sanders of Durham also sounded "present."

Sanders said he couldn't approve of the list because it contained neither the name of John Sprunt Hill, Durham industrialist and University benefactor, nor Watts Hill, his son.

John Sprunt Hill is a Trustee who was not nominated. Sanders said the elder Hill had not sought renomination; instead, he would have liked to see his son Watts on the board. However, it was George W. Hill not Watts whose name was put before the nominating committee.

Last Tuesday The Daily Tar Heel devoted an entire issue to the method by which Trustees are chosen and why it should be changed. The papers were distributed to all legislators and that day a bill was introduced to give the governor power to appoint five members. Its originator said, however, his bill was not because of the current fracas, that it could have been introduced last session as well as this one.

The Old Professor Too!

Dorsey Brothers Together With Anthony For Concert

By John Jamison
and
Louis Kraar

An unexpected million dollar quartet—the two fabulous Dorseys, Ray Anthony and Kay Kyser—yesterday treated a packed Memorial Hall throng of German Clubbers and their dates to the star-studdedest entertainment they're likely to see in a long time.

The first definite public announcement of a Jimmy-Tommy Dorsey merger was made to the audience, clearing up some long-standing rumors.

The concert as billed "Tommy Dorsey and His Orchestra," but with the help of a scheduling coincidence, the big four got together and seemed to enjoy the reunion as much as the audience did.

TOMMY DORSEY

Anthony, the young man with a horn, was fresh from an engagement at Duke and the horn was still warm.

Kyser, as a result of someone's brainstorm and a hasty phone call, drifted on stage in a gardener's getup during one of Dorsey's smoother numbers and broke up the show.

After a dozen or so wisecrcaks between "the old professor" and "the sentimental gentleman," during which it developed that one of the Dorsey vocalists, Gordon Polk, was one of Kyser's Town Criers

(See DORSEY, page 4)

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — WALT DEAR
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

NEWS STAFF—John Jamison, Louis Kraar, Richard Creed, Ken Sanford, Ellen Woods, J. D. Wright, Sally Schindel, Jess Nettles, Tom Neal Jr., Jennie Lynn, Joyce Adams.

News Ed. — Bob Slough | Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable, Tom Witty | Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Office Mgr. — Buzzy Shull | Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray, Jane Carter | Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dorman Cordell, Dan Duke, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

SPORTS STAFF—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Al Long, Dick Crouch, Benny Stewart, Wilbur Jones.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Cornell Wright, Ruffin Woody, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

The Last Pitch

We turn over The Daily Tar Heel to a great friend and a proven newspaperman this Tuesday, Rolfe Neill. For the future the campus can only have great expectations.

For the past, your editor can only be grateful to the campus and particularly to the staff.

We wish all 5,000 students could be an editor just for a few weeks. It is an energizing experience. You write a few words and the next day you are swamped with debates about the virtues of your views. You get a whirlwind of criticism, an occasional compliment.

We find, for instance, that The Daily Tar Heel in the last five months has been "the best in six years," and at the same time, "the worst since 1949," according to two conflicting student opinions.

The best part of the job is that you get another chance each day. Your paper is about people and ideas. There are no better subjects; there is no better profession to look forward to, we believe.

To those contributors on the editorial page,—to the columnists, the letter writers, the occasional editorialists, we are thankful. To the news reporters, to the sportswriters ,to the society reporters, to the members of the business staff (from subscription to advertising to bill collecting to circulation) we are proud of your service throughout the year.

To Rolfe Neill, Jim Schenck, Biff Roberts, Carolyn Reichard, Don Hogg, Dennie Schoeppe, Nina Gray and Jane Carter, to our chief photographer, Cornell Wright, and our night editor, Dorman Cordell, to these staff leaders we are deeply appreciative.

For those irate students who haven't otten their paper on time or who haven't even gotten their paper because of print shop problems, we apologize and feel sure that the future holds brighter solutions for these problems.

As the maker and moulder of campus opinion, The Daily Tar Heel is a privileged and happy contributor to the campus scene. We hope that we have respected that privilege.

The Deserted Village

While we are alarmed by the enrollment situation here at the University, we sympathize, in many ways, with Roy Armstrong, our Director of Admissions. Since World War II, enrollment figures have steadily slumped, and some of the small colleges have made increases, in many instances at UNC's expense. But, due to a renewed awareness on the part of University officials, we are now on the first leg of what promises to be an upswing in our enrollment fortunes.

And it is in this uphill battle that we sympathize with Mr. Armstrong. There are many reasons for this.

1) His office is understaffed, sufficient for a college half the size, abounding with the secretarial brigade and short on the administrative end. Parents wait interminably in the hot, dull outer office, feeling very much out of place and fed up with the impersonal and lugubrious attitude of the University.

2) As Mr. Armstrong treads the Rotary Club circuit, the various local panjandrums, college men of 25 years ago, needle him about the Communist menace in Chapel Hill, the Negro menace in Chapel Hill, and any other menace they can think of. So, Mr. Armstrong, unable to provide satisfactory answers, (and there are no "satisfactory" answers to these questions), fails to get students.

3) The University is not in close contact with the graduating Seniors in the high schools. While other colleges are wooing these students, UNC, often appearing to have its head in the air, and seemingly afflicted with a "you come to me" attitude, is effectively sitting upon its colossal posterior, purring about the number of football scholarships it is offering, and hoping to save the day with the Morehead scholarships which give so much to so few.

To those in the administration who are desirous of doing something about the enrollment problem, other than lowering the standards and competing with East Carolina and similar schools we would like to offer the following specific suggestions:

1) Increase the Admissions staff.

2) Contact, with appropriate literature, every graduating Senior in North Carolina, and personally speak to those in the top ten per cent of each senior class.

3) Organize, in each county, a UNC Alumni Teacher Association, for the express purpose of encouraging UNC graduates who are teaching, to speak with promising students in their high schools.

4) Award at least one scholarship of modest amount, on a competitive basis, in each county. In this manner, keen competition can be assured, since the geographical unit is a small one. The Morehead scholarships do little good in this regard, because the scholarship districts are too large, and local inter-school competition (involving students, faculty and principals) is missing.

5) Establish a Student Committee on Enrollment for the purpose of contacting prominent students in the high schools. The importance of having student leaders on the campus to manifest an interest in prospective freshmen is obvious.

It is our view that the University's efforts to maintain high standards, depend, in the last analysis, upon its ability to foster and receive a substantial excess of applications for admissions. So long as more students make application than it is possible to admit, high standards can be maintained with no great effort. But when applications fall, standards tend to fall, acting as a compensating mechanism to maintain the enrollment.

We sympathize with Mr. Armstrong. He has a difficult job.

Welcome Home

The seniors of this year are the last class that knew Dr. Frank Porter Graham. Succeeding college generations haven't had that privilege.

Yet even an entering freshman knows something about Dr. Frank. He can almost intuitively sense what Dr Frank meant to Carolina. He knows that under his leadership, UNC became famous as a liberal, progressive, center of learning.

The students are glad to have you back, Dr. Frank, this time for more than just an hour visit, but for a couple of days.

A. Z. F. Wood Jr.

The Perilous Hour

Fellow students! Hearken to me in this time of great peril! The preservation of the American Way of Life which we so greatly cherish lies, in great part, in our hands. It lies in our hands because the great University of North Carolina is influential throughout our fair Southland and, indeed, throughout our beloved country. We, as students, as enlightened men, must be one of the guiding hands in this perilous hour.

You are well aware of the issue at hand. You are aware that an insidious invidious Red monster is slithering amongst us, ready at the first opportunity to spring up and swallow us whole and annihilate our precious Way of Life. And you know how subtly this slimy Serpent, this spawn of Satan, works. You know that it grabs the minds, the undeveloped and unsolidified minds, of our fair youth and thrusts its odious philosophy upon them, breaking down cherished traditions and cultural mores. This monster manifests itself in the obvious form of confessed Communists, tools of Moscow; and it also manifests itself in the form of the so-called liberal, the pink, the man whose philosophy is distorted rather than completely mutilated: the man who dares to think that there are any flaws in our Way of Life, who questions age-old traditions.

Now, fellow students, this liberal has shown an ability to get away with it up north, and until recently he was no more than a nuisance down here in our fair Southland. But now he has become more than a nuisance! He is corrupting our youth and placing a rotten fringe around some of our great Southern universities, including, I'm sad to say, this one. He is successfully encouraging too many people to vote Republican. He is slandering that great red-blooded All-American organization: the Ku Klux Klan. And worst of all, he is corrupting our Negroes!

Now, fellow students, we in the South love our Negroes, but we know their limitations. Don't be persuaded by any of these northern professors that Negroes are merely different from us, that they are human beings too. Anyone can see as plainly as the nose on his face that they are inferior. Else, why did the good Lord make them black? Anyone having the misfortune to sit close to one of them on a bus knows they smell bad. Anyone picking up a paper sees concrete evidence in rape cases and the like that their bestial desires cannot and will not be curbed. Anyone who lives in the South and who has had any dealings with them knows that they are irresponsible and uneducated and mentally retarded.

These Negroes came originally from Africa where they ran around half-naked and knew not Jesus Christ. How can anyone be equal to the great Anglo-Saxon race who not only didn't accept Christ but who didn't even know him?

Now, our great forefathers soon converted them, and they are now as a rule Christians, but such undignified Christians with their spirituals and camp-meetings and other uncivilized functions.

Fellow students, our Negroes are to be treated with kindness, for they are ignorant and uncivilized. We must love our Negroes and forgive them, for they know not what they do. Like our faithful dogs, they are to be cared for and tamed and kept from becoming vicious.

No, our Negroes are not to blame, for they know no better. It is the liberal who would corrupt them and fill their poor minds with ideas that they can't understand, and though they don't understand they will follow the liberal and the atheist like the rats followed the Pied Piper.

Yes, the liberal and the freethinker, like the Communist and the Atheist must be rooted out, must be stamped out. And we must act now. We must wholeheartedly support the Orange County Presbytery. We must support Senator McCarthy and Senator McCarran. We must endeavor to get that great American Thomas Hamilton out of jail. We must support that great trustee John Washington Clark, for he is a true friend of the University and of the whole South. Yes, friends, we must act now before it is too late and the Negroes want to marry our daughters.

"We Killed 'Em In Europe, Boss'

English Club

The $5 Prize

From time to time essays have been published in this column which have a distinctive and intentional similarity, and the one for today adds to this list.

They are called by English literature students "Characters," the name being self-explanatory. "Characters" in the form we have imitated are quite old in our language; for our 17th century English ancestors they were well-loved. They epidomize an elegant and witty compactness of expression which has largely been lost today.

If you don't believe it, try one yourself with what small training you've had at the hands of the Freshman English teaching staff.

The form of the "Character" runs about as follows: (1) a brief definition of a popular vice; (2) a series of descriptive or narrative items illustrating the vice in everyday conduct (make it realistic, dramatic, if possible); (3) a summary picture of the whole idea in one sentence. Its tone should be clever, amusing, not sarcastic or bitter. Figure out what urbanity means, and apply it. The sentences should be rhythmical, balanced, antithetical.

If you've got the nerve or patience to finish one (instead of catching that late movie), we'd like to see it in print. Is shouldn't be over 200 words long.

We bet you the unsuccessfulness of our own department you can't do one. We dare you. Stick it in an envelope and mail it to J. B. Stroup, English Department. If we get over ten of them by May 9, we'll pay $5 (CASH) to the best one in our judgment. No graduate students allowed. Here's a model. Scrimmage with it!—JBS.

A Philistine

Is a blind man that is too blind to want to be otherwise; he makes a cult of mediocrity and takes affront at any kind of distinction in others. He cannot join those on the heights above him, and the ones wishing to lift him up he prefers to pull down than have them think they have helped him to a better position. He is cursed in being hopelessly ordinary and possessed only those traits and desires which make the masses what they are. He is skeptical of individuality and is himself anonymous. Of all men he is the most easily predictable and the least likely to surprise, for in his thoughts and acts he always follows the rest of his herd. He scorneth any sign of refinement in other men and is unfortunate in that he is sincere in his opinion. Beauty doth not exist for him and he is resentful because others see something which they call by this name. If he is practical it is only because he is concerned with practical things. In the end he loses, but this does not matter to him, for he never discovers what it is he has missed. He believes the greatness and welfare of the state depend on the extent of its wealth; learning is a pastime in which he sees nor profit nor food. While he eats he starves himself; he is never hungry for knowledge because he has never developed an appetite for it. His only books are his ledgers and his hands are more useful than his brain. His life is chiefly spent vegetating and breeding. It not difficult for him to attain happiness, for his conception of it is simple and he is too ignorant to be unhappy. In short, he is a sleeping man, into whose dark room the light will never approach to wake him, for the door is always locked.

Yr mst Obt, Hmbl & Dvtd Srvt,
Laelius

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Due to an oversight the feature appearing in the Friday, April 24th issue of The Daily Tar Heel entitled "The Silent Generation" was not properly acknowledged. The article was a reprint from the Louisville CourierJournal.

From Father To Son

Editor's Note: This was written by a New Jersey father to his son upon entering Carolina in March, 1950.

As a freshman at Chapel Hill you will soon begin to realize that Tar Heel is something more than just a nickname for students at the University of North Carolina and the citizens of that state. As Old Glory stands for more than a colored rag, but is the flag of our nation's hope and ideals, so the label of Tar Heel means that a man is imbued with the finest principles of honor and loyalty, courage and liberty, which are the essence of the great South.

When you hear the Rebel yell, you hear the true voice of America today and every understanding Yankee knows that the devotion and the spirit of the South contribute nobly to the character of the United States.

That Matter Of Surplus

The proposal toput all profits or surpluses derived from any student agencies operating under the student budget into the general fund could rock the present financial system from its present foundations and strike a deathblow to the intelligent and honest operation of student funds.

Introduced by Gene Cook, Student Party legislator, the amendment to the budget would take all of next year surpluses from all student agencies and put them in the general student surplus fund which now amounts to over $10,000.

This would mean that student agencies in the future could not operate at the beginning of the year unless they went to the Legislature. Student fees don't begin to trickle in until the middle of the quarter and there must be some operating capital for an agency to carry on its initial business.

We seriously doubt whether student agencies would have any surpluses at the end of their financial year. They would adopt the attitude, "Let's gobble up that surplus; if we don't use it, the Legislature will grab it."

Cook and other SP members became concerned about this matter out of resentment to alleged "isolationism" and "power over the Legislature" attitudes on the part of the Publications Board. Further, they believe that a PB reserve fund, now amounting to $17,700 is much too large; that in future years the board will go hog wild in saving up funds, and that the Legislature has no effective control over the board.

As a non-profit organization, The Daily Tar Heel and the Yackety Yack sometimes gain a surplus or wind up the end of the year with a loss. Last year's gain a surplus or wind up the end of the year with a Daily Tar Heel lost over $4,000.

Reserve funds, usually called "untouchables" are emergency funds or are used for long range permanent improvements project. An operation as large as The Daily Tar Heel must have an adequate reserve fund. If we believe that the students of future years as well as students now deserve the best in economical utility of their money, then the Publications Board, as an elected agency of the student body, together with the Legislature, has a fundamental duty to look tomards future as well as taking care of the present.

What will the Legislature do with the money if they should get it? Will it have the ability to save it, or will it dip into it whenever they think it necessary? The temptation is great to snip off reserve funds. We doubt seriously whether the Legislature will resist such a temptation.

We would advise legislators to thoroughly investigate the problem. The matter is of great moment. It involves thousands of dollars and can set a danerous precedent for future Legislators to follow.

The PB And The Legislature

The Student Legislature has a voting representative on the Publications Board. Next year the Secretary-Treasurer of student government will be a voting member on the board.

The Constitution requires that the Publications Board make a report to the Legislature and make any special reports that the Legislature might deem necessary. The Legislature approves budgets submitted by the board, and is the final authority when it comes to student finances.

The board this year has made an earnes effort to cooperate with the Legislature. We note that the finance and budget committees of the Lgislature found no "isolationist sentiment" on the board or any "power-hungry motives." The insults heaped upon the board by some vituperant legislators are unfounded, we believe. As a cooperating arm of student government, the board will continue to serve in the best interests of students.

Next year, the board will have, among others, a former legislator, Joe Raff, a representative of the Legislature, unnamed to date, and Ed Starnes, a former legislator. This year, Tom McDonald and Jack Stilwell served on the board. Both were in the Legislature.

The Publications Board, we are sure, will be happy to get suggestions on how it can better represent students, and how it can better handle money.

A Salute To Health

We were last on the list in the matter of draft rejections in World War II. The health of the young men of North Carolina was in bum condition.

Hospitalwise, we were way behind other states. Basically, our health program needed a momentous shot in the arm.

Thursday and Friday, we took official notice of the life-giving transfusion made to the almost decayed medical program in North Carolina. The Daily Tar Heel salutes the large staff of administrators, teachers, and staffers of the Medical School, Dental School, Nursing School, and hospital and other allied parts of the new Health Center. We salute those citizens who initiated the new health program. This is the time to look forward to a healthier, happier people in the Old North State.

Wake Forest's Brown Shuts Out Carolina Nine, 2-0

Tar Heels Strand Ten Runners In Season's Second Big Four Loss

WAKE FOREST, April 25—(Special)—Pitcher Bobby Brown held North Carolina to seven singles today to hand the Tar Heels their first shutout of the year, 2-0, in a Big Four baseball game.

Carolina hurler Bill Lore gave the Deacons only six hits in taking the loss, but one was a home run by first baseman Bud Smith that was enough to give Wake Forest the win.

VETERAN LEW WORSHAM, Oakmont, Pa. pro, shot a 71 Friday to take a one stroke lead in the Las Vegas Tournament of Champions. This score combined with his first round 68 gave him a 36-hole total of 139.

Smith hit his homer leading off in the third, and then the Deacs added one more in the fourth with two outs on a triple by Luther McKeel and an infield error.

Carolina left 10 men on base including two in the eight and two in the ninth. In the eighth there was some dissent on the Carolina bench over a third strike called on Bobby Williams, and in the ninth the whole Carolina team stormed on the field when Connie Gravitte was called out sliding into third base.

Lore was effective, walking only one man, with two Wake Forest hits of the infield variety.

The win gives Brown a 1-1 record against Carolina this year.

The Tar Heels now have a 2-2 record in the Big Four and hold third place. Duke defeated N. C. State today, 22-3, to tie for first with the Wolfpack. Carolina Conference record is 8-2.

Carolina	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Henning, 1b	4	0	1	7	0	0
Lloyd, 2b	4	0	0	7	2	0
Williams, 3b	3	0	0	2	4	1
White, lf	4	0	1	1	0	0
Frye, c	4	0	0	2	0	0
Gravitte, cf	4	0	1	3	0	0
Keller, rf	3	0	1	0	0	0
Dale, ss	4	0	1	1	2	1
Lore, p	4	0	2	0	3	0
Totals	34	0	7	24	11	2
Wake Forest	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Signore, 2b	3	0	0	4	4	0
Harris, ss	4	0	0	3	0	1
Holt, rf	4	0	0	1	0	0
Floyd, 3b	4	0	0	2	1	1
McKeel, cf	4	1	2	1	0	0
Liptak, c	3	0	0	6	1	0
R. Brown, lf	3	0	1	4	0	0
Smith, 1b	3	1	2	6	1	0
B. Brown, p	2	0	1	0	4	0
Totals	30	2	6	27	11	1

North Carolina 000 000 000—0
Wake Forest 001 100 00x—2

Errors: Floyd, Dale, Williams; Runs batted in: Smith; Three base hits: McKeel; Home runs: Smith; Sacrifices: Brown; Double plays: Lore, Dale and Henning; Left on bases: Wake Forest, 6, North Carolina 10; Base on balls—off: Lore,1, Brown 3; Struck out—by Lore, 3, Brown 6; Losing pitcher: Lore; Winning pitcher: Brown; Time of game: 2:00; Attendance: 632; Umpires: McKenzie and Dees.

JV Golfers Hold Match With Durham

The UNC jayvee golf team played their first match of the season Friday against golfers from Durham High School. It was a practice match so no official score was kept.

Enjoying a burst of warm weather, the Tar Heel golfers turned in some good scores nad it is hoped that they will be able to carry on in the same tradition that the varsity team has been doing. Playing for the Tar Heels were Phil Kreis, Joe Cornell, Jimmy Sykes, Gaither Walser, Sammy Reeves, Eddie Pell, Eric Jonas, and Charles Erdman.

The first official match for the JV team will be held at Chapel Hill next Tuesday against Elon College.

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

UNC Teams Schedule Big Week

A full round of sports activity is scheduled here this week for North Carolina teams in all sports.

The big week starts Monday with Wake Forest's golfers coming here, the tennis team meeting William and Mary here and Augusta Military Academy's lacrosse team competing on Navy Field.

Baseball will be spotlighted with the Big Four games with N. C. State and Duke here and the Wolfpack at Raleigh. The track team meets Duke and the tennis team takes on powerful Rollins in other featured events on the week's calendar.

The schedule:

Monday—Golf: Wake Forest at Chapel Hill; Tennis: William and Mary at Chapel Hill; Lacross: Augusta Military at Chapel Hill.

Tuesday—Baseball: N. C. State at Chapel Hill.

Thursday — Baseball: Duke at Chapel Hill; Tennis: Rollins at Chapel Hill; Golf: Southern Intercollegiates at Athens, Ga.

Friday—Golf: Southern Intercollegiates at Athens, Ga.

Saturday—Track: Duke at Chapel Hill; Golf: Southern Intercollegiates at Athens, Ga.; Baseball: N. C. State at Raleigh; Tennis: Virginia at Charlottesville, Va.

Carolina Golf Team To Play Wake Forest Here Tomorrow

Carolina's undefeated golf team will be seeking its eighth straight dual match victory at Finley golf course tomorrow at 1:30 against Wake Forest.

The match should be one of the hardest of the season for the Tar Heels. Wake Forest was runner-up to Carolina in the Conference tournament last year at Winston-Salem and handed the Tar Heels their only loss last year at Raleigh,

The match will also serve as a warm-up for the upcoming Southern Intercollegiates at Athens, Ga. Carolina will leave for that tournament Tuesday afternoon.

In tomorrow's match Coach Chuck Erickson will probably go along with the same team that has kept Carolina undefeated. Bob Black will play number one, and Bill Williamson number two.

Rounding out the starting lineup will be Billy Thornton, Jim Ferree, Billy Ford, and George Mountcastle or John Frazier.

TEACHERS WANTED
Minimum 1952-1954 salaries anticipated for degree teachers without previous experience: bachelor's $2,700 and up, master's $3,000 and up, doctor's $3,300 and up. Generous increase for each year of previous or subsequent public school experience in or out of state to much higher maximum. Excellent retirement program and many other advantages including continuing contract or permanent tenure legislation. Not "Can I afford to teach in Florida," but "Can I afford not to teach in Florida?" White teachers only. Free registration. Write for application form. Tell your friends.
TEACHER PLACEMENT SERVICE
1430 Palmer Tr. Jacksonville 7, Fla.
"FLORIDA POSITIONS ONLY"

Carolina Caravan

Rival Coaches Praise Tar Heels For Blue-White Game Performance

Much better ball handling and timing, with fumbling and offsides penalties held to a minimum, marked improvement in blocking, hard hitting, and fair ability at moving the ball, were among the brighter aspects of the University of North Carolina's spring Blue-White football practice game last Saturday.

On the other side of the picture, coaches were disappointed in line backing and tackling generally, also pass completions for which there was an extenuating circumstance, Marshall Newman's injured thumb. They also agreed that the athletes could have advantageously used more practice time than the 20 days allotted by the NCAA and Southern Conference.

Coaches of rival teams who saw the game were complimentary although they may have just been showing good manners. Coach Bill Murray of Duke volunteered that the team certainly handled the ball better that at last year's spring game. Flo Worrell, the halfback from Wilmington, was one of the players who impressed him most. Coach Horace Hendrickson of N. C. State predicted the Tar Heels would come up with a fine team next fall.

Figures show that quarterback Carmen Annillo took running honors for the day with 63 yards in nine rushes and the longest jaunt, 36 yards. He also got away once for 29. Veteran Billy Williams hustled for 33 once in collecting 52 in seven.

Fullback George Wallin, who impressed the writers, managed 60 yards in 12 attempts, with a 15-yard excursion his longest.

Doug Farmer, a freshman and recent enrollee, was the quarterback surprise package with 48 yards in seven tries.

The White team completed four passes in nine attempts for 51 yards with Annillo connecting three of them, Farmer one. Dick Starner was the outstanding receiver, nailing three.

The quarterbacking was generally pleasant, with Lou Britt rounding out the quartet working under the center on the two teams. The spectators did not get a chance to see Newman, regarded the number one man, work at quarterback on account of his injury. He ran twice at halfback, for 12 and three yards respectively, and also played some on defense.

Speaking of Newman, our face is still red over an inexplicable boner we pulled in last week's Carolina Caravan. We are in our second year of professional and personal acquaintance with this young man, know him and his folks well, wrote the first story about him coming here on a Charlie Justice scholarship, typed his name probably hundreds of times last season when he was our team's field general as a freshman. Yet last week we blithely called him Marshall Edwards (rather than Newman) and here and there it got in print that way.

Most of the boys on the sports desks noticed the slip and, having made such bobbles themselves when gremlins parched on their typewriters, corrected it without a murmur. One was a little less charitable. Himself notoriously impeccable in his journalistic pursuits, (you rascal, you), he went out of his way to call attention of his readers to the error, shamfully exposed us to all the world.

Billy Thornton, ace Tar Heel golfer who earlier this season blasted a brilliant 67 at Finley in horrible weather, showed up late for his assignment against N. C. State the other day . . . . He had been delayed as the result of a fraternity picture. . . . Knocked out of the match, he and his friends picked up sides, played a pleasure round, and Billy shot a 69, which would have been low medal in the varsity session.

Tennis Team Beats Davidson For Sixteenth Straight Win

By Vardy Buckalew

The Carolina tennis team won its sixteenth straight match of the season without a loss yesterday afternoon as they defeated Davidson 7-2 on the home courts.

The Tar Heels made a clean sweep of the singles but dropped two of the doubles matches as Coach Kenfield experimented with some new combinations. Pete Green and Bob Payne defeated Lacy Keesler and John Bremer in the number one doubles.

Del Sylvia again played some of his best tennis of the season as he defeated Keesler, Davidson's number one man. He won the match in straight sets and only lost six games to the Davidson man. The scores were 6-4, 6-2.

The rest of the team only lost nineteen games in winning all of the singles matches in straight sets. Herb Browne won his first set 6-0 and only lost two games in winning the second set.

Carolina lost the last two doubles as Joe Dudley and Corky Clark defeated Bruce Gustafson and Ronnie Kerdasha in the number two spot, while Barclay Gordon and Bill Izlar lost to George Snead and Green in the number three position.

Both Tar Heel combinations won their first sets 6-2, but then something happened and both were defeated in the last two sets as easily as they had won the first.

Carolina will play its second to last home match of the season Monday afternoon when they meet William and Mary at 3:30.

The summaries:

Singles—Sylvia (UNC) defeated Keesler (D), 6-4, 6-2; Bradford (UNC) defeated Bremer (D), 6-4, 6-1; Browne (UNC) defeated Clark (D), 6-0, 6-2; Payne (UNC) defeated Dudley (D), 6-1, 6-2; Thompson (UNC) defeated Snead (D), 6-4, 6-2; Green (UNC) defeated Bivins (D), 6-1, 6-2.

Doubles — Green and Payne (UNC) defeated Keesler and Bremer (D), 6-4, 4-6, 6-0; Dudley and Clark (D) defeated Gustafson and Kerdasha (UNC), 2-6, 6-1, 6-1; Snead and Green (D) defeated Gordon and Izlar (UNC), 2-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Jayvees Win

Charlie Aycock held the Wake Forest jayvees to three hits and two runs today to take his third straight win, 12-2.

Mac Harding led an 11-run Tar Heel third inning outburst with a homer.

MURALS

Tomorrow's Softball

4:00—Field 1, Zetes-1 vs. ZBT; Field 2, Phi Delt-2 vs. Lamb Chi; Field 3, Phi Delt-1 vs. Chi Psi-2; Field 4, Zetes-2 vs. DKE-1; Sig Nu-3 vs. Pi Kap Phi.

5:00—Field 1, Phi Delt Chi vs. Theta Chi; Field 2, Beta vs. Kap Psi; Field 3, Sig Chi vs. Phi Kap Sig; Field 4, SPE vs. Delt Psi; Field 5, Kap Sig vs. DU.

Tennis

5:00—Med School-4 vs. Connor; Med School-3 vs. (Law School-2 or Med School-2).

Horseshoes

7:00—Delt Psi vs. Phi Gam-4; Zetes-2 vs. Lamb Chi.

7:40—Pi Lamb-2 vs. Phi Delt-1; Beta-1 vs. Phi Delt-2.

8:20—Theta Chi-2 vs. Kap Sig-1; Sig Nu-3 vs. Sig Nu-1.

Unbeaten Tar Heel Swimmers Receive Awards At Banquet

Three All-American swimmers were honored, along with their teammates, here this week.

The undefeated University of North Carolina team was feted at a banquet by the Athletic Association and Don Evans, senior from Charlotte, was awarded the Dick Jamerson Trophy as the Outstanding Swimmer during the 1952-53 season.

Rising juniors Jack Edwards of Brookline, Mass., and Warren Heeman of Baltimore, were elected co-captains of the 1953-54 team, succeeding Evans and Stan Tinkham of Washington, D. C.

Six seniors were awarded plaques as members of the Tar Heels' undefeated teams. The group consisted of Buddy Baarcke, Barry Wall, Buddy Heins, Evans and Tinkham, who swam on Bob Ousley's undefeated freshman team, and remained undefeated in three varsity campaigns, winning two Southern Conference titles and one co-championship along with Joe Kelso who had three years of competition.

Evans, an all-American swimmer, won Southern Conference titles in the 220- and 440-yard freestyle, and set 150-yard individual medley, 200-yard breaststroke and 220-yard freestyle marks. In the National Intercollegiate swimming championships this year, he was third in the individual medley and was a member of the 400-yard freestyle relay team which finished third.

Edwards set a new Southern Conference record in the 100-yard freestyle as a sophomore this season and was a member of the record-breaking 300 medley relay aggregation. He swam on the NCAA third place freestyle relay team. He is considered one of the most promising young swimmers in the South.

Heeman also turned in a brilliant record as a sophomore, placing sixth in the NCAA championships in the 220-yard backstroke.

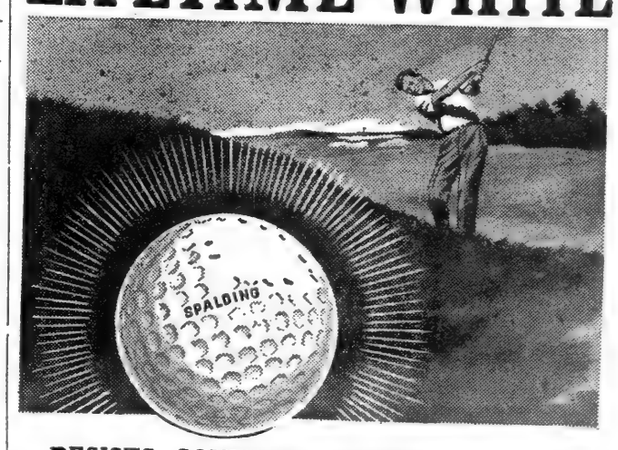
PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre
3 MILES WEST of CAROLINA INN • HIGHWAY 54
TONIGHT and MONDAY
WILLIAM HOLDEN · EDMOND O'BRIEN · ALEXIS SMITH
TURNING POINT

THAT HEAD DESERVES A ROOF OVER IT—OR

he who hesitates sleeps in the station

Once a Smart Sophomore named Herman trekked to a Big City for a Big Weekend. So did thousands of other People. (Big convention in town.) Thus, arriving at the hotel of his Choice, Herman found a Line stretching from here to There up to the Room Clerk. He was dismayed to hear the clerk bellow to Number One Man in Line: "only ten rooms left." Herman counted the Heads in line. Thirty heads.

Grey cells seething, our Hero detached himself from the Group and scurried to the Western Union desk across the lobby. "I want to send a Fast Telegram to the room clerk," he said. "Where?" queried the Girl. "That one, right there," said he, pointing. The Girl nodded . . .



Two hours later, refreshed by a Lavish Dinner, Herman again ambled into the Lobby. No crowd. Confidently he confronted the Man Behind the Register. "You have a room for me," he said, "I wired ahead for a reservation . . ."

A very Nice Room it was, too.

Lining up reservations is an easy Trick for Telegrams . . . and one they do well. They are equally efficient at tapping the Resources of a Reluctant Parent, setting up a Meaningful Meeting, flashing Good News about Grades, or saying Something Nice to Someone Nifty. For any-type Communique, your words Mean More by Western Union.

Spalding Air-Flight Golf Balls
THE CAROLINA SPORT SHOP

New! SPALDING GOLF BALLS ARE LIFETIME WHITE

RESISTS SCUFFING, BRUISING, STAINS

SPALDING does it again! Adds a spectacular new permanent whiteness to the game's greatest golf balls.

New LIFETIME WHITE, exclusive with Spalding, is the brightest, whitest white . . . the toughest, highest gloss white of any ball you ever played.

Proven by "torture tests," Spalding LIFETIME WHITE resists scuffing, bruises, stains . . . won't yellow or chip . . . keeps its sparkling sheen for life.

SPALDING
Sets the Pace in Golf

There's a Spalding golf ball for every game and pocketbook. See your golf professional or dealer.

NOW PLAYING
Carolina

BUY NOW!

MOTHER'S DAY CARDS
— NOW ON DISPLAY —
LEDBETTER — PICKARD

SUNDAY MAY 10 IS THE DAY

SPONSORS FOR THE ANNUAL ROSE BALL, given by Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity at the Carolina Inn last night are shown above. Music was furnished by The Southerners of Wake Forest. Top row, left to right: Miss Lydia McKethan, Raeford, with Al Cole, Raeford, president of the fraternity; Miss Zellion Tucker, Bennettsville, S. C., with Ernest McInnis, Clio, S. C., chaplain; Miss Jean Denny, Raleigh, with Bill Bason, North Wilkesboro, treasurer. Bottom row; Miss Nancy Mackie, Granite Falls, with Elmon Russell, Albemarle, warden; Miss Pauline Smith, Durham, with Al Strauss, Chapel Hill, social chairman; Miss Martha Porcher, Pinopolis, S. C., with Jim Gulledge, Moncks Corner, S. C., historian and Miss Deme trial Thompson, Lumberton, with Jerry Campbell, Taylorsville, secretary.

MRS. EDNA B. COOGAN, of Philadelphia, Pa., weeps tears of joy as she gazes at the Purple Heart medal awarded her son after she learned that he has been released by the Communists at Panmunjom. Pfc. James J. Coogan was twice wounded in combat before he was captured by the Reds.—NEA Telephoto.

Plenty Going On Here; Groups List Notices Of Coming Events

Y, UN and Frosh Camp

The Freshman Camp Publicity Committee will meet at 3 p.m. tomorrow in the Y office to make plans for a camp brochure. The Freshman Camp nominating Committee will meet at 4 p.m. tomorrow at the Y to consider nominations for a permanent chairman of the 1953 camp. The UN Committee will meet at 5 p.m. tomorrow on the second floor of the Y. The YMCA Finance Committee will meet at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the Y office.

Deputation

Gil Marsh, retiring YMCA president will head a deputation to the Butner Youth Center this afternoon. The group will meet at the Y at 1:45 and will return to the campus before 6 o'clock. Transportation is available for those who wish to go.

Westminster Fellowship

Dr. P. Macon Cheek of the English Department will speak on "Medieval Mysticism" tonight at the Westminster Fellowship of the Covenant Presbyterian Church. This will be the fifth lecture in a series on "The History of the Church." Supper will be served at 6 p.m. and Dr. Cheek will speak afterwards.

Presbyterian Church

Dr. Thomas A. Schaffer will preach at both services this morning at the First Presbyterian Church. The Sunday School class will meet for breakfast and a study period at 9:30 at the manse. This evening the program will be given in preparation for the Presbyterian student group's part in the mock UN General Assembly to be held here. Supper tonight is at 6 o'clock in the annex.

Canterbury Club

The Canterbury Club is presenting a church play as part of its program tonight. The play will be directed by Edgar Daniels and will feature members of the Playmakers. The meeting will be at 6 p.m.

Baptist

Dr. Samuel Tilden Habel of the Baptist Church will preach on "Let God Get to You" this morning at 11 o'clock. The Chancel Choir, directed by Miss Lena Mae Williams, will sing an anthem. Dr. Preston Epps will lead the Sunday School discussion.

Unitarian

The Unitarian Fellowship will hold its annual business meeting tonight at 8:30 in the lounge of the YWCA. Committee reports will be heard and an election of officers held.

Methodist Young Adults

The Young Adult group of the Methodist Church will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Wesley Lounge. Dr. J. P. Harland will be the speaker.

For Flowers For Gifts
Its UNIVERSITY FLORIST
Robbins Bldg.

Gals Delight —
267 Ways
To Torment
Men —
Whoopee!
See
The Unfair
Sex
At
THE INTIMATE
BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Express Yourself

Editor:

I see in The Daily Tar Heel of April 21 the culmination of a trend which has become more and more apparent in that newspaper of late, and which I feel should be brought to light and corrected. One of the stories in that issue was entitled "Trustee John Clark Boasts Stormy Record," and a more opinionated story I have seldom seen.

I wish to make it clear that I do not like John Clark, I feel that segregation is un-christian, unethical, and barbaric generally, and I maintain firmly that The Daily Tar Heel is entitled to that opinion also. They are obligated, however, to keep within certain bounds in expressing their opinions. It has long been a principle of journalistic writing that opinions, when they appear in newspapers, are either labeled as editorials, or have a byline so that the author of the story may be ascertained and responsibility determined as a matter of record, if for no other reason. I feel that The Daily Tar Heel has violated that well-founded principle more and more frequently of late, and that a cessation of the practice, or an explanation of why opinions appear in news stories is forthcoming to the readers.

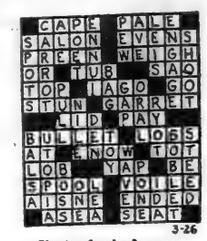
Jocob Winston Todd

Editor's Note: We have asked student Todd to cite us specific examples. He couldn't recall any. On the same day appearing on another page, was a story on Mr. Clark's worthwhile activities as a board member. After a careful rechecking of the story, written by two reporters, we can find no "slanting." The story was a feature article, giving a short history of Mr. Clark's activities in connection with segregation and students.

We suggest that student Todd look into the matter of journalistic principles more thoroughly. The Daily Tar Heel news staff is highly competent.

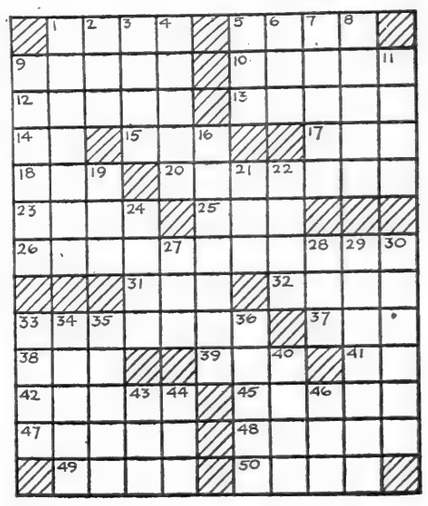
Cosmopolitan Club

The Cosmopolitan Club will present a movie, "Family Portrait," at its meeting today at 4 p.m. in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial. The film is a documentary film on the British people.



THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT has settled a ticklish problem of protocol by notifying the diplomatic corps in Rome that the new American Ambassador to Italy, Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce will have a social rank at mixed functions one step lower than the wife of the corps' junior diplomat. Mrs. Luce, presently the junior member of the corps, is pictured above as she was welcomed to Rome by hand-kissing Baron Michael Scamacca, Italian Chief of Protocol.—NEA Telephoto.

DAILY CROSSWORD



ACROSS
1. Transgresses
5. Cod-like fish
9. Exclamation used to drink to one's health
10. Commune in Belgium
12. Tint
13. River (Fr.)
14. Mulberry
15. Egyptian earth god (var.)
17. Lamprey
18. River in Asia
20. Enzyme in various fruits
23. Shades of a primary color
25. Black-tailed gazelle
26. Art of writing shorthand
31. Constellation
32. Place
33. Indulges
37. Girl's nickname
38. River (So. Am.)
39. Result of addition
41. Registered nurse (abbr.)
42. Flat-bottomed boats
45. Kind of light wood
47. Sharp
48. Member of a Caucasian race
49. Whirlpool
50. Weaver's reed

DOWN
1. Frying pan
2. Electrified particle
3. Scolds persistently
4. Slumber
5. Ineffectual actor
6. Wing
7. Country in Asia
8. Anglo-Saxon serfs
9. Steps
11. Far: combining form
16. Those who beg
19. Fish
21. The heart (anat.)
22. Afrikaans
24. Break sharply
27. Coin (Swed.)
28. Fastener
29. Gossip
30. Province of China
33. Apple seeds
34. Sharp
35. Having a mane
36. Biblical name (poss.)
40. Earthy deposit used as fertilizer
43. Spread grass to dry
44. Enemy scout
46. Lixivium

3-26

Yesterday's Answer

Newman Club

The Newman Club will hold a picnic at 5:30 this afternoon back of the rectory. Mass is celebrated at 8 and 9:30 a.m. this morning in Gerrard Hall. Confessions are heard one half hour before each mass.

"He's really living since he started drinking Manhattans with Angostura*!"

ANGOSTURA.
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS
*P.S. Keep two bottles—one to add zest to Manhattans and Old Fashioneds; one, in the kitchen, to add zing to soups, salads, and sauces.

Specials For MONDAY
WINTHROP
SADDLE OXFORDS
$7.95
Reg. 12.95 Value
(Tan and White)
(Black and White)
Shop early for your cize as these shoes will sell fast at this low price.
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

Family Feud Over?

Dorsey Brothers Announ ce May 13 Merger To Packed Memorial Hall Concert Audience

(Continued from page 1)

several years back, the rich man's aggregation swung into their wildly-applauded impromptu act.

Anthony took the stage at the insistence of the audience, and, shaking hands with Jimmy Dorsey, said, "Well, Jimmy, my first boss."

"Tommy wouldn't even have me then," he joked.

"Oh, Ray," Tommy said, "if things ever get tough, how about giving me a call."

After Anthony agreed to sit in the all-star Dixieland threesome shook hands and got down to the main event—making music. They led off with an unabridged version of "The Muskrat Ramble." Before they wound up, they had served up about a half-dozen New Orleans standards, complete with Jimmy's intricate clarinetting. Included were "When the Saints Go Marchin' In" and "Dixie," to which the audience stood respectfully.

Despite the customary backstage confusion, the four music masters chatted freely and were genuinely happy to be together again. Kyser recalled a familiar date on the old-time dance circuit named "Geneva On The Lake" and wondered if Dorsey remembered too.

"Sure I remember," Tommy said.

"Aw, the hell you do. Who was the manager?"

"I don't know the guy's name. An Italian! He was an Italian."

"That's right. Now do you remember the skating rink across the street? That's where I played," Kyser laughed.

In a little more serious conversation, Jimmy Dorsey told a reporter about the agreement to merge the two bands on May 13. He said there are no real unsolvable personality conflicts between him and his brother, although at one time there was a genuine animosity that developed over some small thing. He thinks they can get along, "but we haven't started yet so how can we tell?"

Show business journals Metronome, Downbeat and Variety have recently carried stories of a possible Dorsey Brothers consolidation. But in most of these, the brothers themselves spoke rather dubiously of the idea. Tommy was quoted as saying the merger probably wouldn't happen because of too many individual commitments.

However, yesterday's Carolina audience heard Tommy say, "We'll be playing together again starting May 13." The sample that followed indicated the new team will raise more than a few music fans' eyebrows.

Jimmy said backstage this will be the first time they have played together in about 17 years, except for the movie, "The Fabulous Dorseys," and coincident dates. "He was playing the Statler and I was playing the Statler and we'd play some numbers together."

Jimmy's band dissolved about 10 weeks ago, he said. Until then, he had been playing a full circuit.

Anthony's visit was to pay back one by the Dorsey Brothers to the Anthony lawn concert earlier in the day at Duke.

Kyser's antics tickled the audience. Producing a long folding ruler, the old professor said, "Just brought this along to measure how square your music is, Tommy." Tommy laughed, and Kyser started unfolding his ruler.

During intermission, the green-coated Anthony crew and Dorsey's blue-coated outfit exchanged pleasantries. The Anthony group was acquainted with many of the performing musicians, and they seemed to be enjoying their busman's holiday.

Bouncy vocalist Lynn Roberts pleased the males in the crowd with her supercharged and highly-vocal version of Lily Christine with a little Betty Hutton Thrown in for spice.

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE 6B

MUST SALE—1951 STUDEBAKER Land Cruiser with automatic transmission. All extras. $1,450. Call 96519. (chg 1 8003 2)

FOUND 6C

MECHANICAL PENCIL. OWNER may have same by identification and payment of ad. Phone 9-7501 after 6:30 p.m. Charge 1x1

Jobs with a future
Every year hundreds of college girls use Gibbs secretarial training to get the right job and assure quick promotion.
Special Course for College Women. Five-school personal placement service. Write College Dean for "GIBBS GIRLS AT WORK."
KATHARINE GIBBS
BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough Street NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Avenue
CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Superior Street PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell Street
MONTCLAIR, N. J., 83 Plymouth Street

see ISRAEL
JULY-AUGUST
A Non-Profit Educational Project

TRAVEL
throughout Israel.
LIVE
2 weeks in agricultural settlements.
LEARN
about Israel in Jerusalem from faculty of Hebrew University and leading personalities. 7 weeks in Israel—Stopover in Europe.
APPLICANTS BETWEEN 18-35
Write now for information to:
ISRAEL SUMMER INSTITUTE
Jewish Agency for Palestine
16 E. 66 ST., NEW YORK 21, NEW YORK

STUDENTS:
Our movie today and Monday is a new picture from England — We regret we have had no screen advertising on this picture, but it is an excellent picture and received fine review in Time Magazine, Saturday Review of Literature, Newsweek, and numerous other magazines. Don't Miss . . .
J. ARTHUR RANK'S
"CRASH OF SILENCE"
(FORMERLY STORY OF MANDY)
Starring
Phyllis Calvert
Jack Hawkins — Mandy Miller
T-O-D-A-Y
and
MONDAY
VARSITY THEATRE
GUARANTEED ENTERTAINMENT

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
5-21-53

WEATHER
Fair and warm with 80 high. Yesterday's high and low, 85 and 60.

The Daily Tar Heel

HOWDY
A new editor, a new style, on page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 138 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, APRIL 28, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

BA School Announces Dean's List

Dean Thomas H. Carroll of the School of Business Administration of the University of North Carolina has announced the Dean's List for the Winter Quarter, 1953.

The following students all made a B average or better on all of their courses. Nine students included in the group made all A's. Their names are: Jerome Wilson Bolicg, James Daye, Robert Daye, Archibald Taylor Fort, Joseph Duane Gilliam, Goldston Franklin Harris, William Ralph Jacobs Jr., William Marsh Sanders and Kimble Carson Yates.

Wiley Eugene Auman, High Point; James McCall Baker, Rowland; Edmund Gerald Barron, Moncks Corner, S. C.; Gordon Battle Jr., Greensboro; Lacy Gilmer Baynes Jr., Greensboro; Walter Enos Bell Jr., Durham; Burton Hyman Bershaw, Asheville; Charles Edward Bizzell, Seven Springs; Clyde James Blanchard Jr., Rocky Mount; Elmer Charles Bland, Thomasville; Jerome Wilson Bolick, Conover.

Henry Bryan Barefoot Jr., Black Mountain; Linwood Alton Brown Jr., Raleigh; Robert Adrian Brown, Robersonville; William Credle Brown, Wilson; Glass Bowling Carcashwell, Asheboro; Lynn Page rier Jr., Charlotte; Thomas Herman Neal Cohn, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Chandler, Morrisville; Herbert Kenton Bowers Creuser, Avondale Estates, Ga.; James Raye, Winston-Salem; Robert Daye, Winston-Salem; Fred Hyams Deaton, Statesville.

Steve William Dellinger Jr., Charlotte; Kenneth Franklin Easter, Winston-Salem; Aaron Caswell Edmundson, Pikeville; Irving Efrin Fogler, Charlotte; Archibald Taylor Fort, Oxford; Croaton Lofton Fouts Jr., Faison; Lewis Daniel Frazier, Louisburg; Joseph Duane Gilliam, Thomasville; Neil Bost Glenn, Burlington; Clarence Edward Grenway, High Point; James Lee Gulledge Jr., Moncks Corner, S. C.; Jerry Dennis Gulley, Clayton. Eddie Eldridge Hair, High Point; Jack Gellman Handler, Sarasota, Fla.

Charles Ralph Harbinson Jr., High Point; Amos Cecil Harris, Forest City; George Davis Harris, Henderson; Goldston Franklin Harris, High Point; Max Arland Harris, Drexel; John Calvin Hasty, Maxton; Richard Wilson Herbin, Greensboro; William Buren Hill, Cliffside; Laura MacDonald Holoman, Raleigh; John Robert Hunter, Winston-Salem; Chestley Julian Hyatt, Winston-Salem; Claude Tuttle Icenhour, Durham; William Ralph Jacobs Jr., Sims; John Meredith Jones, Edenton; Charles Ernest Julian, Salisbury; Lee Edward Knott, Washington.

Lamont Drear Krimminger, Kannapolis; Richard Brooke Lawson Jr., Hopkinsville, Ken.; Alvin Ellis Levine, Rockingham; Henry Eugene Lewis Jr., Charlote; Ernest Anthony Liberati, Philadelphia, Penn.; Robert McDonald Long, Concord; John Aycock McLendon, Greensboro; Bruce Marger, Coral Gables, Fla.; William Theodore Milburn, Winston - Salem; Billy Wilson Miller, Morganton; Glenn Lowry Mitchell, Hickory Grove, S. C.; John Franklin Moore, Lenoir; William Prince Moore, Raleigh; John Fairbanks Motsinger, Winston-Salem.

Roland Trice Neal, Durham; Richard Vernon Neill, Fort Pierce, Fla.; George Van Norris, Radford, Va.; Engene Oberdofer II, Atlanta, Ga.; Harold Franklin Oglesby, Kin-

(See DEAN'S LIST, page 4)

Faculty Luncheon

Dr. George B. Cutten, retired president of Colgate University, will tell of a great World War I explosion when he speaks to the Men's Faculty Luncheon at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Dr. Cutten will describe the explosion in the harbor of Halifax, Nova Scotia in which more than 1,600 people were killed and 10,000 were wounded. Dr. Cutten directed rehabilitation after the disaster.

FRENCH VIETNAM TROOPS of a Laotian light infantry patrol ford a swirling river near Hanoi, Indo China. Other patrols killed about 20 Communists in clashes, according to a French Spokesman, as the Communist troops drove to within 60 miles of Luang Prabang, the Royal Capital and the city whose capture would have the most prestige value for the Reds.—NEA Telephoto.

Incoming Coed Officers Meet Tomorrow At 8

The spring leadership training program for incoming officers of coed organizations will begin tomorrow night.

The program will get underway with an address by Dr. Bernard Boyd in Carroll Auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Thursday at 4:30 in Carroll Auditorium Nancy Horne and Betty Otto Anderson will lead a group meeting to review parliamentary procedure.

At 5 o'clock various discussions will be held in Gardner Hall. Sorority presidents and vice-presidents will meet in 103 for a discussion led by Dorothy Beals, advised by Ray Jeffries.

Dorm and sorority house councils, Honor Council and Student Council will be in 104, led by Carmen Nahm and advised by Miss Gay Currie. Secretaries, under Sarolyn Bonowitz and Miss Isabelle MacLeod will meet in 107.

Mary Ellen Jones will lead and Harry Kear will advise the treasurers in 108. Social chairmen will meet with Sue Burress and Miss Marcella Harrer in 200.

Dean Fred Weaver will speak at 6:30 Thursday night to conclude the program.

YW Benefit Ticket Sale Continues Until Tonight

Tickets to "The Member of the Wedding' will be on sale through tonight at the YWCA, Little Shop, University Florist, Town and Campus Shop and Ledbetter-Pickard.

A part of the proceeds from all tickets sold at these places will go to the YWCA. No money received tonight will benefit the Y. Regular prices prevail in the selling program.

Fraternities, sororities, dormitory residents, faculty members and local civic organizations are all aiding the YWCA in this fund drive. Rights to ticket sales were granted by Andy Gutierrez, manager of the Varsity Theater, where "The Member of the Wedding" begins tomorrow.

Eisenhower Orders Strict Security Probe

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower yesterday ordered tough new security tests for all government employees. He signed an executive order, effective in 30 days, abolishing the old loyalty program instituted by President Truman in 1947. At the same time he directed the head of each executive agency and department to institute strict new security programs for their agencies. Like the old Truman program, the new one is designed, basically to rid the government of subversives and disloyal persons.

CAMPUS SEEN

Ubiquitous but ever welcome cigaret hucksters passing out samples during "Our Best To You" blanket party.

*

Young South Building wives looking fondly from office windows upon visiting grade schoolers, both a sure sign of Spring.

*

Faux pas of the week as Ken Penegar remarks at dinner for Averell Harriman: "As I look out over all these heads . . ."

*

Parents Have Daylong Look Here Sunday

A picnic lunch—campus tours—a band concert — planetarium shows and a short address by President Gray. Such is Parents' Day at Carolina.

Sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega and the administration, the third annual Day wil begin noon Sunday with a picnic lunch on the campus, featuring box lunches from home. Parents and friends of students will then get a chance to meet the faculty at a reception in the lounge of Morehead Planatorium at 2:30.

Besides guided tours around the campus and a Planetarium show every hour, there will be a university Band Concert at 4:30 on the lawn, to be preceeded by a welcome address by President Gorden Gray.

NEWS IN BRIEF

PANMUNJOM—The new Korean armistice talks deadlocked again yesterday as the U.N. Command flatly rejected a Red prisoner exchange proposal which it said offers only return to Communist rule or "endless captivity" for the Reds who refuse to go home. In their second meeting since Oct. 8, both Allied and Communist delegates stood pat on their own plans for settling the exchange problem and bringing a truce in Korea. Another session is scheduled for 11 a.m. today.

★

SEOUL—United Nations planes dropped hundreds of tons of bombs on North Korean targets yesterday, climaxing day-long attacks with a 50-ton strike against an ammunition factory. Final pilot relays were unable to access the damage at the factory near Chinnampo because of dense cluods of smoke mushrooming from the blasted area. Newly equipped F-86 Sabre jets protecting the fighter bombers were ordered from their interceptor screen to dive-bomb battle-line targets.

★

WASHINGTON — Opponents of the administration - backed tide lands bill said yesterday they are ready to start voting on amendments, apparently the signal for a break in their 19-day filibuster. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) said after a strategy meeting with other foes of the bill that "our major objective has been accomplished—arousing the antagonism of the country against this legislation we think is bad." Anderson said there is "quite a little chance that a final vote on the bill may be possible this week.

Di Will Debate On UN Tonight

In honor of the local United Nations Week celebration, the Dialectic Senate will devote tonight's 8 o'clock meeting to debate on a bill calling for the strengthening of the United Nations into a limited federal world government.

After the discussion, the Senate is having a reception for delegates to the U.N. Model Assembly and all Senators and other guests. An invitation has been extended to all interested persons to go up and take part in the debate held on the third floor of New West.

Pi Lambda Phi Initiates Four; Fogel Gets Award

Four new members were initiated into Omega Beta Chapter of Pi Lambda Phi Fraternity last week.

New members are Barry Fogel, Augusta, Ga.; William Gorelick, Charlotte; Donald Kurtz, Rock Hill, S. C.; Donald Warren, Brooklyn, New York.

The Fraternity Schoarship Athletic Pledge Award was presented to Barry Fogel during the Pi Lambda Phi Pledge dinner.

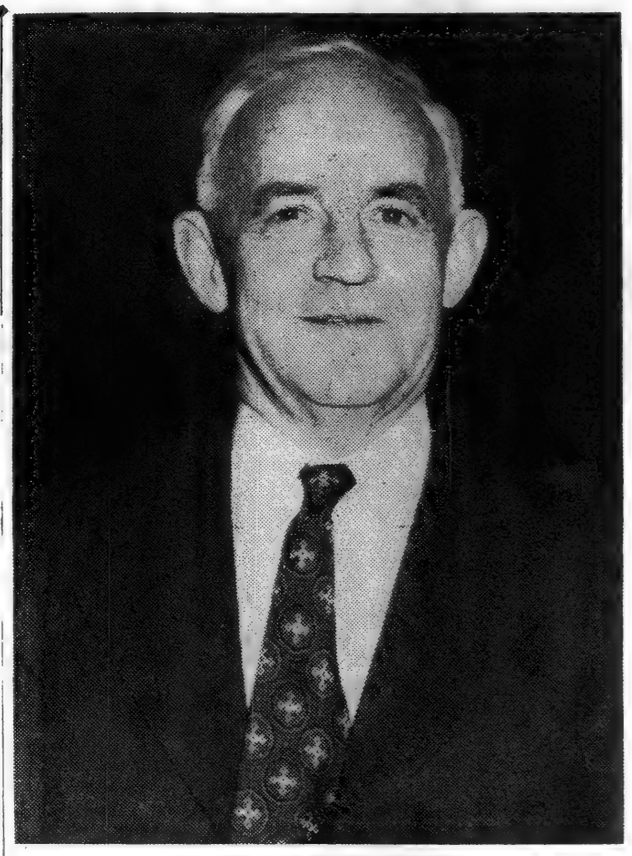
Fleece Taps 14 Top Men During Impressive Ritual; Observes 50th Anniversary

Order Reveals All Its Officers For Past Year

Fourteen outstanding students were tapped into membership last night by the Order of the Golden Fleece—the highest honor on the campus.

In the traditional ceremony in Memorial Hall, the Fleece beckoned five juniors, seven seniors and two graduate students. It was the 50th Annual Tapping Ceremmony and also saw Dr. Frank Porter Graham named the Fleece's Argonaut of the Half-Century. (See story at right.)

The fourteen tappees were: Rolfe Neill, Statesville; Thaddeus Seymour, Chapel Hill; Robert D. Gorham Jr., Rocky Mount; Thomas Rezzuto, Asheville; Edward B. Gross, Harrisburg, Pa.; James L. Haney, Jr., Marion; J. Andrew Bell Jr., Greensboro; Walter M. Dear III, Jersey City, N. J.



Eugene Oberdorfer 11, Atlanta, Ga.; Kenneth L. Penegar, Gastonia; W. Stephen Perrow, Bedford, Va.; Thomas A. Sully Jr., Charlottesville, Va.; James C. McLeod Jr., Florence, S. C., and Gilbert E. Marsh Jr., Thomasville.

The Order also disclosed to the public for the first time its officers for the past year. They were: Julian D. Mason, Jr., Jason; John M. Schnorrenberg, Hyparchos; Kenneth H. Barton, Grammateus; and Paul N. Somerville, Chrystopher.

The 14 tappees were chosen by the traditional method which involved their being "searched for" by two spot-lighted, black-robed and hooded giants pacing the aisles of the darkened auditorium. When the tappees were "found", they were tapped on the shoulders and caused to stand while appropriate citations were read. Later, the tappees were lined up on the stage for recognition by the audience.

This year the University Concert Band presented one of its annual spring concerts immediately before and following the tapping.

There was a sizable group of alumni from throughout the state who were present for the tapping and the reception following. The Order was founded in 1903 and recognizes students for character, contribution, and service. It has taken in almost 550 students, many of whom have gone on to become prominent men. Membership in the Fleece is the highest honor that can come to a Carolina student. All of its activities are secret except the annual spring tapping.

DR. FRANK PORTER GRAHAM
. . . Argonaut of the half-century

Golden Fleece Honors Dr. Graham In Tapping

Dr. Frank Porter Graham was honored last night by the Order Of the Golden Fleece when he was revealed as their choice for the Argonaut of the Half-Century.

Announcement of the results of the secret balloting, begun last February among the some 400 living members and alumni of the organization, was made at the 50th Anniversary Tapping Ceremonies of the Fleece in Memorial Hall.

Dr. Graham, former president of the University, former U. S. Senator, and now special mediator for the United Nations, was picked in response to a letter which asked the members of the Order to help select "the member, now living, who best exemplifies the ideals of the Golden Fleece in his life, in the example he has set for others, and in the contributions he has made to the University, the state, the nation and to mankind."

There were seventeen nominations coming from alumni scattered all over the world, but Dr. Graham received a majority on the first ballot.

Dr. Graham was recognized first during last night's tapping ceremonies in Memorial Hall. Later, he was recognized by the alumni at the reception at the Carolina Inn, where he was presented a newly bound first edition of Jefferson Davis' two-volume Rise and Fall of the Confederate Government.

Dr. Graham was tapped by the Fleece as a student in 1908.

The Order of the Golden Fleece was founded in 1903. It is the highest honor on campus, and is the second oldest group of its type in the country. Its over 500 alumni include many men prominent in the affairs of the state of North Carolina and the nation.

Carolina's UN Assembly Will Meet This Weekend

A bit of the international spotlight from UN Headquarters will shine on Carolina when the Model General Assembly meets here Friday and Saturday.

Designed to climax "Carolina United Nations Week," the Model Assembly is being held to provide the students with an actual experience in the functions and structure of the UN.

UN Week was given its kickoff last Friday by Dr. Frank Porter Graham, UN special representative, who spoke on some of the achievements of the United Nations.

Plans for the Model Assembly call for the delegations of four students from each member nation to be divided into four commissions. Each commission will have before it a particular type of problem, such as: political and security, economic and financial, social and humanitarian, or trusteeship and legal questions.

The Model Assembly may be officially opened by Henri Bonnet, French ambassador to the U. S. Negotiations are now in progress to get the ambassador to come to Chapel Hill for the occasion, according to Henry Lowet, chairman of the UN Committee.

Bernard Theiling today was designated Secretary-General of the Model Assembly. He and the Secretariat will have the responsibility of keeping all records during the sessions.

The general public is invited to attend all meetings of the Assembly on Friday and Saturday.

Yack Slackers

There are still several fraternities and other organizations which have not paid for their pages in the Yackety Yack. All those so concerned are asked to make payment immediately.

Business Manager Russ Cowell asked that checks be mailed to the Yackety Yack, Box 987, Chapel Hill or left in the main office of Graham Memorial. Cowell also said distribution of the books will begin as soon as they arrive, and that the first shipment was expected about the 10th of May.

According To Recent Survey

Only Seven Fraternities Favor Hell Week Over Greek Week

Only seven of the 23 social fraternities on campus dislike Greek Week enough to return to the old "Hell Week" method of initiation. That was the consensus of a survey taken by The Daily Tar Heel.

The fraternity representatives who said "it's time for a change," however, want Hell Week back, only in a modified form.

As one fraternity president put it, "The present Greek Week is not accepted as much as Hell Week. . . . The pledges don't get as much out of it. We wouldn't like to return to the old Hell Week but we would like to return to a modified version."

"General opinion around the house, however, is that Greek Week is all right," he added.

Some of the fraternities endorsing Greek Week expressed disappointment at the lack of spirit and more activities. "Exchange dinners don't accomplish much," one president said. "Even when you go to another fraternity house to eat, you're still tied up. After dinner, you sit around for five or 10 minutes talking to your own group and then leave. The other part of the program was all right but there could have been a little more cooperation."

One fraternity man said, "Greek Week is a good idea, but it is uncontrollable. It has been run into the ground. What we need is more useful work."

"The exchange suppers are nice," he added, "but they should do more, with fuller activities. Hell Week is essential. Certain pledges are in cliques and they could be united by Hell Week."

"The thing itself (Greek Week) is a good idea," another representative said, "but it needs more pushing. We should have more clean-up type work. It keeps the pledges busy."

Greek Week was inaugurated in 1950 to take the place of Hell Week. This year, it entailed an athletic contset, a land-clearing project for a new Methodist Church, exchange dinners, stunt night, and a banquet at Lenoir Hall.

Those fraternities that want Hell Week back, want it to "bring the pledges closer together" and to "give us more control over the pledges." None of the fraternity representatives taking part in the survey liked the idea of hazing.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed 34 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. Bob Slough
Assoc. Ed. Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. Sally Schindel
Exch. Ed. Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Eddie Starnes.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Tom Peacock

The Welcome Mat

It's the professor who makes the course, Dr. Wallace Caldwell of the History Department said not long ago. And The Daily Tar Heel agrees. But we're afraid the professor could add to the course when many times he doesn't. In this case we mean he's not opening his home to students.

As we see it, the rapport between professor and students in the teacher's home is unmatched by that of the classroom. The informality of the home surroundings and the social setting stimulate the academic process.

Some professors at the University do take advantage of this extra-classroom device. (No nearly so many, however, as at Woman's College in Greensboro.) These professors vary in the number of invitations but try to get each student out for at least one evening during the quarter. The visit is taken up with carousing in various intellectual alleys, indulging in the wife's cooking, and learning the name of the fellow who's been sitting next to you all quarter.

The Trustee Visiting Committee spent a considerable part of its Winter report on Chapel Hill calling for better student-faculty relationships, suggesting the home as the best implement.

That it's needed, then, seems to be accepted. Why don't we have it?

Probably the No. 1 detriment is money; it costs to have a house full and feed them. But The Daily Tar Heel suggests that the professor get away from the belief that he must feed the student's mind as well as his stomach. However, if the professor is reluctant to spend such an evening without giving his guests refreshments, The Daily Tar Heel feels that some fund should be available for such an affair. Since it seems unlikely that one will comefrom State appropriations an individual wishing to endow the University should be encouraged to set up an account of this nature. It could be administered by the Chancellor and a nominal allocation could be made to a professor at his request.

In talking to professors we found another reason why they do little student entertaining in their homes. Some believe they cannot spare the time, that the student is not appreciative. There always will be some students who take advantage of and are enriched by these sessions. To a man supposedly dedicated to improving the minds of human beings, the satisfaction of achievement, no matter how small, should overcome these objections.

Atlanta Constitution

Bright Students Get A Break At Brown

College education, its first two years slumbering in the routine of planned curriculum and regular lectures, has been given a new twist by Brown University. It is one that could prove extremely effective in rendering the process of higher learning more attractive to the nation's brighter students.

Under President Henry M. Wriston's direcion, Brown's plan will enable volunteers from the top half of the freshman and sophomore classes to spend their time tracking down ideas in the great classics and the best scholarly commentaries instead of attending regular lectures and reading assigned passages from the usual textbooks.

Brown's innovation is following along lines suggested by three preparatory teachers and three university professors whose recently conducted survey contains recommendations for coordinating the last two years of high school and the first two of college, including elimination of duplicating basic subjects, encouragement to the student to proceed at his own speed, and a seven-year program to allow the best students to finish secondary school and college a year earlier.

Golden Arm

— Norman Jarrard —

Nelson Algren's "The Man With the Golden Arm" (Pocket Book, 454 pp), just re-issued with a new cover, is the story of Frankie Machine or Majcinek and a street called Division which is placed in Chicago.

Division Street is the street of "petty cheats, phony braggarts, double clockers, elbow sneaks, small-time chislers, touts and stooges and gladhand-shakers." When given names, the people are "Sparrow. Vi. Stash. Rumdum. Zygmunt. Old Doc D. Piggy-O. Nifty Louie . . . Umbrella Man. Cousin Kvorka. Record Head. Schwiefka. Chester from Conveyor. Meter Reader from Endless Belt. Widow Wieczorek. Jailer Schwabatski and poor Peter. Shudefski from Viaduct. Molly N. Drunkie John . . . Francis Majcinek."

Frankie is the man with the golden arm. What that means can be found in the Robert W. Service-ish poem which is used as an epitah for the novel:

We remember Frankie Machine
And the arm that always held up . . .
For it's all in the wrist with a deck or a cue
And if he crapped out when we thought he was due
It must have been that the dice were rolled,
For he had the touch, and his arm was gold.

From this hint it might seem that this is a subject that James T. Farrell might write a thick novel about, but that isn't the case at all. For one thing, the subject is romanticized more than Farrell would allow. And Farrell can't write this well.

Frankie, and many of the other characters, "was seared by . . . a torch which burned with a dark and smoldering flame from within till it dried a man of everything save a dark- charred guilt. The great, secret and special American guilt of owning nothing, nothing at all, in the one land where ownership and virtue are one." He is a veteran who makes his living mainly as a dealer, a card dealer. He is also good with the dice or a cue, since "it's all in the wrist."

He's burdened with a nagging, crippled wife, Sophie, and bears the guilt for the accident which made her a cripple. Any hope for breaking his dope habit and otherwise going "legit" lies with Molly O, a striptease who is the wife of Drunkie John. Frankie breaks the habit once with her help but he finds that he has also lost the magic in his arm—which must point some kind of moral.

The reader may be interested in or enticed into a look at the book by the mottoes used for the two sections of it. From Alexandre Kuprin: "Do you understand, gentlemen, that all the horror is in just this—that there is no horror!" From F. Scott Fitzgerald: "In the real dark night of the soul it is always three o'clock in the morning, day after day."

"I've Been Getting In A Few Strokes Too"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The most important move the United Nations could make in regard to Korea would be to call the exchanged war-hero prisoners to New York and have them tell their story.

Let them appear face-to-face with Ambassador Vishinsky, the Poles, the Czechs, other Communist satellites to tell how they were treated by their Communist captors. Let them also tell how their comrades-in-arms were treated, those who died of wounds, those who starved to death, those who are still in prison camps.

The important thing for Congress to remember is that this is a United Nations war. That's why these prisoners should report to the United Nations not to Congress.

Most of the Prisoners returning from Red camps were not Americans. They included the nationalities fighting in the heterogeneous, sometimes cumbersome, United Nations army. Such an army has certain disadvantages. But its one great advantage is that of mobilizing world opinion against a big nation that picks on little nations. That was the reason why the United Nations voted to go into Korea in the first place.

Utah's affable Republican Senator, Arthur Watkins, is so eager to claim credit for someone else's legislation that he has jeopardided the chances of 5,000 GI's in Korea who are in a hurry to get their American citizenship.

The legislation, aimed at speeding up naturalization for eligible GI's was written by Congressman Francis Walter, a Pennsylvania Democrat. Walter introduced his bill last January when Pentagon officials told him they were worried about what might happen if GI's waiting for their citizenship papers were captured by the Communists. Though serving in American uniforms they would still not be U.S. citizens. Therefore, the Reds might claim there was no legal obligation to return such prisoners to the U.S.A.

Vigorously Walter pushed his bill, got a unanimous vote in the House, and hoped for routine approval in the Senate. Senator Watkins' subcommittee was about to okay the legislation when he caught himself.

"Wait a minute," he said. "Whose measure is this?"

A clerk explained that Congressman Walter, Democrat, had authored the bill.

"What's the matter around here," snapped Chairman Watkins. "This is a Republican Congress and we've got to take credit for some of the good legislation that's passed. This is a good bill and I'm going to make sure it's a Republican bill."

Watkins' action would be unimportant, except that now it will take months for the new measure to work its way all through the tedious legislative procedures of both the Senate and House. And it's unlikely the Congress will get around to passing the bill this session.

Express Yourself

Editor:

Your paper has done excellent service by reporting as fully as it has Senator Joseph McCarthy's questioning the use of books written by "Communists" by the State Department in its various libraries throughout the world.

It is vital that the public should have this information. It is obvious, however, from the reading of these reports that while Senator McCarthy may have the best intentions with regard to preserving our democracy, unfortunately he misses a number of important points essential to our form of government.

. . . When Senator McCarthy asks "is it a proper expenditure of taxpayers' money to have some small fraction of Communist books on the shelves of federally supported libraries," the answer must be "yes." This because of three rasons:

First, bcause the presence of such books informs the readers of what the Communist thinks. If he does not know this, then he cannot know the error of the Communist or his theories. Second, the mere presence of these books on the library shelves indicates that we have such confidence and faith in our form of government that we need not fear the reader's exposure to "different views." And, finally, the reader will understand that not only are we unafraid of fredom of the press and speech, but we know that such freedoms are an integral and essential part of our democracy.

. . . Unfortunately Senator McCarthy will be called, "the poorest member of the Senate," a title which he certainly will not deserve historically if in fact he is sincerely attempting to defend American democracy.

Frank E. Karelsen
New York, N. Y.

Proliferation

— Raymond Moley of Newsweek —

With a number of the points made in James B. Conant's twentieth and last report as president of Harvard University it would be easy to disagree. On one point, however, he will elicit hearty applause from anyone who has followed the trend of higher education over the past generation.

He deplores the "proliferation" of courses of instruction: "New courses have proliferated to a degree that seems absurd."

One can agree but still wonder why he was unable to cut back this wild, lawless breeding in his own institutions, since he leaves the university with a sizable financial problem.

I was recently told by a college official that a few years ago Smith College was offering more courses in English than Harvard. A teachers' college is likely to give 100 courses on method to 10 on substantive knowledge. The product is a student who knows how but not what.

One of he best examples of proliferation I know is shown in the catalogue offering in sociology of a well-known institution. There are eight pages of description of 55 courses, 36 of which are for half a year and the rest for a year. These courses are divided into six groups: social theory, methodology, demography and comparative social structure, social organization and social change, rural and urban sociology, and public opinion and communication.

As if this were not a full offering, there are listed 28 courses in extension or in other departments of the university. Students with time for more can get into "university seminars," 12 in number, taught by more than 100 professors "and others."

There is a library on the campus where essentially everything taught in those courses can be found in books, neatly catalogued. Students in these days, however, are apparently suspected of incapacity to read. In any event, it is difficult to see when they get time to read, what with running from course to course.

These courses go on the principle of more and more about less and less. The atom of human knowledge has been split into countless fragments. Take, for example, the group of courses on public opinion. There are, among other, six courses by one professor on "the role of media of communication," "the study of public opinion," "studies in the change of opinions and attitudes," "the empirical sudy of reasons, motives and attitudes," "prediction and interpretation in empirical social research," and "scales and indexes in sociological research."

. . . When as a junior professor the urge came to me to give a new course, the head of my department would say drily: "Why don't you write a book about it? Don't give a course. Students have eyes." He was right. Any professor, however learned, gives essentially all he has in one course. Maybe he can give a seminar also for those who failed to hear him the first time.

. . . The cost of maintaining such a confluence of professors mounts. Here is a very definite cause of the so-called "crisis in education."

There is a more serious aspect of this. As students are induced to wriggle into these nooks and crannies, they know less and less of principles and structure. The student lives in "the thick of thin things."

Summer Abroad

— Chal Schley —

This Summer hundreds of students will board the special student ships headed for Europe. Most of these students will see Europe in all its objective beauty. But being associated with groups like the "Experiment in International Living" they will get not only the objective beauty but also a subjective understanding of the peiple.

A student from this group will have a great time and a fine experienc.

Other hundreds of students will sail for the Continent on their own. A student from this group will also have a good hime. He will spent a lot of money, hit all the night clubs, and do many things. But traveling on his own, he will lose money in crossing the Atlantic and in seeing the sights.

A student in the special student group will spend less money and more time meeting Europeans and getting to know them. When he hits the night clubs, he will take a European friend with him. He will spend time in the homes of the people he meets and become familiar with the culture that produced the world-famous sights he sees.

It doesn't take him long to realize that barriers among nations are artificial products of imaginations, that people are human in spite of boundaries. With these new concepts in mind, he will relax and enjoy himself.

The first who looked at Europe on his own had nothing to say afterwards except, "I'm broke." The second who saw Europe came back with a better understanding of what makes people tick on our ever-shrinking globe.

The "Experiment in International Living" puts primary emphasis on the human element.

Students who are interested in exploring the possibilities of this type of summer travel can obtain all details by calling Chal Schley at 9-3056.

(This is the first in a series by different writers on summer travel abroad.)

Netters Clinch SC Championship; Golfers Edge Deacs

Strong Finish Gives 15½-11½ Win

Sylvia Leads 9-0 Whitewash

Captain Handily Takes Hawaiian Champion

Carolina's tennis team defeated William and Mary, 9-0, yesterday, to complete its Southern Conference schedule and clinch the championship.

The Tar Heels finished their Conference play with wins over Duke, N. C. State, Wake Forest Davidson, and William and Mary.

Carolina took the singles in straight sets, losing only nine games. Coach John Kenfield experimented with his doubles combinations, but only the number two W&M pair could give the Tar Heels trouble and extend the match to three sets.

Captain Del Sylvia played number one for Carolina, easily defeating Garner Anthony, 6-3, 6-1. Anthony is the 1950 and 1951 Hafaiian men's singles and doubles champion and is described by the Indian tennis coach as one of the brightest young prospects ever to come along.

Tommy Bradford took love sets in his number two position, defeating Hosey Hearn, the Indian captain, as did Don Thompson playing number five.

Bill Izlar and Lynch of Carolina defeated Anthony and Tom Reel, the William and Mary number two doubles team, 6-3, 3-6 6-2 in the only match that went three sets. Pete Green was the only Tar Heel to play both singles and doubles.

Carolina has its toughest test of the season here Thursday when Rollins College of Florida invades Chapel Hill. The Rollins lineup is studded with Mexican Davis Cuppers and the like, and the school is famous for its fine tennis teams.

Summaries:

Singles—Sylvia (UNC) over Anthony, 6-3, 6-1; Bradford (UNC) over Hearn, 6-0, 6-0; Browne (UNC) over Reel, 6-0, 6-2; Payne (UNC) over Ali, 6-1, 6-1; Thompson (UNC) over Spies 6-0, 6-0; Green (UNC) over Reynold, 6-1, 6-0.

Doubles — Kerdasha and Green (UNC) over Hearn and Spies, 6-1, 7-5; Lynch and Izlar (UNC) over Anthony and Reel, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2; Gustafson and Gordon (UNC) over Ali and Reynolds, 6-3, 6-2.

Black, Ferree Drop Matches To Deacons

The UNC golf team kept its winning streak alive yesterday by defeating the Deacons from Wake Forest, 15½ to 11½.

Low man for the Tar Heels was George Mountcastle with a one over par 73. He teamed with Billy Ford to pick up nine points over Henry Kerfoot and Sandy Burton. Ford had a 77.

Bill Williamson was second behind Mountcastle for the Tar Heels with a 74. Bob Black was off his use a steady game as he was eight strokes above par in carding an 80. Black and Williamson tied Phil Wiechman and Al Birmingham in their four ball match. The total score for the foursome was 5-4 in favor of the Deacs.

Low scorer for the day was Charlie Strack of Wake Forest. Strack had the only sub par round of the day by turning in a 71. Sophomore Billy Thornton picked up 2½ points for the Tar Heels in defeating Joe Turner.

It was the eighth straight win for the Tar Heels and their third conference victory. They now have a layoff until the Southern Intercollegiate Tournament at Athens, Georgia, on Thursday. There they will meet foes from all over the South with such formidable opponents as Louisiana State's Southeastern Conference champions.

The Southern Conference Tournament will be held on the fifteenth of May. It will take place at the Old Town Country Club in Winston-Salem. The Tar Heels will be favored to repeat as SC champions again.

Summaries:

Wiechman (WF) defeated Black, 3-0; Williamson (UNC) defeated Birmingham, 2½-½; Black and Williamson tied Wiecham and Birmingham, 1½-½.

Thornton (UNC) defeated Turner, 2½-½; Strack (WF) defeated Ferree, 3-0; Turner and Ferree, 3-0.

Ford (UNC) defeated Kerfoot, 3-0, Mountcastle (UNC) defeated Burton, 3-0; Ford and Mountcastle defeated Burton and Kerfoot, 3-0.

Lacrosse Team Evens Record With 9-3 Victory

The Carolina lacrosse team pulled its record up to the .500 mark yesterday, easily defeating Augusta Military Academy, 9-3.

Every man on the Carolina team played, with some players taking all four positions. Coach Al Moore started his second team, put the first string in at the beginning of the third quarter, but pulled it again after five minutes of play.

Lou Wolfsheimer led the Tar Heels with three goals from his midfield position.

Carolina took a commanding, 5-0, lead in the first quarter and coasted the rest of the way. The Tar Heels didn't score in the second half but bided their time practicing stick handling and ball handling.

Coach Moore's charges will try to break the .500 mark for the first time this year May 8th here against William and Mary in a Southern Conference match.

Augusta	0	0	2	1—3
Carolina	5	4	0	0—9

Scoring—Caroina: Wolfsheimer (3), Baker, Joe Walker, Thorn Walker, Chal Schley, Steve Trimble Earl Johnson. Augusta: Bach, Lowenbach Chow.

Assists—Carolina—Walker (2).

Carolina Nine Plays State Wolfpack Here Today In Contest Crucial To Big Four Team Standings

Carolina's baseball team meets N. C. State at 3:30 here today in a Big Four game that may be the turning point in Conference standings.

The Wolfpack is the only team in the Big Four that the Tar Heels haven't beaten, and a win will give Carolina a tie with Duke and drop the Pack to third place.

A loss will put Carolina in a deeper hole than Coaches Walt Rabb and Bunn Hearn would like to be in right now.

Ace righthander Chal Port, holding a 5-1 season record, will start for Carolina today. Port's last start was a well pitched win over Duke last week.

Carolina dropped its second Conference and also its second Big Four game Saturday, bowing to Wake Forest, 2-0, on the Deacon's field. It was the first time the Tar Heels had been shut out this year.

State defeated Carolina, 10-5, in a loosely played ball game early in the season. Johnny Fuscoe, Ed Horbelt, Jack Turney, and Eddie Morris gave the Tar Heels' pitching a lot of trouble, and loser Bill Lore was plagued with poor backing. The Wake Forest decision is Carolina's only loss since then, and most observers thought Carolina outplayed the Deacons.

Rabb and Hearn had been counting on good pitching this year, but the heavy hitting of the team has been somewhat of a pleasant surprise. Every regular in the lineup has hit for extra bases, and the production is the best in recent years.

Several Tar Heels are hitting above or right around .300. They are Fred Dale, Connie Gravitte, Will Frye, Bob Williams, Harry Lloyd, Wayne White, and Ed Hooks.

Sophomore Gravitte is leading the extra base output with seven doubles, two triples, and two homers. Williams has two homers, a triple, and a double. Other home-run hitters are Wayne White, Bob Henning, Harry Lloyd, Fred Dale, Will Frye, and Ken Keller. The Tar Heels have hit 10 home runs so far this season, while last year's total was only eight.

Other extra base knocks have come from Billy Lore (2 doubles), Hooks (1 double), White (3 doubles), Dale (3 doubles, 2 triples), Lloyd (1 double), Henning (1 triple, Keller (2 doubles), Holt (2 doubles, 1 triple), Motsinger (1 double), and Joe Mosier (1 double).

Bruce Holt, ailing third baseman, may be ready to go back into the lineup after injuring his ankle, but he will have trouble replacing the hard-hitting Williams.

Staff Meeting

There will be a meeting of The Daily Tar Heel sports staff tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Anyone interested in writing sports for The Tar Heel is invited to attend the meeting. Staffers who cannot be present please notify the office.

MURALS

Today's Softball

4:00—Field 7, Sig Chi vs. KA; Field 2, Zetes-2 vs. Tep-1; Field 3, Sig Nu-2 vs. Phi Gam-1; Field 4, PiKA vs. ZBT.

5:00—Field 1, Med Sch-4 vs. Alexander; Field 2, Chi Phi vs. Kap Psi; Field 3, Sig Nu-3 vs. Pi Lamb; Field 4, Sig Nu-1 vs. Zetes-1.

Today's Tennis

4:00—Pi Kap Phi vs. Chi Psi-1.

5:00—Kap Sig vs. DKE-1.

Today's Horseshoes

7:00—Sig Chi-3 vs. Phi Gam-1; DKE-2 vs. Zetes-1.

7:40—(Winner of Zetes-2 vs. Lamb Chi) vs. (Winner of TEP vs. Delt Sig); (Winner of Chi Phi vs. PiKA-2) vs. (Winner of Pi Lamb-1 vs. Theta Chi-1).

8:20—(W. of SPE-4 vs. SPE-2) vs. (W. of ATO vs. DU-1); (W. of Pi Lamb-2 vs. Phi Delt-1) vs. (W. of Beta-1 vs. Phi Delt-2).

The murals department has announced two changes to the softball rules. Any team with a 12 run lead at the end of three innings automatically wins the game. No inning of the 4 o'clock games can start after 5:15 unless there is a tie.

Has Archery Tourney Murals Department

The intramurals department is sponsoring an all-campus archery tournament on Navy Field Wednesday at 4 o'clock. All students are eligible.

The murals department will award a trophy as first prize and two passes to the Varsity or Carolina theater as ten runners-up prizes.

Tackle will be available at Navy Field from 2-4 on Wednesday for practice, and entries will be open throughout the tourney.

Pre-tournament entries can be made with Bob White, 221 Joyner Dorm, or Dave Johnson, 315 Woollen Gym.

Bolt Still Smashing Clubs, Breaks Two At Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—(Special)—The terrible tempered Tommy (Thunder) Bolt blew his topper during the rich tournament of Champions the other day and thus came another setback in the reformation of possibly the world's greatest golfer.

By the admission of the nation's top touring professional star, Bolt may be the finest golfer of them all—aside from his temperment.

"Tommy may be the world's greatest golfer, if he could control his temper," says Sam Snead, himself something of a wonder in the golfing firmanent. "But I doubt that he ever will. He just can't help exploding. He isn't mad at anybody but himself when he expodes that way."

Golf fans who watch the touring professionals all around the country have seen the ex-Texan, now playing out of Maplewood, N. J., smash his clubs. In his second round here he smashed his putter on the 10th green; and the fans following him saw him bend his driver all out of shape on the 12th.

It was a slightly insane way of displaying his displeasure at a couple of missed shots, in view of the fact it possiby cost him quite a bit of money.

"But Tommy has the markings of a true champion," says Earl Stewart. "I mean by that he expects to make every shot he attempts, including 90-foot putts. The only thing that keeps him from being the champion is his temperament."

Frosh Swimmers

Coach Dick Jamerson has called an important meeting of all freshman swimmers Wednesday at 4:30 in room 304 of Woollen Gymnasium.

LOVELY LONDONER—Dark and demure Marie Patient, at left, is a soft-voiced "number please" to telephone users of the British capital. But the people who see her elected the 23-year-old operator their "City of London Telephone Beauty Queen" and awarded a cup along with the title. Handing Miss Patient the trophy is blonde British movie star, Diana Dors.

SPECIAL PURCHASE

SANFORIZED

Cotton Cord

SLACKS

$4.95

Buy your summer supply at this low price

THE Sport—SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

WILL THIS SUIT FIT YOU?

If you can make the grade, you can fly the latest, hottest, fanciest jobs in the air—and do it within one year.

IT TAKES a good, tough, serious guy to wear the gear of an Aviation Cadet. But if you can measure up, here's your chance to get the finest in aviation training—training that equips you to fly the most modern airplanes in the world and prepares you for responsible executive positions, both in military and commercial aviation.

It won't be easy! Training discipline for Aviation Cadets is rigid. You'll work hard, study hard, play hard—especially for the first few weeks. But when it's over, you'll be a pro—with a career ahead of you that will take you as far as you want to go. You graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year. And this is only the beginning—your opportunities for advancement are unlimited.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE? To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate! In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

YOU CAN CHOOSE BETWEEN PILOT OR AIRCRAFT OBSERVER If you choose to be an Aircraft Observer, your training will be in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination at government expense.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Where to get more details:

Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer. Or write to: Aviation Cadet, Headquarters, U. S. Air Force, Washington 25, D. C.

U.S. AIR FORCE

85 Order Of Old Well Members Initiated In Gerrard Hall Ceremony

The Order of the Old Well initiated 85 new members Thursday afternoon in ceremonies held in Gerrard Hall.

After a meeting at the Old Well, the new initiates assembled in Gerrard Hall. The Rev. W. M. Howard Jr., delivered the invocation and Steve Perrow, secretary-treasurer, welcomed the new initiates. Ken Barton, president of the Order of the Old Well, delivered the address.

The initiates then went to Lenoir Hall for a banquet and an address by President Gordon Gray.

New members include:

Patricia Ann Aydlett, Elizabeth City, N. C.; Anna Marille Beeson, Greensboro, N. C.; John Toscan Bennett, Philadelphia, Pa.; Charles Donald Blanton, Kings Mt., N. C.; Saralyn Sue Bonowitz, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Harvey Deakens Bradshaw, Greenville, N. C.; William Credle Brown, Wilson, N. C.; Thomas Reeves Burgiss, Sparta, N. C.; Charles Eugene Cain, Elizabethtown, N. C.; Rowe Bogle Jr., Taylorsville, N. C.; Donald Cary Carroll, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Beverley Jane Chalk, Greensboro, N. C.; Robert Hamilton Clampitt, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Herbert Benjamin Raymond Cronham Jr., East Orange, N. J.; Joseph Garner Dail Jr., Tarboro, N. C.

Donald Thomas Davis, Morehead City, N. C.; Lyell Clark Dewes Jr., Baltimore, Mr.; James Daye, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Robert Daye, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Grace Eunice Doar, Raleigh, N. C.; Robert Norwood Ellington, Burlington, N. C.; Walter Norbert Jr., Baltimore, Md.; Archibald Taylor Fort, Oxford, N. C.; Theodore Golden Frankel, Atlanta, Ga.; Shirley Ann Gee, Johnson City, Tenn.; James Chester Goodin, Waynesville, N. C.; Grace Calvert Gordon, Spray, N. C.; Robert Diggs Gorham Jr., Rocky Mt., N. C.; Nancy Rose Green, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Edward Bailey Gross, Harrisburg, Pa.; John Moss Guilbert, Tryon, N. C.

Marilyn Habel, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Virginia Flora Hall, Elizabeth City, N. C.; James Lawton Haney Jr., Glenwood, N. C.; Robert Winship Heath, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Gay Elizabeth Hogan, Chapel Hill, N. C.; David Kent Jackson, High Point, N. C.; John Payne Jackson, Eau Gallie, Fla.; Katherine Elizabeth Jente, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Henry Clay Johnson Jr., Roanoke Va.; Barrett Franklin Kalb, Map-Charleston, W. Va.; Elizabeth Ann lewood, N. J. Carol Alice Kelly, Kirby, Winston-Salem, N. C.

James Cary Lester, Roanoke, Va.; Wiliam Pickens Lore, Smithfield, N. C.; Henry Augustus Lowet, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Bruce Marger, Coral Gables, Fla.; James Walter Maynard, Burlington, N. C.; Thomas Carter McDonald, Lithonia, Ga., James Carlisle McLeod Jr., Florence, S. C.; Mary Louise Mitchell, Burlington, N. C.; Kenneth Morton Myers, Miami, Fla.; Carman Louise Nahm, Deland, Fla.; Louie Lee Patseavouras, Rocky Mt., N. C.; Harry Pawlik, Albemarle, N. C.; Joseph John Pazdan, Trenton, N. J.; Kenneth Lawing, Gastonia, N. C.; Daniel Elijah Perry, Kinston, N. C.; Wanda Lou Philpott, Beckley, W. Va.; John Edward Poindexter, Burlington, N. C.; William Alexander Rankin Jr., Reidsville, N. C.; Barbara Lillian Reed, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Nancy Gordon Ripple, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Barksdale Fletcher Roberts, Fletcher, N. C.; Dale Sanford Ryon, Asheville, N. C.; James Simpson Schenck III, Greensboro, N. C.; Betty Jean Schoeppe, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Julia Elizabeth Shields, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Hal Cox Sigman, Greensboro, N. C.; Raymond Robinson Simmons, Lawrenceville, Va.; Dorothy Rae Smith, Spencer, W. Va.; Edward Marvin Smith, Matthews, N. C.; Martha Ann Smith, Warsaw, N. C.; Jane Ann Sneed, Ft. Pierce, Fla.; Robert Arthur Spaugh Jr., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Elizabeth Stetson, West Chester, Pa.; Alva Ware Stewart, Marshville, N. C.; John Quincey Stilwell. Charleston, S. C.; Lucy Ann Streel, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Patricia Ann Todd, Hopkinsville, Ky.; Patsy Ruth Upchurch, Morrisville, N. C.; Gerald Wagger, High Point, N. C.; Willard Irving Walker, Charlottesville, Va.; Rachael Carroll Williams. Prospect Hill, N. C.

The initiation was carried out by the officers for the past year. They were:

President Kenneth H. Barton; Vice President James Andrew Bell Jr.; Secretary and Treasurer W. Stephen Perrow; Ex. Committee Members Jacob Henry Froelich Jr., Gilbert Ernest Marsh Jr., and Thomas Alfred Sully Jr.

—Deans List—

(Continued from page 1)

ston; Margaret Ann Oldenbuttel, Chapel Hill; Jimmy Carl Page Jr., Henderson; Robert Kizer Patterson, Albemarle; John William Peddycord, Winston - Salem; Francis Wheeler Pelone, Charlotte; Aubrey Wilford Redmon, Leakesville; Les-Robert James Roquemore Jr., Anlie Walter Riley Jr., Burlington; drews, S. C.; Elmon Shelton Russell, Albemarle; Lewis Hubert Ruth Jr., Lincolnton; William Marsh Sanders, Raleigh; Frank Richard Schwartz, Phillipsburg, N. J.

Donald Clemmons Seifert, Henderson; Ernest Randolph Shives Jr., Lincolnton; Raymond Richard Showfety, Greensboro; Grace Pickard Silvers, Chapel Hill; Zebulon Vance Smith Jr., Concord; James Harrison Smitherman, Winston-Salem; Pete Franklin Smitherman, Winston - Salem; Clemie Dixon Spangler Jr., Charlotte; Robert Arthur Spaugh Jr., Winston-Salem; Robert Pincknew Stacy Jr., West Hartford, Conn.; George Wier Strickland, Liberty; William Carroll Summerlin, Dunn; Ben Thompson Tison III, Charlotte; John LeRoy Townsend Jr., Lumberton; Thatcher Lovejoy Townsend, Greensboro; Charles Wise Trent, Reidsville; Everett Louis Wagner, Raleigh; Leonard Forrest Walker, Kernersville; Frank Kelso Wassom, Paris, Ken.; Kimble Carson Yates, Raleigh; Aaron Jones Yorke IV, Concord.

Jenkins M. Robertson, Charlotte; Eugene L. Roberts, Pikeville; William Thomas Neal, Greensboro; Margaret B. Entzminger, Sao Paulo, Brazil; Edne Virginia Breece, Highlands; William J. O'Sullivan, Urbanna, Va., and Robert McLean Upton, Ventnor, N. J.

What Goes On Here

Tar Heels and Toes

The Tar Heels and Toes Club will meet in the woman's gym today from 5 o'clock till 6:30.

Square Dance

The YMCA will sponsor its second square dance of the season Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Y court. Round and folk dancing are on the program and there will be a refreshment stand. Admission is free. Carl Gregory will do the calling.

Dental Dames

Dean Katherine Carmichael will speak tonight at 8 in the assembly room of the library to the Dental Dames and their guests, the wives of the dental school faculty.

Publications Board

The Publications Board meets today at 4 o'clock in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

French Club

The French Supper Club will meet tonight at 6 on the second floor of Lenoir Hall.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega will meet tonight at 7 in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial. All members and pledges are asked to be present.

Phi Assembly

The Phi Assembly will meet tonight at 8 in Phi Hall. All members absent without excuse will be fined.

Cheerleaders

Cheerleader tryouts will continue today in Kenan Stadium at 4 p.m. Head cheerleader Jim Fountain wants people with interest, enthusiasm and coordination. Although tumblers are particularly needed, previous experience is not necessary.

Young Methodists

Dr. J. P. Harland will speak to the Young Adults Club of the Methodist Church tonight at 7:30 in the Wesley lounge.

19 Journalism School Pupils On Dean's List

Nineteen students in the School of Journalism at the University of North Carolina made the Dean's List for the quarter just ended, it was announced today by Dean O. J. Coffin.

Those listed were: Sara Jeanette Chance, Lumberton; Charles W. Haskett, Elizabeth City; Frances Virginia Hatcher, Bedford, Va.; Frances C. McColl, Bennettsville, S. C.; Betty Ann Kirby, Winston-Salem; Jack Owen Moody Jr., Durham; Beverly B. Ware, Clemson, S. C.; Eugene Ray Watson, Charlotte; Wallace E. Harrison, Spencer; Elinor Wrenn, Greensboro;

James Robert Ward, Caroleen; James Kenneth Sanford, Enka;

"That extra dash of Angostura* sure produces a heavy tip!"

ANGOSTURA®
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. Here's another tip! Besides using Angostura to bring out the true flavor of Manhattans and Old Fashioneds, put a dash or two in soups and sauces.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1. Bird's bill
5. Cut finely
9. River (It.)
10. Natural elevation
11. Mends, as a bone
12. Mountains (So. Am.)
14. Mature
15. Humor
16. Mulberry
17. Missouri (abbr.)
18. A son of Adam
20. Tuber (So. Am.)
21. Wandering
23. Monetary unit (Siam.)
24. Full of ore
25. Flightless bird
26. Nourishment
28. Sounds, as a goose
31. Away
32. Gasp
33. Greek letter
34. Whether
35. A Scottish financier
36. Torrid
37. Son of Jacob and Leah (poss.)
39. Garden tool
41. Narrow inlets (geol.)
42. South American republic
43. Wither
44. Generations

DOWN

1. City in Maine
2. One of the Great Lakes
3. Emmet
4. Unit of land distance (India)
5. Series of metal links
6. Cue
7. Ancient
8. Interlace
11. Esker
13. Narrow strip of wood
15. Humor
18. Comb, as wool
19. Some
20. Trees
22. Covering of a house
23. A piece of sculpture
25. One (Scotch var.)
26. Balk
27. Proffers
28. Fruit of Old World hawthorn
29. A going out
30. Location
32. Outmoded
35. One who lies
36. Long-eared rodent
38. Contend
39. Resort
40. Wooden pin

4-28

Yesterday's Answer

AN APOLOGY

Men, I've made a mistake.

When I ordered a few copies of this new book THE UNFAIR SEX, I thought it was a trifle about the love life of brunettes—a subject that has always interested me.

But it's not. It's dynamite.

This little snippet, Nina Farewell is a combination of Kinsey and Machiavelli—and she's guning for the male. She must have been peeping in your window and mine. She TELLS ALL!

Alas Alas! Alas!

All the little secrets we've kept from the women, and which have led to so much boyish fun, are betrayed! If this book gets around, etchings will lose their charm, the cinder in the eye will be wasted. This wench actually lists the eighteen most successful lines, including the Charity Drive, and the Scientific Approach—and gives the correct counter-play for each.

If this thing gets around, it will be serious. Your line and mine will be greeted with snickers instead of sighs. The most romantic primrose path will give two shakes and a twist, and run right up to the old altar.

Not that it doesn't anyway.

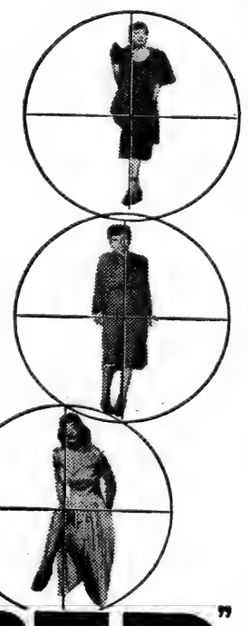
Pals, counter-espionage is the only hope. Fork out that $2.95 for a copy of THE UNFAIR SEX, and at least you'll know how many of our secrets are now known to the lady with the big brown eyes.

Paul Smith

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

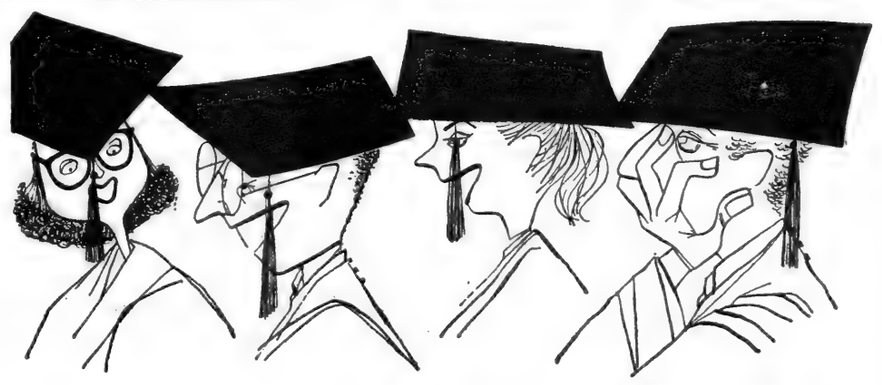


"H"

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre
3 MILES WEST OF CARRBORO • HIWAY 54

TONIGHT

ANNE BAXTER
THE GIRL WHO LIVED TO DESTROY
Satan in Skirts



THEY WERE ALL BRUNETTES... ALL UNDER 30...

AND THEY ALL CROSSED THE PATH OF "THE SNIPER"

COLUMBIA PICTURES presents A STANLEY KRAMER COMPANY Production "THE SNIPER" with Adolphe MENJOU • Arthur FRANZ • Gerald Mohr • Marie Windsor • Frank Faylen • Screen Play by Harry Brown • Associate Producers — Edna and Edward Anhalt • Directed by Edward Dmytryk

T-O-D-A-Y

Varsity

Campus capers call for Coke

Commencement's a big day

...so get off to the right start.

Pause for a frosty bottle of delicious Coca-Cola

—and be refreshed.

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

Durham Coca-Cola Bottling Company

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Now you get more for your Bond money!

New law says—

U.S. Series E Bonds can earn interest 10 years longer-at 3%

If you invested in U. S. Series E Bonds ten years ago and have held them ever since you'll profit by this new law NOW! For those same Bonds, which you expected to mature finally in 1953 can now earn 3% interest every year for ten more years —till 1963—without your even lifting a finger!

The new extended earning period applies to any Series E Bond —those you already own or those you invest in from now on. What's more, every Series E Bond you get now begins earning interest sooner, and at a higher rate. It matures earlier and averages 3%, compounded semiannually, when held to maturity.

If you wish, you may still cash any Series E Bond at any time after you've owned it for two months. But you'll be wiser to hold your Bonds. Cash in the pocket melts away, too often with nothing to show for it. But cash in Bond savings is always there. And if your Bonds should be accidentally lost or destroyed they will be replaced, at full value, with no cost to you.

So if you are not already one of the millions of wise Americans who are investing in a secure future, why not start now? Invest in Savings Bonds today regularly through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Thousands say it's the one sure way to save—because it saves something out of every check before you have a chance to spend it.

If you want to be paid your interest as current income— invest in 3% Series H

If you want a good, sound investment which pays you your interest by check every six months, ask at your bank about United States Government Series H Bonds. Series H is a new current income Bond available in denominations of $500 to $10,000. Redeemable at par after 6 months and on 30 days' notice. Matures in 9 years and 8 months and pays an average 3% interest per annum if held to maturity. Interest paid semi-annually by Treasury check. Series H may be purchased at any bank, annual limit $20,000.

Now even better! Invest more in Savings Bonds!

The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertising. The Treasury Department thanks, for their patriotic donation, the Advertising Council and

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Cloudy and warmer with 82 high. Yesterday's high and low, 75 and 50.

The Daily Tar Heel

PROFIT
The editor senses a perverted sense of values. Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 139 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

'God Bless America'

Guys, Dolls Have Fun At Butner

By Joyce Adams

Specialty dances, novelty songs group singing and a hillbilly band make for a lively afternoon. And that's how it was Sunday when a group of Carolina students visited the boys of the Youth Rehabilitation Center at Camp Butner.

The 100 boys welcomed the students with a rousing version of "Hark The Sound." Then followed a round of informal but vigorous fun in which the boys and their visitors alike let down their hair to entertain each other.

During group singing and instrumental numbers, some of the more light-hearted individuals put on spontaneous acts in the form of specialty dances and vocal solos and duets. Music for the occasion was provided by the band consisting of washtub viol, sax, guitar and piano which played mighty presentable hillbilly music.

The assembly broke up after singing "God Bless America," and everybody mingled informally, getting to know one another.

The visitors were escorted through the new Center, a modern white colonial community on the crest of a hill.

The inmates of the Rehabilitation Center are boys ranging in age from 16 to 26 who have criminal records. They are selected for the Youth Center because of superior qualities of intellect and character which could be put to good use in society if given the proper guidance. The state, believing in its youth, has set up this center to help boys, who, because of circumstances, never had a chance to adjust to society.

There they learn a trade, learn how to get along with others and accept responsibility, so they may become useful citizens in their community. The atmosphere is one of a boys' rather than that of a penal institution.

However, their life being necessarily limited, the boys welcome the opportunity to visit with young people from the outside. The Carolina students were impressed with

(See BUTNER, Page 3)

A MILLION-DOLLAR QUARTET of music masters entertained a packed Memorial Hall crowd of German Clubbers Saturday afternoon in the Spring Germans concert. Left to right they are Jimmy Dorsey, Ray Anthony, Tommy Dorsey and Kay Kyser. The Dorsey Brothers announced their plans for a May 13 merger. Anthony and his band drifted over from a Duke lawn concert. Kyser, who lives in Chapel Hill, was summoned from his garden for the occasion. His clothes were no gimmick; he just didn't have time to change. (Photo by Cornell Wright.)

Group Elects Dean Weaver

Dean of Students Fred Weaver was recently chosen vice-president of the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators.

Weaver has been an active member of the group for several years. He has served on numerous committees and study groups for the association.

The election took place at the 35th anniversary conference at Michigan College on April 6-9.

Dean Robert M. Strozier, of the University of Chicago, was selected president of the group.

Hogg Awarded 1-Year Study

A senior in anthropology, Donald Hogg of Astoria, Ore., is one of the 101 outstanding students in the country to win a one-year National Woodrow Wilson Fellowship just conferred by the Association of Graduate Schools in the 37-member Association of American Universities, it was learned here today.

The National Woodrow Wilson Fellowships are awards reserved for young scholars showing "marked promise for the teaching profession and possessing the highest qualities of intellect, personality and character."

The 101 recipients this year were successful canddiates among 1,263 nominated for the honors by American and Canadian educators.

Hogg, who graduates here this year, has elected to spend his one year Wilson fellowship in graduate study at the University. He is circulation manager of The Daily Tar Heel.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON—A faint, fresh glimmer of hope that the Communists may actually be moving toward a truce in Korea has been found by officials here in the latest Red proposals for dealing with prisoners of war. This feeling was not substantially changed by the United Nations threat to suspend the talks once again unless the Communists produce a constructive solution. In the latest Red proposals, presented to the U. S. Command Monday, the Communists appeared for the first time to recognize officially that some prisoners held by the U. N. may never be willing to go home to Red China or Korea.

★

WASHINGTON—A former Communist told Senate investigators yesterday how he stole plans for a landing craft engine during World War II and delivered them to Russian agents. Thad Mason, then employed at a General Motors plant in Cleveland, O., said he took the plans in 1944 or 1945. He said the blueprints were secretly delivered to the plant cafeteria, photographed there, and later returned to the files. Mason testified before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

★

LONDON — Chinese Communist Foreign Minister Chou En-lai yesterday joined Soviet Foreign Minister Viacheslav Molotov in calling for a Big Five peace conference. His action was reported by the New China news agency. Chou expressed his support of the proposal made by the Communist "International Committee of the Congress of the Peoples for Peace." That group called for the United States, Russia, Red China, Britain and France to meet to negotiate a pact of peace. The New China, Britain and France to meet to negotiate a pact of peace.

★

GUANTANAMO, Cuba—A boiler room explosion aboard the U. S. aircraft carrier Bennington about 50 miles offshore from this Naval base caused the death of 11 members of the crew. The U. S. Naval Base authorities here said four other persons aboard the Bennington were injured in the explosion Monday while the flat top was engaged in maneuvers between Guantanamo and Puerto Rico. The Navy said the ship was navigating at a low rate of speed at the time of the explosion. A board of officers was appointed to investigate the accident.

UN Model Assembly

A final briefing session for the U.N. Model Assembly will be held at 5 p.m. on the second floor of the Y. Attendance of at least one delegate from each country is required.

May 21 Is Final Day For Deferment Exams

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, today reminded college students that applications for the May 21 Selective Service College Qualification Test must be submitted to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, not later than midnight May 11.

The May 21 test is primarily for students prevented by illness or other emergencies from taking the test April 23, but General Hershey emphasized that this did not bar any qualified student from taking the test if his application is mailed before the deadline. He also stressed that students who have a certificate of admission for the April 23 test which they failed to use on the assigned date must submit new applications if they wish to take the May 21 test. The old certificates, he pointed out, will not admit a student to the May 21 test.

General Hershey said the May 21 test will be the last test this school year.

The student may obtain a new application from any Selective Service local board. The application blanks should be submitted as soon as possible to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, Administrators of the Test, who, in turn, will mail the admission certificate direct to the student.

To be eligible to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test an applicant on the testing date (1) must be a Selective Service registrant who intends to request deferment as a student; (2) must be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time college course, undergraduate or graduate, leading to a degree; (3) must not previously

(See DRAFT TEST, Page 4)

AIR FORCE CAPTAIN ZACK Dean gets a welcome kiss from his wife, Abigail, as he arrives at the Tachikawa Air Force Base in Japan after a flight from Korea. Captain Dean, a former prisoner-of-war, was repatriated by the Communists at Panmunjom.—NEA Radio Photo.

Square Dance

The YMCA will sponsor its second square dance of the season Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Y court. Round and folk dancing are on the program and there will be a refreshment stand. Admission is free; come with or without dates. Carl Gregory will do the calling.

PB Gives Nod To All Neill Men

The Publications Board yesterday approved all the new Daily Tar Heel appointments.

Approved by the board were John Jamison, managing editor; Jim Schenck, business manager; Tom Peacock, sports editor; Bob Slough, news editor; Don Hogg, circulation manager; Tom Witty, subscription manager; Sidney Shuford, assistant business manager, and Bob Wolfe, advertising manager.

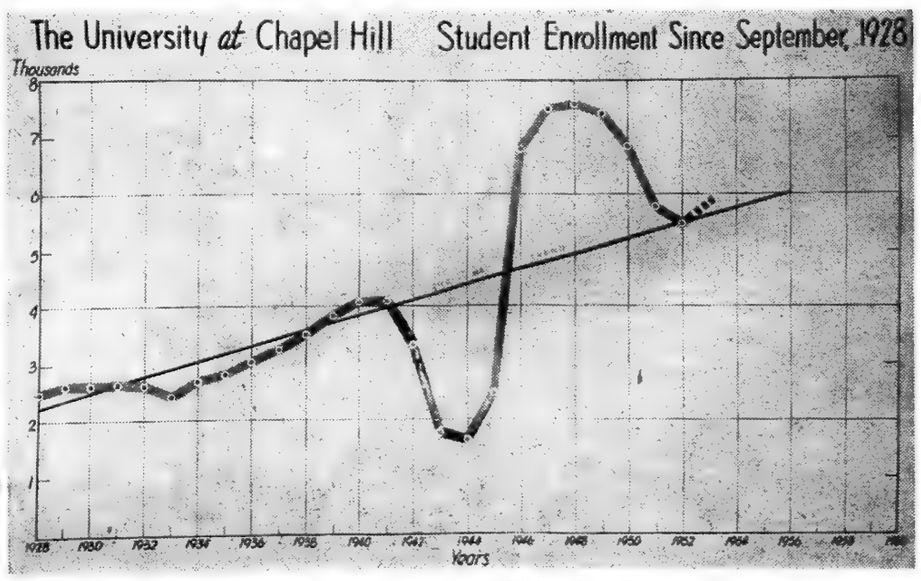
Yesterday's meeting was the initial one for the newly elected board.

Joe Raff was elected chairman of the board, Ed Starnes, treasurer and Louis Kraar, secretary.

A committee of legislators visited the meeting to discuss the still unapproved Daily Tar Heel budget. Outgoing chairman Walt Dear outlined the policies of the Board for the visitors.

Russ Cowell was found ineligible for the board since he is considering accepting the post of Yackety-Yack business manager. Cowell explained that he was unaware of the conflict. Editors and business managers of publications can't serve on the Board under a new law.

Cowell's replacement will be appointed by student body President Bob Gorham.



Muntzing Is New Chairman Of Y Editions

Manning Muntzing, from Moorefield, W. Va., has been appointed Chairman of YMCA Publications for the 153-54 Cabinet, according to YMCA President-Elect Ned Harbin.

Muntzing is editor-in-chief of the 1953 Carolina Handbook which the YMCA publishes annually and sends to each incoming freshman before he leaves home. Muntzing attended the 1952 Freshman Camp and has been active in the Freshman Friendship Council as well as in the United Nations Committee.

In his new duties Muntzing will supervise the various publications put out by the YMCA which in addition to the Handbook, include the Student Directory, the Carolina YMCA Quarterly and the weekly calendar "This Week in U.N.C."

President Harbin and his executive committee are getting the personnel lined up for next year's cabinet and committees. All students who are interested in working in the YMCA are invited to attend the meeting tonight at 7 o'clock in the Cabinet Room of the YMCA Building. Among other committees being organized tonight is the Membership Council, under the chairmanship of Bob Hyatt, YMCA vice-president.

THE ABOVE GRAPH, showing enrollment here since 1928, indicates sporadic drops and increases but a general trend of steady increase, shown by the straight line. The most recent figure is that of applications accepted and pending on April 1, 1953. That figure is 1,244 as compared to an even 800 on April 1 last year. Administration personnel explain the more than 50 per cent rise from one year to the next by pointing to three factors: reassertion of the pre-war trend; the coming of age of the people born around 1934, '35 (a period of high birth rate); and the enrollment of Korea veterans.

Legislature Omits DTH From Budget

By Ken Sanford

The student legislature in a special session Monday night struck The Daily Tar Heel from next year's budget as it approved the rest of the budget.

The appropriation requested by The Daily Tar Heel will be investigated and acted upon by the new legislature. In making the motion to leave out the appropriation Gene Cook (SP) said that the possibility of changing the paper to tabloid form next year should be investigated.

In supporting the tabloid change Cook said that the legislature should "do right by the students" and use their money in the best possible way to get the most use from it. He suggested that the money saved could be used by the Student Entertainment Committee.

Wade Matthews said that the matter of tabloid or standard form should be left to the Publications Board. He added that it is none of the legislature's business what kind of paper the board wants after the funds have been appropriated.

The legislature also added another amendment to the constitution to be considered by the student body in the election on Tuesday, May 5. The amendment would allow the legislature to subsidize an independent publication with an amount up to $1,000 will also vote on NSA and student gym fees at that time.

This amendment was approved after Charlotte Davis, editor of the Carolina Quarterly, put in a request for $500 from the legislature last week.

The student body will vote on this amendment at the same time it voes on NSA and gym fees.

Some legislators received notices that the special session would meet last night instead of Monday night. In spite of that a quorum was present Monday night.

Beyer, Prince Trotman Head New Play Cast

John Miller of Signal Mountain, Tenn., student director of "Judgment Over Daniel" to be presented May 14 to 15 in the Playmakers Theatre, today listed his cast for the new play.

The play is the work of Frank Groseclose of Atlanta, Ga. Entirely student-produced, "Judgment Over Daniel" is under the supervision of Thomas M. Patterson of the Playmakers staff. There will be no admission charge for the production.

Playing leading roles are Lillian Prince of Chapel Hill as Mother Graham and William Trotman of Winston-Salem as Father Graham, with Milton Beyer, Alden, N. Y. in the title role. Other members of the Graham family are Nancy, played by Betty Vickery of Gadsden, Ala., Agatha, Neta Whitty of New Bern; and Robert, Charles Hadley of Statesville.

"Judgment Oover Daniel" will be the last full-length student production of the season.

Nicol Elected Law President

Rod Nicol, second-year law student from Lexington, was elected president of the Law School Association for the coming year last week.

He defeated Bob Hight of Henderson, 97-60, in a runoff election held last Friday. Lucius Pullen of Rocky Mount had been eliminated in an earlier vote. Nicol's term will begin on June 1.

Other Association officers elected were Jim White, Kannapolis, vice-president; Naomi Morris, Wilson, secretary; Mike McLeod, Chapel Hill, treasurer; and Elton Pridgen Salem, chief justice of the law school court.

John Ingram, Asheboro, was elected president of the third-year class and Jim Strickland, Wilson, president of the second-year class. Other class officers, including representatives to the Law School Legislature, were also chosen.

Summer Jobs Assigned To Air Instructors

Summer assignments for the Air Force ROTC Instructors here were listed today by Lt. Col. Jesse J. Moorhead, Commander of the unit.

Six officers and two airmen from Chapel Hill will participate in AFROTC Summer Camp training sessions at four southeastern Air Force bases.

In order to provide training for approximately 17,000 AFROTC Cadets throughout the country, the Air Force is holding summer training sessions of four weeks duration at 61 Air Force Bases. Most of the training periods will begin June 2, although some bases plan to hold a second session beginning either July 20 or 27.

Of the Carolina instructors, only Lt. Colonel Raymond H. Maker, associate professor of air science and tactics, and director of administration, is scheduled to attend the July session. He will report to Maxwell Air Force Base July 20.

Lt. Colonel Mark T. Orr, director of training of the UNC unit, and Major Robert L. Bunting, fund control officers will report to Shaw A.F. Base, Sumter, S. C., while Major Joe O. Young, Captain E. D. Robertson, and Captain James A. Schofield will report to Donaldson Air Force Base, Greenville, S. C., June 15. T/Sgt. Lester Stroud and S/Sgt. Marshall N. Wilson will report to Turner Air Force Base, Albany, Georgia on the same date.

Later in the summer, three Carolina instructors, Lt. Colonel Mark T. Orr, Major Robert L. Bunting, and Major Joe O. Young will attend "workshop" sessions of two weeks duration at the University of Virginia Franklin and Marshall, and Lehigh University respectively.

The summer workshops are designed to implement the changeover of the AFROTC from a specialized curriculum, now in effect, to a new generalized curriculum scheduled for inception in September, 1953. Lt. Colonel Mark T. Orr participated in the conference at Air University which designed the new curriculum.

Scroggs Talks Tonight On TV In Education

Several experimental television programs will be shown tonight in connection with a talk by Ross Scroggs of the Communications Center.

Scroggs has been closely connect-Television: Its Problems and Prospects."

The Communications Center has filmed thirteen preliminary programs, ranging in subject from "Topping Tobacco" to "Professor Epps discussing Greek Tragedy." The program tonight will deal with the particular problems of educational television, with special attention to the production of programs relating to the humanities.

The English Club is presenting the program. It will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Assembly Room of the Library. Coffee and cookies will be served prior to Scroggs' talk at 8 o'clock. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Scroggs has ben closely connected with the filming of these experimental programs in his capacity as associate director of production. A UNC graduate of the class of '41, he has been with the Communications Center since 1947.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Vardy Buckalew
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Schindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Eddie Starnes.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: John Jamison

What Profiteth It . . .

Periodically during South Building waits we have overheard some alarming student conversation. Take a recent remark: "I've got to drop this course. It's ruining my Phi Bete average."

The student is worried about what a certain course is going to do to his scholastic honor average; we're worried about what the student is doing to Phi Beta Kappa and what his perverted sense of values is doing to him.

A student who earns a Phi Bete key without detriment to himself naturally has our respect and admiration. However, we are concerned with the student who skips or drops courses and elects others—in at least two cases even changed majors—for the sake of grades, who devotes four years of college to one end: a 92.5 average.

Students are not entirely to blame for this burlesque of academics. Partially it is caused by our system of education which, because seemingly it can find no other way to provoke most students, tries to stimulate achievement by numbers in the 90's. Educators are working to change this, but in the meantime the University continues to grind out these graduates with a gold key that will unlock nothing.

What can be done to channel these students into the stream of awareness? How can this self-fraud be stopped? First, we think the student should try on his own initiative to reorient his perspective. Some thought on the matter should bring him to the conclusion that he is errant. But because it's hard to help oneself we propose that others do something.

Next Fall when orientation gets underway for incoming freshmen, it should be explained to them what Phi Beta Kappa represents. This should be done by someone competent to do it, Dean of Awards E. L. Mackie perhaps. Let the student president of the honor group also share in the explanation. Be as lucid then, about scholastic attainment as the Carolina Way of Life, Campus or Honor Codes.

The Daily Tar Heel's third idea would center upon the student adviser. As counsel for the student, the adviser usually is in the best position to sense why the student wants to make a switch or evade a course. If it is apparent that the motive is bad the adviser must not allow the change.

What profiteth it a man to gain a whole transcript of A's and sacrifice his integrity, course work, and the respect of others.

High Note

Reflections on a defeated candidate: If Rollie Tillman can edit a yearbook as well as he can play a saxaphone (Monday night's band concert at the Fleece tap) we hope he will run again next Spring.

A Toast

Tom Parramore

Let us all drink a toast to a writer,
To the man with the talented quill,
To the tireless toiler and fighter
Before he goes—"over the hill."

Tip a glass to the man of the hour,
Who guided us all through the year,
That his memory never grow sour—
Let us term him forever Walt,—dear.

May he earn editorial glory
To an unprecedented degree.
May he be there to take down the story
When Gabriel trumpets high C.

May he find that his cup runneth over.
May he drink of success to his fill.
May he roll in proverbial clover
When he has gone "over the hill."

The Livespike

Rolfe Neill

One who is looking for a rollicking evening should drop in on one of the campus political meetings, and he's likely to find it funniest during one of the major nominating sessions.

Last Fall when this paper was left without an editor as globe-trotting Barry Farber was trotted off by Uncle Sam, it became the duty of the two political parties to nominate candidates to run for the job.

The University Party was expected to nominate Biff Roberts and did. (Note: Howdever, many, including myself, were surprised that a rival candidate got about half as many nominating votes as did Roberts. This was particularly astonishing since Roberts was chairman of the UP last Spring when the UP bounded to victory in practically every race it ran outsie the Legislature. He got a raw deal.)

Walt Dear, who finaly won the post, was expected to get the SP nomination until he pulled a poitical switcheroo on the front room boys (it was the back room which engineered the switcheroo) and filed independently. However, Dear wanted SP backing so his representatives showed up at their nominating session. I showed up, too.

Now Dear faced opposition in the SP, for those to whom he wasn't dear put up a barricade against him in the form of John Jamison, Daily Tar Heel South Building reporter. Jamison subsequently appeared and said he appreciated the honor but wanted to decline. He would not be a candidate under any circumstances, he said.

The following quotes, however absurd they may seem, were taken during the ensiting talks about the candidates. Each paragraph is one person's speech or a portion of his speech.

"We must realize that only so many people are available . . . that only so many people are qualified. The one man who is qualified is Walt Dear."

"Now I'm in Journalism School with John Jamison. I know most of that stuff is a crip, but he goes at every course as if it is a biochemistry course . . . He's the most sane, intelligent boy I know." (She soon got pinned, but not to Jamison).

"I'd like to speak a few words from my heart about Walt Dear . . . We don't want to throw The DTH election into the slop of politics. (Then, later, referring to Roberts:) He wrote the most slop, the most scurrilous articles against the chairman of the SP last Spring I ever saw . . . If you can conceive of a man who was chairman of the UP and campaign manager for Ham Horton making an impartial newspaper, I can't. It's time we realized we've got to nominate a man. I move we accept Walt Dear by acclamation!"

"We expect above all, with God's help, to have an editor who won't run a rag. Roberts will."

"Jamison would be a human sacrifice."

"Is Dear's running a repudiation of the Student Party?"

No, the party said. Ten for Dear; seven for Jamison.

"You Shouldn't Be Burdened With All This Stuff"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It has now been just about a year since the U.S. Congress voted $125,000,000 for Dictator Franco—on condition Franco inturn give the United States air and naval bases in Spain. But despite all the earlier publicity about Franco's desire to cooperate, the money so far has not been spent and in a few more weeks the appropriation will automatically revert to the treasury. It may save the taxpayers considerable money.

This illustrates a new and recent technique for conducting our foreign affairs—by and through the agents of foreign governments.

Under the Constitution, the President and State Department are supposed to conduct our foreign affairs by and with the consent of the Senate. But in recent years some foreign governments have hired Washington lawyers with influence in high places to go over the heads of the State Department and White House.

Further, they have sometimes been amazingly successful, as for instance, the China Lobby, shown in a recent column to have been able to make Formosa almost more important than American lives in Korea; able also to overrule both a Democratic and a Republican State Department.

As another illustration, the Spanish lobby was able to get $125,000,000 appropriated for Franco at a time when the State Department opposed the appropriation, at a time when Congress was supposed to be economiding, and at a time when Franco himself would not, and still has not granted air and naval bases to the United States in return.

One reason Franco has not accepted U. S. terms for air and naval bases is because he thinks his lawyer-agents in Washington are potent enough to go over the heads of the State, Air Force and Navy Departments. And in the past, like the China Lobby, they have been able to do do.

Here is the case history of certain lawyers for foreign governments and how they operate.

Chief attorney for Franco in Washington is Charles Patrick Clark, who does not conceal his connection but registers with the Justice Repartment as provided under the Foreign Agents Registration Act. He received $103,499.55 from the Spanish Embassy in 1951 and $108,250 in 1950. The ertra $5,000 in 1950 was for breaking the ice on the first U.S. loan to Spain. In 1952 he got $79,500.

Another Franco attorney who dutifully registers with the Justice Department is Mar Truitt, son-in-law of the popular ex-vice president, Alben Barkley. He received $22,000 in 1951 and $11,000 in 1952.

Clark's lobbying activities have chiefly been through certain friends he has carefully cultivated in Congress. Among them are Congressman Eugene Keogh of Brooklyn, Democrat, ex-Senator Owen Brewster of Maine, Republican and Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, Republican. All three have been taken on hospitable junkets through Spain, usually with Attorney Cark as the chaperone.

One of the most interesting among these associations is Congressman Keogh, who though in Congress ever since 1938, for eleven years took no appreciable interest in Spain. Then suddenly after a decad eof silence, Keogh strangely became the champion of Dictator Franco. He littered the Congressional Record with statements favorable to Spain. He interrupted Congressional debates to defend Spain. He offered an amendment to include Spain in Marshal Plan money.

This began in 1949. It was in that same year that Keogh paid a visit to Spain ,along with Franco Attorney Charles Patrick Clark, and while riding on a Spanish train was reported to have had $5,000 stolen, together with his pants, when he hung them too near a sleeping car window.

Shortly thereafter in early 1950, Keogh received a total of $4,500 from Clark, which Clark claims was for help which the Congressman gave him for a client in a tax case. Since another New York Congressman, Vincent Quinn, has now been indicted for taking a fee in a Federal tax case, this puts Keogh in a bad position any way you look at it.

Another Solon who pulled Spanish coals out of the Congressional fire for lawyer Clark was the likable, busy little Senator from Maine, Owen Brewster. The two were close friends, lived near each other in the Mayflower Hotel, frequently playd gin rummy together. During this period, Brewster was the constant defender of Franco in the Senate, urged that funds be voted him.

Summer Abroad

Barbara Braxton

Uncle Si and Aunt Edna, actually Dr. and Mrs. DeWitt C. Baldwin, about 16 years ago started a summer interest camp in Lisle, N. Y., for all young people. They called it Lisle Fellowship.

Having been missionaries in Burma for many years, when they returned they saw such a need for a greater understanding among nationalities and faiths, that htey began with a few in their own home in Lisle. Since then Lisle Fellowship has grown with locations in Connecticut, Colorado, Michigan, California, and Denmark.

I went to the California Unit, located just across the Golden Gate Bridge in Muir Woods, in 1950. It was camp site with a main house and surrounding cabins. There were 46 of us there—a varied collection of nationalities, religions, races, and personalities.

The first week was spent in getting to know each other over the after-dinner dishes, in front of a big fire place, or wandering through the mountain trails. At times like this, the personal relationships began, grew, and remained to be cherished.

On weekends the group, divided into teams of four to ten, ventured out into different communities within a 250 mile radius to do various things.

Sometimes it was hard work on a tobacco farm or olive ranch, or just a vacation in someone's shore home, or work in a mental institution, or helping in church projects or community centers. It was always unpredictable. Of course these weekend escapades had been arranged beforehand.

After the weekends everyone returned to camp, discussed, and evaluated each team's experiences and problems. These discussions had the greatest carry-over value for me.

What specifically Lisle Fellowship is, has been discussed over and over by Lislers through its history, and no definition can take in all of the aspects of what it really is. It has such a different meaning for each individual who goes.

To me Lisle is a group of people and a place where one might go to begin and develop unexplored areas of thinking; Lisle opens these varied and new areas.

Persons selected to have this experience are either college students or young adults ready for group experience. They are diverse in nationalities, religious beliefs, racial background, personality traits and vocational interests.

Lisle reminds me of the idea of play therapy for children except it's a kind of therapy for maturing adults. It's a kind of situation which permits an individual to be himself and that self is accepted completely. One is without the tension or pressure to abide by someone else's standards, rules and expectations.

My most outstanding adventure was a weekend within a Chinese neighborhood of San Francisco which has the largest Chinatown outside of China. There are over 30,000 people living in a few cluttered blocks.

Six of us carried sleeping bags and made our quarters in a classroom of a Methodist Church which was a center for the young people. It's quite unforgettable the hospitality they show in accepting us so warmly, not as representatives of white people, Germans, or Swedes, but as personal friends.

That summer was full of new experiences and horizons. Such memorable occasions as the nights we spent sleeping out on Mt. Talmapais, to the right the mono-lit Pacific Ocean, to the left silhouettes of tremendous mountains, in between the lights of San Francisco.

Applications or information can be obtained from Dr. DeWitt C. Baldwin, Lisle Fellowship, Lane Hall, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich.

(This is the second in a series of articles about summer travel abroad.)

Express Yourself

Editor:

How many students here at Carolina have ever seen their Student Legislature in action (I use the word 'action' because it is more fitting than 'session')?

If the number is as small as I think it is and if the session of the Legislature which met last Thursday in anyway typical of the Legislature, which met last Thursday is in anyway typical of the Legislature, I must say, without reservation, that it is better than an evening of Martin and Lewis, Abbott and Costello and Alec Guinness, all rolled into one. For laughs, comedy and mirth, it just can't be beat. I am ashamed to say that I've been in school for almost three years and have been to only two meetings of the Legislature, but from now on, I'll always finess a Thursday night flick for an evening with the Legislature.

If you, the average student, think that Carolina Politics is in anyway personified by the so-called "politicking" during campaigns, you should have seen the Legislature meeting I saw. Then you would know what petty politics are, what a bloc vote is, and what blind faith some legislators have in their party leaders.

Last Thursday the budget of student government was on the agenda and slated for passing, mainly because it was the last scheduled meeting of that session. Well, it was passed after more than an hour of haggling and bickering. But, later it was moved to bring the budget back on the floor for re-discussion. More bickering, more heated discussion ensued until finally after lack of decorum had reigned, a lack of a quorum was called and the Legislature collapsed without having accomplished its mission.

May I add in closing that if the Legislature chose to charge admission and if they put oue some good publicity, the student block fee could be abolished and with this income, we'd run no danger of a deficit at the end of the year.

Leaving aside the sarcasm, I want to say that if last Thursday night is indicative of what our Student Legislature is and how it functions, I am ashamed to be a voting student of this University. Now I know what a former editor of The Daily Tar Heel meant when he said, "Vote, dammit, or you deserve what you get." I voted and I don't deserve what I got.

Russ Cowell

Tar Heel Baseballers Slam 17 Hits, Beat State, 13-3

Carolina Ties For First Place In Big Four; Port Takes Sixth

By Tom Peacock

Carolina's baseball team reached its high point of the season here yesterday, slamming 17 hits to rout N. C. State, 13-3, and tie for first place in Big Four standings.

Chal Port was master of the Wolfpack in every inning but the first when it got all three of its runs, holding the Pack to five hits while taking his sixth victory against one defeat.

Although the Tar Heels made four errors, they more than made up for it with their hitting and flashes of brilliance in the field.

Al Long, sophomore left fielder, was successful in one of his few starts today, robbing State first baseman Ed Morris of a homer with a 400-foot running catch, and then banging a triple himself.

Port hit the only home run of the game, stretching a line drive single when center fielder John Fuscoe misplayed the ball.

The Pack opened the game with three runs on as many hits, and held the lead until the second. Lead-off-man Dudley Whitley tripled, Johnny Yvars and Morris singled, and an error brought the runs in.

Carolina pushed six runs across in the second on five hits, including triples by Harry Lee Lloyd and Connie Gravitte. The outburst chased starter Tommy Hargrove who gave up two runs in the first on three hits. Ed Horbelt relieved and held Carolina runless until the sixth.

The Tar Heels picked up three in the sixth on four hits, and two in the seventh on four more hits to finish their scoring.

Four batters in the Carolina lineup got three hits, and everyone in the lineup hit except clean-up hitter Bobby Williams. John Mostinger, Ed Hooks, Fred Dale, and Harry Lloyd all picked up three safeties.

SC Expected Not To Lift Ban On Bowls

The Southern Conference is expected to defeat proposals at its meeting in Greensboro, May 8, to lift the ban on post-season bowl games and abolish all freshman teams.

This was indicated yesterday in a poll of several conference members. Maryland has submitted a proposal aimed at lifting the ban on post-season bowl games.

It asked that conference teams be permitted to "compete in those extra events approved by the National Collegiate Athletic Association." The major bowl games are NCAA approved.

Virginia Tech has offered a proposed amendment to abolish freshman teams in all sports. Several smalled schools are expected to support this proposal, but it is conceded little chance of being approved.

A two-thirds majority, or approximately 12 schools, is required to adopt the two proposals.

Dr. Harold W. Tribble, president of Wake Forest, and John W. Harrelson, Chancellor of N. C. State, were among those against lifting the bowl ban. Duke and North Carolina officials declined to comment on the post-season bowl issue.

List New Rules For Mural Ball

The intramural department has announced new rules governing the softball games due to the many slow-moving games. The new rules went into effect this Monday.

Any team which has a lead of twelve runs at the end of three innings wins the game.

No inning of the four o'clock games may be started after 5:15 unless there is a tie. The team being ahead at that time will be the winner.

The department also announced that try-outs for Big Four Sports Day will begin on Monday, May 4.

MURALS

Today's Tennis

4:00—Phi Delt-1 vs. Chi Phi; Zetes-2 vs. Theta Chi.

5:00—Phi Gam-2 vs. Sig Chi-1.

—Butner—

(Continued from page 1)

the high moral character and attitude of the boys. They welcome the interchange of spirit and friendship, and hope that by being aware of this mutual exchange of fellowship, more people will participate in future excursions.

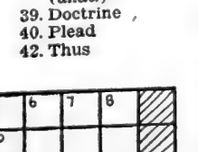
The next trip to the Center is planned for May 17. All interested townspeoeple and students are asked to sign up at the Y information office. The group will probably stay at the Center for supper following the other activities.

RALEIGH—A test of Gov. William B. Umstead's strength in the current General Assembly developed yesterday as Rep. R. Lee Whitmore moved to follow the governor's recommendations and discard Senate-approved legislation to realign the state's superior court districts.

CLASSIFIEDS

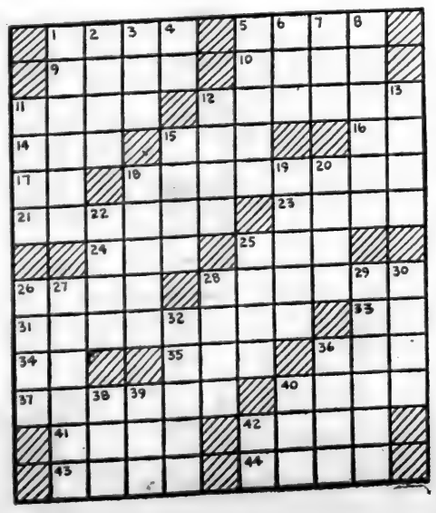
FOR SALE 6B

HOUSE TRAILER FOR SALE—25 feet—good condition—call 9-1391 after 7 p.m. 1-c8006-1



HELP WANTED, MALE 8B

OUTSIDE SALESMAN. TO SELL furniture appliances, television. Part time or full time. Must have car. Phone 5841 for appointment. Ogburn Furniture Co. chk 1x1



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Additional amount
5. Hole-piercing tools
9. An astringent substance
10. Fume
11. Bang
12. Kind of military commission
14. Sprite
15. Body of salt water
16. American moth
17. Plural pronoun
18. Punishes
21. Gazed fixedly
23. Who made first American flag?
24. Marry
25. Gain
26. Custom
28. Passed slowly
31. Stupid
33. Negative reply
34. Music note
35. India (poet.)
36. Fuss
37. Self-centered person
40. Make indistinct
41. Scottish-Gaelic
42. Prophet
43. Male sheep
44. S-shaped molding

DOWN
1. Hammerlike tool
2. Patron saint of sailors
3. Alcoholic beverage
4. Type measure
5. Tapestry
6. Tiny
7. Monetary unit (Bulg.)
8. Lengths of yarn
11. Stitches
12. Small, perforated ball
13. Hurl
15. Lean-to
18. Island off Greece
19. Anything worthless (slang)
20. Ages
22. Beards of rye
25. Magic stick
26. Mark on skin from a whip
27. A wild ass
28. Fluff from cloth
29. Bear
30. Movable barrier
32. Gets up
36. Toward the lee
38. Openings (anat.)
39. Doctrine
40. Plead
42. Thus

Yesterday's Answer

Tar Heel Tennis Team Finishes Home Season In Tomorrow's Match Against Rollins College

The Carolina tennis team will close its home schedule tomorrow afternoon against a strong Rollins team from Winter Park, Fla.

The Tar Heel's win streak of seventeen straight will definitely be in jeopardy against Rollins, which has two Mexican Davis cup players in the lineup.

Rollins was one of two teams to beat Carolina last year, and they did it quite convincingly 9-0. However, the lop-sided defeat came at a time when the Tar Heels were weakened by the absence of Herb Browne from the lineup.

This year the team should be at full strength and will have to call upon their depth if they are to win.

Playing in the number one positilon for Rollins will be Alfredo Millette, one of the Davis Cup players, who defeated Del Sylvia rather handily last year. Millette has a powerful, accurate stroke, and the number one match should be very good. Sylvia has been in top form recently.

Coach Kenfield is expected to go along with the same singles lineup which has proved so successful so far. After Sylvia the order will probably be like this: Tom Bradford, Herb Browne, Bob Payne, Don Thompson, and Pete Green.

The best doubles combinations, which have been used sparingly this season so far on account of the many one-sided victories, will probably have to be called on tomorrow.

The three best combinations are Browne and Payne, Green and Sylvia, and Bradford and Thompson. The order in which they will play is not settled, and Coach Kenfield may wait until the last minute to make up his mind.

Following this last Chapel Hill match for the netters, they will leave on their annual northern tour which will take them to most of the important Ivy-League schools which were down here earlier in the season.

A new addition to the northern schedule this season is Princeton, which always has a good team, and which is especially strong this year. Last year the team went undefeated on the trip, but they will have to play their best tennis to get off that light this year.

The netters will end the season with the Southern Conference tournament scheduled for Davidson on May 1416. The Tar Heels will have the defending champions in both the singles and doubles divisions in Sylvia and Browne and Payne. Both will probably be favored to retain their titles.

JV Golfers Win First Season Match Over Elon

The Carolina JV golf team won over Elon College yesterday in their first regular match of the season by a score of 24½ to 2½.

Top man for the Tar Heels was Jimmy Sykes who toured the course in an even par 72. Phil Kreiss had the best nine hole total by firing a three under par 33 on the back side. However, a 41 on the front nine kept him from having a subpar round.

Summaries

Kreiss defeated Don Smith, 2-1; Eric Jonas (UNC) defeated Jim Harvey, 2½-½; Kreiss and Jonas won 2-1.

Eddie Pell (UNC) defeated Wayne Workman, 3-0; Joe Correll (UNC) defeated Ray McGriff, 3-0; Pell and Correll won, 3-0.

Jimmy Sykes (UNC) defeated Bowman Small, 3-0; Charlie Erdman (UNC) defeated Huskie Hall, 3-0; Erdman and Sykes won, 3-0.

NCAA Proposes To Retain Same TV Rules For 1953

The college football teams that attracted the greatest television audiences last season may not appear on the networks next fall if the program proposed by the 1953 National Collegiate Athletic Association Television Committee is carried to the limit.

The new plan, released yesterday, has been sent to the NCAA member colleges for approval. It will go into effect when it gets a two thirds majority by a mail vote. With a few exceptions, it is much the same as the one game a week television program of 1952.

In drawing up the conditions, the committee specified that "in the selection of games, preference will be given to colleges which did not participate in network telecasting in 1952."

The sponsors, however, have the last word about what games they want to show—subject to the committee's approval and the principles laid down.

Staff Meeting

There will be a meeting of The Daily Tar Heel sports staff this afternoon at 4:00 o'clock.

Anyone interested in writing for the sports department is invited to attend the meeting. Regular staffers who cannot attend are requested to notify the office.

A Sad Parable

With A Happy Ending

Consider the case of C. Alphonso Gull.

By the end of his Freshman year he had trained one girl to wave at him, but she never waved until four minutes till eleven, and she lived in a Dormitory.

In his sophomore year he just gave up and played Field Hockey.

This year he was a junior, and pretty desperate. Every time he listened to a radio program he used a different soap—but no wonderful thing happened to him.

And then he saw our ad for THE UNFAIR SEX. Now C. Alphonso wasn't so slow as you might think. "What's sauce for the goose," he said, "is duck soup for the gander."

Pal, he bought that book, and he's already memorized Line I and Line II.

But we doubt if he'll finish it. His evenings are that busy!

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

ATTENTION 'W.C.' AND 'G.C.' DATERS
Schoolfield's Flower Shop
(joining both campus's)
offers you
A LIBERAL SCHOOL DISCOUNT
on your corsage orders
Phone, Write or Wire
your order will be waiting
Phone 5-3451 333 Tate St.

SPECIAL PURCHASE
FADED DENIM SLACKS
3.95
Faded Denim Walking SHORTS
3.50
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY Sutton's

If you feel you've missed the answers to the quiz, the right ones are Sprocket, Stereoscope and Turn-Buckle. If you feel the need of cosmetics and beauty aids, select from our lin of Dorothy Gray, Helena Rubinstein and Elizabeth Arden. NOW WHILE SUPPLY LASTS WE HAVE THE ANNUAL HALF-PRICE SALE ON TUSSY CREAM DEODORANT $1.00 size for 50c (no limit).

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER Sutton's DRUG STORE Rx SPECIALISTS
COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

Dean's List In Arts And Sciences Has 174 North Carolina Students

One hundred and seventy-four North Carolina students made the Dean's List in the College of Arts and Scienres during the past quarter Dean Clifford P. Lyons announred yesterday.

The College of Arts and Srienres is made up of juniors and seniors To be on the list students must maintain an average of "B" or better in all sourses for the entire quarter.

Following is a list of students:

Roger W. Ackerman, Wallace; James E. Adams Jr., Warrenton; Derith L. Alexander, Chapel Hill; Lyndon U. Anthony, Greensboro; Joseph A. Arnold, Atlanta, Ga.; Edwin O. Ayscue, Monroe; Mary Alive Ballew, Denton; Arthur L. Barbanell, New York, N. Y.; Isabel Barksdale, Jonestown, Miss.; Katherine W. Barton, Centreville, Md.; William Q. Beard, St. George, S. C.; Jack H. Becker, Chapel Hill.

Judd D. Beckwith, Jacksonville, Fla.; Anna M. Beeson, Greensboro; Dorothy A. Bell, Montgomery, Ala.; Marion W. Benfield, Chapel Hill; John T. Bennett, Philadelphia, Pa.; Benjamin C. Berry, Hertford; Marvin B. Berry, Asheville; Laughlin A. Bethune, Clinton; Eugene A. Birke, Winston-Salem; Joan C. Blocker, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Richard L. Bostian, Raleigh; James W. Brackett, Gastonia; George W. Brain, Tomkins Cove, N. Y.; Edgar T. Brame III, Sanford.

Barbara L. Braxton, Whiteville; Mont J. Bright, Chapel Hill; Vardaban M. Buckalew Jr., Mobile, Ala.; Janie L. Bugg, Daytona Beach, Fla.; John M. Bullard, Charlotte; William R. Bullock, Bethel; Charles E. Cain, Elizabethtown; Roy B. Campbell, Dawson, Ga.; Jane T. Carey, Washington, D. C.; Richard Carmichael, Durham; Jane T. Carswell, Spring Lake; Florence B. Carter, Atlanta, Ga.; Jon T. Caudle, Raleigh; Beverley J. Chalk, Greensboro; Alice E. Chapman, Welch, W. Va.; William D. Cherry, Gastonia.

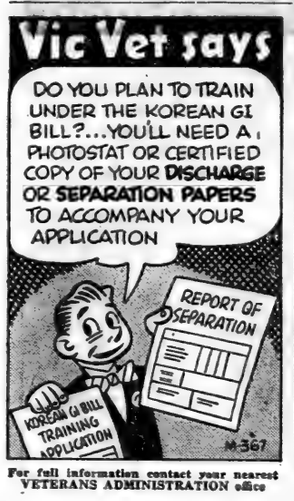
Francis O. Clarkson, Charlotte; William C. Clause, Sanford, Fla.; Alonzo C. Lewis III, Tampa, Fla.; David M. Clinard, Winston-Salem; Luther H. Clontz, Morganton; Charles F. W. Coker, Franklin, Va.; Robert L. G. Connelly, Raleigh; Mary B. Cook, Highlands; Cecil E. Cowan, Morganton; Janet R. Cozart, Wilson; Jacquelin B. Crawford, Chapel Hill; James P. Crews, Winston-Salem; Charles R. Cronham, East Orange, N. J.; Robert E. Curtis, Marion; Stella D. D'Aleo, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Donna J. Darley, Denver, Colo.; Charlotte L. Davis. Chapel Hill; George T. Davis, Hgih W. Va.

Point; Nancy E. Davis, Rainelle, Lyell C. Dawes Ja., Baltimore, Md.; Constance R. Delancy, Chapel Hill; Joyce E. Dickman, Arlington, Va.; James F. Dinsmore, Chapel Hill; Patricia G. Dortch, Chapel Hill; James Edmonds III, Chapel Hill; Robert N. Ellington, Burlington; Walter N. Ernst, Baltimore, Md.; Vallin D. Estes, Raleigh; Andre J. Evans, Ahoskie; Joseph L. Ewing, Memphis, Tenn.; Thomas A. Farmer, Smithfield; Eric L. Fearrington, Winston-Salem; Alice E. Ford, Fairmont, W. Va.; Theodore G. Frankel, Atlanta, Ga.; John E. French, Southern Pines; Joan G. Gant, Atlanta, Ga.; Shirley A. Gee, Johnson City, Tenn.; Mary L. George, Asheville; Norman W. Goldin, Raleigh; Jane Goslin, Nashville, Tenn. J;ulius A. Green Jr., Thomasville; Fletcher M. Green II, Chapel Hill.

Nancy R. Green, Chapel Hill; Arthur W. Gregory Jr., Halifax; Carl R. Gregory, Candler; Patricia E. Gribben, Thomasville, Ga.; William G. Grimes, Smithfield; Richard F. Griswold, Goldsboro; Leonard H. Grodsky, Durham; Stephen T. Gupton, Rocky Mount; John M. Gwynn Jr., Chapel Hill; Marilyn Habel, Chapel Hill; Edward C. Maines Jr., Philadelphia, Penn.; Margaret E. Hall, Salyersville, Ken.; Andra J. Hamilton, Durham; John J. Hanes, Charlotte; James L. Haney, Glenwood; Gordon A. Hanson, Chapel Hill; Beverly R. Harney, Nyack.

Bobby G. Haithcock, Badin; Gerald L. Haughton, Charlotte; Robert W. Heath, Chapel Hill; Mary L. Mendee, Atlanta, Ga.; Betty C. Herbert, Fort Valley, Ga.; Elsie R. Holmes, Fernandina, Fla.; Florence K. Howard, Dunn; Robert L. Hubbard, Washington, D. C.; James R. Hughes, Snow Hill; Josephine C. Hunter, Chapel Hill; Rex R. Huntley, Charlotte; James O. Icenhour, Durham; John R. Ingle, Siler Cilty; Henry C. Jackson, Tarboro; Katherine E. Jente, Chapel Hill; Henry C. ohnson Jr., Roanoke, Va.; Thomas M. Johnson, Clayton; Mary E. Jones, Atlanta, Ga.

William R. Jones, Chapel Hill; Francis L. Joyner, Wilson; Walton K. Joyner, Raleigh; John L. Kelley, Sharpsville, Penn.; Ehud Koch, Richmond, Va.; Ralph K. Kynock, Roxboro; Nora F. Laskey, Mt. Airy; Louise M. Lamont, Chapel Hill; Thomas E. Leary, Ahoskie; Gordon F. Lesslie, Fort Mill, S. C.; James C. Lester, Roanoke, Va.; William L. Le Stourgeon, Los Angeles, Calif.; Fanchon S. Lewis, Durham; Joanne M. Lewis, Waverly, Penn.; Carol M. Libby, Raleigh; Paul R. Likins, Elkhart, Ind.; Carolynn J. Little, Concord; William L. Littlejohn Jr., Morganton.



Thomas H. Long, Statesville; Walter N. Long Jr., Belmont; Robert F. Looney, Rocky Mount; Henry A. Lowet, Winston-Salem; Hubert E. McAllister, Chapel Hill; John M. McCollam, Ellendale, La.; Betty S. McDonald, Kershaw, S. C.; Thomas C. McDonald, Lithonia, Ga.; Betty J. McFarland, Martinsville, Va.; John McKey II, Putney, Vermont; William D. McLelland, Mooresville; George H. McLeod, Florence, S. C.; James C. McLeod Jr., Florence, S. C.; Gerald T. McMahon, Asheville; Peter D. McMichael, Reidsville; John A. McMillan, Charlotte; Frederick D. Maner, Savannah, Ga.; Lawrence M. Mason, Charlotte; Robert G. May, Thomasville; Margaret A. Mebane, Burlington; Joan H. Membery, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Mary L. Menius, Monroe; Angel C. Mewborn, La Grange; Arthur L. Miller, Landis; Max G. Miller, Hamlet; Mary L. Mitchell, Burlington; Elise K. Montgomery, New Haven, Conn.; Lloyd B. Moon, Charlotte; Albert C. Moore, Sumter, S. C.; Victor B Moore Jr., Durham; Robert B. Moorhead Jr., Gastonia; Joseph L. Murad, Wilson; Joanne L. Murphy, Lookout Mt., Tenn.; Charles H. Myers, Washington, D. C.; Kenneth M. Myers, Miami, Fla.; Carman L. Nahm, Deland Fla.

Rolfe Neill, Chapel Hill; Owen L. Norment Jr., Asheville; Judson S. Novins, Toms River, N. J.; Mitchell S. Novit, Walterboro, S. C.; Evelyn A. Oettinger, Kinston; Mary K. Oliver, Chatham, Va.; Morris F. Osborne, Arden; Earl M. Page, Wilmington; Richard J. Painter, Greensboro; Makis Papas, Chapel Hill; Oscar H. Paris Jr., Greensboro; Austin S. Parker, Mt. Pleasant; Joseph M. Parker, Ahoskie; Marian Parkins, Chapel Hill; Thomas A. Parnell, Lumberton, Dewey H. Pate, Bayboro; Andrew H. Patterson, Bronxville, N. Y.; Mary J. Paul, Washington; Lewis A. Phillips, Chapel Hill; Spencer E. Pierce, Jefferson, Ohio; Walter T. Porter III, Emerson; Ellen L. Prouty, Dalton, Ga.; Alfred L. Purrington, Raleigh; Pauletta S. Putski, Washington, D. C.; William A. Rankin, Reidsville; Curtis J. Ratledge, Guilford College, N. C.; Carolyn L. Reichard, Charlotte; Walter H. Reichelt, Chapel Hill; Daniel Reid, Raleigh; John L. Randleman, Salisbury; John P. Rieker, Chapel Hill; Nancy G. Ripple, Winston-Salem; Henry J. Ritchie, Chapel Hill; Nathan R. Roberson Jr., Robersonville.

Barksdale F. Roberts, Louisville, Ken.; Eugene L. Roberts Jr., Pikeville; Jack R. Robinson, Valdese; Andrew J. Rock Jr., Kinston; Sara W. Rose, Chapel Hill; Henry T. Rosser, Hamlet; David Rowe, Hyattsville, Md.; William H. Ruffin Jr., Durham; Roy A. Rumbough, Mars Hill; Dale S. Ryon, Asheville; William K. Scarborough, Annapolis, Md.; Mary M. Schaeffer, Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Robert L. Selig, New York, N. Y.; Ellen J. Seligson, New York, N. Y.; Hanson D. Sessoms, Wilmington; Edith Sewell, Atlanta, Ga.; Arnold C. Shaw Jr., Asheville.

Donald J. Sherry, Charlotte; James P. Shomaker, Springfield, Ill.; Robert W. Siler Jr., Siler City; James A. Sinclair, Raeford; J. Pryor Smith, Montgomery, Ala.; Robert G. Smith, Rutherfordton; Jane A. Sneed, Ft. Pierce, Fla.; Jackson G. Sparks, Warrenton, Ga.; Nathaniel L. Sparrow, Chapel Hill; Elizabeth Alva W. Stewart, Marshville; Mary P. Stewart, Woodruff, S. C.; Thomas D. Stokes Jr., Lexington; Katherine J. Stone, Arnold, Md.; John E. Stoughton, Raleigh; Thomas A. Sully Jr., Charlottesville, Va.; David S. Sumner, Asheboro; Thomas H. Sumner, Asheville; Carlos P. Surratt, Toast; ohn H. Sweeney, Wilmington; Elinor L. Taylor, Atlanta, Ga.; Margaret L. Taylor, Chapel Hill; Joe W. Thompson, Mooresville; Herbert H. Thorp, Rocky Mount; Jacob W. Todd, New York, N. Y.; Patricia A. Todd, Hopkinsville, Ken.; Benjamin C. Toledano, New Orleans, La.; Rawleigh L. Tremain Jr., Alexandria, Va.; Virginia A. Turlington, Dunn; John C. Vernon, Summerfield; Frederick W. Volger, Burlington, Vermont.

Gerald M. Wagger, High Point; Charles D. Wallace, Smithfield; Edward C. Warren, Roanoke Rapids; Wisner M. Washam, Cornelius; David C. Waters, Germantown, Md.; Joel S. Watkins Jr., Warren, Ark.; William R. West, Columbia; Dixie B. Whitley, Bronxville, N. Y.; Susan F. Wilkins, Sanford; Betty G. Williams, Leesburg, Fla.; Elizabeth R. Wood, Edenton; Ronald L. Woodruff, Corona Del Mar, Calif.; Elizabeth R. Young, Greenwood, S. C.; Ted P. Young, Winston-Salem; Marcia A. Zachary, Salisbury; James J. Zeller, Chapel Hill.

For full information contact your nearest VETERANS ADMINISTRATION office

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN theatre
3 MILES WEST OF CARRBORO • HWY 54
TONIGHT

The ORIENTAL
Air-Conditioned
CHINESE & AMERICAN
Open Daily 11-9:45
Sunday 12-9:45
116 E. Parrish St., Durham

M-G-M, producer of the screen's Biggest presents the spectacular Technicolor picturization of SIR WALTER SCOTT'S FAMED NOVEL

SIR WALTER SCOTT'S
IVANHOE
TECHNICOLOR
STARRING
ROBERT TAYLOR
ELIZABETH TAYLOR
JOAN FONTAINE
GEORGE SANDERS
EMLYN WILLIAMS
PRICES THIS ATTRACTION
ADULTS 50c — CHILDREN 9c
TODAY & THURSDAY
Carolina

What Goes On Here

WUNC Program Schedule

7 p.m.—Hollan Calling.
7:15—The U.N. Story.
7:30—Carolina Sports Review.
7:45—Famous Belgians.
8:00—Old Books, Old Friends.
8:30—Masterworks From France.
9—Concert Favorites.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.

Men's Glee Club

The Men's Glee Club will not meet today. There will be a joint rehearsal of the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs Thursday at 4 p.m.

The Freshman Camp

The Planning Committee will meet tomorrow in the "Y" Cabinet room at 7 p.m. At 8 p.m. a meeting of the Councelor-Orientation Committee, headed by Jim Buyer, will be held. All persons interested in planning and counceling in the Freshman Camp next fall are asked to be present.

Student Legislature

The first session of the new Student Legislature will meet Thursday night at 7:15 in the Phi Assembly Hall in New East. Officers and committee chairmen will be elected.

Debate Teams Set To Open Final Contest

Twelve high school debating teams, each team a district champion on the affirmative or negative, will enter the final contest for the Aycock Memorial Cup here tomorrow.

This will be the 41st annual final contest of the North Carolina High School Debating Union for the trophy provided by the inter-collegiate debaters of the University.

A general meeting of all debaters and coaches will be held at 2:30 p.m. in Gerrard Hall. Welcome will be extended by Dean E. L. Mackie of the University and by representatives of the Dialectic Senate and the Philanthropic Assembly. Drawings will be held for sections and pairings ni the preliminaries.

The afternoon program will also include a conducted tour of the campus and an open house by the Di and the Phi.

The preliminaries will be held at 7 p.m., the semi-finals will begin at 10 Friday morning, and the final debate is scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday in Gerrard Hall.

The query for discussion is: "Resolved, That the Atlantic Pact Nations Should Form a Federal Union." This is the national high school debate topic for the year.

The 12 high school teams and their debaters are:

Affirmative teams: Brevard, represented by Billie Jean Cansler and

—Draft Test—

(Continued from page 1)

have taken the test.

The criteria for consideration for deferment as a student at the present time are either a score of 70 or better on the Selective Service College Qualification Test or class standing among the male members in the upper half of the freshman class, upper two-thirds of the sophomore class, or upper three-fourths of the junior class. Seniors accepted for admission to a graduate school satisfy the criteria if they are among the upper half of the male members of their senior class or if they make a score of 75 or better.

Stationery—Books—Greeting Cards—Gift Shop
Esterbrook Pens—Picture Frames and Picture Framing
Thomas Book Store
Cor. Corcoran & Chapel Hill Sts., Durham
Phone J-2331
L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters—Desk Pads
Shaeffer Pens—Kodaks & Supplies—Desk Lamps
Expert Repair on all makes of Typewriters

Dean Spruill Lists Winter Quarter General College Honor Roll Names

Names of students who made honor roll in the General College were announced yesterday by Dean C. P. Spruill.

Following is a list of students who made either all A's or A's and B's:

All A's

Robert Davis Aldridge, Shelton Setzer Alexander, Joseph Edmonds Bafford, Leonard Stanley Clein, Benjamin Mc. Covington, Gerald Routh Daughtridge, Henry Hursell Dearman, Arthur Eugene Douglas, Thomas P. H. Dunlop, Robert Allen Farrell, Wade Whitley Harrell, Harvie Max Harris, Robert Franklin Hook, Morris Alexander Jones, Frank Walter Leak, Emmanuel Michael Paturis, Kermit Glenn Phillips II, Edward Lex Potter, Graham Henry Rights, Willis Lee Scoggins Jr., Julian Wood Selig, Jr., Charles Leeds Sharpless, Jr., James Edward Stephens, Richard B. Webb, Thomas Ewing Wilgus, Billy Rayford Wilkinson, Edwin Milton Yoder.

All A's and B's

Robert W. Adams, Larry H. Addington, Frank McAdams Albrecht Jr., Clinton Toms Andrews, Kenneth Ray Argo, Harold Way Austin, Richard H. Baker Jr., James Harry Barnhill, Joseph Leon Berkoff, Peter Harold Block, Ralph Edmon Branscomb, Melvin O'Bryant Brown, Herbert H. Browne Jr., Richard Elliott Byrd Jr., Bradley James Cameron, Lorenza Theodore Clinard, Barbara Gwen Cline, Laurence Arthur Cobb, Floyd Garland Coble, Wade Hampton Coleman III, Matthew Terry Cooper, Joseph S. Correll, Richard Scott Craddock, Max Henry Crohn Jr., Christopher Crowson, William Lyle Davis, Edward Eloy Doolan, Joseph C. Doster, John McNeely Dubose;

Harry R. Easterling, Gerald Einhorn, William Harrison Elder. Lloyd Phillip Farrar, Susan Boyles Fink, Donald Owen Fowler, Taketo Furuhata, David Gardner Futch. Robert Edwards Gaines, Don Weng Geiger, John Livingston Gibson. Sam Brice Gibson, Stephen Kermit Gibson, Philip Edward Giguere, William M. Ginn, Joel Sexton Goodwin, William Gorelick, Janet McNeill Green, George Walker Guthrie, Glenn Edgar Hair, Frederick Delmar Hamrick, James Robinson Harper, Snethen Philip Harris, Jr., Richard Lawrence Harris. Leland Earl Haywood, Richard Hunter Haywood, George Albert Heinz, Billy Harvey Herring, Seymour Herzog, George Edward Higgins, Allan Wilson Hobbs;

David Lee Holder, Henry DeWeese Irvin, Edwin Smith Jewell, Edward Stokes Johnson, Bennie McBane Johnston, Eric Andrew Jonas, Floyd Jones Jr., Norman Jackson Jones, Charles Jackson Katzenstein, Robert Kason Keiger, Joseph Best, Jr.; Grainger of Kinston, Isabel Madry and Janice Traub; Mooresville, Clayton Davidson and Debbie Sink; Scotland Neck, Katherine Woodard and Eugene Whitehead; and Walter M. Williams of Burlington, Jimmy Chamblee and Larry Black.

Negative teams: Brevard, represented by Jim Kimzey and John Cox; Concord, Creighton Peden and Larry Williams; Pantego, Frances Ann Winfield and Kelley Wallace, Jr.; Richard J. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, Mary Nell Meroney and Walter Webb; Roxboro, Bruce Crumpler and Bill Mewborne; and Rockingham, Mary Jo Ingalls and Shirley Dixon.

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2307 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill.—Adv.

"H"

We announce the
DALE FAIRLESS RECORD CLUB
One FREE record or album with every fifth record or album bought.
DALE FAIRLESS
Glen Lennox

TIME FOR THAT CHECK-UP!

Drive in for a complete check up before you take your weekend trip. Let our experts do the job quickly efficiently, & at moderate prices. Drive in today.
CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR
POE MOTOR CO.
DESOTO 112 W. Franklin PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

U N C LIBRARY
SERIARS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Showers & thunderstorms, windy & warm with 80 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

BUCKS
The editor decries an inroad and a passing tradition. Page 2.

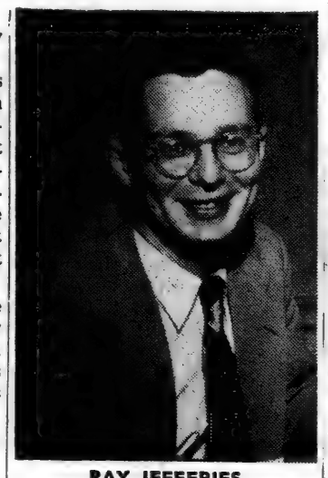
VOLUME LXI NUMBER 140 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

A Look At The Administration—No. 1

Ray Jeffries 'Mr. Y Court' Is Carolina Students' Blessing

By Jennie Lynn

Being Mr. Y Court isn't as easy as it might seem.



Every time you see Ray Jefferies he's socializing on the South Building steps, a pastime that apparently consumes the greater part of his time and exerts his abundant conversation. While he's talking he forgets (for a while) the troubled freshman that he just talked to and the appointment that he has in five minutes.

The Jefferies smile covers the crowd, as he works his way through the students, stopping on each step to make introductions and comment on Saturday classes or ask about German plans.

The assistant to the dean of students at Carolina practices a rewarding motto—every job is a get to know people job. Ray handles student-faculty cards. He is a dorm advisor. He determines eligibility of all candidates for elections, computes grades for scholarship applications and honorary organizations, is in charge of South Building parking lot, was a homecoming judge, and escorts chaperones to dances.

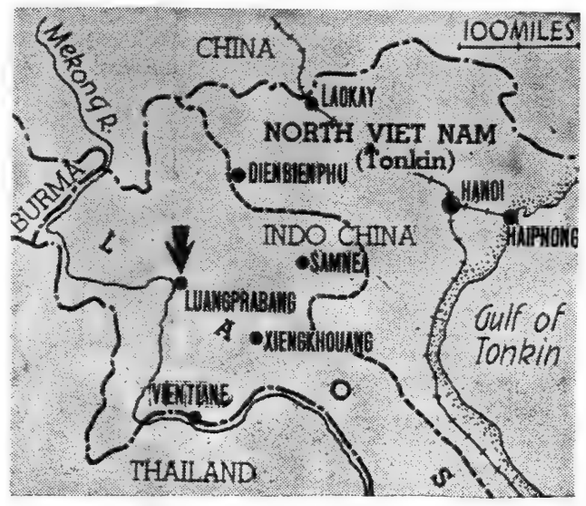
Before you came to Carolina, Ray was getting to know you. He sent you a letter of welcome the summer you were packing for your first year at UNC. He worked hand in hand with the orientation chairman to make those first days here less homesick ones and to make sure the mass of strangers became quicker friends. Ray was responsible for the name tags you wore—life savers in the struggle to remember names and the orientation receptions where you met your present friends and teachers.

Because he has been around since '44, more because he is interested in the students, Ray has become a sort of campus information center. When visitors, whether high school students or the governor are at UNC, he is an enthusiastic guide for a tour of the campus. He assists on sorority and fraternity invitation lists when "whom have we left out?" confronts him before every social, dance or reception.

RAY JEFFERIES
Assistant to the Dean of Students

The Greek societies also find him invaluable during rush week because he's their source for grades and past rush programs. If the honor council has an unusual case, it's sometimes taken to him for advice.

Ray has been Dean Fred Weaver's assistant for 5½ years. He came to Carolina in February 1944, on an experimental program. He was one of 16 boys from New Hanover High School in Wilmington who entered UNC as freshmen 5 months before graduating from high school. Before he received his BS in Commerce he was under the 5 day and 6 day quarter and semester systems (likes 5 day quarter), going to school during regular and summer sessions until he graduated.



He was a dorm advisor his junior and senior years, was on Inter-Dorm Council, and chairman of Student Council. He was chosen to be a member of the Order of the Grail and the Golden Fleece and graduated in 1947.

Following June graduation he returned in September to become South Building's detail man. That year 580 veterans were quartered in quonset huts, and Ray kept up with them and their complaints. In January he began to work for Joe Galloway, the placement director. Since Ray knew them, he helped pass judgment on and interview the students.

Ray feels that the students should get to know the deans and the administration better. He says students here are blessed with a young administration, and an informal and friendly atmosphere. "Be free to talk to your deans," he urges, "for closer relations. The deans are very much interested in you, although many times they appear to be too busy to talk. Come to see them at slack times, between quarter finals, not during or right before exams, when naturally they have little time."

Ray is a link between students and deans as well as between students and students. "I have more fun," he says, "than anyone else at the University."

That's because Ray has continued to get to know and love the students, and enjoys working behind the curtain for them.

THE REBEL VIETMINH RADIO has proclaimed a new Communist government for the ancient kingdom of Laos, Indochina, naming Souphanou Bong as president. Using the same tactics as did Japanese invaders during World War II, the Reds have driven to the outskirts of the Laos capital, Luang Prabang (arrow). Meanwhile French troops were being flown into the city by airlift, and the French commander issued a "fight to the last man" order.—NEA Telephoto.

NEWS IN BRIEF

PANMUNJOM — The Communists gave ground for the first time yesterday in the resumed armistice negotiations. But the Communists and United Nations truce teams remained completely split on two vital points regarding repatriation of war prisoners. The Communists are willing to nominate an Asiatic nation to take custody of the Communist prisoners who refuse repatriation. They are also willing to negotiate the length of time during which these prisoners shall remain in neutral custody. But the Communists insist they won't name the country until the UN agrees to send all anti-repatriates there. The UN insists they must be kept in Korea.

★

WASHINGTON — Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) said yesterday the Truman administration abruptly dropped prosecution of one of the biggest mail fraud cases in history after the defendant's attorneys conferred with high Justice Department officials, including former Attorney General Tom C. Clark. He made the statement at a hearing of the House Judiciary subcommittee being held to determine whether any "improper" influences were brought to bear in the back stage maneuverings which led to the 1946 cancellation of charges against Kansas City bond dealer Roy E. Crummer and 10 associates.

★

TOKYO—A repatriated American soldier yesterday said Chinese troops ruthlessly sprayed 40 truck loads of wounded U. S. soldiers with burp guns, killing most of the nearly helpless 800 screaming men. Then the Reds bayoneted many of the survivors. This happened Dec. 2, 1950 when a convoy of American wounded trying to reach safety ran into a Chinese roadblock and was overwhelmed.

New Legislature Meets Tonight To Inaugurate Campus Political Year

New members of student government will take office today and a new student Legislature will meet tonight as the new campus political year begins.

New student government officers will be honored at a banquet in the Blue Room of Lenoir Hall at 6:30 tonight. At that time the traditional gavel will be presented to Vice-President Jim McLeod.

After the banquet new student government members will go to Phi Hall for the inauguration ceremonies. Ted Frankel, chairman of the student council, will administer the oath of office to members of the Women's Honor Council, the Men's Honor Council, Vice President Baxter Miller and President Bob Gorham.

Miller will administer the oath of office to the new legislators.

After a short recess Miller will call the new Legislature to order. The legislature will elect new officers and committee chairmen.

If the matter of the Budget for The Daily Tar Heel is to be considered it will have to be brought up as new business, since no old business is carried over to the new Legislature.

The old Legislature left the appropriation for The Daily Tar Heel off as it approved the rest of the budget. They suggested that the new Legislature reconsider the budget request for the paper.

If the matter is considered under a suspension of rules it may be settled tonight, but if it is given to a committee it may not be settled for two weeks.

A group of legislators has been studying the budget request for The Daily Tar Heel. They attended a meeting of the Publications Board Tuesday and were briefed on its policies.

The move to examine the budget request is supposedly aimed at saving the students' money.

Legislator Gene Cook suggested changing The Daily Tar Heel to tabloid form, as a means of saving money, but members of the Publications Board pointed out that because of commitments lareadp because of commitments already ity.—K.S.

Model UN General Assembly Climaxes United Nations Week

The opening of the Model UN General Assembly tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock will climax Carolina United Nations Week, the result of long weeks of planning.

Following registration of delegations at 2:00 in Hill Hall, the first Plenary Session will be called to order by Henry Lowet, temporary chairman. The delegations will be seated and will then proceed to elect the president of the Assembly. Friday night will be left free unless otherwise decided by the Assembly.

The real work of the Assembly will start Saturday morning at 10:00 when the four Commissions meet to draw up resolutions on their subjects. These will meet at the following places: Political and Security Commission chaired by Fred Crawford at 106 Gardner; Economic and Financial Commission chaired by Manning Muntzing at 106 Hanes; Social, Humanitarian, and Cultural Commission chaired by John Gilsdorf in the Library Assembly Room; and Trusteeship and Legal Commission chaired by Susan Fink in the Law Building (Manning) Assembly Room.

Saturday afternoon when the General Assembly convenes at 2:30 at Hill Hall, the work of the Commissions will be discussed and debated on the floor. The entire Assembly will vote on the resolutions drawn up in the morning.

Henri Bonnet, French Ambassador, was unable to accept an invitation to open the Assembly.

BULLETIN

Hundreds of Carolina males stormed McIver and Smith dormitories last night in a mass panty raid.

The mob shook a police car violently and when a patrolman grabbed a student t,he crowd yelled loud protest. Gene Cook, Bill Acker and Student Body vice-president Baxter Miller stood beside the police car trying to keep students from turning it over.

"We want panties," the students yelled in front of the girls' dorms. But there was no response from the girls.

The raid started about midnight at Cobb Dormitory as a result of a water battle, police said. Student onlooers agreed that this was the riot's origin.

At 1:20 this morning, the mob broke up after screaming in front of Smith for about a half hour.

Students let air out of a number of police car tires just before the raid ended. The students also stopped for about 15 minutes in front of Carr Dormitory.

Anniversaries Make Library Exhibit Theme

By Ken Sanford

In observance of the 63rd anniversary of the Pan American Union, now known as the Organization of American States, the library is now exhibiting materials assembled by Col. Rafael J. Miranda in the main foyer of the library.

Col. Miranda served in Military Intelligence during World War II as Tour Director and aide to the Hispanic American Missions visiting the United States. He is now a Ph.D. candidate in the University's Department of Romance Languages.

At the center of the display in a handsome case lined with red velvet lies the Espadon De Honor of Uruguay. Behind it in a fan-shaped array are the flags of the countries in the organization. The display also contains jewelry from the various countries loaned by Mrs. Miranda, pamphlets and medals from some of them.

The library is also observing the Sesqui-Centennial of the Louisiana Purchase with an exhibit in the hall to the right of the main foyer. In one case are representative prints of the states of the original purchase as American artists see them now. These prints are from the Jacocks Collection of Prints. The second case contains prints, rare books, and documents from the period of the purchase. It also contains portraits of Napoleon and Thomas Jefferson who played the major roles in the Louisiana Purchase.

Preregister!

Saturday is the last day for General College students to sign preregistration appointment books in room 308 of South Building.

Actual preregistration for the Fall and Summer terms will take place beginning Monday through May 15.

Preregister now and avoid waiting in a long line.

Intramural Debate Tournament Will Be Held Here May 18-19

The University Debate Council yesterday listed its plans for the tournament to be held on May 18 and 19.

All organizations on campus are invited to participate, said Council representative Ken Myers. The topic for the debate will be resolved: "That the President of the United States Should Be Elected by a Direct Vote of the People."

For entry details students should contact Tournament Chairman Bill Zuckerman at the TEP House, 4011. Zuckerman stated that the library reference department would be glad to help students interested in gathering information on the subject.

"Much has been said and written about abolishing the Electorial College," said Zuckerman, "and there have been many alternate plans proposed. One should have no trouble at all in finding information."

A rotating trophy is given to the winning team, and individual cups are presented to the members of that team. A trophy will also be awarded to the best speaker of the tournament. Last year Tau Epsilon Phi Fraternity took top honors.

Plans are being made for the finalists in the tournament to appear on station WUNC for a broadcast of the talk. Deadline for entries is May 14.

YMCA Will Elect Chairman Of Freshman Camp Tonight

Election of the permanent chairman for the 1953 Freshman Camp will take place at the meeting of the Freshman Camp Planning Committee tonight at 7 o'clock in the YMCA.

Ed McCurry, chairman of the Nominating Committee, reports that there are four men who have applied for the position of leader.

The annual Freshman Camp, chairman will be to supervise and direct all plans for the fall encampment, coordinating the efforts of the other upper-classmen who serve as counselors for the three-day camp.

The annual Freshmap Camp, sponsored by the YMCA, is regarded as one of the most important programs by which new students "get off to a good start" at Carolina. A group of about thirty men has been active in making plans for next fall, and the chairmen will be elected from these men, according to Ed McCurry.

Besides the chairman, other members of the Nominating Committee are: Gil Marsh, 1952-53 YMCA President; Baxter McIntyre, 1952 Freshman Camp Chairman; and Bob Hyatt, YMCA vice-president-elect.

Following the election, the four functioning committees will meet to plan the details of the camp publicity, program, arrangements and recreation. At 8 o'clock the Committee on Leadership Training will meet under the chairmanship of Jim Buyer.

Clark To Give Award To Top Law Students

John W. Clark, Franklinville—well-known industrialist and University trustee, has just made an award to the School of Law.

In honor of his father, the late Chief Justice Walter Clark of the North Carolina Supreme Court, Clark has stipulated that the top five students, who, at the end of their fifth semester's work, hold the highest averages, will receive copies of the two volume edition of the papers of Judge Clark.

The books, which will be awarded this year, were edited by Aubrey Lee Brooks, Greensboro attorney, and Dr. Hugh T. Lefler, University history professor, and were published by the University Press in 1948.

Possible NSA Sub Seen In Student Group

OXFORD, Miss., April 29—Carolina's student government was invited to join a Southern Students Association now in planning stages, it was learned here.

The invitation came from the president of the student body here at the University of Mississippi.

"Our intention is not that SSA would complement NSA," said president Roy Pitts, when asked about the new group.

NSA is the National Students Association, a group of colleges throughout the country joined together for the exchange of ideas on student government, sponsoring scholarship programs and acting as a student voice in national affairs. Carolina is a member.

"As a matter of practicality, it would probably replace NSA with respect to the southern colleges which might join," added the Univ. of Miss. student body president. He said he didn't think members would be restricted from joining both.

Asked if the new southern group was bi-racial, he replied, "We have only extended invitations to white colleges. I doubt that the members would desire a bi-racial organization."

He cited the basic function of the group as the "exchange of ideas." He named "the promotion of higher education, cooperation among southern colleges and the overall improvement of the student situation" as other functions.

Planning members will meet here for the new southern group on May 10-12. It is not known if Carolina will send a representative.

The Univ. of Miss. had a controversy over NSA last spring and voted themselves out of the group five to one.

Carolina Will Receive Folks Here Sunday

A picnic lunch, campus tours, a band concert, planetarium shows and a short address by President Gray will be featured in Parents' Day at Carolina.

Sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity and the administration, the third annual Day will begin at noon Sunday with a picnic lunch on the campus featuring box lunches from home. Parents and friends of students will then get a chance to meet the faculty at a reception in the lounge of Morehead Planetarium at 2:30.

Besides guided tours around the campus and a Planetarium show every hour, there will be a University band concert on the lawn at 4:30 to be preceded by a short address by President Gordon Gray.

In case of rain the concert and President's talk will be held in Hill Hall. For the convenience of visitors there will be an information booth in front of South Building. The program is under the chairmanship of Charles Katzenstein.

Glee Clubs

A joint rehearsal of the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs will be held at 4:30 in Hill Hall.

Court Docket

Four University students appeared before Judge William S. Stewart in Chapel Hill Recorder's Court this week.

Students appearing on the court docket included:

Owen Richard Knop, junior from Milwaukee, Wis., speeding, $15 and costs.

Harold H. Davidson, sophomore from Murphy, speeding, $10 and costs.

George W. Belk III, from Williamsburg, Va., public drunkenness, costs.

Leary R. Shannon, sophomore from Birmingham, Ala., driving on sidewalk, costs.

AMERICAN GI'S FREED BY the Communists in Korea get a briefing on the use of "Mae West" life preservers at the Haneda Air Force Base in Japan just before their plane took off on a flight to the United States. Thirty-five of the repatriated soldiers are en route to their homes.—NEA Radiophoto.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed 34 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Schindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Eddie Starnes.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Paper Dollars

"This nation spends five times as much every year on dogfood as it does on college textbooks," we are informed by the current bulletin of the American Textbook Publishers Institute.

We also are told that less than one percent of the educational dollar is spent on textbooks, and that textbook prices have climbed only 39 percent since 1939, while book manufacturing costs have gone up more than 70 percent, and wholesale commodity prices have been upped more than 120 percent.

While this assortment of facts is interesting and no doubt quite reliable, we are puzzled. Is it the intention of the ATPI to prepare us for a boost in the cost of textbooks, or is it about to throw over the publishing racket to enter the dogfood business?

At any rate, we have a suggestion to make to the American Textbook Publisher Institute. With so many books now being published in paperbound pocket editions, why shouldn't more textbooks be made available in similar form.

The student would be able to purchase much more for his money by paying thirty-five, fifty, or sixty cents for a textbook rather than several dollars. This would considerably cut down the number of students who try to get by every quarter without buying all the required text books to save money and who usually end up on the short end as far as receipts from the course are concerned.

Paperbacked textbooks would be easier to handle, less trouble to cart around, and could be stocked in large enough quantities by the bookstores to prevent shortages.

The professor could offer his students a wider range of reading if enough books were made available in pocket editions, as has already been demonstrated by the extensive use of such books in English courses. At the same time the professor would probably feel less reluctant in discarding old texts for new and better ones. Certainly student objection to such a change would be lessened.

There can be little practical objection to the printing of text books in cheap editions. If it is possible to publish such diversified material as world atlases, Bartlett's Quotations etc. in paperbacked books, why is it not also possible to print mathematical texts, geography books, etc. in similar style?

Both the educator and student are faced with financial problems. A reduction in the cost of textbooks would go a long way in solving the dollar dilemma.

Dirty Deal

We are grieved by recent advertisements about a new commodity, invading Chapel Hill, namely the "pre-soiled white buck." Surely the sellers of these shoes have not considered the implications of their wear, for its reverberations are likely to be heard by untold numbers of college generations to come, its disrupting effects long to be evident at every hand.

Pre-soiled white bucks are sure to break down the well established caste of undergraduate classes. Heretofore a freshman was marked by his spanking white footwear, set apart from his fellow inmates by the newness of this gear. Now, except for the senior's tired expression, it will be difficult to distinguish him from his younger academic brothers.

This new shoe item will have other ramifications. Tradition, that keystone of the Carolina arch, will be trampled. No longer may one know how much respect to accord his classmate by a mere glance at his shoes. Instead it will entail such ugly questions as "When did you matriculate?" and other superflous verbiage.

The Daily Tar Heel calls on he campus males to resist this inroad on the Carolina Way of Life. Long live naturally-dirtied white bucks.

Passing Remark

Ron Levin

I was sitting out in front of Ab's in my favorite green lounging chair shootin' the bull with a good friend of mine, Max Paul, world renowned bird watcher. To his good friends Max is known affectionately as Mox Fogelsby or other similar aliases. Max has a lot of good ideas about a lot of things and we were rehashing some of these when a middle aged woman walked by with a small girl trailing behind. The woman obviously was in some hurry and the child's short legs failed her for the moment. As they passed us the little girl said to her mother, "Don't go so fast, I can't keep up." At first it meant nothing to me, but as I thought over what the little girl had said i began to take on a new meaning for the moment.

Don't go so fast. How many of us go through the day so fast that we miss all the little things that together make the day more than just twenty four hours to be dealt woith as quickly as possible. Perhaps we consider ourselves too busy to stop and look at the robin tugging at the worm as we hurry to our eight o'clock. Maybe we would like to lie on the soft grass and look up at the white flecked blue curtain that is rung up every morning on the great stage of this never ending play called life.

After supper we run back to the dorm and do not turn around once or even look back for just a second. If we did we would see the splendor of an evening sunset and be dazzled by the genius of God, the master painter, and his pallette, as with his brush he daubs a flaming streak across the horizon at twilight. If we just robbed the day's routine of a few minutes, our day would be enriched a thousandfold and some of us would begin to understand and appreciate the wonderfulness of life, per se.

The petty argument with our roommate, the cold toast, the stop light that stayed red too long, and the pop quiz would fade into obscurity for the present and in their place would come a feeling of complete serenity, ease of thought, and contentment.

The little girl didn't know it, but what she said made a great deal of sense and should be taken to heart by many of us. Why not stop today somewhere, sometime, it really doesn't matter where or when, and look for the robin, or the sky, or the sunset, or whatever else might capture your fancy. They're really not hard to find at all, and there are so many of them.

Let the pressing details of the day pass by for a moment or two and see that which was meant to be seen, but yet so seldom is . . . don't go so fast. . . .

Express Yourself

Editor:

Carolina is progressive in many ways, it cannot be denied. But there is one aspect to the transportation system to and from Chapel Hill which has thoroughly disgusted me, as it has others to whom I have talked.

There is nothing more disheartening about a weekend or holiday at home than having to come back late at night—or any time and be dumped at the bus station, which is, in practical effect, on the other side of the world in relationship to the campus.

I don't know who is responsible for the location of the bus station. It may be that the Trailways Company could not buy land anywhere else. I feel sure, however, that some provision could have been made, had they called upon administration officials, to place the station nearer the campus.

But that is so much water over the dam. What seems to me to be a fair plan is to have the buses make a stop somewhere on campus—preferably in front of one of the dorms. It is not enjoyable to have to walk two miles to a dorm carrying heavy luggage. And taxis cost money.

The bus stops could be arranged perhaps in front of Spencer Dormitory, Winston Dormitory and Strowd Motor Company.

John Redfern

"And Some of Those Countries Aren't American At All"

PULQUE

John Gibson

Last Friday my thesis adviser, bless him, put his final stamp of approval on the last chapter of that Great Work, so now once again I can devote some time to the lesser things in life, like eating, sleeping and writing for The Daily Tar Heel.

Sometime last quarter I promised Walt Dear that I would do a series of articles on the Men's Honor Council. I held back at first because I wanted to become more familiar with that body, later because I ran out of time. Now, a little late, I should like to undertake that task.

The Men's Council is made up three seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, one freshman, one pharmacy student and one graduate student. The terms of election are staggered so that a whole new board is never chosen.

It has original jurisdiction in all cases involving violation of the Honor Code and the Campus Code, except those which fall under the jurisdiction of the Student Council, Interdormitory Council, and Dance Committee. Also the Law and Medical Schools have separate Honor Courts, but Campus Code violations by these students are still subject to the University Men's Council.

Violations of the Honor or Campus Codes are brought to the attention of the Council by students and faculty members. Each person brought before the Council is guaranteed the following rights:

1. The presumption of innocence until guilt is proven.
2. The right to face the accuser.
3. The privilege of assistance by a member of the Council in presenting his case.
4. Due notice of trial, at least 48 hours being required. For faster action, the accused can waive this requirement.

All of the council's proceedings are confidential. This is one of the most controversial aspects of the council's procedure. Its chief purpose is to protect innocent students from all publicity, and guilty students from unnecessary publicity. It can, however, work to the disadvantage of the student. This point will be taken up in a later column when I deal with an evaluation of the system. Here I am simply presenting it as it is, or is supposed to be.

Most of the alleged violations are reported to the Dean of Students Office by students, professors, or townspeople. These reports are then forwarded to the chairman of the council. The chairman, or one of the members of the council delegated by him, then serves a summons on the student. The summons contains the time and place of the trial, and a complete list of all the constitutional guarantees possessed by the student in respect to trial. No action can be taken unless two thirds of the voting members of the council are present.

The student reports to the place of the trial, and the session begins. The student is requested to give his account of the alleged violation, and then is questioned by the council. Also, any witnesses to the alleged violation are questioned. The defendant is, of course reminded that he is on his honor to tell the truth. (This is another knotty problem, and will be discussed later.)

After all the relevant evidence has been presented, the council, in closed session, decides the innocence or guilt of the student, and prescribes the penalty. This can vary from an unofficial council reprimand to suspension. For this latter penalty, a two-thirds vote of members present is required.

This is a brief outline of the council and its methods. Starting Sunday I will review the procedure as it appears to me, with an emphasis on those points which might be improved.

Summer Abroad

Bob Simmons

In any talk about investing a summer in travel or study, or both, the objection is always raised that the cost is too high. Students in industry offers an opportunity for interested college students to study, get to know a section of the country well, have a lot of fun, gain valuable experience in group living, and at the same time get paid for it.

Students in industry projects are located in principal industrial areas of the United States. The one located in Los Angeles is typical. Last summer 24 students, 12 boys and 12 girls, rented a fraternity house on the Southern Cal campus, and with a young couple from the University of Washington YMCA as chaperones, set up housekeeping in the heart of the big city. The students came from all parts of the United States, and seven were foreign students on Fullbright scholarships who wanted to get a good picture of American industrial life. After a few days of orientation to the city, everybody set out pounding the pavement looking for a job. Some landed jobs the first day—some looked for almost a week before finding one. The news of new jobs was an occasion for great rejoicing at the dinner table.

Meanwhile, domestic life had to go on. The students did all the work of running the house themselves. To be sure of a hot meal when they got home from work, they hired a cook for the evening meal. This big meal, with everyone seated around a big oval table, became a memorable part of the project. After that, everyone pitched into the never ending task of washing dishes.

When everyone had gotten settled in his job, the normal routine provided plenty of time for cooperative study. Each student's feelings about his job, and his estimate of his co-workers' feelings was used as a base for evaluating the institutions affecting the industrial community. About two evenings a week, the group gathered in the living room for study sessions. After the first few meetings, the students themselves planned their sessions. They included such topics as the responsibility of labor, particularly a they were seen in the then current steel strike. The group became involved in the very controversial issue of public housing then raging in Los Angeles. Almost always, authorities on both sides of the controversy were called in to give foundation to the sessions. The group also took part in such local activities as the Whittier Institute of International Relations, where they were the guests of honor.

The line between study and recreation was blurred. Journeys into all parts of the city, like a la Vera Street, the Mexican quarter, were educational as well as fun. Visits in the homes of community leaders were fun as well as educational. Then there were weekends spent sailing at the beach, and hiking in the mountains, and evenings spent looking for new places to eat or party.

But the core of each person's day was his eight hours at the factory. The factory environment is one that most of us never get a chance to know. The unskilled worker's outlook on the world is quite different from that of even his foreman, although they work in the same shop. After two months of doing common labor, one gets a pretty good idea of the philosophy of the man who has to look forward to punching the same time card for the rest of his life. But the pay was good. Most of the boys made around $55 a week, some made as much as $85 per week. The girls generally made slightly less. They felt, just like every other worker, that it was rough getting up at six in the morning. But that check on Friday was what made their other activities possible, and the work wasn't bad, particularly since they could look at it as a foundation for their other activities.

And they all felt well-traveled after their summer. Even though the group didn't go more than 75 miles from Los Angeles, they all felt that they knew the West Coast better than if they had spent their two months touring up and down it. After all, what gives an area its distinguishihng characteristics is the people who live there. You don't get true pictures of people as a tourist. That comes from working with them and visiting in their homes. And it is probable that the natives' impression of their neighbors up the coast and across the mountains are closer to the true picture than those that the typical tourist gets.

Information on Student in Industry projects is available at the Carolina YMCA, and from the American Friends Service Committee.

(This is the third of a series of articles about summer travel.)

Express Yourself

Editor:

No two people will disagree that the world has recently become very small and by means of transportation it is possible to travel around it in a score of days.

True knowledge about any place on the earth and about conditions in that place is abundantly available to every seeker if he knocks at the right door. Without such knowledge no fool can claim that a universal understanding is anything but an illusion.

I hesitate long before being optimistic about the mess we may see if the youth in the world will follow the steps of the American youth. Very few of the youth are acquainted with the world situation while none is in a position to deny the fact they are responsible, as scholars and citizens, to know what is going on in the neighborhood. The American youth, at least those I have met, are almost completely absorbed by and enclosed within their society, satisfied with their state of ignorance.

American youth take life easy, but life is not that easy. I tried to follow their line of logic but most disappointingly I found that they have none. They take it that way, not because it is the best, but because it is the easiest.

I heartily wish that student government and other concerned groups will feel the responsibility of doing something in this field by taking effective measures to rectify such an amazing situation.

Samih N. Azharna

Carolina Caravan

Net Team Is Duke's Nemesis

By Jake Wade

Tennis fans will be given their last opportunity to see the fine University of North Carolina team in action here Thursday when the Tar Heels meet strong Rollins College.

Following the engagement with Rollins, Coach John Kenfield takes his squad on its annual northern trip for seven matches, and that winds up the season except for the Southern Conference championships at Davidson May 15-16.

The Tars may be the strongest team on the Tar Heels' schedule this year. Those of us who have the notion that this possibly is Carolina's best team in history—that is, for depth and balance all down the line—will watch the outcome of Thursday's battle with great interest. And we hope this bullish notice doesn't put the whammy on our boys.

Correction

It has been pointed out that our bureau was a little too enthusiastic in one of its recent dispatches, which noted that Duke's tennis win over the Tar Heels last year was its first in a quarter of a century.

We stand corrected. Duke did, indeed, win a match in 1944, by 6-3, and another in 1945, by 5-4. But that's all. We are glad to set the record straight for those who read the earlier dispatch.

Prior to 1944, the last Duke wins were in 1927, two by 5-4. That was the year before John Kenfield began coaching here.

Up to date, over all, Kenfield-coached teams (1928-1953) now show the following dual-meet record against old rival and highly respected Duke teams: 36 victories, three defeats.

For the record, actually Kenfield was not in charge when the the Tar Heels dropped the 1944 and 1945 matches to Duke. They were played in June both those years, after Kenfield had left for his summer job in Illinois. When Kenfield was here, in both 1944 and 1945, the Tar Heels defeated the Blue Devils: by 8-1 in 1944, and by 7-2 in 1945. After those decisive wins, he read with some chagrin, while he was in Chicago, of their subsequent defeats by Duke .

A Different Story

It hasn't been that way in golf, another spring sport in which the Tar Heels have consistently fielded first rate teams with a winning tradition over a long period. We bring this out just to show you that we are willing to print the bitter with the sweet.

From 1927 through 1937, the Duke and Carolina golf teams plyaed on even terms, the decade showing nine wins for Duke and nine for the Tar Heels.

From 1938 through 1950, however, during which time North Carolina had some of its finest teams, led by great Harvie Ward, Duke rolled up an astonishing winning streak of 12 in a row over the Tar Heels.

Duke added its 13th straight in the first match between the two teams in 1951. The Tar Heels broke the jinx, however, in the second match that year, played at Finley, and then went on to win twice over Duke last year.

The Duke-Carolina golf rivalry is keen, as in tennis, and as in all spheres of athletic activity, for that matter. They have only one match scheduled this year, that on May 11 at Hope Valley, Duke's home grounds. The Tar Heel golfers, who, like the Tar Heel netmen, are undefeated and exceptionally well balanced all down the line, will be seeking their fourth straight win over Duke linksmen. Whammy, stay away!

Jersey Walcott Smears Rocky

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J.—(Special)—There was anger in Jersey Joe Walcott's eyes today as he branded heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano "the dirtiest fighter I ever met in 24 years of fighting."

Jersey Joe, training in virtual privacy for his return shot at the man who knocked him out in September, didn't want to start slinging mud as he sat in his closet-size dressing room having his hands bandaged. But the words tumbled out when he was needled about his quiet attitude.

Nine, Netters Play At Home

Tennis Team Meets Rollins; Lore Scheduled To Face Duke

Big Four First Team To Be Decided Today In Important Contest

By Tom Peacock

Big Four baseball standings will be at least temporarily decided here today when Duke and Carolina meet on Emerson Field at 3:30.

Carolina and Duke are tied for first with 3-2 records, way ahead of State and Wake Forest. The Tar Heels are leading the southern division of the Conference, and a win for Duke will put it right in the fracas for a playoff position.

The two top teams in the Southern and northern divisions meet in a playoff, and Duke must beat out Carolina or Furman right now.

Blue Devil coach Ace Parker will probably start his fast balling righthander, Joe Lewis, today, while Walt Rabb is expected to go along with another righthander, Bill Lore.

Lewis is still smarting from a 5-2 licking the Tar Heels gave him here last week in front of his parents who had come all the way from Falls River, Massachusetts to see him beat Carolina. The big redhead was uncommonly effective against Carolina last year, however.

Lore lost his last start, a six hit heartbreaker to Wake Fores,t 2-0. It was his first game after an ankle injury, and he seemed completely well. Lore has a 4-2 record and is one of the leading hitters on the squad.

The Tar Heels, supposedly strong at pitching but weak at the plate, have become the hardest hitting team in the league. Their latest outburst was a 13-3 romp over State here Tuesday in which they banged out 17 safeties including a homer and three triples.

Coaches Rabb and Hearn have the personnel, too. When Carolina faces a lefthanded pitcher the coaches may change their lineup all around and insert a whole new outfield. There is no lack of power, either, most of Carolina's hits being crisp line drives, many for extra bases.

Carolina's lineup may be strengthened by the return of third baseman Bruce Holt. Holt was out with an ankle injury, and though a remarkably good fielder, has had trouble unseating the hard-hitting Bobby Williams since his recovery. Williams went hitless Tuesday, however, and Holt may get his chance.

In the rest of the infield, Ed Hooks or Will Frye will catch, Bobby Henning at first, Harry Lloyd, second, and Fred Dale at short. Al Long, Connie Gravitte, John Motsinger, Wayne White, and Ken Keller are all making bids for the outfield positions.

Home Schedule Ends For Netters Today Against Rollins Tars

By Vardy Buckalew

Rollins College will close out Carolina's home tennis schedule today and the match should be the best one of the year to be played here. The match is scheduled for 3 o'clock.

The Rollins 'ineup is studded with champions and the Tar Heels will have to call on their depth if they are to win this one. The Tars have been defeated once this year by powerful Miami.

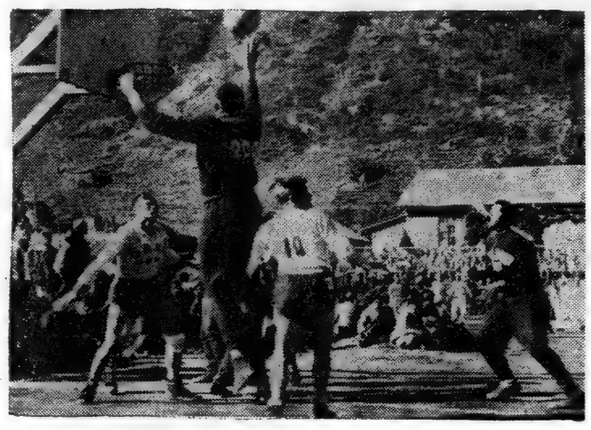
Carolina, on the other hand, will be seeking its eighteenth straight win. The toughest match for the Tar Heels so far was the one with Duke which they won 7-2.

Alfredo Millet and Calhoun Dickson are the two top men on the Rollins squad. Both have played the number one position at times, but Millet is expected to be the one to face Del Sylvia in the feature match today. Millet defeated Sylvia in the match last year.

Dickson will play number two and will face Herb Browne for the Tar Heels, who has moved up a notch since the last match. Coach Kenfield made the switch after Browne defeated Tom Bradford in a challenge match.

Millet is a member of Mexico's Davis Cup team and Dickson is Florida's public courts champion. Also in the lineup is Eduardo Garcia, Chilean national junior champion, and his brother Memo.

Other international players on the squad include Mexico's Alberto Danel, another Davis Cupper, and Paul Driscoll from Canada. The only other American in the Rollins lineup besides Dickson is freshman George Longshore from Anniston, Ala., last year's Alabama State scholastic champion.



The Carolina team will start on its annual northern tour after this match, opening the trek with a match with Virginia on Saturday. Following that they will play six northern schools, finishing against a strong Princeton team on May 9.

New Girl's Tennis Club Plays Wake Forest Today

The recently formed girl's Tennis Club plays its first match today at 3 o'clock on the clay courts against Wake Forest's girl's team.

Nancy Gerlach will play number one for Carolina, followed by by Carolyn Johnson, Sandy Donaldson, Ann Forsythe, Jane Carey and Louise Milligan.

Misses Johnson and Donaldson will play first doubles, Jo Deming and Jane Carey, second, and Joann Murphy and Gerry Norris, third.

THIS PICTURE, RELEASED FROM an official Soviet news agency, shows American prisoners-of-war taking part in "inter-camp Olympic games," according to the original captions accompanying the photos. The Red agency said that the top picture shows John L. Thomas taking a shot at the basket while Billy B. Foshee (left) and Loris R. Miller and Robert W. Allen watch during a basketball game.

Golfers Play In Collegiate Tourney Today

Coach Chuck Erickson's undefeated Carolina golf team travels to Athens, Ga., today to compete in the Southern Intercollegiate championships, today, tomorrow and Saturday.

The Tar Heels, unbeaten in nine matches, have racked up impressive wins over Citadel, Williams, Ohio, Notre Dame, Michigan, Virginia, N. C. State, and Wake Forest.

A quartet of veterans head the Tar Heels. Bob Black, Jim Ferree, Bill Williamson and Lew Brown are the oldtimers now in their senior year. Billy Thornton, a sophomore from Manchester, Conn., and freshmen Billy Ford and John Frazier have been the other consistent winners.

Sophomore George Mountcastle will also journey South with the Tar Heels.

Erickson's team finished well up in the pack at Athens last year. Louisiana State is favored in this year's outing with the Tar Heels conceded an outside possibility in the upper bracket.

MURALS

Today's Horseshoes

7:00—Phi Gam-1 vs. Sig Nu-2; Kappa Sig-1 vs. Sig Nu-1.

7:40—Phi Gam-4 vs. Delt Sig; Pi Lamb-1 vs. SPE-2.

ATTENTION 'W.C.' AND 'G.C.' DATERS
Schoolfield's Flower Shop
(joining both campus's)
offers you
A LIBERAL SCHOOL DISCOUNT
on your corsage orders
Phone, Write or Wire
your order will be waiting
Phone 5-3451 333 Tate St.

We announce the
DALE FAIRLESS RECORD CLUB
One FREE record or album with every fifth record or album bought.
DALE FAIRLESS
Glen Lennox

FLATTER HER WITH FLOWERS
Your mother, your wife, your best girl—remember her and that special day with the pefect gift.
CAROLINA FLOWER SHOP
OPPOSITE THE POST OFFICE

"H"

Rathskeller

For Your Parties
½ keg 22.80
½ keg 12.60
Case beer 4.75
Remember tonight and every Thursday is
ALL YOU CAN EAT
Spaghetti and Meatball nite and free drink for .99.
For the best food in town eat and drink at the
RATHSKELLER

A Sad Parable
With A Happy Ending

Consider the case of C. Alphonso Gull.

By the end of his Freshman year he had trained one girl to wave at him, but she never waved until four minutes till eleven, and she lived in a Dormitory.

In his sophomore year he just gave up and played Field Hockey.

This year he was a junior, and pretty desperate. Every time he listened to a radio program he used a different soap—but no wonderful thing happened to him.

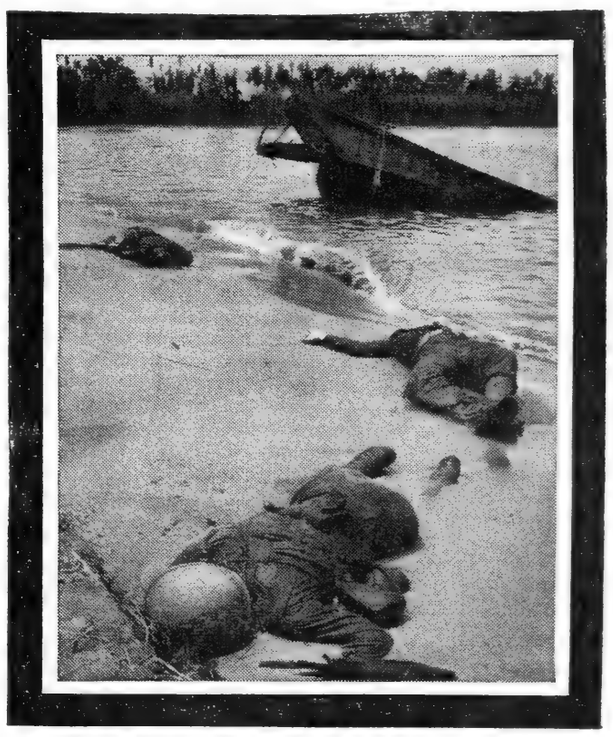
And then he saw our ad for THE UNFAIR SEX. Now C. Alphonso wasn't so slow as you might think. "What's sauce for the goose," he said, "is duck soup for the gander."

Pal, he bought that book, and he's already memorized Line I and Line II.

But we doubt if he'll finish it. His evenings are that busy!

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Jobs with a future



Every year hundreds of college girls use Gibbs secretarial training to get the right job and assure quick promotion.

Special Course for College Women. Five-school personal placement service. Write College Dean for "GIBBS GIRLS AT WORK."

KATHARINE GIBBS
BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough Street NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Avenue
CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Superior Street PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell Street
MONTCLAIR, N. J., 33 Plymouth Street

JUST RECEIVED
Blue Denim
SLACKS
Bill Barton Style
By Glaser
$3.50
TOWN AND CAMPUS

This was Buna Beach in New Guinea, September 20, 1943.

When you face the East for one minute this Armistice Day think of these young soldiers in the terrible quiet of death. And in that reverent sixty seconds, make a lasting vow to work unceasingly for a peaceful future—in which Amer[illegible]oys may never again have to fall in battle. Remind yourself that peace is for the strong.

Tens of millions of Americans are helping keep our country strong by investing in Defense Bonds. Won't you help, too?

The Daily Tar Heel

JOSEPH R. McCARTHY (left), of the Senate Permanent Investigating subcommittee, and Rep. Harold H. Velde, of the House Un-American Activities Committee were invited to the White House by President Eisenhower for his regular weekly legislative conference. Attorney General Herbert Brownell, outlined the new plan for the lawmakers as the president explained his new loyalty-security program.—NEA Telephoto.

"He's not the handsomest bartender in the world, but he's generous with the Angostura*."

ANGOSTURA.
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. Any bartender's reputation is made by Old Fashioneds with enough Angostura. And for added glory as a chef, try a few dashes in your salad dressing.

LAST TIMES TODAY

Varsity
SUN., MON., TUES.
It will live in your heart FOREVER!

What Goes On Here

Inaugural Banquet

The Student Government Inaugural Banquet will be held tonight at 6:30 in the Blue Room of Lenoir Hall. Cost will be $1.50 per person.

Korean War Vets

All Korean War Vets must report to 315 South building to sign their monthly certificates of attendance if they wish to receive their April subsistence allowance.

Class Rings

Class rings will be on sale in the lobby of the Y today from 2 to 4 p.m. Deliveries will be made at the end of Spring quarter.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club will meet at 6 o'clock tonight in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir Hall.

Semper Fidelis Society

The Semper Fidelis Society will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Naval Armory. Elections of officers for the coming year will be held. All members are asked to attend.

Freshman Camp

The Planning Committee will meet tonight in the Y Cabinet room at 7 p.m. At 8 p.m. a meeting of the Counselor-Orientation Committee, headed by Jim Beyer will be held. All persons interested in planning and counseling in the Freshman Camp next fall are asked to be present.

Square Dance

The YMCA will sponsor its second square dance of the season Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Y court. Round and folk dancing are on the program, along with musical entertainment. There will be a refreshment stand. Admission is free; come with or without dates. Carl Gregory and Cy Herzog will be callers.

WUNC Program Schedule

7:00 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—Night Duty.
8:00—The University Hour
8:30—Voices of Europe.
9:00—Matters of Note by Dr. Wilton Mason.
10:00—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.

Student Party Meeting

The Student Party will meet Monday at 8:30 p.m. in the Roland Parker Lounge of Graham Memorial. Election of officers will head the agenda. Visitors are welcome.

Transportation, Traffic Course In BA School

The University School of Business Administration here has opened up a new major area to be known as "Transportation and Traffic."

The new major takes its place beside the already established areas of accounting, finance, insurance, marketing, personnel, production and combined business administration-law.

Plans for this new area were developed over the past year under the leadership of Prof. C. H. McGregory (then chairman of the curriculum committee), and Associate Prof. J. C. D. Blaine with the active support of the North Carolina Traffic League and groups representing the various types of transportation in the State.

A. H. Lathrop, General Traffic Manager of American Enka Corporation, served as chairman of a cooperating committee of the League, representing the League, the railroads, the motor carriers and the airlines.

The student entering this program will follow the required pattern for the University, spending the first two years in the General College to receive a foundation in such areas as natural science, mathematics, the humanities and social science. Included here are geography, English, government and basic economics and business administration.

In his third year, upon transferring to the School of Business Administration, he will be required to complete courses designated to provide the necessary broad foundation for business administration, including the areas of economics, business law, marketing, finance, accounting personnel and production.

He will also be provided with four comprehensive courses especially directed to the professional aspects of the field, including transportation regulation and rates, industrial traffic management, the analysis of practical problems in industrial traffic management and in carrier traffic operations.

JUST RECEIVED

Another Shipment of Imported
LINEN SLACKS
10.95

Yes you can buy these genuine imported crease-resistant linen slacks now for only $10.95. You'll find all the new spring shades. Hurry down as they will sell fast at this low price.

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

A Little
BOOK SALE

A table of shopworn titles, originally $3.00 or more
$1.69

A mess of old books formerly 48c. Now—
29¢

Friday and Saturday Only

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin S.t Open Evenings

NC Symphony Sets Concert

Noted Violinist To Play Here With Orchestra

By Tom Neal Jr.

It's a new approach to music when a brilliant concert violinist can truthfully say "the role of the musician is that of an interpreter; he should carry out what the composer feels and put himself in the background."

But these are the words of an internationally - known violinist, Beatrice Griffin, who is concertmistress here with the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra in its local concert at Memorial Hall next Wednesday night at 8:30.

"Charlotte Cushman, who was a cousin of mine, has set an example for my life," Miss Griffin continued. "She was a great artist, and a great woman as well." The nationally-known cousin of Miss Griffin was a nineteenth century operatic star and tragic actress whose greatest successes were in Shakespearean dramas, and whose best-loved role was Lady Macbeth.

Miss Griffin, American in ancestry and education, has studied violin under the guidance of such eminent teachers as Emanuel and Karl Ondricek, Richard Burgin, Ilya Scholnik and Leopold Auer.

Following her travel, study and concert appearances in Europe and Cuba, Miss Griffin concertized extensively throughout this country. When she returned to European engagements, Miss Griffin settled in Scandinavia where she gave concerts in the music capitals of Sweden, Norway, Finland and Denmark.

She also appeared in concerts at the Royal Castle and Rosendahl Castle in Stockholm before King Gustav of Sweden and the Royal Family. During World War II, she was presented decorations by Swedish royalty and the Finnish Government for her efforts on behalf of wounded soldiers, for whom she played innumerable concerts.

"Those soldiers . . . those helpless war victims . . . were such an appreciative lot," Miss Griffin said. "They must have felt the spirit of the music—its real spiritual value—because the doctors in Helsinki's hospital commented to me that music to those soldiers had certainly proved a healing agent."

MISS GRIFFIN AND DR. BENJAMIN SWALIN

Miss Griffin is one of those rare musicians who are characterized by a warmth that penetrates her audiences. Music-goers to the North Carolina Symphony concerts have repeatedly said that Miss Griffin radiates her feelings in such a manner that her listeners immediately feel an intense liking for her. This is her fourth season with the Tar Heel orchestra.

An example of how Miss Griffin affects her listeners was shown through an experience with the late Henry Ford. Although Mr. Ford had never been a music enthusiast, when he heard Miss Griffin, it is reported that he became more interested in concert music and even lent Miss Griffin an excellent violin that the Ford family owned.

In addition to her solo work with the State Symphony, Miss Griffin has had extensive engagements with such symphonies in this country as the St. Louis, Detroit, and Philadelphia orchestras; and with many Scandinavian orchestras.

During the summer, Miss Griffin spends her time in Vermont, vacationing and playing concerts there and in Boston. Her home is in Chapel Hill.

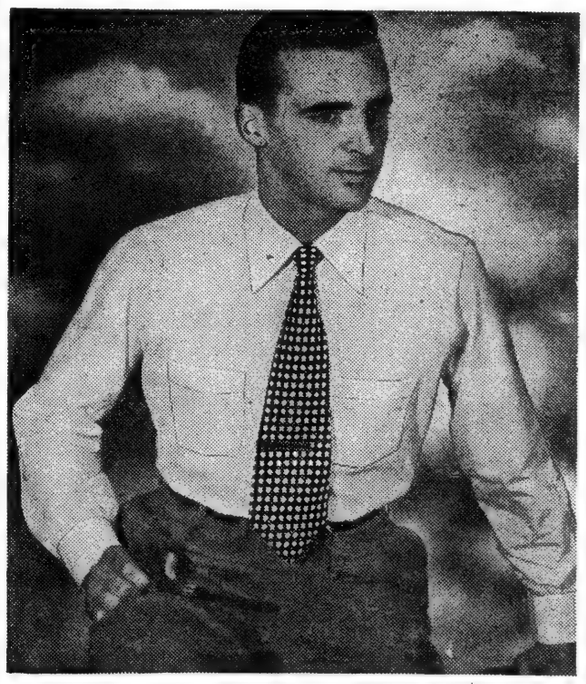
The North Carolina Symphony, is on its eighth annual tour throughout the Tar Heel State from January 21-May 14. With a total of 140 annual concerts, the orchestra plays half of its programs —free—to Tar Heel school youngsters. Last year more than 125,000 school children heard the symphony.

Men's Glee Club Lists Newly-Elected Officers

Newly - elected officers of the University Men's Glee Club are W. J. Chance, Norfolk, Va., president; George Thomas, Carthage, vice-president; William Calvert, Managua, Nicaragua, secretary; James Gulledge, Moncks Corner, S. C., business manager, and Rupert Williams, Edenton, publicity manager.

The retiring officers are Eddie Hickman, Enfield, president; Thomas Sibley, Albemarle, vice president; Robert Kirkpatrick, Charlotte, secretary. Chance was formerly the business manager.

CLASSIFIEDS



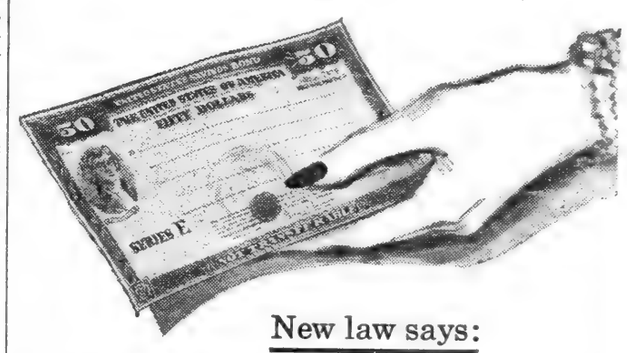
FOR SALE: AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

FOR SALE: 1937 FORD COUPE, Radio, good tires. Ideal for beach trips, see Walt Crabtree. Obie Davis' Esso. 1-c8007-1

PARK-YUE DRIVE-IN theatre
3 MILES WEST OF CARRBORO • HIWAY 54
Tonight Only
Johnnie Weismueller
"TARZAN TRIUMPHS"

THE COMPLETE ARROW LINE AT THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

"A World-Beater For Comfort" Students Say Of Arrow Bi-Way



Recent surveys on America's campuses show that Arrow Bi-Way is gaining in popularity every day. The reason: the low-setting, no-neckband collar that gives extra freedom at the throat for extra comfort. Available at all Arrow dealers.

ARROW SHIRTS

SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

ARROW SOLD AT
VARLEY'S MEN SHOP

A Bond in the hand . . . means more money for you!

New law says:
Defense Bonds can earn interest for 10 more years—at 3%!

DO YOU OWN U. S. Series E Defense Bonds that are maturing now? Then here's wonderful news: You can hold those bonds for ten more years, while they continue to earn interest at a rate of 3% compounded semi-annually!

Think what this means: The bond you invested in at $18.75 can now pay you back $33.67 . . . a $37.50 bond can pay you back $67.34 . . . and so on.

Yes, the new Bond Law makes it possible for you to get this extra profit (as much as 80% on your original investment!), with no extra effort on your part. Just hold your bonds.

The ten-year extra earning privilege applies to all bonds. What's more, every bond you get now starts earning interest sooner and matures earlier—at 3%. Of course, you may still cash any Series E Bond two months after purchase. But you'll be smart to hold your bonds—let them keep earning interest for you!

Strengthen your own future and the future of your country. Join the Payroll Savings Plan!

If you're not already among the wise Americans who are investing in a secure future, why not start now? Invest in Defense Bonds regularly . . . through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Seven million Americans have found it's one sure way to save, because it saves something out of every paycheck before you're tempted to spend it! Join the Payroll Savings Plan today.

3 new money-making opportunities for you! New Series H, J, and K Defense Bonds pay 2.76% to 3%!

If you want to get the interest on your bonds in the form of current income, or if you want to invest more than the annual limit for E Bonds, ask at your bank for descriptive folders about these new bonds:

SERIES H. A new current income bond, available in denominations of $500 to $10,000. Sold at par. Matures in 9 years 8 months and pays an average 3% interest per annum if held to maturity. Interest paid semi-annually by Treasury check. Annual limit, $20,000 maturity value.

SERIES J. A new 12-year appreciation bond, available in denominations of $25 to $100,000. Sold at 72% of par value. Pays 2.76% compounded semiannually if held to maturity. Annual limit, $200,000 issue price jointly with Series K Bonds.

SERIES K. A new 12-year current-income bond in denominations of $500 to $100,000. Pays interest semiannually by Treasury check at the rate of 2.76% per annum. Sold at par. Annual limit, $200,000 issue price jointly with Series J Bonds.

Now even better!
Invest more in Defense Bonds!

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Showers, scattered thunderstorms, windy and warm with 80 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

CRAWL
A.Z.F. Jr. gives a worm's eye view. Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 141 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. | FRIDAY, MAY 1, 1953 | SIX PAGES TODAY

DR. GAINES WILL SPEAK IN JUNE

Model UN Assembly Notes:

Soviet Says Agreement Reached With Iranians

The Soviet delegation to the United Nations Model Assembly announced yesterday that an agreement had been reached with Iran over the distribution of Iranian oil.

Fred Crawford, chairman of the Russian delegation, said that Russia will buy 40 per cent of the annual Iranian oil output, supply technicians for the development of oil resources, and support the government.

At the suggestion of Ray Long, the Iranian representative, the caviar supply from the Caspian Sea will continue to be controlled under the present arrangement.

An unnamed, but unimpeachable source, close to the Iranian tinderbox situation, said the success of this agreement depends on the repeal of the present UN plan. The plan, which has Great Britain in control of the oil with a third party arbitrating, "will be fought bitterly," Crawford told reporters yesterday.

He attacked the West by saying, "We are absolutely pledged to break the western capitalistic countries eeconomic domination of the eastern countries."

"Great Britain has tried to subjugate the people of Iran," he added. "Russia is interested only in the oil. It is only by their unfavorable balance of power that the western countries have been able to impose such measures on the people of the East."

The Russian delegation also charged that the United States and Great Britain had set up the program and schedule without conferring with the Soviet. It was further disclosed that the Russian delegation was displeased with the operation of the Mock Assembly, and had almost withdrawn for this reason.

The hecognition of nations not already in the UN is expected to cause a heated discussion when the Model Assembly convenes tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in Hill Hall. Russia has hinted recently that they may attempt to get a seat for Red China in the UN.

Gorham Takes Oath For Top Campus Post

Bob Gorham took office last night with a pledge and some policy principles.

"I have some pretty definite ideas about campus politics here at Carolina," said the UP president to the student government banquet at Lenoir Hall. "I realize that they must exist as a means of promoting good student government, but student government must also exist as a means of promoting good campus politics."

Gorham said the "solution to our problem" is that we "must use common sense in all our dealings."

The student government banquet marked the beginning of terms for many and the end of terms for others. Vice-president Jim McLeod received the traditional gavel before yielding his seat to new vice-president Baxter Miller.

"We must take stock of what our plans and ideas are," declared Gorham. "Concerning a certain matter, it is wise to be non-partisan, we must recognize this fact and act accordingly. In cases where there is room and reason for partisanship, we should proceed along such lines." He added that by doing this "we can maintain a high level in student government and politics."

Following the banquet the new legislators held their first session in Phi Hall, during which they were sworn in and elected officers.

Ted Frankel, Student Council chairman, administered the oath of office to members of the Women's Honor Council, Men's Honor Council, the vice-president and president.

ABOVE ARE SPONSORS FOR the TEP Houseparty this weekend. Top, left to right, Miss Joyce Kelman, Baltimore, Md., with Charles Friedman, scribe, Baltimore Md.; Miss Judy Keller, Portsmouth, Va., with Murray Politis, vice-president, Greensboro. Bottom, left to right, Miss Sandy Schoenzeit, New York City, N. Y., with Bill Zuckerman, houseparty chairman, Greensboro; Fran Cohen, Winston-Salem, with Roger Ackerman, president, Wallace.

Expulsion From School May Be Rioters' Fate

Possible suspension may face several students whose names were turned over to the Men's Council for participating in a riot early yesterday morning.

Student government leaders indicated that action would be taken immediately against the offenders. Also they worked out plans to prevent such incidents from happening again.

As student government clamped down on the affair, Cobb Dormitory, origin of the riot, viewed the damages incurred during the fracas. Several students' rooms were soaked as a result of a water battle there, and halls were covered with water.

The riot, called a "panty raid" by some or "just a lot of guys raising cane" by others, brought out the entire Chapel Hill police force. Police said yesterday, however, that no arrests were made.

"We don't want trouble if we can help it. But this sort of nonsense must stop," one officer said.

The mob attempted to overturn one police car after officers grabbed a student. Gene Cook, Bill Acker and student body vice-president Baxter Miller stood beside the car trying to keep students from turning it over.

Close to a thousand yelling students came to the girls' dormitories shortly before midnight. The incident started with a water battle involving only a few students, Cobb residents said yesterday.

Considerable soaking took place after the riot when students returned to the dorm at about one in the morning, it was learned also yesterday.

The crowd, obviously composed of as many onlookers as rioters, came up from Cobb to McIver. After yelling outside that dormitory for a half hour, the group headed to Carr, then to Smith.

A number of the mob yelled, "We want panties." However, the girls stayed away from the windows and kept their lights off. Student leaders credited the girls' action for keeping the noisy group under control.

The crowd broke up about 1:30 in front of Smith.

Back at Cobb after the rhubarb, students threw water into two or three rooms from the windows. Books, linens and other belongings were damaged.

President Bob Gorham said yesterday that he "could well understand the feeling" of the students in the riot. He pointed out the harm of such riots saying, "Here at Carolina we have more freedom than any other college in the country. We are completely free to do and act as we wish."

"Our regulations and rules are few," continued Gorham. "And yet, here we are taking advantage of this situation by participating in riots of this type.

"I can not condemn anyone for his actions last night. All I want to do is ask everyone to please consider the unfavorable publicity we will receive and to think of Carolina as a place that we all believe in and want to serve to our best."

Beach Weather

Tar Heels headed for the beach this weekend can expect little help from the weather man. At least that's the indication given by the Raleigh Weather Bureau yesterday when they forcast "partly cloudy and warm weather for Friday and Saturday."

And for this afternoon, the weather man said there would be "typically warm late April weather with widely scattered afternoon showers."

MEN OF C BATTERY, 867th Field Artillery Bn, remove the barrel from this giant 280-mm cannon prior to loading on a flatcar at Fort Sill, Okla. Two of the big guns are being moved to the Nevada proving grounds, and one will fire the first atomic shell in history.—NEA Telephoto

Graduation Plans Listed By Chancellor

Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University, will deliver the principal address at the 159th Commencement here Monday night, June 8, in Kenan Stadium.

The commencement program will get under way Saturday, June 6, and continue through Sunday and Monday. Alumni headquarters will be at the Carolina Inn.

The Rev. Robert Dwight Ware, pastor of Asheville Methodist Church, will preach the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning, June 7, at 11 o'clock in Memorial Hall.

Opening event of commencement will be a Dutch luncheon for seniors and their guests at 1 o'clock Saturday. Shows will be presented at the Morehead Planetarium at 3, 4, and 8:30 o'clock. At 7 o'clock the class of the years '28, '36, '37, '38, '39 and '52 will hold reunions followed by a reception at Kessing Pool at 9 o'clock.

Sunday's program will include, in addition to the baccalaureate sermon, the annual dinner meeting of the Old Students Club at 1 o'clock, a meeting of the pharmacy class of '28 at 1 o'clock; Planetarium shows at 2, 3, 4 and 8:30 o'clock; University Band concert at 4:30; student art exhibit at 5:30; a joint reunion dinner for the classes of '17, '18, '19 and '20, and the Silver Anniversary Reunion of the class of '28, both at 6:30; and a concert by the Chapel Hill Choral Club in Hill Hall at 8:30.

Monday morning at 10 o'clock the class of '53 will hold its last meeting, a reception for commencement guests will follow at 11 o'clock and the annual Alumni Luncheon will be held at 1 o'clock.

R. Arthur Spaugh Jr., Winston-Salem, president of General Alumni Association, will be toastmaster. "Golden Anniversary Certificates" will be presented to members of the class of '03 and other members of the Old Students Club. New officers will be installed and a report on the Alumni Annual Giving will be made.

The Carolina Playmakers will present a bill of new plays at 2:30 and 4 o'clock; Air Force and Navy ROTC commissions will be awarded at 3 o'clock, and the University Band will give a concert at 6:30 in Kenan Stadium, preceding graduation exercises which are to begin at 7 o'clock.

Chancellor Robert B. House will preside over the graduation exercises. On the program in addition to Dr. Gaines, the principal speaker, will be Governor William B. Umstead, President Gordon Gray and Dan Perry of Kinston, president of the senior class.

Shaw Students Will Visit Here

Approximately 40 students from Shaw University, the Negro College at Raleigh, will be guests of the Carolina Baptist Student Union at the group's regular Sunday night Supper Forum Sunday.

Supper will be served at 6:30 instead of the usual 6 o'clock hour, Bill Cash, Supper Forum Chairman said yesterday.

Following the meal, a panel discussion centering around the question "Is Christianity Practical" will be held. The panel will be made up of four students, two from Shaw and two from UNC. Representing Carolina on the panel will be Ed Ramseur, graduate student from Lincolnton, and Bob Hughes, undergraduate from Asheville.

The audience will also get a chance to take part in the discussion, with a twenty-finute period being set aside for open discussion after talks by those on the panel.

After the open discussion, a play featuring four Carolina students will be presented. The name of this play has not yet been announced.

A social hour will conclude the evening's program.

Coed Advisors Selected For Fall Program

Coed orientation advisers were listed yesterday by Nancy Horne, chairman of Women's Orientation, and Thelma L. Souder, chairman of Adviser Training Program.

The following advisers were selected:

Harriet Hill, Nancy Murray, Mary Ann Moore, Carol Libby, Barbara Burgess, Connie Moore, Kit Wallace, Jeanne Bunch, Phyllis Forrest, Joyce Nelson, Nancy Perryman, Nancy Davis, Ann Fitzgerald, Alice Jones, Elinor Wrenn, Sara Leek, Jane Carswell, Eleanor Addison, Mary Lee George, Celia Brown, Betty Jean Scott, Page Moore, Helen Lee Watts, Jane Yearley, Mary Ruth Linville, Nancy Gerlach, Mary Jane Bumpous, Sue Ambler, Betty Lou Wannamaker, Virginia Whiteman, Ann Underwood, Caroline Traynham, Cornelia Lassiter, Jean Hayes, Dodie Eisele, Mary B. Cook, Jody Desmond, Ann Folger, Janice Jurczak, Len Daniel, Sara Kate Davis, Jo Ann Jones, Lois Collins, Joan Gant, Anne Bell, Janet Cornwell, Joe Deming, Ellen Prouty, Jean Bryant, Jess Carraway, Ruth Corwin, Dorothy McNeely, Jane Snyder, Gwenn Wait, and Sally Winn.

The following alternate advisers were also listed:

NEWS IN BRIEF

PANMUNJOM — The Allies warned the Communists yesterday they might take a short cut through the snarled prisoner exchange problem by simply releasing 32,000 North Koreans who don't want to go home. This would follow a pattern created by the Reds themselves. The Allies also told the Communists to nominate a non-Asian country as neutral caretaker for 48,000 Communist prisoners who don't want to go home, and made it clear the Allies would discuss little else until that's done.

★

TOKYO—American war prisoners refusing to make Communist broadcasts were put in three-foot-high wire cages where they had to crouch like animals, a liberated soldier said yesterday. Some of the soldiers gained release from the torture and humiliation by saying they had seen the error of their ways. One man is reported to have spent six months in one of the cages. The prisoners were only allowed to lie down at night.

★

SEOUL — American Sabre jets destroyed or damaged five Communists MIG-15's yesterday while hundreds of UN warplanes bombed North Korean military targets from the battlefield to the Yalu River.

Coaxial Haunts At Glen Lennox

A woman from Glen Lennox called The Daily Tar Heel office yesterday and the conversation went something like this:

"You had any calls about TV sets?" the woman inquired.

"No, can't say that we have," a reporter answered.

"Well," the caller said, "ours went off during the storm. It came back on after the storm and I tried to cut it off but the picture won't go away. It's haunting me."

The DTH Gets New Odor Along With A New Editor

The Daily Tar Heel not only changed editors this week, it also took on a new air. The paper is now being printed with perfumed ink, Cashmere Bouquet variety.

A specially-prepared perfume transfers the fragrant odors onto the paper via printing press ink rollers at The News, Inc. printing plant in Hillsboro.

DR. BENJAMIN F. SWALIN, distinguished conductor of the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, will bring his nationally-known, 65 piece orchestra here next Wednesday. The musicians will play a free, children's program at 2 o'clock that afternoon, followed by an adult, evening concert at Memorial Hall at 8:15.

'Look What You Started!'

Charlotte Couple Responsible For Matrimonied Student Idea

By Jerry Cassidy

Married students used to be a great curiosity at Carolina.

However, for Mr. and Mrs. Graham Lawrence of Glen Lennox, being married at the University in 1928 was so much fun, even though unique, that they are back in Chapel Hill again while Mr. Lawrence takes refresher and review courses as a special student in the School of Pharmacy. The owner of the Myers Park Pharmacy in Charlotte, he has three registered pharmacists working for him.

Enjoying their return to campus life immensely, the Lawrences felt fully initiated as students when they recently received a church letter starting "Dear Collegians: . . . you are now eligible to become members of our college class . . ."

The Lawrences are filled with pleasant memories of Chapel Hill in the days just before the depression. Mrs. Lawrence, then Vera Burnette, remembers the first tip she received when she transferred from Duke—"If you want a good history class, go over early and sign up with a little man. Dr. Frank Graham." Recently Dr. Graham laughingly teased them with "Look what you two started!" when pointing to the number of married students now attending school here.

Living quarters for married students were almost non-existent in the late 20's and landlords seemed wary of the young couple. But they were finally able to rent the little cottage behind what is now the Tri-Delt House on Pittsboro Street.

Mrs. Lawrence is presently first vice president of the North Carolina chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, National Education Society, and a member of the national board of that group. She received her degree in 1927.

Just because the Lawrences have been in Charlotte for a number of years doesn't mean they haven't kept up with UNC. Through their daughter Pat who went to Carolina during the 1940's, by returning to Chapel Hill for important events and football games,

Stilwell, Hanes Will Steer UP

The University Party elected new officers for the remainder of 1953 at its regular meeting Tuesday night. Those elected were Jack Stilwell, chairman; John Hanes, vice-chairman; Ann Bell, secretary; Bob Farrell, treasurer and Bob Grimes, publicity chairman.

Walt McFall, outgoing chairman, was given a standing round of applause for his excellent work in that office. He then proposed a motion to establish a bi-partisan committee to work with the elections board to revise the election laws into a more workable form. This committee would include representatives from both political parties. The motion was carried unanimously.

Square Dance Tonight Offers Band, Singers

Music, refreshments and round and square dancing will be included in a free square dance in the Y-Court at 8 o'clock tonight.

Bob Cole and his band will play for the dance, which is sponsored by the YMCA. Cole's group features Al Wright, a ballad singer from Weaver. A male quartet will also sing between dances.

Carl Gregory and Cy Herzog will call the dances. Dates are not required.

GM Director

Deadline for applications for the position of director of Graham Memorial is near, Ken Penegar, chairman of the Graham Memorial Board of Directors said yesterday.

Applications are still being received at the Dean of Students office, South Building. The position was vacated last week when Bill Roth, present director, resigned to accept a position in professional Scouting.

Penegar was reelected as chairman at the board meeting. The Board will meet with its personal committee next Wednesday, 7 p.m. in the Grail Room, Graham Memorial.

BA Preregistration

Students in the School of Business Administration will have from Monday through Thursday of next week to sign the preregistration books in the foyer of Carroll Hall. Preregistration for the Summer and Fall sessions will begin Monday, May 11, and run through Friday, May 15. Students should sign the book now to avoid any delay.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed 34 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Schindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Eddie Starnes.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Be There

An opportunity to understand the United Nations is open to students as the University's own Model General Assembly convenes this afternoon. Students of this decade, because the world and its problems are their problems, should not fail to comprehend what the UN stands for and how it operates.

With all its complexity, the United Nations funcions to resolve today's issues, not, as Bismarck said, "by blood and steel," but by words and rational action.

The assertion has been made that "we have not given peace a chance." We are vulnerable to the charge to a great extent because we did not keep faith with President Wilson and his League of Nations after World War I.

Now the UN offers peace a chance. And, in turn, the campus model Assembly offers the UN a chance. It is a privilege no intelligent individual should forfeit.

The Mustard Seed

University students hold strategic places in all of the world's nations. They are important because their ideas soon will guide these countries; what they believe will be their nations' beliefs.

Tuesday your vote will help decide which political views are going to live in the lands which the Cold War is being fought for. For the foreign individual your vote may mean whether he will have freedom of choice, or freedom to follow or suffer. Tuesday is the day the campus must decide whether it wants to remain a member of the National Student Association (NSA).

The international ideology battle we have referred to is but one of five areas in the scope of the National Student Association's activities. However, in our estimation it is the most imporant, for if it wasn't the foreign opposition wouldn't spend such enormous sums to defeat the program put forth by this country's student group.

Statebents by many of the United Stae's leaders attest to the effectiveness of ehe National Student Association in combatting Communist youth movements abroad. Such personalities as President Eisenhower, Eleanor Roosevelt, and Harold Stassen have recognized NSA's role in thwarting Red youth designs in the Far East and the Southern Hemisphere.

Much has been said about the National Student Association on this campus, but little of it has contained the clarity necessary to explain NSA to the individual. The organizational facts on it:

An infant, the National Student Association was begun only six years ago. It acts as a catalyst for student opinion of member schools (about 300) and represents that opinion in conferences both in this country and abroad. The group operates five programs: student government, student affairs, educational affairs, international affairs, and travel.

Its budget of about $500,000 a year comes from grants, travel payments and dues. The dues are used exclusively to finance the affairs of the national office and supplemented by an annual grant of $3,500 from the publisher of the Philadelphia Bulletin (NSA's national headquarters are here.)

Carolina's dues to the organization are $125 a year. That is all it pays.

The role of the National Student Association has been hard work; its reward has been success. We must not let its achievebents for the world, indeed for us, go by default. Vote Tuesday to keep NSA.

The Earthworm

— A. Z. F. Wood Jr. —

The earthworm is a segmented worm of the phylum Annelida. They like temperate climates and have a particular aversion to light. They usually are not much more than ten inches long, but in Africa they've been known to be four or five feet long.1

Earthworms like to eat leaves and other vegetation and they have very muscular gizzards which grind up the food into little bitty bits.2

Earthworms don't move very fast. They have no legs, in the strict sense of the word; they have lots of little bristles and they sort of hump along, each segment doing its share in the good old American way. In winter, or during drought, earthworms don't move at all: they hibernate.3

Earthworms are hermaphrodites, but they are not quite self-sufficient. They exchange sperm cells and eggs with each other as an everyday natural thing like buying a tube of toothpaste and it's all quite jolly and cliquish in the Annelida phylum. It would appear, however, that the earthworms derive very little pleasure from their reproductive activities.4

There have been ugly rumours about the earthworm to the effect that when (or if) cut in two, each half will regenerate its missing part. Now, this is only partially true. If you cut an earthworm right in the middle, the front part will grow another tail and will survive, but the back part will not grow another head, rather it will grow another tail. It is rather difficult to survive with two tails and no head.5 For one thing, the earthworm can't eat. You can, however, cut off just a couple of segments of the front part 6 and the worm will regenerate, but if you cut off more than fifteen segments, the regenerated head will be deformed. The reason for this is that the worm's reproductive organs are somewhere between the fifteenth and nineteenth segment, counting from the front.7

Earthworms do not hear or see and they breathe through their skin. The make up for this lack of senses (aesthetic and otherwise) by burrowing. They burrow and burrow and burrow and they make holes in the ground and the roots of plants breathe better and grow better and the farmers just think they're simply wonderful.

1—They've got everything in Africa.

2—They grind it up so fine that their blood isn't even red.

3—Just like bears, raccoons, chipmunks, skunks, frogs, ladybugs, crocodiles, and rattlesnakes.

4——Neither do they have Oedipus complexes, sex crimes, and neuroses.

5—This holds true for most of the rest of the animal kingdom.

6—It may be hard for you to tell the difference between the front and the back of an earthworm, but an earthworm can tell every time.

7—If you're really good, you can get a whole mess of earthworms, graft them together, and come out with one big long earthworm.

"Hey,—Here I Am"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — For years it has been a White House custom to publish the names of presidential callers. This is done on the theory that American people have a right to know who talks to or tries to influence the most important personage in the nation.

However, the White House has declined to make public the golfing partners of the President—except for an occasional senator such as Taft—on the ground that Ike's golfing partners would be hounded by lobbyists who would try to influence the President through his golfing partners.

Actually, those who golf or visit with the President in Augusta or at the Burning Tree Club in Washington can vitally influence national policy.

For instance, William Faricy, astute, charming President of the Association of American Railroads, visited with Ike at Burning Tree recently. Faricy, one of the ablest and most personable representatives of big business in the capital, is anxious to block construction of the St. Lawrence seaway because of its competition with the railroads.

Every President of the United States, so far, has been for the St. Lawrence project. So have such top republicans as Dewey and Taft. However, Burning Tree golfer Faricy apparently performed miracles.

For, after talking with him, Ike told Senator Wiley of Wisconsin that he was opposed to the seaway. Futhermore, he used all the arguments of the railroads against the seaway. Wiley, who used to be council for the Milwaukee Railroad when Faricy was counsel for the Northwestern, recognized the arguments immediately.

Wiley is a staunch advocate of the project which would connect the Great Lakes with the Atlantic Ocean. Uninfluenced by the President, he proceeded with his St. Lawrence hearings.

Later the President changed his mind. He did not do so, however, until after the news leaked of his visit with persuasive railroadman Faricy at the Burning Tree Country Club. After the leak Ike reversed himself, lined up with other Presidents of the United States for the seaway.

Another problem worrying Republicans is the new trademark which the Democrats are cleverly conspiring to pin on Ike's administration — namely "The Giveaway Administration."

Democratic leaders are already preparing a list of so-caled "giveaways" upon which they will ring all the changes. Here are some of them:

Synthetic Rubber Plants — These were built at a cost of millions of dollars after Japan cut off rubber from the Malays and Indonesia. Now, with the Communists staging a new drive into French Indo-China on the borders of this same rubber area, the administration is insisting on selling these rubber factories for about 15 cents on the dollar.

Synthetic Oil From Coal Plant —This experimental laboratory at Louisiana, Mo., for making oil out of coal, cost the government $75,000,000. However, the oil lobbies are opposed, and Secretary of the Interior McKay plans to sell it to private industry for a song.

Tidelands Oil—Revenue from this wealthy oil area would bring several millions annually into the treasury, help balance the budget. Democrats plan to list the heavy oil-company contribu: tions to Ike's campaign chest to show that this is a political payoff not in the national interest.

Public Lands—Western senators are already talking about giving the public lands held by the federal government to each state.

Ducks and Salmon—The firing of Albert M. Day, head of the Wildlife and Fisheries Bureau, at the behest of certain private game-preserve owners will be shown by the Democrats as a move to benefit the wealthy few who can afford game-hunting reservations.

Power Dams—This may turn out to be the biggest giveaway of all. If the plan goes through to turn government power over to private utilities, Democrats will show that the billions of dollars invested in the dams by the taxpayers will actually benefit the private utilities. For all appropriations have just been cut out of the budget for building government power lines. This leaves REA cooperatives pretty much out in the cold and the private utilities in a monopoly position to use the power.

So the new Democratic slogan will be: "Republicans didn't believe in Santa Claus when Roosevelt and Truman were helping the underprivileged of the nation. Now they believe in Santa Claus—for their own friends."

Melodrama: While We Cash Our Checks

— Dan Duke —

Friday, May 1st. Except for increased bank activity—which always occurs around the first of the month—this is a normal Friday morning.

All over campus, students are busy—some in classes, some sweating out quizzes (and regretting last night), some planning beach trips, some already on their way. Some are even studying or planning to attend or participate in the model UN Assembly. Otherwise, it's just a normal day on campus.

But while all this is going on, some two hundred fifty thousand babies for the first time are making their formal debut into the world.

In Chapel Hill, Sydney, or London, the grand entrance into life is not so bad. But in Shanghai, Kabul, or New Delhi, the entrance is not a very pleasant one. For these individuals are introduced into societies exploited by time, history, and swarming populations; into societies of miserable destitution and disease; into societies of beggers, whores, and thieves.

Consider these facts, for example, which I pass on to you from the recent UN student symposium held in New York:

Fact: In India, 25% of babies die at birth. Only 50% live to see 20.

Fact: The people of the world enjoy an average income of only about $80 a year.

Fact: Six-tenths of the two billion population of the world are working for others and are turning over to these landowners an average of 95% their crop yields.

Fact: One-half of the men and women of the world are totally illiterate.

So severe is the poverty and hunger, and consequently the need to resort to begging in India, for example, that frequently parents will deliberately maim their children—perhaps gouging out an eye or distorting a face—so that the children will be more effective and have more appeal as beggars.

Yet the UN in New York which, excluding its independent agencies, operates on a budget of only fifty-five million dollars a year—or about one-sixth what New York City pays each year for garbage, sewage, and general sanitary maintenance is playing a sizable role in alleviating the health, economic, and political problems of the world.

In the model UN Assembly on campus today and tomorrow, students of North Carolina's Greater University will have a chance to "play" at the problems that plague the world.

Why not attend and participate? It's true that the problems of the world have not bothered our children yet—but a plague, by definition, is always contagious!

Jam Session

— Louis Kraar —

Fraternity Court is usually the scene of quite a few wines, women and songs on a German's weekend. But when Ray Anthony's crooner sits in on your jam session, it's an innovation and a half.

It was a balmy Saturday night, after a day filled with great music featuring Dorsey, both versions, Ray Anthony and Kay Kyser. The couples were streaming in the houses.

We were grouped around the piano at the Pi Lam house trying to make louder sounds with our music than the rest could make with their voices. Campus hepster Ron Levin was blowing some very frantic trumpet and Walt Dear was pounding the piano.

It's funny the way you sort of run down the same list of old favorites when you're playing music with friends. We had just reached the "When The Saints Go Marching In" stage, undoubtedly inspired by the day's concert.

A young fellow with dark hair flowed in with the tide of people and someone asked him to sing. He said he would sing if we'd get him a chair. Not knowing what to do and not having a singer, we got him a chair. He stood in it and sang.

Starting with some dreamy ballad that we had never heard but liked the first time, the young singer hushed the noisy crowd down almost to silence They liked to hear the kid sing.

A half dozen songs later, we had all become pretty friendly. And gregarious trumpeteer Levin was practically ordering the singer around when it came to choosing songs.

An up-tempo chorus of "All Of Me" ended the session. And our guest singer drifted out the door almost as quickly as he had arrived.

"Say that guy can sing pretty well," said someone at my side.

"You said it," I agreed.

"You know that Tommy Mercer was sure swell to come by after singing all day with Ray Anthony." my friend said.

Invest Your Summer

Various service projects are open for students who wish to augment their classroom education in the University by getting first-hand work experience in industry, mental hospitals, and recreation leadership. Sponsored by a number of organizations these opportunities for work and service may be found in communities from the east coast to the west, and in countries overseas.

Several Carolina students already have their plans made for investing their summer in service projects. For example, Stuart Jones, newly elected YMCA treasurer, is going to Europe to work in an Ecumenical Work Camp in northern France, sponsored by the World Council of Churches. There are numerous others.

If you are doing some kind of summer service, why not leave your name in the YMCA office? If you are interested in investing your summer in something significant, inquire in the Y offices.

STOCK-UP TIME DOWN SOUTH

This week Colonial salutes the many fine manufacturers and food processors throughout the Southland by featuring Dixie-made products for Dixie homemakers. Southern cooks, especially, will recognize these famous names—brands of top-quality that have been used in everyday meal planning since Grandma was a girl. It's stock-up time down South, with well-known products specially priced during Colonial's big "Made In Dixie" sale. Save today—and every day—your total food bill is less when you shop at CS!

Colonial's "MADE IN DIXIE" SALE!

COLONIAL STORES MARK OF QUALITY FOODS

MADE IN GREENVILLE, S. C.—NEW LAUNDRY PRODUCT, PRICED LOW AT COLONIAL TEXIZE BLEACH QUART BOTTLE 10c

MADE IN PLANTS THROUGHOUT THE SOUTH—SOUTHERN DAIRIES "AUTOCRAT"
ICE CREAM CHOICE OF FLAVORS! ½ GAL. CARTON 69c

FROM VIRGINIA APPLE ORCHARDS—CS PURE SWEET
APPLE SAUCE 2 17-OZ. CANS 35c

Our Pride 3-Layer Fruit
SPICE CAKE Baked In Charlotte! BIG 3-LB. SIZE 79c

Garner's Blackberry or Dewberry
PURE JELLY Made In Winston-Salem! 2 12-OZ. JARS 45c

SERVE WITH RICH'S WHIP TOPPING 7-OZ. CAN 45c

WHOLE OR HALF - POPULAR BRANDS SMOKED
PICNICS 6 TO 8 POUNDS AVERAGE WEIGHT LB. 39¢

11-OZ. PKG. 25¢

Smoked
BACON SQUARES
BY THE PIECE LB. 25c | SLICED LB. 33c

SLICED BEEF LIVER LB. 59c
GROUND BEEF MADE FRESH: SOLD FRESH LB. 45c
CHICKEN SALAD CHEF'S PRIDE 8-OZ. CUP 43c
POTATO SALAD CHEF'S PRIDE 1-LB. CUP 29c

Headless and Drawn WHITING FISH 2 LBS. 25c — Ocean-Fresh Seafoods

Other Frozen Food Values . . .

SEABROOK FARMS FRESH-FROZEN FANCY CAULIFLOWER	10-OZ. PKG.	25c
SEABROOK FARMS FRESH-FROZEN BROCCOLI SPEARS	10-OZ. PKG.	25c
SEABROOK FARMS FRESH-FROZEN BABY LIMA BEANS	10-OZ. PKG.	23c
SEABROOK FARMS FRESH-FROZEN TENDER GREEN PEAS	2 10-OZ. PKG.	33c
SOMERDALE FRESH-FROZEN CORN-ON-THE-COB	2 PKGS. 2 EARS	33c
SOMERDALE FRESH-FROZEN BABY LIMA BEANS	2 10-OZ.	33c
SOMERDALE FRESH-FROZEN CUT TENDER CORN	2 10-OZ.	33c
MINUTE MAID CONCENTRATED FROZEN ORANGE JUICE	6-OZ.	17c
SOMERDALE FRESH-FROZEN CUT GREEN BROCCOLI	2 10-OZ.	33c

Dulany Fresh-Frozen Fordhook Lima
BEANS 2 10-OZ. PKGS. 49c

Serve with Chicken!—Oceanspray Cranberry SAUCE 1-LB. CAN 20c

FRESH FANCY FIRM RIPE SLICING
TOMATOES 2 CTNS. 29¢

CROWDER PEAS 2 LBS. 25c

EXTRA LARGE FLORIDA
GRAPEFRUIT 3 FOR 25c

FANCY HARD HEAD
GREEN CABBAGE 2 LBS. 7c

U. S. NO. 1 NEW CROP
YELLOW ONIONS 2 LBS. 11¢

WHITEHOUSE APPLE CIDER VINEGAR	QT.	19c
REDGATE PORK AND BEANS	2 1-LB.	21c
MEAT TENDERIZER ADOLPH'S	JAR	49c
OUR PRIDE SANDWICH BREAD	24-OZ.	20c
MILD AMERICAN CHEESE	LB.	47c
MARY KITCHEN ROAST BEEF HASH	1-LB. CAN	43c
G-E 75 OR 100 WATT LIGHT BULBS	EACH	20c
ALL-FISH CAT FOOD TABBY	CAN	12c
BIG TIME ALL-BEEF DOG FOOD	15-OZ.	19c
PARSON'S SUDSY HOUSEHOLD AMMONIA	PT.	15c

TOILET SOAP WOODBURY 3 REG. BARS 25c

SOAP POWDER OCTAGON LGE. PKG. 21c

SWIFT'S CANNED HAMBURGERS 10-OZ. CAN 49c

Brock's Marshmallow Candy
PEANUTS Made In Chattanooga! 13-OZ. PKG. 25c

Cleanser AJAX 2 CANS 25c
Swift's PREM 12-OZ. CAN 45c
Shortening SPRY 3-LB. CAN 89c

DON'T MISS COLONIAL'S AMAZING BONUS BUY!

PICNIC JUGS
Vacuum-Type, ½-Gallon Capacity
Two Types as Shown

LIMITED SUPPLY — GET YOURS TODAY!

YOUR CHOICE—only... 99¢ WITH $5.00 PURCHASE

Cleans—Bleaches—Deodorizes CLOROX LAUNDRY BLEACH QT. BOT. 17c

Made Fresh In Atlanta! KRAFT PARKAY MARGARINE Colored Quarters 1-LB. PKG. 27c

Mail 10 Labels To Manufacturer—Get 10 Cans Free! DOGGIE DINNER DOG FOOD 2 1-LB. CANS 25c

NANCY CARTER Tested RECIPES

Gala Baked Ham Slice

1 two-inch thick ham slice, uncooked
1 cup CS pineapple juice
⅓ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
Whole cloves

Cut slashes in the fat edge of the ham two inches apart. Insert cloves in the fat. Place ham slice in shallow baking dish or casserole. Pour in pineapple juice. Mix brown sugar with mustard and spread over meat. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, 2 hours. Cover pan for first half hour. Spoon juice over ham two or three times during baking. Remaining juices may be thickened and served over the ham, if desired.

For specific recipes, homemaking or cooking information, write to me: Nancy Carter, Director of Home Economics, Colonial Stores, Inc., P. O. Box 4358, Atlanta, Ga.

MRS. MARIE KIRCHAUSEN, German mother of Berlin born Pvt. Carl Kirchausen, 27, the first American POW to be released by Reds at Panmunjom, wraps a package for her son, in Berlin whom she has not seen in 13 years. Carl's father fled Germany with the boy during the Nazi persecution of the Jews shortly before World War II. After a brief stop in England, they went to the U.S. where Mr. Kirchausen died during the great war. Carl was drafted into the U.S. Army in 1950 and spent 2½ years in a North Korean prison camp. Mrs. Kirchausen hopes to come to America to see her son. —NEA Telephoto.

1952 Grads Plan Reunion Here June 6

The Baby Class of 1952 of the University will hold its first reunion Saturday, June 6 during Commencement — reinaugurating an event that has not occurred since before World War II.

Class President Archie Myatt, High Point, and Vice-President Albert House, Hobgood. have announced plans for the event which will include registration in Graham Memorial from 12 noon until 3 o'clock; golfing and swimming privileges and tours of the new School of Business Administration and Health Center from 3 until 5 o'clock; A reception with deans and members of the University administration from 5:30 until 6:30 at Kessing Pool; and a banquet in the South Room of Lenoir Hall at 7 o'clock.

Following the banquet there will be informal get-togethers among members of the class.

Accommodations will be available for any who can remain in Chapel Hill for the enitre Commencement weekend, Myatt said.

Members of the planning committee for the reunion are Chairman Albert House, Julian Alberghotti, Charlotte; John Foust, Lexington; John Dortch, Chapel Hill; Mary Nell Boddie, Durham; Jim McIntyre, Ellerbe; and Nat Magruder, Sarasota, Fla.

Photo Exhibit Is In Planetarium; Features Egypt

The Morehead Planetarium has a photographic exhibit, "Egypt," now on display. It will continue through next Friday.

"Egypt" contains the most recent photographs of remaining art monuments from an Egyptian culture that flourished for 3,000 years before Christ. The exhibit is based on the photographic essay, "Art of Egypt," published in Life last winter. The exhibit, however, is greatly enlarged in scope, and includes much material not before published. The showing here was assembled under the direction of W. C. Hayes of the Department of Egyptology at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

"Egypt" includes some 50 photographs by Life photographer Eliot Elisefon, taken while he was on assignment in the Nile Valley. The subject matter is from the Old and New Kingdoms, and ranges from the majestic simplicity of the Step Pyramid of King Djoser (2780-2761 B. C.) to the Great Temple of Hathor at Dendera, which was built during the first century B.C. under the Roman Emperor Augustus.

A series of three panels is devoted to several unusually fine reliefs uncovered in 1941, and not hitherto widely known. The photographs are distinguished by their clarity, and they convey a sense of scale often lacking in photographs of the colossi of ancient Egypt.

MAJOR THOMAS J. ROSS, Marine pilot, was flying a mission over North Korea when this Pantherjet fighter was hit by enemy anti-aircraft fire. With his plane's landing gear damaged, Maj. Ross brought the jet safely in to a belly landing as these pictures show. In the top picture the Pantherjet is just touching the Third Infantry Division air strip; in the bottom picture the plane skids along, trailing a cloud of dust behind it. —NEA Telephoto.

University's Drs. Irvin And Metz Are Selected Recipients For American Cancer Study Grants

The American Cancer Society today told of the award of seven ACS grants in aid valued at $39,650 at four institutions in this state: Duke University, UNC Bowman Gray School of Medicine of Wake Forest College, and the Woman's College of the University.

Mrs. George E. Marshall, executive vice president of the North Carolina Division, said these are among 253 grants in aid totaling $1,765,210, given by the American Cancer Society from funds raised during the 1952 cancer crusade. At least 25 percent of all money given to the Society is devoted to research. The awards become effective June 30.

Three Duke University researchers received grants. The recipients and amount of grants were: Dr. Joseph W. Beard, $12,500; Dr. F. L. Engel, $6,000; and Dr Aubrey W. Naylor, $4,498.

University of North Carolina recipients were: Dr. J. Logan Irvin, $6,000; Dr. Charles B. Metz, $3,888.

A grant of $3,563 went to Dr. Victor M. Cutter, Jr., of Womans College of the University, and a grant of $3,200 was awarded Dr. Marjorie A. Swanson, Bowman Gray School of Medicine of Wake Forest College.

Dr. Beard's research will be in "the action of a virus as a cancer factor which has been recognized since the discovery of the 'milk factor' in mice. In fowl, a virus is known to cause disease which appears in several forms: It may affect the blood forming organs giving rise to leukemia, or it may affect the liver, nervous tissue and lymphoid cells or it may produce tumors or even bone changes. Because of its several diverse manifestations, it deserves special attention, particularly because all forms appear to be caused by the action of the one virus."

Dr. Engel's project is based on the assumption that "the role of the hormones from the adrenal cortex can be understood only after much fundamental information as their relation to nitrogen metabolism, and enzymes of the body serum is discovered. These investigations using cortical hormones (and related Compound E) will be focused on changes in the skin since this tissue appears to reflect changes rapidly.

"The compound, maleic hydranzide, has been found to prevent growth of 14 different species of higher plants. Dr. Naylor will attempt to determine what processes are involved in the action of this chemical. Its effect on plant enzymes will be tested and the compound's action with known growth promoting substances will be studied."

Dr. Irvin's project will be devoted to "an investigation of nucleo-proteins and nucleic acids, compounds which are found in the nucleus of cells and are vital to the growth process. Isolation of these substances will be accomplished by usual laboratory methods but some new advanced steps developed by Dr. Irvin and previously successful on other compounds will be adapted to nucleoproteins and nucleic acids in both normal and cancer cells. Variations in quantity for quality between the normal and cancerous cells will be sought. Any such difference could be used as new clues to methods for checking cancerous growth."

Dr. Metz will make "studies of the cell dividing mechanism in a one-celled organism, the Paramecium, and fertilization processes in a marine invertebrate, the sea urchin, to obtain more basic knowledge of the beginnings of growth. Dr. Metz already has discovered the presence of a mating substance in paramecium which will initiate reproduction although one of the mating types are dead animals. An attempt will be made to isolate this substance."

Dr. Cutter's project is based on the assumption that by "separating nuclei and cytoplasm, then watching its development under selected conditions, new information about the forces which govern cellular organization may be disclosed, thereby giving a clue to possible methods of controlling cell growth of malignant tissue."

A&P Super Savings

The Prices in this Ad Effective Thru Sat. May 2nd

Come See Us at A&P

MARCAL
Paper Napkins 80-Ct. Pkg. 10c
Toilet Tissue Roll 10c
Dinner Napkins 40-Ct. Pkg. 15c
Sandwich Bags Pkg. Of 30 10c
Wax Paper 125 Ft. Roll Kitchen Charm 21c

A&P GRAPE JUICE - - 12-Oz. Bot. 15c
24-Oz. Bot. 27c

Iona Bartlett PEARS - - - - - 16-Oz. Can 19c

Packer's Label Standard Pack TOMATOES 2 16-Oz. Cans 23c

SUPER RIGHT MEATS

Super Right Heavy Western Beef BONELESS RIB 7 in. cut STEAK Lb. 79c

Super Right Dressed & Drawn Whole or Cut Up FRYERS Lb. 49c

Super Right Heavy Western Beef T-Bone Steak - Lb. 85c
Freshly Ground Beef - - - - - - Lb. 39c
Super Right Heavy Western Beef Chuck Roast Boneless - Lb. 59c
Swift Premium Franks - - - - - - - 1-Lb. Cello Pkg. 49c
Bone-In Beef Plate Stew - - - - - - - Lb. 19c

Save on A&P's Farm Fresh FRUITS and VEGETABLES

Juicy Florida Oranges 8-Lb. Bag 45c
Crisp Carrots 1-Lb. Cello Pkg. 11c
Firm Head Green Cabbage Lb. 4c
Fine Yellow Onions - - - - - - - - Lb. 5c
Juicy Lemons - - - - - 2 Lbs. 31c
Crisp 3 Doz. Size Celery - - - - - - - - Stalk 11c
Firm Slicing Tomatoes - - - - - Can 19c

Ann Page Peach, Pineapple Or Plum PRESERVES - - - - - 1-Lb. Jar 25c
Ann Page Gelatin Desserts SPARKLE - - - - - 3 Pkgs. 20c
Ann Page SALAD DRESSING - - Qt. Jar 47c

Planters Salted Cocktail Peanuts - - 8-Oz. Can 35c
Libby's Tomato Juice - - - 46-Oz. Can 27c
Green Giant Peas - - - - 17-Oz. Can 19c
Harris Chunks Tuna Fish 2 6-Oz. Cans 49c
Iona Sliced or Halves Peaches - - 29-Oz. Can 27c
Our Own Tea - - - - - 1-Lb. Pkg. 69c
Niblets Brand Corn - - 2 12-Oz. Cans 35c
A&P Crushed Pineapple - 20-Oz. Can 25c

National BABY WEEK

Gerber's or Clapp's Strained Food - - - 3 4½-Oz. Jar 29c
Gerber's or Clapp's Junior Foods - - - - - 4-Oz. Jar 14c
Gerber's or Clapp's Dry Cereal - - - - - - - 8-Oz. Pkg. 16c
Nabisco Zwieback - - - - - - 6-Oz. Pkg. 27c
Cream of Wheat - - - - - - - - - 14-Oz. Pkg. 18c

Jane Parker RAISIN BREAD 16-Oz. Loaf 15c

Mild & Mellow 8 O'Clock COFFEE 1-Lb Bag 81c
3 Lb. Bag $2.37

Ivory Soap - - - - 2 Lge. Bars 27c
Duz - - - - - Lge Pkg 27c Giant Pkg. 65c
Palmolive Soap - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c
Cashmere Bouquet Soap - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c
Soap Octagon Toilet - - - - 4 Bars 19c
Silver Dust - Lge. Pkg. 28c Giant Pkg. 55c
Spry Shortening - - - - - - - 3 Lb. Can 89c
Prem Swift's - - - - - - - 12 Oz. Can 45c
Hamburger Swift's - - - - - 10 Oz. Can 45c
Sausage Swift's Pork - - - - - 10 Oz. Lge. 47c

Ivory Flakes - - - - - - Pkg 27c
Spic & Span - - - 2 Pkgs 47c
Linit Laundry Starch - - - - 2 12-Oz. Pkgs 23c
Palmolive Soap - - - 2 Bath Bars 23c
Cashmere Bouquet Soap - - 2 Bath Bars 23c
Lux Flakes - - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c
Rinso - - - - Lge Pkg. 53c Giant Pkg. 27c
Coffee Crescent City with chicory - - - - - 1-Lb. Bag 63c

AP Super Markets
AMERICA'S FOREMOST FOOD RETAILER ... SINCE 1859
THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

MAJOR THOMAS J. ROSS, Marine pilot, was flying a mission over North Korea when this Pantherjet fighter was hit by enemy anti-aircraft fire. With his plane's landing gear damaged, Maj. Ross brought the jet safely in to a belly landing as these pictures show. In the top picture the Pantherjet is just touching the Third Infantry Division air strip; in the bottom picture the plane skids along, trailing a cloud of dust behind it. —NEA Telephoto.

University's Drs. Irvin And Metz Are Selected Recipients For American Cancer Study Grants

The American Cancer Society today told of the award of seven ACS grants in aid valued at $39,650 at four institutions in this state: Duke University, UNC Bowman Gray School of Medicine of Wake Forest College, and the Woman's College of the University.

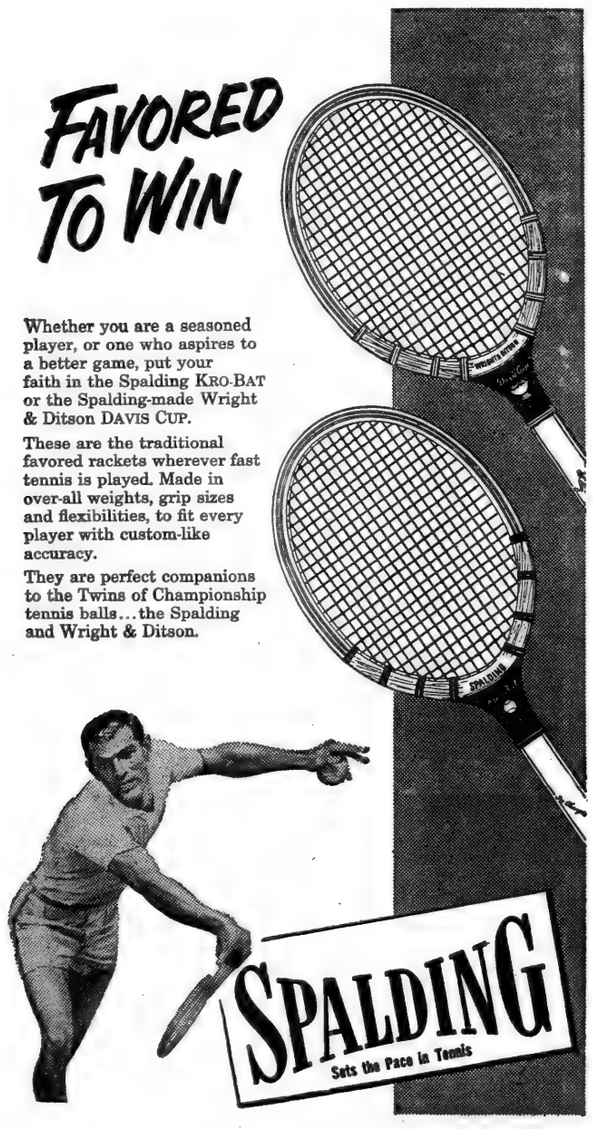
Mrs. George E. Marshall, executive vice president of the North Carolina Division, said these are among 253 grants in aid totaling $1,765,210, given by the American Cancer Society from funds raised during the 1952 cancer crusade. At least 25 percent of all money given to the Society is devoted to research. The awards become effective June 30.

Three Duke University researchers received grants. The recipients and amount of grants were: Dr. Joseph W. Beard, $12,500; Dr. F. L. Engel, $6,000; and Dr Aubrey W. Naylor, $4,498.

University of North Carolina recipients were: Dr. J. Logan Irvin, $6,000; Dr. Charles B. Metz, $3,888.

A grant of $3,563 went to Dr. Victor M. Cutter, Jr., of Womans College of the University, and a grant of $3,200 was awarded Dr. Marjorie A. Swanson, Bowman Gray School of Medicine of Wake Forest College.

Dr. Beard's research will be in "the action of a virus as a cancer factor which has been recognized since the discovery of the 'milk factor' in mice. In fowl, a virus is known to cause disease which appears in several forms: It may affect the blood forming organs giving rise to leukemia, or it may affect the liver, nervous tissue and lymphoid cells or it may produce tumors or even bone changes. Because of its several diverse manifestations, it deserves special attention, particularly because all forms appear to be caused by the action of the one virus."



Dr. Engel's project is based on the assumption that "the role of the hormones from the adrenal cortex can be understood only after much fundamental information as their relation to nitrogen metabolism, and enzymes of the body serum is discovered. These investigations using cortical hormones (and related Compound E) will be focused on changes in the skin since this tissue appears to reflect changes rapidly.

"The compound, maleic hydranzide, has been found to prevent growth of 14 different species of higher plants. Dr. Naylor will attempt to determine what processes are involved in the action of this chemical. Its effect on plant enzymes will be tested and the compound's action with known growth promoting substances will be studied."

Dr. Irvin's project will be devoted to "an investigation of nucleo-proteins and nucleic acids, compounds which are found in the nucleus of cells and are vital to the growth process. Isolation of these substances will be accomplished by usual laboratory methods but some new advanced steps developed by Dr. Irvin and previously successful on other compounds will be adapted to nucleoproteins and nucleic acids in both normal and cancer cells. Variations in quantity for quality between the normal and cancerous cells will be sought. Any such difference could be used as new clues to methods for checking cancerous growth."

Dr. Metz will make "studies of the cell dividing mechanism in a one-celled organism, the Paramecium, and fertilization processes in a marine invertebrate, the sea urchin, to obtain more basic knowledge of the beginnings of growth. Dr. Metz already has discovered the presence of a mating substance in paramecium which will initiate reproduction although one of the mating types are dead animals. An attempt will be made to isolate this substance."

Dr. Cutter's project is based on the assumption that by "separating nuclei and cytoplasm, then watching its development under selected conditions, new information about the forces which govern cellular organization may be disclosed, thereby giving a clue to possible methods of controlling cell growth of malignant tissue."

A&P

The Prices in this Ad Effective Thru Sat. May 2nd

Come See us at A&P

Super Savings

MARCAL
Paper Napkins 80-Ct. Pkg. 10c
Toilet Tissue Roll 10c
Dinner Napkins 40-Ct. Pkg. 15c
Sandwich Bags Pkg. Of 30 10c
Wax Paper 125 Ft. Roll Kitchen Charm 21c

A&P
GRAPE JUICE - - 12-Oz. Bot. 15c
24-Oz. Bot. 27c

Iona Bartlett
PEARS - - - - - 16-Oz. Can 19c

Packer's Label Standard Pack
TOMATOES 2 16-Oz. Cans 23c

SUPER RIGHT MEATS

Super Right Heavy Western Beef BONELESS RIB 7 in. cut STEAK Lb. 79c

Super Right Dressed & Drawn Whole or Cut Up FRYERS Lb. 49c

Super Right Heavy Western Beef T-Bone Steak - Lb. 85c
Freshly Ground Beef - - - - - - - Lb. 39c
Super Right Heavy Western Beef Chuck Roast Boneless - Lb. 59c
Swift Premium Franks - - - - - - - 1-Lb. Cello Pkg. 49c
Bone-In Beef Plate Stew - - - - - - - Lb. 19c

Ann Page Peach, Pineapple Or Plum PRESERVES - - - - - 1-Lb. Jar 25c
Ann Page Gelatin Desserts SPARKLE - - - - - 3 Pkgs. 20c
Ann Page SALAD DRESSING - - Qt. Jar 47c

Save on A&P's Farm Fresh FRUITS and VEGETABLES

Juicy Florida Oranges 8-Lb. Bag 45c
Crisp Carrots 1-Lb. Cello Pkg. 11c
Firm Head Green Cabbage Lb. 4c
Fine Yellow Onions - - - - - - - - Lb. 5c
Juicy Lemons - - - - - 2 Lbs. 31c
Crisp 3 Doz. Size Celery - - - - - - - - Stalk 11c
Firm Slicing Tomatoes - - - - - Ctn. 19c

Planters Salted Cocktail Peanuts - - 8-Oz. Can 35c
Libby's Tomato Juice - - - 46-Oz. Can 27c
Green Giant Peas - - - - 17-Oz. Can 19c
Harris Chunks Tuna Fish 2 6-Oz. Cans 49c

Iona Sliced or Halves Peaches - - 29-Oz. Can 27c
Our Own Tea - - - - 1-Lb. Pkg. 69c
Niblets Brand Corn - - 2 12-Oz. Cans 35c
A&P Crushed Pineapple - 20-Oz. Can 25c

National BABY WEEK

Jane Parker RAISIN BREAD 16-Oz. Loaf 15c

Mild & Mellow 8 O'Clock COFFEE 1-Lb Bag 81c
3 Lb. Bag $2.37

Gerber's or Clapp's Strained Food - - - 3 4½-Oz. Jar 29c
Gerber's or Clapp's Junior Foods - - - - - 4-Oz. Jar 14c
Gerber's or Clapp's Dry Cereal - - - - - - - 8-Oz. Pkg. 16c
Nabisco Zwieback - - - - - - - 6-Oz. Pkg. 27c
Cream of Wheat - - - - - - - - - - 14-Oz. Pkg. 18c

Ivory Soap - - - - 2 Lge. Bars 27c
Duz - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c Giant Pkg. 65c
Palmolive Soap - - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c
Cashmere Bouquet Soap - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c
Soap Octagon Toilet - - - - - 4 Bars 19c
Silver Dust - Lge. Pkg. 28c Giant Pkg. 55c
Spry Shortening - - - - - - - 3-Lb. Can 89c
Prem Swift's - - - - - - - 12-Oz. Can 45c
Hamburger Swift's - - - - - 10-Oz. Can 45c
Sausage Swift's Pork - - - - - 10-Oz. Lge. 47c

Ivory Flakes - - - - - - Pkg 27c
Spic & Span - - - 2 Pkgs 47c
Linit Laundry Starch - - - - 2 12-Oz. Pkgs 23c
Palmolive Soap - - - 2 Bath Bars 23c
Cashmere Bouquet Soap - - 2 Bath Bars 23c
Lux Flakes - - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c
Rinso - - - - Lge. Pkg. 53c Giant Pkg. 27c
Coffee Crescent City with chicory - - - - - 1-Lb. Bag 63c

AMERICA'S FOREMOST FOOD RETAILER... SINCE 1859
A&P Super Markets
THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

Tar Heel Sports

Tom Peacock

A New Rule

THE NEW FOOTBALL SUBSTITUTION rule adopted by the rules committee of the NCAA is going to make quite a few changes in the game next fall, but the spectators aren't supposed to be aware of it.

"The guy sitting in the stands will be able to tell who's playing, and that's the only difference," said Bill Edwards, former head coach at Vanderbilt and one of George Barclay's new assistants. "Sure, the game will be slower, but it won't be noticed because all phases of the game will slacken. Anyhow, the games over in Durham will be just as slow as they are here."

The rule, which goes into effect this fall, is this: A player who leaves the game in the first quarter can not return until the second quarter. A player leaving the game in the second quarter cannot return until the last four minutes of the half. The cycle starts over in the second half with the same rules applying.

Edwards personally doesn't like the new rule (or old, as it is about the same one used before free substitution). He coached in the Southeastern Conference against schools like Tennessee and Alabama where football is carried to its highest degree, and this degree can't be found without specialists. "I love technical football," he said, "and you need a specialist for each part of the game. There will be a tremendous difference between professional and college ball now."

The rules committee adopted the rule in the face of a four to one vote by college coaches against it, presumably to protect the small colleges and to save money. The small schools couldn't afford to subsidize a hundred or so boys, nor could they attract crowds enough to support two-platoon football. The change will unquestionably save a great deal of money, and for that reason Carolina officials are probably in favor of it.

Some People Like It

Fitz Lutz, glum faced and friendly Carolina trainer, is a staunch advocate of the new system. "Why, every time the ball changed hands fifty people would run all over the field. There was too much confusion. The play might be slower, but the game won't last as long. This way a boy gets to play both offense and defense, and believe me, the players will be in shape now. They'll have to be to take the grind. The only thing I don't like is fewer boys will be able to play."

Ken Yarborough, Tar Heel tackle and newly-elected captain of next year's football team, is a trifle unsure about the whole thing. He thought that "nobody will be playing sixty minutes, but you'll still have to be in top shape. I like the rule okay, even though it will work you pretty hard."

There Will Still Be Strategy

Each coach will use a different strategy under the system, but Edwards outlined a plan that most colleges will follow. Start the first team, and let it play most of the first quarter, pull it until the second quarter is about five minutes gone, and then put it back in the game. Anytime the second team gets in trouble, shove the best squad right back. There will still be offensive and defensive teams of a sort, however.

"Say you are backed up to your 20-yard line with three minutes to go in the half," said Edwards. "A last minute score will hurt you, so in goes the boys who are best on defense. The same is true if you have the ball on their twenty—throw in the offensive team."

The new rule will probably re-introduce into the football crazy conferences a little evasion known as the "red shirt" team. A college athlete has three years of varsity eligibility with five years in which to take it. A school will play a boy for one year, then with about 24 others, put him on a red shirt squad. The following season the red shirt team will scrimmage every day with the varsity, but never see a uniform on game day. This way, the player is a year older, harder, and better, but still has two years of eligibility. We at Carolina refuse to do that.

Golfers Fourth In College Tourney

Thornton Has Lowest Score For Tar Heels

By Biff Roberts

ATHENS, Ga., April 30—Rain which lasted all morning caused the scores to soar as first round play in the Southern Intercollegiate golf tournament got under way here this afternoon.

The Carolina team finished in fourth place as many players were not able to get in the full eighteen holes. None of the members of the North Texas State and LSU teams which are considered the favorites were able to finish.

Billy Thornton was the low man for Carolina with a 78. He was followed by Bill Williamson who had a 79 and Jim Ferree and George Mountcastle who had 80's.

These four lowest scores are the ones which count in computing the team's standing. The winner of the team competition will be declared after eighteen holes tomorrow and the lowest fifty individuals will play 36 holes Saturday for individual honors.

Low man for today's play was Hillman Robbins of Memphis State who shot a 71. Bob Lowery of the Citadel was runnerup with a 72.

Baseball Game Is Washed Out

Rain yesterday forced postponement of the baseball game between the Tar Heels and Duke and caused the cancellation of the tennis match between the Carolina netters and Rollins College.

The tennis match was predicted to be the best one of the season on the home courts and could not be rescheduled since Rollins had a match with Virginia today.

The important Big Four contest with Duke was rescheduled for Monday afternoon at Emerson Field at 3:30. Lore or Port will probably get the starting pitching assignment for Carolina.

They will end the season with the Southern Conference tournament in Davidson on May 14-16.

Tickets

The Athletic Association has announced that its ticket sale for 1953-54 home events to members of the faculty and University employees will begin on Friday, May 1.

These tickets are also available to preachers in the local Chapel Hill churches and to teachers in the local schools. This sale will extend through the month of May.

Duke Track Team Is Favored To Cop Meet With Tar Heels

The Tar Heel track team will face the Duke Blue Devils tomorrow on Fetzer Field in what is slated to be one of the top track events of the season. The Blue Devils, led by Joe Shankle, will be rated as slight favorites over Carolina, but the meet could easily go either way.

Charlie Yarborough, who has been out with a twisted ankle is slated to compete tomorrow and should be the biggest Tar Heel threat to Shankle's broad jumping.

Other Tar Heel leaders will be Sonny Beal and Bobby Bell in the hurdles, Billy Duke and Sam Jordan in the pole vault, Bobby Barden in the mile run, Boyd Newman in the 880 yard run, and Roger Morris in the Shot put.

Carolina will sorely miss the services of sprinters Jeff Newton and Harry Brown who are both out with pulled leg muscles.

Mother's Day Cards for Zippy Mothers—

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

Open Evenings

JUST RECEIVED

SHIPMENT OF

JANTZEN

SWIM TRUNKS

$4.95

THE Sport SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

FORDHAM UNIVERSITY
School Of Law
NEW YORK
Three-Year Day Course
Four-Year Evening Course
CO-EDUCATIONAL
Member of Assn. of American Law Schools
Matriculants must be College graduates and present full transcript of College Record
Classes Begin Sept. 28, 1953
For further information address
Registrar Fordham University
SCHOOL OF LAW
302 Broadway, New York 7, N.Y.

See our array of solid silver gift pieces by TOWLE! Hear our line-up of gift prices, starting so low that they're hard to believe!

Actually, as little as $4.00 buys a lovely TOWLE Sterling serving piece that she'll love forever . . . and teaspoons in her pattern may cost a small $3.70.

We'll look up her pattern in our Sterling Registry so you can make the perfect selection. And, in addition, we will gift-wrap and deliver your choices without charge.

WENTWORTH & SLOAN
Jewelers

Also Agent for Gorham, International, Wallace, and Heirloom
STERLING

THE UNICORN BOOKSHOP

is celebrating its first anniversary and wishes to thank the students and faculty for their past patronage, and invite them to our sale. Many fine books will be reduced 10, 20, and 50%.

COME TO SEE US.

Over Sutton's Phone 9-6173

Here's EVERYONE'S great adventure of all time!

Never before has the motion picture screen captured a story so filled with warm satisfaction, robust adventure and hilarious laughter!

SPECIAL PRE-RELEASE ENGAGEMENT

— ALSO —

Shaggy Ruler of the Rockies—at home and play!

WALT DISNEY presents A TRUE-LIFE ADVENTURE
BEAR COUNTRY
Distributed by RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. © Walt Disney Productions
PRINT BY TECHNICOLOR

MATURE ENTERTAINMENT

Filmed with particular regard for ADULTS.

TIME MAGAZINE SAYS:
"Glows with Exhiliarating Charm! Crammed with Adventure!"

NEWSWEEK SAYS:
"Barrie and Disney at Their Best!"

WALTER WINCHELL SAYS:
"Disney's Funniest Masterpiece!"

LOUELLA PARSONS SAYS:
"Even Greater Than Snow White!"

SUNDAY MONDAY & TUESDAY

Varsity

ADMISSION THIS ATTRACTION
ADULTS: Matinee ____ 44c — Night ____ 74c
CHILDREN: All Day _____ 30c
(ATTEND EARLY)

SPECIAL PRE-RELEASE ENGAGEMENT

Rathskeller

For Your Parties

½ keg	22.80
¼ keg	12.60
Case beer	4.75
	(plus tax)

For the best food in town eat and drink at the

RATHSKELLER

Drive right up! We'll check your car over and service it with PURE OIL products. The cost is low and the service is fast. See how really enjoyable it is to drive a car tuned for the season. Drive up now.

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR

POE MOTOR CO.

112 W. Franklin
PH. 6581

DESOTO PLYMOUTH

Campus Carousel

By Deenie Schoeppe

In a supreme effort to pass History 49, your tired society editor is at last giving up the ghost and turning this column of pinnings that never were, parties that never existed, and just general falsifications to the succeeding society editor. Please, let's keep the honor code in mind when she calls for news.

There'll be a general desertion of the campus in favor of Myrtle, Wrightsville and just any place that isn't Chapel Hill this weekend. Pika's will go to Wrightsville.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gay Manor of Myrtle Beach will be the Chi Phi's.

ATO's will also be at Myrtle for their annual beach weekend.

The Phi Kappa Sigs are now letting the news out that they had a combo last Saturday till 4 a.m.

The pinning of Beta President Stan Sturm, Greensboro, and Grace Gordon, Chi O from Spray, is much big news this week.

Pi Phi's entertained all fraternities at a study break last night.

This study break seems to be the rage. The KD's will have one next Wednesday after chapter meeting.

The Lambda Chi's gave a party at Hogan's yesterday (if it didn't get completely rained out) for the ADPi's.

Beer and baseball will be the main attraction at the SPE's annual hilarity, Charlie's Day, at Hogan's Saturday. Six chapters within the state will gather for the party which sounds like it ought to be great.

St. A's and neighbors across the street, the Tri Delts, will have a beer party Tuesday night.

Sigma Chi's aren't having parties—somebody else is. They're entertaining their candidates for Sigma Chi queen and court at many little social functions, the last at Hogan's the next at Watts'.

Pi Lams will honor their mothers on Mother's Day (reminder: a week from Sunday) with a party and lunch at the house. Corsages will be given to all mothers there.

Kappa Sigs have sort of formed a liking for Hogan's Lake and will party out there again this weekend.

The Ugly Club was feted with a party at the Phi Gamma Delta house Sunday.

More pins being passed around. Joan Deutsch, Chi Omega from Louisville, Ky., surprised everyone by getting pinned to Deke, repeat, Deke, Bud Mulroy, Springfield, Mass.

The Monogram Club will entertain the Pi Phi's next Tuesday with a party at Hogan's.

KA's will probably go to Myrtle Beach.

The ATO's serenaded Chi O and Pi Phi pin-ups Tuesday night.

Alpha Gams will also entertain all fraternities at a study break next Wednesday.

Beta's say Tom Wooten of Fayetteville is pinned. Must be so. To Kay Lumbard.

Carroll Named To Top Post

Dean Thomas H. Carroll of the School of Business Administration was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business at the 35th Annual Meeting of that organization at Louisiana University recently.

Dean Carroll has served for a number of years as a member of the Executive Committee of the Association and during the past year was also Chairman of its Standards Committee. In addition, he is a representative of the Association to the American Council on Education.

Dr. Willard Graham, professor of accounting in the University, was one of the principal speakers at the meeting. He spoke on "Executive Development Programs."

Dr. Graham is developing, with the assistance of his colleagues at the School of Business Administration, an executive program for the University of North Carolina. He was the founder and director of the Executive Program of the University of Chicago prior to his appointment in Chapel Hill effective September 1952.

PICTURED ABOVE ARE the sponsors for Alpha Eta of Theta Chi's annual Dream Girl dance this weekend. The girls are (top, left to right) Miss Jean Green, Southern Pines, with James R. Warren, N. Charleston, S. C., president; Miss Barbara Moore, Hickory, with Clinton T. Andrews, Jr., Hickory, vice-president; Mrs. Alan R. Perry with Alan R. Perry, Chapel Hill, past president; (Second row, left to right) Miss Nancy Fox, Chatham, Va., with Jack L. Scism, Pelham, pledge marshal; and Miss Millie Anderson. Long Beach, Calif., with Robert Osborne, Greensboro, social chairman.

TEP's Have Houseparty In Honor Of Graduates

Omega Chapter of Tau Epsilon Phi will hold its annual Spring Houseparty in honor of the graduating members this weekend.

This afternoon there will be an informal cocktail party at the house, followed by a cabaret party. Tomorrow afternoon there will be a party at Hogan's Lake, followed by a formal banquet and dance at the Carolina Inn.

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN Theatre
3 MILES WEST OF CARRBORO • HIGHWAY 54
Tonight & Saturday
Brave Warrior
Color by Technicolor
starring JON HALL

DANCING IN THE RODEO ROOM OF THE RANCH HOUSE
EVERY FRIDAY AND SATURDAY 8:30 - 12:00
— 3 PIECE COMBO —
Cover 1.25 per couple — Beer 35c draft or bottle
—Subject to 20% Federal Cabaret Tax—

Modern Dance Recital Slated Sunday Night

The Modern Dance Group will present a recital Sunday night at 8:15 in Memorial Hall. The public is invited and admission is free.

All of the numbers have been composed by the students participating in the program. Janet Green, Chapel Hill, is president of the Dance Group. Other members are Martha Boyle, Alton, Illinois; Sara Kate Davis, Graham; Claire Frank, Mount Airy; Mary Lee George, Asheville; Jean Hayes, Durham; Thomas Hopkins, Reidsville; Joan Mathis, Carthage; Mrs. Dorothy McLain, Chapel Hill; Barbara Mumaw, Charlotte; Marion Smith, Baton Rouge, La.; and Diana Whittinghill, Chapel Hill.

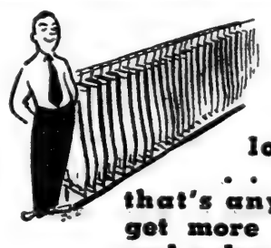
The program is as follows:

Opening Dance, 17th Century tunes; Ritual, Percussion; Ballads: Black is the Color, Red Rosey Bush, Hard Times Blues; Sandstorm, Grofe; Matrix, Moussorgsky; Three Part Inventions, Bach; For the children: The Jabberwocky, The Akhond of Swat, The King's Breakfast; Theme and Variations, Moyer; Tropical, Gould; Barcarolle from the Sebastian Ballet, Wenotti.

The director of the Dance Group is Miss Ruth I. Price, Department of Physical Education and Athletics. Mrs. Manly Wellman is accompanist and Mr. John Bonnitz is the technician for the performance.

TODAY & SATURDAY
LAST OF THE GREAT SHOOTING MARSHALS!
RONALD REAGAN
LAW and ORDER
COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR
CO-STARRING DOROTHY MALONE PRESTON FOSTER ALEX NICOL and introducing RUTH HAMPTON
A Universal-International Picture
Varsity
LATE SHOW SAT. NITE
Also next Wed. Thur.
All Ashore For Fun Galore!
Songs you'll whistle and girls you'll whistle at!
Technicolor
ALL ASHORE
starring MICKEY ROONEY ★ DICK HAYMES
PEGGY RYAN ★ RAY McDONALD

Teacher Group Names Jenkins



Wilmer M. Jenkins of the University School of Education was recently named a member of the Association for Student Teaching executive committee at a meeting in Charlotte.

The meeting was arranged by Dr. Dorothy McCuskey of the University School of Education, state representative of the National Association for Student Teaching.

WASHINGTON — In a radio speech Wednesday Secretary of State Dulles compared U. S. Economic aid in Europe to the crutch a sick man uses until he gets well enough to throw it away.

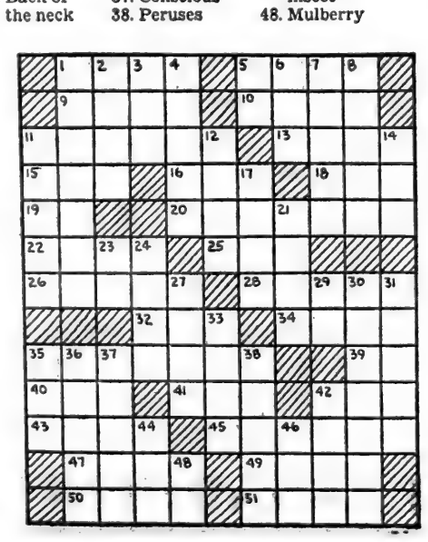
A Little
BOOK SALE
A table of shopworn titles, originally $3.00 or more
$1.69
A mess of old books formerly 48c. Now—
29¢
Friday and Saturday Only
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin S.t
Open Evenings

THE DAIRY BAR DOES IT AGAIN
AND HERE IT IS!
The Largest ICE CREAM Dish In North Carolina
OUR
"H-BOMB" SUNDAE
If you can eat it by yourself we will give it to you FREE.
If not, then you pay us the regular price of
$2
Try this "H-BOMB" Special for a party of four. Bring your date and stop in today.
The Dairy Bar
203 E. FRANKLIN ST.
TEL. 9-8581

We've got lots of slacks . . . every kind that's any good. Men get more use, comfort and value out of slacks than anything else . . . particularly when they're ours.
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS



1. Nail
5. Book clasp
9. Sharpen, as a razor
10. Poker stake
11. Of the sea
13. Fancy playing marbles
15. Single unit
16. Lair
18. Born
19. Indefinite article
20. Defamation
22. Narrate
25. Resort
26. Sailing vessel
28. An occurrence
32. Craze
34. Pen-name of Charles Lamb
35. Disturbance
39. Greek letter
40. In what manner
41. Observe
42. Feminine name
43. First man (Bib.)
45. Long-eared rodent
47. Assam silkworm
49. Erase (print)
50. Vend
51. Diocesan centers

DOWN

1. Deeper part of a waterway
2. Learning
3. Keel-billed cuckoo
4. Goes
5. Exclamation
6. Emmet
7. Booth
8. The phoebe
11. Ditches around castles
12. Lampreys
14. Varying weight (Ind.)
17. Back of the neck
21. Central part of a wheel
23. Behold!
24. Church gallery
27. Caresses
29. Elevated train
30. Simpletons
31. Twit
33. Antlered animal
35. Mandarin tea
36. Veinlike deposits
37. Conscious
38. Peruses
42. Dexterous
44. Wire measure
46. Winged insect
48. Mulberry

Yesterday's Answer

SILVANA MANGANO
STORMY SENSATION OF "BITTER RICE" as Anna
and featuring VITTORIO GASSMAN
RELEASING CORPORATION
I was determined to be a great nightclub entertainer —at any cost.
I felt repulsion and attraction . . . Walter's violence stirred me strangely. . . .
They fought before me—the men I "loved" and "hated." Then I knew what I had to do.
"I am no good for you, Andre," I cried. "I must get out of your life forever."
TUESDAY
WEDNESDAY
CAROLINA THEATRE

U N C LIBRARY
SERIARS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

Welcome Parents! Have A Nice Stay At Carolina

WEATHER
Showers, scattered thunderstorms, windy and warm with 80 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 142 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. SUNDAY, MAY 3, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

FREEDOM
The press writes on freedom of the press. Page 2.

Committee Will Revise Vote Laws

The new student Legislature Thursday night set up a committee to investigate and revise the elections law.

The committee is to remove the loopholes in the present law and make the changes made necessary by the switch to the semester system.

Gene Cook (SP) pointed out the loophole in requesting an investigation after the recent election. He said that a candidate is charged on his account only for the posters and material that he actually uses, not for all he buys.

Cook pointed out that this allows a candidate to buy more posters than he uses at a lower unit cost for each poster. Thus, he can use more posters and stay within expense limits.

Joel Fleishman introduced a bill to grant The Daily Tar Heel its original budget request.

The Student Party made a clean sweep of the offices and committee chairmanships in the Legislature. New officers are: Don Geiger, speaker pro tem; Joel Fleishman, parliamentarian; Anita Anderson, clerk; and Mac Morris, sergeant at arms.

The new committee chairmen are: Manning Muntzing, Ways and Means; Gordon Forester, Finance; Jim Turner, Rules; Dayton Estes, Elections; and Edith Cross, Coed Affairs. Anita Anderson is chairman of the Archives Committee since the office of clerk carries with it that duty.

Opera Institute Plans Summer Master Class

A special Master Class for voice teachers will be conducted July 6-18 by Walter Golde as a feature of the Summer Session of the Institute of Opera to be sponsored by the University Extension Service.

The Institute this summer, which opens June 10 at Boone and runs through August 27, will be operated in connection with the Department of Music at Appalachian State Teachers College. A number of outstanding musicians will make up the staff.

Golde has trained many well known singers and will serve as chief voice teacher for the sessions in North Carolina this summer. One of the best known voice teachers in the nation he has trained a number of Metropolitan Opera stars.

The Master Class under Golde's direction will be limited to 10 voice teachers. He will conduct daily discussion groups and give private lessons to those registered. Further information on the program may be obtained from Director Cordon at the Extension Division in Chapel Hill.

Two terms comprise the Summer Session of the Institute which will be conducted at Boone in cooperation with the Department of Fine Arts headed by Gordon Nash. The terms will run from June 10 to July 17 and from July 21 to August 27.

The famous Grass Roots Opera, popular traveling group which has taken opera to the people of the state, will be at the School preparing for its fall tour. Members, some of whom will perform in "Horn in the West," will be in rehearsal.

Enrollments for the Institute will be handled through the Extension Division at Chapel Hill.

Water Safety

All persons interested in taking a water safety instructor's course should meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in room 304 of Woollen Gymnasium, Coach Dick Jamerson said yesterday.

HAWAII'S FIRST RETURNED prisoner-of-war, Corporal Susma Shinagawa, is hugged by his mother as sister Mrs. Ted Sasako (left) and father Sogoro (right) beam proudly at the soldier. Shinagawa was given a royal welcome when he arrived in Honolulu after his release from a Communist prison camp in Korea.—NEA Telephoto.

UN Assembly's 'Soviet' Voice Took Beating By Volunteering

By Jennie Lynn

"It's no fun being a Communist in the United States," said USSR Delegate Fred Crawford, after the Model UN Commission meetings yesterday morning.

Since he announced that he would represent Russia in the Assembly he has been called a "secret Communist" and was assured that he would be "treated with the greatest of venom." Fred faced such sentiments yesterday. He found the Russian delegate has no friends and sees nothing except people lined up against him.

Under such conditions, which obviously exist in the real assembly, Fred feels assured that if the UN achieves anything it will be a miracle. From his experience of having the shoe on the other foot, he realizes that it is impossible for the Russian representative to talk with other nations. Before he says a word they have already decided against him.

"As long as we treat the people of Russia with hatred they are going to fear us; nothing can be accomplished," he said. "We must be sympathetic towards all peoples. We should accept them as individuals, who are loved by God and favor peace as we do."

He says Russianism and Communism are two distinct things. Russianism, not Communism, is the national belief. Within the peoples' hearts Russianism (their beliefs, traditions, and heritage), is much stronger. They nave been persuaded that only through Communism will Russianism be advanced.

"Perhaps this weekend as a Russian delegate has cost me a few friends," Fred concluded. "It certainly cost me and the hundred or so other persons who participated in the Model UN Assembly a good bit of work and little peace of mind, but if it has illustrated to just a few people the strengths and weaknesses of the UN and the attitudes of other countries it has been worth it."

Research Prof Presents Two Papers On Statistics

Manindra N. Ghosh, visiting research professor in biostatistics in the School of Public Health at the University gave two papers at the joint meeting of the Biometric Society and the Institute of Mathematical Statistics held in Washington, D. C., through Friday.

Professor Ghosh, who is from Calcutta, India, has been at the University since January and will be here for a year.

Selden Plans Summer Season Working With Outdoor Plays

With the coming of the summer season, Samuel Selden, director of the Carolina Playmakers, is going to be one of the busiest men around these parts.

As advisor and supervisor to at least five outdoor dramas which have stemmed directly or indirectly from North Carolina's pioneer project, "The Lost Colony" at Manteo, Selden has contributed in large measure to this State's growing reputation as the home of the open air production.

Selden, who is head of the Department of Dramatic Art at the University, is director of Paul Green's "The Lost Colony". This summer he will be chiefly concerned with it and with Kermit Hunter's "Horn in the West," in its second season at Boone. He also has a dozen projected plans that he is now advising in early stages of planning and writing.

At various times he has advised productions of 'Unto These Hills" at Cherokee and "Forever This Land!" at Petersburg, Ill., both by Kermit Hunter, and Green's "The Common Glory" at Williamsburg, Va.

North Carolina's summer shows are thriving. Last summer 400 actors, dancers, designers and technicians participated in the three largest productions, with audiences of 45,000 at "The Lost Colony", 140,000 at "Unto These Hills," and 55,00 at "Horn in the West."

This season, according to Mr. Selden, a total of 250,000 tourists and North Carolinians are expected to attend the three shows.

Enthusiasm for this form of theatre has grown partly from dramatic education of the people of North Carolina through the Bureau of Community Drama founded by the late Frederick H. Koch as a part of the University Extension Division and still active in furthering high school, college and Little Theatre groups.

NEWS IN BRIEF

PANMUNJOM—The Communists called a 48-hour recess in truce talks yesterday and it was believed they might be seeking high level instructions in preparation for a major move. North Korean Gen. Nam Il asked the recess after Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, United Nations truce chief, accused him of making a "deliberately untrue statement" about the choice of country to take charge of Communists prisoners who refuse to go home.

★

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa.—The Army began treatment yesterday at its Valley Forge Hospital here of a number of freed American soldiers who "may have been victims of Communist propaganda" during their imprisonment in North Korea. The men were among a group of 20 ailing former captives who arrived by plane Friday night at nearby Willow Grove Naval Air Station after a hush hush flight from Tokyo. Their arrival brought to 58 the number of freed Americans who have been returned to their nativeland since they were exchanged by the Communists last week.

Group Offers Service Jobs For Students

Miss Anne Queen, college secretary for the American Friends Service Committee, will interview students interested in summer service projects Tuesday.

Students may arrange for an interview in the YMCA office on Monday.

A luncheon will be held in Lenoir Hall at 12:30 Tuesday afternoon for all those interested in the various summer projects.

Besides the projects Miss Queen will discuss the Carolina Institute of International Relations to be held at Woman's College in Greensboro, June 8-12.

Ambassador G. L. Mehta of India will deliver the opening address at the Institute.

Other faculty members for the Institute are D. Hidden Ramsey of the Asheville Citizen-Times; Frank W. Rounds, recently returned from the U. S. Embassy in Moscow; Amiya Charkvarty of the University of Calcutta, India; The Rev. A. J. Muste, national secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation; and The Rev. Stuart Morris, secretary of the Peace Pledge Union of England.

The Carolina Institute is sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee, a nation-wide Quaker service agency.

Dot Smith Named To May Post

Dorothy Smith of Spencer, W. Va., senior, will serve as chairman of the May Day program at the University next Sunday, May 10.

She will also be a member of the May Day Court.

Other members of the May Day committee are: Sarah Wood, Takoma Park, Md., in charge of programs, ushers and properties; Sally Lee Schindel, Hagerstown, Md., publicity; Mary Ellen Jones, Atlanta, in charge of writing script for the dance program legend; and Joyce Gouge, Blac Mountain, in charge of the dance program.

Miss Saralyn Bonowitz, Chattanooga, Tenn. will be May Queen and Miss Carmen Nahm, Deland, Fla. will be maid of honor.

Other members of the Court will be Miss Smith, Jayne Adams, Charlotte; Dee Breslow, Rahway, N. J.; Beverly Chalk, Greensboro; Jacqueline Fox, Roanoke, Va., Grace Gordon, Spray; Anne Sory, Palm Beach, Fla.; Pepper Stetson, West Chester, Pa.; and Virginia Wilson, Jackson, Miss.

An art major in the University, Miss Smith plans to work as a commercial artist following graduation in June. Her hobbies are fashion design and illustration, interior decoration, and music.

An outstanding student, Miss Smith received the Delta Delta Delta scholarship at the University for this year. She is also head of the YWCA art committee, member of the Card Board, Student Legislature, secretary of one of the campus political parties, secretary of the senior class, member of Valkyries, is an Air Force ROTC sponsor, past house president of Delta Delta Delta sorority, and was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity Sweetheart Court.

Blaine Given BA Fellowship

Dr. J. C. D. Blaine, associate professor in the School of Business Administration, has been awarded the Warner and Swasey Fellowship, through the Foundation for Education.

He will be associated with Dr. Ralph B. Thompson of the University of Texas and will study the operations of the Warner and Swasey Company, a machine tooling industry at Cleveland, Ohio.

Dr. Blaine, who is teaching transportation courses in the program of study recently established by the School of Business Administration in this field will give special consideration to the industrial traffic aspects of management in his study under this fellowship.

Tar Heel Parents On Campus Today

The University says welcome today to some of its dearest friends—Mom and Dad College—in the third annual Alpha Phi Omega Parents Day.

Offspring Joe and Jane will get a chance to show where the family's money is going, and at the same time reveal a little pride in the beauty of the campus.

The day's activities will begin at noon with a picnic lunch on the campus after which parents and friends of students will get a chance to meet the faculty and administrative staff in the lounge of the Morehead Building at 2:30.

From 1 o'clock until 4, visitors will be received in the Naval Armory, Carroll Hall, the library, Woollen Gym, Phillips Hall and various other buildings. An information booth will operate near the Old Well dispensing name tags and programs.

There will be shows in the Planetarium every hour, guided tours of the campus, an address by President Gray and a concert by the University Band under Davie Poplar at 4 o'clock.

In case of rain President Gray's address and the concert will be held in Hill Hall.

The concert will be divided into three parts, with three different conductors. The first part will be directed by Joseph Field of the Chapel Hill High School Band and will feature the "Washington Post March" and a band arrangement of "Deep River." Joseph Wood, assistant director of the University Band, will lead the second part, featuring "Pacific Grandeur" and "High School Cadet." University Band Director Earl Slocum will lead the finale featuring Leroy Anderson's "Blue Tango" and closing with "Hark The Sound."

APO Vice-President Charles Katzenstein said yesterday, "We wish to extend to all parents and friends of the University students our genuine welcome to the campus. And we hope they will enjoy their visit to the oldest state Universilty in the country."

Gorham Is On Fence In NSA Vote Tuesday

President Bob Gorham yesterday took a middle of the road stand on the question of the National Student Association.

The student body will decide Tuesday in a referendum whether Carolina will remain in the nationwide student group, NSA. The poll came about as result of a recent controversy concerning membership in NSA.

"As president of the student body, I am not going to issue a statement either for or against NSA," Gorham said. "I feel that my job is to see that the students get a fair and objective look at NSA. Then they can decide whether to remain as a member or not."

Gorham added, "Regardless of the students' decision, I shall carry out their wishes to the best of my ability."

President Gorham appointed a committee to "disseminate information both pro and con concerning NSA and its value to the Carolina campus."

Members of the committee are Wood Smethurst, Sol Cherry, Ken Barton and Pete Adams.

"It will be the duty of this committee to put the facts before the students. It is their job to do this in a fair and impartial manner," pointed out Gorham.

The committee is temporary and will cease to exist after the referendum, Gorham said.

Literary Mag Goes On Sale

The Carolina Quarterly, campus literary magazine, will be available this week at the book shops and Y court.

Delayed by financial difficulties, the new issue will be tagged the winter issue. The campus literary magazine plans to publish its spring issue later in the quarter.

This week's Quarterly will be composed entirely of fiction and poetry. It includes two short stories by University students, "Wilth the Tide" by Don Reid and "Sio Credesse" by Tom Lloyd.

Charlotte Davis is the new editor of the magazine. This issue, however, was published under the editorship of Bill Watt.

APPLE QUEEN Kathryn Eisenhower, niece of President Eisenhower, performs her first official duty as queen-elect of the 26th annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom festival which is being held in Winchester, Vt. After cutting into this 38 pound, two-feet wide apple pie, Miss Eisenhower was crowned festival queen by former Eighth Army Commander General James Van Fleet.—NEA Telephoto.

Riot Leaders Are Expelled At Princeton

PRINCETON, N. J., April 30—One student was dismissed and nine others were suspended from Princeton University today for their parts in an undergraduate rampage through this town Tuesday night.

They had been called before the disciplinary committee composed of faculty and students, by five proctors who had picked them as ringleaders from among the 1,000 students who took part in the affair. The committee promised punishment of other leaders next week.

At the same time, irate townsfolk, whose mailboxes, fences and flower beds had been uprooted in the melee began submitting bills for damages. Six complaints were received today totaling $300, which will be assessed against individuals and class treasuries.

The names of the boys punished were not disclosed, but all except one, it was known, were freshmen or sophomores. Two of the suspensions were for one year, two were for three weeks, three for one week and two were indefinite. Those on short-term suspensions also were placed on probation for at least six months, which requires them to live under rigorous discipline.

Charges of disorderly conduct that were brought against four students as the result of a minor incident in the tense town yesterday were dropped today by the police.

Korea Veterans

All Korea veterans must come by 315 South Building immediately and sign this month's attendance certificates if they want to be eligible for April's subsistence checks.

Old Volumes Carefully Kept

Rare Books Are Storehouse Of Information For Research

By Ken Sanford

The average undergraduate is unfamiliar with what lies beyond the door in the University Library labeled "Rare Book Room," but the graduate student and the research worker know that the rare volumes within contain a storehouse of information for the searcher.

One of the rarest collections in the room is the Hanes Collection of Incunabula which is made up of books published before 1500. The collection was given by the Hanes family of Winston-Salem in memory of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Hanes. The Incunabula collection is part of the Hanes Foundation for the Study of the Origin and Development of the Book. About 615 separate titles are included in this collection. It includes three original pages from the Gutenberg Bible. Books included in the collection range in date of publication from 1467 to 1500.

Another important collection is the Whitaker Collection of Samuel Johnson, James Boswell and Their Friends. This collection is made up of books by and about Johnson and Boswell, and includes first editions of all of Johnson's writings and a first edition of the famous Boswell's Life of Johnson. The collection was presented by William A. Whitaker of New York City, UNC class of 1904. Mr. Whitaker has also given the second, third, and fourth folio editions of Shakespeare's Works published in 1632, 1664 and 1685 respectively.

Mr. Whitaker also gave the Whitaker Collections of Charles Dickens and George Cruickshank. They contain many first editions of Dickens and fine examples of the printing and binding of his works as well as many original examples of the unique and interesting illustrations of George Cruickshank.

One of the most valuable collections for scholars and research workers is the Tannenbaum Shakespeare Collection acquired through New York alumni and other friends of the library. It was established in honor of Dr. Samuel A. Tannenbaum, collector and bibliographer. It contains for the most part works on Shakespeare and bibliographical works.

Other outstanding items in the Rare Book Room include first editions of many important American and English authors, limited editions, examples of fine printing and binding from the world's best presses as well as other literary and historical rarities. There is a small collection of medieval manuscripts and some beautiful examples of the art of illumination. Illumination is the hand adornment of a letter or manuscript using colors and designs.

The Rare Book Room is kept at a constant temperature and humid-

(See RARE BOOKS, Page 4)

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed 34 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Schindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Eddie Starnes.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Love Meets Love

Another exodus has taken place this week end, but this time in reverse order. It's our parents who have made the move and now it's our turn to play host.

Today, under the sponsorship of Alpha Phi Omega and the Administration, parents will make their annual visit to the University. (It's not that they aren't welcome at all times, merely that something special has been fixed for them.) After a noon picnic luncheon, parents and friends of students are invited to the lounge of the Morehead Building to meet the faculty. Later the University Band will give one of its delightful concerts under the shady limbs of Davie Poplar. In between time our visitors are encouraged to take part in the guided tours. We don't like to brag, but we do have a lot to show!

Parents will have the opportunity to hear President Gray speak for a few minutes before the concert and after the music we ask parents to stop by and chat with the president. Tell him what you like; give him suggestions.

The Daily Tar Heel always welcomes Parent's Day for we bring together two of the things we love best: our parents and our University.

New York Times

The Honored Printer

On Aug. 4, 1735 John Peter Zenger, printer and publisher, was acquitted by a jury, out for only ten minutes, of a charge that his news paper published false, malicious and seditious discussions "tending to alienate the affections of the people of this province from His Majesty's Government."

Hundreds of people awaiting the verdict greeted it with "three hurra's," as a contemporary press account put it, and a lawyer, the gifted Andrew Hamilton of Philadelphia, who had defended Zenger, was saluted on his departure from the city the next day with a volly from the great guns of several ships in the harbor. This was in "public testimony o fthe glorious defence he made in the cause of liberty in this province."

Dedication of the John Peter Zenger Memorial in the old Sub-Treasury Building in New York City will open to the public a new and appropriate place of remembrance for this courageous pioneer. It is the site of the old City Hall, where the publisher was imprisoned and stood trial. It is in an area rich in colonial history, with surroundings that refresh our awareness that the freedom to publish, to speak, to worship as one will, and all the other freedoms dearly won and always needing to be guarded zealously, are not single freedoms but one edifice. When one freedom is lost or diminished the safety of the whole structure is in danger.

The historian Herbert L. Osgood of Columbia pointed out that Zenger's contribution was to help establish that the affairs of government should be public, and therefore it was the business of private men to "meddle" with government. Zenger and his wife, Anna, who continued publication while he was in jail awaiting trial, believed that, as their journal said, "Every man ought to know what it concerns all to know."

Many utterances of the Journal are apt today, as: "The difference between free and enslaved countries lies principally here, that in the former the magistrates must consult the voice and inerest of the people, but in the latter the private will, interest and pleasure of the governors are the sole end and motives of their administration."

This new memorial is the tribute of newspapers throughout the country. But it is for all to visit who cherish freedom.

Competition

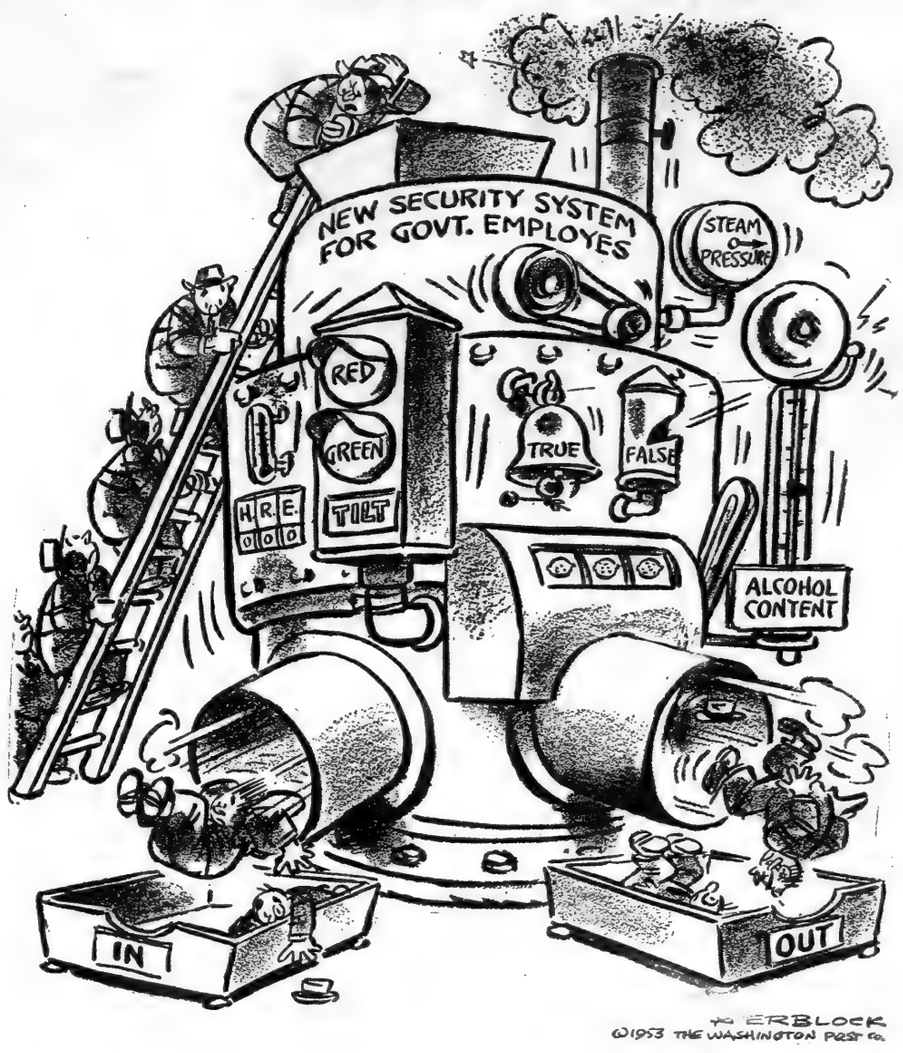
John Taylor

Beginning today two tremendous personalities, Doris Day and an alligator, will fight the battle for movie supremacy in Chapel Hill.

The former will be seen for two days at the Carolina in "By the Light of the Silvery Moon," while the latter will be "stopping the show" in "Peter Pan" at the Varsity through Tuesday.

Some of the funniest scenes for the amphibious contestant are when he is pursuing Captain Hook. Yet the alligator is just one of many intriguing characters in the Walt Disney version of the James M. Barrie fantasy, for the dean of animators has captured the charm and sparkle of each of Barrie's persons, animals, sprites and what have you. More important he has captured the flavor and simplicity of the fairy story, and it is this straightforward and uncomplicated treatment, devoid of the extravagant and superficial mish-mosh that has characterized reecnt Disney films, that makes "Peter Pan," with few reservations, enchanting. It is the best of his movies in a long time. ,

As all children of all ages must know, Peter Pan is the boy who never grew up—a sprite who can fly through the air, duel with the best of them, and win the hearts of little girls, mermaids, Indian maidens and all sorts of lovely creatures. In short he can do anything he pleases. In the movie what he pleases to do at the moment is to take Wendy Darling, along with her brothers, Michael and John, and fly off to Never Land. This is no mean feat for three inexperienced youngsters.



While in Never Land they experience wondrous adventures, encounter fascinating creatures, including the crocodile who waits patiently to finish off Cap'n Hook whose hand so whetted the animal's appetite.

Miss Day, the alligator's opponent, is involved in "By the Light of the Silvery Moon," a routine but entertaining musical of the nostalgic type. A sequel to the popular "On Moonlight Bay," this further chronicles the misadventures of Marjorie Winfield, her family and fiancee, and since the young lovers are not quite married at the finish of this film either, it looks as if the series may go on indefinitely.

Among the vaguely connected incidents in the film are the family's reactions to the mistaken belief that Papa is having an affair with an actress, brother Wesley's plot to prevent his beloved pet turkey's appearance on the Thanksgiving dinner tables, his ambitions to become a detective, and the efforts of Wesley's persistent, but scarcely romantic piano teacher, to woo Marjorie.

All this is put together in a casual, homey manner that makes are uniformly good with Billy entertainment. The performances for pleasant, if not spectacular Gray as Wesley and Mary Wickes as the maid stealing the show from Miss Day, Gordon MacRae and the rest of the competnet cast.

'Here We Go Again'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Behind all the furor over the dismissal of Dr. Allen V. Astin as head of the Bureau of Standards are some interesting maneuvers hitherto unknown to the public.

These quiet tactics center around the bureau's vital development work on fuses for bombs, shells, and guided missiles. For years several large corporations have been eager to take over the bureau's fuse program. Naturally if a private company gets in on the ground floor in designing fuses, itwould be in the best position to get subsequent multi-million dollar fuse production contracts.

As far back as March 2, little more than a month after Sinclair Weeks was sworn in as Secretary of Commerce and as boss of the Bureau of Standards, Moorehead Patterson, president of the American Machine and Foundry Co., paid a visit to the Bureau of Standards. As head of the huge AM&FCo., and a good friend of Secretary Weeks, Patterson was given a warm reception.

"I understand," said Patterson, "that this whole research and development program on fuses will soon be taken away from the bureau. I want you all to know my company will be happy to pick up the pieces. In addition," he told the startled scientists, "I'm ready to move the whole operation, including personnel, to my Boston plant."

This was well before Sinclair Weeks fired Dr. Astin.

It was also the first inkling the scientists had that the nation's vital fuse program was to be put on the auction block. In fact, they were skeptical about Patterson's prediction and went ahead with their work. Patterson, however, was so sure of his information that, before leaving Washington, he made attractive financial offers to several key scientists.

The following week, Fred K. Powell Jr., vice president of American Machine and Foundry, arrived in Washington. Powell went so far as to tell Pentagon and Commerce Department officials that his company was ready to absorb the whole fuse program "on a moment's notice."

Then, on March 25, Secretary Weeks wrote a confidential letter to defense boss Charlie Wilson urging the Pentagon to remove the fuse program from Weeks' own Bureau of Standards. Weeks' letter to Wilson was disguised in official double-talk, but its meaning was clear. He wrote:

"I bring this (fuse program) to your attention in case you wish to delegate someone to check these expenditures and, perhaps, suggest an examination and even a re-evaluation of the research program."

At first this proposal got no favorable response from the Defense Department. Armed services knew the amazing job the Bureau of Standards had done on fuses. When others failed, bureau scientists had developed the proximity fuse during World War II, the fuse which explodes when it approaches its target, and which causes the amazing guided missle to steer a course toward its target.

In fact, Army-Navy experts wrote a confidential memo to Secretary of Defense Wilson warning against danger to the guided-missile program if Dr. Astin was not reinstated.

Later, however, Secretary of Commerce Weeks got his way. His colleague, Secretary of Defense Wilson has now issued instructions to curtail further military research funds for the Bureau of Standards.

Note: Assistant Secretary of Commerce Sheaffer, the fountain pen manufacturer, told friends that one of the first things he would do in Washington was shake up the Bureau of Standards. He claimed they had been unfair in testing one of his pens.

Comptroller General Lindsay Warren has ordered his accounting sleuths to audit the huge "mail payments" the government is ladling out to the airlines. It was a similar investigation that led to reform of the Maritime Commission. . . . It's a neat trick if he can do it, but Congressman Miller of Nebraska has promised to make daylight saving time retroactive for the nation's capital. In other words, D. C. residents can turn their clocks ahead an hour beginning last Sunday. This proposal was made in all seriousness by Miller, after Congressman Bender of Ohio urged quick action on the daylight saving bill. . . . "I suppose we might try to make it retroactive," offered Miller. . . . The Chinese Communists are quietly withdrawing a full division from the Korean front. Captured prisoners say it is on its way back to China. This may be evidence that the latest Chinse truce bid is genuine.

'Dear Mom'

Ron Levin

November 15, 1957 . . . he yanked the sheet from the typewriter and reached for another. But he knew that it was no use. There would never be enough paper for this letter. Oh God, help me, help me. Dave glanced at his hands under the humming flourescent light and they were glistening with sweat. He held them out and they shook. His eyes felt like they would drop from their sockets. He'd been up for two days trying to write this letter, and it just wouldn't come. Maybe a few minutes rest would do the trick. The light switch answered with a click and the soft darkness seemed to reach out and lay him on the small bed next to the window.

It hadn't always been like this. He could remember his first year at college. He had been happy, really happy. Everybody was. There were those Saturday afternoons in Kenan and the wild parties later. It wasn't like that now. Yeah, you could go down to the local hangouts for a beer, but it just wasn't the same. The beer didn't taste right or something. Maybe it wasn't the beer. It's funny how you remember those things. He used to sit on the steps of South and drink that lousy coffee they made over in the Y building. He'd sit there and look at the girls. Ugly ones, tall ones, fat ones, some pretty, some with sweater, but what did that matter now. Nothing mattered anymore. He remembered how the bell would ring and everyone would get their books together sort of slow like and head off toward class. He'd always wait for the cute girl who sat beside him in Religion and they'd go over to Caldwell together. Wonder what ever happened to her. He remembered how everybody walked right past the two large waste cans and then threw thir empty cups on the cement walk.

But now the steps were empty and bare and cold and gray in between classes. The walk was clean, and when the bell would ring everybody would already be in class. You had to be on time. "They" didn't like it when you were late. Dave remembered one day he was late and had a good excuse, but it didn't do any good. There were no excuses . . . for anything . . . for anyone. You just weren't late.

It had all happened so fast with the surprise bombing attack, and the invasion, and then after the formalities of surrender were dispensed with did it seem like there had been a war. But wars changed everything especially when you were on the losing side. Dave wondered would the steps ever be crowded again.

"They" had come in and taken over everything. Everything was different now and just the way "they" wanted it done or taught, or anything else. "They" never said anything but just stood there in mute testimony of their strength. It was though their tongues had been cut out, and when "they" spoke it was always that same coarse monosyllabic utterance. Then it got so bad that he had to do something So he and a couple of his buddies got together one night and made up some pamphlets and put them out around the dorms. They did it again and again until two nights ago. That was the night Dave was caught. Dave could see the circle of glaring lights and staring faces, and the questions one after the other, as though there were no end. But they did stop, and "they" told him he could go back to his room until the trial. Sure, trial. Dave knew some other fellows who had gone to these "Trials" and somehow were never heard of again. Dave wondered would anyone miss him later.

Suddenly he was aware of a light. His eyes focused and then saw the shaft of light from the street stab the darkness of the room momentarily and then move on somewhere down the street. The clock said a little after twelve and he knew it was the midnight security patrol. Just routine. Everything was routine. Everything was that horrible sickening routine, and what killed Dave was how "they" could keep quiet through it all. He wondered if "they" could talk at all.

Dave got up and went to the table and the machine. The light blinked once then caught, and he reached for a fresh piece of paper. The small portable responded to his touch, and when he had pushed the carriage back he just sat there staring at the three words. November 15, 1957 . . . They seemed to stare back, and the harder he stared the larger they grew until the black type seemed it would leap at him from the printed line, and sear his brain with its heat. What could he say? What was there to say? Where do you begin? How do you go about telling someone that . . . his fingers were shaking so hard that he had to begin . . .

Dear Mom . . .

Independent $$$

Charlotte Davis

Among the amendments that will be offered to the student body Tuesday will be one concerning independent student publications. The amendment is designed to enable publications not under the Publications Board to receive funds up to $1,000 from the student legislature. This money is designed to relieve a deficit only, and not to constitute the publication's total support.

To place either of these publications under the Publications Board would require them to be supported totally by the legislature, which, figuring on Tarnation's annual budget when it was under the Publications Board, and an estimate from Charles Wolf, the Quarterly's business manager, would come to a total of about $8,000 a year. This is a lot more money than the possible $1,000 a year student government would spend in helping them out as independents.

This does not mean that the independent publications will automatically receive $1,000 a year from the student legislature. The $1,000 figure is simply an outside limit to the amount that could be requested. The Student Legislature would be no more obligated to accept the request than it is obligated to pass any bill that is presented to it.

The passage of this amendment will give the independent publications on the campus a legal status in the constitution, it will enable them to operate at less expense to the general public, and it will give them recognition from the campus that they are a part of the extra curricular life of the University.

Tar Heels Lose Track Meet To Duke By 76 To 55

Shankle Wins Four Firsts In Duke Rout

By John Hussey

Led by sophomore Joel Shankle, the Duke Blue Devil track team humbled the Carolina cindermen by a score of 76 to 55 at the UNC track yesterday afternoon.

Shankle took four individual first places and tied for another first in collecting 23 points for his team. His first places came in the high and low hurdles, broad jump, and the high jump. He was a member of the three way tie for first in the pole vault. Shankle has a chance of setting a new intercollegiate scoring record this year in track and field events.

The only new record posted for the day came in the shot put when Ramond Lawsche of Duke put the shot 50 feet, six inches to better the old mark of 49 feet, nine inches held by Gant of Duke.

Bobby Barden put on the best show of the day for Carolina in the two mile run. Even after the first lap there was no question of who was going to win the event and Barden nearly lapped the final Duke man. This was also the most profitable event for the Tar Heels as they garnered every place for a total of nine points.

Summaries:

Mile Run: 1. Bennett (C) 2. Osborne (C) 3. Reece (D) Time: 4:27.0.

Shot Put: 1. Lawsche (D) 2. Morris (C) 3. Higgins (C) Distance: 50' 6".

Pole Vault: 1. (Three way tie) Jordan (C) Shankle (D) Cates (D) Height: 12'.

440 yard run: 1. Tate (D) 2. Ray (C) 3. Massie (D) Time: 50.7.

Javelin Throw: 1. Anderson (D) 2. Marcinko (C) 3. Bell (C) Distance 170' 10".

High Jump: 1. Shankle (D) 2. Tie between Haire and Jordan both of UNC Height: 6'.

100 yard dash: 1. Novak (D) 2. Tied between Scott (C) and Caudle (D) Time: 10.2.

120 yard high hurdles: 1. Shankle (D) 2. Beall (C) 3. Bell (C) Time 14.7.

880 yard run: 1. Tate (D) 2. Newman (C) 3. Cappel (D) Time: 1:58.1.

Broad Jump: Shankle (D) 2. Amling (D); 3. Long (C) Distance 22' 6".

220 yard run: 1. Novak (D) 2. Ray (C) 3. Caudle (D) Time: 22.3.

2 Mile Run: 1. Barden (C) 2. Marx (C) 3. Osborne (C) Time: 10:01.7.

Discus Throw: 1. Morris (C) 2. Lawsche (D) 3. Rizzo (D) Distance 137' 9".

Low Hurdles: 1. Shankle (D) 2. Tate (D) 3. Cornell (C) Time: 24.4.

Mile Relay: 1. Duke team of Hansen, Massie, Mays, and Tafel Time: 3:28.0.

THE DOTTED LINE traces the path of a tremendous homerun hit by Milwaukee Brave Joe Adcock in a game against the New York Giants. The blow made Adcock the first man ever to hit a ball into the center-field bleachers at the Giants' Polo Grounds. It was estimated that Adcock's blow traveled more than 475 feet.—NEA Telephoto.

Netters Open Northern Tour With 9-0 Win Over Virginia

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 2 (Special)—The Carolina tennis team got off to a successful start on their northern tour this afternoon by beating a good University of Virginia team 9-0.

For the Tar Heels it was their eighteenth straight victory of the season and the ninth whitewashing they have administered to their opponents.

Del Sylvia had a little toruble getting started in the number one match today, but finally won out over Dick Rutledge, 3-6, 7-5, 7-5. Sylvia looked tired and was not as sharp as usual.

The Carolina number one man will be ost to the team for two days as he received word today that his grandmother had died in Richmond. That means that he will miss the matches with Williams and Amherst, but will return to the lineup against Harvard on Wednesday.

Herb Browne played in the number two position today and was extended to three sets before he was able to defeat Dave Shilby. Browne lost the second set 9-7 but won the other two easily.

Bradford and Don Thompson, the two freshmen in the lineup, teamed up in the number one doubles match to beat Rutledge and Hatch Echols. Bob Payne and Pete Green formed a winning combination in the number two doubles. They defeated Bill Morris and Shibley.

Carolina will travel from here to Williamstown, Mass., for a match with Williams College there Monday afternoon. The match will be the first of six to be played on consecutive days.

The summaries:

Singles—Sylvia (UNC) defeated Rutledge (V), 3-6, 7-5, 7-5; Browne (UNC) defeated Shibley (V), 6-0, 7-9, 6-1; Bradford (UNC) defeated Bill Morris (V), 6-1, 7-5; Thompson (UNC) defeated Cabell (V), 6-4, 6-4; Payne (UNC) defeated Echols (V), 6-1, 6-0; Handel (UNC) defeated Jett (V), 6-2, 6-1.

Doubles—Bradford and Thompson (UNC) defeated Rutledge and Echols (V), 6-3, 6-1; Payne and Green (UNC) defeated Morris and Shibley (V), 6-2, 6-3; Kerdasha and Gustafson (UNC) defeated Jett and Kitchell (V), 6-3, 7-5.

Carolina Golfers Place Ninth In Intercollegiate Tournament

By Biff Roberts

ATHENS, Ga. — The Southern Intercollegiate golf tournament wound up this afternoon with two of Carolina's players competing in the final 36-hole round for individual honors.

Jim Feree was low man for Carolina as he and Billy Thornton were the only Tar Heel players who were able to shoot their way into the final round.

Feree had a good day and finished up with a 75 and a 71. He was four under par through fourteen on the second round, but bogied 15, 17 and 18 to finish up with his one under par 71. Thornton had rounds of 74 and 76.

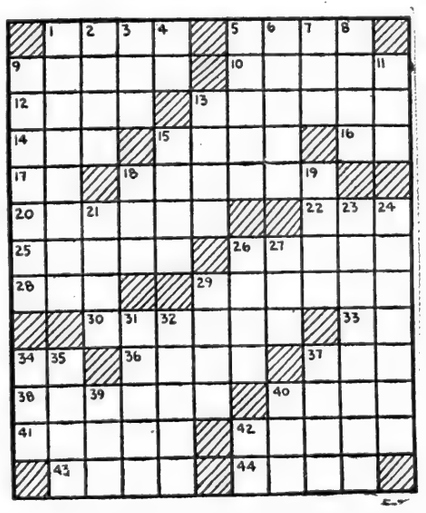
In the team competition, Carolina tied for ninth place with a team total of 624, 24 strokes higher than last year. North Texas State defended its team championship successfully. The L.S.U. team was runner-up.

The winner of the individual play was Eddie Merrins of L.S.U. who finished with a total of 286, two under par. In second place was Stan Mosel of NTS with 287. Third was Hillman Robbins of Memphis State who had today's lowest round with a 69.

Only the players with the fifty lowest scores were allowed to play for the individual championship.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS



1. Large bundle
5. Music character
9. Landed estate (Eng.)
10. Kingly
12. On top
13. Unit of distance
14. Greek letter
15. Foreman
16. Neon (sym.)
17. Southeast (Abbr.)
18. To assemble, as troops
20. Soles of shoes
22. Often (poet.)
25. Fissures
26. Tall candle
28. Strange
29. Swiss city
30. Climbed
33. Man's nickname
34. Exclamation
36. Small particle
37. Part of "to be"
38. Flowering plant
40. Arabian chieftain
41. Quiet
42. Accumulate
43. To close hermetically
44. Low, full plant

DOWN

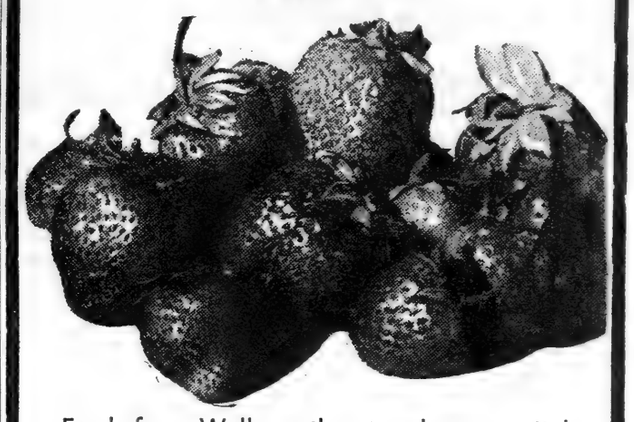
1. Pounded
2. Wild ox (Celebes)
3. Cut off the top
4. Erbium (sym.)
5. Top of a wave
6. Rental contract
7. Ovum (Bot.)
8. Rural deity (Rom. Myth.)
9. Master of any art
11. Sheltered side
13. Destruction
15. Undeveloped flowers
18. Small rug
19. Heavy cord
21. Finishes
23. Excited
24. Merchants
26. Abound
27. Particle of addition
29. Glisten
31. Kind of lily
32. Ring-shaped coral island
34. Type measures
34. Head coverings
37. Wine receptacles
39. Recline
40. Ostrich-like bird
42. Jewish month

CLAW HASP
HONE ANTE
MARINE TAWS
ONE DEN NEE
AN SLANDER
TELL SPA
SLOOP EVENT
FAD ELIA
CLATTER NU
HOW SEE ANN
ADAM RABBIT
ERIA DELE
SELL SEES

Yesterday's Answer

Baseball Team To Face Duke Here Monday

Carolina's league leading baseball team will take on the Blue Devils from Duke University tomorrow at Emerson. The game will have considerable bearing on the big four standings for at the present time both of the teams are tied for first place with three wins and two losses.



Specials For MONDAY

FADED BLUE DENIM SUITS $18.75

—Yes, just $18.95 for one of these durable, smart 2 piece casual suits so comfortable for warm weather wear. Tailored to THE SPORT SHOP's strict standards with the wanted natural shoulder, flap pockets and vented back— limited quantity— so hurry down and see if we have your size.

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

STRAWBERRY TIME . . .

Fresh from Wallace, the strawberry capital of eastern North Carolina, we bring you luscious ripe strawberries. Our feature this week at our fountain.

FRESH STRAWBERRY SUNDAE . . .
SPECIAL THIS WEEK . . .
29c

Fresh strawberry ice cream, one-half gallon, 98c. Also one-half gallon of vanilla with one half pint of frozen strawberries, both for $1.00.

Dairyland Farms

GLEN LENNOX

Here's EVERYONE'S great adventure of all time!

You'll be swept away into a paradise of spectacle and song, as Walt Disney's greatest wings you to the Never Land of Captain Hook's pirates, Tinker Bell and Mermaid Lagoons that will live in your heart forever!

Walt Disney's PETER PAN

A New Achievement in Motion Picture Entertainment

COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR

With BOBBY DRISCOLL as the Voice of Peter Pan
Distributed by RKO Radio Pictures, Inc.

Copyright Walt Disney Productions

SEE . . . THE LAND BEYOND IMAGINATION WHERE ADVENTURE NEVER ENDS!

EVEN THE SONGS ARE OUT OF THIS WORLD!

SPECIAL PRE-RELEASE ENGAGEMENT

STARTS TODAY FOR 3 DAYS

Admission Matinee 44c Night 74c

CHILDREN ALL DAY 30c

Varsity

ATTEND EARLY

West Franklin Street

Luncheonette

—All Brands And
—Draft Beer
—Wines
—Sandwiches

See POP For One Of His Famous Deluxe Sandwiches

— Beside Bus Station —

CLARK'S

Sewing Machines and Kirby Vacuum Cleaners

We Pay Cash for Good Used Sewing Machines
Repairs on All Makes of Machines
19 Years of Experience

J. W. CLARK, Manager

Call 9-5708

BUY NOW!

MOTHER'S DAY CARDS

— NOW ON DISPLAY —

LEDBETTER — PICKARD

SUNDAY MAY 10 IS THE DAY

Phi Kappa Sigs, Phi Delta Theta Name Officers For New Year

Two fraternities have elected new officers this week.

Newly-elected officers of Lambda Chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma are Wallace O'Neal, Creedmoor, president; Bill Prothero, Johnstown, Pa., vice-president; Bill Thornton, Manchester, Conn., secretary; Bob Goforth, Rutherfordton, treasurer; Bobby Jones, Durham, pledge trainer; Warren Love, Mt. Airy, and Clinton Rogers, Durham, sergeants at arms; Wyatt Dixon, Durham, and Bill Koman, Aliquippa, Pa., intramural managers; Dick "Toad" Hart, Winston-Salem, social chairman.

Beta Chapter of Phi Delta Theta announces its new officers for the coming year. They are Johnny Boushall, Tampa, Fla., president; Van Weatherspoon, Durham, reporter; Ty Boyd, Statesville, preceptor; Pat Thomas, High Point, house manager; LeRoy Townsend, Jackrabbit, Ariz., treasurer; Don Harley, Haddonfield, N. J., secretary; John Caudle, Raleigh, alumni secretary; Steve Trimble, Washington, D. C., social chairman; Ty Boyd, rush chairman; Gene Gunter, Hamlet, intramural manager; Pete Knight, Tampa, Fla., historian; Henry Cheney, Florence, Ala., chaplain.

Mother's Day Cards for Zippy Mothers—

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

Open Evenings

AKPsi Pledges Celebrate With Dance and Banquet

Alpha Tau chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi held its pledge banquet and dance last night at the Chapel Hill Country Club.

Mupsic was furnished by Roy Cole and his orchestra.

Pledges presented and their dates were Herman Samson, Greensboro, pledge president, with Mary Ruth Mitchell, Greensboro; Don Angell, Winston - Salem, with Elizabeth Highpower, Winston - Salem; Thomas Bridges, Shelby; W. C. Casper, China Grove, with his wife Gladys Casper; Marvin Green, Durham, with Beverly Doby, Durham; Sam Ingram, Sanford, with Amanda Bracken, Sanford; Lamont Krimminger, Kannapolis, with Sara Mills, Woman's College; J. I. Miller, West Jefferson, with Frances Parsons, Washington, D. C.; Al Stanley, Whiteville, with his wife Marlene Stanley; John Stuart, Shelby, with Caroline Thompson, Shelby; Ben Smith, Charlotte, with Maie Rhyne, Charlotte; and Arthur Winstead, Chapel Hill, with his wife Jane Winstead.

PETER BOZZELI (left), father of 24 year-old Gloria Bozzeli, has confessed to Philadelphia, Pa., police that he killed the girl in the family home there was an argument over money. Bozzeli is pictured with his son, Cpl. Robert Bozzeli, shortly after the girl's body was found stuffed into a duffel bag near Mays Landing, N. J., and before police arrested the father.—NEA Telephoto.

Delta Sigma Pi, Business Frat, Names Officers, Pledges

In ceremonies held at the chapter house, Alpha Lambda of Delta Sigma Pi, professional business administration fraternity, recently installed their newly elected officers.

The new officers are Al Joe Braxton, Scotland Neck, president; Wilbur Bland, Charlotte, first vice president; Harold Rhodes, Raleigh, second vice president; Dick Hauser, Winston-Salem, secretary; Jerry Rufty, Salisbury, treasurer; Fred Holmes, Wilmington, historian; and Spurgeon Booth, Durham, chancellor.

Ten new pledges have also been announced by Delta Sigma Pi. They are Cliff Owen, Clarkton; Dean Dampier, Durham; Alan Johnson, Jamestown; Tom Lindsay, Burlington; Charlie Young, Hickory; Don Fryar, Salisbury; Leon Goodwin, Apex; Cecil Wilson, Black Mountain; Bill Crone, Balfour; and Jim Blanchard, Rocky Mount.

—Rare Books—

(Continued from page 1)

ity for the preservation of the books. The Books are kept on shelves behind open bronze work so that they can get enough air.

The room is under the supervision of Mr. Olan V. Cook, assistant librarian and curator of rare books. Mrs. Charles E. Rush is on duty in the mornings and Dr. Lawrence F. London is on duty in the afternoons to help anyone who wants to use the Rare Book Room.

Friends of the Library and alumni of the University have been the greatest contributors to the Rare Book Room.

PARK-VUE DRIVE-IN theatre
3 MIN. WEST OF CARRBORO • HWY. 54
SUNDAY & MONDAY
THE BLAZING FOREST
TECHNICOLOR
John PAYNE
PARAMOUNT

Kappa Sigma's And Chi Phi's Each Initiate Six New Members

Initiation services were held by two fraternities this week.

Alpha Mu chapter of Kappa Sigma initiated six new members Tuesday night. They were Ed Borden, Goldsboro; Bill Carter, Pinehurst; Bob Little, Wadesboro; Charlie Norwood, Goldsboro; Henry Walker, Kinston; and Gaither Walser, Lexington.

Last week Psi chapter of Sigma Nu initiated the following new members: Turner Bass, Tarboro; Pete Brumley, Statesville; Sidney Dixon, Wilson; Buddy Harper, Snow Hill; Lee Holmes, Chapel Hill; Bob Kimsey, Brevard; Tommy Thomas, Charlotte; and Ray White, Columbus, Georgia.

Recently pledged to Kappa Sigma was George Phillips, Graham.

Alpha Sigma chapter of Chi Psi initiated six new members April 18. They were Robert Edwin Boroff, Chevy Chase, Md.; Dewey Wilmont Chapple, Winston-Salem; Millard James Fountain, Wilmington; Donald Ellis Huntington, Spartanburg, S. C.; Donald Norman Thornton, Wilmington; and Herbert Stephenson Wentz, Salisbury.

What Goes On Here

Pharmacy Wives

The Pharmacy Wives will give a tea party today at the Institute of Pharmacy from 4 to 6 o'clock in honor of the wives of the seniors of the school and their husbands.

Baptist Church

Morning services begin at 11 a.m. today with Dr. Samuel Tilden Habel preaching on "The Tie That Binds."

WUNC

Today's schedule:
7 p.m.—Sunday Showtime.
7:30—Learning in Later Years.
7:45—Songs of France.
8—Little Orchestra Society Concerts.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.

Tomorrow's schedule:
7 p.m.—Stories 'n Stuff.
7:30—Adventures in Research.
7:45—Bonjour Mesdames.
8—University of Chicago Roundtable.
8:30—Drama of Poetry.
9—British Concert Hall.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.

Beta Theta Pi Has Initiation

Initiation services and a banquet were held in honor of 11 new members of Eta chapter of Beta Theta Pi fraternity last Friday.

R. Arthur Spaugh, Winston-Salem, president of the UNC Alumni Association, was principal speaker for the banquet. Beta president Stanley Sturm, Greensboro, served as master of ceremonies.

Awards were presented to the following outstanding chapter members: Arthur Spaugh, Winston-Salem, the Harry Wingler trophy for the most outstanding member; Stanley Sturm, the J. Norman Black trophy for the most improvement in scholarship; and John McCollum, the George Glamack trophy for the outstanding intramural athlete.

Newly-initiated members are Mike Boyatt, Wyoming, O.; Gene Bray, Reidsville; John Hussey, Shreveport, La.; Ted Kemp, Charlotte; Frank Leak, Rockingham; Bob Litaker, Charlotte; Charles Macy, Morehead City; Paul Monroe, Fayetteville; Dick Qualls, Boone; John Skinner, Coral Gables, Fla.; and Fred Tellelbach, Rochester, N. Y.

Phi Alpha Delta Honors Pledges

Ruffin chapter of Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity honored new initiates recently at a banquet held at the Washington Duke Hotel in Durham.

Principal speaker for the evening was Mr. Charles Hagan, Solicitor of the Guilford County Superior Court in Greensboro.

New members, initiated last Saturday, were Troy Barnes, Wilson; Kent Burns, Winston-Salem; Bob Byrd, Morganton; Stephen Franks, Hendersonville; Jack Harris, Lincolnton; Mike McLeod, Chapel Hill; Bruce Morton, Greensboro; Gerald Nall, Lenoir; Bill Reid, Pilot Mountain; Gene Taylor, Summerville, Ga.; Calvin Wallace, Albemarle; Hallett Ward, Washington, N. C.; Alex Warlick, Hickory; Calvin Weatherspoon, Bahama; James Wilson, Winston-Salem; and James White, Kannapolis.

Pledges Named

Alpha Eta Chapter of Theta Chi pledged five boys during informal rush sessions this week. The new pledges are Kenneth Frye, Hickory; Charles Ledbetter, Mt. Gilead; Kent Thompson, Mt. Gilead; Jim Tickle, Burlington; Tyndall Alligood, Washington.

Pi Lam Parents

The Pi Lams will entertain their parents today at their fourth annual Parents' Day dinner. The mothers present at this affair will be presented with corsages of yellow roses.

Presbyterian Lecture

Dr. W. Robert Mann of the Mathematics Department will discuss St. Thomas Aquinas tonight at the Westminster Church. The group will meet at the Y court at 6 o'clock and go to the home of Mr. T. D. Rose for supper, with the lecture following.

COUNTRY HAM
CANDIED YAMS
CUT GREEN BEANS
SALAD—HOT BUTTERED BISCUITS
$1.20
SERVED ALL DAY SUNDAY
DANZIGER'S
OLD WORLD RESTAURANT

PERMANENT WAVES OF LASTING BEAUTY

Durham, N. C.
Mr. Angelo—Stylist
Miss Rabon—Stylist

Raleigh, N. C.
Mr. Snotherly—Stylist

La Marick Permanent Waves

Super Deluxe Creme Oil Cold Wave ------ 25.00 Value 9.95
DeLuxe Creme Oil Cold Wave 15.00 Value 6.95
Custom Creme Oil Cold Wave 12.50 Value 5.95
(Stylists' Prices Slightly Higher)

We feature only professional and nationally advertised supplies such as Fashion Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Clairol, Revlon and La Marick Cold Wave.

TEMPO PERMANENT ------- $10 up

Each Wave Includes
- Personality Haircut
- Shaping & Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curl
- Oily Neutralizer
- Setting
- Creme Rinse
- Free Consultation

Anytime is Coffee Time with NESCAFE Complimentary in Our Salon

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
PHONE DURHAM 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
PHONE RALEIGH 3-1726
LaMARICK SHOPS

JUST RECEIVED
CHARCOAL GREY
DENIM SLACKS
$3.95
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

PEPSI-COLA
Bottling Company
OF DURHAM
305 South St. Durham

A BREATH TAKING EXPERIENCE
FLOWERS
of the
SOUTH
By Greene and Blomquist

Colorful as a spring garden, this is the book you've been wanting—A superlative Mother's Day Gift.

JUST OUT ---------- $5.00

A Check List Of New BARGAINS

Flight in Winter — Eye-witness accounts of the fall of Berlin. Formerly $3.75. Our Special ___ $1.00

Return From the Pole — Capt. Cook's final word in the Cook-Peary controversy. Swell adventure reading. Was $4.50. Our Special ___ $1.98

Twentieth Century Philosophy — Edited by D. D. Runes. Formerly $5.00. Our Special ___ $2.49

Encyclopaedia of Superstitions—by E. and M. Radford. Fascinating for anyone, a must in the social fields. Formerly $6.00. Our Special .. $2.49

The Next Development In Man — L. L. Whyte's study of our crumbling civilization. Published at $3.50. Our Special ___ $1.69

Dictionary of Philosophy—By D. R. Runes. Published at $6.00. Our special ___ $3.69

This I Believe — Everyone knows Eleanor Roosevelt's great book. Here's your chance to own it. Our Special ___ $1.89

DON'T WAIT — SEE THEM TODAY AT

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

Carolina
NOW PLAYING

CAROLINA THEATRE
TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Warm with occasional showers, 78 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

GETHOT
The editor's collar steams about a pet peeve.—Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 143 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, MAY 5, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

BA Formal Dedication Scheduled For May 25

The three new buildings comprising the School of Business Administration, which has established a reputation as one of the foremost such schools in the nation, will be dedicated in formal exercises here Monday, May 25.

The three units are located between the Library and South Building and are constructed so as to complete the quadrangle of the South campus. Directly across the court from Manning Hall, home of the Law School, the central building is a replica of Manning, and the two smaller units adjacent and at right angles are similar in design.

The central unit, which houses the School's administrative and faculty offices, seminar and conference rooms, and an auditorium with a seating capacity of 450, will be known as Carroll Hall, named for former Dean Dudley D. Carroll, now professor of economics, who established the School of Commerce here in 1921. The name charged to the School of Business Administration in 1950.

Gardner Hall is named for the late O. Max Gardner, former governor and staunch supporter of the University.

Hanes Hall is named for the Hanes family of Winston-Salem.

Hanes and Gardner Halls contain a few offices and classrooms and laboratories for the specialized fields of business administration: accounting, statistics, personnel management, production management, finance, marketing and transportation.

The North Carolina Business Foundation has its headquarters in Carroll Hall and the University Placement Service has moved from South Building into Gardner Hall. The North Carolina State Board of Certified Public Accountant Examiners, a state agency, has its headquarters in Hanes Hall.

Raymond Weeks, Durham architect and engineer, designed the new buildings, and J. A. Jones Construction Company of Charlotte had the general contract.

With Dean Thomas H. Carroll presiding, the dedication ceremony will get under way at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, May 25 in the Carroll Hall auditorium.

James E. Webb, former Under Secretary of State and earlier Director of the Budget Bureau, now president of the Republic Supply Company, will speak on the role of businessmen in relation to government service and the role of schools of business administration in training personnel who may go into government service.

George M. Harrison, president of the American Federation of Labor, will speak on the responsibilities of labor toward business and the place of labor in education for business.

At the night program, beginning at 8 o'clock, Donald K. David, dean of the Graduate School of Business Administration, Harvard University, will discuss the role of education for business, and Thomas B. McCabe, president of the Scott Paper Company, will speak on business responsibility from the point of view of business management.

Tours of the new buildings will be conducted between 1 and 2 p.m., and between 5 and 6 p.m. Open house will be held in Room 301, Carroll Hall, throughout the afternoon.

The School has already moved from its old home in Bingham Hall.

Board Plans No Action Now

P. L. Burch, Chapel Hill Building inspector, said yesterday that since condemned fraternities seem to be making progress toward the completion of arrangements for fire escapes, no action is going to be taken by the Board of Aldermen just now.

Burch had said that he was going to report to the Board as to whether the fraternities were making a bona fide effort to comply with the fire laws.

Korea Veterans

All Korea veterans must come by 315 South Building immediately and sign last month's attendance certificates if they want to be eligible for April's subsistence checks.

To Take UNC With You—Join Alumni Assn.

"The best way to take Carolina with you."

That's the way Haywood Washburn, vice-president of the Senior Class summed up the values of joining the General Alumni Association yesterday. Washburn chairs the senior class committee on alumni membership.

Membership booths will be set up in the Y and in the vicinity of most centers of senior activity when Senior Week gets into full swing next Monday. A special "get-acquainted" $1.00 rate is offered for membership and subscription to the monthly Alumni Review.

The General Alumni Association, which has more than 9,000 members, keeps records of all former students, and is the central agency directing all alumni activities. The association includes not only graduates, but all former students.

Dues-paying members are mailed ballots each year to vote in the election of officers. On the Board of Directors are alumni who represent local alumni groups and alumni classes. There are about 75 local alumni associations in and out of the state.

The Alumni Review is something of a "reunion in print" giving the news of alumni activities. Marriages, babies, honors, jobs, and other news items are included among its columns. A regular feature is a football supplement mailed each week in the fall to dues-paying members.

Summer Jobs Are Discussion Subject Today

Students and faculty members who are interested in learning about various summer service opportunities in this country and abroad, are invited to attend a luncheon from 1 to 2 o'clock today in Lenoir Hall, second floor. The luncheon will be cafeteria style.

Persons who already have their specific plans made for travel or work in service projects will be invited to tell of their plans. Anne Queen, College Secretary for the American Friends Service Committee, will be present to answer questions and tell about the projects sponsored by the AFSC. Information will also be available on projects sponsored by the YMCA, YWCA, the World Council of Churches, and other organizations.

Gibson Takes Carrboro Race

Mayor J. Sullivan Gibson edged out Webb Evans for reelection to another two year term in Carrboro's biennial municipal election held yesterday.

Both are employees of the University, residing in Carrboro. Gibson's vote was 184, Evans' 147.

Elected to the town's new six-man board from a field of 11 were two incumbents, Roy S. Lloyd with 280 votes and Roy Riggsbee with 211, and four others, E. O. "Bill" Hardee 259, W. E. Sturdivant 239, W. M. Lackey 215, and John F. McLaughlin 167.

Defeated candidates and their votes were Offie Durham 133, Sidney Barker, incumbent, 129, Wallace Womble 105, Mack Williams 101, and John L. Rogers 64.

MAY DAY CELEBRATION in Moscow, Idaho was devoted to showing why this country shouldn't follow the system observed in Moscow, Russia. Here one float presents an illustration fo the slave labor that grips the USSR. Most of the celebration was aimed at poking fun at the May Day celebrations in Communist controlled countries.—NEA Telephoto.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower yesterday called on the governors of states and territories for all-out help in the security and peace problems facing the nation. He urged them to seek unity from all the people and warned that they must shoulder a "tremendous responsibility" for national welfare. The first session of the governors' conference brought together the executives of 45 states and five territories.

★

PANMUNJOM — The United Nations told the Communists yesterday to accept Pakistan as neutral custodian of Korean war prisoners or face another break-off of truce talks. Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief UN truce delegate, earlier had offered a major compromise by nominating Pakistan as caretaker country for 46,000 Chinese and North Korean prisoners unwilling to return to Communism. Pakistan was one of four Asian nations which the Communists had defined as acceptable neutrals, and when North Korean Gen. Nam Il, head Communist negotiator, ignored the offer, Harrison became blunt. "Time in these discussions is fast running out," he said. "Are you prepared to accept Pakistan as the neutral nation? If not, we have no further issue to discuss with you."

★

SEOUL — The battleship New Jersey bombarded the east coast port of Hungnam yesterday and United Nations war planes dug deep craters in four major red airfields in North Korea. Ground fighting slumped with the Eighth Army reporting 19 minor contacts along the front.

Guest Housing Available For Graduation

The problem of finding accommodations for students' guests during commencement weekend has been solved by the University.

As a courtesy to the candidates for degrees, their guests will be housed in Joyner and Alexander dormitories during the weekend of June 6, 7 and 8.

Housing Officer James Wadsworth said yesterday the present plans call for opening 146 rooms in the two dormitories. If the requests for reservations exceed this number more dormitories will be opened.

The rooms will be made available complete with linen and towels at no cost to the guests. Even the customary deposit for keys will be dispensed with for the occasion.

Anyone desiring to make reservations for dormitory housing during commencement weekend should contact James Wadsworth, University Housing Office, Chapel Hill, N. C.

At the present time reservations have been completely filled at the Carolina Inn, University Lodge, and the Hill House. Watts Motor Court was the only place which had openings for commencement weekend. They had three single rooms available.

Parke-Davis Man To Talk Before Pharmacy Senate

The Pharmacy Senate will sponsor a speech on Pharmaceutical Promotion by Fred Johnson tonight at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of Howell Hall.

Johnson, a native of Winston-Salem, received his BS degree in Pharmacy at UNC in 1938. He is now assistant district manager for Parke-Davis and Company at the Atlanta branch. The public is invited.

Referendum Today Decides Gym Levy, Publication Help, Whether To Remain In NSA

Gorham's NSA Group On Fence After Meet

"But I don't like this NSA messing around in politics," said one of the members of President Bob Gorham's National Student Association Committee yesterday.

Another committeeman then pointed out that NSA was a non-political group.

That's the way things were going yesterday afternoon as a special committee appointed to educate the campus on NSA educated each other on their views at a special meeting.

With the referendum coming up today to decide if Carolina will remain in the National Student Association, Gorham appointed the committee "to disseminate information both pro and con concerning NSA and its vaue to the Carolina campus."

The group was composed of Sol Cherry, Ken Barton, Pete Adams and Wood Smethhurst.

Barton, regional NSA chairman, championed the nationwide student group for its "helpfulness to student government and fight against Communism."

Other members objected to the organization saying that it took an unfavorable stand on discriminatory clauses in fraternity constitutions, favored doing away with segregation and "messed in" national politics.

Cherry and Adams represented the negative side of the verbal volley, but both said they weren't entirely against NSA, just some of its policies.

Barton explained NSA's function saying, "Carolina has long been a leader in the National Student Association and I feel that it is extremely important to NSA, to Carolina and to the South in general that we continue this role.

"NSA is a student movement that cannot be underestimated. Its efforts to help students in this country, to fight Communism, and to stimulate further the educational community have been ultimately worthwhile."

"NSA cannot and does not force the South on the issue of segregation," Barton declared in answer to the anti - segregation charges made against the national student group.

"Further, I feel that the problem of segregation from the southern point of view should be represented in NSA," concluded Barton.

Barton said NSA has taken no other stand on discriminatory clauses except that of the National Interfraternity Council.

After long discussion, the group decided there wasn't much they could do between yesterday and this morning to educate the campus. They adjourned.

The committee is temporary and will cease to exist after today's referendum, according to Gorham. Actually yesterday afternoon's half hour meeting was its only function.

The student body will decide in a referendum today whether to remain in the National Student Association, whether to make gym fees voluntary, and whether to allow student government to subsidize independent publications.

The NSA is an organization of college student bodies, represented through their student governments.

The NSA in its preamble to its constitution has a dedication to: maintain academic freedom, stimulate and improve democratic student governments, develop better educational standards, improve student welfare, promote international understanding, guarantee to all people equal rights and possibilities for education and foster the recognition of the rights and responsibilities of students to the school, the community, humanity and God, and to preserve the interests and integrity of the government and constitution of the United States.

The YMCA last week went on record as favoring NSA in the referenudm.

Student gym fees were the subject of controversy in the recent election.

The referendum is to decide whether to continue the present gym fee arrangement or to establish a system of voluntary gym fees for all students who do not take the courses which involve the use of gym facilities.

The last issue to be decided is in the form of a constitutional amendment.

The amendment is to the powers of the legislature. It would allow the legislature to subsidize an independent publication to the amount of $1,000.

The proposed amendment states that such a publication would not be subject to legislative control unless the amount of appropriation should amount to the total financing of that publication.

The appropriation would be considered as a flexible amount to defray any deficit that should occur.

50 UNC Midshipmen Find Why Marine Aviation Is Successful

CHERRY POINT, N. C.—Fifty Navy ROTC Midshipmen from the University of North Carolina, accompanied by Major F. C. Caldwell, toured this huge Marine Corps Air Station Tuesday and received a first hand account of why Marine Corps aviation is successful.

Shortly after the midshipmen arrived by air from Chapel Hill, they were welcomed by Brigadier General W. G. Manley, commanding general of the Marine Corps Air Station. Following General Manley's welcome address, the cadets were taken by bus to various squadrons about the station.

First stop for the future Navy and Marine officers was the mammoth overhaul and repair plant. The party was divided into four groups, thereby giving the men a better chance to view such places as the motor testing rooms and repair sections.

After lunch the cadets were given a tour of Marine Ground Control Intercept Squadron five and six. The radar equipped squadrons held the visitors' attention as guides gave them first hand knowledge of how radar is presently used by Marines in Korea.

From the radar demonstrations the officer hopefuls were taken to Marine Aircraft Group-35 where two R4Q "Flying Boxcars" were opened up to the guests. Streams of youths walked aboard the giant transport aircraft where they were told how the R4Q operates while transporting troops and equipment.

The cadets were informed that the R4Q's recently returned from Desert Rock, Nev., where they had carried the Leathernecks participating in the atom bomb test.

Marine Aircraft Group-24 had two of its famous F3D Skyknights on display in the same area. Captain William J. Barbanes, one of the first Marine pilots ever to qualify with the F3D aboard an aircraft carrier, was on hand to show the men about the craft.

The flight line of Marine Helicopter Transport Group-26 was the final stop for the young men. Helicopter pilots demonstrated to the visitors how valuable and useful these whirlybirds are to Marine aviation. One of the biggest thrills of the day was the helicopter ride for all the midshipmen.

The college cadets spent the night in the bachelor officer quarters. After breakfast Wednesday morning, the midshipmen were put aboard buses and taken to Camp Lejeune, where they were to spend another day viewing the Second Marine Division's training grounds.

Bernard Theiling Named Freshman Camp Head

Bernard Theiling, rising senior from Charlotte, was elected chairman of the 1953 YMCA Freshman Camp, at the last meeting of the planning committee.

Theiling attended the Freshman Camp in 1949 as a freshman, and served as a counselor last fall. On the present planning committee he has worked as recording secretary.

Sig Chi's List Plans For Their 9th Derby Day

"Gals Galore" will be the main treat scheduled for Derby Day at Carolina Thursday, May 14.

Seven groups of coeds will be put to test to see who will be the winner of the ninth annual Sigma Chi Derby, according to Publicity Chairman Skippy Roddey.

The groups participating will be the sororities, the Independent Coed Association and the Stray Greeks.

Miss Modern Venus will be chosen out of the candidates of the participating groups strictly for looks and charm—no talent necessary.

Beginning with a parade at 2 o'clock, the Derby will begin running the Coeds through such things as an obstacle race, a little game called the "Race to the Flesh" (strip tease), and a secret event.

Trophies will be awarded for each event and the best team will get a trophy.

As usual there will be a number of door prizes including such things as clothing and free shows.

Admission to this annual spring event will be free and everyone is invited to "The Battle of the Coeds."

Dialectic Senate

The Dialectic Senate will debate the abolition of student government at UNC tonight at 8 o'clock in Di Hall. The Hall is in New West; the debate should be hot; you should be there.

History Lives And Ideas Change

Caesars, Ancient Christians Come Alive With Lively Prof

By Jennie Lynn

Taking one of his courses is like going to a modernized version of an old-time revival. For Dr. Loren Carey MacKinney's enthusiasm and a museum of pictures bring Christ, Mark Anthony and Nero right into the classroom.

When the door swings open, about five minutes after the bell, he dashes in, his arms laden with a pile of loose pages, records, huge maps, the Bible or locus pods like John the Baptist ate.

From the first day, students who believe history is dull facts about long dead and forgotten Romans begin to share his fervor and fascination. The Roman senators change into current politicians, the "cruel" emperors become men with human weaknesses.

He paces the floor between the blackboard and the front row chairs, waving his glasses in his right hand, and assumes Commodus' self-satisfied sneer, or he chants Nero's songs in a deep throaty voice. When he's explaining the persecution of various religious sects he starts a chain of drawings, to be passed around the room, of luscious maidens being eaten by hungry lions.

While discussing the beliefs of the original Christians, he adds a little sermon about the Orange Presbytery, pounding his hand upon the table with the fire of an old Baptist preacher.

To Dr. MacKinney, "History is like a beautiful woman—fascinatingly uncertain." His view of history is intriguing because it is a challenge to find verification of the facts: what is really true, what has come down as tradition. Was Cleopatra a beautiful, sexy blonde as she is often advertised today, or was she just a homey girl with lots of brains? Was Nero the fat, uncouth persecutor of meek Christians in "Quo Vadis" or a trim, goodlooking ruler who made mistakes no worse than some of his forerunners and successors.

Were the Christians the subjects of unjust tyrants? Did not they themselves practice inhumane torture on Joan of Arc and the "withes" in New England? Have "Christians" today done their best to overcome prejudice and self-righteousness?

With every question that history raises, the student has a chance to change his beliefs, add new ones, modify old ones. With every topic discussed he can adopt new ideas, new philosophies of life.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed 34 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Schindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Eddie Starnes.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Greeks On Trial

Greek Week is an excellent idea which is not realizing its potential. It suffers from a lack of enthusiasm by participants at every stage: Organizers, fraternity membership as a whole, and the pledges involved. It is regarded by many as a bastard plan which is producing poor actives and giving initiates nothing to look forward to nor look back on. Older fraternity men degrade Greek Week before the pledges, harking back to the pleasantries of Hell Week.

This indifference can be cured if fraternities are willing to get off their haunches. If the Inter Fraternity Council will exert the leadership it's supposed to, Greek Week will begin to assume the stature it must have before it can show a truly favorable return for fraternities.

We are not minimizing the original task it took to sell Greek Week to fraternities. What we are pointing out is that the selling job started, not ended there.

This year's Greek Week program was a fluke, first of all, because it was poorly planned and executed. Its publicity chairman failed on his job and moreover Greek Week was held as the Inter Fraternity Council was changing its leadership. The stunt night, which should be a campus-wide attraction, was raw in material and showed the haste with which the skits were put together. However, one would not expect pledges to present much of a show when many of the fraternity men don't bother to attend.

The Daily Tar Heel would like to see the chairman for the 1954 Greek Week program appointed now. Give him a couple of assistants who will be around the following year so that they will know where the program needs to be bostered. It should be self evident that the sooner we start readying for next year the more successful it will be.

Greek Week must be made attractive for the pledges. A well-known speaker, perhaps on the national scale, should be called in for the final night's banquet and a fraternity-sorority ball could be held after the banquet. (Minnesota has both these features and a whoppingly successful Greek Week.)

Fraternity advisers and the faculty Fraternity-Sorority Committee should be asked to assist in preparing the Greek Week schedule. Generally their ideas have not been solicited.

Finally, pledges should be indoctrinated with the purpose of Greek Week. And this indoctrination should begin not on the day before Greek Week starts but all during the Fall and Winter in pledge training.

Let's put the Greeks into Greek Week.

To Repeat

The Daily Tar Heel won't go deeply into the matter again. Rather we'd like to remind the student body:

The role of the National Student Association has been hard work; its reward has been success. We must not let its achievements for th world, indeed for us, go by default. Vote today to keep NSA.

Free and Interesting

Humphrey Bogart and gold are a good combination, but throw in the penetrating mind of Dr. Reuben Hill and you have a delightful evening.

All of this is available tonight—free—at the showing of "Treasure of Sierra Madre" in Gerrard Hall. The movie is the final one in a series of films this quarter by the YMCA and Hillel Foundation. After each film, a University professor leads a discussion and analyzes why characters acted as they did. It's really quite fascinating.

You ought to go, and as we said: it's free and it's interesting.

Ramble

English Club

On one of the rambles in which I frequently indulge during the element weeks of May I happened into Pine's Coffee House, over against Lenoir Hall. There I observed three persons in close conference, and upon approaching found them to be my old friends Bill Listless, Peter Plaint, and the admirable Sir Godfrey Wise.

As we laid our heads together in the amicable conversation in which we so often indulged I asked the subject of today's discussion. I was informed that they had been disputing the merits of the local scribblers who do print their works three times a year. Bill was little interested in the talk for he had never seen the journal of which they spoke; he is an apprentice for a trade and cannot read. The gentleman on his right, Peter Plaint, was holding forth, condemning roundly the false wit with which the Graham hacks assail their readers.

We listened to the endless charges which he made: too narrow, uninteresting, pompous, erudite, corrupt. "Have you," I asked him, "ever read this Q_____LY of which you speak so severely?" With that he colored and stared intently at the floor; an action which I understood as a negative reply.

Noting that these last remarks had plunged the table into silence I made bold to ask my friend Sir Godfrey what had occasioned this topic of debate. He replied that Parliament today was holding a referendum, the purpose of which was to decide whether funds should be provided by the Exchequer, or whether the scribblers should be left to starve and their magazine to perish. "You see," he explained, "this is a poor town for writers, and there are few who will support their efforts; fewer still who buy their magazine. They must have money to continue.

"Of course we do not always find great writing there, but the Q_____LY has the potentiality of greatness. I was just explaining to cousins Bill and Peter that the few pounds which Parliament considers granting is a small price for a journal which will present the best writings of our town. The price seems smaller still when we consider that without these funds the Q_____LY must close its doors forever.

"Consider that this magazine is the only organ where our citizens may print their works. If it goes, creative expression in our town may atrophy and die. In the future they have promised to reach all of our citizens, and to make their journal less expensive. Since this is known to be a liberal and artistic town, I think we should ardently support our struggling writers."

Bill Listless and Peter Plaint showed signs of interest, and seemed to meditate upon Sir Godfrey's words. I too was deeply affected by his remarks and pledged support for this worthy cause. Being one of those privileged to vote in our elections, I stopped at Gerrard Hall and cast my ballot in favor of the present bill. I then retired to my apartment, pleased with my day's activities—for I had not planned to vote at all.

Yr mst Obt, Hmbl & Devtd Srvt,
PHILOQUARTUS

'Well, It's A Change From Sawing People In Half'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Most meteoric career in Washington continues to be that of Lt. Col. Gordon Moore, brother in law of the President.

Lady Luck was not too kind to him a year ago. Then almost broke, heconsidered selling his house. During that hard-luck period, Moore was hired three times an dfired twice within six months —as the political prospects of his famous brother in law ebbed and flowed.

But today Lady Luck smiles graciously. Today the retired colonel has been able to invest $25,000 in a once-bankrupt airline of which he has become vice-president. On top of this, he has set up a company of whis own which lends money to small airlines.

The latter concern, Air Transit Servilces Inc., located at 1122 16th St. here, acts as a sort of money-changer for nonscheduled airlines. Most of them fly military passengers and freight for the government. And what Moore does is borrow money from American Security and Trust, then turn round and lend money to the nonskids until they can collect from the slow-paying government.

Strictly speaking this makes him a one percenter, since that's the percentage he keeps for himself.

Colonel Moore's most interesting business venture, however, was his investment of $25,000 in U. S. Airlines. Last fall this line had four DC-3's, only one of which could get off the ground. It's insurance had been canceled, its bank account overdrawn, the sheriff was about to hammer on the door, and the Civil Aeronautics board, having canceled permission to fly military passengers, was threatening to revoke its certificate of operation altogether.

Stock in thecompany was then selling for 12½ cents.

Thereupon entered Ike's brother in law. Immediately the stock began to zoom, sold for 36 cents a share one week after Colonel Moore became an executive, today is slling for 70 cents.

Other important factors also contributed. One of these was the dynamic reorganization ability of Moore's live wire partner, Fred Miller. Another was the financial backing of Gearhart and Otis, New York investment firm which bought in U. S. Airlines' liabilities of $1,400,000 for $750,000. Another was the ability of Colonel Moore to help persuade Civil Aeronautics to reinstate U. S. Airlines certificate and allow it back in the business of transporting Army personnel.

In fairness it should be noted that Colonel Moore didn't do the talking befor CAB. But he tagged along and stood conspiciously in the background. Ordinarily the CAB drags out these appeals and jumps at any chance to squeeze a small airline out of business. In the case of U. S. Airlines, however, the CAB couldn't move fast enough t ohelp put it back on its feet.

It also should be noted that U. S. Airlines, after refinancing and reorganizing, was entitled to a break with the CAB. This agency has been tough on some of the nonsked lines. Therefore, if the president's brother in law was able to cut CAB red tape for this small line, it may set a helpful precedent for others.

Note — Moore's office wall is covered with a galaxy of photos, showing various stages of Ike's career, the Eisenhowers and the Moores together, plus a huge oil painting of the President in Army uniform. Lige the tutographed photos of famed five percenter Col. Jim Hunt, wh owas investigated by Republicans, Moore's collection doesn't hurt him with prospective customers.

As Others See Us

Your every voter, as surely as your chief magistrate, exercises a public trust.—Grover Cleveland.

The freeman, casting with unpurchased hand, the vote that shakes the turret of the land.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Sink or swim, live or die, survive or perish, I give my hand and my heart to this vote.—Daniel Webster.

Had enough? Vote Republican.—Karl Melvin Frost.

He cast his vote, distrusting all the elected but not the law.—Karl Jay Shapiro.

We don't give a hoot.—Carolina Student Body.

A Quotable Quote

Norman Jarrard

Those who read A.Z.F. Wood's column know that Earnest Hemingway's "Green Hills of Africa" is back in print. Those who read this column probably expected that I would get around to reviewing it sooner or later. I don't want to say much about it because I want to save the space for something else. It is Hemingway's best plotted full-length book and its all true to boot. Its purpose is modest: "I'd like to try to write something about the country and the animals and what it's like to some one who knows nothing about it."

What I want to do is to quote a short and a long sentence from the book. A. Z., old top, it's practically straight out of "Moby Dick: "If you serve time for society, democracy, and other things quite young, and declining any further enlistment make yourself responsible only to yourself, you exchange the pleasant, comforting stench of comrades for something you can never feel in any other way than by yourself. That something I cannot yet define completely but the feeling comes when you write well and truly of something and know impersonally you have written in that way and those who are paid to read it and report on it do not like the subject so they say it is all a fake, yet you know its value absolutely; or when you do something which people do not consider a serious occupation and yet you know, truly, that it is as important and has always been as important as all the things that are in fashion, and when, on the sea, you are alone with it and know that this Gulf Stream you are living with, knowing, learning about, and loving, has moved, as it moves, since before man, and that it has gone by the shoreline of that long, beautiful, unhappy island since before Columbus sighted it and that the things you find out about it, and those that have always lived in it are permanent and of value because that stream will flow, as it has flowed, after the Indians, after the Spaniards, after the British, after the Americans and after all the Cubans and all the systems of governments, the richness, the poverty, the martyrodom, the sacrifice and the venality and the cruelty are all gone as the high-piled scow of garbage, bright-colored, white-flecked, ill-smelling, now tilted on its side, spills off its load into the blue water, turning it a pale green to a depth of four or five fathoms as the load spreads across the surface, the sinkable part going down and the flotsam of palm fronds, corks, bottles, and used electric light globes, . . . a well-inflated dog, the occasional rat, the no-longer distinguished cat; all this well shepherded by the boats of the garbage pickers who pluck their prizes with long poles, as interested, as intelligent, an das accurate as historians; they have the viewpoint; the stream, with no visible flow, takes five loads of this a day when things are going well in La Babana and in ten miles along the coast it is as clear and blue and unimpressed as it was ever before the tug hauled out the scow; and the palm fronds of our victories, the worn light bulbs of our discoveries and the empty condoms of our loves float with no significance against one single, lasting thing—the stream."

Sierra Madre Treasure

Herb Cohn

The YMCA and Hillel Foundation will close out their Film Forum series tonight in Gerrard Hall at 7:15 with "Treasure of Sierra Madre." Dr. Reuben Hill of the Sociology Department will lead the discussion following this outstanding movie.

Greed is seldom treated in the movies with the frank and ironic contempt that is vividly manifested toward it in "Treasure of Sierra Madre." And certainly the big stars of the movies are rarely exposed in such cruel light as that which is thrown on Humphrey Bogart. But the fact that this drama trangresses convention in that respect is a token of the originality and maturity that you can expect of it.

Taking a story of three vagrants on "the beach" in Mexico who pool their scratchy resources and go hunting for gold in the desolate hills, John Huston, the director, has shaped a searching drama of the collision of civilizations vicious greeds with the instinct for self-preservation in an environment where all the barriers are down and, by charting the moods of his prospectors after they have hit a vein of gold, he has done a superb illumination of basic characteristics of men. One might imagine that he has filmed an intentional comment here upon the irony of avarice in individuals and nations today.

But don't think that this will distract your attention from this most vivid and exciting action display. Everyone will find this an excellent adventure film. The details are fast and electric from the moment the three prospectors start into the Mexican mountains, infested with bandits and beasts, until two of them come down empty-handed and the third one (the mean one) comes down dead. There are vicious disputes among them, a suspenseful interlude when a fourth man tries to horn in and some running fights with the bandits that will make your hair stand on end. Since the outdoor action was filmed in Mexico with all the style of a documentary camera, it has integrity in appearance too.

Most shocking to the average movie-goer, however, will likely be the job that Mr. Bogart does as the prospector who succumbs to the qnawing of greed. Physically, morally, and mentally, this character goes to pot before our eyes. And the final appearance of him, before a couple of roving bandits knock him off in a manner of supreme cynicism, is one to which few actors would lend themselves. Mr. Bogart's compensation should be the knowledge that his performance in this film is perhaps the best he has ever done, equally a good or better than his academy Award performance in "The African Queen."

If you want to see an excellent movie free of charge, drop by Gerrard Hall tonight at 7:15. If you stay for the discussion following the show, you will be pleasantly surprised to find out that you'll enjoy Dr. Reuben Hill more than the movie.

Baseball Team Loses To Duke, 4-2; Netters Win, 7-2

Devils Score 3 Winning Runs In Sixth Inning

By Tom Peacock

Duke's Blue Devils scored three runs in the sixth inning yesterday to unseat Carolina from a tie for first place in Big Four baseball standings and take their first win from the Tar Heels, 4-2.

Duke's Big Four record is now 4-2, Carolina's 3-3.

Carolina held a slim 2-1 lead, but Duke pounded pitcher Chal Port with three hits plus an error that gave it the 4-2 lead. Port only allowed seven hits in taking the loss, while winning pitcher George Carver held Carolina to six hits over the route.

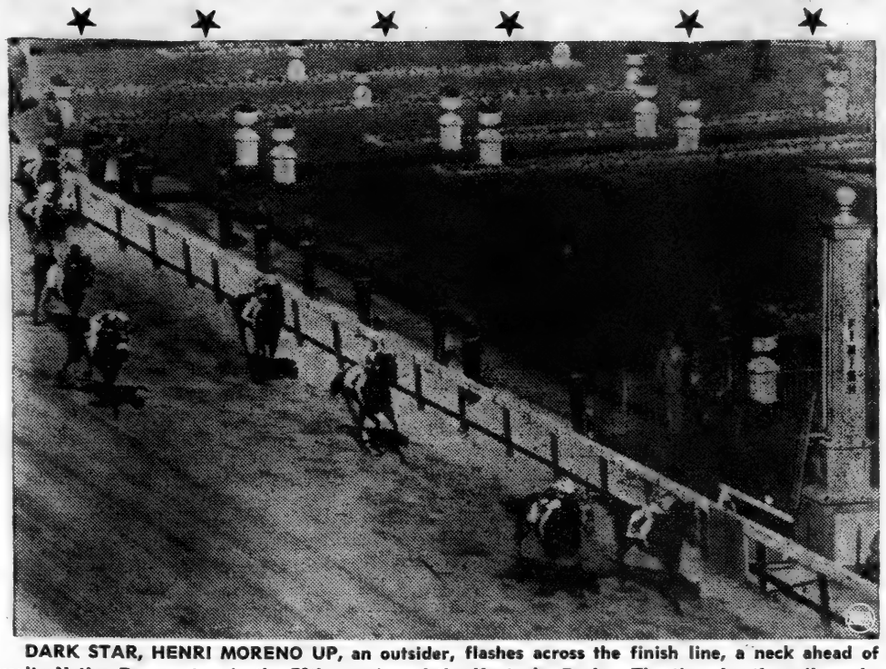
Carolina meets Wake Forest at 3:30 today on Emerson Field in another Big Four baseball game.

The game started slow and sloppy, with the Tar Heels giving Carver a good ride, but the play and his pitching settled down. The Tar Heels committed four errors, including one for three bases. Only one Duke run was earned.

Billy Werber opened the sixth for Duke with a single, then scored a minute later on a three base boot by first baseman Bobby Henning. Jake Tarr tripled Billy Lea home, and Joe Brewer singled Tarr on in to end the scoring.

Duke took a 1-0 lead in the fourth on a hit and two errors. Carolina came back in its half of the fourth frame, scoring two runs on three hits and an error. Frye singled, Henning took first on an error, and Harry Lee Lloyd scored them both with a long double.

The box:



Carolina	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Lloyd, 2b	5	0	2	1	4	0
Dale, ss	5	0	2	2	2	2
Motsinger, cf	4	0	0	6	0	0
Williams, 3b	2	0	0	0	2	0
Gravitte, rf	4	0	0	0	0	0
Frye, c	3	1	1	4	0	0
Long, lf	4	0	1	2	0	0
Henning, 1b	3	1	0	10	0	2
a-Holt	0	0	0	0	0	0
Mosier, 1b	0	0	0	2	0	0
Port, p	2	0	0	0	0	0
b-Hooks	1	0	0	0	0	0
Marbry, p	0	0	0	0	1	0
Totals	33	2	6	27	9	4

Duke	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Spangler, cf	4	0	1	4	0	0
Gibbons, rf	4	0	1	3	0	0
Clapp, lf	4	0	0	4	0	0
Werber, 1b	4	1	1	7	1	0
Lea, ss	4	2	0	3	0	0
Tarr, c	4	1	3	5	1	1
LeClerq, 3b	3	0	0	1	3	0
Brewer, 2b	4	0	1	0	2	1
Carver, p	4	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	35	4	7	27	7	2

a—Walked for Henning in 8th.
b—Flied out for Port in 8th.

Duke 000 103 000—4
Carolina 000 200 000—2

Runs batted in: Lloyd 2, Lea LeClerq, Brewer, Tarr. Two base hit: Lloyd. Three base hit: Tarr. Stolen bases: Gibbons, Tarr. Double plays: Williams, Lloyd and Henning, Lloyd, Dale, and Mosier. Left on bases: Duke 5, Carolina 10. Base on balls—off: Carver 6, Marbry 1. Struck out—by: Port 4, Carver 4. Hits—off: Port 7 in 8, Carver 6 in 9. Losing pitcher: Port. Time: 2:10. Umpires: Vanderhoof and Smith.

DARK STAR, HENRI MORENO UP, an outsider, flashes across the finish line, a neck ahead of favorite Native Dancer, to win the 79th running of the Kentucky Derby. The time for the mile and one-quarter was two minutes and two seconds flat, three-fifths of a second off the derby and track record. Invigorator finished in the show position.

Pass The Commercials And Stand Back, Ma; Fearless Fraley Scans Sport Scene Via TV

By Oscar Fraley

NEW YORK—Pass the bandages—and plenty of aspirin.

For an entire weekend. Fearless Fraley covered the sporting scene by television. I am now the best-shaved and most hung-over sports-writer extant—meaning a length and a bunt removed from complete extinction.

Apparently somebody sold me the wrong information. Because I had heard that this year the video advertisers had been admonished to quit shilling for their products before the bell rang or the inning ended. All I can say is that if they are living up to this formula, the customers who stayed with 'em this far would make Rocky Graziano look like Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Old Fearless did pretty good through two prize fights and the Kentucky Derby. I figure you have to give the sponsor a break. So every time they said "shave," I shaved. Just as the winner hit the wire in the Kentucky Derby they lost a customer for good. At that moment I scraped away the last of my hirsute roots.

After the result was posted, I felt like using the razor once more—two points due south.

But it was the baseball double header on Sunday which really got me. If you ever sit through one of those, take a word of advice from a sorrowful sitter. Break faith with the sponsor.

I didn't.

It was kind of fun for awhile. Went something like this:

As the game opened, the announcer in hearty tones suggested that we try this "mild, light nectar."

I did.

This went on, in between innings when the teams were chnaging sides: between innings when a relief pitcher had to be rushed in from the bull pen, and at every possible break in the game and sometimes when there weren't any. Of course, I missed the only rhubarb of the game and the home run which won the contest. But you can't have everything if you're gonna keep that glass filled.

I'm not sure, but I think it was the wait between the end of the first game and the start of the second game which got me. Anyhow, by the time the umpire called "play ball" the kids were safely over at the neighbors' house, the kitchen looked like it had been hit by a blizzard of bottle caps and Old Fearless was riding high in the old rocking chair.

"Fill 'em up again and settle back," the man ordered.

Sho I shettled back and deshided thish wash pretty good old game, old pal. Shmart feller not to have to battle thosh crowds and not worry about thosh Shunday drivers. Beshides there wush only nine more innings.

Thish fellans undourtub—undoublet—wel, he'sh right, anyhow. Thish ish a fine ole "mild, light brew" and ishn't about time fer us to fill thish glash up s'more. Have to order shix cases fer nex' Shunday's double header. Have to get televishun shet fized, too. Can't shee the pickshure anymore.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1. Contend
5. Spill over
9. Native of Rome
10. Walked through water
12. Wicked
13. Dust
14. Permit
15. Jolt
16. Cunning
17. Land-measure
18. Dispatches
20. Dishes
22. Lave
26. Artificial conduit
27. Article of furniture
28. Spirit lamp
29. Cause a train to run off the track
30. Ventured
32. Thallium (sym.)
33. Girl's name
36. Duct (anat.)
37. Feminine pronoun
38. An attic
40. Part of the verb "be"
41. Near (poet.)
42. Mother-of-pearl
43. Weakens
44. Emmets

DOWN

1. Bedspread
2. Leave out
3. Chum
4. Half an em
5. Weapon
6. Mandate
7. Excess of chances
8. Skin
9. To slip back to a former state
11. Arid
13. Kettles
15. Scoff
18. Place
19. Turf
21. Beard of rye
23. Sleeveless garment (Arab.)
24. Slides
25. A Greek
27. Elevations (golf)
29. Expletive
31. Affirms
33. Moslem title
34. Man's name (poss.)
35. Scope
37. Denomination
39. Knock
40. Forbid
42. Sodium (sym.)

Yesterday's Answer

Tennis Team Defeats Williams For Nineteenth Straight Win

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., May 4. (Special)—Carolina's Southern Conference champion tennis team took its 19th match without a loss, 7-2, here today against Williams College.

The Tar Heels played on asphalt courts for the first time this year today as the regular courts were covered with water. The weather was clear and windless today, however.

Sophomore Herb Browne, playing number one, defeated Dick Squires 8-6, 2-6, 9-7 in the day's match. Squires is national squash champion. The Tar Heels won all their singles matches, but lost noe and two doubles.

The tennis team plays a match with Amherst College in Amherst, Mass. today.

The summaries:

Singles—Browne (UNC) over Squires, 8-6, 2-6, 9-7; Bradford (UNC) over Symington 5-7, 6-3, 6-2; Thompson (UNC) over Brownell, 6-3, 6-3; Payne (UNC) over Kesel, 6-3, 6-2; Handel (UNC) over Zeigler, 6-0, 6-3; Green (UNC) over Folkerson, 6-2, 6-0.

Doubles—Squires and Symington (W) over Bradford and Thmopson, 6-4, 6-2; Brownell and Kesel (W) over Payne and Browne, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4; Gustafson and Kerdaha (UNC) over Zeigler and Folkerson, 6-4, 6-1.

Marciano Invites Walcott To Meet Him In Flick

HOLLAND, Mich.— (Special)—To keep the pre-fight ballyhoo going, heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano has invited challenger Joe Walcott to meet him at the movies in Chicago May 8.

The movies would be those of the fight in which Marciano lifted the title from Walcott and would prove, Marciano claims, that there was "nothing dirty about my part of the fight."

They meet in the ring again in Chicago May 15.

MURALS

Today's Horseshoes

7:00—Beta vs. winner of (Kap Sig-1 vs. Sig Nu-1); Zetes-1 vs. winner of (Phi Gam-1 vs. Sig Nu-2).

7:40—Winner of (Pi Gam-4) vs. winner of Pi Lamb-1 vs. SPE-2).

Today is the final day for Big Four sports day tryouts.

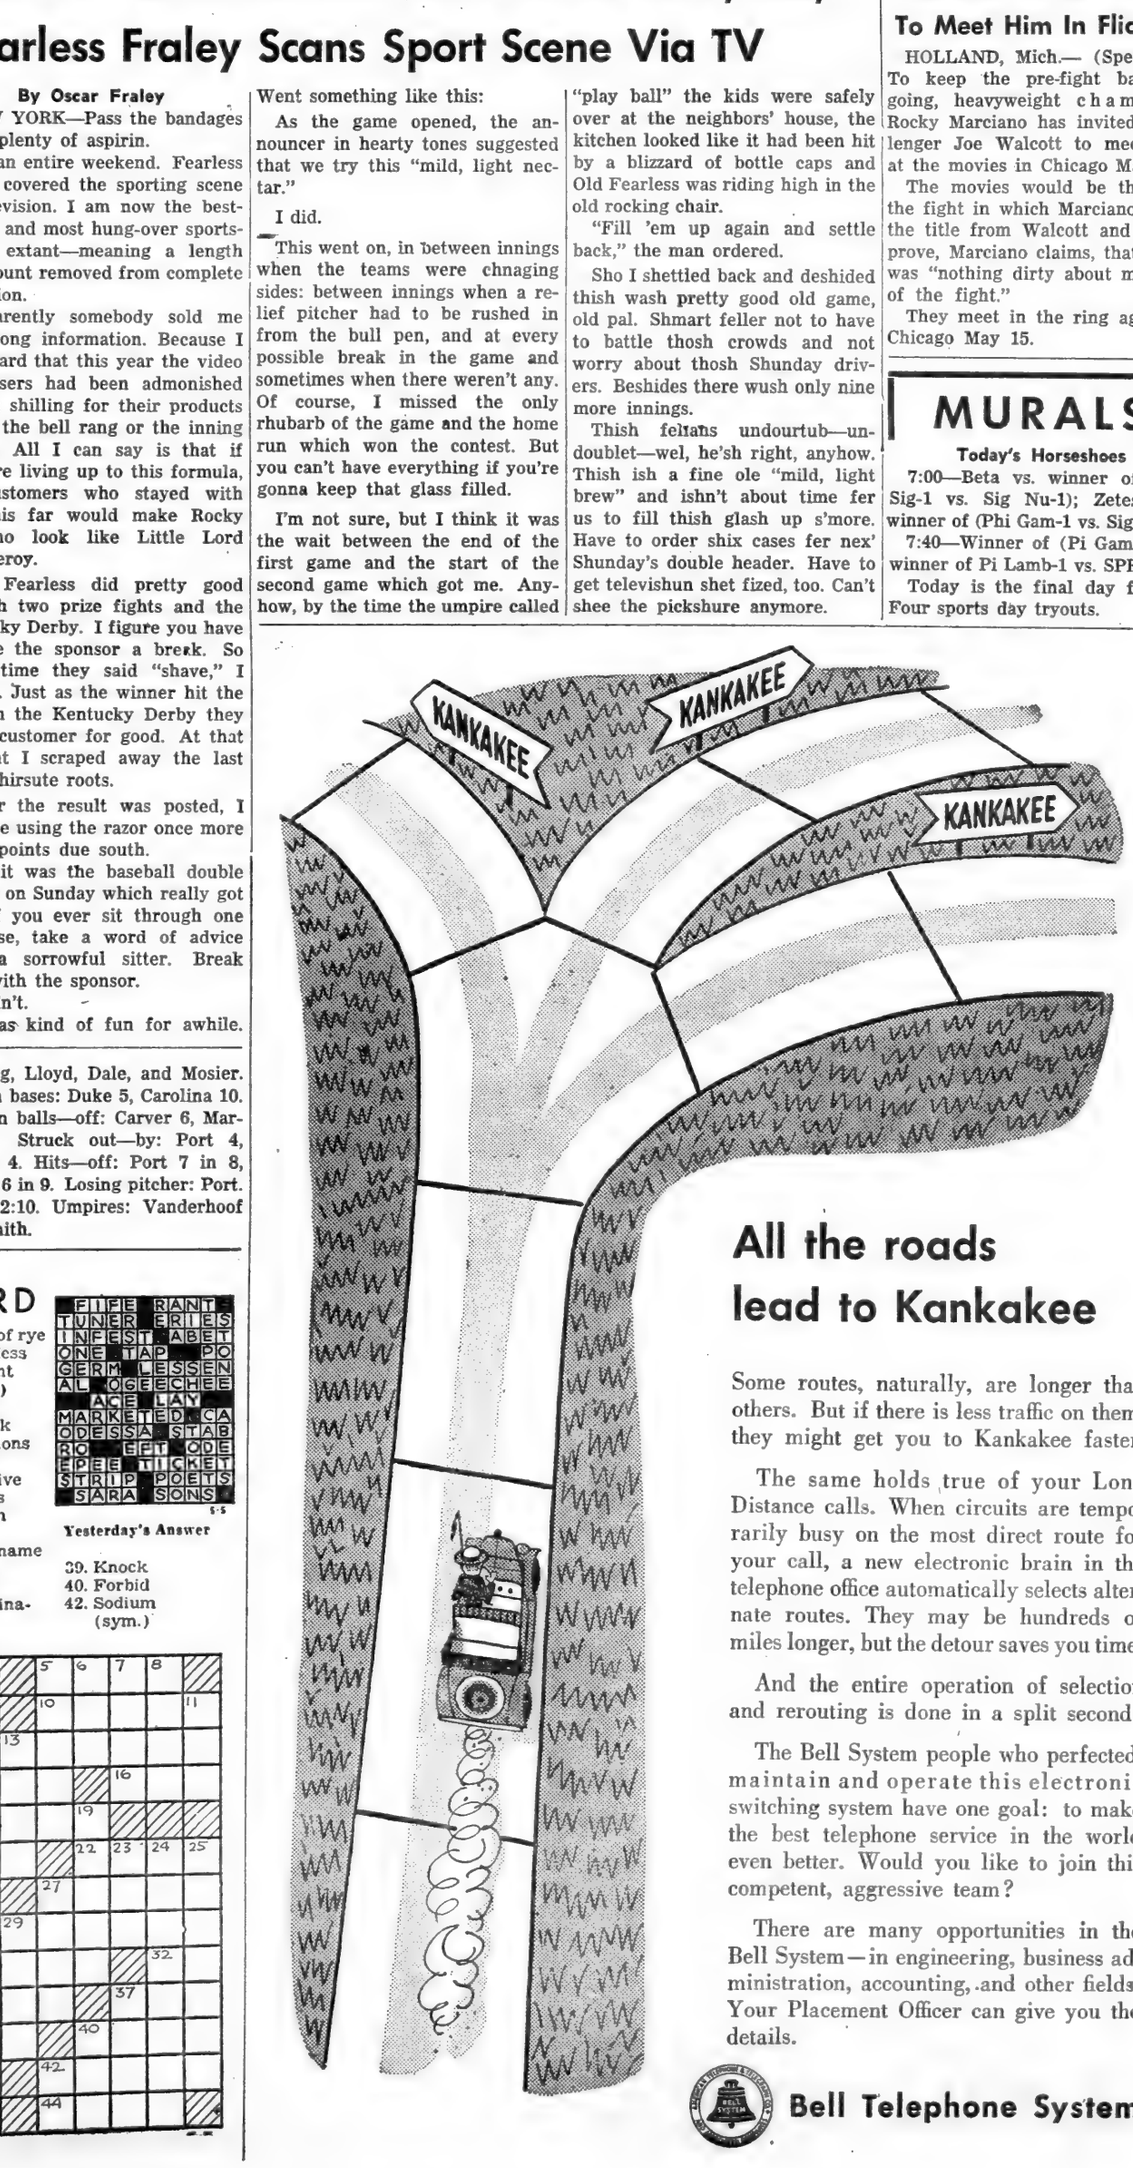
Girl's Tennis Club Meets Meredith College Today

The girls' Tennis Club's scheduled match with Wake Forest Thursday was rained out. The club will play its first match today at 3 o'clock with Meredith on the varsity courts.

Playing singles for Carolina will be Nancy Gerlach, Carolyn Johnson, Sandy Donaldson, Louise Milligan, Jane Carey, and Ann Forsythe. Carolyn Johnson and Sandy Donaldson, Frankie Allan and Jane Carey, and Jo Demming and Jo Murphy will play doubles.

"The shame! My son flunking Bartender School for not using Angostura* in Manhattans!"

ANGOSTURA®
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS



*That zestful tang you taste in every good Manhattan is the result of a generous dash of Angostura Bitters. You can enjoy that tang on foods, too. Try it on grapefruit. Delicious!

SEE The Land Beyond Imagination Where Adventure Never Ends!

Walt Disney's PETER PAN
COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR
With BOBBY DRISCOLL as the Voice of Peter Pan
Distributed by RKO Radio Pictures, Inc.
Copyright Walt Disney Productions
Even the SONGS Are Out of This World!

TODAY ONLY
Varsity

All the roads lead to Kankakee

Some routes, naturally, are longer than others. But if there is less traffic on them, they might get you to Kankakee faster.

The same holds true of your Long Distance calls. When circuits are temporarily busy on the most direct route for your call, a new electronic brain in the telephone office automatically selects alternate routes. They may be hundreds of miles longer, but the detour saves you time.

And the entire operation of selection and rerouting is done in a split second!

The Bell System people who perfected, maintain and operate this electronic switching system have one goal: to make the best telephone service in the world even better. Would you like to join this competent, aggressive team?

There are many opportunities in the Bell System—in engineering, business administration, accounting, and other fields. Your Placement Officer can give you the details.

Bell Telephone System

Midsummer Night's TEAM

If the occasion demands formal wear and you demand comfort and correctness, here's the way to go—in one of our superbly styled and tailored summer dinner jackets. We've all the furnishings you need, too.

THE NORTH CAROLINA SYMPHONY will play an adult concert in Memorial Hall here tomorrow night at 8:30. "The Symphony on Wheels" plays half of its annual 140 concerts free to school children. Conducted by Dr. Benjamin F. Swalin, the nationally-known orchestra is on its eighth annual tour throughout the Tar Heel State. Also on the program tomorrow night will be Beatrice Griffin, internationally-known violinist. She has appeared in concerts at the Royal Castle and Rosendahl Castle in Stockholm before King Gustav of Sweden and the Royal Family. During the war she was presented decorations by Swedish royalty and the Finnish Government for her efforts on behalf of wounded soldiers, for whom she played innumerable concerts.

New Light Shed On Career Of Former Dean MacNider

By Mary Grace Megginson

One day while performing an experiment, Dr. William de B. MacNider turned to his students in the University Medical School and asked, "What makes some people so pompous?"

And, without waiting for an answer, as he frequently didn't, he said: "If I were asked what is the first requirement for the search of truth, I would say humility. And if I were asked for the second requirement I would say humility. And if I were asked for the third requirement I would say humility."

This is one of the many incidences in the life of the late Dean of the University of North Carolina Medical School recalled in the book, "The Good Doctor," just released by the University Press.

The memorial volume, with stirring tributes to Dr. MacNider and selected essays and addresses by him, catches the spirit of the man who knew and loved Chapel Hill and the University as few other persons ever have.

On Faculty 51 Years

At the time of Dr. MacNider's death on May 31, 1951, the University had been in existence for 156 years and he had served on its faculty 51 years, three years as Dean of the School of Medicine. He was one of the first five professors in the University to be designated as Kenan professor s in 1918 and in 1924 he was named ignated as Kenan professors in the University, under the designation of Kenan Research Professor of Pharmacology. At the time of his death he was Kenan Research Professor of Pharmacology Emeritus.

Victor S. Bryant of Durham, chairman oof the Trustees Visiting Committee, who contributes one chapter in the memorial volume, says he considers it "a lasting tribute to the youthfulness and timelessness of Dr. MacNider's thought and work that one of his youngest students, William W. McLendon of Greensboro, conceived and carried out the plan for the book, 'The Good Doctor.'

"It was characteristic of Dr. Billy (as he was affectionately known by many) that he at 68 and 19-year-old Bill McLendon, who compared him to Osler, became such fast friends. During the reading of Osler's 'Aequanimitas,' Bill first became interested in compiling Dr. MacNider's talks and essays. Another of Dr. MacNider's youngest friends, Mrs. Shirley Graves Cochrane, helped arrange and edit the material of the book."

A leather-bound copy of the volume was presented to the Division of Health Affairs Library recently on behalf of Dr. MacNider's daughter, Miss Sally Foard MacNider of the University Library staff. Co-editors McLendon and Cochrane made the presentation for Miss MacNider.

Young McLendon is the son of Major L. P. McLendon of Greensboro, chairman of the Trustees' Committee on the Division of Health Affairs, and Mrs. Cochrane is a former staff member of the University of North Carolina Press. Her husband is a member of the Institute of Government staff.

Chancellor Robert B. House, in the opening chapter, says that Dr. MacNider "was the most completely identified personality in body, mind and spirit, with Chapel Hill and its environs and its people, and with the University of North Carolina, of any man with whom we have been associated.

"He was raised in his mother's house on the spot where the Post Office now stands, across from the campus on the dusty or muddy rambling old Franklin Street. This spot was the congregating place of young and old, black and white, country people and town people. It was more than just a physical neighbor of the campus. It was the heart and center of the life of the place. . . .

Great Nature Lover

"He scuffed over the very soil of the place, waded every stream, hunted in all the fields and woods, loved and cared for every wildflower; cultivated, enjoyed and shared every beautiful thing in the form of flower and shrub which can grow in Chapel Hill. The trees were his personal friends, and he noted their sprouting, growth and decay with the same loving, scientific care with which he attended, as a physician, his friends and neighbors. The whole natural setting he loved from the break of dawn in the sky, through the busy day, on through the dusk and twilight into the meditative evening hours."

A chapter by Dr. William M. Coppridge of Durham includes passages from his address on the occasion of the presentation of Dr. MacNider's portrait to the University on December 15, 1946.

"I can speak for the many hundreds of his students whom he has taught and inspired over the past 40 years," Dr. Coppridge said, "when I say, that as a teacher, he has had few equals.

Will Be Remembered

"Uncompromising in his insistence on attention to detail, scornful of indolence and inactivity, he has always been sympathetic and shown a real interest in the progress of every student. In his work he never asked anyone to go further or work any harder than he himself was willing to do. He has so lived, that his life is the authority of his words.

"Not for many a year shall his face and figure and radiant personality go from the memory of them that love him, nor will the tradition of him and his deeds and words go from them, who from their fathers, know of him," Dr. Coppridge said.

Victor Bryant in his tribute said that no man of his entire acquaintance" was more considerate of his fellow man, more diligent in his search for truth, more loyal to his University and profession, and more reverent to his God" than Dr. MacNider.

"He possessed a genius for friendship," he said. "Many who knew him intimately place love for his fellowman as his predominating characteristic."

"His friendship went deeper than mere amiability and courtesy and his interest in his fellow man embraced all mankind, particularly that part of it which was in trouble."

George Williams Will Present Organ Recital Tonight At 8:30

George Williams, senior music major from Raleigh, will present a graduating recital of organ music in Hill Hall tonight at 8:30.

The program will consist of major works by Bach, Buxtehude and the contemporary composers Darius Milhaud, Ernst Pepping and Olivier Messiaen.

Williams began his organ study at St. Mary's School in Raleigh with Russell Broughten and has continued through his four years at the University with David Brandt and Jan Philip Schinhan. A violin pupil of Edgar Alden, he has played with the University Symphony Orchestra, and has also served as piano accompanist for the Chapel Hill Choral Club.

He is now organist at the Chapel of the Cross. Last Spring, he played another full organ recital at Hill Hall as part of his junior requirement.

The program will begin with the chorale variations by Buxtehude on "How Brightly Beams the Morning Star," followed by two major works of Bach, the canonic variations on "From Heaven Above I Came," and the Prelude and Fugue in E minor, known as "The Wedge" because of the curious shape of the fugue theme. The second half of the program will consist entirely of contemporary organ music, Ernst Pepping's Concerto II," Milhaud's "Pasterale" and "Diptyque" by Olivier Messiaen.

BEATING THE TIME of Britain's Queen Elizabeth, who has to wait another month for her coronation, Paulette Planke, 3, was enthroned as Queen of the Boys Clubs of Detroit, Mich. Paulette's king is William McCullen, 4. The "princess" held by Paulette is a doll she won with the crown.—NEA Telephoto.

Alpha Kappa Psi Entertains Pledges At Banquet, Dance

Alpha Kappa Psi, professional fraternity in business administration at the University, entertained its pledges at a banquet and dance at the Chapel Hill Country Club Saturday night.

President "Wick" Redmon, Leaksville, presided and welcomed the pledges, their dates and other guests. Lacy Baynes, Greensboro, president of the pledge class, and Assistant Dean J. M. Parrish of the School of Business Administration, responded in behalf of the faculty and alumni guests. Chaplain Don Barton, Charlotte, gave the invocation.

Pledges and their dates were: Herman A. Sampson, Greensboro, with Miss Mary Ruth Mitchell, Greensboro; Don Angell, Winston-Salem, with Miss Daphne Plaster, Winston-Salem; Marvin Green, Durham, with Miss Beverly Doby, Durham; Thomas Bridges, Shelby, with Miss Jeanne Buchanan, Shelby; John Stuart, Shelby with Miss Carolyn Thompson, Shelby; Bill Casper, China Grove, with Mrs. Casper; Arthur Winstead, Roxboro, with Mrs. Winstead; Lamont Krimminger, Kannapolis, with Miss Sara Mills, Greensboro; J. I. Miller, West Jefferson, with Miss Frances Parson, Washington, D. C.; Sam Ingram, Sanford, with Miss Amanda Bracken, Sanford; Al Stanley, Whiteville, with Mrs. Stanley; Lacy Baynes, Greensboro, with Miss Becky Phoenix, Greensboro; and Ben Smith, Charlotte, with Miss Maie Rhyne, Charlotte.

Roy Cole and his orchestra furnished music for dancing.

What Goes On Here

YWCA Meeting

There will be a general meeting of the YMCA tonight at 7 o'clock in the Cabinet Room of the Y.

Stray Greeks

Newly-elected Stray Greek officers for 1953-54 are Anita Anderson, president; Carol Libby, vice president; Jane Yearly, secretary; Harriet Hil, treasurer; Donna Darley, University Club representative, and Anne Moore, WAA representative. Retiring president is Barbara Reed.

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club last week elected the following officers: Katherine Jente, president; Nora Jane Rumph, vice-president; Ann Folger, secretary, and Etta Mann, treasurer.

French Supper Club

The French Supper Club will meet at 6 o'clock tonight in the upper dining hall of Lenoir.

Dental Society

The Spurgeon Dental Society of the UNC Dental School recently elected the following officers: Henry O. Lineberger Jr., president; Jack W. Girard Jr., vice-president and William G. Ware Jr., secretary-treasurer.

Tar Heels 'n Toes . . .

The regularly scheduled meeting of Tar Heel 'n Toes will not be held this week. The next meeting will be Tuesday, May 12, at 5 o'clock in the Women's Gym.

Women's Glee Club . . .

The Women's Glee Club will meet tonight at 5 o'clock in Hill Hall.

Co-Recreation . . .

Co-Recreation Night will be held tomorrow night in Woolen Gym from 7 o'clock to 9 p.m.

WUNC Program

7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—Vistas of Israel.
7:45—Review of the British Weeklies.
8 p.m.—The People Act.
8:30—Opera
10 p.m.—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.

University Party

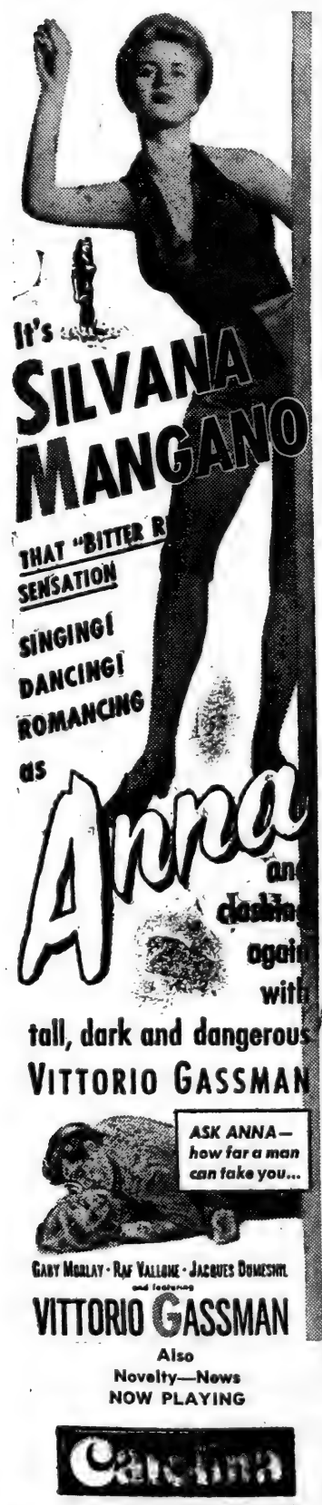
The University Party will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in Roland Parker Lounges 1 and 2. All representatices should attend.

Philological Club

Professors Walter Allen Jr., of the classics department, and Robert Samuel Rogers of Duke will present a paper prepared jointly by them tonight at the meeting of the Philological Club. The club will meet in the Faculty lounge of the Morehead Building at 7:30.

Vietminh Troop Column Reported On The March

HANOI, Indo-China — A Communist-led Vietminh troop column advancing through Laos was reported yesterday to be marching on Paksane, on the Thailand border, in an effort to cut the invaded kingdom in two.



CLASSIFIEDS

LOST 12

MAN'S WALLET LAST SATURday night. Finder please return to R. B. Meachum, 105 Manley. Reward. (1-8008-1)

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St.

Mother's Day Cards for Zippy Mothers—

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

Open Evenings

CLARK'S

Sewing Machines and Kirby Vacuum Cleaners

We Pay Cash for Good Used Sewing Machines
Repairs on All Makes of Machines
19 Years of Experience

J. W. CLARK, Manager

Call 9-5708

RIDE TRAILWAYS THRU-LINERS FOR GREATEST SAVINGS...

• Your vacation starts the moment you settle yourself in the AIR-CONDITIONED COMFORT of your TRAILWAYS THRU-LINER. Here's concern for your welfare . . . from the low cost of the trip to the smiling consideration you get from all the personnel. Trailways' unmatched safety-record eases your mind . . . the deep-cushioned foam-rubber reclining seats ease your person.

SAVE 2/3 THE COST OF DRIVING YOUR OWN CAR

Chapel Hill to ATLANTA	1-way $8.20
New time-saving Trailways route ASHEVILLE	$6.10
7 thru-liners—exp. svc. WASHINGTON, D. C.	$6.65
8 trips, only 1 change WILMINGTON, N. C.	$3.60
4 round trips daily NORFOLK	$5.00
8 trips, 3 thru, 2 exp.	(plus tax)

UNION BUS TERMINAL

314 W. Franklin St.—Phone 4281

TRAILWAYS THE ROUTE OF THE THRU-LINERS

A BREATH TAKING EXPERIENCE

FLOWERS of the SOUTH

By Greene and Blomquist

Colorful as a spring garden, this is the book you've been wanting—A superlative Mother's Day Gift.

JUST OUT ---------- $5.00

A Check List Of New BARGAINS

Flight in Winter — Eye-witness accounts of the fall of Berlin. Formerly $3.75. Our Special — $1.00

Return From the Pole — Capt. Cook's final word in the Cook-Peary controversy. Swell adventure reading. Was $4.50. Our Special — $1.98

Twentieth Century Philosophy — Edited by D. D. Runes. Formerly $5.00. Our Special — $2.49

Encyclopaedia of Superstitions—by E. and M. Radford. Fascinating for anyone, a must in the social fields. Formerly $6.00. Our Special — $2.49

The Next Development In Man — L. L. Whyte's study of our crumbling civilization. Published at $3.50. Our Special — $1.69

Dictionary of Philosophy—By D. R. Runes. Published at $6.00. Our special — $3.69

This I Believe — Everyone knows Eleanor Roosevelt's great book. Here's your chance to own it. Our Special — $1.89

DON'T WAIT — SEE THEM TODAY AT

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Partly cloudy with chance of afternoon rains, 85 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

DRINKING
The editor points out that it's getting late.—Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 144 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. WEDNESDAY, MAY 6, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Gurley Proposes Better Dorm Interest, Spirit

By Bob Slough

Walter D. Gurley, newly-elected Inter-Dormitory Council president, Monday night listed an eight-point program for the IDC during 1953-54.

The first point listed by Gurley was better coed visiting arrangement in men's dormitories. "Much has been done," Gurley said, "but a lot more can be done."

Other points in the 1953-54 program include dormitory discussion groups, more dormitory unity and spirit, better cooperation between dormitories and fraternities, dormitory improvements, and permanent ballot boxes in the dormitories to create more interest in dorm elections.

Gurley also listed his proposal for a better IDC dance next year. He said present plans call for going before the student legislature for money to subsidize funds allotted to the group for the annual dance.

Another of the main topics discussed by the IDC was methods to quell further disturbances like last week's student demonstration.

Gurley suggested to the representatives that "you get floor counselors on the ball. If anything is started in the dorms, have them talk to the boys individually."

"It is pretty significant," Gordon Forester added, "that the administration has stayed out and is letting students handle it."

The IDC president warned the group, "If we don't do something to quell uprisings in the future, we may lose some of our freedom."

NC Symphony Features Young Pianist At 8:30

A young North Carolina pianist, McRae Cook, of Graham, will be guest artist with the nationally-known North Carolina Symphony Orchestra at its Memorial Hall performance here tonight at 8:30.

A veteran of the concert stage, Cook has made numerous appearances in recital at Washington National Gallery of Art; in New York, Pennsylvania, Arkansas, Tennessee, Maryland and North Carolina. He has been soloist with the Washington Civic Orchestra and in 1950 appeared with the North Carolina Symphony.

The young musician studied at Elon College, graduated from Catholic University, and is now studying at Juilliard School of Music in New York with Sasha Gorodnitzki.

In addition to his piano study, Cook is known as a talented young composer. He has written "Commentary on a North Carolina Folk Tune," which he played for the first time at a recital at the National Gallery in 1948.

Glenn Dillard Gunn, commenting on this composition, wrote in the Washington Times-Herald, "An American work of the exciting quality that connotes genius was brought to its first hearing last night. . . . It proved a grateful piece, full of color and fantasy. To the evident surprise of the composer-pianist, the public liked it."

Cook will play with the 65-piece Tar Heel orchestra, conducted by Dr. Benjamin F. Swalin, the Rachmaninov "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra No. IV," Op. 40.

Orchstral selections for the local concert include Handel's Overture from the music to the Royal Fireworks; the Sibelius Symphony No. V, Op. 82; Roumanian Rhapsody No. 11 by Enesco; and "Dance of the Torgots" by Riisager.

The group of professional musicians, now on its eighth annual tour throughout North Carolina, travels each year more than 9,000 miles taking music to Tar Heels. This season the orchestra will be on the road from January 21 through May 14.

Student admission to tonight's performance is $1.

McRAE COOK

Queen Reigns Sunday Over May Day Fete

The side lawn of McIver will be the scene of the May Day program Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

Saralyn Bonowitz from Chattanooga, Tenn. will be May Queen and Carman Nahm from Deland, Fla. will be her maid of honor.

The queen's court includes Jayne Adams, Dee Breslow, Bev Chalk, Bish Fox, Grace Gordon, Dot Smith, Anne Sory, Pepper Stetson, and Virginia Wilson.

In addition to the crowning of the queen by Chancellor R. B. House, the program will consist of the processional and entrance of the queen and her court, a duet by Nancy Murray and Larry Stith, the pageant, and the recessional.

Following the program there will be a tea honoring the queen and her court in the Graham Memorial Lounge from 4 to 5 o'clock sponsored by SUAB.

"A Legend of Spring," a familiar Greek legend, pertaining to spring, arranged by Chi Delta Phi of which Mary Ellen Jones is president, will be the theme of the pageant. The main parts will be taken by Mary Helen Crain as Demeter, Goddess of the Earth; Dot McClain as Persephone, daughter of Demeter; and Tommy Hopkins, as God of the Underworld.

The maidens and spirits of the underworld will be played by: Beth Lloyd, Mary Mitchell, Rachel Williams, Mary Lee George, Bert Jones, Ann Nicholson, Nancy Perryman, Mickey Rouse, and Jane Yearley.

Dot Smith has been chairman of May Day. Joyce Gouge is in charge of the music and choreography for the pageant.

Hubert Robinson, Paul Wager, Kenneth Putnam Win Election

In a five-man race for three vacancies on the Board of Aldermen of the Town of Chapel Hill, Hubert S. Robinson Sr., a respected leader among the community's Negro citizens, polled the top vote in Tuesday's municipal election.

A newcomer in town elections, University Professor Paul W. Wager, and Incumbent Alderman Kenneth E. Putnam, won the two other seats in the tightly contested election which saw 1,044 of the town's 1,301 registered voters cast ballots.

Unseated after 12 years service on the Board was R. B. Fitch, lumber dealer. Bernice Ward, Chapel Hill furniture dealer, running for the first time, was low man of the five. Votes polled in the Aldermanic race were Robinson 571; Wager 560, Putnam 505, Fitch 440 and Ward 439.

Mayor Edwin S. Lanier and Municipal Court Judge William S. Stewart, both unopposed for re-election, polled 828 and 819 votes respectively.

Tuesday's vote followed a complete new registration of town voters.

Robinson is the first member of his race to be elected on the Board although substantial votes were cast for Negro candidates in 1949 and 1951. Both elections however saw higher total votes cast, but against a registration approximately double this year's new voting

(See ELECTION, page 4)

LT. GEN. GLENN O. BARCUS, Commander of the Fifth Air Force in Korea, checks the controls of his F-86 Sabrejet before taking off for a mission over North Korea's MIG Alley. The "flying General" already has several completed missions to his credit, and has engaged Communist fighter planes in air battles.—NEA Telephoto.

NEWS IN BRIEF

PANMUNJOM—The United Nations chief truce delegate accused the Communists yesterday of using a "negotiating smoke screen" and said he saw no evidence they "really desire" a Korean armistice. Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison was irked by the Communists' refusal to accept Pakistan as neutral custodian of 46,000 Red prisoners who do not want to go home after the Reds had said they "welcomed" his nomination of that country "We have been negotiating about nine days now," Harrison said, "and up to the moment I have had nothing to indicate the Communists really desire an armistice."

★

WASHINGTON—The Eisenhower administration asked Congress yesterday for $5,828,000,000 in new foreign aid as a necessary defense for America itself against "the Soviet threat." President Eisenhower made the main plea in a special message to the lawmakers. The detailed presentation was made by a parade of Cabinet members, backed by Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, in testimony to a joint session of the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs committees.

★

WASHINGTON — Budget conscious state governors got the inside story yesterday on the administration's drive to balance the federal budget and clear the way for tax relief. Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge and Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey were the main speakers at the final session of an unusual two day governors' conference.

CAMPUS SEEN

Psychology prof at Sutton's magazine stand considering the purchase of a new Spillane novel.

•

Budweiser can resting in top drawer of filing cabinet outside the dean of women's office.

•

Kindly coed walking about campus distributing dog food to hungry canines.

Creasy Gets Chairmanship Of Orientation

Bob Gorham, president of the student body, yesterday appointed Tom Creasy new Orientation Committee chairman.

Other committee members' names have not yet been announced.

When asked about his appointment, Creasy said, "I feel that this year's orientation group has a terrific record to live up to, but with the excellent committee that has been appointed to work with me I am sure our goal for a bigger and better orientation program can be attained."

Creasy said the first step in his plans is to meet with his committee and assign the different jobs. He pointed out that as before the men's and women's orientation committees will work together as a unit.

The committee's first job will be to choose new counselors. Creasy asked that all those interested in becoming counselors watch The Daily Tar Heel and bulletin boards for announcements about interviews.

Creasy, a risin gjunior, served on last year's orientation committee, was vice president of his freshman class, and was president of his sophomore class. He was chairman of Consolidated University Day, but did not get to serve because polio forced the cancellation of the State game, major feature of CU Day. He is a member of the Order of the Grail, University Party, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity.

NROTC Drill Competition Will Be On Fetzer Field

The annual NROTC platoon and company drill competition will be held on Fetzer Field, today at 2:30.

Captain J. S. Keating, USN, professor of naval science says the public is cordially invited to attend. Winners will be announced at the second annual "Awards Day" to be held on Thursday, May 14.

Only 519 Turn Out As NSA, Gym Fees, Publication Aid All Gain Student Approval

By Ken Sanford

With an 11% vote the student body yesterday dec ided to remain in the National Student Association, showed they favor the present gym fee system and passed a constitutional amendment subsidizing independent publications.

The vote was 462 to 147 in favor of remaining in NSA.

The closest vote of the day was 315 to 311 in favor of keeping the present system of gym fees.

A vote of 453 to 138 passed the constitutional amendment allowing student government to subsidize independent publications.

The total vote for the day was 519.

The vote in favor of NSA means that Carolina will remain in the organization. There had been some controversy on the matter before the recent election.

NSA allows the student body of the University to be represented in an organization of college student bodies through student government.

The vote on gym fees actually will not make any changes. It was merely a poll of student opinion.

Any change in the present arrangement of compulsory payment of student gym fees would have to be made by the administration.

The purpose of the vote on the gym fee system was to determine whether students favor the present arrangement or whether they want a voluntary system for students who do not take the courses which involve the use of gym facilities.

The close vote possibly means that this issue is not settled and will be the subject of future controversy in political circles.

As a poll to get student opinion such a small percentage of voters could not give a very complete cross section of the campus.

The constitutional amendment is to the powers of the Legislature. It means that the Legislature can now subsidize an independent publication with an amount up to $1,000.

The amendment does not mean that an independent publication will come under legislative control unless the amount of subsidization should amount to the total financing of that publication.

Any appropriation given to such a publication is to be used to defray any deficit that might occur.

The amendment was proposed as a result of a request from the Carolina Quarterly for $500 to help defray its deficit.

'Skipper' Coffin To Step Down As School Of Journalism Dean

Oscar J. Coffin will resign as Dean of the School of Journalism, it was announced unofficially here yesterday. No announcement of changes can be made officially until elected upon by the Board of Trustees.

Dean Coffin said he hopes to be relieved of his duties by September 1. He will continue on the staff, however, on a year-to-year basis.

As he explained the resignation yesterday, "I'm just going to chop a few inches off the spade and not shovel so much."

Dean Coffin came to the University in 1926 as head of the Department of Journalism. He was a one man staff until 1935 when Professor Walter Spearman joined the department. The department later became a School and Coffin was named Dean.

It was also announced unofficially that T. J. Lassiter, associate professor of Journalism, will resign at the end of the Spring Quarter.

In a letter to Dean Coffin and Chancellor House, Lassiter said, "When I came to the School of Journalism I was of the opinion that the School's curriculum was sound, based as it was on the principle that journalism students should not be required to take such an abundance of journalism courses that studies in history, economics, political science, and other, background subjects, would be neglected. Nothing has happened to reduce my faith in the soundness of existing objectives of this School of Journalism."

Professor Lassiter, who is also editor and publisher of the Smithfield Herald, teaches country journalism and feature writing in the school.

Dean Coffin made known the resignation in a letter he had written to Chancellor House. The letter begins, "In the name of God, Amen! I, Oscar Jackson Coffin, born threescore and six years ago in this section of the briar patch designated North Carolina, United States of America, having entered without fear, albeit with appreciable trepidation, upon my second childhood, in the interest of our common objective, the preservation, broadening and deepening of a people's University am constrained to ask you to relieve me of my responsibilities as Dean of the School of Journalism."

The letter continues, "I can't say I have adored every minute of being Dean, I have frequently faltered in the University's good fight; but I have, as lay in me, kept the faith. Let us hope I have not done violence to our common ideal; and over against my academic shortcomings I would ask only for the placing of the fact that with your help and that of South Building—if I ever forget Buster Shepard may my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth and may the hand that mocks my typewriter wither, shrink and shrivel!—I have secured and retained the services of a teaching staff who have both the capacity and the will to do a better job than I can hope ever to blueprint for them."

Barefeet, No Classes, Movies Highlight Senior Extravaganza

Barefeet, movies, combos, concerts, wiener roasts and no classes on one day will mark an active Senior Week, starting next Monday, Steve Perrow, chairman of the Senior Class Social Committee said yesterday.

Juniors will participate in three of the activities—a Hogan's Lake picnic, a Tex Beneke concert, and a raffle. The faculty has been invited to participate in all senior functions, with the exception of Barefeet Day.

The seniors will shed their shoes and stockings Monday. Tuesday will be raffle day. Juniors and seniors will drop old movie tickets in junior and senior boxes, and keep the stubs. Saralyn Bonowitz, May Queen, will draw the tickets for several winners at Hogan's Lake, on Wednesday. Chapel Hill merchants are contributing the prizes.

Tuesday night, "Code For Two," a mystery thriller just released April 21, and starring Sally Forrest and Ralph Meeker, will be shown at the Carolina Theatre at 11 o'clock. Only seniors and faculty members will be admitted.

Wednesday is "No Class" day for seniors. Instead, a required meeting at Memorial Hall will be held at 10 a.m. with a short program including a talk on the Alumni Association, and an address by Chancellor House on the agenda. At 11 o'clock, students will meet with their deans for a windup session.

A picnic at Hogan's Lake will begin at 2 p.m. Games, the raffle drawing, a wiener roast and music provided by the Duke Ambassadors Dixieland combo will provide the entertainment for the rest of the day and night.

Seniors are invited to the Sigma Chi Derby Thursday.

Monday night, May 18, Tex Beneke and his band will present a concert from 8 to 10.

3 University Professors To Attend History Meet

Three University history professors, Fletcher M. Green, James W. Patton, and J. Carlyle Sitterson will attend the annual meeting of the Mississippi Valley Historical Association in Lexington, Kentucky, tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday.

Pulitzer Prize Given To Two Ex-UNC Men

Two Carolina graduates yesterday were lauded for winning newspaperdom's top award—the Pulitzer prize.

W. Horace Carter received one of the 1952 gold medal awards for the weekly Tabor City Tribune in recognition of the vigorous anti-Ku Klux Klan campaign in 1951. Another Carolinian, Willard Cole of the Whiteville News-Reporter, won a similar prize for his paper's fight against the same group. Cole, a self made man, wasn't able to attend college.

The other University alumnus to receive the top award was Vermont C. Royster. Editorialist Royster won his Pulitzer for his regular editorial series in the Wall Street Journal.

Phillips Russell, professor of journalism and a personal friend of Carter, said yesterday, "He was a good Tar Heel editor with a firm editorial policy. Attempts were made to scare him, but he wouldn't be scared."

Carter was editor of The Daily Tar Heel during the Navy preflight program years. After the war he and Orville Campbell, another UNC graduate and former Daily Tar Heel editor, toured the state looking for a good newspaper site. Carter gave up the plan though and went to Tabor City.

The Pulitzer prize winner and first Tar Heel to win the top award, filed for mayor of Tabor City last

(See PULITZER, page 4)

From The Orient To Carolina

Savage, Delicate Plant Life Flourishes Under Greenhouse

By Richard Creed

A thirty-minute browse in the Botany Department's greenhouse is a botanical trip around the world.

Thriving in the simulated atmosphere of their native habitat are representatives of the flora of every continent. The specimens include the Venus Fly Trap and Spanish Moss from our own state, cacti from Southwest Texas and Mexico, orchids and luxurious ferns from the tropics, aquatic plants from lakes and swamplands, and a Metasequoia tree, once thought extinct, from China. This great variety of plants is possible through the regulation of temperature by thermostatic control.

The greenhouse is divided into three sections, each of which has a different temperature gradient, making it possible for plants from different regions to survive under the same roof.

Used primarily for research by graduate students and the faculty of the department, the greenhouse, with the arboretum, provides students of elementary botany with living models. And it is a point of interest for visitors to the campus. More than two hundred people visited the greenhouse on Easter Sunday, said Dr. Carrol E. Wood, assistant professor of botany. It is quite interesting, he said, to see ladies examine the specimens with great interest and remark, "Why, I've had a plant like that in my yard for years, and I always wondered what it was."

Dr. Wood pointed out that while plants, unlike animals, don't have a nervous system, they are quite capable of functional movement through chemical action. The most familiar example of plants moving under their own power is the Venus Fly Trap. This little plant, which grows in Southeast North Carolina, has a pair of jaws with hair-like projections on the edges. A sweet nectar between the jaws attracts flies and other insects. When an insect enters the jaws, it touches the projections, causing the jaws to close, trapping the insect which is then digested by enzymic action.

Another group of plants squirts its pollen bearing nectar onto any insect which lights on it. The insect then carries the pollen to other plants, pollinating them.

The small, round Peyote cactus, native of Southwest Texas and Mexico, is used by the Indians in that area in a religious ceremony. It is cut into quarters and eaten, producing an almost unbearable sickness. When the sickness has subsided, the Indians sit around, or dance around, and enjoy spectacular color visions.

The faculty of the department is constantly carrying research in the greenhouse. Dr. Victor A. Greulach is at present testing tomato plants with different chemical compounds. He is trying to discover the compound which will inhibit plant growth, and rid gar-

(See GREENHOUSE, page 4)

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Sohindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

The Timid One

Still blinking from the newness of his office, student president Bob Gorham has ducked a fast one. While the campus is seeking his guidance on an intricate matter—the National Student Association—President Gorham is getting saddle sores from straddling the fence.

A story Sunday quoted Gorham saying "As president of the student body I am not going to issue a statement either for or against the National Student Association. I feel that my job is to see that the students get a fair and objective look at NSA. They can decide whether to remain a member or not." To implement his idea, Gorham appointed a committee to "disseminate information both pro and con" on the National Student Association.

The Daily Tar Heel feels Gorham let the student body down. Carolina's membership in the National Student Association is important. Moreover, the National Student Association is a student government function, a function with which Gorham should be intimately acquainted and able to give his views to the students. Students feel remote from the letters "NSA" and no amount of printed propaganda is going to put them in the know because most of them refuse to study it. It falls on Gorham then, to assert himself.

We are afraid the president is standing in the middle of the road for fear of being steamrollered if he steps to the left or right.

Vat 53

Like the whisky they're talking about, the longer it ages the stronger it gets. We mean the fraternity - Administration problem of drinking; the case must no longer be ignored nor dawdled over.

Since November negotiations have been in progress to revamp the rules to allow coed drinking in fraternity houses and equalize coed and import visiting hours. And about once a month since last Fall interested officials have promised a complete plan, one which would be agreed upon by both sides and then made public. It is May now, yet nothing has been completed.

Proposals, then counter-proposals followed by counter-counter-proposals have been swapped to the point that we begin to wonder if anything will be accomplished this year. It's a fact that proposed drinking changes have for the last five years breezed in with the first robin, then disappeared on the last day of Spring Quarter as the agitators graduated and South Building regirded. We got a November start this year and now Spring Quarter of 1953 is nearly gone and we wonder. . . .?

We fail to sympathize with the present snag since the InterFraternity Council proposal has been before South Building for several months. At last count the Administration was seeking counsel from the faculty Fraternity-Sorority Committee and the Women's Residence Council. The residence council still has not made itself heard.

The University Administration has been the victim of poor liaison with the fraternity membership generally and the prevailing feeling among the Greeks seems to be that South Building is some ogre out to get fraternities. Conferences have included only the presidents or their representatives and what they carry back to their houses usually can be gotten in as many different versions as there are fraternities.

The Daily Tar Heel recommends that a mass meeting of all fraternity men be held in Memorial Hall next Wednesday night during the regular fraternity meeting time. Let the Administration and the InterFraternity Council take the stage and then may the questions fly.

However, fraternity men should enter into the discussion with one point in mind: They are students first and fraternity members second, and drinking in their houses is not a right but a privilege. At present there are extensive prohibitions against student imbibing, be it in fraternity houses or on the banks of Morgan Creek. Removal of these restrictions will have to be done via the Administration with Trustee sanction.

If fraternities and the Administration don't get together now, the Greeks probably will soon see the day when the Administraion has to make a decision. The ruling would be arbitrary and fraternities would be left out in the cold, dry world.

My Old Home

—A. Z. F. Wood Jr.—

Emerson Stadium is not only a baseball field and a dormitory for various and sundry athletes, it is an institution, a whole philosophy of life. (At least it was the three years I lived there; now it is growing more and more like a run-of-the-mill dormitory, I understand.)

The physical interior is abominable: concrete walls, concrete floors, wooden and concrete ceilings. In summer, the heat is excruciating; the sun beats down on the concrete steps and|or seats above and the air just sits there like stagnant water, for the ventilation will never win any prizes either. In winter you don't know whether the frost on the few windowns is inside or out. The cute little radiators, when they work, hardly generate enough heat to warm a fair-sized medicine cabinet.

But I will have a soft warm spot in my heart for Emerson until they lay the sod o'er me. For Emerson is where I received a very appreciable amount of my education:

It's where I learned to play poker, pinochle, hearts, and gin-rummy; not just know how to play, but be able to play. I had to or else give up eating. Costly aspect of my education, but invaluable.

It's where I formulated my temporary philosophy of eat, drink, and be merry, for tomorrow we go fight in a police action.

It's where I discovered the capriciousness of the Carolina coed. Irony: I married one. Oh, well.

It's where we stayed up all night playing poker and drinking beer and making lots of noise and disturbing Coach Earl Ruth in the next room.

It's where we hung an old red rag with a hammer and sickle on it out the window and sang the Internationale and had a lot of fun with the protesting freshmen; where, during snow-falls, the coeds take a longer and safer route to Lenoir; where we had a would-be-Dixieland combo with a ukelele, a pair of brushes and a cookie tin, and a bass-fiddle made out of a rope, a stick, and a wash-tub; where we had snowball fights with Ruffin Dorm and invariably came out ahead; where we had a five-gallon keg of green beer in the middle of the hall and anybody was welcome and nobody yet knows who paid for it; where we took our dates on top, surreptitiously of course, and had blankets, beer, and a portable and everybody had a fine, gentlemanly time; where we sunbathed on top in the stands and we could see the bell-tower, the gym, trees, the new dorms, and the ball-field all distinctly laid out like seeing an Indiana corn-field from an airplane.

Emerson Stadium is North Carolina's answer to Cannery Row. It is the non-fraternity boy's answer to the fraternity. It was my home for three turbulent, confusing, indecisive years, and I will never forget it.

And it is with misty eyes and a heavy heart that I learn that physical improvements have been made in my old home, that everybody was warm this last winter, that they've got hot water and wallpaper. For as the improvements come the philosophy departs. Yes, the spirit of Emerson is dying; an era is passing away.

"I Sure Wish You The Greatest Success"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The gyrations of the President's Secretary of State continue to amaze the President's personal staff.

It now develops that the famous denial issued by the White House, cracking John Foster Dulles over the knuckles, was issued at the behest of John Foster Dulles himself.

What happened was this: After Dulles gave a small group of newsmen certain ideas about Formosa and peace in Korea for background use only, these ideas appeared in the New York Times and other papers attributed to authoritative sources. This is the usual news-tag placed on background information.

When Dulles read these in the morning paper, he personally phoned White House press secretary Jim Hagerty and asked him to issue a denial. But Dulles did not tell Hagerty that he, Dulles, was the source of the news stories.

Hagerty complied with the request and issued the denial. He prepared an official White House statement that there was no truth in the stories.

Immediately following this amazing by-play, the State Department held a policy meeting of high-level officials at which there was considerable speculation as to who at the White House had issued the denial slapping down the Secretary of State.

"I'll bet," remarked Assistant Secretary of State Carl McCardle, "that it was that C. D. Jackson."

He referred to Ike's adviser on psychological warfare, the former publisher of Fortune Magazine.

Dulles himself said nothing. He did not reveal the fact that it was he who had asked the White House to issue the denial. But Under-secretary of State "Beetle" Smith did say something.

"I wouldn't talk like that," he cautioned McCardle. "My experience in government is that remarks like that always leak back to the man you're talking about."

The brother of the former head of the Republican National Committee called on President Eisenhower the other day to urge that civil service employees not be fired.

Ira Gabrielson, brother of ex-Charman Guy Gabrielson, served for years under the Democrats as chief of Fish and Wildlife. And he, together with spokesmen for 19 organizations, called on the President not only to urge that civil servants be protected but that public lands not be turned over to private interests.

They didn't get very far.

"Nobody believes in civil service more than I do," remarked the President. "I'm a passionate advocate of the career system. However, a new administration must have control of policy-making positions if we are to maintain the two-party system of government."

Ike earlier included representatives of the Natural Resources Council, Soil Conservation Association. Isaac Walton league, Public Affairs Institute, CIO and other groups.

Gabrielson, their spokesman, argued that top career jobs below cabinet rank are in most cases held by "qualified men, never before have been considered on the basis of politics." He pointed out that cabinet ministers in Canada are replaced by a new administration, but their top assistants, career men, remain on.

However, Eisenhower repeated that the Republicans couldn't control government policy unless there was a turnover of strategic jobs, regardless of career officials.

"The former administration created an excessive number of policy-making posts, something like 670, obviously for the purpose of raising salaries," continued Ike ,when asked where he would draw the line in firing career men. His callers took this to mean—though the President didn't say so—that all 670 are eligible for replacement.

Ike was equally unmoved by charges that a "giveaway" of our public lands to cattle and timber interests might follow the tidelands oil "giveaway." While not endorsing, or rejecting, legislation before Congress to increase the grazing rights of stockmen on public lands, the President said that stockmen had to be protected from "unjust" grazing prices.

The President pointed out that the Forest Service, which is under the Agriculture Department, and the Grazing Service, which is under the Interior Department, charge different grazing rentals. Then he asserted. "There's no justification for a man being charged one rental by one agency and a higher rental by another."

Presidential Memo

—Ham Horton—

This is a farewell. Farewells in this country have a long and rich history—starting from no less a personage than George Washington with his "Farewell Address," and going on to Lee's Farewell to his Troops"—and have never failed to elicit the proper emotions of nostalgia and buddy-buddyness. As a literary form the "Farewell" is suffering a revival ever since MacArthur changed the meaning of the word "farewell" to hello. This farewell is not that type, I promise you. At any rate I hope I have proved that I should be entitled to a "Farewell" of sorts, even if of a lesser mold, and with properly moist eyes herewith launch said to-me.

About this time last year I moved into the Student Government Office here in G.M. We hadn't even laid in a supply of postage stamps before our baptism of fire came. Remember that series of abortive "panty raids?" From that time to this it's been a hectic year but a wonderful one. Between the Saturday Class fight and the Ike vs. Adlai tiff, came the solid, satisfying things. The Book exchange policies began to straighten out, and Tarnation reappeared; Social Rooms were installed and Orientation improved.

The above can be understood. What amazed me was that committees met regularly and correspondence somehow got answered. Somehow in spite of dark mutterings, whispers and groans, the wheels of government kept turning—and in many cases gained speed.

All in all, I wouldn't take anything for the opportunity and honor you gave me of holding the Presidency this year. When you have the feeling of doing something important and constructive, and have coupled with that the plain fun of just being here at Chapel Hill you have a combination that can't be beat.

Bob Gorham is the new President. Let me thank each one of you who helped us in any way this past year and at the same time ask that you give Bob the same support you gave me. Student Government deserves every bit of the support you can give it: Carolina is recognized as the leader in the entire nation in student government, and we don't want to lose that rank.

Jim McLeod and Ed Gross join me in thanking you for the opportunity of serving you this past year and especially would like to thank the Dean of Students office for much clerical help and advice, the GM staff for their many services, The Daily Tar Heel and Louis Kraar especially for keeping you informed, and such folks as Sol Cherry, Phin Horton, Jim Adams, Martin Jordan, Allen Tate, Jack Stillwell, Ginny Hall and the others who actually kept the cogs and wheels going round. Sometimes we think they did the work while we had the fun.

Pulque

—John Gibson—

Today let's talk about the theory behind the honor system. The honor system suffers from the same kinds of problems that plague any democratic system. Because of the safeguards built in to prober of students who do indeed cheat are able to "get away" with behavior which is actually inconsistent with the real meaning of the system. Thus the communist spy in America is often able to hide behind the constitutional guarantees provided, originally, to protect the country. And the small number of students who do indeed cheta are able to hide behind the honor code in many cases. As far as the honor code goes, this is due to a misunderstanding of what the system is, ideally and practically.

Basically the honor system is a student judicial system in which the rules of the University are enforced largely by the students instead of the faculty and administration. In several studies it has proven to be the most effective system, largely because it has been found that students are usually more severe in their judgment and punishment of each other than are faculty and staff members. Also, because the student has a very real stake in the proper working of the system, he will, or should, give it a greater support than a faculty member who really is less involved.

There are, however, a couple of rather difficult paradoxes involved in the honor system. If, as the honor code does, it is assumed that all students tell the truth and do not lie, then why should there be agencies to discover and punish violators. "If," says the student, "we are trusted, then why should we check up on each other." Faculty members who take reasonable steps to avoid the possibilities of cheating are accused of not believing in the system. The fact is, however, there is cheating, honor system or no. The student who says "you should not watch me because you trust me," can well be answered, "since you are not cheating, you should not object to being watched." Those who enforce the honor system, then, have the rather difficult job of reconciling the theory; that all students are honest, with the fact; that a few students cheat.

There is something else that bothers me about the honor code. Does the fact that we specifically request a statement of truth (the pledge) mean that without it the student is free to cheat? Is it assumed on campuses without the honor system that students are free to cheat? No, I do not think so. At Carolina, for example, a student who cheats on a paper is just as guilty if the pledge is not signed. The pledge serves primarily as a reminder of the obligation under the code. Yet in everyday life we do not ask for a pledge for every promise made to us. The basic honesty of the individual is assumed. This assumption, correct or not, is the backbone of the democratic system.

It seems to me, then, that often at Carolina we dwell too much on the "Honor" aspects of the system, (when actually the integrity of the individual might be assumed), and too little on the "system" aspects of it. The factor that is most significant about the arrangement at Carolina is not that students are assumed honest, until proven otherwise, but that they are given the authority and responsibility to enforce the rules of the school, only one of which is "telling the truth."

Nine Wins In 10th, 6-5; Netters Skunk Amherst, 9-0

Keller, Dale, Henning Star For Carolina

By John Hussey

Bob Henning's single in the tenth inning brought in the winning run and put the finishing touches on a wild baseball game that had the lead change five times. A 6-5 victory over Wake Forest, it gave the Tar Heels their tenth win of the season and their fourth Big Four conquest.

Ken Keller and Fred Dale provided the big guns for the home team as each picked up three hits in five trips and both collected two triples. Both of them tripled in the tenth inning to tie the score and set the stage for Henning's game winning single to center with two out and the bases full.

Bill Lore started the game for Carolina but was relieved in favor of Don Marbry in the tenth. Marbry got credit for the win.

The Tar Heel hitters pounded two Deacon pitchers for a total of 14 blows. Lore and Wayne White each gained two to take honors behind Keller and Dale.

Batting star for Wake Forest was Jack Liptak who had three for four, including a double in the all-important tenth inning.

The Tar Heels still have games remaining with Duke and N. C. State before their season will be finished. Duke was leading the Big Four before its game with State yesterday with a 4-2 record as compared to the 4-3 of the Tar Heels. However, Carolina is still on top of the southern division of the Southern Conference with a 10-3 record.

The box:

Wake Forest	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Signore, 2b	5	0	2	5	0	0
Harris, ss	5	1	1	2	1	2
Brown, lf	5	0	0	3	0	0
McKeel, cf	4	1	0	2	0	0
Smith, 1b	4	0	1	8	0	0
Floyd, 3b	4	0	0	1	3	0
Holt, rf	4	0	1	1	0	1
Liptak, c	4	3	3	7	2	0
Brown, p	4	0	2	0	2	0
Quinn, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	39	5	10	29	8	3

Carolina	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Lloyd, 2b	5	1	1	0	4	0
Dale, ss	5	2	3	2	2	0
Keller, rf	5	0	3	1	1	0
White, lf	5	0	2	4	0	1
Williams, 3b	5	2	1	3	2	1
Gravitte, cf	4	0	0	1	0	0
Hooks, c	5	0	1	4	0	1
Henning, 1b	5	0	1	14	1	0
Lore, p	4	1	2	1	5	0
Marbry, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
a-Frye	0	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	43	6	14	30	15	3

a—Walked for Gravitte in 10th.

Wake Forest	001	200	010	1—5
North Carolina	002	110	000	2—6

Runs batted in: Brown 2, McKeel, Smith, Signore, Dale, Keller 3, Hooks, Henning. Two base hits: Brown, Liptak, Hooks. Three base hits: Smith, Dale 2, Keller 2. Base on balls—off: Brown 1, Quinn 2. Struck out—by: Brown 2, Lore 4. Hits—off: Brown 13 in 9 1/3; Quinn 1 in 1/3; Lore 8 in 8 1/3; Marbry 2 in 1 2/3. Wild pitch: Brown. Passed ball: Hooks. Losing pitcher: Brown. Winning pitcher: Marbry. Time: 2:20. Umpires: Smith, Vanderhorf.

BUNN HEARN AND WALT RABB
. . . Carolina Coaches

Tar Heels Meet Virginia Away In Non-Conference Dual Meet

By Sherwood Smith

The Carolina track team left yesterday for Charlottesville, Va. for their meet this afternoon with the University of Virginia. The Tar Heels are expected to stage a comeback after last Saturday's loss to the Duke Blue Devils, and Carolina is rated to cop a win over the Cavaliers.

The leading Carolina contenders will be Sonny Beall, Bobby Bell, and Bill Cornell in the hurdles, Roger Morris in the shot put, Bobby Barden in the mile run, Sam Jordon and Haire in the high jump, Tom McAllister in the discus, Marcinko in the javelin, Newman in the 880 yard run, Bill Duke in the pole vault, and Charlie Yarborough in the broad jump.

Yarborough has been out for the past few meets and his return to the team should strengthen the Tar Heel chances of a victory.

Carolina, with a three and three record thus far for the season, has only one more meet, after the one this afternoon remaining before the Southern Conference Outdoor Games. The Games this year are to be held at Davidson on May 16 and 17. The remaining dual meet is scheduled with the University of Pennsylvania on May 9. It will be held here at Chapel Hill and will be the last home appearance for the Tar Heel trackmen.

Carolina, although not performing as well as was originally expected before the start of the season, has made a creditable record. Coaches Dale Ransom and Joe Hilton have brought the team through in fine style. The mid-season loss of sprinters Jeff Newton and Harry Brown, who suffered pulled leg muscles in the Princeton meet, plus the loss of star broad jumper Charlie Yarborough, who has been out with a twisted ankle, sorely weakened the Carolina team in the Princeton, Maryland, and Duke meets.

Conner Dorm Wins Chess Tournament By 6½-1½

Seymoure Geisser and Joe Levin of Conner Dormitory won the campus chess championship by a score of 6½-1½. There was a tie between Cobb and Old East for second place by identical scores of 5½-2½ to finish one point behind Conner. Malcolm Clark and Jim Crews played for Cobb, while Earnest Brown and Steve Couley made up the team for Old East.

The best record for a first board player went to Seymoure Geisser of Conner, who was the only player to win all four of his games for a 4-0 score. Earnest Brown had the best record on second board by winning three games and drawing only one for a 3½-½ score.

Water Safety

Classes in water safety instruction begin today at 4 o'clock in Bowman Gray pool at Woollen Gym.

Scheer Leaves

Julian Scheer, assistant sports publicist at Carolina, has announced his resignation as of June 30. Scheer is a graduate of the university and took his present position in 1949.

He has no immediate plans.

In The Majors

National League

St. Louis at Pittsburgh, rain.
Cincinnati at New York, rain.
Chicago at Philadelphia, rain.
Milwaukee at Brooklyn, rain.

American League

Washington 14, Detroit 4.
New York at Cleveland, night.
Boston at Chicago, night.
Philadelphia at St. Louis, night.

Hansen Picked On All-Marine Football Team

QUANTICO, Va. — (Special) — All-American tackle Cpl. Roscoe Hansen, 23, added All-Marine laurels to his list of awards at ceremonies at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va., where he is presently stationed. Leatherneck Magazine selected the big lineman to their All-Marine defensive team for his stellar play on last year's Parris Island team.

Hansen, who hails from Atlantic City, New Jersey, was a member of the powerful University of North Carolina football teams from 1947 to 1950; and was selected to many All-American teams upon being graduated from the Chapel Hill college. He then played one year with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Professional Football League before entering the Marine Corps.

Aycock Pitches Jayvee Victory

Pitcher Charlie Aycock defeated Wake Forest, 6-2, away today for his fourth straight win without a loss. Aycock held the Deacs to five hits while his teammates collected 11 for him.

Score by innings:				R.
Carolina	101	030	100	—6
Wake Forest	000	000	002	—2

Wet Courts Send Tennis Team To Girl's School For Match

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass., May 5.—(Special)—Carolina's tennis team skunked Amherst College, 9-0, here today before a full gallery of Mt. Holyhoke College girls.

The match was transferred from Amherst to here because of wet courts and was delayed by rain. The Tar Heels were forced to play on asphalt courts for the second straight day.

Herb Browne's singles match in number one spot was again the best one of the day. Browne beat Barret Schleicher, 7-5, 6-3.

The tennis team plays Harvard University at Cambridge, Mass. today in the fourth match of its road trip.

Tommy Bradford and Don Thompson defeated David Mescer and Schleicher in first doubles in the longest match, 3-6, 7-5, 11-9.

The win was Carolina's 20th consecutive.

Team captain Del Sylvia rejoins the team in Boston tomorrow after attending a family funeral.

The summaries:

Singles — Browne (UNC) over Schleicher, 7-5, 6-3; Bradford (UNC) over Sherwood, 6-1, 6-0; Thompson (UNC) over Mescer, 6-2, 6-4; Payne (UNC) over Townsend, 6-2, 6-4; Handel (UNC) over Wheeler, 6-0, 6-4; Green over Hicks, 6-4, 6-1.

Doubles—Bradford and Thompson (UNC) over Mescer and Schleicher, 3-6, 7-5, 11-9. Browne and Payne (UNC) over Sherwood and Townsend, 6-4, 6-1; Gustafson and Kerdasha (UNC) over Plimpton and Wheeler, 6-1, 8-6.

MURALS

Today's Tennis

5:00—Conner vs. Med School-4; ATO vs. Zetes-2.

Today's Softball

4:00—SAE-1 vs. Phi Kappa Psi.
5:00—Sigma Nu-3 vs. Pi Lambda.

Big four tryouts will continue for the rest of this week at assigned times.

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

WIN A FREE CASE of BEER

By scoring the correct outcome of TODAY'S BOXING BOUT ON TV in the RATHSKELLER at 9 P.M. every Wednesday

And Remember: EVERY THURSDAY is "all you can eat spaghetti and meatball night" with beer for 99¢

SPECIAL PURCHASE
SPECIAL GROUP FAMOUS MAKE
Swim & Play SHORTS only $2.95
Values to $5.95
Be sure to come in early—because these swim & play shorts will sell fast at these greatly reduced prices.
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

GOBS OF SONGS! OCEANS OF MOONLIGHT ROMANCES!
Technicolor

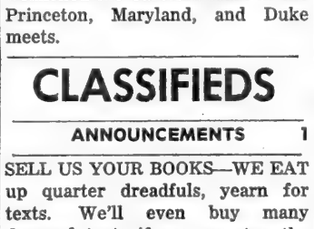
COLUMBIA PICTURES presents ALL ASHORE filmed on world-famed CATALINA ISLAND
starring MICKEY ROONEY ☆ DICK HAYMES PEGGY RYAN ☆ RAY McDONALD with Barbara Bates · Jody Lawrance
Screen Play by BLAKE EDWARDS and RICHARD QUINE
Produced by JONIE TAPS · Directed by RICHARD QUINE
Now Playing Varsity

FOR A TASTY TREAT

Take time out for relaxation and drive out to Dairyland for a quick pick-up. Enjoy one of our taste-tempting ice cream dishes . . . in 20 appetizing flavors.

DELICIOUS FRESHLY MADE SANDWICHES
PREMIUM ICE CREAM MADE IN OUR OWN PLANT

Dairyland Farms Inc.
The Home of Fine Ice Cream
GLEN LENNOX
"The Most Beautiful Dairy Bar In The South"



DON'T FORGET . . .
MOTHER'S DAY . . .
MAY 10 . . .

When you choose a gift, choose the finest. Come in today and let us help you select a camera for your Mother's Day gift.

Show her you remembered by choosing that extra-special gift now.

FOISTER'S CAMERA STORE
OPEN SUNDAY AFTERNOONS

GIVE BOOKS FOR MOTHER'S DAY
We Suggest
FLOWERS OF THE SOUTH
by Greene and Blomguist
$5.00
ELIZABETH AND PHILIP
coronation year reading
$3.50
MEMORIES OF AN OLD TAR HEEL
$1.00
A ZIPPY MOTHER'S DAY CARD
25c
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

The very best for MOTHER'S DAY
Whitman's CHOCOLATES

THE FAMOUS SAMPLER The finest box of chocolates in the world.
1 lb. $2.00 2 lbs. $4.00
SUNDAY is MOTHER'S DAY
WE PACK AND MAIL
EUBANKS DRUG CO.

Campus capers call for Coke

It depends on the point of view, of course, but almost everyone enjoys these antics. And when there's a quick need for refreshment . . . have a Coke!
DRINK Coca-Cola
Durham Coca-Cola Bottling Company
"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Woman's Glee Club

The Woman's Glee Club will meet today and tomorrow at 4:30 p.m. in Hill Hall.

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2307 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill.—Adv.

Clown Tryouts

Tryouts for clown on the cheering squad will be held Thursday at 4 p.m. in Kenan Stadium. Singles and team acts acceptable. Tumbling not required but preferred.

The ORIENTAL

Air-Conditioned
CHINESE & AMERICAN
Open Daily 11-9:45
Sunday 12-9:45
116 E. Parrish St., Durham

THAT "BITTER RICE" SENSATION
SILVANA MANGANO
Anna
with VITTORIO GASSMAN

LAST TIMES TODAY
CAROLINA THEATRE

THIS WEEK'S SPECIAL

FRESH STRAWBERRY
SUNDAE ---------- 29¢

DAIRYLAND FARMS
GLEN LENNOX

Stationery—Books—Greeting Cards—Gift Shop
Esterbrook Pens—Picture Frames and Picture Framing

Thomas Book Store

Cor. Corcoran & Chapel Hill Sts., Durham
Phone J-2331
L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters—Desk Pads
Shaeffer Pens—Kodaks & Supplies—Desk Lamps
Expert Repair on all makes of Typewriters

DON'T FORGET MOTHER ON MOTHER'S DAY

MOTHER'S DAY SPECIALS

For Women

- Gloves & Jewelry
- Umbrellas
- Blouses
- Slips
- Gowns
- Pajamas
- Martha Manning Dresses
- Coats
- Suits
- Uniforms
- Shoes
- Bathrobes
- Housecoats
- Hose

Fabrics

- Chintzes
- Plain Printed Rayon
- Taffetas
- Upholstery
- Drapery Fabrics
- Woolen Dress Fabrics
- Denim
- Terrycloth
- Burlap
- Sheeting
- Indianhead
- Prints
- Toweling

- Outing
- Feather Ticking
- Plastic

For The House

- Blankets
- Sheets—$1.98 up
- Pillows—Foam Rubber
- Pillow Cases—59c up
- Table Cloths
- Samson Card Tables —were $6.95. discontinued numbers now $5.95.
- Hawkeye Laundry Hampers
- Rugs
- Shower Curtains $1.78 up
- Curtains
- Bates Spreads
- Window Shades

Miscellaneous

- Bowls
- Candlesticks
- Samsonite Luggage
- Shoe Bags
- Laundry Bags
- Towel Sets
- Laundry Mailing Case

Gifts Bought At Berman's Wrapped Free

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY

—Election—

(Continued from page 1)

list. In 1949 J. A. Jones, a Negro, polled 607 votes out of approximately 1,400 cast and in 1951 Fred Edwards, also a Negro, got 493 out of 1,118 cast.

During Dr. Frank Graham's tenure as University president Robinson served him as general handyman, butler and chauffer. Since Dr. Graham's resignation, Robinson has served the University as janitor and custodian at Morehead Planetarium. He has two sons who are graduates of A & T College and another now serving in the Marine Corps.

Wager has been a Democratic precinct chairman in Chapel Hill for many years and has served on a number of civic and municipal committees, including the town Planning Board. Putnam has been active in the Jaycees and in other civic activities.

Awards To Be Presented At Law Banquet

The Law School Association will close this year's activities with an Awards' Day Banquet tomorrow night in Lenoir Hall.

The program will begin at 6:30 p.m. preceded by a reception for all law students, faculty and guests sponsored by Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity.

A short skit, the Ralph Cambron production of "A Streetcar Named Demurrer" will be presented. Faculty entertainment of some kind is anticipated. There will be no featured speaker.

Dean Henry P. Brandis, Jr., will present the awards. This year marks the first presentation of the Walter Clark Award, consisting of two volumes of the papers of the late North Carolina Supreme Court jurist, to the five law seniors with the highest scholastic averages.

Law Review certificates will be given to those third-year students who have had articles published in the North Carolina Law Review. Books will be presented to students making the highest grade in each course. The winners of the first year law club arguments will receive West Publishing Company awards.

—Pulitzer—

(Continued from page 1)

month.

The other Carolina man, Royster, wrote columns for The Daily Tar Heel and was an English major at the University. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and graduated in 1935.

Royster served in the Navy during World War II, attaining the rank of Lt. Commander. His present Wall Street Journal editorial series deals with everything from prize fights to politics.

Greenhouse Is Most Complete In 10 Years

(Continued from page 1)

dens or lawns of unwanted plants. Also he has invented a machine with which he can regulate the length of the day for research in the effects of the day and night in the behavior of plants tested with the machine. Through research in the greenhouse it was first discovered that maleic hydrazide inhibits cell division and therefore regulates the size of growing plants.

According to Dr. Wood the greenhouse is the most complete it has been since it was built ten years ago. The old type wooden benches, susceptible to decay, were replaced with more durable, metal supported sidings in January. New bins for the various types of soils necessary for potting the plants have been built of brick. The building is maintained entirely by the department.

Work in the greenhouse and in the botany laboratories is facilitated by an herbarium—a file in Davie Hall containing 100,000 specimens, dried and mounted in folders. This file aids in the classification and naming of plants. The Botany Library contains 7,000 volumes and 21,500 government pamphlets.

One purpose of a botany course is to show the student the relationship between his, the animal kingdom, and the plant kingdom, said Dr. Wood. And he illustrated this relationship and dependence of one upon the other by telling about the Carolina wren which flew into the greenhouse a couple of years ago, built her nest in a tropical fern and hatched her young unmolested.

WUNC Schedule

7 p.m.—Holland Calling.
7:15—The U.N. Story.
7:30—Carolina Sports Review.
7:45—Famous Belgians.
8—N. C. Symphony Orchestra.
9—N. C. Symphony Orchestra.
9:30—Concert Favorites.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.

Mother's Day Cards for Zippy Mothers—

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

Open Evenings

THE UNICORN BOOKSHOP

IS ONE YEAR OLD TODAY
Come and see our good buys
MYSTERIES ---------- .05 to .24
JUVENILE FICTION ---------- 50% OFF
Over Suttons Dial 9-6173

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY— Sutton's

There's no question about it: Chukkers, Indo-China and Indian Club answer the quiz . . . and there's no question about the wonderful selection of gifts at SUTTON'S DRUG STORE. We're the best in town . . . so purchase your Mother's gift here.

THE TARHEEL'S DRUG CENTER — Sutton's DRUG STORE — Be Sutton's
COSMETICS—MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE—JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

CLARK'S

Sewing Machines and Kirby Vacuum Cleaners

We Pay Cash for Good Used Sewing Machines
Repairs on All Makes of Machines
19 Years of Experience

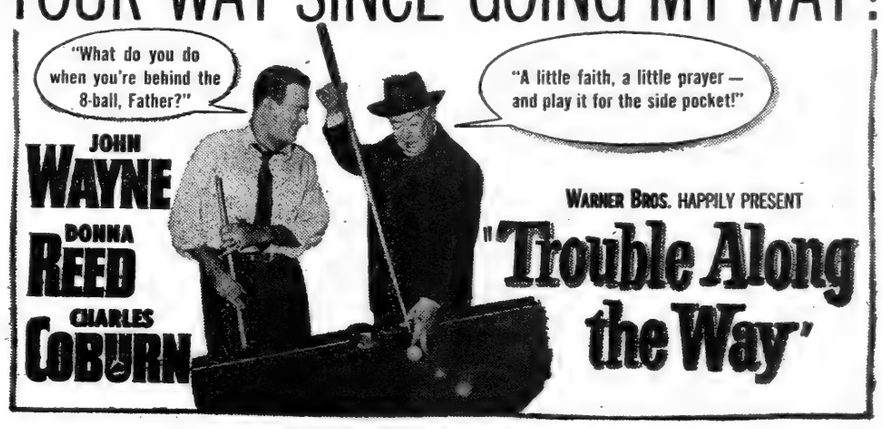
J. W. CLARK, Manager

Call 9-5708

JUST RECEIVED

ANOTHER SHIPMENT
of those popular
REGULAR STYLE
DENIM
SLACKS
$3.95
Faded Blue—Charcoal and Sage

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.



And our secret to that magic touch is experience . . . plus the fine servicing of PURE OIL products. The cost is little, the service is fast. Drive in today. Let us perform wonders for your car.

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR

POE MOTOR CO.

112 W. Franklin
DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

SOON! THE BEST FUN TO COME YOUR WAY SINCE 'GOING MY WAY'!

Carolina

LATE SHOW SATURDAY NIGHT
SUNDAY — MONDAY

Stock up on these

Try these for a tasty treat—

- CHEESE AND CHEESE SPREADS
- HOT DOG & HAMBURGER ROLLS
- OLIVES AND PICKLES
- POTATO CHIPS & PRETZELS
- SOFT AND MALT BEVERAGES
- COMPLETE LINE OF CAKES AND COOKIES
- RELISHES

FOWLER'S FOOD STORE

WEST FRANKLIN STREET PHONE 1416

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
6-31-49

WEATHER
Cooler with possible showers, 78 high. Yesterday's high and low, 85 and 65.

The Daily Tar Heel

SSA
More initials, but the editor's against these. Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 145 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. | THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER, speaking through a team of top government officials, has asked Congress to appropriate approximately $5,800,000,000 for the foreign aid program during fiscal 1954. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles (seated, center), Defense Secretary Charles Wilson (standing, left) and Mutual Security Administrator Harold Stassen (standing, right) were among the administration officials who presented the request to a joint session of the House and Senate Foreign committees. They are shown here with Sen. Alexander Wiley, Chairman of the Senate Committee, and House Chairman Rep. Robert Chiperfield.—NEA Telephoto.

Gorham Says Positions Open

"As I said when I began my campaign, there is a place for everyone in student government," Student Body President Bob Gorham said yesterday as a reminder that he wants to talk to interested students.

Gorham said that in making the appointments he wants to get people who are most interested. He added that he will also emphasize capability and fairness.

"Student government is not a closed corporation of people who spend all their time in Graham Memorial and nowhere else," Gorham said.

Gorham said that there are openings to be filled on all committees and that those positions are wide open.

He re-emphasized the fact that he wants students regardless of party affiliation to come by his office any afternoon in the week from 2 to 5 o'clock.

JACKIE BROOKS

Jackie Brooks Is New Editor Of Tarnation

The appointment of Jackie Brooks as editor of next year's Tarnation was made last week.

Miss Brooks, who served as managing editor this year, said there is a need for writers and artists for the publication and a meeting would be announced in the near future for all interested persons.

Rollie Tillman, defeated UP candidate for Yack editor, will be managing editor. Art Einstein, Stan Smith and Jerry McMahon will serve as associate editors.

"The Tarnation made strides this year," Miss Brooks said, "and, despite all rumors to the contrary, made a small profit on the financial end of things. We are looking forward to a better Tarnation next year, but that cannot be realized unless we get the support from the student body. The subscriptions will be on sale in the registration line next fall and, as always, any contributions, artistic or literary, as well as help in the office, are always appreciated."

CAMPUS SEEN

British delegate after Model UN meeting Friday night: "Let's go down to the 'Rat' and celebrate the coronation."

•

Ex-president Ham Horton shedding dignity of office by shedding shoes during campus strolls.

•

Three brave and slightly green-faced souls finishing soda fountain's 15 scoop special and not having to pay.

Dr. Henderson Talks Before Phi Eta Sigma

Dr. Archibald Henderson, retired Professor of Mathematics of the University, eminent traveler and educator, and official biographer of George Bernard Shaw, was the featured speaker at the annual tri-chapter banquet of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honor fraternity.

Carolina, State, and Duke were represented at the banquet, held Tuesday night at the Monogram Club.

Dr. Henderson spoke upon the topic of scholarship. To it, he related personal associations with the world's elite of the literary, dramatic and educational world.

Dr. Henderson tied in "success" with the general theme of scholarship. He pointed out that success is often due to a combination of two factors, mentioning truth and beauty, science and the arts, and education and religion. Personally, he said, he has always sought a union of sciences and the arts.

Seniors May Get Invitations

Senior invitations have arrived and can be picked up today and tomorrow.

A Grail representative will be in the APO room in the upstairs of the YMCA from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. today and 9 a.m. to 2 p.m tomorrow to distribute them. Extra invitations and calling cards can be bought at this time. The prices for invitations are: genuine leather, 75 cents each; imitation leather, 65 cents; cardboard, 35 cents; and plain sheet announcements, 20 cents each, three for 50 cents, or six for $1.00.

Installation Of Officers Features Dr. Boyd, Music

Installation of the new YWCA officers and cabinet will take place during a candlelight service tonight in Gerrard Hall at 7 o'clock. Everyone is invited.

Following the installation by Anna Beason, former Y president, Dr. Bernard Boyd will give an inspirational talk. The music program includes "The Lord's Prayer" sung by Charlie Kim, Guion's "Prayer" by Nancy Murray.

Faculty Group To Pick 1953 Alumnus, Alumna

Mr. Alumnus and Miss Alumna—1953 style—will grace the stage of Memorial Hall for the first time in Carolina history on Monday night, May 18 at the intermission of the Tex Beneke concert.

Chosen for their outstanding contributions to student life and campus welfare, Mr. Alumnus and Miss Alumna will be picked from the Senior Class, Steve Perrow, Social Chairman said yesterday. The Mr. and Miss selections are the latest addition to an ambitious Senior Week program which starts next Monday.

Perrow said Dean of Awards Ernest L. Mackie will head a faculty committee partly consisting of representatives from the undergraduate schools, including Dean Clifford P. Lyons, Arts and Sciences; Walter Spearman of the School of Journalism; Dean E. A. Brecht of the School of Pharmacy; Dean Thomas H. Carroll of the School of Business Administration; Dean Guy B. Phillips of the School of Education; Dean of Students Fred H. Weaver, and Dean of Women Katherine K. Carmichael.

Particularly significant is the award to the outstanding coed to be dubbed Miss Alumna, Perrow pointed out. The awardees will be given special certificates by the General Alumni Association.

The awards will be made in conjunction with a campaign for seniors to join the General Alumni Association. Booths will be set up in the Y starting next week.

Joint Glee Club Concert Will Be Sunday At 8:30

The annual spring concert of the University Glee Clubs will take place Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock in Hill Hall.

Prof. Joel Carter of the Music Department will conduct and there will be a number of student soloists and accompanists. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

The program will feature a considerable variety of works. For the first half the Women's Glee Club will give a selection of numbers from the Pergolesi "Stabat Mater," followed by the Faure "Requiem" in its entirety by the combined choruses.

A number of shorter works by the separate Glee Clubs as well as the combined groups will feature the second half, and will include sacred, folk and patriotic songs.

Included are "The Testament of Freedom" by Randall Thompson setting words of Thomas Jefferson, "The Twenty-Third Psalm" in a setting by Herbert Fromm, and such folk favorites as "Shortnin' Bread," "Were You There?" and "The Foggy Foggy Dew."

The program concludes with a Bach Chorale, "Rejoice ye Christians Loudly," and the Leisring-Glarum "God of All Nations."

Several soloists will be featured in the various selections. Nora Jane Rumph and William J. Chance, both junior music majors, will be heard in the solo parts of the Faure "Requiem." Martha Heygel, Jane Reese, Katherine Jente, William Whitesides and Wade Williams will also have solos in other numbers.

Accompanists for the concert are Patricia Aydlett, Hunter Tillman, Thomas Sibley and George Thomas, pianists, and Dowd Davis, organist.

Negotiator Says Talks Have Made No Progress

PANMUNJOM—A U.N. truce negotiator yesterday said "zero" progress had been made toward a Korean armistice after the Reds rejected a proposal to free 32,000 North Korean prisoners who refuse to go home after a truce is signed.

The Reds again ignored the Allied nomination of Pakistan as neutral custodian of 48,500 prisoners who refuse to return to their Communist homelands.

Marine Society Installs Officers Tonight At 7:30

Dr. Bernard Boyd, professor of religion, will deliver the inaugural address to an open meeting of the Semper Fidelis Society tonight at 7:30 in the Naval Armory in a program featuring the installation of next year's officers.

Major Frank C. Caldwell, Marine Officer-Instructor for the NROTC unit here, will administer the oath of office.

The Society, whose eligible members include all Marine officer candidates, reservists, and veterans, was formed last fall, the first of what may become a national organization. Already similar groups exist at Duke, Illinois, Southern California, and possibly Georgia Tech.

May Program Sunday; Marshals Are Named

For the May Day program Sunday afternoon at 2:30 on the side lawn of McIver, these people have been elected marshals:

Marilyn Habel, Sandra Wright, Mary Frances Allsbrook, Sue Ambler, Jane Goslyn, Virginia Whiteman, Gray Bullock, Celia Brown, Jan Winders, and Peg Hall.

MAY QUEEN SARALYN BONOWITZ (front row, third from left), will be crowned on Sunday afternoon at May Day festivities on the side lawn of McIver dorm. She is shown above with her attendants, (front row left to right), Dot Smith, Maid Of Honor Carman Nahm, Miss Bonowitz and Virginia Wilson. Second row, Dee Breslow, Pepper Stetson, Anne Sory, Grace Gordon, Bev Chalk and Jayne Adams.

Blossom The 'Possum's Visit To Dentist Delights Small Fry

Blossom, the 'possum went to the dentist the other day. And the excitement he created in the University's new School of Dentistry would have put Mary's Little Lamb to shame.

Just as Mary's Little Lamb did not go to school for an education, so Blossom didn't go to the dentist to have dental work done. He merely followed (or, more aptly, was carried) by his young master, Richard Anderson, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred F. Anderson of Chapel Hill.

Young Richard was having some work done—or was about to — when Blossom started squirming around in his shirt front. About that time Henry Lineberger Jr., third-year dental student from Raleigh, decided to see what was going on under the apron (or bib) he had just placed around his patient's neck.

To his surprise and to the delight of the other children in the clinic, out jumped Blossom, a furry bundle of life.

Blossom quickly took over the entire school, toured the building, visited the dean and was scampering over the clinic at the last report, amusing himself while young Richard got his teeth filled.

Where did Blossom come from?

Last week as Richard was going home following a dental appointment he found the baby 'possum near Whitehead dormitory. Richard took possession and Blossom has been his steady companion ever since—at home, at school, and even at the dentist.

'Treasure Of Sierra Madre' Shows Gold's Effect On Men

"Treasure of the Sierra Madre," a movie of three men and the gold they mine, is the "taking off of layer after layer of what we protect ourselves with," Sociologist Reuben Hill said Tuesday night.

And "with the gradual unfolding, we see all the crass, raw material human beings are made of," Dr. Hill continued.

Dr. Hill was the discussion leader for the last of the YMCA-Hillel Foundation film forums to be held this quarter. The series is expected to begin again next fall. Shown free, the movies are of the psychological type which permit analysis and discussion by the group and its leader.

More than 300 filled downstairs Gerrard Hall and overflowed into the balcony for Tuesday's film but only 43 remained for the discussion afterwards.

Dr. Hill pointed out "Treasure of the Sierra Madre" has interdependent themes of man and Nature, "people living close to their environment."

The film is the story of Humphrey Bogart of Tim Holt, two drifters, and the late Walter Huston, a veteran prospector. The trio unites in Tampico, Mexico and then the story unravels to show the effect of gold on each personality.

Dr. Hill's mother, Mrs. Mary Theresa Hill who is visiting him, spent her childhood in Mexico. She made several comments on the setting of the movie. Dr. Hill agreed with a student who suggested "the vagaries of the script writer" caused the picture not "to run true to human character all the time."

One observer wanted to know the background of the author, Bruno Traven. Dr. Hill called on Dr. Sturgis Leavitt, Kenan professor of Spanish, to help him out. Dr. Leavitt said Traven was a pseudonym for Borick Traven Tarsvan Tarsvan, a Chicago-born American who had lived in Mexico since 1913. Few, not even his publishers, have ever seen Traven, according to Dr. Leavitt.

An account in Newsweek magazine last Spring said that during the filming of "Treasure of the Sierra Madre" a man approached director John Huston and identified himself as Trevan's secretary. The man made several "wild suggestions" about filming the book, and Huston believed him to be Traven concealing his identity because "in contact with people (he) disintegrates and becomes ridiculous."

Student Party Names Fall Semester Officers

The Student Party elected new officers for the fall semester at its meeting Monday night. They are: Gene Cook, chairman; Don Geiger, vice-chairman; Jane Bolmeier, clerk; Jim Turner, treasurer; Charles Katzenstein, sergeant-at-arms; and Charlie Wolf, program chairman.

The four members of the advisory board will be Walt Gurley, Lew Southern, Manning Muntzing and Gordon Forester.

Budget Bill Up Tonight For Solons

Student lawmakers meet tonight in Phi Hall to provide The Daily Tar Heel with its appropriation and give their stamp of approval to President Gorham's Orientation Committee.

The budget was passed for the coming year last week, without the newspaper appropriation. Legislators said they wanted to investigate the situation before approving the grant.

Since then a committee of legislators met with the Publications Board and was briefed on policies.

The appropriation, in the form of a bill, is identical to the one provided for in the budget.

President Bob Gorham's newly appointed Orientation Committee hasn't been announced yet. However, the list of ten men and five women will be up for legislative approval tonight:

Gorham announced yesterday that Tom Creasy is new Orientation Chairman.

The switch to semester system prompted introduction of a bill last week which would revise elections laws to meet the new system. This bill will probably be acted upon tonight also.

Another reason for revisions, according to the bill, is that "there are many modifications and improvements that should be made."

Indications yesterday were that chronic absentees in the Legislature would be ousted in the near future. Legislators can't miss more than one meeting without an excuse.

Tonight's meeting will be the second for 26 legislators, 13 from each party. Apparently, the Student Party still has a working majority.

Pawlik Chosen Candidate For Arnold Award

Harry Pawlik, an outstanding member of the Air Force ROTC, is one of three students at institutions in the South being considered for the Arnold Memorial Scholarship.

The scholarship, a grant from the Arnold Air Society, national military honor fraternity, is awarded to one student in the area that embraces states from Virginia to Louisiana.

Pawlik, who has maintained a good record here, scholastically, athletically, and in extra-curricular activities, spent the early days of his life in concentration samps in Austria, Czechslovakia, and Germany.

He was liberated when he was 14 by Polish soldiers of the Third Army, who took him along as their mascot. He volunteered, and served with the 11th Division, as it moved through the closing campaigns of the war in Europe. He performed duties as an interpreter of Polish, German and English, during his period of duty with the U. S. Army.

After the war, in 1947, Cadet Pawlik came to the United States as the ward of Lt. Raymond C. Carpenter of Albemarle. Despite the fact that he had no previous formal education, Pawlik entered high school, made an outstanding record, and was graduated in 1950.

At Carolina he has been an outstanding self-help student; a good athlete; he has been president of the Monogram Club, co-captain of the soccer team, and a varsity wrestler for three years.

Others considered for the same scholarship are Tilden R. Schofield of the University of Miami, and Donovan L. Pontiff of Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

Wake Forest Students Elect New Officers

Gene Boyce of Raleigh has been elected president of the Wake Forest College student body for 1953-54, defeating Ken Bridges of Shelby.

John Blackwell of Fayetteville was named vice president, Pat Alphin of Raleigh was named secretary, and Jim Greene of Asheville was elected treasurer.

Child's 'Smearing' Started New Venture

Founder Of Finger-Painting Opens Exhibit In Morehead

By George D. Boozer

Probably one of the most interesting art exhibits ever featured at the Morehead Building opened this week when the works of Ruth Faison Shaw were put on display.

Miss Shaw, who is called the founder of finger-painting, has placed at the University about 25 of her most noted paintings.

A native of Duplin County and the daughter of a Presbyterian minister, Miss Shaw first began experimenting with finger painting at her American and English School for Children in Rome in 1929.

"It all began, in the most natural way in the world, with a little boy at the school who smeared the bathroom wall with iodine," Miss Shaw explained. "All the children seemed to like to 'smear' with their hands in a way of having fun and learning, so I went about the task of compounding a suitable medium with which they could smear to their heart's content without damaging results. The first finger-paint was made at this school, and the technique was developed as a joint adventure of teacher and pupils."

Finger-painting was soon recognized by educators throughout the world because of its creativeness and simple form as an important contribution to child development and now has a secure place in the school art program.

The exhibit was brought to Chapel Hill through the efforts of Mrs. John Foushee, well known Chapel Hill artist and friend of Miss Shaw's.

Miss Shaw points out in her recent book, "Finger-Painting and How to Do It," that "finger-painting is not, nor does it purport to be, a short cut to other types of painting—art without tears, as it may be. It has many practical applications to decoration and handicrafts. The principles of color, design, and perspective are the same in this as in the more sophisticated types of painting, and they can be readily demonstrated and grasped through this medium by those who lack formal art training."

The talented "inventor" has given lecture-demonstration and exhibitions of this engaging art in Rome, Nice, at the Sorbonne and Trocadero School in Paris, and many noted galleries and schools in this country. Miss Shaw's paintings clearly show a flow of creativeness in rhythm and texture by an artist whose feeling for art comes from imagination and experience rather than a conventional art education. Her work is a challenge to all amateurs and may well be applied to the statement that "the hands are the spokesman for the soul."

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed 34 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Sehindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Eddie Starnes.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Deliver Us From Evil

From down deep South in Oxford, Miss. comes a call for Southern colleges to unite in an organization of their own. To be known as the Southern Student Association, this group's primary function would be to swap ideas.

The Daily Tar Heel is against the plan for two reasons. First, we fear it invites the return of the provincial thinking which the South is still struggling to rid itself of. The University of North Carolina is the recognized liberal leader in Southern higher education and we don't want to see its government deliver itself into chains, certainly not of its own will.

From the past tendencies of such sectional organizations, The Daily Tar Heel assumes this proposed new group would pull its head into its Southern shell.

Secondly, innovator Roy Pitts of the University of Mississippi thinks it probable that the Southern Student Association would replace the National Student Association. This is absurd since the national group already exists for the same purpose for which the proposed group would be created.

We point out to those who would like to see a sectional chit chat on student government that we have this, too, under the National Student Association with its regional setups.

The Daily Tar Heel hopes student president Bob Gorham will turn down Mississippi's invitation and include a polite note asking them to come on out and live with us in the United States.

Golden Medals And Golden Deeds

Two eastern North Carolina editors, one a former editor of this newspaper, have taken a pair of newspaper prizes which are honors to their state and their profession.

Horace Carter of the Tabor City Tribune and a Daily Tar Heel editor during WW II, and Willard G. Cole of the Whitesville News Reporter, won the annual Pulitzer Prizes for "meritorious public service" for exposing the Ku Klux Klan terrors in Columbus County.

Tabor City, almost on the South Carolina border and six miles from Horry County of that state, was ripe for the Klan movement. The Klan wanted to penetrate into North Carolina and saw that Columbus County, with a large population of Negroes and illiterate whites, would be good game. Thriving on fear, mob psychology and racial hatred, the Klan soon had Columbus citizens fearful of it, afraid to speak against it.

Then these two editors brought the story before the public. They reported; then they criticized. Cole made speeches everywhere he could. Carter challenged the Imperial Wizard, Thomas L. Hamilton, to visit a psychiatrist to find out whose mind "was warped" after the Klan chieftain accused Carter of mental imperfection.

Often the editorial pair was in jeopardy as well as their families. Cole had to carry a shotgun for self protection.

Finally, after lost subscribers and lost friends, results occurred: law enforcement eradicated the Klan and the state's General Assembly passed an anti-Klan bill.

The Pulitzer gold medals are also honors for a field of journalism which largely has been neglected. For the first time since the awards' inception 36 years ago, two country editors have gotten citations.

With such men as Carter and Cole, the future is assured for country newspapers and this country itself.

Passing Remark

Ron Levin

If any of you class weary males are thinking of running away and joining the French Foreign Legion, let me warn you before you go. You never had it so good at good old UNC. Here's why.

Once in, you are in for five years and only death or incapacitating wounds can get you out. The pay is one franc a day plus a bonus of two thousand francs. You can't get married whlie in the Legion, unless you get the permission of your CO, which is quite difficult to do.

The only breakfast you get in the Legion is coffee and a biscuit, before the usual thirty mile morning march.

Above each bed there is a small shelf on which must be put all personal articles. They must be enclosed in a towel and perfect in appearance. If not, then you get a day in prison. Again, and you get seven days, then fourteen days, then a flogging, and if you are unfortunate enough to become angry and strike an officer, then you get five years in prison.

The boot camp of the Legion goes like this. You are sent to a place where the temperature is one hundred and thirty five in the shade and there is no shade. You are given a canvas sack early in the morning, and you march about a mile from the barracks where you pick up a stone weighing about a hundred pounds, put it in the sack and march back to the barracks. Then you are allowed a three minute rest, and must make another similar journey, in fact twelve more similar journeys before lunch. Not convinced yet?

If you think you might want to desert, don't. You are surrounded by desert on all sides, and the Arabs get a bonus for every deserter they bring in either dead or alive. They have a nasty habit of shooting first, and then bringing in the corpse after. They get their bonus just the same.

Every Saturday the heavy solid iron beds are dismantled and taken out into the courtyard where, wet with kerosene, they are set on fire, to kill the bedbugs. In spite of this morning the bugs are back again, on Monday. The barracks is cleaned to perfection, and if one speck of dust is found . . . woe be unto you.

If you get sick, you are sick and there's not much done about it. You go to a "hospital" and stay a few days, and then well or not, you return, to begin again the daily thirty mile marches. The Legionaire is not supposed to get sick. However, if you are really sick, you are transferred to a larger Legionaire hospital which have excellent facilities and treatment.

Promotions come slow and hard and getting to be a corporal is as tough and as tedious and long, as going from PFC to an officer in the US Army.

So to all you men, I say again, that if this feeling to run away and join, comes over you, go sit down somewhere until it leaves. I can think of much nicer thing to do.

'Can I Get Your Autograph, Mister?'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — One distressing aspect of the Korean prisoner release is that some families of American POW's were inveigled into joining Communist-front organizations in the U.S.A. in hopes of getting their sons released.

Just how extensively parents joined up is now being investigated by the Pentagon. The belief is that only a few did so. However, the Pentagon first learned of the matter when some of the parents told of receiving letters from their sons asking them to join Communist - front organizations in the hope it would speed their release.

Those parents who reported the matter to Washington did not join. But some did.

What happened was that 47,000 letters have been delivered from U.N. war prisoners in North Korea and China since the truce talks began. These letters, uncensored by U.N. officials, were forwarded intact to relatives. For this reason, Pentagon officials did not know that suggestions were being made by POW's that their families join Communist - front groups.

It was not until the wounded prisoners began arriving on our side of the line that news of the brain-washing of American parents, as well as the POW's themselves, came to light.

Since then, mail from POW's has been censored. The Pentagon also is appointing a committee of civilian specialists to study the unfortunate situation.

Some Administration leaders have been complaining privately that the press has been too critical, that they have to labor under such an intense spotlight of publicity that they can't accomplish anything. That may be one reason why the secrecy orders from the White House and various government departments have made information tighter than ever.

Those who complain should take a look at criticism back in the early days of the republic. This nation has thrived on it. It was press criticism that kept the struggling young republic going. Thomas Jefferson in those days called John Marshall a "craftv chief justice who sophisticates the law to his reasoning," while the New York Herald once said the Supreme Court deserved no more respect than a "majority of those congregated in any Washington bar room."

Abraham Lincoln once used these choice words in describing the Supreme Court's doctrine of democracy: "As thin as the homeopathic soup made by boiling a pigeon that had starved to death;" while Judge Black of the Pennsylvania Supreme court called Chief Justice Taney "a mush toad spotted traitor to the Constitution" and a "political turkey buzzard." "Shall he be permitted," Judge Black asked, "to vomit the filthy contents of his stomach on every decent man in the country without having his neck twisted?"

Because it's sometimes difficult for G.I.'s to criticize armed service inequities while in uniform, a lot of them have written to this columnist. The column in turn has endeavored to take up some of these problems with the armed services and straighten them out. Here are some notes from the G.I. mailbag:

An Air Force Sergeant, Wheelus Field, Tripoli, Libya—"We are living in tents, eight men to a tent. The floor boards are covered with a fine layer of sand, our clothes are full of it, our beds and blankets are full of it, and I just finished by Sunday dinner and it was full of it. It is very hot inside the tent, but a person can't open a door or lift a flap, because the sand will blow in your face and get in your eyes, ears, hair, down your neck and in your shoes. So we sit in the tent and sweat. The morale of the men in this wing is the lowest of any that I have ever seen. Enlisted men with many years service are taking their discharges. They are getting out of the Air Force any way possible. Thcy don't want to do this, but they are doing it in preference to staying here."

ANSWER—I have investigated living conditions at Wheelus Field, and unfortunately must report that you have understated your case. Conditions there are sub-human. It is not the fault of the Air Force, however, which has asked Congres for the money to build ventilated barracks and even a swimming pool for relief from the terrible desert heat. However, the Congressmen, who adjourn during the Summer because it's too hot in Washington, seem more interested in saving a few nickels.

On Taking Time

Jane Dicks

A small, white-haired man leaned casually on the rostrum at Hill Hall the other night and talked, in a gentle voice, wonderfully free of crashing noises and wild sweeping statements.

He talked of a number of things. Of far-away lands and treaties and wars. Of a gallant ship named Renville and her long 3,000-mile journey on a mission of good-will. Of lush green islands and gentle dark-skinned men. Of friends and tolerance and justice.

Dr. Frank Graham, beloved of students and townsfolk, had come to talk with "his boys." There had been a lot of visitors and speeches during the day but there was still time enough for a visit and neighborly talk.

Therein lies the secret of Dr. Frank's success. His endless patience and gentleness; his sense of the fitness of things. These rare qualities have been a fresh breeze blowing through the dusty halls of diplomacy. With them he has won the respect and devotion of many men across the earth.

Dr. Graham has always found time. Found time for simple things. And he has talked with men—not at them. Somehow, in his coming, doubts and confusion have lessened and reasonableness has entered in their stead. Without recriminations and the clash of arms men have sat down and broken bread and talked and found a way out of the maze of misunderstanding bred in the despair of doubt.

Dr. Frank came back to Chapel Hill. For those of us who had never known him except by hearsay the character of the man shone bright and true. It cut aside the dark assertions of petty politicians and envious citizens. There he stood—a simple man with simple dignity. A Christian who dares to live his religion rather than merely talk about it. A man who practices the goodness of Christ who was, after all a simple man Himself, of simple tastes but with the shining courage of His convictions.

Tar Heel At Large

Lt. Chuck Hauser

IN A DRY RICE PADDY SOMEWHERE IN KOREA—I got up at the usual time this morning, feeling the usual way, as if I hadn't had enough sleep. ("All right, roll out, the sun's almost up and your camouflage nets aren't in place yet," the Captain was yelling at the gun sections.)

I reached for my boots and began dragging them on. (One was easy to find; it was the hump that had been sticking in my back all night, and the other one turned up down at the bottom of my sleeping bag after a five-minute search.)

I stretched, breathed in the crisp morning air, and started to prepare my breakfast. ("We can't light any fires this morning, so if you want hot chow you'll have to put that can of C-ration on the engine block of the jeep," the Captain instructed.)

I dug down into my cargo pack for my shaving gear and sent one of the men over to the nearest wet paddy to get some water. ("Don't tell me about ice—break it up and bring that water back," the Captain called after him.)

My first job after breakfast was to check the gun positions to see if the men had dug foxholes. ("I don't think you'll have to do much checking," the Captain commented. "When those incoming rounds whistled over last night there was more digging going on out there than at the Scranton coal mines.")

Don't get the wrong idea. Our usual battery position is in a valley up the way where we have warm bunkers, stoves to heat wash water, and a mess tent set up to serve hot chow. This rice paddy deal is strictly temporary, and after the action we're supporting eases up, we'll return to our valley and live in comparative luxury.

That is, until we move again.

on the Carolina Front

Louis Kraar

Sending a package home can be more trouble around here than making an A in integral calculus if you don't know the right technique.

Not knowing the right technique nor really caring much about it at the time, I set out to mail home a small package the other day.

The first store, a shoe shop, supplied me with a box in exchange for a detailed explanation of what I was going to do with it. The whole story reminded you of trying to tell Trustees why we shouldn't have Saturday classes—it just wasn't worth the effort.

The battle was half won, but I was apparently the loser as far as time was concerned. I eased into a "department store," one of those you-want-it, we-have-it shops that sells everything from shoe laces to Stopette.

"Could you wrap a package for me?" I asked shoving the shoe box up on the counter.

The man behind the counter picked up the box and looked very carefully at the label. Frowning he said, "Couldn't they wrap it down the street where you got this?"

I looked at the side of the box. It had no label or markings, but evidently this wise merchant knew some code known only to those of the trade. He was right about my getting it down the street.

"Look, I'll pay you for it. I just want to get it wrapped to send home."

"All right, but it'll cost a dime," the man insisted.

"Okay, okay," I replied figuring it'd be worth a dime to end this third degree.

The thing finally was wrapped. I was prouder of that wrapped package than a coed dating a football player. And you ought to see the stack of laundry paper and string that I'm saving in my room now.

Carolina's Ball - Hawking Infield Deserves Credit For Good Season

CAROLINA'S DOUBLE PLAY infield, (left-to-right) Bruce Holt, third base; Fred Dale, shortstop; Harry Lee Lloyd, second base; Bob Henning, first base; and Will Frye, catcher.

By Tom Peacock

One of the main reasons for the 15-6 record of the Carolina baseball team is a ball-hawking infield that has completed 26 double plays in 21 games.

The infield, composed of Will Frye catching, Bobby Henning, first base, Harry Lee Lloyd second base, Fred Dale shortstop, and Bobby Williams, third, has pulled quite a few games out of the fire for the Tar Heels. Bruce Holt has played half the season at third, and Ed Hooks alternates with Frye.

Coach Walt Rabb thinks highly of his boys, saying, "They're a competent infield — they handle the ball well, and get the double play off quickly."

Of those 26 double plays, a great number of them have been "around the horn," or third-to-second-to-first, the hardest of all to execute successfully. Holt is especially adept at grabbing a slow roller and whipping it to Lloyd at second to start the play.

Lloyd, like Holt, comes from Durham, a good farm town for Carolina's baseball team. He has the hardest job in the play in his "keystone position," making the putout at second and getting a quick throw off to first to double the runner.

Dale is closer to second, but it takes a long time for a grounder to reach deep short, so the pressure is on him too to get the ball away. Dale, incidentally, is the only married man in the infield.

Henning The Dancer

Bobby Henning, the little first baseman with the big glove, goes into a dance as he gets the ball, and the inning is usually over. Henning saved the day one time this season with an unassisted double play.

The infield does more than field, however, and the Tar Heels do a large share of the team's hitting. Lloyd, Dale, and Williams are all hitting over the .300 mark, with a good number of extra base hits. Henning's average isn't too high, but he comes through in the clutches, as his game winning single in the 10th inning of Tuesday's game with Wake Forest.

Best Since 1948

The team as a whole is the best since the 1948 Southern Conference champions. The Tar Heels are first in the southern division of the Conference and need only one more win to clinch a berth in the playoffs with the northern division May 14, 15, and 16 at Devereaux Meadow in Raleigh.

The win will be a little harder to come by than it sounds, however, as Carolina's last two games are against State and Duke. The Tar Heels have split with those teams so far this season, and both remaining games are away. A loss won't mean certain elimination from the tourney, but Rabb would breathe easier if his team were a sure bet.

"This is a well rounded team," said Rabb. "They are a good bunch of boys on and off the field, and a good bunch to work with.

"They have good leadership in Chal Port and Wayne White.

"They deserve the utmost support from the student body."

Carolina's pitching, led by twice All-Conference Port, is another great factor in its good season. Bill Lore has turned in his usual good work, and Joe Pazdan, Joe Morgan, and Don Marbry have all pitched well.

The outfield, both of 'em, hasn't been much of a worry, either. Rabb has two sets, one for right handed pitchers, the other for southpaws. Generally, he will start White, Connie Gravitte, and Ken Keller against the rightsiders, and John Mottsinger, Gravitte, and Al Long against the lefties.

Girls' Tennis Club Wins First Match Of Season

The Girls' Tennis Club, following in the same pattern as their male counterparts, downed Meredith College 9-0 Tuesday in their first match of the season. The Carolina team lost only one set to their opponents. Next Tuesday they will travel to Wake Forest.

Singles—Nancy Gerlach (C) over Ann Lovell, 6-3, 6-3; Carolyn Johnson (C) over Betty Vance, 6-0, 6-3; Sandy Donaldson (C) over Jean Pace, 6-1, 6-2; Ann Forsythe (C) over Jane Williamson, 6-0, 6-0; Jane Carey (C) over Brooksie Stone, 6-1, 6-3; Louise Milliken over Susie Roberts, 6-1, 6-1.

Doubles—Donaldson and Johnson (C) over Lovell and Williamson, 6-2, 6-1; Carey and Jo Deming (C) over Vance and Pace, 6-1, 3-6, 6-0; Forsythe and Jo Murphy (C) over Roberts and Stone, 6-2, 6-1.

Attendance In Majors Is Under Last Year's

Attendance at major league baseball parks is 24 per cent under last season's total in a comparable number of home dates for each club, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Paid admissions in the American League are 35 per cent below last year. The National legaue showed a 10 per cent decrease.

Monogram Club

There will be a Monogram Club meeting at 7:15 tonight. Thursday's social has been postponed.

see ISRAEL
JULY-AUGUST
A Non-Profit Educational Project

TRAVEL throughout Israel.
LIVE 2 weeks in agricultural settlements.
LEARN about Israel in Jerusalem from faculty of Hebrew University and leading personalities. 7 weeks in Israel—Stopover in Europe.
APPLICANTS BETWEEN 18-35
Write now for information to:
ISRAEL SUMMER INSTITUTE
Jewish Agency for Palestine
16 E. 66 ST., NEW YORK 21, NEW YORK

JUST RECEIVED
Another Shipment of Imported
LINEN SLACKS
10.95
Yes you can buy these genuine imported crease-resistant linen slacks now for only $10.95. You'll find all the new spring shades. Hurry down as they will sell fast at this low price.
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

Track, Tennis Teams Win

Green Plays Number One In 6-3 Victory

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 6.—(Special) — Pete Green, playing number one, led the Carolina tennis team to a 6-3 victory over Harvard University here today.

Green had never played higher than six before, but defeated John Rauh, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, when Del Sylvia, regular first man, was delayed by a late train.

The tennis team tries for its 21st win in a match against Brown today.

Singles — Green (UNC) over Rauh, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4; Ufford (H) over Browne, 6-4, 7-5; Bradford (UNC) over French, 6-4, 6-4; Mann (H) over Thompson, 6-4, 4-6, 9-7; Payne (UNC) over Bossart, 6-2, 6-1; Handel (UNC) over Watts, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1.

Doubles—Bradford and Thompson (UNC) lost to Ufford and French, 6-2, 6-4; Green and Sylvia (UNC), over Rauh and Watts; Browne and Payne (UNC) over Stone and Bossart, 6-1, 8-6.

TRACK MEET

The finals in both the dormitory and the fraternity track meets will be held this afternoon on Fetzer Field.

Track Team Defeats Virginia, 96½ To 34½

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 6—(Special)—The Carolina track team downed the Virginia Cavaliers today by a 96½ to 34½ score.

During the first part of the meet the contestants had to perform in the rain. In spite of this, most of the times and distances were generally good, but some of them were obviously affected. Andy Bell of the Tar Heels threw the javelin a distance of 172' 5" for an improvement over his last week's performance.

The Tar Heels return home Saturday to meet the University of Pennsylvania.

100-yd. dash—1. Latham (Va.); 2. Scott (UNC); 3. Graham (Va.). Time: 10.3.

220-yd. dash—1. Ray (UNC); 2. Latham (Va.); 3. Mitchell (UNC). Time: 22.3.

440-yd. dash—1. Ray (UNC); 2. MacMillan (Va.); 3. Waleb (UNC). Time: 51.6.

880-yd. run—1. Newman (UNC); 2. Higgins (UNC); 3. Reid (Va.). Time: 2:01:3.

One Mile run—1. Bennett and Barden (UNC, tie); 3. Osborne (UNC). Time: 4:38.8.

Two Mile run—1. Houghton (Va.) and Marks (UNC) tie; 3. Bostian (UNC). Time: 10:22.2.

120-yd. high hurdles—1. Latham (Va.); 2. McDonald (Va.); 3. Cornell (UNC). Time: 15.5.

220-yd. low hurdles—1. Scott (UNC); 2. Latham (Va.); 3. Cornell (UNC). Time: 25.0.

High Jump—1. Jordan and Haire (UNC) tie; 3. Stevens (Va.) and Wilson (UNC). Height: 5' 9".

Broad Jump — 1. Yarborough (UNC); 2. Millin (Va.); 3. Stevens (Va.). Distance: 20' 2¾".

Pole Vault—1. Jordan (UNC); 2. Cooke (Va.); 3. Duke (UNC). Height 11' 6".

Javelin—1. Bell (UNC); 2. Marcinko (UNC); 3. Waidner (Va.). Distance: 172' 5".

Shot Put—1. Morris (UNC); 2. Schelhorn (Va.); 3. Rizzo (UNC). Distance: 44' 10".

Discus—1. Morris (UNC; 2. Rizzo (UNC); 3. Bell (UNC).

Mile Relay — Carolina. Time: 3:32.2.

In The Majors

National League

New York 8, Chicago 5
Cincinnati at Philadelphia, night
St. Louis at Brooklyn, night
Milwaukee at Pittsburgh, night

American League

Detroit 8, Washington 4
Chicago 6, Boston 2
Philadelphia at St. Louis, night

GIVE BOOKS FOR MOTHER'S DAY
We Suggest
FLOWERS OF THE SOUTH
by Greene and Blomguist
$5.00
ELIZABETH AND PHILIP
coronation year reading
$3.50
MEMORIES OF AN OLD TAR HEEL
$1.00
A ZIPPY MOTHER'S DAY CARD
25c
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

DON'T FORGET HER FLOWERS ON MOTHER'S DAY
Flowers are an excellent way of showing that you remember those little things.
Place Your Order Now
CAROLINA FLOWER SHOP
OPPOSITE THE POST OFFICE

Acclaimed by the 10,000,000 people who have already seen it:
THERE HAS NEVER BEEN A MOTION PICTURE LIKE . . .
"The Red Shoes"
COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR
starring ANTON WALBROOK
MARIUS GORING • MOIRA SHEARER
A J. Arthur Rank Presentation
A Powell-Pressburger Production
An Eagle Lion Films Release
WINNER OF 3 ACADEMY AWARDS!
NOW AT POPULAR PRICES!
CAROLINA THEATRE
TODAY ONLY

THE WINNER!
TOM CREASY
SAE from Gretna, Va.
MR. FORMAL
AT CAROLINA
and King of the campus. Congratulations to the year's smartest looking formal fellow . . . and a word of thanks to all the others who made possible the success of the third annual "Mr. Formal" contest.
And when the next formal occasion comes along, just remember how good you looked at the try-on in the dinner jacket by AFTER SIX, America's largest maker of formal wear for men.
The campus winner is now entered in the "Mr. Formal U.S.A." contest to compete for national honors and prizes including a $500 defense bond, a week in Hollywood and a screen test with Alex Gottlieb Productions.

Only time will tell about a green crew! And only time will tell about a cigarette! Take your time...
Test CAMELS for 30 days for MILDNESS and FLAVOR!
THERE MUST BE A REASON WHY Camel is America's most popular cigarette—leading all other brands by billions! Camels have the two things smokers want most—rich, full flavor and cool, cool mildness ... pack after pack! Try Camels for 30 days and see how mild, how flavorful, how thoroughly enjoyable they are as your steady smoke!

MORE PEOPLE SMOKE CAMELS than any other cigarette!
R. J. Reynolds Tob. Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Group Leaders Meet Tonight

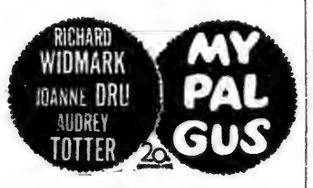
A special session on Training for Group Leadership will be held tonight at 8:00 in the Library Assembly Room. Dr. William Perry, Director of the University Testing Service, and a group of graduate students will demonstrate methods of group dynamics and group discussion. Jim Buyer will be chairman of the meeting, and he urges that all persons who are interested in Freshman Camp and in Campus Orientation counselorships be present.

Plans will also be presented for the Leadership Training Sessions at Camp New Hope, May 8-9, this coming Friday afternoon to Saturday afternoon.

Weekend Work Camp

The Weekend Work Camp will meet tonight at 9 o'clock in the Cabinet Room of the YMCA. Plans for future projects will be discussed.

Varsity

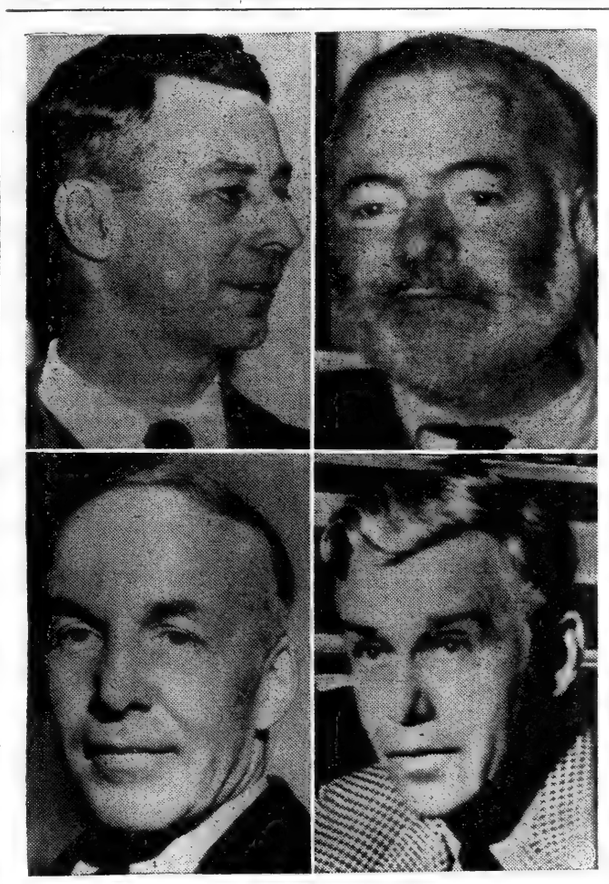


—NOW SHOWING—

FRIDAY-SATURDAY

SUNDAY-MONDAY

—TUESDAY—



"Grapes of Wrath"

Starring

Henry Fonda

HARD-PRESSED FRENCH TROOPS in the Plaine des Jarres near Laos, French Indo-China, are being reinforced in large numbers as airplanes (above) unload troops and supplies in a steady stream. A four-pronged drive by Communist forces on the Laotian capital of Luang Prabang has been supplemented by another Red movement toward the frontier of Thailand.—NEA Telephoto.

WINNERS OF COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY'S 1953 Pulitzer Prizes included: (top, left) Edward J. Mowery, of the New York World-Telegram and Sun; (upper, right) novelist Ernest Hemingway; (lower, left) poet Archibald MacLeish; and (lower right) historian George Dangerfield. Mowery was awarded a prize for Local Reporting for his stories on imprisoned Louis Hoffner. Hemingway was named winner of the Fiction Award for his short novel, "The Old Man and The Sea." MacLeish was awarded the Poetry Prize for his "Collected Poems, 1917-1952." Dangerfield won the History award for his history of the United States, "The Era of Good Feeling."—NEA Telephoto.

Alpha Kappa Psi Schedules Hanes Hall Panel Discussion

Alpha Kappa Psi, professional fraternity in business administration, will sponsor a panel discussion tonight on "Real Estate—at the Local, State, and National Level." The discussion will be at 7:30 p.m. in 106 Hanes Hall.

Members of the panel are: Mr. Erle Stapleton, Executive Secretary of the North Carolina Association of Real Estate Boards, and National President of Executive Secretaries of State Associations; Mr. John Foushee, local real estate agent; and Mr. Thomas Hilderbrand, Durham real estate agent.

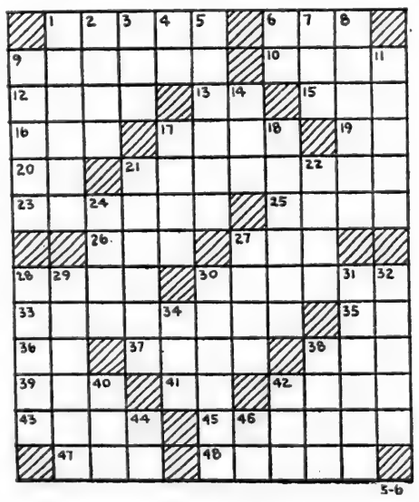
Following the panel discussion there will be an audience participation question and answer period with special emphasis concerning matters of sales, mortgages, and law. The discussion will be open to all interested persons.

Folk Music Band

The Folk Music Band will meet tonight at 8:30 in the YMCA.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS



1. Applauds
6. Blunder
9. Made of wool
10. Ancient kingdom
12. Long-eared rodent
13. Indefinite article
15. Evening (poet.)
16. Before
17. Linen fabric (Sp.)
19. At home
20. Roman pound
21. Island group near Scotland
23. A game of skill
25. God of war
26. Hebrew letter
27. Town (Indiana)
28. Fresh-water fish
30. Evades
33. A thing to be added
35. Greek letter
36. Barium (sym.)
37. Appear
38. Likely
39. Moslem title
41. East by south (abbr.)
42. Awry (dial.)
43. River (Sib.)
45. Renders unyielding
47. Unhappy
48. Accumulate

DOWN

1. Rough
2. Learning
3. Malt beverage
4. Hebrew letter
5. Nets
6. Type measure
7. Spawn of fish
8. Deep, narrow valley
9. Source of flour
11. Flexes
14. Lacelike fabric
17. Lower part of face
18. Alarm (archaic)
21. Shoots from ambush
22. Dry
24. Aromatic Himalayan plant
27. Astringent substance
28. An intrigue
29. Proverbs
30. Ancient name of modern Urfa
31. Ousts
32. Locations
34. Born
38. Grows old
40. Mother of Irish gods
42. Cord from candlenut tree bark
44. Public notice
46. Thulium (sym.)

Yesterday's Answer

Nurses School Lists Students On Dean's List

Twenty-one student nurses in the University's School of Nursing made the Dean's List during the last two quarters, Dean Elizabeth L. Kemble announced today.

To be listed, a student must make a grade of B or better on all courses.

One student, Jane Pauline Sox of Hickory, made all A's during the quarter just past, and in the preceding quarter two students made all A's: Mary Anderson of Durham and Geraldine Snider of Fayetteville.

On last quarter's Dean's list, in addition to Miss Sox, were Mary Anderson and Patsy Proctor Colvard, both of Durham; Billie Bruce Dobbs, Charlotte; Jane Ramelle Hylton, High Point; Jane McNeil King, Williamston; Peggy Parks Needham, New Bern; Sylvia Mae Renshaw, Asheville; Emily Love Robeson, Laurinburg; Sally Marshall Smith, Wilmington; Geraldine Snider, Fayetteville, and Sally Perkins Winn, Henderson.

On the preceding quarter's Dean's List, in addition to Misses Anderson and Snider, were Donna Blaire, Winston-Salem; Patsy Colvard; Bette Leon Davis, Morganton; Ramelle Hylton; Janet Merritt, Chapel Hill; Sylvia Renshaw, and Sally Winn.

WUNC Adds Two Programs

University-operated Radio Station WUNC has added two new British programs to its evening schedule.

"Take It From Here" is a variety program produced in the B.B.C. studios in London. It features the top-ranking British comedy-music team of Joy Nichols, Jimmy Edwards, and Dick Bently. The new program will be broadcast each Saturday evening at 8:30 on WUNC.

"British comedy is definitely different from ours," said Kent Jackson, WUNC promotion manager, after listening to an audition of the new series. "I guess the show is closer to Bob Hope than anything else in this country. Anyway, it's great humor, and it really livens up our Saturday schedule."

The second British program, "Crime Is Our Business," deals with crime detection in the North of England. It has been scheduled for Thursday evenings at 7:30.

Two other B.B.C. features are presently aired by WUNC. "British Concert Hall," an hour of serious music, is heard on Monday evening at 7:30, "Review of the British Weeklies" on Tuesday at 7:45.

Key to the future—
Gibbs Training

Gibbs secretarial training opens doors for college women to career opportunities in their chosen field. Special Course for College Women. Five-school personal placement service. Write College Dean for "GIBBS GIRLS AT WORK."

KATHARINE GIBBS

BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough Street NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Avenue
CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Superior Street PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell Street
MONTCLAIR, N. J., 33 Plymouth Street

—ANNOUNCING—

Tom Jones

(Former manager of Reeves Gulf Service) invites his many friends and customers to visit him for auto lubrication.

All Brands Of Oil

at

COLONIAL MOTORS, INC.

(Your Buick Dealer)
Call 9484

What Goes On Here

Coed Orientation

Women's Orientation Advisors will have a General Meeting Tuesday, May 12, instead of today.

CPU

The Carolina Political Union initiated two persons into membership Sunday night at its executive meeting. Freshmen David Reid and Norwood Bryan were accepted by the Union. Reid is from Asheville nad a member of the Di Senate and SP. Bryan is from Fayetteville and a member of the IDC, the IDC Executive Committee and the SP.

Lazy Literates

The Lazy Literates will meet today at 4 o'clock in the YMCA to hear Dr. Werner P. Friederich speak on the influence in European literature of Goethe. Everyone is invited.

Freshman Camp

The YMCA Freshman Camp Planning Committee will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the Library Assembly Room. Reports from committee chairmen will be given, and plans for the completion of the organization for the 1953 camp will be made.

Press Clubbers Name Officers

Leo J. (Buddy) Northart, president of the campus Press Club, and his cabinet bow out to newly elected officers this week as Jerry F. Epps, senior from Walhalla, S. C., and four team-mates step in to assume their duties.

Joe Gilchrist, senior from Durham, was relieved as treasurer by Robert S. Horton, a senior from Raleigh, and elected to the vice-presidency.

Gene Watson, Charlotte senior turned the records and duties of secretary of the club over to Fred McGee, Chapel Hill senior.

Jess Nettles, Chapel Hill junior, was elected to succeed Miss Barbara Tuttle as publicity director.

Mother's Day Cards for Zippy Mothers—

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

Open Evenings

WUNC Schedule

7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—Night Duty.
8:00—The University Hour.
8:30—Voices of France.
9—Matters of Note by Dr. Wilton Mason.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.

"It happens every time he forgets the Angostura* in the Manhattans!"

ANGOSTURA®
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. What puts the tang in Manhattans and Old Fashioneds? It's that dash or two of Angostura. Keep a bottle in the kitchen—for adding zest to soups and sauces.

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2) boost!

Give your appearance a boost this Summer with a Don Richards Ronel Tropi-Cord, the tailored cord suit that can't bag, can't sag, can't get that pajama look. The weightless inner-construction helps put your appearance over the top and keep it that way. $32.50

"Bills Mailed Home"

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

CLARK'S

Sewing Machines and Kirby Vacuum Cleaners

We Pay Cash for Good Used Sewing Machines
Repairs on All Makes of Machines
19 Years of Experience

J. W. CLARK, Manager
Call 9-5708

For That Special Gift

Select one of our famous-name cameras when you shop for your Mother's Day gift. Choose the finest and give the best. Show her you remembered.

ALL PHOTOGRAPHY SUPPLIES
OPEN SUNDAY AFTERNOONS

Foister's Camera Store

Carolina

Late Show Saturday Night
SUNDAY-MONDAY

U N C LIBRARY
SERIARS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and mild. Highs, 75 yesterday and today. Low last night, 58.

The Daily Tar Heel

CHANGE
The Editor says it's time for a change. P. 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 146 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, MAY 8, 1953 SIX PAGES TODAY

Pi Phi's, ATO's Studied Hardest Again In Winter

Pi Beta Phi sorority and Alpha Tau Omega fraternity led the Greeks again Winter Quarter in the academic side of college life, according to a report submitted to the chancellor this week.

The same two groups came out on top in grades for Fall Quarter. The average of the Pi Phi's Winter Quarter was 2.1417 (B minus), and for the ATO's, 2.4458 (low B minus). Just to make sure, these two groups increased their averages a few points over Fall Quarter.

Averages are computed on the basis of rosters of membership as submitted by the fraternities and sororities. Active members and pledges are included. Values for the letter grades are assigned as follows: A, 1.00; B, 2.00; C, 3.00; D, 4.00; E, 5.00; and F, 6.00.

The six sororities on campus led all fraternities, even ATO, Chi Omega was second to the Pi Phi's with 2.1704; Kappa Delta third with 2.2036; Alpha Delta Pi fourth with 2.2848; Delta Delta Delta fifth with 2.2904; and Alpha Gamma Delta sixth with 2.4118.

Following ATO in the fraternity group were: Zeta Psi, 2.4973; Kappa Alpha, 2.5626; Kappa Sigma, 2.5806; Delta Upsilon, 2.5964; Beta Theta Pi, 2.6209; Delta Kappa Epsilon, 2.6367; Zeta Beta Tau, 2.6430;

Tau Epsilon Phi, 2.6870; Lambda Chi Alpha, 2.7379; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 2.7712; Sigma Nu, 2.7960; Pi Lambda Phi, 2.8012; Phi Kappa Sigma, 2.8215; Chi Psi, 2.8374; Delta Psi, 2.8465; Chi Phi, 2.8524; Theta Chi, 2.8573; Sigma Chi, 2.8883;

Phi Gamma Delta, 2.8907; Pi Kappa Alpha 3.0234; Phi Delta Theta, 3.0323; Sigma Phi Epsilon, 3.0623; and Pi Kappa Phi, 3.1153.

The most phenomenal boost in grades was accomplished by Kappa Sigma fraternity, which rose from last place to fourth place among fraternities over the two quarters.

The all-sorority average for Winter Quarter was 2.2436. All-fraternity average was 2.7805. All-men's average (by sampling method was 2.7778, higher than the all-fraternity average.

Grant Will Let Helguera Study South America

J. Leon Helguera, University graduate student and staff member of the University Library, has been awarded a fellowship for one year's travel and study in South America, valued at $4,500.00.

The fellowship was awarded by the William L. and Grace Doherty Foundation of New York. The grant is made to a selected number of students each year who have shown outstanding leadership in the academic field of Latin American studies.

Helguera is majoring in Latin American History and is working toward his doctorate under the direction of Dean W. W. Pierson and Dr. Harold A. Bierck. This is the first time that this award has been made to student at the University of North Carolina.

Helguera received his bachelor's degree from Mexico City College in Mexico, and was awarded his Master of Arts degree by the University of North Carolina. For the past two years he has been working as an assistant in the Documents Department of the University Library as well as taking aca-

(See GRANT, page 6)

Gorham Appointees

Student Body President Bob Gorham released the names of 16 appointees yesterday.

Lou Wolfsheimer is the new Attorney General and Dusty Lamsom is Elections Board Chairman. Lampson served last quarter.

Gorham appointed the following to serve with Chairman Tom Creasy on the Orientation Committee: Obbie Lee, Bobby Grimes, Bill Calvert, Jim Buyer, Bill Saunders, Al Purrington Bill Brown, Tom Fesperman, Rueben Leonard, Gordon Forester, Stella D'Aleo, Kit Wallace, Thelma Souder, and Sue Ambler.

French House Planning Made For Summer

Plans are being completed for the ninth annual French House to be held here during the first term of the Summer Session, June 11-July 17.

Dr. Jacques Hardre of the Department of Romance Languages, director of the French House, has said Miss Rita Mary Burke of Woman's College has been awarded the French government scholarship which will cover room, board and tuition. Miss Burke will serve as assistant hostess of the French House.

The annual scholarship given by Edward T. Draper-Savage, former member of the Department of Romance Languages, in memory of his mother, Mrs. Effie Draper-Savage, will be awarded this year. This scholarship of $150 will be given to the student who, at the completion of the course, has shown "an outstanding interest in France, her culture and civilization, and a corresponding ability and promise in his, or her, mastery of the French spoken language, as well as French literature."

As a second-place award, Draper-Savage will present for the first time a $25 Defense Bond.

Students attending the French House study both the language and culture of France. No beginners are accepted.

The French House is operated in connection with the University Extension Division.

Courses of instruction will be offered in conversation, review grammar, and French civilization by the French House staff members, and the following courses will be offered by the Department of Romance Languages: French phonetics, French romanticism, old French, French literature of the Renaissance, and provencal, the latter carrying graduate credit.

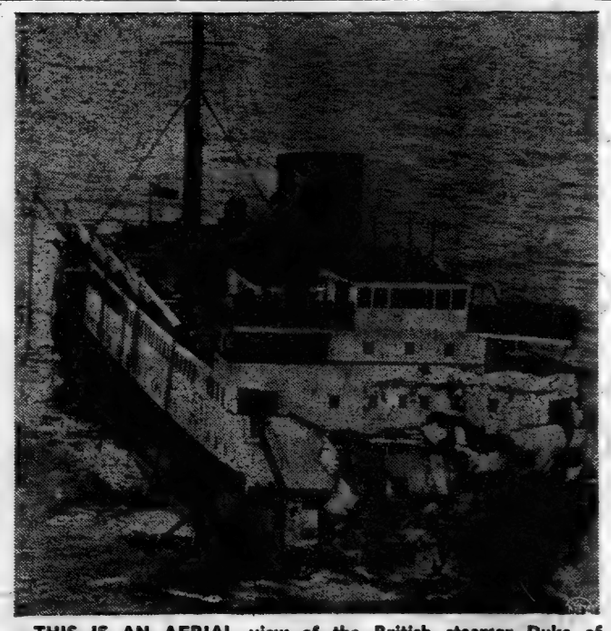
The staff this summer will include Dr. Hardre, director; Prof. Rene Hardre of the French Department, Woman's College, instructor; Mrs. Charlotte Huse, Chapel Hill, hostess, and Miss Burke, assistant hostess.

Summer Jobs Are Offered To Measure Crop

Summer employment in crop measuring will be the subject of a talk Tuesday afternoon in 210 Gardner Hall at 2 o'clock.

E. W. Avent, of the Production and Marketing division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will discuss jobs in measurement of the acreage of all tobacco and peanuts in North Carolina.

Pay for the work is on a piece work basis and will be explained by Avent.



These jobs are expected to be of particular interest to students who wish to find themselves summer employment near their own homes, since many counties within the state have openings for men to measure crop acreage, according to the University Placement Service.

The work begins June 1 in the Piedmont and Western sections of the state. In the Eastern counties, it will be sooner.

Approximately 50 students from the University engaged in this type work last summer.

Oratory Contest

Today is the last day for seniors to enter the Mangum Medal Oratory Contest. All seniors who graduate by the end of the first semester next year are eligible to enter the contest sponsored by both Di and Phi.

THIS IS AN AERIAL view of the British steamer Duke of York after it was cut in two by a collision with an American freighter. The whole bow of the British ship sank shortly after it was struck by the Haiti Victory off Harwich, England. The American vessel then led a gallant rescue operation which saved the lives of all 557 persons aboard both the ships—NEA Radiophoto.

NEWS IN BRIEF

PANMUNJOM — A Communist proposal that anti-Red war prisoners be kept in Korea in custody of five neutral ntions pending their final disposition was sent to Washington yesterday for high-level instructions. Communist truce team chief Gen. Nam Il, in what appeared to be a major concession, proposed that Sweden, Switzerland, Poland, Czechoslovakia and India take charge of those prisoners who refuse to go back to their Red-ruled homelands. United Nations negotiators regarded Nam's eight-point proposal as so important that they asked for a recess until Saturday in the truce talks so they could refer it to Washington for a decision.

★

WASHINGTON — The White House refused to say anything yesterday about the Communists' latest Korean truce proposals as American officials began a "careful look" at them. Diplomatic officials were chary of comment pending full official study of the Reds' plan. There was some disposition, however, to hope the Communists finally were swinging around to a position the United Nations could consider.

★

WASHINGTON — The White House announced yesterday Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg is retiring as Air Force chief of staff and will be succeeded by Gen. Natham F. Twining. Twining at present is vice chief of staff. Assuming the Senate confirms his appointment, he will step up to the top Air Force post June 30, when Vandenberg's term expires. This is the first change in the Joint Chiefs of Staff since Eisenhower took office, and the White House gave no indication whether it would be followed by other changes.

Creasy Opens Interviews For Fall Orientation

Orientation Committee Chairman Tom Creasy yesterday listed a schedule of interviews for those interested in becoming orientation counselors.

Creasy asks anyone interested to come by second floor Graham Memorial at one of the times announced.

"There could be no greater work or service to one's school than to help mold an entire class into the Carolina way of life," Creasy said.

Creasy said that the Orientation Committee hopes to have more counselors this year than before in an effort to make the teams smaller.

He said that in this way each freshman will receive more individual attention and will be able to participate more in the group meetings.

A schedule of short interviews, lasting about five minutes has been arranged. The schedule is: Monday, 7 to 9 p.m.; Tuesday, 7 to 9 p.m.; and Wednesday, 4 to 6 p.m.

Swedish Grad Student Leads Discussion Sunday

"Sweden—the middle way" is the title of a program scheduled for 4 o'clock Sunday by the Cosmopolitan Club.

Gunnar Kulldorf of Sweden, a graduate student in mathematical statistics, will be in charge of the program. Several short films will be shown, through the courtesy of the Swedish Embassy, and a question-answer period will follow the films.

Daily Tar Heel Budget Gets Approval Of All Legislators In Busy 45-Minute Session

New Bills Favor Floor Privileges For Old Solons, Aid To Defray NSA Convention Delegates' Costs

In a short action-filled session the Student Legislature last night approved the original budget request of The Daily Tar Heel.

Chairman Gordon Forester of the Finance Committee in his report said that his committee reported the bill favorably.

Only one question was raised as the Legislature passed the bill with a unanimous vote. Dayton Estes asked, "What is that smell in The Daily Tar Heel, and is it costing us any money?"

Forester explained that it was the result of a soap ad which used the perfumed ink, and that it was not costing student government any money.

Several new bils were introduced in the 45-minute session.

Joel Fleishman (SP) introduced a bill to allow old legislators to take part in discussion and debate. The bill would, with a majority vote of the legislature, extend the privileges of the floor to the speaker or to any former member of Student Legislature enrolled in the University at the time.

Fleishman introduced another bill to increase student participation in student government. The bill would provide for a committee known as the Student Government Procurement Committee.

Forester (SP) introduced a bill to defray expenses of delegates to the National Students Association convention. The bill would provide $75 to pay the registration fee of the delegates and $225 to help pay their living and traveling expenses. The funds for these expenses would come from the unappropriated balance of the 1952-53 budget.

Delegates to previous NSA conventions have had to pay their own expenses.

Speaker Baxter Miller appointed a committee to study President Bob Gorham's appointments and report on their findings. Indications are that some of Gorham's appointments may be questioned.

The bill on extending privileges of the floor means that if a majority of the Legislature approves, an old legislator may participate in debate and discussion. In fact, he would practically have the power of a legislator without a vote.

Last night's session was smooth and efficient. Next week's session may not be that way, since some of the bills introduced last night will come up for approval, along with Gorham's appointments.

Trustees Will Visit 3 Schools

About 20 new University Trustees will get a refresher course in trusteeing next week when they spend a day at each of the three institutions of the Consolidated University.

The newly - elected governing fathers will spend Tuesday in Raleigh, Wednesday here and Thursday at Woman's College.

Students will have an opportunity to meet the new Trustees at a social hour in Graham Memorial.

The rest of the Trustee agenda in Chapel Hill includes an early breakfast at the Carolina Inn, meeting with deans, tour of the campus and a dinner.

Following the Trustees' early breakfast, a meeting with deans in the Faculty Lounge of Morehead Building is scheduled. Later in the afternoon the Trustees will go on a tour and inspection of health affairs.

A luncheon under supervision of Dr. Henry Clark and a meeting with deans on medical affairs will round out the afternoon's program.

The Student-Trustee get together will be from 4 to 5 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

A dinner will close the new group's day at Carolina. Highlights of the dinner will be the Glee Club and University films.

Similar programs are set up for the other two schools. A student-Trustee social hour will be held at State and a coke party with the Elliott Hall Student Council at WC.

OLIN T. MOUZON

Women Voters Will Sponsor Trade Panel

A public meeting on international trade and economic aid will be sponsored by the Chapel Hill League of Women Voters in the Town Hall here next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

Members of a panel leading the discussions, to be participated in by the audience, will be Edward Gould, Director of Industrial Relations, Southern Division of Pacific Mills; Prof. Olin T. Mouzon, international trade specialist of the University's School of Business Administration, and two members of the League of Women Voters: Mrs. D. P. Costello and Mrs. George Kachergis.

Mrs. Nicholas Demerath is chairman of the program for the meeting and Mrs. John Gillin will serve as moderator of the panel.

The program is planned because of much discussion of the program of international trade and the Reciprocal Trade Agreement and pending legislation in Congress and the fact that the United Nations is encouraging programs to promote world trade and encourage economic cooperation among nations.

CAMPUS SEEN

Seniors and underclassmen alike talking about "my last quarter here" as South Building makes plans for the Semester changeover.

•

Visiting high schoolers making the Y court soda fountain look like the ten o'clock break rather than the usual five o'clock drag.

•

Two barefoot Carolina "gentlemen" being chased from coed dorm as housemother admonishes, "Not before Senior Day."

Jordan Says State Will Pay If Chapel Hill Road Redone

The state will bear all costs when the new Durham-Chapel Hill super-highway, which has developed cracks since it was opened to traffic last September, is resurfaced, Dr. Henry Jordan, chairman of the State Highway Commission said yesterday.

Dr. Jordan said he did not know when the highway will be resurfaced. "It would not be done until you're sure you wouldn't have additional failures," he said.

After the cracks first appeared there was a controversy between the Commission and the Nello L. Teer Construction Company of Durham, which did the paving, as to the cause of the trouble.

Teer blamed inadequate drainage for the trouble, contending that the Highway Commission would not let his firm install proper drainage ditches.

Eventually, the Commission had the drainage ditches put in and cleared the Teer firm of blame for the trouble.

The Commission accepted the highway last Dec. 31. Since then, Dr. Jordan said, many man hours have been spent patching and repairing the road. He said he didn't know exactly how many man hours had been expended, but that "they've done a lot of patching."

North Carolina School Art Exhibit Opens At Person

The 16th annual North Carolina School Art exhibition will open in Person Hall Art Gallery at the University today and continue through May 24.

Consisting of 358 entries, representing 114 elementary schools throughout the State, the exhibit will include paintings, paper sculpture, textiles, weavings, ceramics, and papier mache work.

Judge of the works will be Arne Randall, specialist for fine arts, Office of Education, Washington, D. C.

Let's Dance

Durham's YWCA sponsors "Let's Dance," an evening of informal entertainment, each Saturday night from 8 to 11.

YW Chairman Myrtle Carter said college students, servicemen and young people in general are invited to attend the socials at the YWCA on West Chapel Hill Street in Durham.

Members of the freshman class in nursing at Watts Hospital will be guests tomorrow night. Refreshments will be served.

5,000 Females Listen

Blind Frosh Looking Forward To Satisfying Musical Career

By Walt Dear

He's a performer as well as a listener.

Owner of 1,600 records, mostly collectors' items of jazz, Ed Potter of Wilmington has a summer piano show, is an organizer of Dixieland jazz combos, and spends his weekends at popular night spots such as the Country Club. Ed handles the trombone and trumpet as easily as he twiddles the ivories.

Blind since he was three months old, Ed is thinking of a career in radio. "My hope is that my performing will be a boost in announcing," he says. Now a freshman at the University of North Carolina, Ed plans to major in radio. He has had five years of practical radio experience. His summer program on WMFD, Wilmington, has nearly 5,000 listeners, mostly female, who like to hear him sing as well as play.

Ed has had no trouble getting sponsors for his morning show. A local soft drink producer, a fashion shop, and a drug store enable him to go on the air four times a week with a fifteen minute show. His styling is a mixture of George Shearing and Skitch Henderson, plus a good bit of his own arranging.

One of his most unusual experiences with radio was working with an attractive vocalist, a senior in Wilmington High School, who could sing well, but who liked to do with no shoes on. "Even at rehearsals, she always took her shoes off," Ed recalls. "Singing barefoot is an old Southern tradition."

Now 21, Ed is looking forward to another summer show. He hopes to have a talent show.

When name bands come to Wilmington, Ed invites them to his show. Local musicians and townspeople are always welcome to a spot on the Potter show.

In high school, Ed organized the "Dixie Beaux" which toured many sections of the state.

Ed is continually adding to his large record collection. Recently he bought 16 jazz records and averages a weekly purchase of ten. Most of the records are collectors' items dating from 1935. He is now buying a series of foreign language jazz recordings, including England, Sweden and India. "There's nothing that can beat original American jazz," Ed says.

Next to record collecting, Ed likes to make recordings with his tape recorder. As a diversion one day, he thought out the piano harmonies in "Bye-Bye Blues," recorded his own voice for each part, combined them, and came out with a five part harmony piece.

Ed began to take piano lessons when he was ten. He learned classical music but plays popular pieces by ear.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed 34 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Sehindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyee Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Time For A Change

Carolina's oft-amended student constitution needs some more work done on it.

If, as in Tuesday's referendum, the vote of one student is to represent the opinion of nine who didn't cast a ballot, this public opinion poll isn't going to be much of an index to student feelings. Worse, it means that a small pressure outfit can work its will although it may not be best for the student body.

The Daily Tar Heel suggests the Student Legislature change Article vii, Section 3 in the constitution to read that a referendum will not be binding unless 30 per cent of the student body votes. It is 20 per cent less than the number usually voting for officers but is considered by political scientists as a proper figure for a referendum. Under such a plan it would have required 1,560 instead of 615 to endorse the action taken on three major issues.

We would remind the Student Legislature that Achilles was a strong man but he had an unprotected heel.

From The Inside

Columnist John Gibson is giving the student a look at the honor council from a vantage point the student is not likely to get: Inside the council.

Gibson is a member of the Men's Council and is able to grasp its procedures and nuances and pass them on via Pulque, his column. For many, the Carolina court system is in a never-never land; they know nothing of its functions. Gibson offers an opportunity to understand your justice. You should take advantage of it.

Deadly Drew

Several students are wanting to know why The Daily Tar Heel includes Drew Pearson on its editorial page. We're glad to be asked to explain.

We believe United States citizens must know about their government, both good and bad. Pearson is a Washhington veteran of two decades with a knowledge of the news and how to interpret it. During his years in the nation's capital he has acquired contacts which mean access to information to which the public is entitled but might never get. On the whole, he does his job thoroughly and accurately, and the Washington Merry-Go-Round keeps many government officials on a straighter, narrower path.

Pearson packs a punch.

Our Poetical Senate

Congressional Record Excerpts

MR. DOUGLAS: Does not the Senator from Oregon take great consolation from the words of the psalmist:

I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of God,
Than to dwell in the tents of wickedness."

MR. MORSE. I think that not only apropos, but it has been a source of great spiritual strength. I also take great consolation in that sound truism and spiritual teaching:

To thine own self be true.

MR. DOUGLAS: When the Senator from Oregon was speaking of hope, did he remember the lines of Goldsmith:

The wretch condemn'd with life to part,
Still, still on hope relies;
And every pang that rends the heart
Bids expectation rise.

MR. MORSE: I had quite forgotten the lines. I thank the Senator from Illinois for his contribution.

MR DOUGLAS. Does the Senator from Montana recall these lines:

I wish my room had a floor.
I don't care so much for a door.
But this walking around without touching the ground
Is getting to be quite a bore.

MR. MURRAY. That seems to be an appropriate poetical reference to the case before the Senate today (government power).

Tar Heel At Large

—Lt. Chuck Hauser—

SEOUL—The proud old capital of Korea is a battered city.

It has been a long time since the thunder of artillery and the lightning of machine guns last crackled through the streets of Seoul, but to the eyes of a tired traveller, it could have been yesterday.

Official business brought me here on a two-day jeep trip from the front and it is like being in a different world—a world of color and bristling civilian activity, in contrast to the drab and businesslike functioning of the war machine which we left far behind to the north.

For many miles from the front lines you cannot see even a peasant or a thatched hut. The rice paddies are overgrown swamps or burned-out wastelands. For there you are above the "farm line," the controlled war zone from which civilians are excluded.

Below the farm line an amazing change takes place. Everywhere you look Koreans are plowing, planting, digging—utilizing valleys, ridges, and even steep slopes which are terraced to prevent wasting even a square foot of arable land.

Seoul presents an entirely different picture. The scattered villages of mud-and-stone-walled, thatched-roof huts give way to a thickly-populated district of modern-type dwellings and shops, or at least what is left of them.

As you drive deeper into the city and the buildings increase in size and become more modern in construction, the terrible toll of war becomes strikingly apparent. Now it is a rare sight to find a structure which is more than a hollow shell.

Roofs are almost non-existant. Shell holes gape from each wall, and every brick and plaster surface is pock-marked from small arms fire. People still live in these ugly husks of buildings, and conduct their business in shops that are permanently open to the street.

Ragged, filthy children, many of them orphaned by the war, roam the streets by the hundreds, begging and stealing to keep alive.

Black Market is king in this town, and the American scrip dollar is queen. Military finance offices exchange 60 hwan (the new Korean currency which recently replaced the won) for one dollar. But the Black Market offers better than twice that amount of hwan for the stable military scrip currency.

It is illegal to deal in scrip on the Korean market. Military personnel are supposed to exchange their dollars (through official channels at the official rate) for hwan in order to buy goods from civilian merchants. But the extremely favorable illegal rates of exchange overcome all-out efforts of military authorities and the Korean government to wipe out the Black Market, and the king still reigns.

One bright spot in my trip was a chance meeting with Tar Heel Bob Wilder in the Seoul PX. Bob class of '54 and a PiKA at Carolina, is in an infantry regiment in the Second Infantry Division which is my outfit. I had last seen him in Chapel Hill early last summer.

'It's Over Here, Foster'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Top-spend-lobby group in the nation's capital today is the National Association of Electric Companies, which doled out $477,941.74 to influence Congress and the government last year.

This topped the doctors lobby by about $170,000, though the American Medical Association, by taxing every M.D. member, now ranks as the second largest lobby with a total expenditure to influence Congress last year of $309,514.93.

Under the Lobbying Act these groups, plus private influence-wielders, plus attorneys practicing before Congress, are required to register. There is nothing derogatory about such registration. The sound principle behind it is to let the public know who is spending the money to swing votes and pass appraprations.

During the Hoover Administration there was no Lobbying Registration Act, and one of the things that helped defeat Hoover was revelation that the Electric Power Lobby—its newer name is the National Association of Electric Companies — was spending money secretly to influence textbooks, newspapers, schools and colleges without the public knowing it.

Today the amount of money spent by the electric power lobby in Washington must be publicly registered so the American people are better able to judge what's happening. However, the manner in which the lobby pulls wires is still kept about as secret as a classified cable in the Pentagon, though this columnist can report some of the lobby's back-stage operations.

The public doesn't realize it, but the utility lobby has been more successful than at any time since Hoover's day and the Association of Electric Companies deserves credit for more than earning its pay.

What the lobby has done is virtually to write the budget of the Interior Department so as to cut off $110,000,000 of funds for transmission lines, public power, and irrigation reclamation projects.

This was accomplished by working through Congressman Ben F. Jensen of Iowa, chairman of a House Appropriations Subcommittee and long-time friend of the private utilities. Jensen has cooperated so closely with the power lobbyists in the past that Purcell Smith, who draws $65,000 a year plus expenses as top influence man for NAEC, has actually used the Congressman's office. In 1950, when the power lobby was trying to cut government power appropriations, Smith was found secluded in Jensen's office, sending notes to Jensen by messenger while Jensen sat in the House Appropriations Committee deciding how much should be cut from government funds.

More recently the chopping down of the Interior Department budget—with the complete acquiescence of Secretary of the Interior McKay—was so brazen that Congressman H. Carl Anderson of Minnesota, himself a Republican, accused Jensen of "selling out" to the private utilities.

What the power lobby, plus Secretary McKay, plus the House Appropriations Committee succeeded in doing was to reverse a policy enacted into law by another Republican president, Teddy Roosevelt, in 1906, providing that power from government dams shall be sold with preference rights to cities, states and other public bodies.

Chief immediate effect of this power-lobby victory will be to boost future rates to REA co-ops serving millions of farmers; also permit private utilities to purchase government power dirt cheap without going to the expense of building the dams. Thus the taxpayer will pay for building future dams and generating the electricity, while private utilities will be able to get the profit from selling the electricity.

Hitherto, the government has kept electric rates down in certain areas, such as the Tennessee Valley and the northwest by selling the power itself.

Significantly the first people to kick about Secretary McKay's new power policy are not the farmers—who don't know what's in store for them yet—but some of the biggest companies in the U.S.A. They include: The Aluminum Corporation of America, Reynolds Metals and Kaiser Aluminum Industries.

These and other private concerns have been getting cheap government power from Bonneville Dam in the northwest and from TVA in the South. Without cheap power they would be unable to make aluminum at a low enough price to compete with Canadian Aluminum, especially now that a tariff reduction is in prospect.

Dear President Ike

—A. Z. F. Wood Jr.—

Back in June of 1952, or thereabouts, when it became apparent that you were a probable candidate for president, many people threw up their hands in horror: "A military man! Dangerous, very dangerous!" But many other people, myself included, were not concerned over the fact that you wore an Army uniform. Our contention was that you were as much a diplomat and a coordinator as you were an able general, if not more so.

One of our most cogent arguments was that anybody who could get along with General Montgomery and Patton and Bradley, etc. was a diplomat of the highest calibre. So far as many of us were concerned, you were about the only man who could lead this nation out of corruption and chaos and indecision and lend stature to the office of President of the United States and inspire much-needed confidence.

You were well aware of what you would be up against if you were elected president, particularly at this time. And it speaks well for you that you mulled over your decision as to whether you'd run or not. For no one but a neurotic glory-hound would wish to be President of the United States.

You were also aware of one of the main gripes against you, that people were afraid of a military man, and you knew that it would be well if you bent over backwards to be diplomatic. In your four months in office you have taken every step to (1) preserve the separation of powers and confine your own activities strictly and constitutionally to the functions of the executive and (2) strive for as much unity as possible. You have succeeded admirably in these two very important points.

But with the much needed unity and diplomacy and growing confidence in the administration, there has grown steadily something that may more than negate the desirable unity, diplomacy and confidence.

I am speaking obviously of McCarthyism, an institution as old as history itself and an institution which has led directly to the downfall of every great empire and nation. Rome had its loyalty checks in the third and fourth centuries and fell in the fifth, and it is remarkable that she lasted that long. Spain had its inquisitions in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries and fell in the sixteenth. France and Germany both had theirs during the second world war and are no longer great nations. And so on.

It is my belief that McCarthyism is increasing alarmingly. It is a sad axiom that he who tells lies and half-truths long enough and loudly enough will sooner or later be believed. That's what law suits are for.

But you can't sue McCarthy et al. They have immunity. What you can do I don't know specifically and technically. But I am convinced that something can be done. Something has to be done.

It could be done most effectively by you, for you have the backing of 33,000,000 odd voters and many others who voted against you. You are apprehensive lest some positive action on your part should split the unity you have strived for and weaken the fight against Communism.

But I don't think so. I think McCarthy's sole support lies in fear: fear of the split and fear of the man and what he stands for. The support is superficial. Right now you are infinitely more respected than McCarthy. You could, for example, take a public stand, denunciate the man and what he stands for, and not only would you not lose supporters, you would gain, and with them unity. And the unity would be genuine and fearless and strong.

Tomorrow you might not be able to do this. It was too late in Germany in 1933.

Pulque

—John Gibson—

One of the more concrete problems, facing the honor system, is the luke-warm support, or actual hostility, displayed by some faculty members. Part of this is due to the failure of students to recognize their responsibility. This situation will be discussed later. However, this is small excuse for a faculty member to avoid his responsibility. It seems to me that the kind of support necessary from the faculty is something like this.

First, reasonable steps should be taken to prevent, or "discourage" cheating. This does not mean getting a room full of proctors for each exam, but it does mean removing the most obvious temptations. Thus students should not be seated so they are sitting in each others laps. Also the types of examinations have a great deal to do with this problem. I do not mean that factual questions should not be asked, as they are essential. However, the choice of question and manner of presentation ar very important.

Also if the faculty member, in class, would display a favorable attitude toward the honor system and give it active support in front of the students, it would help. Some professors are truly outstanding in this respect. Others are found wanting. Here again the support does not have to be highly elaborate. The instructor simply must state that he will operate under the honor system, will expect the students to enforce the rules in respect to themselves and each other, and on his part will turn over all offenders to the proper councils. Thus if he suspects cheating on a couple of papers, he should, at once notify the proper people, and send along all the relevant evidence. It is essential that the at once be emphasized. The honor system takes all the responsibility for punishment out of the professors' hands, thus, we hope, saving him a lot of grief.

Sometimes instructors delay because they are not sure what to do. Actually, the different councils could probably help things a great deal by preparing a brief outline of procedure and sending it to each instructor.

In short, the honor system could prove to be even more useful than it is if a uniform favorable support from the faculty could be obtained.

HOMEWARD BOUND—Five Southern states returned prisoners-of-war lost no time in arranging transportation home after they arrived at Travis Air Force Base, California, following a flight from Japan. Holding aloft their airline tickets home are left to right): Cpl: Willie J. Patrick, Hilliman, Ark; Pfc. Robert A. Lee, Falco, Ala.; Pvt Robert W. Fleming, Memphis, Tenn.; Pfc. Osorio-Melendez, Puerto Rico; and Pvt. Robert F. Philpot, of Hogansville, Ga.

Lamont And Pritchett To Take Leading Roles In "Lysistrata"

Foster Fitz-Simons, assistant director for the Carolina Playmakers, today announced his cast for the Forest Theatre production of Aristophanes' "Lysistrata," the uproarious comedy of sex and war that has been popular since it first won a prize at an Athens drama festival in 411 B.C. In a new version by Gilbert Seldes, "Lysistrata" will be presented May 22-24, in conjunction with the dedication of the Forest Theatre as a memorial to Frederick H. Koch, founder of the Playmakers.

The title role will be played by Louise Lamont of Chapel Hill, a veteran Playmaker familiar to local theatre-goers; other leading women's roles will be taken by Joanne San Antonio, Bangor, Me., as Kalonika; Mary Helen Crain, Durham, as Myrrhina; and Frances O'Neal, Chapel Hill, as Lampito. Chorus leaders are Marion Fitz-Simons, and Barbara Treat, both of Chapel Hill, and leading respectively the Old and Young Women's choruses. Members of these groups are Julianne Hale, Jefferson City, Tenn.; Keen Oliver, Chatham, Va.; Betty Johnson, Staunton, Va.; Dean MacCoy, Maplewood, N. J.; Martha Boyle, Alton, Ill.; Joyce Doughty, Waycross, Ga.; Janet Carter, Washington, D. C.; and Emily Selden and Diana Whittinghill, Chapel Hill. Women of Sparta, Thebes and Corinth will be played by Jean Hillman, Newark, Del.; Mary Anna Blair, Monroe; and Janet Green, Mary Sanford, Evelyn Tracey and Nancy Green, all of Chapel Hill.

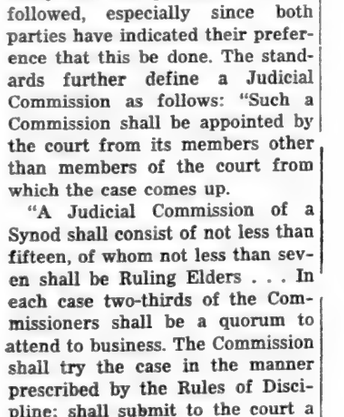
In the leading male role, James T. Pritchett of Lenoir will play Kinesias; with Edgar Daniels, Raleigh, as the President of the Senate and John Taylor, Wheeling, W. Va. as his clerk. The Old Men's Chorus, consisting of Wade Williams, Savannah, Ga.; George Boozer, Lexington, S. C.; Charles Johnston, Decatur, Ga.; William Casstevens, Yadkinville; and Frank Groseclose, Atlanta, Ga.; will be led by George Belk of Williamsburg, Va. Lysistrata's husband, Lykon, will be played by George Spence of Elizabeth City.

Other Athenian men guards, senators and Spartans, will be played by Paul Anisko, Elizabeth, N. J.; Billy Barnes, Wilson; James Fouts, Lexington; James Turner, Winston-Salem; Barclay Gordon, Huntington, L. I., N. Y.; Don Carmichael, Southport, Conn.; H. B. Patterson, Hickory; J. B. Tyndall, Cherokee; Terry Chronaki, Durham; Clinton Lindley, Chapel Hill; Carl Williams, Charlotte; and Hiram Black, Matthews.

Church Law To Govern Hearing On Chapel Hill Matter Is Given

The church rules and legal procedures to govern the Call Meeting of the North Carolina Synod "to hear and act upon a complaint by certain members of the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church against the action of Orange Presbytery in dissolving the pastoral relation between the church and their pastor, Rev. Charles M. Jones, as of March 1, 1953" were outlined this week by Dr. Harold J. Dudley, Stated Clerk of the Synod.

He advised that the meeting, open to the public, will be convened at 10:30 a.m., next Thursday the First Presbyterian Church, Raleigh. Notices have been sent to the ministers and Stated Clerks of the more than 600 churches of the Synod.



The Call is signed by the proper number of ministers and elders from an appropriate number of Presbyteries, in accord with the Book of Church Order, the official standards of the Church. In view of the fact that the standards state that either of the Church Courts above the Session "may, of its own motion, commit any judicial case coming before it by appeal or complaint to a Commission, and should ordinarily follow this procedure, especially when requested by one or both parties to the case", it is likely that this procedure will be followed, especially since both parties have indicated their preference that this be done. The standards further define a Judicial Commission as follows: "Such a Commission shall be appointed by the court from its members other than members of the court from which the case comes up.

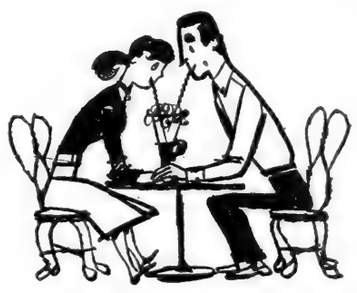
"A Judicial Commission of a Synod shall consist of not less than fifteen, of whom not less than seven shall be Ruling Elders . . . In each case two-thirds of the Commissioners shall be a quorum to attend to business. The Commission shall try the case in the manner prescribed by the Rules of Discipline; shall submit to the court a full statement of the case and the judgment rendered, all of which shall be entered on the minutes of the court and accepted as its action and judgment in the case."

The Rules of Discipline (Chapter XIII) specify that acts and decisions of lower courts may come under the supervision of higher courts (there are four in the Presbyterian Church) in one or another of the following modes: (1) Review and Control; (2) Reference; (3) Appeal; and (4) Complaint. The Chapel Hill case falls under the last category. A "complaint" is defined as "a written representation to a higher court against some act or decision of a lower court", and any communing member has the right to make a complaint unless an appeal has been taken in a judicial case. The court against which complaint is made is authorized to appoint one or more representatives to defend its action, who are known as the respondent party. Orange Presbytery has named the following representatives: Dr. T. Henry Patterson, Greensboro, Executive Secretary of the Presbytery; the Rev. Z. T. Piephoff, Greensboro, Chairman of the Presbytery Commission; Rev. G. Aiken Taylor, Burlington; E. Frank Andrews, Greensboro; and D. J. Walker, Graham.

The law of the church provides that the case shall be considered as follows: "(1) The reading of the complete record of the case, except any part of it that may be omitted by consent of the parties and the court itself; (2) the parties shall be heard, the complainant having the right of opening and closing the argument; (3) opportunity shall be given members of the appellate court to express their opinions; (4) the vote shall then be taken, without further debate, on each specification . . .

"The higher court has power, in its discretion, to annul the whole, or any part, of the action of a lower court against which complaint has been made, or to send the matter back to the lower court with instructions for a new hearing . . . In voting upon a complaint, the vote shall be to sustain, to sustain in part, or not to sustain."

THREATENS RECORD — Captain Manuel J. Fernandez (above) moved into a tie for the world's top jet ace title when he blasted his 12th enemy plane from the sky in the air war over Korea. Ferandez's kill tied the record set by his former commanding officer, Col. Royal N. Baker, who has since been rotated back to the U. S.



UNC Glee Club Event Sunday

Chapel Hill—The annual spring concert of the University of North Carolina Gle Clubs will take place Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock in Hill Hall.

Prof. Joel Carter of the University Music Department will conduct and there will be a number of student soloists and accompanists. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

The program will feature a considerable variety of works. For the first half the Women's Glee Club will give a selection of numbers from the Pergolesi "Stabat Mater," followed by the Faure "Requiem" in its entirety by the combined choruses.

How to make points with good looks

Manhattan
Burt—regular "soft roll" button-down collar.

Manhattan
Range—widespread soft collar with stays.

Looking smart is no problem. You start with a Manhattan label . . . you wind up in Style. And in the host of Manhattan collar styles you're sure to find more than one collar that makes style points for you. You'll like the extra comfort and long wear in every Manhattan shirt, too! Stop in at your nearest Manhattan men's shop today—see many more most-for-your-money values in distinctive Manhattan menswear.

Manhattan®

A DIXIE MADE PRODUCT

Rushed Fresh to Stores from Our Charlotte Bakery!
OUR PRIDE DELICIOUS 3-LAYER COCOANUT
CAKE BIG 32-OZ. SIZE 79¢

FROM CAROLINA'S COAST—HARRIS AMERICAN CHUNK STYLE
TUNA FISH NO. ½ CAN 25¢

MADE IN FLORIDA—DELICIOUS ORANGE
HI-C DRINK 46-OZ. CAN 27¢

MADE IN AUGUSTA—CASTLEBERRY'S FAMOUS
GA. HASH 10½-OZ. CAN 35¢

From Louisiana—Durand's Cut Golden
SWEET POTATOES 17-OZ. CAN 21¢ | NO. 2½ CAN 35¢

COLONIAL STORES MARK OF QUALITY FOODS

Georgia Maid or Little Sister
Pickle Values!
SWEET MIXED PICKLES 22-OZ. JAR 33¢
KOSHER DILL PICKLES 28-OZ. JAR 33¢
CUCUMBER SLICES PICKLES 12-OZ. JAR 19¢

Co-Chem Liquid
STARCH MADE IN SAVANNAH QUART BOTTLE 19¢

MADE IN CHATTANOOGA—BROCK'S MARSHMALLOW
CANDY PEANUTS 13-OZ. PKG. 25¢
MADE IN TENNESSEE—BUSH'S BEST GOLDEN
HOMINY 2 NO. 2 CANS 23¢
ROASTED IN LOUISIANA—RED LABEL COFFEE
LUZIANNE 1-LB. CAN 87¢
MADE IN CAROLINA—NUTREAT COLORED QUARTERS
MARGARINE 1-LB PKG. 22¢
SUPERFINE DELICIOUS
LIMAGRANDS 17-OZ. CAN 17¢
BLUE MAGIC FOR YOUR WASH!
NEW CHEER LGE. PKG. 29¢
FOR FINE WASHABLES
IVORY SNOW LGE. PKG. 27¢
LAUNDRY BLEACH
CLOROX QT. BOT. 17¢

Garner's "Texas Pete"
SAUCES
WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE 5-OZ. BOT. 10¢
B-B-Q, STEAK, OR COCKTAIL SAUCE 7-OZ. BOT. 10¢

Crisco Vegetable
SHORTENING 3-LB. CAN 89¢

Dog Food
STRONGHEART 1-LB. CAN 10¢

Serve Turkey with Oceanspray
CRANBERRY SAUCE 1-LB. CAN 20¢

Carolina Dressed and Drawn—10 to 14 Lbs. Avg.
TURKEYS
U. S. GOVERNMENT GRADE "A"—YOUNG AND TENDER! LB. 59¢

STEWING BEEF BONELESS LB. 55¢
ROAST 7-IN CUT BEEF RIB BUDGET BEEF U. S. COMC'L LB. 59¢
ROAST 7-IN. CUT BEEF RIB COLONIAL PRIDE U. S. CHOICE LB. 65¢
PIMIENTO SPREAD 8-OZ 39¢
Fryer Pieces! Buy the Pieces You Like At Colonial—Priced Low!

CHATHAM
FRANKS 1-LB. PKG. 49¢

Crisp Firm Green Medium Size Head
CABBAGE
A REAL VALUE—SAVE MORE AT COLONIAL! 2 LBS. 5¢

EXTRA LARGE SUNKIST
LEMONS DOZ. 43¢
FANCY YELLOW CROOKNECK
SQUASH 2 LBS. 17¢
FANCY FULL-POD CROWDER
PEAS 2 LBS 35¢
U. S. NO. 1 NEW RED BLISS
POTATOES 5 LBS. 29¢

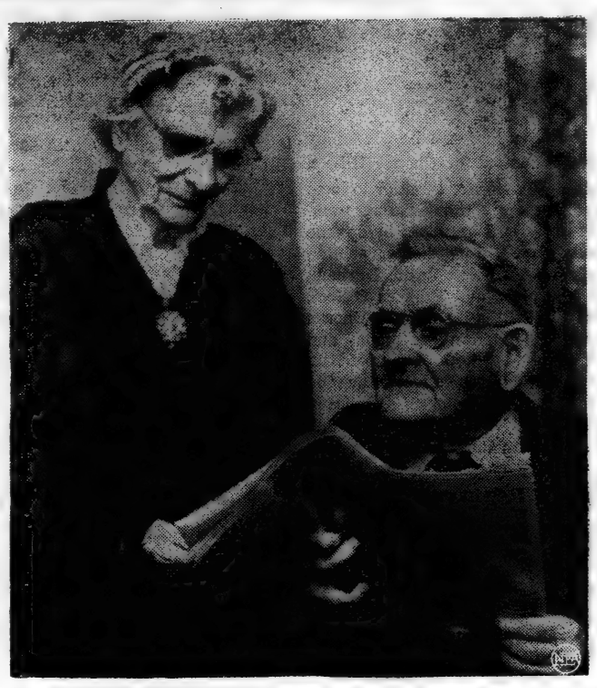
Frozen Food Values!
SEABROOK FARMS CAULIFLOWER 10-OZ. 25¢
SEABROOK FARMS SPEARS BROCCOLI 10-OZ. 25¢
SEABROOK FARMS BABY GREEN LIMA BEANS 10-OZ. 23¢
REALGOLD CONCENTRATED LEMONADE 2 6-OZ. 33¢
MINUTE MAID ORANGE JUICE 6-OZ. 17¢

Special "Bonus Buy" At Colonial!
"VAL-KEEN" BRAND 50-FOOT PLASTIC
GARDEN HOSE
- REGULAR $5.99 VALUE
- GUARANTEED 5 YEARS
- LIGHTWEIGHT, DURABLE
- MADE BY GOODYEAR

$3.49 With $5.00 In Purchases
Limited Supply—Get Your Garden Hose Early!

COLONIAL STORES
• Corner Franklin & Graham Sts. TWO STORES • Glen Lennox

Student's Play To Be Produced By Playmakers



An unusual amount of student talent has gone into the Playmakers' last full-length student production of the season, "Judgment Over Daniel," a drama of family conflict by Frank Groseclose, Atlanta, Ga., university graduate student in drama, to be presented in the Playmakers Theatre next Thursday and Friday, at 7:30 o'clock.

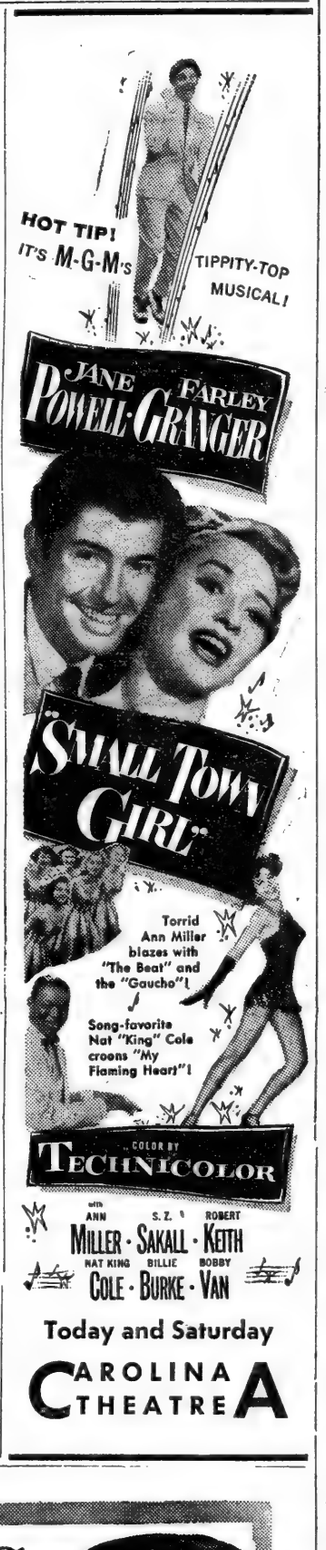
There is no admission charge and the public is invited.

The play is the 161st in a series of student-written productions that began with the founding of the Playmakers here in 1919. From the first bills of one-act folk dramas, the Playmakers' series has grown to include full-length plays on a variety of themes. These plays are entirely student-produced under the general suprvision of Thomas M. Patterson, professor of playwriting, University Dramatic Art Department.

"Judgment Over Daniel" is being directed by another graduate student, John S. Miller of Signal Mountain, Tenn., and settings are designed by Tommy Rezzuto, Asheville, graduate student recently tapped into the Golden Fleece, the University's highest honorary organization.

Groseclose, who will receive his M.A. degree in June, has appeared in numerous Playmaker productions and has also appeared with Little Theatre groups in Durham and Raleigh. He had the role of Don Juan in the Raleigh Little Theatre's quartet reading of Shaw's "Don Juan in Hell", presented this season. He has also written music for several Playmaker productions and has had a one-act play, "A Spell for Davy," produced in an earlier student series.

MARRIED 70 YEARS—Mr. and Mrs. William H. McCormick (above) have just celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary at their Pittsfield, Mass., home. Mrs. McCormick, 94, still does her own housework and cooking while Mr. McCormick, 96, keeps a small garden.



School Exhibit Opens Today

The 16th annual North Carolina Schol Art exhibition will open in Person Hall Art Gallery today and continue through May 24.

Consisting of 358 entries, representing 114 elementary schools throughout the State, the exhibit will include paintings, paper sculpture, textiles, weaving, ceramics, and papier mache work.

Judge of the works will be Arne Randall, specialist for fine arts, Office of Education, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Randall said "the 16th annual North Carolina School Art Exhibit exemplified a real desire on the part of the schools to make it possible for their children to enjoy everything that art in a public school has to offer.

WOMAN'S DAY Turns To The Thoughts Of SPRING See The Many Features In The May Issue WOMAN'S DAY Per Copy 7c

COMPARE QUALITY! COMPARE PRICE!

See How Much You Save At A&P

A&P Tiny Peas 16-Oz. Can 19c

Armour's or Libby's Corned Beef Hash 16-Oz. Can 29c

Gelatin Desserts Ann Page Sparkle 3 Pkgs. 17c

Walker's Austex Beef Stew 15-Oz. Can 33c

Northern Toilet Tissue 3 Rolls 25c

Millions of Mothers Depend on A&P's Fruits and Vegetables

Well Filled Ears—Fresh Corn - - - - 4 ears 25¢

Juicy Florida Oranges - - - 8 Lb. Bag 45¢

New White Florida Potatoes - - 10 Lbs. 35c

Size 54's & 64's Juicy Grapefruit - - 4 For 29c

Yellow Onions - - - - Lb. 5c

Juicy Lemons - - - - Lb. 15c

Crisp Carrots - - - - 1-Lb. Pkg. 11c

Flakorn - - 11¾-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Van Camps With Pork & Tom. Sauce Beans - - 2 16-Oz. Cans 27c

ANN PAGE Peach - Plum - Pineapple PRESERVES 16-Oz. Jar 25c

Tea Lipton's ¼-Lb. - Pkg. 33c

Lipton's Tea Bags 48-Ct. Pkg. 55c

20-Mule Team Borax - 16-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Boraxo 8-Oz. Can 19c

Bug Killer Real Kill Pt. Bot. 69c Qt. Bot. 1.19

Blue-White Flakes Pkg. 9c

Surf Lge. Pkg. 29c Giant Pkg. 57c

Lifebuoy Soap 2 Bath Bars 23c

Lifebuoy Soap 3 Reg. Bars 23c

Specially for Mom!

Jane Parker MOTHER'S DAY Layer Cake 8-Inch Cake Attractively Decorated 79c

MOTHER'S DAY CUP CAKES Pkg. of 6 33c

Wesson Oil - - Pt. Bot. 35c Qt. Bot. 67c

Snowdrift - - - 1-Lb. Tin 33c 3-Lb. Tin 91c

Strongheart Dog Food - - - 3 15½-Oz. Cans 25c

Octagon Detergent - - - Lge. Pkg. 20c

Ajax Cleanser - - - - 2 Pkgs. 25c

Sweetheart Soap - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c

Ivory Soap - - - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c

Ivory Snow - - - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c

Oxydol - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c Giant Pkg. 65c

P&G Soap - - - - - 2 Bars 15c

Super Suds - - Lge. Pkg. 27c Giant Pkg. 65c

Vel - - - - - - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c

Fab - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c Giant Pkg. 69c

Octagon Soap - - - - 2 Bars 15c

No Disappointments for Mothers Who Buy A&P's "Super-Right" Meats

Super Right Heavy Western Beef SIRLOIN STEAK - - - Lb. 79c

Super Right Boneless ROUND STEAK - - - Lb. 79c

Bone in Plate STEW BEEF - - - - - Lb. 19c

Nice Thick FAT BACKS - - - - - Lb. 15c

Headless & Dressed WHITING - - - - - - Lb. 12c

Freshly Ground BEEF - - - - - - - - Lb. 39c

Swift Premium FRANKS - - - - - - - 1-Lb. Pkg. 49c

Super Right Dressed & Drawn Fresh FRYERS - - - - - - - Lb. 49c

12 to 14 Lb. Avg. Skinned Short Shank Smoked Hams Half or Whole Lb. 69c • Butt Portion Lb. 63c • Shank Portion Lb. 59c

AMERICA'S FOREMOST FOOD RETAILER . . . SINCE 1859

A&P Super Markets

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

These Prices Effective Thru Saturday, May 9th

ATO's Win Fraternity Track Meet

Kocornick Takes Two Firsts In Hurdles For Winning Team

Alpha Tau Omega captured five first places and racked up a total of 33 points to win the fraternity division of the annual intramural track meet yesterday afternoon on Fetzer Field.

Dick Kocornick was the big man for the ATO's as he won both the high and low hurdle events. The winning team also took first places in the 440 and 880 yard relays and the discus. Tom Adler won this event for them with a toss of 121 feet 8 inches.

The Carolina tennis team has one of its toughest matches of the season today at New Haven, Conn., against powerful Yale University.

Beta Theta Pi was runner up with 21 points as they took three first places, and SAE was close behind in third place with a 19 point total.

Only two teams were entered in the dormitory division as Victory Village won out over Connor 56-40. Ken Yarborough won both the discus 118 feet and putting the shot 36 feet 5½ inches.

The one-hundred yard dash in the fraternity division was won by Dick Spangler of SAE in the time of 10.8 seconds. The same race in the dormitory division was won by Cooke of Victory Village in the relatively slow time of 11.8 seconds.

Tom Adler of ATO won the discus with a throw of 121 feet 8 inches and Thad Eure won the shot put for the Betas with a distance of 40 feet 10 inches.

The fraternity pole vault event was won by Hood of Chi Psi, who went to a height of 5 feet and 10 inches. Goode of Lambda Chi was second. There was no pole vault in the dormitory division.

In the high jump, Thompson of SAE took first place with a jump of 5 feet 2 inches. Joyner of Phi Delt was second. The dormitory high jump was won by Ellis of Connor Dorm who reached a height of 5 feet 10 inches.

Stickmen Meet W&L Today

Tar Heels Search For Fourth Victory Of Current Season

The Carolina lacrosse team will play its eighth match of the season today against the Washington and Lee Generals.

So far they have a record of three wins against four losses, including a 3-1 record on their northern trip. After their match today they will face Duke on Monday and Virginia a week from today. Virginia has one of the best teams in the nation and it would be a real feather in the cap of the Tar Heel stickmen if they could upset the Cavaliers.

Lew Floyd and Dickie Harrell, stars on last year's team, are repeating again this year. Floyd set the national record for goalies with 210 saves for ten games. This year he is a fraction behind his record total, but still has an average of 20.5 goals for the seven games he has played thus far. He still has a chance to set a new mark, especially if he has another performance as the one against Dartmouth when he blocked 29 attempts.

Harrell is the leading scorer on the team with a total of 13 for the current season. Playing from the attack position, he led the Tar Heels in this department last year also. This season he is the top man in spite of recurrent injuries.

Other top contributors to the scoring are Dave Cole, Walt Ernst, Ted Dawes, and Joe Walker.

The game will be played at 3 o'clock today on Navy field.

Brown Tennis Match Cancelled Yesterday

The rain which Carolina's tennis team has been dodging for the last three days finally caught up with them yesterday afternoon in Providence, Rhode Island, and caused the cancelling of their match with Brown University.

The match was the third which the Tar Heels have lost from their schedule this year due to inclement weather. The team will be in New Haven, Conn., today for a return match with Yale.

Del Sylvia, who has been missing from the lineup for the last three matches due to the death of his grandmother, will return to the number one position for Carolina today. A victory for the Tar Heels will give them their twenty-second straight win without a loss.

The team will close out its regular season schedule on Saturday when they meet their severest test of the season in a match with Princeton.

APOLOGY

Yesterday's article on the Carolina infield stated that Fred Dale was the only married member. This probably made Mrs. Bob Henning raise her eyebrow.

We apologize to Mrs. Henning, wife of the Carolina first baseman.

Baseball Team Has Possibility Of Clinching Berth In Tourney

Carolina's baseball team, once more tied for first place in the Big Four, has a chance to go into the lead and clinch a spot in the Conference playoffs tomorrow when they meet Duke in Durham.

Carolina and the Blue Devils are tied in the Big Four with 4-3 records, and the Tar Heels are currently leading the southern division of the Conference with a 10-3 record.

If Carolina dropped this game and their season finish against State Tuesday, and State won all four of their remaining games, the Tar Heels could finish the season third in the division and not make the playoffs.

Chal Port is the probable starter for tomorrow. Port has started both games against Duke this year, and has a 1-1 record against the Blue Devils.

Coach Ace Parker of Duke is expected to start George Carver, left hander who gave up only two runs to Carolina in the last game.

Tickets for Conference playoffs, whether Carolina is in it or not, are now on sale at Woollen Gym. The playoffs are May 14, 15, and 16 at Devereaux Meadow in Raleigh.

The two top teams in the southern division will meet the two leading teams in the northern division in the playoffs. The two northern teams will be Maryland and George Washington.

The southern division is still undecided, with State, Duke and Carolina the leading candidates.

Tar Heels Clash With Penn In Last Home Meet Of Season

The Tar Heel track team will stage it's last home appearance of the 1953 outdoor track season tomorrow afternoon on Fetzer Field when it clashes with the University of Pennsylvania.

The Tar Heels are on the upsurge following last Wednesday's win over the Cavaliers from the University of Virginia and this Saturday's meet with a strong Quaker team promises to be a hotly contested struggle down to the last event.

The Tar Heel leaders will be Roger Morris in the shot put, Tom McAllister in the discus, Charlie Yarborough in the broad jump, Sam Jordon in the pole vault, Bobby Barden in the mile run, Bobby Bell and Louis Beall in the hurdles, and Newman in the 880 yard run.

Next week the trackmen will be entered in the Southern Conference Outdoor games which are to be held next Friday and Saturday at Davidson. This should be a ruggedly contested struggle between the three top teams in the Conference of Duke, Maryland and Carolina. Maryland, the winner of last year's games is given a slight edge by the experts to make a repeat performance of last year's narrow margin victory.

State Host For Annual Big Four Intramural Sports

North Carolina State will be host for the Annual Big Four Intramural Sports Day to be held on Tuesday, May 12. Competition will be conducted between the schools of the Big Four in softball, volleyball, tennis, horseshoes, table tennis, handball, and golf. Try-outs for these sports have been carried on during this week.

Last year the University of North Carolina won the championship, berely edging out N. C. State.

In The Majors

National League

Milwaukee at Pittsburgh, rain.
St. Louis at Brooklyn, rain.
Chicago at New York, rain.
Cincinnati at Philadelphia, rain.

American League

No games scheduled.

Corresponding Courses Open

Students may earn credit for an extra course this summer while working or on vacation.

The University offers correspondence courses in many departments (art, business administration, comparative literature, dramatic art, education, english, geology and geography, German, history, Latin, mathematics, music, philosophy, political science, psychology, religion, and sociology and anthropology) for which credit is granted toward bachelor's degrees.

Complete information can be secured from the Bureau of Correspondence Instruction, Swain Hall.

HOLE-IN-ONE

Bill Williamson, Carolina golfer, shot a hole-in-one on the Hope Valley Country Club course Tuesday while practicing for the coming match with Duke.

JUST RECEIVED

Genuine WHITE BUCKS $10.95

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

Hey Pal! Sunday Is Mother's Day. Hurry Over To THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

"What happens to the blood we give?"

Captain Elizabeth F. Johnson, A.N.C.,

Just Back From Korea, Gives You Her Answer

"IT SAVES LIVES—that's what happens to the blood we give!" said Army Nurse, Captain Elizabeth F. Johnson when the question was put to her at a local blood donor center recently.

"I was stationed at an Army Hospital in Korea," she continued. "Not close to any battle front, but where the biggest battle of all goes on—the battle for life. Day after day I've seen the blood you donate bring shocked and wounded men literally 'back from the dead.' And it's blood—and blood alone—that does it."

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Yes, blood is saving lives in Korea at the front—and far behind the combat areas. But remember — here at home, too, blood is also needed by other thousands in our civilian hospitals. What's more, it is vital to our national defense that we build a reserve of plasma against the possibility of an enemy bombing attack on our cities and factories.

What happens to the blood you give? Well, this you can be sure of: No matter where it goes . . . this priceless, painless gift you give will some day save an American life!

★ NATIONAL BLOOD PROGRAM ★

GIVE BLOOD NOW
Call Your Red Cross Today!

THE DAILY TAR HEEL

A FOUR-FOOTED FRIEND in a foreign land lends aid to the U. S. Marines. This is a picture which could have been taken almost anywhere and almost any time in the past ten years . . . there may very well be others like it taken in the next ten years . . . or more.

For in a time of unrest such as this, our country must be alert on many fronts—to keep the restless peace. This takes strength. Strength in manpower, strength in our national economy, represented by YOU!

For you are an important part of our country's economy. When you have a sturdy backlog of savings you are secure—and so is your country. And one of the best ways for you to build up and keep such security is by buying United States Defense Bonds—regularly. Your bonds and other forms of saving make you a solid, dependable citizen of an economically strong nation. And peace is only for the strong!

Buy Defense Bonds today . . . and buy them regularly through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Strengthen your own future and that of your country by saving your money through bonds.

HERE'S HOW E BONDS NOW EARN MORE MONEY FOR YOU!

Now safe, sure U. S. Series E Defense Bonds pay an even better return than ever before . . . thanks to 3 brand-new money-earning features just announced by the U. S. Treasury.

1. Now every Series E Bond you buy begins earning interest after only 6 months. It earns 3%, compounded semiannually, when held to maturity. It reaches full maturity value earlier (9 years 8 months) and the interest it pays is now bigger at the start!

2. Every Series E Bond you own can now go on earning interest for 10 more years after it reaches the original maturity date—without your lifting a finger!

3. During the 10-year extension period, every unmatured bond earns at the new, higher interest (average 3% compounded semiannually). Your original $18.75 can now repay you $33.67. $37.50 pays back $67.34. And so on.

Start now! Invest more savings in better-paying Series E Bonds—through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank.

Peace is for the strong . . .
for peace and prosperity
save with U. S. Defense Bonds!

The Daily Tar Heel

GIVE BOOKS FOR MOTHER'S DAY

We Suggest

FLOWERS OF THE SOUTH
by Greene and Blomguist
$5.00

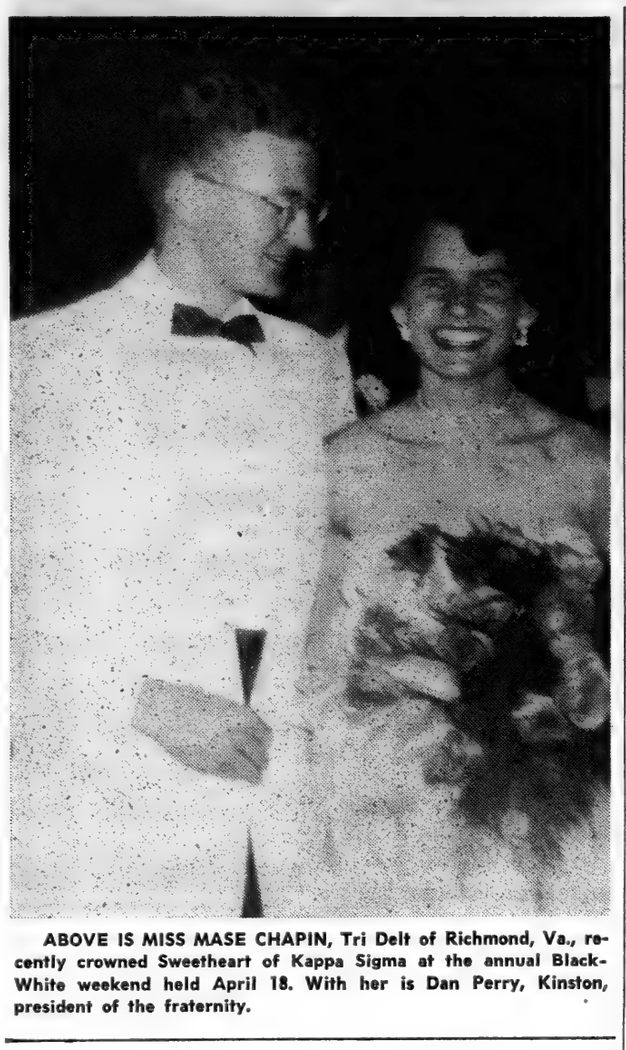
ELIZABETH AND PHILIP
coronation year reading
$3.50

MEMORIES OF AN OLD TAR HEEL
$1.00

A ZIPPY MOTHER'S DAY CARD
25c

BOOKSHOP THE INTIMATE
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Mother's Day Cards for Zippy Mothers—



THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
Open Evenings

CLARK'S
Sewing Machines and Kirby Vacuum Cleaners
We Pay Cash for Good Used Sewing Machines
Repairs on All Makes of Machines
19 Years of Experience
J. W. CLARK, Manager
Call 9-5708

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

ABOVE IS MISS MASE CHAPIN, Tri Delt of Richmond, Va., recently crowned Sweetheart of Kappa Sigma at the annual Black-White weekend held April 18. With her is Dan Perry, Kinston, president of the fraternity.

Sigma Nu, Chi Psi, Kappa Sig, Chi Phi Announce New Officers

Four fraternities elected officers for the coming year this week.

Psi chapter of Sigma Nu has elected Mike Davis, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Emminent Commander; Gene Hicks, Wilmington, Lieutenant Commander; Stan Smith, Virginia Beach, Va., Recorder; Carl Webb, Shelby, Treasurer; Bob Grimes, Rocky Mount, IFC representative and reporter; Ed Clement, Salisbury, Chaplain; Roger Christensen, Charlotte, Marshal; Jake Roberts, Hillsboro, Sentinel, Social Chairman, and House Manager; Gene Hicks, Wilmington, Pledge Master; Lee Holmes, Boone, Historian; Ray White, Columbus, Ga. Intramural Manager; Buddy Harper, Snow Hill, German Club Representative; Turner Bass, Tarboro, Assistant House Manager; Wallace Pridgen, Wilson, Dining Room Manager; Bozy Sugg, Snow Hill, Steering Committee.

Newly elected officers of Alpha Mu chapter of Kappa Sigma are Dick Kane, Worchester, Ohio, grand master; Bill Dameron, Goldsboro, grand procurator; Herb Sugg, Kinston, grand master of ceremonies; Dick Neill, St. Pierce, Fla., grand treasurer; Dick Tyndall, Kinston, grand scribe; Ed Borden, Goldsboro, and Charlie Norwood, Goldsboro, guards; Curtis Harper, Albany, Ga., pledge master; Herb Sugg, House Manger; Jack Stoughton, Raleigh, dining room manager; Bob Henley, Raleigh, IFC representative; Charlie Norwood, Goldsboro, University Club representative; Jack Stoughton, Raleigh, rush chairman; Charlie Scott, Graham, intramural manager; Bill Current, Gastonia, German Club representative; Bill Carter, Pinehurst, Gaither Walser, Lexington, and Ed Borden, Goldsboro, University Party representatives.

Newly elected officers of Kappa chapter of Pi Kappa Phi are Jerry Ridge, Norfolk, Va., Archon; Vonnie Smith, Lumberton, Treasurer; Jerry Campbell, Taylorsville, Secretary; Wint Wilkes, Richmond, Va., Warden-Pledgemaster; James Gulledge, Monk's Corner, S. C., Historian; Richard Frucci, Jacksonville, Chaplain.

Alpha Alpha Chapter of Chi Phi has elected as officers for the coming year Jack Stilwell, Charleston, S. C., President; Neil Saterfield, Atlanta, Ga. Vice President; Mike Brown, Anderson, S. C., Secretary; Mike Soper, Charlotte, Historian; Garland Coble, Greensboro, Custodian.

Alpha Kappa Psi's Honor Pledge Class At Banquet

Alpha Tau chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi made its annual awards presentation Saturday night, May 2nd, in conjunction with its banquet and dance in honor of the 1953 pledge class.

The Scholarship Key was presented to Lynn Fage Chandler, Morrisville. This award is made annually to the highest ranking male student of the junior class in each of the schools of business administration where a chapter is located.

The recipient of the Distinguished Service Award was L. R. Jordan, Smithfield. This award is given for outstanding service rendered to the fraternity. Jordan was also presented with a gavel and block by the brothers of Alpha Tau chapter for his outstanding leadership as president during the past year.

Awards were presented by Wilford Redmon, Leaksville, president of the chapter.

TEP Fraternity Announces Awards At Banquet

Omega chapter of Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity held its annual awards banquet Saturday night, May 2, at the Carolina Inn.

The awards banquet is designed to present to those members of the fraternity who have distinguished themselves in the fields of pledging, athletics, scholarship, rushing, and outstanding service to the fraternity, some token of merit.

Plaques and trophies were awarded to Larry Maslow, Brooklyn, N. Y., outstanding pledge; Richard Levy, Jamaica, Long Island, outstanding athlete; Norman Goldin, Raleigh, highest scholastic average for the fall and winter quarters; Roger Ackerman, Wallace, outstanding performance as rush chairman for the past year; Richard Pritchard, Wilson, outstanding senior.

A special award, the Chancellor's Key, was given to Norman Goldin, past chancellor, for outstanding service to the fraternity during his term.

Amphoterothen Names New Members Of Group

Amphoterothen, extemporaneous public speaking society, has elected the following new members: Jack Stilwell, Raleigh; Gerald Parker, Silverdale; Phin Horton, Winston-Salem; Ed Goss, Harrisburg, Pa.; and Ozzie Asycue. The old members of the society include Ken Penegar, Gastonia; Gil Marsh, Thomasville; Ken Myers, Miami, Fla.; Gene Cook, Fayetteville; Ed Smith, Matthews; Dan Perry, Kinston, Secretary-Treasurer.

SIGMA NU TRIAD BALL

Psi chapter of Sigma Nu will hold its annual Triad Ball at the Washington Duke Hotel in Durham Saturday. Duke Sigma Nu's will be host to the Carolina and State chapters. Jimmy Perkins' orchestra from Burlington will furnish music for the formal dance to be held in the Crystal Ballroom.

ADPi, Pi Kap's Name Initiates

New initiates of Beta Upsilon chapter of Alpha Delta Pi are Mary Ammons, Mars Hill; Mary Bascom Cook, Highlands; Billie Daniel, Waynesboro, Ga.; Betty Martin, High Point; Frances Pickett, High Point; Martha Reeves, Thomaston, Ga.; Mary Ann Russell, Charlotte; Pat Seawell, Winston-Salem; Caroline Traynham, Wilmington.

Newly initiated members of Kappa chapter of Pi Kappa Phi are Avery Connell, Monroe; Richard Frucci, Jacksonville; David Futch, Monroe; Billy Joe Johnson, Lillington; Dewey Pate, New Bern; Vonnie Smith, Lumberton; Jack Taylor, Aberdeen; Fritz Thurston, Chapel Hill, and James Yokeley, Thomasville.

Annual Rose Ball Held By Pi Kappa Phi At Inn

Kappa chapter of Pi Kappa Phi held its annual Rose Ball the weekend of April 25th.

Saturday afternoon a concert was given by the Southerners of Wake Forest. Saturday night a buffet supper was held at the house. The ball was held in the ballroom of the Carolina Inn from 9-12. Music was supplied by the Southerners of Wake Forest.

Miss Sarah Cole of Raeford was crowned Rose Queen of Pi Kappa Phi. A bouquet of red roses and a loving cup were presented to her by President Al Cole. She was escorted by Dick Starner of Elkhart, Ind.

Outstanding pledge award was presented to Ben Farrell, Charlotte. Best paddle award went to Winfred Taylor, Lumberton.

—Grant—

(Continued from page 1)

demic work towards his Ph. D.

He expects to leave for Bogota, Columbia this fall and will be accompanied by his family. Mrs. Helguera is the former Charlotte Byrd Stone of Onancock, Va. They have one child, Joseph Hamilton C. Helguera. Helguera is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Helguera of Chapel Hill.

Helguera is a veteran of two and one half years of wartime service with the United States Army, serving in the Pacific Theatre, spending most of his time among the Philippine Islands.

He is a member of the American Historical Association, and Phi Alpha Theta, honorary historical fraternity.

Campus Carousel

By Eleanor Saunders

The mass exodus seems to be taking place this weekend. Everyone is either going to the beach to enjoy the fine (?) spring weather or to various parts of the country to spend Mother's Day at home.

The Phi Delt's announce that Putt Davis is finally back, and his smiling face will probably grace the Goody Shop from now on. The rest of the Phi Delt's will journey to Myrtle Beach this weekend, where their headquarters will be located at the Kit Kat.

Wednesday night Lambda Chi's from State, Wake Forest, and Carolina met at Wake Forest for a huge basketball game. The Carolina brothers won the game, giving them permanent ownership of the trophy.

Several Phi Kappa Sigma's took in the Kentucky Derby at Louisville last weekend, from which they returned broke but happy. They will have their annual beach house-party at brother Bobby Jones' house at Ocean Drive this weekend.

Stinky Noneman, of Phi Gam fame, broke down and attended a dance at W.C. last weekend.

There must be a small-sized Azalea Festival planned for this weekend for Wrightsville Beach. Chi Psi's, Lambda Chi's, and Kappa Sig's will make the big trip for the party. This will be the Chi Psi's annual spring house-party, which will be highlighted by a Luau party Saturday night.

TEP's announce the pinning of Roger Ackerman, Wallace, to Fran Cohen, Winston-Salem. Also pinned are AKPsi Pete Lupton, Edenton, and Helen Lackey, Asheville.

The Monogram Club will entertain the Pi Phi's next week with a party at Hogan's Lake. Chi O's were honored by the Beta's at a Hogan's party on Thursday.

ADPi Anne Jacobs of Chapel Hill was serenaded Wednesday night by the KA's. She is pinned to Don Cheek, Shelby.

Chi O Isabel Barksdale, Clarksdale, Miss., is pinned to George Maynard, an SAE at Washington and Lee. The KD's will be entertained by the Chi O's Monday afternoon at a tomato juice party.

Saturday the DKE's will go en masse to Greensboro to attend the wedding of Clem Wright, who will marry Betty Sellars. From there several of the brothers will visit the Gay Manor at Myrtle Beach.

Will the Sigma Chi's ever cease? Sid Hoots of Winston-Salem pinned Marilyn Cubage of Savannah, Ga. Wednesday night the Sigma Chi's went to Greensboro to serenade pin-ups at W.C. and G.C. Dinner at the house and a party at Watts' last night composed another of the parties honoring the candidates for Sweetheart of Sigma Chi.

Pi Kappa Phi's will be entertained this weekend by Ernie McGinnis at Myrtle Beach. Theta Chi's and ZBT's will also travel to Myrtle.

Dewey Pate, Pi Kappa Phi from New Bern, is pinned to Ann Rivenbark, also from New Bern.

ATO Roger Kingsbury will travel through unknown territory this weekend when he goes to Alabama.

Last, but not least, the Order of the Golden Bear presents its weekly award to the ZBT's for their little red wagon party. Honorable mention goes to the ADPi's for their excellent party ability displayed at the Lambda Chi pajama party last week.

Short Movies On India Run Tonight At 8

Six short movies on India will be shown in Gerrard Hall tonight at 8:00 o'clock. Sponsored by the students from India in cooperation with the YMCA World Relatedness Commission, the program is for the purpose of aiding in the understanding of the Indian people and their culture.

Dr. B.A.S. Iyengar of Mysore State, India and Mr. Hi Walker of Florence, Alabama are in charge of the film series. The program is the last in the series, and will be about one hour in length.

Following are the films that will be shown:

"Rural Maharastra"—depicts the life and activities of an ethnical group in the western and southwestern parts of India.

"Rustic Delights"—on the joy of harvesting. Shows the rural folk in a delightful mood.

"Iron Horse"—India starting the manufacture of locomotives.

"Handicrafts of South India"—Shows the great skill and dexterity in wood carving, ivory carving and other such art.

"Story of Steel" — Shows the steel industry in India.

"Festival Time"—On some of the folklore of India.

What Goes On Here

Banquet Reservations

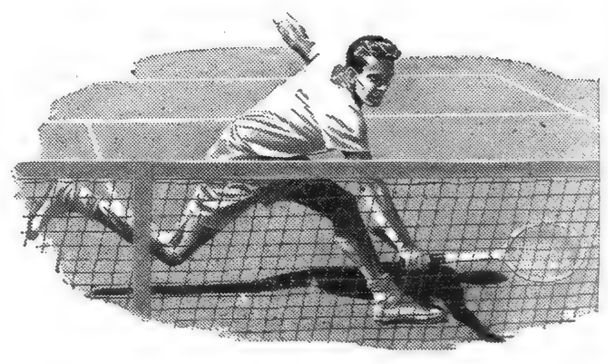
Chancellor Robert B. House will speak at the annual installation banquet of the YMCA Tuesday night. Interested students, faculty and townspeople are invited to attend the banquet, which will be held from 5:45 to 8 p.m. in the Blue Room of Lenoir Hall. Reservations may be made by calling the Y.M.C.A. Office, 6761.

WUNC

Today's schedule.

7 p.m.—The Children's Circle.
7:30—The Musician Comments.
7:45—Report from Europe.
8—Coronation Program.
9—Music Appreciation by Dr. William Newman.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.
11—Sign Off.

Saturday's Schedule.
7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
8—Paris Star Time.
8:30—Take it From Here.
9—The Hill Hall Hour.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.
11—Sign Off.



HATE LOOSES ITS COMANCHE HORDES!

COLUMBIA PICTURES presents
LAST OF THE COMANCHES
starring Broderick CRAWFORD Barbara HALE
Technicolor
Johnny Stewart · Lloyd Bridges with Mickey Shaughnessy
Written for the screen by KENNETH GAMET · Produced by BUDDY ADLER · Directed by ANDRE DeTOTH
T-O-D-A-Y & SATURDAY
Varsity

SUNDAY — MONDAY
RICHARD WIDMARK JOANNE DRU AUDREY TOTTER
20th Century-Fox's MY PAL GUS

SPECIAL PURCHASE
LINEN WEAVE SLACKS
$7.95
We have several colors in most sizes. Come by while selections are complete.
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

Carolina Sport Shop

SPEED! CONTROL! LONG LIFE!
Set after set, on any playing surface, these Twins of Championship Tennis deliver "new ball" performance...maintain their precision-built accuracy of flight and bounce!
In every National Championship, U. S. Davis Cup and Wightman Cup match . . . in major tournaments everywhere . . . Spalding-made tennis balls are the Official choice. Try a Spalding or Wright & Ditson and you'll know why.
WRIGHT & DITSON APP. U.S.L.T.A. CHAMPIONSHIP
APP. U.S.L.T.A. SPALDING CHAMPIONSHIP
SPALDING
Sets the Pace in Tennis

Don't abuse your car. Give it the attention and servicing it needs at Poe Motors. The cost is little, and the service is fast. We use PURE OIL products.
CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR
POE MOTOR CO.
112 W. Franklin
DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

Attention Senior!
We are offering a regular 1 year $4. subscription to The Daily Tar Heel to Graduating Seniors for just $2.50.
A booth will be set up in the Y beginning Tuesday for your convenience.
HURRY! This offer is limited!
THE DAILY TAR HEEL

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

Current Affairs Reading Room

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and warm with 82 high. Yesterday's high and low, 78 and 52.

The Daily Tar Heel

HORSE
Equine dialogue about Chinese - letter fraternities. Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 147 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. | SUNDAY, MAY 10, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

UNC TO JOIN NEW SPORTS LEAGUE

Saralyn Bonowitz Rules May Ritual

The annual May Day celebration will be held here this afternoon at 2:30 when pretty, auburn-haired Saralyn Bonowitz of Chattanooga Tenn., will be crowned queen.

The rolling, wooded area beside McIver Dormitory will be the scene of the festivities.

May Day is sponsored by the Independent Coed Board, Women's Residence Council and Panhellenic Council. Dot Smith is chairman of May Day.

Chancellor House will place the crown on the queen. Miss Carman Nahm of Deland, Fla., will be maid of honor. Adin Thayer, Chapel Hill, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Thayer will be crown bearer.

Attending the queen in addition to Miss Nahm will be Jayne Adams, Diane Breslow, Beverly Chalk, Jacqueline Fox, Grace Gordon, Dot Smith, Anne Sory, Pepper Stetson and Virginia Wilson.

In case of rain, the program will be held in Hill Hall.

Entertainment planned for the May Day royalty includes the presentation of a pageant "A Legend of Spring," an old Greek legend adapted by members of Chi Delta Phi literary sorority. Nancy Murray and Larry Stith will sing "Sweethearts" from Maytime.

The pageant will dramatize the kidnapping of Persephone, daughter of Demeter, Goddess of the Earth, by Pluto, God of the Underworld. Taking the principal parts will be Mary Helen Crain as Demeter, Dorothy McLain as Persephone, and Tommy Hopkins as Pluto.

The story tells how Persephone, while gathering flowers with some maidens, is seized by Pluto who takes her to the Underworld. Demeter learns from a fountain where her daughter is and she rules that no rain shall fall until Persephone is returned.

And as the legend goes, "Each spring the earth still blooms in joyous celebration of Persephone's return."

Music and choreography for the program have been arranged by Joyce Gouge; costumes by Sara Wood; programs and properties, Helen Faust; and publicity, Sally Lee Schindel.

Following the May Day program the Student Union Activities Board will honor the queen and her court at a tea in Graham Memorial.

Barefeet Day Is Seniors' Treat For Tomorrow

Senior Week gets underway tomorrow morning when some 900 graduating members of the student body are expected to go barefoot to class.

Barefeet Day is a tradition which has gained much favor with seniors in the last few years. President Dan Perry suggested yesterday, as a new twist to Barefoot Day, that seniors take advantage of "Senior Walk," a dirt walk in the Arboretum extending from Raleigh Street behind Spencer Dorm, to the Morehead Planetarium area and over to Alumni Building. A monument set up by the Class of 1928 near the entrance of the Arboretum and at the far end of the Morehead parking lot, marks the place where Seniors used to line up for commencement. At one time, graduation, now held at Kenan Stadium, was held in Memorial Hall.

The idea of Barefeet Day probably stems from an old feeling, prevalent among many alumni, University officers, and students that "when you get the grit of Chapel Hill sidewalks in your shoes, and the gravel in between your toes, then you've gotten Chapel Hill in your souls."

Tuesday, seniors and juniors will participate in a raffle at the Y, with prizes to be drawn the next day at the Senior-Junior Hogan's Lake picnic-party. Tuesday night, "Code For Two," a mystery starring Sally Forrest and Ralph Meeker, will be shown at the Carolina Theatre at 11 o'clock. Only seniors and faculty members will be admitted.

No classes will be the order of the day Wednesday, (for seniors only). Memorial Hall meetings in the morning and the party at Hogan's in the afternoon will take up senior time.

Tex Beneke and his band, successors to Glenn Miller, will present a concert next Monday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. At intermission time, Mr. Alumnus and Miss Alumna—1953 style—will be named.

WUNC Schedule

Sunday's programs:
7 p.m.—Sunday Showtime.
7:30—Learning in Later Years.
7:45—Songs of France.
8—Little Orchestra Society Concerts.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.
11—Sign off.
Monday's programs:
7 p.m.—Stories 'n Stuff.
7:30—Adventures in Research.
7:45—Bonjour Mesdames.
8—University of Chicago Roundtable.
8:30—Drama of Poetry.
9—British Concert Hall.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.
11—Sign off.

Statistics Colloquium

Dr. Bernard G. Greenberg of the Department of Public Health will speak on "A Statistical Process for Syphilis Population," tomorrow at 4 p.m. in 206 Phillips Hall. All interested in statistical methods are invited.

Want Presents?

Tomorrow is the last day seniors may pick up their commencement invitations.

The invitations will be available from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. in Gerrard Hall.

A good many seniors have not yet come by to get the invitations and enclosure cards they ordered a while back.

Cosmopolitans Hear Swede

"Sweden—The Middle Way" is the title of a program to be presented this afternoon at the Cosmopolitan Club of the University.

Mr. Gunnar Kulldorf, from Sweden, and a graduate student in the Mathematical Statistics Department of the University, will be in charge of the program. Several short films will be shown, through the courtesy of the Swedish Embassy, and a question-period will follow the films.

The program will begin at 4 o'clock and will be held in Graham Memorial. The public is invited to attend.

Schedule Released For Orientation Interviews

The following schedule for orientation counselor interviews was released yesterday by Tom Creasy, orientation chairman:

Monday, 7 to 9 p.m.; Tuesday, 7 to 9 p.m.; and Wednesday, 4 to 6 p.m. The interviews will be conducted on the second floor of Graham Memorial.

Civil Service Surgeon

The U. S. Civil Service Commission says that Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, needs a qualified applicant for industrial Surgeon, GS-13, $8,360 per year. File Application Form 57 to Civilian Personnel Officer, Ordnance Corps, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER's CABINET and others who attend the regular weekly meetings at the White house pose for this official cabinet photograph. Clockwise around the table are: Henry Cabot Lodge, Chief U. S. representative to the U. N.; Douglas McKay, Interior Secretary; Geo. H. Humphrey, Treasurer; V. P. Nixon; Attorney General Herbert Brownell; Sinclair Weeks, Commerce Secretary; Oveta Culp Hobby, Welfare Secretary; Sherman Adams, Presidential Assistant; Budget Director Joseph Dodke; Acting Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Flemming; Martin Durkin, Labor Secretary; Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield; John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State; President Eisenhower; C. E. Wilson, Defense Secretary; Ezra Taft Benson, Agriculture Secretary; and Mutual Security Director Harold Stassen. Standing are Philip Young (left), Civil Service Chairman; and Robert Cutler, Presidential Assistant.—NEA Telephoto.

NEWS IN BRIEF

TOKYO—The United Nations Command is becoming increasingly alarmed over threats by President Syngman Rhee that he will refuse to observe an armistice in Korea. Gen. Mark W. Clark, the UN supreme commander, conferred in Tokyo yesterday with US Ambassador to Korea Ellis Briggs and Ambassador Robert Murphy, political advisor to Clark. A source close to the UN Command said Briggs, who has been guiding United States diplomacy in Korea for the past six months, told Clark that recent "spontaneous" demonstrations against a Korean truce were sponsored by the Rhee government.

★

WASHINGTON — The United States yesterday was reported to have assured Thailand that it would support a move to bring before the United Nation the Communist invasion of Laos and the threat it poses to Thailand's security. Informed Sources reported that Thailand actively was considering an appeal to the UN, notwithstanding the withdrawal of Red forces from areas near the Laos-Thai border. International action was said to have been discussed at a meeting between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Thai Ambassador Pote Sarasin.

★

WASHINGTON—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) suggested yesterday that Gen. James Van Fleet would "make a good man" to head a US military mission to train native anti-Communist troops in Indo-China.

Elementary Schools Exhibiting Paintings, Puppets In Person

Expressionism, impressionism, cubism or realism — no matter what you like in the way of art it can all be found in the 16th annual School Art Exhibit shown at Person Hall here through May 24.

This exhibit, made up of paintings and other pieces of art work by students in grades one through six of the North Carolina elementary schools, is sponsored annually by the Art Department and the extension division of the University of North Carolina and the Art Department and the Department of Public Relations of the Woman's College in Greensboro. The North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs and the North Carolina Division of the American Association of University Women cooperate with these schools in the selecting of entries, planning and routing of the traveling exhibit, purchase of various entries, and the awarding of prizes.

The exhibit is composed of drawings, paintings, fired clay models, sculpture, block prints, fabric prints, puppets and dramatic masks which are submitted by every elementary school in the state that wishes to do so. The purpose of the exhibit is to promote teaching and production of art in the North Carolina elementary schools by giving both student and teacher some recognition for the work being done. The students may submit art in any form so long as it is original. No copies are accepted.

Arne W. Randall, a specialist in fine arts from the Office of Education in Washington, is acting as judge for the exhibit. In an introduction to the showing he said, "It is evident that the art of the children in primary grades was natural and unhampered, quite unlike the pattern work seen in schools of the past, while the paintings of the upper grade children were vigorous and full of life."

CAMPUS SEEN

About a dozen minature fire hydrants in front of veterinarian's on Durham Highway.

•

Business administration major standing up in midst of five-hour accounting quiz, tears quizpaper in half and announces to class, "I just dropped the course."

•

Sleepy students failing to show proper respect as they lumber past two midshipmen performing early morning flag-raising ceremony.

Long-Expected Break Drops Smaller Schools

By Tom Peacock
Sports Editor

North Carolina, the rest of the Big Four, Maryland, Clemson, and South Carolina formulated plans at the Southern Conference meeting in Greensboro Friday to form a new conference of their own.

North Carolina is still a member of the Southern Conference and will remain such at least until after the Board of Trustees meets tomorrow.

"We are asking through the president for permission to leave the Southern Conference," stated Chancellor R. B. House, one of a four-man committee representing North Carolina at the Conference meeting in Greensboro Thursday and Friday.

That is our recommendation," continued House. "We can't leave the Conference until the Trustees approve, and that is certainly more than a formality."

Newspapers have stated that Trustee approval of the move was a formality.

House, Prof. A. W. Hobbs of the faculty, athletic director C. P. Erickson, and Physical Education Professor O. K. Cornwell represented Carolina at the meeting.

The plan will place the Big Four schools, Carolina, Duke, Wake Forest, N. C. State, Maryland, Clemson, and South Carolina in a new conference, with the possible addition of the University of Virginia as an eighth member.

Athletic Director Gus Tebell of Virginia said his school would "consider seriously" joining the new conference, but some present members have expressed the opinion that Virginia "had never done anything for the Southern Conference but withdraw from it."

The plans were formulated in a day-long series of secret meetings Friday in Sedgefield Inn at Greensboro. The announcement was made at 7 p.m. Friday by two members of the Southern Conference and two of the proposed new conference.

Actual approval from all schools of the yet unnamed group will not come until after May 30 when the Duke Trustees meet.

The plan leaves 10 members in the Southern Conference. Each Conference held meetings Friday night to determine preliminary plans for the operation of separate units.

The new conference meets in Raleigh June 14 to name itself and draw up final plans. The 10 remaining members meet June 26-27 at Roanoke, Va., to discuss the future of the old conference.

The new conference will begin effective operation this fall when it names a football champion. Next spring it will hold a basketball tournament in March and contests in all spring sports.

The old conference has agreed to allow Commissioner Wallace Wade's office and the official's booking office to join the new group. Although the new organization didn't ask for any of the $156,000, in the Southern Conference treasury, it will probably receive some to defray the cost of the more than $30,000 dollar budget of those two offices.

Thirteen deep-south schools left the 23-school Conference in 1932 to form the Southeastern Conference, and the 10 remaining members slowly grew to 17. Now the Southern Conference is back to 10 members.

West Virginia, a large school (See NEW CONFERENCE, Page 3)

GM Director's Job Still Open For Applicants

Applications for the job of Graham Memorial director are still being received by the personnel committee of the Graham Memorial Board of Directors.

Applications, written or oral, should be submitted to the Dean of Students office, second floor, South Building.

Director Bill Roth resigned the job three weeks ago to accept a position in professional Scouting. The job includes management of the student union building, leadership in programs devised to get more students to utilize the student union building, and enlarging the entertainment program for all students. The job pays $3200 with opportunities for a salary increase.

Applicants are asked to submit any ideas or suggested programs for the future. The job entails two-year employment.

Members on the personnel committee include Dean of Students Fred H. Weaver, chairman; J. Maryon Saunders, Alumni Association director, and Ken Penegar, chairman of the board of directors.

The committee seeks to choose a director as early as possible. Interested persons are urged to apply immediately.

Y Banquet Reservations

Chancellor Robert B. House will speak at the annual installation banquet of the University YMCA Tuesday night, according to Gil Marsh, chairman of arrangements for the banquet. Interested students, faculty and townspeople are cordially invited to attend the banquet, which will be held from 5:45 to 8 o'clock in the Blue Room of Lenoir Hall. Reservations may be made by calling the YMCA Office, 6761.

Alumni Association Offering Membership Price Reduction

A General Alumni Association membership booth will be open from 9 to 1 o'clock tomorrow morning, Haywood Washburn, chairman of the Senior Alumni Committee, said yesterday.

A special "get-acquainted" price of $1 will be offered. Normal rate for membership is $3.00.

The General Alumni Association is the organization of former students of UNC. It provides records, addresses and names of 50,000 Carolina alumni, initiates class reunions, motivates local association meetings and published the monthly Alumni Review. A news-feature magazine, the Review, tells the story of the University's development and prints personal news of alumni and alumna.

A weekly football supplement is mailed in the fall giving full coverage of games and events to all members. Dues-paying members are mailed ballots to vote in the annual election of officers of the association. On the Board of Directors are alumni representing local alumni groups, and alumni classes.

Chairman Washburn's committee will solicit all seniors for membership. The Interdormitory and Interfraternity councils have been asked to aid in the membership drive.

York Club

The York Club for Episcopal graduate students and faculty will meet tonight in the Episcopal Parish House at 8:30. Dr. Claiborne Jones of the Zoology Department will speak and lead a discussion on "Education." All interested students are invited.

Cordon Enthusiastic About Plans

Institute Of Opera Has Eager Musical Goodwill Ambassador

By Julian Scheer

North Carolina's Musical Goodwill Ambassador, Norman Cordon, unwound on the sunporch glider and waxed enthusiastic about the state's new musical baby, the Institute of Opera.

"Boy, we've really got something here!" That was the introduction.

It was the hottest night of the Spring season but it was cool on the Cordons' screened-in porch on Glenburnie street. The lanky, former Metropolitan Opera star, the state's first and foremost, wanted to talk about the innovation and the plans at Boone this summer.

"Here's the set-up: The Institute will operate a School of Opera at Boone this summer. Gordon Nash, who heads the music department at Appalachian State Teachers College, has offered us the use of the beautiful new fine arts building there. He's been wonderful and so has Russ Grumman and A. J. Fletcher.

"Grumman, you know, is head of the University's Extension Division and under the division you have the Grass Roots Opera and the Institute of Opera.

"Mr. Fletcher, he's from Raleigh, has backed the Grass Roots group and they'll be in Boone for next season's tour. Mr. Fletcher has really taken opera to the people. They played in 58 communities this season and gave 117 performances. It's all a part of this vast musical program in the state. The N. C. Symphony is a major part of the movement.

"Well, at Boone we will have a wonderful staff. There will be two summer sessions, one from June 10 to July 17 and the other running from July 21 to August 27. We'll have classes for students of opera and a master class for a limited number of singing teachers, private lessons and daily discussion groups. And for the public, we'll be offering operas throughout the summer on Monday nights, but that comes later."

And then the head of the state's music program stopped to take a breath!

"Look at the staff. Walter Golde era stars. Probably the best known is our chief voice teacher. He's trained scores of Metropolitan Opteacher in the nation.

"He studied at the Imperial Con- (See NO MINOR, Page 4)

Jazz Collectors

Ed Potter, blind freshman piano player and trumpeter featured in Friday's Daily Tar Heel, is also a record collector.

His collection of over 1,000 records consists of rare jazz items dating from 1935.

Ed wants to get in touch with other students who collect jazz records and compare libraries with them. He lives in 12 Steele Dorm.

DEPT. STORE

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed 34 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Sehindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Eddie Starnes.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.
PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Freedom To Search For Knowledge

(This is the first of a three part series of guest editorials by Dr. Robert MacIver, Columbia University sociologist.—Ed.)

There has never been so much commotion over the freedom of the scholar or the educator as there is in his country today. In the past there has indeed been less, much less, academic freedom, for in the ages of authority it was at best a very limited affair. But never in modern times has there been so massive and many-sided an assault upon it.

Many of these assaults have been repelled, but more than a few have succeeded. All across the country there are groups that, under one banner or another, are seeking to limit it. Dozens of organizations are "investigating" it, including at present three Congressional bodies. There is not a single important institution of learning that has not been the object of some accusation concerning it. There is scarcely a college or university president who has not run into some troubles over it.

What is this academic freedom? What is its importance? Why is there so much concern over it? These things need to be explained, for the people are being misled about these questions, and even some educators are by no means sufficiently alert to the situation.

Academic freedom means the freedom of the educator to do his proper work, to fulfill his function, to render to his society the special service that he has to offer. His work is to learn and to teach, and this is what every genuine scholar wants above all to do. That is what the institution of learning is for. Here lies its unique function, its primary mission in society.

Every major type of social organization has its own unique function which requires an appropriate range of freedom to fulfill. The church aspires to one. The family another. So also the academy, the college, or the university. Academic freedom then is the freedom of the men of the academy, the faculty members, within their various areas of competence, in the field of learning and teaching.

Observe that this freedom is not the freedom to express opinions on any matter under the sun. In a democratic country that is the freedom of the citizen. What we're talking about is a special form of fredom derived from a special function—the freedom proper to the member of a particular profession, without which the calling is perverted and falsified and the service it renders is betrayed. Just as the medical man needs a particular area of freedom for his work, or the man of law, so does the man of the academy.

The effort to seek and impart knowledge means a limit to the control of any external authority over the institution of learning. Where this freedom exists, no authority can say: "This is the truth, this is what you must teach." Or: "This is the truth; if your investigations lead you to doubt it or to deny it, you must refrain from doing so."

It is the freedom to teach conclusions through scholarly investigation. It does not imply the freedom to act according to your conclusions, if such action is against the law. It is emphatically not a freedom to conspire to overthrow government or to incite others to do so. But it embraces the freedom of the serious student of government to reach and express conclusions regarding its nature and regarding the good or evil results of this or that form of government.

Academic freedom is at the same time a high responsibility. It is not a privilege possessed by an academic guild. It is not a concession granted by a government or by a community to an enclave of scholars. It is claimed as a necessity, not a luxury; as a condition of service, not as a social award. As we shall presently see, it is a fundamental condition of a free society.

(To be continued next Sunday)

The Paperback

— Norman Jarrard —

The paperback book business is finally coming of age in this country.

A few good books a month have been hidden away among the many inconsequential ones which were being published all along but one had to keep a sharp eye out to find them. Now Doubleday has started a new series called "Anchor Books" which plans to include only 'consequential' books. Anchor Books will appeal to a smaller circle of readers, perhaps, but Doubleday believes —and I hope they are right— that there will be enough buyers (prices: $.65 to 1.25) to make the project a success.

Here's what they say they wanted to do: "Each book selected had to be inherently good—authoritative, well written, important to the modern reader, and of sufficient general interest so that its audience would not be restricted to specialists. Each title had to be absolutely unavailable in any other inexpensive reprint form—and as often as possible titles were selected that were available in no other edition at all, expensive or otherwise.

"It is hoped that Anchor Books will . . . supplement the reading programs in the curricula of American colleges and universities by making available to students, at small cost, books of which even the most completely stocked college library can offer only a few overworked copies."

I have finally got my hands on two of these books—twelve titles have been announced — D. H. Lawrence's Studies in Classic American Literature and Joseph Bedier's retelling of The Romance of Tristan and Iseult (both 65c). Bedier has gathered all the parts of the story and made a connected narrative which he hopes is completely faithful to the originals.

Lawrnce's book will probably make many people angry when he begins to ridicule some of America's past literary masters. He says of Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter, "It is, perhaps, the most colossal satire ever penned." He says Hester Prynne and Arthur Dimmesdale were so "pure, . . . till she tickled him in the right place, an dhe fell Flop. Flop goes spiritual love." He says the book is our most perfect piece of art but that its meaning is false. Much of what he says I sympathize with if not agree, because I am glad to see someone point out the falsity of the morality which—dying if not dead in Hawthorne's own day, as Lawrence points out—underlies the book.

In his essay on Whitman, Lawrence praises him for leading the way to a new attitude toward the body but blames him for preaching the loss of individuality.

In an essay satisfyingly sprinkled with quotes, Lawrence gives most of his saved praise to Melville and Moby Dick. "It is a great book, the greatest book of the sea ever written."

Certainly a mention - worthy book is Rutherford Platt's A Pocket Guide to the Trees (Pocket Book, 35c), well illustrated with photographs and drawings. Amateur naturalists will want it to go alongside PB's earlier book on wild flowers.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The records are supposed to be confidential, but one ex-Congressman has parlayed a $14 investment into a lifetime government pension of $2,160 a year. He is William P. Lambertson, Kansas Republican, who served 15 years in the House.

However, he didn't contribute a cent toward his own retirement until after he left Congress. Then his Kansas colleague, Congressman Wint Smith, put Lambertson on the Federal payroll from January 3 to January 31, 1947—just long enough for him to pay $14 into the retirement fund. This made him eligible for retirement benefits and, under a technicality in the law, he was able to take credit for his full 15 years Congressional service.

Irony is that both Lambertson and Smith have voted consistently against social benefits for others, but apparently believe in government handouts for themselves.

In addition to his $2,160 government pension, Lambertson is drawing another government salary as a county commissioner. He also owns a 200-acre farm in Fairview, Kansas.

Ex-Congressman Lambertson, reached for comment, said he didn't want to discuss the matter but admitted he had never paid any money into the pension fund while in Congress.

President Eisenhower makes no secret about his irritation at the load of paperwork and other details that bog down the office of the presidency.

Speaking before the American Retail Federation in the Washington Hotel, he confessed:

"I'm certainly glad to leave that maelstorm behind in my office for a while."

Ike chafes at the number of callers, says nine out of 10 are pure formalities and could be eliminated. They give him no time for constructive thinking. He also dislikes the chore of signing his name about 400 times a day as required by law on many State papers. Sometimes he evens wishes his name were shorter. "Dwight D. Eisenhower" has a few more letters than "Harry S. Truman."

On a recent Saturday, the President was on the verge of going out to the golf course, when Bernard Shanley, White House special counsel, rushed in with new problems requiring decisions. Ike let off steam, chewed Shanley up, later apologized.

Democratic Congressmen are so alarmed over rising interest rates that they are drafting legislation to curb Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey's power to boost the rates.

The Democrats charge that Humphrey is soaking the taxpayers and enriching the banks by hiking interest rates on the bonds the government borrows. They point out that the increased interest on the national debt will cost the taxpayers several billions

(See PEARSON page 4)

CPU Roundtable

— Joel Fleishman —

Two weeks ago when we discussed the over-all problem of student government, we decided that the subject was much too big to complete in one evening's time. Therefore tonight the CPU will conclude its analysis of student government and formulate its recommendations.

The discussion tonight will be directed towards three of the main phases of student government: administration of justice, recreation (SEC, gymnasium, forum, etc.) and relations with other schools. This is going to be one of the most informative and interesting discussions on such a topic as Student Government because most of the controversial questions that exist today fall in one of the three above categories.

Do you prefer a voluntary or compulsory gym fee? Are you satisfied with the Student Entertainment program? What are the fallacies in the judicial system here on campus? Why should Carolina belong to the National Student Association? What is the purpose of the Consolidated University Student Council and how can Carolina benefit from its activities? Should there be a re-evaluation of the penalties imposed for Honor and Campus Code violations?

Answers to all these questions and many others will be put forth and fully discussed. Be sure to come to the Grail Room in Graham Memorial Student Union tonight at 8 o'clock and join in what promises to be a very heated crossfire.

The Eye Of The Horse

— Roger Will Coe —

"The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . . " Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.

His first day at work for The Daily Tar Heel, The Horse crashed the gate at Emerson Field for the Wake Forest-UNC game, and after settling himself down in the outfield prepared to enjoy the get-together. And he did: we won!

But The Horse is afraid our great national pastime is in sad need of some streamlining. Here we are squarely in the middle of the Speed-Up, and what do we have? Baseball games that take two hours, thirty minutes as a rule, and that have run to more than three hours, forty-five minutes in the big leagues for a regulation nine innings

The Horse, of course, saw instantly what was wrong. Mostly, it is this warming-up stuff the players do between innings. You know what The Horse means? The Deamon Deaks leave the field to take their licks at bat and we take the field. So what? Do you think the game can go ahead? Don't be foolish, the boys have to warm up.

The pitcher, who may be showing every evidence that the next pitch will be both wild and his last, stands up there and whams nine or more practice pitches to the catcher. While this goes on, the infielders possess themselves of another ball, and they warm up. Understand, it is not as if they just came onto the field. They have been playing, say seven innings already. So they keep warming up.

Now, The Horse says that if they are not warmed up by this time, the chances are they never will be. And if they are warmed up, well, what are we waiting for? Besides, there is something else The Horse tells me that may bear serious thought.

"A throwing arm, or a set of running legs, have only so many pitches or so many sprints built into them, and every one you use up is one more you do not have. Save it for the clutch, and not for spending needlessly."

And while all this needless rewarming up is going on, the umpires stand around talking to themselves—a not too surprising occupation in view of what the fans and players say of their I. Q. Ratings —and warming themselves up.

Is it any great wonder that people are staying away from ball parks in droves, when they know they will not be able to see the finish of a game?

Take football, now. That is slowed up enough, The Horse says. But imagine if after each quarter the opposing teams came out and raced the ball up and down and punted and passed and went on like that? Or if, like in baseball, they practised punting and passing and tackling after each set of downs, or after each play?

The Horse says in baseball they make a putout and the infield goes sort of crazy and starts to fling the ball all around. The Horse says it is not the boys' fault, that it is rather custom not only outdated, but even injurious.

Look at it this way (The Horse says): You are afraid the shortstop, or someone, may make a wild throw on a simple grounder; and as if spitting in the eye of the law of averages, which serves up one bad toss to first-base out of maybe a dozen, the shortstop fires off eleven good ones in the rewarming up sessions, and—blooey!, the very first ball hit to him, he tries to heave into Caldwell-X.

"How many Derbies do you think I would have won, and how many people would have paid to see me win them," The Horse asks, "if I ran myself maybe a few practice races before the race?"

The Horse says the only thing it is fun to watch warming up is food in the kitchen. But The Horse has imperfect vision.

on the Carolina Front

— Louis Kraar —

He looked a little more lonely than usual. That's why I decided to come over and sit with him.

"Hey, how're you doing?" he sai dsounding friendly enough, but with a face that almost dragged the ground.

I asked him where he'd been.

"Partying out at Hogan's," he answered, drinking the steaming black coffee. The all-night cafe was filling up with smoke and people, so I had to lean forward a little to hear what he was saying.

"You know something. I don't even get any more fun out of that now. I can't figure out what the hell's wrong with me," he answered getting philosophical in a one o'clock in the morning manner.

He wanted to talk. The tone of his voice both begged and commanded you to listen to him. I listened.

"It's the darndest thing you ever saw. Came down here this Fall and just had a great time partying and all. Now I never have a good time. I've been thinking about joining the Army."

The dishes, hour and noise made you want to leave, but you couldn't. This guy was worried.

"Don't get me wrong. This place was just great at first. I used to love that English class. Hell, then it got dull or something. Aw, I don't know."

Finally I eased out of the booth, paid the check and went out the door.

"Hey, I'll see you at the house party tomorrow night. Man, I can't wait," he yelled back.

"Yeh," I said thinking about a guy that was going to join the Army—but not before tomorrow night, or next weekend.

UNC Nine Beats Duke; Netters Win

Tar Heel Sports

By Tom Peacock

All four major spring sports, golf, tennis, baseball, and track, hold Southern Conference meets this week . . . Carolina will probably figure prominently in all of them, and is favored in three . . . but none of them will be held in Chapel Hill . . . a short trip to Durham is enough to see the Conference track meet Friday and Saturday at Duke. . . . The baseball playoffs aren't much further away at Devereaux Meadow in Raleigh Thursday night, Friday afternoon and night, and Saturday night. . . . Tennis is at Davidson, and golf is at Winston-Salem. Golf is always played on a neutral course for obvious reasons.

The track team will have the toughest time . . . Duke, with Joel Shankle, proved itself in the Indoor Games, and will be hard to beat . . . if a host of Carolina injuries are better, it could nose Maryland out for second place . . . the Terps beat Carolina in a dual meet. Three records are expected to fall . . . one by Carolina's Roger Morris in the shot who has already bettered the record by five inches . .. he could easily be beaten by defending champion Larry Hunt of West Virginia or Duke's Durham Lawshe, though . . . . Virginia Tech's Ben Lankford has cleared six-foot five, two inches over the old high jump mark . . . . In the two-mile run there will be Buz Sawyer and Clyde Garrison of State, Bobby Barden of Carolina, Ben Good of Maryland, and Dave Shafer of VPI . . . someone from that lineup should break the record of 9:27.8.

The tennis team is touted higher than any other from Carolina . . . The Conference championship is decided by records, and the Tar Heels have already copped that with an undefeated season. . . . The individual champs are decided at Davidson, and a Carolina is defending in both singles and doubles. . . . Del Sylvia played near-perfect tennis to beat Tom Boys of William and Mary last year to win in singles. . . . Herb Browne and Bobby Payne, freshmen at the time, combined to beat Sylvia and Sam Handel for the doubles crown in a family affair . . . Coach Kenfield deserves Coach of the Quarter-Century.

Whether Carolina's golfers are favored or not to win the championship depends on the outcome of tomorrow's match with Duke. . . . Bill Williamson of the Tar Heels scored a hole in one on the Hope Valley course while practicing for the match . . . the only team to give Carolina a scare this year was Wake Forest . . the Deacs came close to handing the Tar Heels their first loss on Finley Course. . . . It will be the last tournament for Bob Black, Lou Brown, Jim Ferree, and Williamson, all seniors. . . . The Tar Heels play a match with Davidson on the Winston course on Thursday. . . . This is probably coach Chuck Erickson's last year, too, since he is athletic director of the school. —

Baseball is always hardest to figure . . . so much depends on how a pitcher feels, or what the leading hitter ate the night before. . . . If Carolina beat Duke yesterday or beats State Tuesday it clinches a spot in the playoffs. . . . The Tar Heels have led the southern division all season, but the race is so close it could wind up in third. . . . Maryland and George Washington have locks on the first two places up north and will be in Raleigh. . . . Tickets are on sale at the Gym whether Carolina makes the trip or not.

New Conference Might Reach Agreement With Orange Bowl

(Continued from page 1)

with an excellent athletic program, was caught by surprise. Three years ago it was grateful to become a member of the Conference, but travel difficulties will probably keep it out of the new group.

Virginia Tech was mentioned as a possible eighth member.

The split has been discussed for years as a necessary move. The 17-school Southern Confernce was spread over a large geographical area, and the size of the member institutions varied greatly.

The smaller schools in the conference believed it necessary to use freshmen on varsity teams to insure life of the sports, but larger schools favored freshman teams. Other problems, such as an unwieldy system of choosing a conference champion and the great difference in the wealth and skills of the different members precipitated the change.

The original aim of the meetings was a new conference in 1955, but since a feasible plan for an earlier split was presented it was quickly adopted.

There is much speculation on the new conference's attitude towards post-season athletic contests including bowl games on New Year's day. None of the schools would make official comment, but it is known that the Orange Bowl has courted the Southern Conference for some time.

In the December meeting of the Conference at Clemson, two Orange Bowl representatives were there, and four were on hand in Greensboro. They were Jess Yarborough, Stewart Patton, Van Kussrow, and Ernie Siler, the latter being general manager of the Orange Bowl.

The obvious aim of the Orange Bowl is an agreement similar to the Rose Bowl-Western Conference pact. This would send the new conference's champion or designated champion to the Orange Bowl each year.

W&L Defeats Tar Heel Stickmen By Nine Goals

By Jack Hussey

The Washington and Lee Generals handed the Tar Heels their fifth loss of the season in a Southern Conference lacrosse game here Friday.

The Tar Heels started fast and looked as though they were going to have complete control of the game as Dickie Harrall posted his fourteenth goal of the season after a minute and 25 seconds of the first period. But then the Generals took over and by their better organization and superior shooting were able to down the Carolina team by a 11-2 score.

The Tar Heels did show some bright spots. Freshman Dick Baker showed particular promise as a midfieldman. Tommy Stokes, Earl Johnson, and Steve Trimble looked good on defense. Harrall scored both goals to raise his season's total to 15 and cinch his position as the team's top scorer. Bucky Barkley and Dave Cole looked good at the midfield positions.

Standouts for the Generals were Ross Wagner and Marv Bobbit who countered four and three goals, respectively.

Tennis Team Beats Princeton; Baseball Team Wins Crown, 3-1

Chal Port Holds Duke To Six Hits To Take Important League Win

By Tom Peacock

DURHAM, May 9—North Carolina's baseball team won the southern division of the Southern Conference championship here today, beating Duke, 3-1, behind the six hit pitching of Chal Port and tight fielding by the Carolina team.

Port had a shutout for eight innings, but Duke threw a scare at the Tar Heels in the ninth by scoring a run and putting men on first and third with one out. A perfectly executed double play from Fred Dale at short, to Harry Lloyd at second, to Bob Henning at first ended the inning.

The Tar Heels could get only four hits from Duke starter Joe Lewis and his ninth inning relief, George Carver, but Carolina made them all count. Lloyd Wielded the big bat for Carolina, getting a double for the only extra base hit of the game and a single for a two hit total.

Port spread all six of the singles he allowed throughout the game, never giving more than one in a single inning.

The win clinches the southern division championship in the Conference for Carolina, which now has an 11-3 record with one game against N.C. State to play. The Tar Heels will represent the southern division with the number two team in the playoffs at Raleigh this weekend.

Carolina pushed a run across in the top of the first with a hit, error, and an infield grounder. Lloyd hit the first pitch of the game for a long double which center fielder Al Spangler bobbled, Lloyd taking third. Keller scored Lloyd with a ground ball to short.

The Tar Heels' second run came in the third. Lloyd got his second straight hit, and Keller singled him to second. A walk to Wayne White put Lloyd on third, and he scored on a ground ball fielder's choice off the bat of Ed Hooks.

Bob Henning singled to open Carolina's seventh and was sent to third by two sacrifices, one which was booted. Keller scored Henning with a long fly for the final run.

Carolina Ends Year Undefeated With 23 Straight Victories

PRINCETON, N. J., May 9 — (Special)—The Carolina tennis team defeated the Princeton Tigers here this afternoon, 6-2, to break a 42 match Princeton win streak stretching over four years, and complete their first undefeated season since the late thirties.

For the second match in a row, the first two men in the Tar Heel lineup were defeated. However, their depth carried them to their twenty-third straight, and toughest, victory of the season.

The Princeton team, which was planning to claim the national championship had they beaten Carolina was the finest that the Tar Heels have faced this season. Four of the singles and one of the doubles matches went three sets,

The big match of the afternoon was Don Thompson's victory over Ed Dailey: Thompson won the first set, 7-5, but had to go 28 games before winning the second, 15-13. Dailey has one of the best serves in collegiate tennis and there was no service break in the second set for 27 games. Thompson finally broke through in the twenty-eighth game to take the match.

Division Champs!

Carolina	ab	r	h	po	a	e
Lloyd, 2b	4	2	2	3	5	0
Dale, ss	3	0	0	3	3	1
Keller, rf	4	0	1	2	0	0
White, lf	1	0	0	0	0	0
Hooks, c	3	0	0	7	0	1
Gravitte, cf	4	0	0	6	0	0
Holt, 3b	4	0	0	1	1	0
Henning, 1b	3	1	1	5	0	0
Port, p	3	0	0	0	1	0
TOTALS	29	3	4	27	9	2

Duke	ab	r	h	po	a	e
Spangler, cf	4	0	2	4	0	1
Gibbons, rf	4	0	1	0	0	0
Tarr, c	4	0	0	5	0	0
Werber, 1b	4	1	1	5	2	0
Lea, ss	3	0	0	2	5	0
Clapp, lf	3	0	0	4	0	0
Leclarcq, 3b	4	0	2	1	1	1
Brewer, 2b	3	0	0	5	1	0
Lewis, p	2	0	0	0	0	0
a—Donigan	1	0	0	0	0	0
Carver, p	0	0	0	1	0	0
TOTALS	32	1	6	27	9	2

a—Struck out for Lewis in 8th.

Score by innings:

Carolina	1	0	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	—3
Duke	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	—1

Runs batted in: Keller (2), Hooks; Two base hits: Lloyd; Sacrifices: Port, Hooks, Lloyd; Double plays: Dale, Lloyd and Henning (2); Left on bases: Carolina 7, Duke 6; Base on balls—off: Lewis, 5; Struck out—by: Lewis 5; Hits—off: Lewis, 4 in 8 innings; Port 6 in 9 innings; Losing pitcher: Lewis; Winning pitcher: Port; Time of game: 2:13; Umpires: Kolach and Potts.

Golfers Play Duke Monday

Carolina's undefeated golf team will take on the Duke Blue Devils in a match at the Hope Valley Country Club in Durham tomorrow. It will be the first match for the golf team since their return from the Southern Intercollegiates in Augusta Ga.

The match will be a preview of what is going to happen next weekend in Winston-Salem when the two teams will meet again in the Southern Conference championship meet. Although the Tar Heels are favored to win both of these contests, they have always had trouble with Duke.

Starters for Carolina will be Bill Williamson, Bob Black, Jim Ferree, Bill Thornton, Bill Ford and George Mountcastle, the same men who have been playing for the team all season.

SPECIAL PURCHASE
FAMOUS MAKE SWIM & PLAY SHORTS
$2.95
Values To $5.95
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

JV Baseballers Defeat Duke For Fifth Straight

Carolina's JV baseball team won its fifth straight game and its seventh of the season here yesterday as they downed the Duke Blue Devils, 6-4.

Carolina will face Gardner Webb here on Thursday in their last game of the season.

Line score:

Duke	030	001	000	4	5	2
UNC	031	011	00X	6	7	3

Batteries: Duke, Rudisil and Riggsby; Carolina, Bedingfield and Dodson.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

FOR SALE — SMALL FAMILY home in the woods three blocks from Post Office. Call 7406 for information. 1-8009-5

JUST RECEIVED
ERIN MIST IMPRTED ALL PURE LINEN SUITS
By Don Richards
● NATURAL ● TOAST
$42.50
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

PERMANENT WAVES OF LASTING BEAUTY

Durham, N. C.
Mr. Angelo—Stylist
Miss Rabon—Stylist

Raleigh, N. C.
Mr. Snotherly—Stylist

La Marick Permanent Waves

Super Deluxe Creme Oil Cold Wave ____ 25.00 Value 9.95
DeLuxe Creme Oil Cold Wave 15.00 Value 6.95
Custom Creme Oil Cold Wave 12.50 Value 5.95
(Stylists' Prices Slightly Higher)

We feature only professional and nationally advertised supplies such as Fashion Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Clairol, Revlon and La Marick Cold Wave.

TEMPO PERMANENT ____ $10 up

Each Wave Includes
● Personality Haircut
● Shaping & Thinning
● Reconditioning Shampoo
● Scientific Test Curl
● Oily Neutralizer
● Setting
● Creme Rinse
● Free Consultation

Anytime is Coffee Time with NESCAFE Complimentary in Our Salon

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
PHONE DURHAM 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
PHONE RALEIGH 3-1726
LaMARICK SHOPS

Campus Briefs

First Presbyterian

The Rev. Stuart Henry, Presbyterian student chaplain at Duke University, will preach at both services of the First Presbyterian Church instead of the announced guest minister.

Tonight the Student Group will have as its guest Dr. William Poteat. The discussion period will immediately follow supper at 6 o'clock.

Covenant Presbyterian

The Rev. Maurice A. Kidder, rector of the Church of the Holy Family, will present a lecture tonight on Martin Luther at the Westminster Fellowship of the Covenant Presbyterian Church. Supper will be served at 6 p.m., followed by the lecture.

Young Methodists

The Rev. H. M. Howard will speak on "An Approach to the Bible Study" Tuesday evening at 7:30 to the Young Adult Group of the Methodist Church.

UN Committee

There will be a meeting of the UN Committee tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in the YMCA to evaluate the model assembly and reorganize for next year.

Baptist Play

A short play with four Carolina students cast in the leading roles will be the main feature of the Carolina B.S.U. at its weekly Supper Forum tonight at 6 p.m. The play's characters include Bill Briley, Maurice Canaday, Joe Giles, and Dorman Cordell.

The program will open with the supper meal, after which there will be a short worship period. A social hour, during which the play will be given, will conclude the evening's program.

Dr. George Cutten, former president of Colgate University, will be the guest minister this morning at the regular worship hour. He is filling in for Dr. Habel, who is attending the Southern Baptist Convention at Houston, Texas.

—Pearson—

(Continued from page 2)

before it is paid off.

Worst hit, however, are small farmers, home builders and installment buyers, whose interest rates are being forced up by the higher government rates.

The Democrats are also preparing to blast Deputy Secretary of the Treasury W. Randolph Burgess as the man behind the interest boosts. A former vice president of National City Bank of New York, Burgess headed the Committee on Public Debt Policy which for years spearheaded the drive for higher interest rates for bankers. The Democrats will charge that Burgess has been cracking the whip to get the Veterans Administration, Federal Housing Administration and Export-Import Bank to increase their rates, too, and add to the profits of his banker friends.

Burgess, on the other hand, is convinced that higher rates are for the public good. He argues that they will combat inflation and strengthen the American economy by discouraging people from plunging into debt.

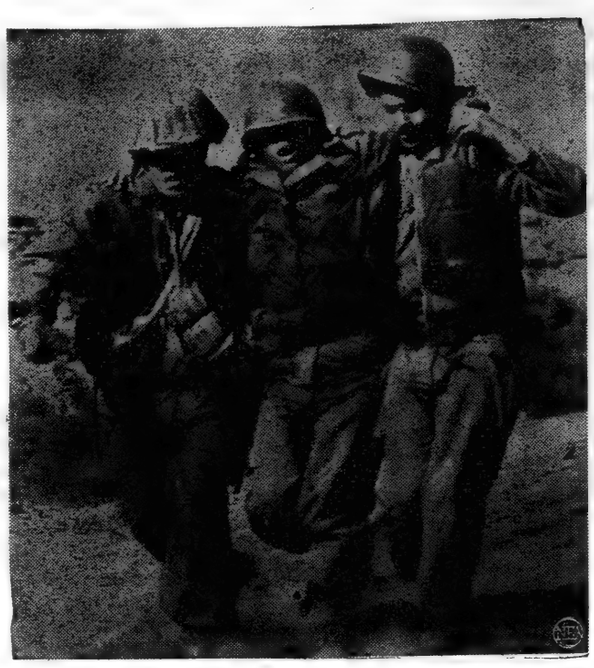
Mischievous Senators are kidding the Senate's most eligible couple — Georgia's strait-laced bachelor, Dick Russell, and Maine's charming widow, Margaret Chase Smith—about a possible romance.

The kidding got its spark from a coy remark that Mrs. Smith dropped behind closed doors of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Chairman Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts called upon Russell with the usual rhetorical flourishes, referring to him as the "distinguished former chairman, who we all love."

YWCA Installs New Cabinet, Other Officers

New officers and cabinet of the YWCA were installed Thursday night in Gerrard Hall following a talk by Dr. Bernard Boyd.

Marilyn Habel accepted the charge of the presidency from former president Anna Beeson. Other officers and cabinet members were installed by Toni Kelly, outgoing program chairman.



The new executive council consists of Mase Chapin, vice president; Emily Cook, secretary; Mary Jane Bumpous, treasurer; Elinor Wrenn, program chairman; Ann Folger, membership chairman.

Cabinet members who accepted office are Sara Rose, chairman of Christian faith and heritage; Mary Lowry, vespers; Lazy Literates, Lois Collins; Jody Desmond, University sermons; Dottie Law, Bible study; Anne Hewie, Tar Heel devotional.

Thelma Sauder is chairman of personal and campus affairs, Lynda Vestal, art chairman; Mary Kit Myers, campus affairs, Mary Bascom Cook, music; Ann Patterson, office forces; Jennie Lynn, publicity; Joan Jones, paper.

Social responsibilities were taken by Edith Rogers, chairman; Connie Lassiter, hospital service; and Janie Carey, human relations. Alice Hicks became chairman of world relatedness; Eleanor Addison and Carolyn Hartford will be in charge of Coffee Klatsch and national and international affairs.

Projects chairman is Jean Hayes. A special committee will be headed by Emily Cook; interfaith council work, Norma King, chairman; and Saly Wynn will represent the School of Nursing.

SOLDIERS OF THE U. S. SEVENTH Infantry Division assist a wounded buddy to safety after he was hit during heavy fighting on Pork Chop Hill in Korea. Later, fighting all along the front came almost to a standstill with most of the activity confined to minor patrol skirmishes.—NEA Telephoto.

No Minor League In Opera; Footlights Make The Singer

(Continued from page 1)

servatory in Vienna, himself, and has taught at Columbia University. From 1944-46, I believe it was, he was president of the New York Singing Teachers Association. We couldn't find a better man anywhere!

"As accompanist-coach we were lucky to secure the services of Hans Heidemann. He was born in Patsdam, Germany, but came here at an early age. He teaches at Salem College. He has accompanied many Met stars, and will be a great asset to our young hopefuls.

"Kai Jurgensen will be our stage director. He'll be in Boone directing 'Horn in the West.' We are following the Met's practice of getting drama directors to stage operas. You know, like Alfred Lunt and Margaret Webster.

"And getting to the staging of operas, we are working on the theory that the Grass Roots group works on: bridging the gap between the studio and the professional stage.

"There's no minor league in opera. You can learn to sing in the studio but it takes footlights to make a singer.

"On Monday nights, the one night in the week that 'Horn in the West' is dark, we'll throw the doors of the fine arts building open to the public for operas in English by these young professionals and students.

"We've got Carmen and Menotti's neo-classics, "The Telephone' and 'The Medium,' and others planned. And we're going to put on Wilton Mason's new opera, 'Kingdom Come.' That will be a world premiere and we'll do it right there in Boone!"

Cordon, whose title at Boone will be that of director, relaxed a minute, complimented his wife's choice of two new sunporch lamps and recalled his early days in Boone.

"Oh, I love the place. I've been going to Watauga County since 1906—say, that dates me, but I was pretty young—although I was born in Beaufort County."

Actually, Cordon was born in Washington, N. C., in 1904. He early turned to music, influenced by his mother who was an accomplished soprano. As a boy soprano he was a "professional" at the age of eight, singing in the St. Peter's Church choir in Charlotte for 25 cents each Sunday morning.

He was educated at Fishburne Military Academy, the University of North Carolina, Salem College and at the Nashville Conservatory of Music. His principal study was with Gaetano de Luca and Hadley Outland. At the University he sang in the Men's Glee Club and at 20 he was in New York singing as an understudy in the musical, "Love Song." A long, colorful career followed—radio, records, the San Carlo Opera Company, the "Merrimen" vocal quartet with Paul Whiteman, and the Metropolitan.

19 AF Cadets Accepted For Flight School

Nineteen University Air Force ROTC cadets, who will receive their commissions at Commencement, have been accepted for flight training, it was announced here yesterday by Major Joe O. Young, assistant professor of air science and tactics and Project Officer for the flight training program.

"This indicates that there is increased interest on the part of the cadets in becoming flying officers as the result of greater emphasis by the Air Force in demanding well educated flying officers," Major Young said.

The 19 who applied for training represent approximately a third of the graduating class, while last year, out of a class of 96, only seven seniors were accepted.

Those applying from UNC this spring were: Nelson T. Fletcher, Raleigh; Thomas D. Johnston, Fayetteville; Robert D. Lingerfeldt, Gastonia; Lloyd B. Moon, Charlotte; Bobby R. Scarlette, Hillsboro; Herbert R. Spaugh, Charlotte; William L. McCord, Chapel Hill; Henry T. Sisk, Wilmington; Bobby L. Deal, Rockingham; Thomas G. Hopkins, Reidsville; Robert C. Ingram, Chapel Hill; Bill S. Lester, Greensboro; James S. Peerson, Burlington; Ronald S. Prince, Atlanta, Ga.; Lewis S. Simon, Charlotte; Thomas W. Thomas, Greensboro, and John R. Way, Winston-Salem.

MURALS

Tomorrow's Softball

4:00—Field 1, Sig Nu-3 vs. Kap Sig; Field 2, Zetes-2 vs. Phi Gam-1; Field 3, DU vs. Pi Kap Phi.

5:00—Field 1, Delt Psi vs. DKE-2; Field 2, Chi Psi-1 vs. SAE-1; Field 3, Chi Psi-2 vs. Kap Psi.

for the mother who gets her

MOTHER'S DAY MESSAGES by TELEGRAM!

Mother's Day—May 10th to give your mother that "top of the world" feeling just call WESTERN UNION

North Columbia Ave.

Telephone 2681

THE BIGGER THEY ARE THE HARDER THEY FALL... for

MY PAL GUS

If you love laughter, if you love kids, if you love love, this is for you! It's the best (and most hilarious) job ever done on bringing up grownups!

starring RICHARD WIDMARK · JOANNE DRU · AUDREY TOTTER

T-O-D-A-Y - MONDAY

Varsity

SALOME

COMING SOON

Starring Stewart Granger Rita Hayworth

Books Help Make VACATION PLANS

Where To Go?—

Europe in Coronation Year? Latin America? United States? Whatever your choice, we have the book to help plan—and to provide a knowing companion on the trip.

If you haven't discovered our travel section, you have a treat coming.

How To Get There—

If your vacation plans call for driving, you'll want one of our Road Atlases—and you could do worse than adding a City Street Atlas.

Out-Of-Doors Life—

Don't know how the Indians ever got along without some of our swell out-of-doors guides. Books like Ford Treasury of the Outdoors, or the Field Book of Giant Fishes, for example.

Be thankful you're not an Indian—You'll have more fun this summer.

What To Read?—

You know how we hate to boast, but the plain truth is that you won't find another Intimate Bookshop on your vacation trip. Right now is the time to start providing for that summer reading.

To combine portability with good reading, we suggest that you concentrate on these:

Portable Library ——— $2.50 each

Compact, well - printed volumes, each containing a generous sampling of an author. Among those available are:

Chaucer	Joyce
Coleridge	Cervantes
Wolfe	Melville
Faulkner	Gibbon
James	Voltaire

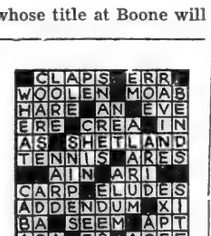
The Penguin Editions — Highest literary quality in inexpensive paper-backed books. We have them all, and you'll want most of them!

STOP IN AND START ENJOYING YOUR VACATION NOW.

Join The Vacation Planners In

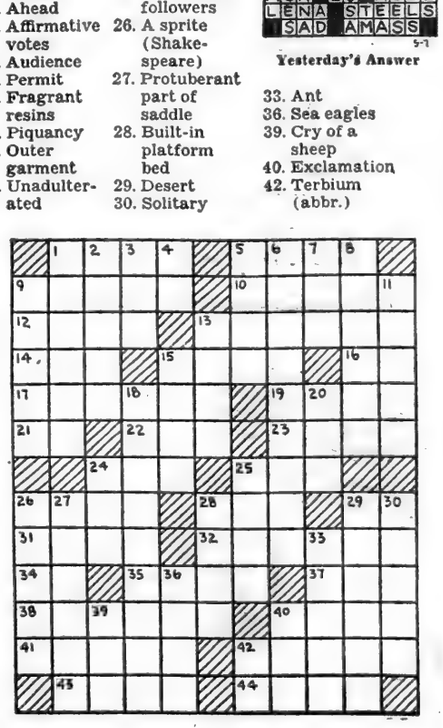
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings



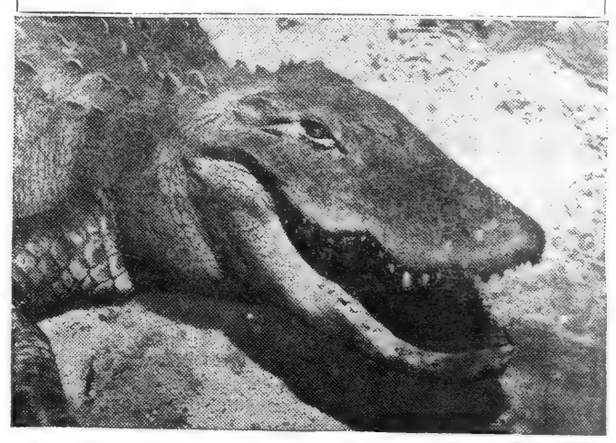
DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS



1. A gambling game
5. River (Ger.)
9. The devil
10. Give up
12. Scheme
13. Plague
14. Sick
15. Upright
16. Personal pronoun
17. Underground room
19. Goddess of discord
21. Half an em
22. Evening (poet.)
23. Headland
24. Moslem title
25. Nourished
26. Projecting end of a church
28. Stripe
29. Samarium (sym.)
31. Soft sheepskin
32. Break the seal of
34. I am (contracted)
35. Lairs
37. Unit of electrical conductivity
38. Board a ship for a voyage
40. Sultanate near Arabia
41. Gain knowledge
42. In that place
43. Places
44. A roster

DOWN



1. Overthrown
2. Ring-shaped coral island
3. Rodent
4. Ahead
5. Affirmative votes
6. Audience
7. Permit
8. Fragrant resins
9. Piquancy
11. Outer garment
13. Unadulterated
15. Island southeast of Sumatra
18. Celebrated in legend
20. Color
24. Man's name
25. Enthusiastic followers
26. A sprite (Shakespeare)
27. Protuberant part of saddle
28. Built-in platform bed
29. Desert
30. Solitary
33. Ant
36. Sea eagles
39. Cry of a sheep
40. Exclamation
42. Terbium (abbr.)

Yesterday's Answer

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

SHEEDY shed crocodile tears till he had alligator bags under his eyes, because he got the gator from his girl. "I'm going to hide from you and your horrible hair," she said "until you go gator bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's favorite hair tonic. It's non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Keeps hair well-groomed from morning 'till night. Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test." Paul slithered down to a nearby toilet goods counter for Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he's swamped with purse-lipped females who want him to crocodile their telephone numbers. So water you waiting for? Buy a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil, or ask for it on your hair at any barber shop. Then your social life will stop dragon, and you'll scale the heights.

of 131 So. Harris Hill Rd., Williamsville, N. Y.*

Wildroot Company, Inc., Buffalo 11, N. Y.

In The Majors

National League

Brooklyn 7, Philadelphia 6 (First game of a day-night doubleheader).

St. Louis 4, Cincinnati 2.

Chicago 2, Milwaukee 0.

Pittsburgh 2-4, New York 0-6.

American League

New York 6, Boston 4.

Washington 6, Philadelphia 0.

Chicago 12, Detroit 3.

Cleveland at St. Louis, night.

THERE'S NO MAN LIKE THAT WAYNE MAN!!

He's here — with a wild, new fightin' gal in his arms . . . and the Happiest, Scrappiest Hit of his career!

"Trouble Along the Way"

WITH SHERRY JACKSON · SCREEN PLAY BY MELVILLE SHAVELSON AND JACK ROSE · DIRECTED BY MICHAEL CURTIZ · MUSIC BY MAX STEINER

Carolina NOW PLAYING

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Continued hot with 85 high. Yesterday's high, 88; low, 62.

The Daily Tar Heel

QUARTERLY
The editor and a reviewer both talk about the literary magazine.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 148 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, MAY 12, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

BOARD OK'S 7-SCHOOL GROUP

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

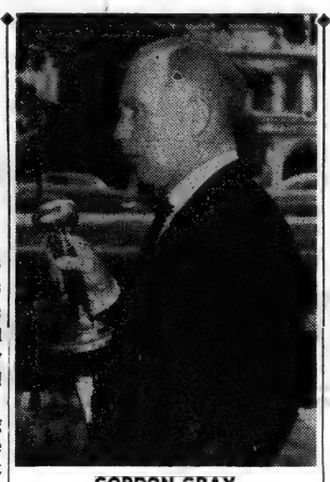
Educational TV Plans Near Reality

Trustees Approve Carmichael Suggestion To Obtain License

Educational television for the three branches of the Consolidated University is all but certain now, with Controller W. D. Carmichael Jr.'s recommendation yesterday that the University submit an application for license immediately to the Federal Communications Commission.

Carmichael told the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees at Raleigh yesterday, "Money is currently being raised from friends of the Consolidated University and it is the belief of the University that ample funds will be in hand or pledged by June 1."

Carmichael said, "Engineering surveys and construction of the transmitter would require at least a year, so that actual transmission of programs could not be expected to begin before the fall of 1954."



The Trustees approved a recommendation that the University apply to the FCC prior to June 2, for a license to operate a Consolidated University television station utilizing Channel Four (VHF), with studios on the three campuses of the University. The costs of all construction and the first two years' operations are to be financed by private gifts. The recommendation makes it understood that control of the character and content of all programs televised from the studios is the sole responsibility of the administration and the Board of Trustees.

Carmichael said the proposed transmitter tower will be approximately 750 feet above the ground, located in a high position assuring a good picture not only in the areas of the three campuses, but over a large part of Eastern North Carolina and well into the Piedmont west of Greensboro.

All live programs originating at the three schools, in addition to being on Channel Four, will be available to commercial stations wishing to pick them up simultaneously. Kinescopes, or films of the programs, will be available ot commercial stations in the state for use at their convenience.

No commercial sponsorship of programs produced by the University will be permitted.

Channel Four is the only one of the eight allotted to North Carolina for educational telecasting which is of the "very high frequency" type. The others are "ultra high frequency" and not readily suitable to most TV sets. For this reason, Channel Four has been considered a ripe plum for commercial interests in the event the University failed to act before the June deadline.

GORDON GRAY
. . . it's up to him

Gray Says Conference Must Comply With Set Of Conditions

By John Jamison

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees yesterday told President Gray the matter of Carolina's entrance into the new seven-school athletic conference is entirely up to him.

Gray, in turn, assured the Trustees that certain conditions will have to be met by the new conference before this University can consider becoming an active member.

The Executive Committee also heard Controller W. D. Carmichael Jr. report on the progress of educational television in the Consolidated University. They approved his recommendation that UNC apply immediately to the Federal Communications Commission for a license to operate on Channel Four with studios in Greensboro, Raleigh and Chapel Hill. The station will be operated on private donations for its first two years of broadcasting.

The Trustees approved a four-year course at Chapel Hill leading to a B.S. in medical technology. The course would be open to women, and thus allow them to matriculate here as freshmen.

Gray's report on the new athletic conference came on the heels of the Southern Conference meeting in Greensboro last Friday in which UNC, State, Wake Forest, Duke, Maryland, Clemson and South Carolina agreed to pull out of the oversized Southern and form one which will suit their needs better.

Gray listed five conditions to be met by the new league to render it agreeable to North Carolina and N. C. State. They were:

1. As early as it is practicable, members of the conference should schedule contests with every other member. (In the past, with two "divisions" in the conference, a comparatively weak team has been able to win the conference championship by virtue of a good record against the lower division members.)

2. No freshmen should be allowed to participate in varsity athletics.

3. Adequate standards should be established in all member schools with scholarship requirements looking toward a degree.

4. Insofar as possible the conference should encourage participation in all sports by member schools and avoid sole emphasis on the major sports.

5. If the majority of members wish to permit bowl participation, the conference will allow such, with profits going to the conference fund and participants making expenses only.

The Executive Committee gave Gray the go-ahead with a motion to leave entrance into the new conference up to the administration.

The new conference (yet unnamed) meets in Raleigh June 14 to name itself and draw up final plans. The 10 remaining members of the Southern Conference meet June 26-27 at Roanoke, Va., to discuss the future of that conference.

The new conference will begin effective operation this Fall when it names a football champion. Next Spring it will hold a basketball tournament in March and contests in all Spring sports.

Drinking Rule Action Proceeds; No Plan Yet Ready For Both Sides

By Louis Kraar

Work on a possible revision of the coed visiting agreement moved a step nearer completion yesterday as President Bob Gorham set up a new agency—the only one on campus for fraternities and cods to officially exchange ideas.

The new group, called the Executive Council, is a "forum for discussing campus wide problems," Gorham said. The problem of a revised visiting agreement is the first to be considered.

The Inter-Fraternity Council has been working with the administration concerning coed visiting and drinking in fraternity houses.

The new 10-member Executive Council, which will help work on this problem, is composed of representatives of major campus organizations.

Administration officials have been considering a proposal by the IFC. In doing so, the administration is consulting the Woman's Residence Council, the Faculty Committee on Fraternities and Sororities, and the IFC.

Last week an editorial in The Daily Tar Heel suggested that fraternities hold a mass meeting with the administration to iron out the question of drinking regulations in the proposed visiting agreement. The editorial claimed there was "poor liaison" between fraternities and the Administration in this matter.

Roy Holsten, Assistant Dean of Students, said yesterday that such a meeting "would not be desirable at this time." He said that the groups concerned (administration and fraternities) weren't in favor of the idea. Negotiations haven't reached the stage for this kind of meeting, Holsten said.

However, Holsten and other administrative officials are meeting with the Woman's Residence Council this week to discuss the problem. The new Executive Council is expected to meet on the same day.

The Faculty Committee on Fraternities and Sororities will also meet this week to talk over the question, according to Holsten.

After these three groups have met, the administration is expected to have a better idea of unified student opinion—both the coed and the fraternity view. Then action can be taken on whatever plan is agreed upon by students.

(See CONFAB, page 4)

YMCA Marks Anniversary, Installs Today

Annual installation banquet for officers of the Carolina YMCA will be held this afternoon at 5:45 in the Blue Room of Lenoir Hall.

This installation marks the 94th anniversary of the founding of the Carolina YMCA, and is on approximately the same day that James Kelly of Monroe County was installed as the first president in May, 1860.

Officers to be installed: President Ned Harbin, Winston-Salem; Vice-President Bob Hyatt, Cherokee; Secretary Susan Fink, Chapel Hill; and Treasurer Stuart Jones, Winston-Salem.

Commission chairmen to be installed are Christian Faith and Heritage, Harold White, Fruithurst, Ala.; Campus and Personal Life, Baxter McIntyre, Ellerbe; Social Responsibility, Alice Chapman, Welch, W. Va.; World Relatedness, Clinton Lindley, Chapel Hill; Membership, Bob Hyatt; Finance, Stuart Jones; and Publications, Manning Muntzing, Moorefield, W. Va.

Dr. Cecil Johnson will be master of ceremonies and Chancellor R. B. House will be the main speaker. Dr. E. William Noland, Chairman of the YMCA Advisory Board, will install the new officers and commission chairmen. Gil Marsh will speak on behalf of the old officers and Neb Harbin on behalf of the new ones.

The cost of the banquet is $1.25 a person. Reservations may be made by calling the YMCA, 6761.

Council Portrait Goes To School Of Pharmacy

On behalf of friends of C. T. Council of Durham, President Gordon Gray at a small luncheon given by the University in the Morehead Building here presented a handsome portrait of Council to the School of Pharmacy of which Council is a grdduate.

The portrait, painted by Edmund Strudwick of Hillsboro, was accepted by Dean E. A. Brecht of the School of Pharmacy.

W. D. Carmichael Jr., vice-president and controller, presided at the luncheon, attended by Mr. and Mrs. Council, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Council Jr., Germain Bernard of Durham, close business associates of Council and University officials.

Seniors To Get Thrills Tonight At 'Code Two'

"Code Two," a mystery thriller, will be presented free tonight at the Carolina Theatre at 11 o'clock for seniors, their senior dates and members of the faculty.

Starring Ralph Meeker and Sally Forrest, the film is the second big event for Senior Week, Steve Perrow, senior class social chairman, said yesterday. Late permission has been granted to senior coeds.

Members of the faculty have been invited to participate in all Senior Week activities.

A raffle for seniors and juniors will be held in the Y Court this morning from 9 until 1, Perrow added. Students are requested to drop their tickets (old movie tickets which will be provided) in the "Senior" and "Junior" boxes.

Fourteen prizes given by Chapel Hill merchants will be awarded to seven seniors and seven juniors tomorrow afternoon at Hogan's Lake. The drawing, made by Saralyn Bonowitz, May Queen, will be part of a Senior-Junior picnic-party starting at 2 p.m. and extending through the night tomorrow.

Orientation Counselors

Orientation Counselor's Interviews will be held on second floor of Graham Memorial tonight from 7 'til 9 and Wednesday afternoon from 4 'til 6.

Gorham Forms Council; Plans 'To Know Problems Facing Us'

Student Body President Bob Gorham yesterday announced the creation of a new organ of student government to be known as the Executive Council.

Gorham said its chief function will be to meet with him to discuss campus problems every two weeks. He said that the council is made up of the heads of campus organizations and represents every section of the campus.

Gorham said that this council will be a means of drawing together campus organizations so that "we can know the problems facing us."

Members of the new council are Grail representative Ed Gross, Pan Hellenic Council President Judy King, YMCA president Ned Harbin, YWCA President Marilyn Habel, IDC President Walt Gurley, IFC President Fred Mewhinney, Orientation Chairman Tom Creasy, Student Council Chairman Jim Adams, Women's Residence Council Chairman Betty Anderson and student body Vice-President Baxter Miller.

Weather, Weather

Up to six inches of snow fell yesterday from Lake Superior to the Rockies, near the Canadian border.

Coed taking two long fishing poles, fully rigged, into Carr Dormitory.

•

Political science prof explaining to class why Stevenson's ex-wife didn't vote for him. Quotes the Mrs. as saying, "It's time for a change." "Yeah," quips a student, "I understand that's why she divorced him."

•

English prof telling his students, "This class is like a poker game—I'm the dealer and I hold all the chips."

Student Travel Reservations Desired Now

Students should make their reservations for end-of-school travel early this year, according to the Travel Agency. Train, boat, and plane reservations can be arranged by calling 91882 between 2 and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The service is free to all students and faculty members as well as to townspeople. Persons desiring to make weekend trips are asked to make their reservations early due to the crowded conditions on planes and trains on weekends.

One of the many features of holiday and summer travel is the all-inclusive week in Miami for $19.00 by Eastern Airlines.

For further information come by the Travel Agency in Graham Memorial on the south mezzanine.

A Merry-Go-Round

Splash Club's Water Ballet Shows Tonight

"Manhattan Merry-Go-Round" is the theme of the annual water ballet to be presented by the Splash Club tonight at 8 o'clock in Bowman Gray Pool.

Included in the pageant will be such numbers as "We've Got Manhattan," "Park Avenue Fantasy" and "On a Visit to Chinatown."

Swimming in the ballet are Barbara Braxton, Grace Doar, Ann McClamroch, Pepper Stetson, Cho Gordon, Jackie Anderson, Gay Hogan, Jean Williamson, Virginia Whiteman, Jane Allen, Janet Cornwell, Connie Lassiter, Lib Moore, Pat Turnbull, Mase Chapin, Nat Salter, Sally Smith, Betty Davis and Barbara Tinkhan.

President Nan Reese said admission is free and the public is invited.

Pharmacy Gets 100% To Join Alumni Group

The School of Pharmacy has jumped ahead in the campaign for membership in the Alumni Association with 100 per cent joining the association.

Steve Perrow, senior class social chairman, solicited 46 pharmacy seniors who are now members of the association. A campus-wide campaign was launched yesterday morning with a booth in the Y operating from 9 till 1 p.m. Membership Chairman Heywood Washburn announced that solicitors from his committee will canvass the campus. Efforts to secure help from the Interdormitory and Interfraternity councils already have been made.

The General Alumni Association, with more than 9,000 members, is an organization of former students of Carolina. Members get the Alumni Review, a monthly news-feature magazine giving news items, arranged by classes, and telling alumni what goes on at Chapel Hill. Dues-paying members are mailed ballots to vote in the annual election of officers of the association. On the board of directors are alumni representing local alumni groups and alumni classes.

A special senior rate of $1 is offered to students leaving in June. The usual amount for membership is $3.

The Senior Alumni Committee includes, besides Washburn:

Jayne Adams, Kenneth Barton, Anna Beeson, Sara Lyn Bonowitz, Mary Lilla Browne, C. Frederick Coker, Ralph Craver, Sally Bett Cunningham, Walt Dear, Theodore Frankel, Virginia Hall, James Edward (Buddy) Heins, Clemuel Johnson, Gilbert Marsh, Margaret M. Matthews, James McLeod, Robert Lewis Neill, Hubert Olive, Julius Rousseau, Dot Smith, R. Arthur Spaugh Jr., Pepper Stetson, Ben Tison, Sara Wood and Tom Wooten.

Churchill Favors Meeting

LONDON—Prime Minister Winston Churchill said yesterday he is in favor of a high level conference of the leading powers without any great delay.

Late Permission

Senior women may have late leave to attend the movie at the Carolina Theater tonight, according to the Women's Residence Council and office of the Dean of Women.

Girls are expected to return at once to their dormitories when the movie is over.

Summer, Fall Pre-Registration Ends Friday In Most Schools

Pre-registration for Summer and Fall in the various schools is now underway and will continue through Friday.

The general procedure to observe in pre-registration is to contact the departmental adviser, secure a green form and take it to Archer House for final processing and further instructions.

General College and Business Administration require that a student have an appointment before being permitted to pre-register.

Arts and Sciences makes a special mention for pre-law, pre-med, pre-dental, and special students to see the adviser in the dean's office for information on pre-registration.

The Pharmacy School is holding pre-registration today for second year students and tomorrow for third year and graduate students.

Public Health students should check the bulletin board on the ground floor of the Medical Building for pre-registration dates and details.

Nursing students will be advised in class of dates and details for pre-registration.

Social Work students should report to 113 Alumni Building for pre-registration.

Law, Library Science, Medicine and Dentistry students pre-registration will be in accordance with details announced through the deans.

The registration office in Archer House will be open from 8:30 to 12:45 and 1:45 to 4:30 p.m. through May 15.

Naquavi Impressed By U S.. Traditions

Indian Finds Students Studious, Free, Ignorant Of Other People

By Joyce Adams

S. Hamid Hasan Naquavi has come from Karachi, Pakistan, to do graduate work in the geography department here at Chapel Hill—that's half-way around the world.

Born and educated in India, Naquavi attended the Moslem University in Aligarh, where he received his master's degree in 1947. For five years he taught geography at the University of Karachi, and is currently on a Ford Foundation scholarship in this country to continue his graduate work.

Naquavi had two reasons for wanting to come to the United States. First, he said the quality of education is higher here and when he returns to Pakistan he will command a better salary as a result of his foreign study. Secondly, he wanted very much to see the people of the United States, their land, cities, and industry. "The world looks to the United States as the leader of nations, and I wanted to see this country for myself."

Naquavi was most impressed with the informality of life here "It is so easy to get to know people," he said. "At home we are very reserved, because of the British influence."

Especially strange to him was the freedom with which the sexes mingle. In Kararhi, under the Moslem tradition, the girls are very shy. "That never speak to boys. Even though we have co-education the girls and boys never mix. If a boy and girl are seen talking together except in a very public place they both may be punished."

Another difference Naquavi pointed out between his home university and Carolina is the social life. Since dating is forbidden, according to Moslem custom, the social life there centers around the dormitories. They hold debates, poetry contests, musical and dramatic activities. "Here," he says, "The dormitories are little more than a place to sleep."

This will come as a shock to Carolina students, but Naquavi is very impressed with how hard they study. But he thinks all the pretty coeds down at the library have a lot to do with it.

The students here do more work in proportion to the professor. In Karachi, he states, the professor does all the work and lectures to

(See PAKISTAN, page 4)

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager JIM SCHENCK

Quo Vadis

Having at last surmounted the always difficult problem of financial support, the Carolina Quarterly organization must pause and ask itself a very pertinent question: In what direction is it headed?

Last week the student body reaffirmed its faith in the Quarterly by a convincing 3 to 1 majority to an amendment which will enable that publication to receive up to $1,000 a year from the Student Legislature. This newspaper wholeheartedly endorses that action for the continuance of the Quarterly. Indeed it would be inconceivable for the University of North Carolina, situated as it is here in the midst of a literarily productive area, to be without a literary magazine. Both contributors and readers would demand such a publication.

However, we feel that the Quarterly people should orient themselves toward a long range editorial policy. The latest issue of the magazine, reviewed elsewhere on this page, seems to be a great departure from its original purpose. The Quarterly is not just a plaything for immature Beaudelaires; it is a representative of this institution just as the other Quarterlies throughout the nation are representative of theirs. Thus any defects reflect directly upon this University.

For some time now the Quarterly has been considered an ivory tower refuge for would-be Sitwells. It was not always so and those connected with it might well investigate its history. The founding of the Quarterly was hailed by the Saturday Review of Literature. Sam Ragan, Don Shoemaker and other critics praised it with each succeeding number. Even the Voice of America featured it. A host of professional writers, including Paul Green, Betty Smith, Archibald Henderson, Richard Walser, Phillips Russell, Charles Eaton and Walter Pritchard Eaton, supported it; and those writers were published side by side with the young novices of the campus.

As the magazine grew its subscribers ranged as far afield as Alaska, Iceland and South Africa as well as most of the 48 states. It flourished because those connected with it had enthusiasm for the Quarterly and were willing to work to convert that enthusiasm into a magazine reflecting their best creative talents.

As originally conceived, the Quarterly's purpose was to bridge the almost insurmountable gap between amateur and professional writing. The only limitation was that at least 50 percent of the contributions were to be from students. The publication was to be controlled by students free of politics. A five man faculty advisory board was set up to provide stability and continuity. This board was meant to be used and its services were invaluable in locating new talent, contacting professional writers, and giving aid to complex publishing problems.

The magazine was to a quarterly review type, consisting not only of fiction and poetry but of reviews and articles, both literary and non-literary. However, its primary role was to be that of encouraging local writers of merit. Outside writers were to provide the standard to be met. The emphasis of course was on that material best known to the local group—the South.

And editorial appearing in 1949 in the second issue of the magazine called this to the attention of the novices:

"We must never forget that we are inextricably a part of the modern South with its problems of economics, race relations, and politics. It is with this new South that the young writers of our region should be concerned. No longer can we retreat into the myth of yesteryear."

This admonition did not mean that all writing had to be regional. It was merely a caution to those who tend to write on meaningless esoteric subjects about which they know nothing.

Thus we call all of this to the attention of those people interesed in the Quarterly's future. The magazine is no longer merely a struggling child; it is an established institution which has both a reputation and a tradition as a spokesman for the ideas and talents of our people. The result is summarized in the editorial mentioned above:

"Situated as we are here in Chapel Hill in the midst of many of the South's foremost writers, this publication hopes to reflect the thoughts and ideas of the comtemporary South and to afford new, young writers an opportunity to present a literature indigenous to the region. At first it may seem that the product will be only concomitant with that emanating from other parts of the nation. However, if each section develops its own literature accordingly, we shall have here in America a national literature; and the South, as well as the other sections, will be an integral part of the result—an American literature as heterogeneous as its people and yet as homogenous as that people's common belief in democracy and freedom."

Lines On

Literature

Roy C. Moose

After a season marked by editorial, financial, and personality upheavals, the Winter edition of the "Carolina Quarterly" emerged last week in a bright cover which was unable to camouflage completely the scare of the conflict. The total effect reminds one of the little girl with the curl in the middle of her forehead. When it's good, it is very good; and when it's bad, it is horrid.

However, for the information of those who would choke it to death, let it be said that the worst is over; the editors have promised that in the future the little lady will reassert herself.

The first thing that strikes one in the present number is the total absence of articles. It is as if the editors had decided to throw away the meat and potatoes and serve instead a complete meal of merigue. With a little investigation the editors will probably discover that articles are the staple material of literary magazines from the "Atlantic Monthly" to the smallest review. Certainly a few well written articles are absolutely necessary for the achievement of balance in a magazine such as the "Quarterly."

Apparently to compensate for the omission of articles, the editors have returned to the policy of presenting book reviews, Long neglected, the review section should now become a standard feature of the magazine. In this issue, however, the happiest effects were not always achieved. For instance, a young man with the following philosophy was given the task of reviewing a book of regional short stories by James Boyd: "This and similar flashes of prosodic brilliance help one to overlook the fact that the small Southern town is in itself a living parody of civilization, and an attempt to satirize it can only be superfluous." He proceeds to condemn Mr. Boyd for his regionalism, employing in the process the French term "idee five"; then he compares one of the better short stories with "Faulkner's classic 'A Rose for Emily'" without any realization that Mr. Faulkner has been bombarded with the term "Regionalism."

Of the four short stories presented in the fiction section, Emilie Glen's "People Will Give and Give" is easily the best. Miss Glen's story alone would justify the existence of this issue. She is an author who is in complete command of her material and style, displaying both maturity and control. The outstanding characteristic is that, unlike the other pieces, her story is a short story. The characters are fully drawn and the story of the lying little girl reminds one again of the famous story by Saki.

At the opposite end of the quality yardstick, I should place Mr. Tom Lloyd's "S'io Credesse," a piece which has neither story nor fully realized characters. However, it's worst attribute is that it is a very bad imitation of Hemingway.

Mr. Dan Reid's first published work "With the Tide" gives evidence of a talent that deserves to be encouraged. He has obeyed well Phillips Russell's dictum of "Keep it simple" which is a good beginning for any young writer.

In general the poetry appears better than the fiction, with one glaring exception. Again as with the short stories the girls win the banners. Libby Thayer's two sonnets could stand with the best. Miss Thayer has something to say and says it in a manner that that seems to give freshness to a very old and tired form. Next to Miss Thayer's work I should rank "Landscape, After Rain" by Isabel Harriss Barr. Here again is an excellent blend of ideas and diction. Mr: August Kadow's concatenation of profuse imagery makes one scream "too much" although in the case of "The unresisting grass and stubborn trees", a little of the excess could have been applied.

'You Won't Feel A Thing'

RUSSIANISM

A.Z.F. Wood Jr.

In an era of loyalty checks, suspicion, fear, hate, villification of anything Red or pink, worship of the free-enterprise system and red-blooded Americanism, prejudice (racial and otherwise), and general nationwide hysteria equalling, if not exceeding, that of the first world war, it might be well to look at some of the things that one of the staunchest advocates of free-enterprise said back in 1943: Wendell Wilkie in his "One World."

I refer especially to the chapter entitled "Our Ally, Russia". Following are some pertinent extracts:

". . .Russia is an effective society. It works. It has survival value."

"Russia is our ally in this war."

". . . We must work with Russia after war."

Wilkie's interview with a young superintendent of a factory went something like this:

"'. . . how does your pay as superintendent of this factory compare with the pay of the average skilled worker in the plant?'

'It's about ten times as much.'

"That . . . was about what a man of similar responsibility in America would receive. So I said to him, 'I thought Communism meant equality of reward.'

"Equality, he told me, was not part of the present Soviet conception of socialism. 'From each according to his capacities, to each according to his work,' was the slogan of Stalinist socialism, and only when they had achieved the Communist phase of their development would the slogan be changed to 'From each according to his capacities, to each according to his needs.' Even then, he added, complete equality would not be necessary or desirable."

"'I understand that you are in complete accord with the economic and political theories of the state. But if you happened to hold different ideas, could you express them and fight for them?'

"After ten minutes of hot colloquy, his answer was only a shrug of the shoulders. I said, 'Then actually you've got no freedom.'

"'Mr. Wilkie,' he said, 'You don't understand. I've had more freedom than my father and grandfather ever had. They were peasants. They were never allowed to read and write. They were slaves to the soil. I am the first man in the long chain of my ancestors who has had the opportunity to educate himself, to advance himself—to amount to anything. And that for me is freedom. It may not seem like freedom to you, but, remember, we are in the developing stage of our system. Someday we'll have political freedom too.'"

". . . the daily press is published in circulations which run into seven figures but still cannot meet the demand. People wanted to read them enough to stand in the cold and read over other people's shoulders."

". . . Russia is a dynamic country, a vital new society, a force that cannot be bypassed in any future world."

Yes, Russia is a dynamic country, and in a sense a young country, for before 1917 there was nothing that the everyday Russian could call his nation. For him there was no tradition, no liberty, no opportunity to do anything but plow a field and feed pigs; there was not enough to eat, he couldn't read and write, and if he protested he was sent to Siberia. The everyday Russian before 1917 had no pride and no dignity, either for himself or for his country which was run by a corrupt a regime as ever existed; so to him there was in reality no country, no, just an authority, a law. After 1917 his lot got a little better, and it is getting better all the time. And there are 195,000,000 non-party-member Russians who like to eat, to advance themselves, to amount to something, just like everybody else.

I do not advocate that we pack up and leave Korea or Germany or that we switch to Communism. I only suggest that we calm down a little and try to understand.

Parabola

English Club

As a child, he cared for neither Erector sets nor Monopoly. His reading of Longfellow and Viltor Hugo did not serve him well at the corner drugstore in his teens. Nor did a well-developed taste for smut and competitive sports sublimate a vague longing for the ideal and the absolute which rose higher and higher within him as time went on.

College taught him Wordsworth, the value of conspicuous consumption, and the advantages of a cloistered community. Here he found friends with common interests and verbal satisfaction from courses catering to his vague urges. He also saw that some members of the academic profession own reasonably good cars, have time and funds for travel, and enjoy a prestige which their persons, among different surrounds, could not possibly command.

He saw all this, and when the time came to go forth soap-salesman, priest, or plumber, after the usual ceremony, he decided to stay behind, eager to make a permanent possession of his rented gown. At this point, he was a young man in search of an easy life, reconcilable with ideals as honest as anybody's. He was generally far less naive than his classmates—except in one respect: he felt his position watertight and his path made.

He found graduate school a highly competitive world where the average goal was security and bread, hard earned. He was stunned to find the doctorate cynically regarded as a union card. He saw himself as the member of a society more finely stratified and more cruel than an oriental caste-system. Finally, he was most surprised to see that the values of this world corresponded closely to those of the "outside," and that good houses and social prestige were bought here, as elsewhere, with money.

The young man, seeing this, decided to write an immediate expose of the situation. With the energy of a Hercules, he set cut to rip off the masks of his superiors. He constantly contrasted the height of his ideals with the depth of their actions. There was no fact about the ruling class of the graduate school which escaped his eye. His books lay neglected; the notes for his dissertation accumulated dust, which he continued writing his polemic.

He is much older now. He has received his doctorate. Somewhere, in a trunk, lie 50 pages of typescript, of which he has read several to a few intimates, at a party. The same trunk contains hundreds of off-prints of learned articles which he vaguely remembers having written. In general, he is still a vague man, in his achievements as well as in his teaching. And he still complains, though his plaint is elegantly phrased and agreed to as being reasonable by everyone who listens. For there are not many people at the University who would dare disagree with anything he says. He is well-known in the learned world, and his recommendations count for much.

Yr Mst Obt, Hmbl & Dvtd Srvt,
Sarkander

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . ." Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE was sunning himself and humming some snatches of 'Hark, The Voices!'; but he reared his head up and rolled an eye at me.

"Stop that!"

Heck, I was only idly plucking up blades of grass.

"Only?" The Horse snorted. "That's my food. And it is Tar Heel property anyway. What I don't eat of it, is."

I wondered if The Horse thought he was a Trustee or something? John Washington Clark, maybe? Come to think of it—Heh heh, come to think of it . . !

"So what's wrong with Uncle John?" The Horse cut in.

Uncle John?

"Sure," The Horse grinned. "Every family has an Uncle John. Even I have an Uncle John. He snorts and shows his teeth a lot and snarls up the traces; but he means okay. He will tell you what to do, and if it comes out wrong he will aks you why on earth you ever did it. But that's Uncle John."

I had something to say about that, and I said it.

"Don't sell Uncle John short," The Horse said. "He made good. He must have something. His father, Judge Walter Clark, was a great and a liberal man, and old Buckets, a horse I knew used to pull the Judge's surrey with the fringe all around, old Buckets said the Judge was so honest and idealistic he couldn't afford to send his boys here to Chapel Hill, even."

So what had that to do with Uncle John's hating us?

"I wish you had some simple horse-sense, like Uncle John and I have," The Horse said. "Look, Uncle John loves us. Only, he sees us wrong. He really believes this stuff he says about us. If only he would come here as a student!"

Would come? Could have come, didn't The Horse mean?

"The state laws," The Horse pointed out with a stabbing hoof, "let any citizen of the state attend classes with permission of the teacher, as an Auditor. Or Uncle John could qualify as a Special Student, and don't you think he couldn't!"

At his age?

"Older than Uncle John are studying here," The Horse reminded us. "Feeling foolish, maybe; but not acting foolish and not coming here just because of age. Look, he certainly can afford it. And the alleged fringe-on-top teachers wouldn't pull a single punch of their teaching. It would do us all good."

We thought The Horse was having a nightmare.

"And what is wrong with a nice little nightmare?" The Horse leered. "And incidentally, you can bet Uncle John wouldn't be on the Dean's Bad List for leading panty-raids. As for his not liking Yankees—well, I made some pretty good friends among Sherman's Yank Cavalry horses. I remember one cute filly—"

I stopped that story, but quick! Stick to Uncle John.

That's the way The Horse sees it, too.

Golf Team And Stickmen Defeated By Blue Devils

Duke Thrusts First Defeat On Linksmen

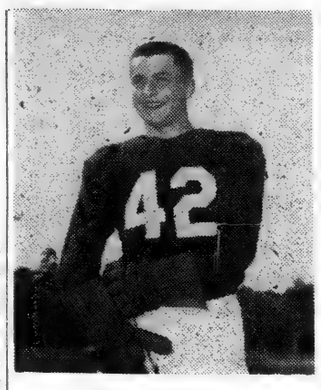
By Biff Roberts

DURHAM, May 12.—Carolina's undefeated golf team, seeking its ninth straight victory of the year, made a charging stretch drive for the win at the Hope Valley Country Club this afternoon but this time the natives danced home for a pug-nosed win at the wire, 14-13.

The loss meant that for the third consecutive year the Carolina team had to suffer a single loss. Last year Wake Forest beat the Tar Heels in their final match of the season. The year before that it had been these same Blue Devils.

For the Tar Heels it was purely a question of not opening up soon enough. The Carolina players lost the match on the first nine where they gave Duke a 7-2 lead at the turn. Considering the front-nine deficit the comeback was miraculous.

Jim Ferree and George Mountcastle led the Carolina team as far as the medal was concerned with two-over par 72's. John Eisinger and Dick Hood also had 72's for Duke.



The team will leave Thursday afternoon for Winston-Salem where it will defend its Southern Conference team championship. Last year's individual winner, Tommy Langley of Carolina, is in the service now and will not defend his title.

The summaries:

Eisinger (D) def. Black, 2½-½; Bolster (D) def. Williamson 2½-½; Eisinger and Bolster def. Black and Williamson, 2-1.

Thornton (UNC) def. Clark, 2-1; Ferree (UNC) def. Hansen, 2½-½; Thornton and Ferree def. Clark and Hansen, 2-1.

Mountcastle (UNC) tied Hood 1½-1½; Ford (UNC) def. Poore, 2-1; Hood and Poore def. Mountcastle and Ford, 2-1.

DICK HARRALL
. . . UNC goalie

Baseball Team Ends Regular Season Today

North Carolina's baseball team, southern division winners in the Southern Conference, closes its regular baseball season today against N.C. State at Raleigh.

Coach Walt Rabb will start righthander Joe Pazdan against the Wolfpack. Pazdan has no losses for the season, and though he hasn't seen too much action, he has pitched consistently good ball.

The Tar Heels clinched first place in the southern division Saturday behind the six hit pitching of Chal Port with a 3-1 win.

Second place is still a tossup between Clemson, Duke and Wake Forest. The Tigers can clinch a berth with a win over Furman in a game played last night. Should Clemson lose, and Wake Forest beat State yesterday, then Wake and Duke will be tied. If both Clemson and the Deacs lose, Duke backs into second place and a tourney berth.

Carolina plays its first game in the playoff Thursday night against Maryland or George Washington who tied for first in the northern division. Port will probably pitch.

The Wolfpack are out of the running after dropping a 9-2 decision to Wake Forest Saturday. Clemson could have sewed up the last spot Saturday with a win over South Carolina, but lost 13-4, instead.

The game is a re-schedule of one rained out May 2.

Lacrosse Team Loses To Duke By Nine Goals

The Carolina lacrosse team dropped their sixth contest of the year yesterday to Duke at Durham by the score of 13-4.

Dickie Harrall raised his scoring total to twenty by putting three goals into the net. The other Tar Heel score was made by Toby Haynesworth, a newcomer to the sport at Carolina. Goalie Lew Floyd made 21 saves to raise his season total to 179 in nine games.

The Tar Heels will journey to Charlottesville Friday where they will engage the University of Virginia's national champions in their last game of the season.

Summaries:

Pos.	UNC	DUKE
G	Floyd	Benson
D	Johnson	Loane
D	Trimble	Stark
D	Stokes	Baylin
M	Barkley	Darkis
M	Cole	Rutter
M	Baker	Rogers
A	Walker, J.	Bollinger
A	Pilsbury	Wolson
A	Harrall	Wilkerson

Score by periods:

UNC	0	1	2	1—4
DUKE	4	5	3	1—13

UNC substitutions: Sully, Spooner, Dawes, Bryant, Dameron, Burrell, Linker, Bertron, Jones, Haynesworth, Wolfsheimer, Tettlebach, Winston, DuBose, Styron, Friedman, Spaine, Einstein .

Duke Substitutions: Miller, Gerhardt, Berlinghoff, Burnstein, Harrington, Trimple, Saunders, Botnick, Anderson.

Scoring—UNC Harrall 3; Haynesworth. Duke, Wilkerson, 2; Miller, 3; Gerhardt; Wilson, 6; Bernstein.

Big Four Intramurals At State Today

After a week of tryouts the Carolina entry in the Big Four Sports Day is looking forward to repeating its last year's victory. The contests will be held at N. C. State.

Headed by the pitching of Bob Page and Barry Pate, the softball team expects to finish better than their third place last year.

The horseshoe competition was keen during the tryouts and the Tar Heels who finally were picked to fill the six vacant positions are heralded as dead shots. This particular team is one of the strongest that Carolina has in the field.

Skip Roddy and Bob Fountain will lead the tennis team into action and it is also expected to make a better showing than their third place last year. If they play at all like the memebs of the varsity then they should have no trouble at all.

Carolina won the volleyball title last year but several members of the championship team graduated at mid-winter. Bill Smith, George Smith and Bill Brewer are returning members from last year's squad and, coupled with the newcomers, should be a good bet to cop the title.

Bill McCord and Larry Parker will head the golf team, another event at which UNC is regarded somewhat more than proficient.

The Tar Heel handball has never had any trouble taking first place honors and this year, with such standouts as Dave Bischoff and Rod Nicol, should bring no deviation from the norm.

Table Tennis is also a Carolina specialty. Louie Patseavouras and Keith Grady are the numbers one and two respectively, followed by a host of aspiring victors. They should be odds-on favorites.

Altogether, it looks like another Carolina year. If the participants perform in the contests as well as they did in the tryouts, there will be no question as to the outcome.

Performers in the various sports are:

Table tennis—Hugh Barrett, Chris Crittenden, Frank Giles, Keith Grady, Louie Patseavouras, Seabury Thorp and Denny Mitchell, Mgr.

Softball—Bill Baker, Carl Kirby, Wallace Pridgen, Don McCormack, Al Lifson, Harold Glaitz, Denny Mitchell, Charles Poindexter, Bud Maddie, Chip Bryant, Barry Pate, Bob Page, Chris Carpenter, and Harvey Page, Mgr.

Horseshoes—John Fountain, Fred Hooper, Clyde Johnson, William Kirkman, Hugh Shull, Hack Woods and Russell Glatz, Mgr.

Golf—Needham Correll, William McCord, Archie Meekins, and Larry Parker.

Handball — Rod Nicol, Frank Bowman, Bob Page, Carl Goldfab, and Dave Bischoff.

Volleyball—George Smith, Bill Smith, Bruce Cater, Richard Haggard, Carl Ventus, William Griffin, William Brewer, Rick Levy, Richard Craxton, Walton Joyner, Barry Kalin, and Elliot Rose.

Tennis—Norman Jarrard, Bob Fountain, Skip Roddey, Jack Stoughton, Clyde Johnson, Bobby Noble, Bud Wallace, Bill Evan, Hack Little, Lonnie Herben, and Charles Seabrooks.

Outstanding Swimmer

Dick Baker of Greensboro was chosen to receive the Outstanding Freshman swimmer award. It was Baker's first season in organized swimming. He had an undefeated record on an undefeated team in a total of six meets.

Y Banquet Reservations

Chancellor House will speak at the annual installation banquet of the YMCA which will be held from 5:45 to 8 o'clock tonight in the Blue Room of Lenoir Hall.

Interested students, faculty and townspeople are invited. Reservations may be made by calling the Y office, 6761.

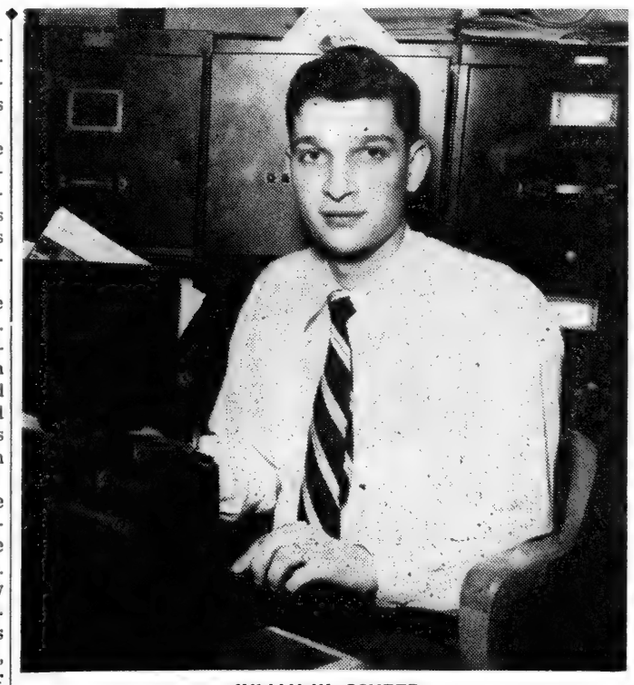
Julian Scheer, Old Salt And Scribe Leaves UNC Sports Publicity Office On June 30

By Tom Peacock

Julian W. Scheer, merchant marine, newspaper man, syndicate director, and assistant sports publicity director at Carolina leaves the university June 30.

Julian, who started as Jake Wade's assistant in 1949 as an undergrad, will always be remembered for his yarns of the sea, his sometimes unfeeling but always helpful criticism, and his crackerjack job in Jake's office.

Scheer started working for the sports publicity office by accident. A friend of his who had been helping out left, and Jake asked him to fill in. Julian complied, started part-time work, and has been full time "Assistant Director of Sports News" since he graduated from Carolina in 1950.



Since Julian's addition to the staff, Jake has been able to innovate many services at his office that have never been done before. The sports publicity office now distributes stories on all the "minor" sports, fillers, special stories to home towns of Carolina athletes, and has mailing lists adapted for each one of these divisions. More than 500 newspapers, magazines and press services receive copy weekly.

Jake and Julian are also the official Chapel Hill representatives of the United Press and Associated Press in sports which depends on the pair to give accurate and unbiased coverage on everything that goes on here.

Julian has two offices. One, the room in Woollen Gym he shares with Jake, and the other a four wheeled forty Chevrolet named Clarisse. Besides carrying the wandering Scheer everywhere he wants to go, Clarisse is filled with newspapers, a filing cabinet arrangement decipherable only by Julian himself, a playpen, and piles of information invaluable only to their owner.

The playpen belongs to his year-old daughter Leslie, only child of him and his lonely wife Virginia.

One of Julian's almost personal contributions and the one he is particularly proud of is his share in the separate mailing lists that he has compiled nearly single-handedly. Scheer is recognized as an authority on national publications, and he knows which publication will use a certain kind of story, whether it is news, features, or filler.

JULIAN W. SCHEER
. . . Carolina will miss him

Because of these lists, the office has its copy regularly used in well known publications, and its fillers are on the lists of syndicates such as AP and NEA.

Julian gained most of this knowledge from the operation of a private news and feature syndicate knows as the Scheer Syndicate. This enterprise still sends out information on a sectional basis, Scheer's original intention, but in 1949 he was going strong nationally.

In that year Scheer started a feature entitled "My favorite Play," which gave 30 famous coaches' favorite football play and a specific incident of when it worked especially well. Julian received "My Favorite Play" in the coaches' own handwriting, then sent it out to newspapers and magazines all over the country.

The Boston Traveler, The Washington Times-Herald, the Miami Herald, and the Los Angeles Mirror are only a few of the papers that used the feature. Scheer sent out over 9,000 mats while the feature was running.

He also has a solid background on newspapers, Navy public relations and magazine work. He has free lanced in scores of publications from cattle journals to the DTH.

Jake and Julian also get a great personal satisfaction out of sending stories to the athletes' home towns. Whenever some Tar Heel turns in an outstanding performance on the links, diamond, or in the pool, his newspaper will probably receive a release from the sports publicity office. They even notify proud fathers when sons excel in a Carolina uniform.

(See SCHEER, page 4)

JUST RECEIVED

Shipment Of CHARCOAL GREY PALM BEACH SUITS

Be Sure To Come In Early As This Popular Color Will Sell Fast.

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

JUST RECEIVED

ERIN MIST IMPORTED ALL PURE LINEN SUITS

By Don Richards

- NATURAL
- TOAST

$42.50

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

— NOW SHOWING —

"GRAPES OF WRATH"

starring

Henry Fonda — Jane Darwell
John Carradine

H·G·WELLS' Amazing Prediction of the Future
THINGS TO COME
An ALEXANDER KORDA Production with RAYMOND MASSEY
RALPH RICHARDSON
SIR CEDRIC HARDWICKE
PEARL ARGYLE
and a cast of 20,000
a Film Classics Inc. Release

THURSDAY ONLY!

"THINGS TO COME"

Varsity

M-G-M's FASTEST DRAMA ON TWO WHEELS!

CODE TWO

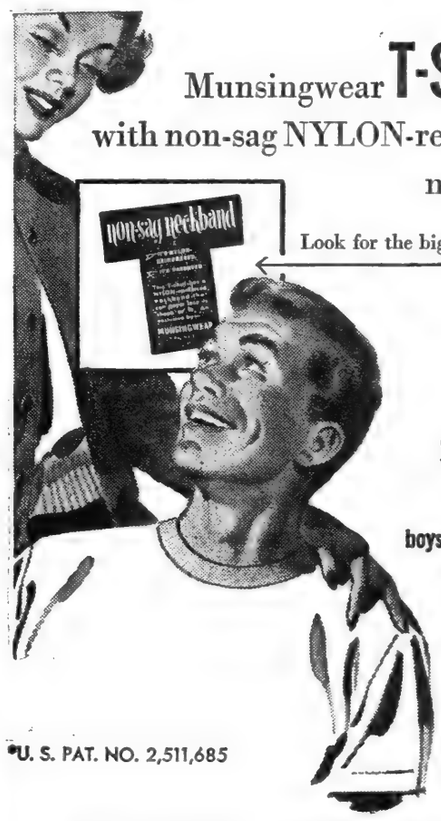
RALPH MEEKER · ELAINE STEWART
SALLY FORREST · KEENAN WYNN
ROBERT HORTON · JAMES CRAIG

— PLUS —

SPORTLIGHT "BIRTHPLACE OF HOCKEY"
LATEST NEWS

TODAY ONLY

Carolina



...HOME BY GREYHOUND

GREYHOUND

Munsingwear T-Shirts with non-sag NYLON-reinforced neckband

Look for the big green sticker

$1.50

boys' sizes 89¢ and $1.25

*U. S. PAT. NO. 2,511,685

The green sticker on a Munsingwear T-Shirt is your guarantee the collar will never lose its shape. The patented* NYLON-reinforced neckband eliminates sag forever! Wear it, wash it, pull it, stretch it . . . the neckband will always stay flat and neat.

THE COMPLETE ARROW LINE AT THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

Scheer, The Two-Office Man, Leaves His Job At Chapel Hill

(Continued from page 3)

Minor sports were somewhat of an unwanted child newswise in 1949, but the added manpower at the office soon was turning out hundreds of words on soccer, lacrosse, tennis, and golf. Julian had a hand in the picking of the first all-Southern soccer team, and many publicity offices have followed Jake and Julian's suit on minor sport dissemination.

"The job has been very soul-satisfying," says Julian. "Yes, I'd like to come back to publicity work some time. The diversified planning, writing, and organizational work has made the job quite pleasant." It is news, publicity and public relations rolled into one. It tests many facets."

Julian isn't sure where he is going now, but will probably work for a paper here in the State.

Julian has pulled some pretty cute tricks in his organizational work. Going on the sound theory that he can't be two places at once, he has a system fixed so that the manager of a sport makes out a report with a minimum of writing, but with enough information to tell Julian the story. He has been known to cover five events in one afternoon this way.

As far as planning is concerned, Jake and Julian's first concern is the press and radio. And for the battery of reporters that continually stream in and out of Chapel Hill, the office is a hotel, restaurant, and traveler's aid station. One of the big single achievements is the Saturday setup during football season when the office has to cover the game and also see that 60 other men cover it too.

We can probably thank an obnoxious Maritime test instructor and Julian's individuality for his presence here the past four years. Scheer joined the Merchant Marine in 1942 when he was 17 to "win the war in a day." The German subs were sinking a ship a day then, but Julian weathered the war and was third mate on a steamer in 1946 with a promising future lying ahead.

He went to second mate's upgrading school in Brooklyn, and ran up against a Maritime man for celestial navigation. Julian could never quite acclimate himself to his instructor's habit of getting the wrong answer—"He was a barroom sailor"—and once he came home from school, told his landlady to pack and express his bags, and took the first plane home to Richmond, Virginia.

"So I told the wife...a drink without Angostura* is strictly for the birds."

ANGOSTURA.
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. Angostura gives your cocktails flair, flavor, and fragrance... marries the titillating taste of every ingredient.

Confabs Slated This Week On Visiting Rules

(Continued from page 1)

Should the administration approve the student proposal, it would then consult the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees since the original drinking regulation was instituted by the Trustees.

Gorham explained how the new student government committee would help in working out this agreement, saying, "This group is to show the administration that the students realize the seriousness of the situation and want to arrive at a fair solution.

"The Campus Code can be our basis for solving the problem. Then we can reach a concrete proposal between campus groups so that the agreement can be put into effect."

Gorham's new Executive Council will consist of representatives from the Grail, Pan Hellenic Council, YMCA, YWCA, IFC, IDC, Orientation Committee, Woman's Residence Council and the vice-president of the student body.

The proposal now under consideration would place more emphasis on self-restraint by men and women in respect to fraternity house drinking. It would, in effect, allow women to drink in the houses, governed by their own judgment and the Campus Code. Details and exact regulations are points which are being discussed by the fraternities, coeds and administration.

—Pakistan—

(Continued from page 1)

the students without notes. There are no quizzes except the finals. English is the media of instruction, and their curriculum is like ours, except that they don't have a major until they do graduate work.

Naquavi was most shocked to find people in the United States so ignorant of the rest of the world. "They want to know, but are not willing to struggle for the knowledge," he asserts. Some of the questions he has been asked about his homeland are ridiculous. "Do you have cars there?" and "Are there really trees in your country?"

Naquavi thinks some of this ignorance may be because Pakistan is a very new country. It was founded August 14, 1947, largely due to the efforts of one man, Jinnah, who wanted the Moslems of India to be autonomous. It is a unique country in that it is divided into two separate parts, with 1,200 miles of India in between. The government is democratic, though modified by Islamic principles.

The two parts of Pakistan are entirely different. The East, which comprises one-fifth of the total area, contains over half the entire population. It is flat, hot, humid and covered with rank vegetation. The population is largely rural, but agricultural methods are primitive and there is no industry. The main crop is jute, sometimes called "the golden fibre of Pakistan."

The language spoken there is Bengali. The people are short and dark. They bear little resemblance to their coutrymen in the West, except in their religious culture.

Western Pakistan is dry and arid. Much of it was desert until the land was reclaimed by extensive irrigation, which is why Pakistan is often known as "the gift of the River Indus." Suffering from extremes of temperature, and drought, it is still more advanced than the East. There is quite a lot of industry, the chief being petroleum, cosmetics, textiles, and mining.

The people of West Pakistan are light complected, proud, stalwart and of high stature. Although not high, the literacy rate is improving. West Pakistan is divided into four provinces, each with its own language and customs, but one can be understood everywhere in Urdu, the national language. The Federal District of Karachi is also located here.

Dental Dames

The Dental Dames will meet tonight in Graham at 8 o'clock for bridge and canasta.

Alpha Phi Omega

The APO's will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the Grail room of Graham Memorial to discuss summer offices and removal of debts. Members and pledges are urged to attend since there will be only three more meetings this quarter.

French Supper Club

The French Supper Club meets tonight at 6 o'clock in the upper dining room of Lenoir.

Order of the Golden Bear

There will be a meeting of the Order of the Golden Bear at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the shack.

Tar Heel 'n Toes

The Tar Heel 'n Toes Square and Folk Dance Club will meet this afternoon from 5 to 6:30 in the Women's Gym. Townspeople, nurses and faculty are invited.

Monogram Club

The Monogram Club will have a Hogan's Lake wiener roast tonight for the Pi Phi's, in appreciation for their taking part in the club's annual Easter egg hunt for orphanages.

Attention Senior!

We are offering a regular 1 year $4. subscription to The Daily Tar Heel to Graduating Seniors for just $2.50. A booth will be set up in the Y from 9-12 beginning Tuesday for your convenience. HURRY! This offer is limited!

THE DAILY TAR HEEL

RECEIVING DAILY

NEW SHIPMENTS of the finest selection of Sport Shirts for Spring and Summer, styled by these famous names: Botany, Van Heusen, Enro, Hanes and Stradivari.

THE TOWN & CAMPUS

Books Make Wonderful

Gifts

For Engagement Presents
The Prophet $3.00
This is My Beloved 3.00
Shakespeare's Sonnets 1.00

For Wedding Presents
The Southern Cook Book $4.50
Flowers of the South 5.00
Rodgers and Hart Song Book 7.50

For the New Mother
Berenstein's Baby Book $2.00
Gesell's Infant Development 3.50
Better Homes and Gardens Baby Book 2.95

For Bon Voyage Gifts
Elizabeth and Philip $3.50
Key Guide to Europe 2.00
Shopping all over the World 2.95

Graduation Presents
Complete T. S. Eliot $6.00
The Decameron 4.50
Peter Pauper Editions 2.50

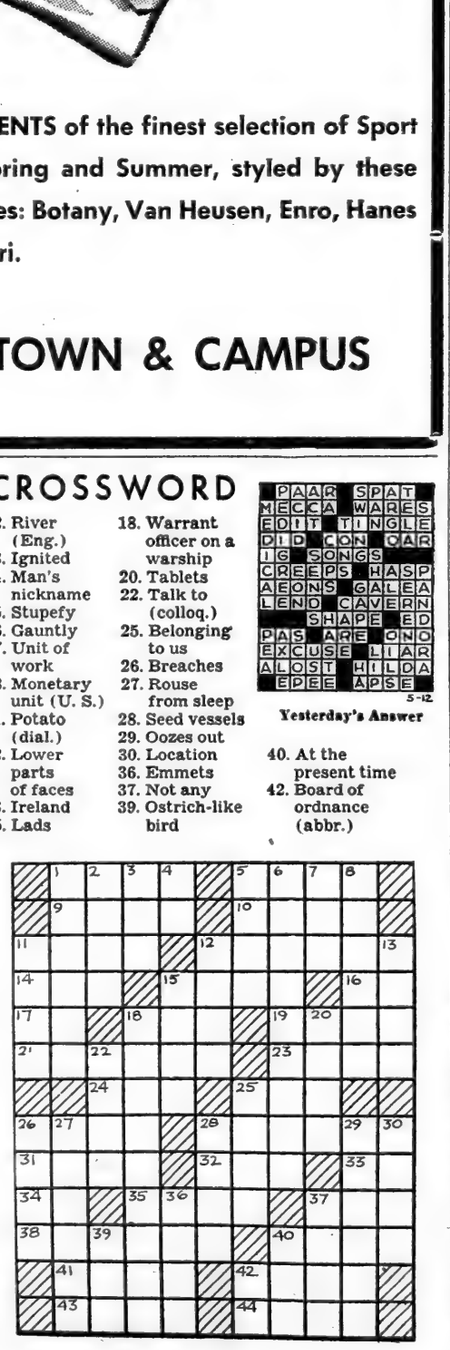
Whatever the occasion, your cluttered old bookshop has the answer.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

DAILY CROSSWORD



ACROSS
1. A valley (poet.)
5. Lean-to
9. Greedy
10. Edible rootstock
11. Native of Scotland
12. Manipulate by trickery
14. Kettle
15. Slam
16. Measure (Chin.)
17. Guido's lowest note
18. Arch
19. Armadillo
21. Lures
23. Infrequent
24. Owns
25. Strange
26. Manner of walking
28. Throbs
31. Beards of rye
32. Abounding in ore
33. Greek letter
34. Father
35. Compact masses
37. Indehiscent fruit
38. Daggers (Irish)
40. A knot
41. Send forth
42. Piece of skeleton
43. Women under religious vows
44. Is in debt

DOWN
1. Leave
2. River (Eng.)
3. Ignited
4. Man's nickname
5. Stupefy
6. Gauntly
7. Unit of work
8. Monetary unit (U. S.)
11. Potato (dial.)
12. Lower parts of faces
13. Ireland
15. Lads
18. Warrant officer on a warship
20. Tablets
22. Talk to (colloq.)
25. Belonging to us
26. Breaches
27. Rouse from sleep
28. Seed vessels
29. Oozes out
30. Location
36. Emmets
37. Not any
39. Ostrich-like bird
40. At the present time
42. Board of ordnance (abbr.)

■	P	A	A	R	■	S	P	A	T	■
M	E	C	C	A	■	W	A	R	E	S
E	D	I	T	■	T	I	N	G	L	E
D	I	D	■	C	O	N	■	Q	A	R
I	G	■	S	O	N	G	S	■	■	■
C	R	E	E	P	S	■	H	A	S	P
A	E	O	N	S	■	G	A	L	E	A
L	E	N	D	■	C	A	V	E	R	N
■	■	■	S	H	A	P	E	■	E	D
P	A	S	■	A	R	E	■	O	N	O
E	X	C	U	S	E	■	L	I	A	R
A	L	O	S	T	■	H	I	L	D	A
■	E	P	E	E	■	A	P	S	E	■

5-12

Yesterday's Answer

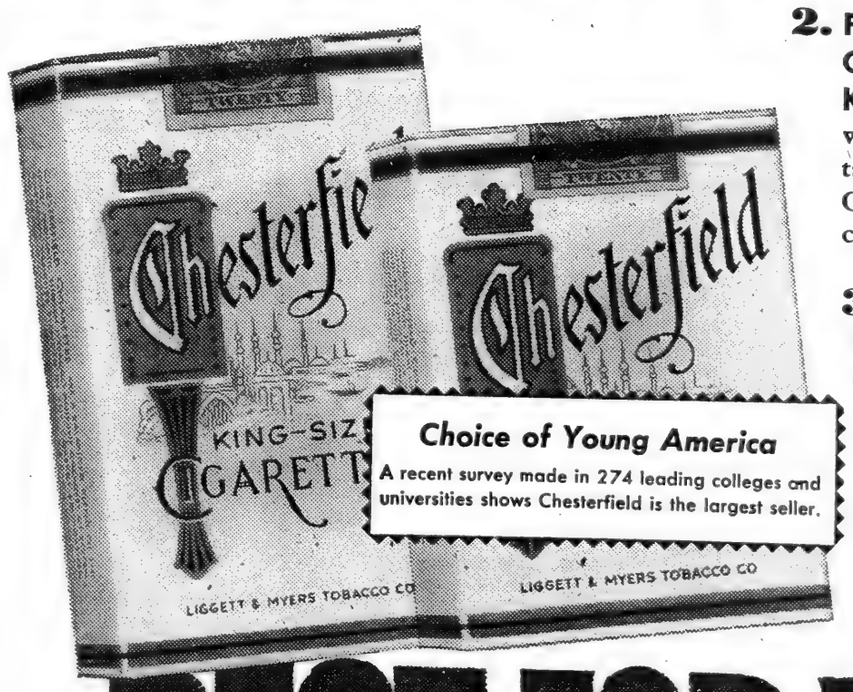
CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

FOR SALE 6B

FOR SALE: APARTMENT SIZE electric washing machine, $25. Can be seen at 25-E Glen Lennox. Phone 9-5626, or 9-8622. Clarence Lane. Chg. 1x1



Don't you want to try a cigarette with a record like this?

1. THE QUALITY CONTRAST between Chesterfield and other leading cigarettes is a revealing story. Recent chemical analyses give an index of good quality for the country's six leading cigarette brands.

The index of good quality table—a ratio of high sugar to low nicotine—shows Chesterfield quality highest

. . . 15% higher than its nearest competitor and Chesterfield quality 31% higher than the average of the five other leading brands.

YEARS AHEAD OF THEM ALL!

Choice of Young America
A recent survey made in 274 leading colleges and universities shows Chesterfield is the largest seller.

2. First to Give You Premium Quality in Regular and King-size . . . much milder with an extraordinarily good taste—and for your pocketbook, Chesterfield is today's best cigarette buy.

3. A Report Never Before Made About a Cigarette. For well over a year a medical specialist has been giving a group of Chesterfield smokers regular examinations every two months. He reports . . . no adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield.

BEST FOR YOU

Copyright 1953, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
5-31-19

WEATHER
Cloudy and possible showers with 85 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

TRUSTEES
The editor has a great big welcome for the University fathers. Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 149 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. WEDNESDAY, MAY 13, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

Faculty Favorites

Harland Vs. False Economy, A Running Battle With South

By Al Harrison

"Murphey 111 is the only room east of the Ozarks used for educational purposes without writing facilities for the students," says Dr. J. P. Harland, the personable and sharpwitted professor of archaeology who has been teaching in Murphey 111 since 1928.

He then smiles and adds, "I shouldn't have discredited the Ozark people. I'm certain they have desks with some kind of side board for the students to use while taking notes in class."

When one enters the "dank tomb-like" room, he is forced to wonder if Archibald Murphey, the great 19th century advocate of public education in North Carolina for whom the building is named, would have supported higher education if he had been able to visualize such a classroom at the University of North Carolina.

The steeply inclined steps give a student sitting in the rear of the room a view of the professor comparable to sitting in your home and watching a program on a 12-inch TV set—located in the home across the street.

Dr. Harland says, "The seats are too close together and the only way one can sit in them is to slant his legs sideways or to drape his legs over the shoulders of the person sitting in the row in front of him. In neither case is the posture conducive to learning.

"Other classes have tried using room 111, but very few of them stayed more than a week or two then moved to another site. Even the Navy deserted the place when it conducted classes for the preflight students."

At this point Dr. Harland has another comment on the seating arrangement. "The seats are not only uncomfortable but quite irritating to the students when they attempt to sketch architectural details and take notes in their laps. On occasions the more energetic student will stand and hold his notebook against the wall while he takes notes. Too, there are the less energetic students who use the floor as a writing platform."

He is very disturbed that a student should be handicapped by lack of facilities in such a manner that it put him at a disadvantage in obtaining a more thorough education. Room 111 does exactly that, he says.

DR. J. P. HARLAND
. . . not in the Ozarks

Aside from the poor seating arrangements and the poor basic architecture of Murphey 111 the heating system is only two degrees away from being a complete loss in the winter. Dr. Harland's classic definition of a radiator in 111 gives a complete picture of the situation. He says "The radiators illustrate the survival of features that once were functional and have become purely decorative."

As Winter dampness departs with the coming of Spring and Summer so comes the ventilation problem. The room is equipped with a blower and air ducts. The blower serves little purpose other than to make a lot of noise (which disrupts the class) and to furnish the psychological effect. The air ducts are locted under the seats in the rear of the room where little, if any, air stirs during the warm months.

Dr. Harland has filed complaints about this room, which gives the idea of a primitive prehistoric cave dwelling, but to date very little has been done to remedy the problem. He praised the action taken on one of his recent complaints. "The ceiling was leaking and the water gushed down the wall then down the steeply inclined steps and onto the floor in the front of the room. It formed small puddles which gave the effect of having a moat between the students and me. I complained and someone patched the ceiling so no longer do we have to wade through the moat in order to get into the ancient temples shown on the screen."

Positive steps toward solving this classroom situation would have been taken long ago had the responsible people in the University Administration taken a view other than the one that "the seats are too good to throw away," Dr. Harland says.

In conclusion, Dr. Harland sends a word of advice to prospective archaeology students. He says "The rivets which project from the backs of the seats in Murphey 111 have no respect for clothes. Each quarter someone tears his clothes, so be on the safe side and wear your old ones."

Seniors Excused From Class; Plans Today Include Picnic

Seniors won't go to class today.

Instead, they will participate in a program of varied activities beginning at 10 a.m. in Memorial Hall and ending at Hogan's Lake in the afternoon and night when juniors will join them in a picnic-party.

Today's program includes:

A required meeting of all seniors in Memorial Hall at 10 o'clock. Senior Class President Dan Perry will preside and introduce Steve Perrow, chairman of Senior Week. Other speakers are Chancellor House and Alumni Secretary "Spike" Saunders.

At 11 o'clock, meetings of the different schools with their deans, (Arts and Sciences in Gerrard Hall with Dean Lyons, Business Administration in Carroll Hall with Dean Carroll, Journalism in Bynum Hall with Professor Spearman, Education in Peabody Hall with Dean Phillips, and Pharmacy in Howell Hall with Dean Brecht at 9 o'clock instead of 11).

At 2 o'clock, the Junior-Senior Picnic at Hogan's, featuring cage ball, tug of war, softball, relays and badminton. And from 5 to 8 p.m. drawing for prizes from junior and senior boxes by May Queen Saralyn Bonowitz.

The Hogan's affair also includes a wiener roast and three hours of Dixieland by the Duke Ambassador's Combo.

University Symphony Presents Alumnus' Composition Tonight

The premier performance of "A Classic Suite in Miniature" by Thomas Allred, Class of '51,will be performed by the University Symphony Orchestra here tonight in Hill Hall at 8:30. The orchestra is under the direction of Earl Slocum.

Gerald Einhorn, is trumpet soloist with the orchestra in the performance of Joseph Haydn's "Concert in E-Flat for Trumpet and Orchestra." Einhorn, a freshman from Norfolk, has performed previously with the Norfolk Symphony. He was heard here earlier this year in the difficult trumpet solos of Handel's "Dettingen Te Deum," which was given by the Chapel Hill Choral Club.

Other works on the program are "Symphony No. 2 in B Minor" by Alexander Borodine, and "Herod Overture Op.31," by Henry Hadley.

Allred's work, composed for full orchestra, is a contemporary work in the style of old dance themes but is modern in harmonization and counterpoint. Slocum, in appraising the work stated that it is colorful and very successful. This is the first full symphonic work by the young composer. He has written for ensembles, and his "Sonata for Clarinet and Piano" has been performed in Chapel Hill and Greensboro.

Music, for Allred, is an avocation even though he received his A.B. degree in music. At present he is associated with his father in the printing business in Greensboro, and plays regularly with the dance band at the Plantation Club.

Allred is proficient in several orchestral instruments including the clarinet, bassoon and piano. He is a member of the University Symphony and will play the bassoon in this concert.

While at Carolina, Allred was a member of the marching band, symphony orchestra, and concert band. He was a member of Johnny Satterfield's dance band. Allred is a member of Phi Mu Alpha, honorary music fraternity.

Juniors Go Too

Juniors are reminded that they are invited to take part in the Junior-Senior Picnic at Hogan's Lake today at 2:30.

They are also invited to go to the Tex Beneke Concert Monday in Memorial Hall, 8 to 10 p.m.

CAMPUS SEEN

Moan of a Carolina Theater patron: "Shows may come and shows may go, but 'Delilah' goes on forever," (referring to the intermission music).

Overall-clad gentleman of rural background sitting on Franklin Street curb deeply engrossed in editorial page of The Daily Tar Heel.

Sigma Chi Will Choose Venus On Derby Day

It will be "Derby Day" for the campus tomorrow afternoon as the 9th Annual Sigma Chi Derby gets underway at 2:30 in Kenan Stadium.

Highlight of the derby will be the naming of "Miss Modern Venus." Contestants this year will be accepted from both the junior and senior class. Last year only juniors were eligible to compete.

Six major events have been lined up for the "Battle of the Coeds," with a trophy to be presented to the winner in each event. A trophy also will be presnted to Miss Modern Venus.

Eight groups from independent coeds, sororities and Stray Greeks will participate in six events. Door prizes will be awarded to spectators. Admission is free.

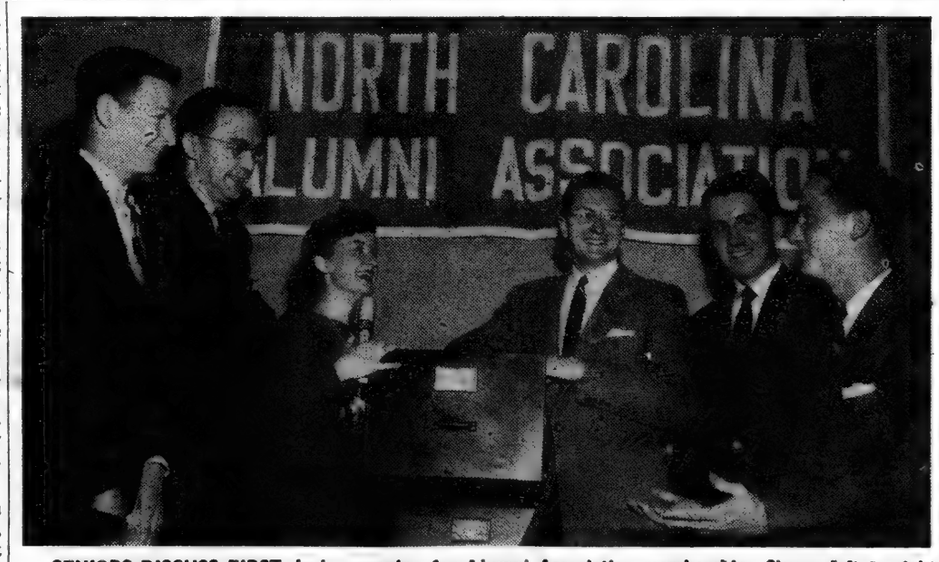
The events include Grand National Obstacle Race, Hit the Geek, Race to Flesh, Skits, a secret event and the Miss Modern Venus contest. During the first 25 yards of the Grand National, the coeds will carry a spoon in their mouths. In the spoon will be an egg. For the second lap, the contestant will carry a basketball between her legs, and for the third 25 yards, she will hop in a burlap bag. The contestant will have to measure the fourth lap with a 10 inch fish and for the final lap the girls will be tied back to back.

Hit the Geek is a pie throwing contest in which contestants stand ten feet away from the "target" and throw pies.

Winner of the race to flesh contest will be named the "fastest stripper on campus." For this contest girls must wear a bathing suit, shorts, blouse with long sleeves and buttons on the back, sweater, skirt, stockings and garters, high heels, white gloves and a fur coat.

Skits are to be not more than five minutes long. They will be judged on entertainment value, appropriateness to a college audience, originality, production and performance.

Judges for the skits and the Modern Venus contest will be Norman Cordon, Victor Huggins and E. Carrington Smith.



Handlers and organizations entered are Tri Delt, Charlie Phillips and Bob Ellington; Chi Omega, Eric Jonas; Pi Phi, Rennie Biggers; ADPi, Don Evans; Alpha Gamma Delta, Lee Middleton; Kappa Delta, Sid Hoots and Mickey Chamblee; Stray Greeks, Denny Mitchell and Don Gladstone, and Independent Coeds, Ben Tison.

Student's Play To Run Here For Two Days

Tomorrow night at 7:30 at the Playmakers Theatre the Carolina Playmakers will present the last full-length work in their series of new plays by student playwrights.

The play, "Judgment Over Daniel," is the work of Frank Groseclose of Atlanta and is directed by John Miller of Signal Mountain, Tenn.

Appearing in "Judgment Over Daniel," a drama of a man's coming of age through family conflict, are Mrs. Lillian Prince as Mother Graham; William Trotman as Father Graham; Tony Maurice and Paul Gove as the two children; Betty Vickery, as Nancy; Charles Hadley as Robert; Neta Whitty as Agatha; and Milton Beyer in the title role.

SENIORS DISCUSS FIRST day's campaign for Alumni Association membership. Shown left to right are Jim Neely, treasurer; Spike Saunders, alumni secretary; Dot Smith, publicity chairman; Dan Perry, president; Steve Perrow, social chairman, and Haywood Washburn, chairman of the membership committee.

Ultimatum Is Handed Condemned Houses

Fraternities and sororities got an ultimatum from the Chapel Hill Town Board Tuesday night—either complete arrangements for the construction of adequate fire escapes or face legal action.

The houses must complete arrangements for the construction by June 5, or the town "will take all available legal steps to prevent their further use as a dormitory after June 10." According to the resolution, the dormitory space in the houses will be closed unless they are "equipped or under contract for proper equipment."

Jule Rousseau, chairman of the fraternity and sorority fire escape committee said yesterday, "I feel as though the board has acted hastily and without considering our side of it." He said the board failed to realize the financial responsibility imposed on the fraternities and sororities. He added that fire escapes for one sorority house alone will cost about $1,500.

Fraternity and sorority members at 35 houses were greeted by "Condemned" signs tacked on the front doors when they returned from Christmas holidays. They were given 90 days in which to complete plans for building fire escapes on the houses where occupants sleep on second or third floor. The 90-day period expired on April 5.

"We have been successful in getting fraternities and sororities to get a company to make prices on all concerned," Building Inspector P. L. Burch reported to the Board. "Three have accepted the price quoted and five additional ones have accepted contracts."

Burch pointed out that active fraternities as an organized group will be gone in four weeks. He added, "I think some pressure should be put upon them either to accept or reject the bids before the end of the term."

Dr. O. K. Cornwell said it was not in the board's power to make them accept or reject the bids. "I don't see," Cornwell said, "how we as a board can tell them they have to take a bid."

"I think if we have a fire in one of the fraternity or sorority houses and we are aware that the fire escapes are not there, then we would be guilty of negligence," Cornwell said. "We must tell them that they must comply or not use the dormitory space." He then introduced the motion to give fraternities and sororities until June 5 to comply with the fire regulations.

Under Chapter 69, Section 13 of the General Statutes of North Carolina, "any owner or occupant of the premises" would be subject to a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $50 for each day's violation.

The resolution passed by the Board instructed the Building Inspector and Town manager to notify "in writing" each of the fraternities and sororities of the move by the Town Board.

Fire At Carolina Inn Cause Of Connecticut Man's Death

Special agents from the SBI were called in yesterday to investigate the cause of a fire Monday afternoon at the Carolina Inn which claimed the life of William Alvard Borst, 37.

The fire was discovered in Mr. Borst's room at 4 p.m. by one of the maids at the Inn. The fire was extinguished by the Chapel Hill Fire Department and Mr. Borst was rushed to Memorial Hospital where he died at 11 p.m. that night from severe burns.

H. R. Starling and Frank Satterfield, SBI agents, were called in on the case when local authorities were unable to determine the cause of the fire. A cigarette and a match in an ash tray were the only visible signs of evidence in the charred room.

"There were no faulty mechanical difficulties or faulty wires in the room," said L. B. Rogerson, manager of the Carolina Inn. He said that the room was demolished.

Mr. Borst was a representative for Harcourt, Brace and Company, publishers in New York. He registered at the Inn on May 4.

Mr. Borst's home address was listed as 1275 Forest Road, New Haven, Conn.

New Trustees Will See Campus, Meet Students

By Louis Kraar

A student-Trustee social hour will be one highlight of an orientation visit here today for 20 new Trustees.

Students will have an opportunity to meet the new governing fathers at a Graham Memorial reception at 4:45 this afternoon as the Trustees stop off during their day's tour of the campus.

The new Trustees will meet with student leaders in the Student-Faculty lounge of the Morehead Building at 4 o'clock. Dean of Students Fred Weaver will speak to the group on the traditions of student government and student life.

Bob Gorham, student body president, will also talk to the student-Trustee group and introduce other student government members. A tour of Graham Memorial and the student-Trustee reception will follow the meeting of Trustees and student leaders.

A social hour for students and new Trustees were part of a State College tour yesterday and is included in plans for the Trustees' visit to Woman's College tomorrow.

The Carolina program is part of a three day orientation for the newly-chosen group. The rest of the program here includes an early breakfast at the Carolina Inn, meetings with deans, tour of the campus and a dinner.

Following the Trustee's early breakfast, a meeting with deans in Morehead Building is scheduled. Later in the afternoon, the group will go on a tour and inspectino of the Division of Health Affairs.

A luncheon under supervision of Dr. Henry Clark and a meeting on medical affairs will round out the afternoon's program.

Trustees who were elected or re-elected this year are:

John W C.lark, Edwin Pate, John D. Larkins Jr., W. Lunsford Crew, Mrs. Grace T. Rodenbough, Carl V. Venters, A. C. Edwards, Mrs. Charles W. Tillett, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, R. A. Maynard, Wade Barber.

Victor S. Bryant, Glenn C. Palmer, Roy Rowe, E. Leigh Winslow, Frank H. Brown Jr., Floyd Crouse, Horton Doughton, Henry A. Foscue, Robert M. Hanes, Harvey B. Mann, Judge W. C. Harris, C. Knox Massey, B. S. Royster, A. Alex Shuford, L. C. Tate, J. Shelton Wicker, Dr. L. J. Herring and R. Lee Whitmire.

Money Policies Discussed With New Device

Making use of a new visual aid technique, Federal Reserve Bank representatives yesterday discussed government monetary policies before members of the Business Administration School faculty.

Representatives from the Richmond FRB who spoke were Robert Fentress, Knotts Island, N. C., a 1950 graduate of UNC, and George W. McKinney of Amigo, W. Va.

Speaking alternately, the pair told of the organization of the FRB, the system's activities in the present and past inflationary times and the general causes and cures of our fluctuating economy.

The visual aid method employed, called a "flannel board", consisted of a flannel background on which various signs and symbols were placed, A tufted material on the back of the signs allowed them to be placed or removed from the board without tacks or tape.

A duplicate set of the signs and symbols were left with the Business School faculty as a gift from the FRB. They will be used in future classroom lectures.

Invitations Are Available In Ray Jefferies Office

Seniors who haven't picked up their invitations for graduation may get them in Ray Jefferies' Office in South Building.

About 50 extra Dutch-fold invitations are expected to arrive by Tuesday. Seniors needing more than originally ordered may sign up for extras in the same office. They will be distributed first come, first served. Prices: one for 20 cents, 3 for 50 cents, 6 for $1.

CBS-TV Men To See Talent

Do you want a Hollywood contract?

Allan Davis of CBS-TV is now on the campus preparing to direct a film on American university life which will be shown in the fall over all CBS stations. A great number of men and women of all types are needed for both speaking and non-speaking parts, and volunteers are invited from all departments in the University to attend a meeting at the Playmakers Theatre this afternoon at 2 o'clock to talk with Davis.

No previous experience is required. Actors will be needed only for short periods when the filming begins. Shooting will take place at various locations on the campus between May 19 and 29.

Outdoor Pool

The outdoor pool will open Friday. The regular hours will be 4-6 during the week, Saturday 10:30-12:00 and 2-6, and Sunday 2-5, weather permitting. A swimming privilege card is necessary for admission.

In case of bad weather the indoor pool will be open.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Sehindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Back At School

We are complimented that 20 busy North Carolinians are leaving their jobs and other responsibilities to visit Chapel Hill. As University Trustees recently chosen, the group is making a three-day tour of the Consolidated University—one day at each branch. Today it's us.

Conceived by President Gray, this excellent idea to acquaint Trustees with the Consolidated facts of life is officially dubbed an "orientation course," with Carolina's part being headed by Dr. Frank Klingberg.

The Daily Tar Heel is happy to see the institution of this "orientation." We are glad also to note that it is to be continuing and regular. Thus when we go through all four classes of Trustees, some six years hence, the entire board will have had this intimate introduction to Carolina, State and WC.

By this plan the Trustees will keep fully informed about the total university, particularly its less highly publicized aspects.

As our visitors step about we hope they will absorb some of that infectious spirit of Carolina, that they will feel a personal identification with this third of their academic charge, and that they'll get that itch which only can be cured by coming back.

The Daily Tar Heel welcomes Wade Barber, Victor S. Bryant, John W. Clark, W. Lunsford Crew, J. H. Doughton, A. C. Edwards, Henry A. Foscue, L. J. Herring, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, H. B. Mann, C. Knox Massey, Reid A. Maynard, Mrs. Grace T. Rodenbough, Roy Rowe, A. Alex Shuford Jr., C. Lacy Tate, Mrs. Charles Tillett, Carl Venters, J. Shelton Wicker and Glenn C. Palmer.

Home Grown & A-1

Operation Manhunt for the Journalism School shouldn't last long. We mean we can't recall the setting up of a personnel committee when the prize was so near at hand, and as Skipper Coffin vacates his Bynum Hall deanship we suggest Prof. Walter Spearman be moved in.

We believe Spearman backs the present journalism curriculum which gives writers a good dosage of writing courses, but also includes a nice scope of general study. It is imperative that this well-grounded, liberal arts program continue to complement the journalism subjects.

Born in South Carolina, Spearman has spent his years since grade school in the Old North State. He graduated from the Journalism School in which he now teaches and worked for the Charlotte News. Since coming back to Carolina, Spearman has assisted Dean Coffin and gradually assumed the routine duties of the school.

Butwith Spearman you get a bonus; he has more than technical qualifications or an alert academic outlook. He's popular with his students (makes his home a classroom) and his professional colleagues (served as president of the Men's Faculty Club). His weekly "Literary Lantern" and several books make him well-known. As a University teacher since 1935, Spearman has come to know the publishers and editors of the state's papers—dailies and weeklies—and he's trained many of the publication staffs themselves.

The Daily Tar Heel hopes that Profs. H. K. Russell, Hugh Lefler, Phillips Russell and W. W. Pierson—the University's representation on the selection committee—will present Spearman's name to the rest of the committee, which is composed of state publishers. And most of all, we hope the committee will recognize this talent, then utilize it.

Soon, may we meet Dean Spearman.

Don't Bother To Call

Next to getting a room at the Carolina Inn during Commencement, the most impossible thing these days is trying to get someone to answer the phones in Victory Village.

Strategically located throughout the Village, the phones are placed there for residents' convenience. The rub is that people don't like to answer the phones as they may have to walk a block to get the desired party.

Why not take a lesson from your Trailer Court brethren: For every call answered, the called party pays his searcher a dime. It's economical, and the phones will get answered.

Simple Thought

Margaret Entzminger

He covered himself with more snow because he remembered that once someone had said there was warmth in snow in a cold climate. Or something. He didn't know.

He didn't really know if he had ever known anyone besides the 399th Batallion. Or that he had ever been anywhere else besides Punch Bowl Mountain. He wasn't so sure something terrible hadn't happened to the Earth and removed all warmth from it. Maybe it was that he was just having one of those dreadful pre-draft dreams and he would wake up smelling bacon and coffee. And then he would complain about how loud the alarm clock was ringing.

With exaggerated vigor he unclamped one cold leg from its cramped state and sat on it for a while. Pretty soon he didn't feel the other leg he had been sitting on.

"Damn," he muttered to the empty foxhole beside him. "Goddamn."

Below him in the frozen, dead valley something stirred and he felt the trigger. And he felt his heart beat. Below, a grim tale of last night's unsung heroes' last battle leered at him from beneath their blood spattered khaki and fur trim. Brooklyn, Dayton, Greenville, Chicago, Five Points Littleville. And a star at home for each crystal-hard, still figure glued to the Korean ice and slush. And a little speech at the church. And hot tears from the family. Whatever had stirred below must have been imagination or snow.

Everything was quiet and because it was never quiet long he felt the constant unmelting lump of bitter ice in his throat and thought: "When? Why?"

He thumped his chest to get back the circulation and felt the familiar fold of her letter. He took it out of its pocket and with stiff, gloved paws began to fool with the silken paper. He stuck it back into its red, white, and blue envelope and shrugged his shoulders.

"Darling, I hope you think of me sometimes. If I didn't have you to think about while I plowed through the whole horrible day teaching these monstrous children that two and two is four . . . I think I'd lose my mind. Really, it gets worse every day. I'm very unhappy about my work. When you come back I won't be a teacher I hope. . . ."

He uncrossed his leg and winced. Yes, there was something down in the valley besides the dead. He aimed when he saw the first helmet and thought; "Thilsis horrible. Oh, God I'm scared."

And before he died he thought, "How big a simple thought seems out here. I hope you had a nice day teaching today. It must be horrible to be a teacher."

Off Campus

From Duke comes word that Publications Board members gave full approval to a motion made to establish a feature magazine in place of the previously proposed humor magazine.

'You Wouldn't Criticize Me Would You, Pal?'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — By all odds, the most important conference on the agenda of John Foster Dulles' Mid-East trip is that with Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Purpose of the talk will be to build Nehru up as the chief bulwark of communism in Asia.

So far Nehru, though anti-communist, has not been an anti-communist crusader. He has had to govern some 361,000,000 Indians who have strong sympathy with the Chinese, are suspicious of Western "imperialism," and whose standard of living is so near the starvation point that they are a potential breeding ground for communism.

However, Dulles, in talks with his State Department advisers before he left Washington, worked out the following sales talk for Nehru:

"Today the most important leader in Asia is Mao Tse-Tung, premier of Communist China. But he is such only because no one has challenged his leadership. Asia is looking for another great leader who will show its peoples the non-communist path to better living. You can and should be that leader.

"If you will assume that role, the United States will give you all the backing it can. If you do not accept it, then Southeast Asia, eventually the Middle East, including your own country, are almost certain to go communist. We hope you will cooperate."

It's believed that Nehru will buy this proposition.

If he does, one of the first American moves will be to send several million bushels of surplus wheat, now being stored in old Liberty Ships in the Hudson River, to India. Though it will cost the taxpayer a little extra, it's believed that the wheat will bring greater dividends in stopping Asiatic communism than letting it rust and mildew in storage.

Bob Hope was kidding the President of the United States at the 28th annual dinner of the White House Correspondents the other night. While Ike grinned, Hope told this story:

"I was out at Burning Tree with the President the other day. (I always like to play with the President. Always feel so safe.) Well, the President got all set on the first tee . . . and missed!

"He got all set again," continued Hope, "and missed again.

"At about this time I heard two little ants in the grass say: 'We'd better get up on that ball or we'll get hit.'"

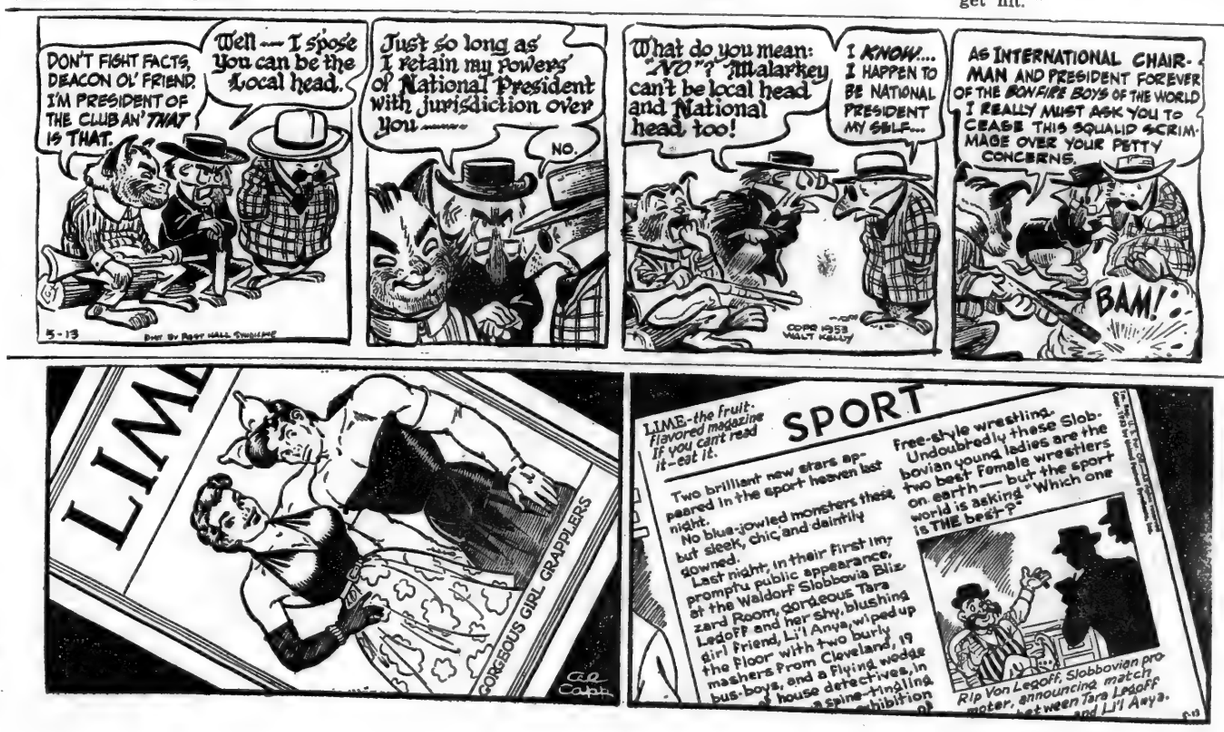
Express Yourself

Editor:

I wish to repudiate the review of the "Carolina Quarterly" as it appeared in your paper Tuesday. Some injudicious cutting by one of your staff gave the mistaken impression that I approved of the present issue. The following items, left on the cutting room floor, were the main criticisms of the publication reviewed:

(1) The rather adolescent obsession with the exotic.

(2) Preoccupation with foreign languages. The impression given was that of a Modern Language Review for college language requirements.



(3) The excessive imitation of prominent authors. This was especially true of the poem "There Will Be Rainchecks" which epitomizes all that is bad in imitative writing.

(4) The inability to distinguish a short story. The fiction items generally were merely sketches or scenes, yet they were printed as short stories.

(5) The items by Misses Glen, Thayer, and Barr that were praised by me were bright spots among a morass of dross.

In the light of these five items one can see that the cut version in your paper differed radically from the original.

Roy C. Moose

PULQUE

John Gibson

To me the most amazing thing about the honor system is not its faults, but the fact that it works so well considering a vast majority of the students here at Carolina only take half of the code very seriously. That is, the honor code states that the student will not lie, cheat, or steal, and will report students who are seen doing these things.

It is safe to state that a large part of the student population takes the first requirement very seriously. If this were not so, the system would not work at all. However, few students, very few, assume the full responsibility to enforce the system on the violators.

Partly, perhaps, this is due to a misunderstanding about just what the honor system is. This point was covered last Tuesday, when it was suggested that students should be better informed about, and should take more seriously, their responsibility to the school. However, I think the fact that more students don't turn each other in is related to a conflict between this action and a long established custom of the American culture which makes "ratting" on a friend a very low kind of action.

From high school on we are taught that each person should take care of himself, and should not "tell on" others. That is why we have police, to catch the "bad people."

At Carolina, however, we have no police, no proctors. Thus we must all assume this duty. It is often a hard thing to do, but it is essential to the functioning of the system. The reluctance to testify against fellow students is particularly noticeable in connection with non-academic violations. Thus recent attempts to look into the panty raids were made very difficult because students would not freely discuss what they know about how they started.

The honor system suffers from another problem, this one is related to the scope of the codes. It is a rather general governmental principle that all laws suffer when a few laws are well known, but broken without punishment. Under such circumstances the contempt for the unenforced laws spreads to them all.

At Carolina we have no long list of dos and don'ts. Rather, there are two general rules, based on honesty and decorum. However, few students, including, I feel, some of the council members, know just how far these rules go. Also some of the more specific rules of the University seem to be somewhat behind the times.

It is difficult, for example, to convince a 30 or 40 year-old graduate woman that she should be subject to the same regulations as a 19 or 20 year-old junior. Yet, essentially, such is the case if she lives in a college dormitory.

The ideas of honor and decorum as regulating factors in life are indeed worthy goals, yet in the very practical business of everyday life people want to know what they can do. All individuals are not equally successful in grasping the subtle cues to "proper behavior" thrown out by society. As the business man says, "if you can not give us a law we like, at least give us one we understand."

I do not feel we should embark on a procedure of creating a long list of campus rules. Yet a certain "restructuring" of our thinking concerning the honor and campus codes does seem in order. We should make somewhat more explicit those things which we feel are at the very roots of Carolina life. We should discard those rules which are obsolete, or are not being enforced.

Lastly, we should embark on an information campaign which will make the average student see why it is absolutely essential that he enforce these principles on himself and others.

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . ." Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE was cropping some flowers near New East, so I told him it was not permitted. I was instantly and profoundly sorry.

"I'm tha sweetheart," he warbled, "of Sigma Chi iiiii-yi!" He grinned at our discomfit. "Okay, maybe I can't sing. But they got this Miss Venus Contest coming up, the Sigma Choirs."

Chiers, not Choirs.

"Whatever," The Horse agreed pleasantly. "Or isn't it Chis?" He reached up and tore some leaves off the green Reddogwood. "It's okay," he waved a hoof at my alarm, "I work here in New East. They consult me when they wish to know something about the Horse Latitudes, in Geography Thirty-eight. How'd you like to be the first pledge of my new frat, Chee Chun Ho?"

That sounded Chinese, not Greek?

"Association with me," The Horse nickered, "is making you sharp. It will be the acme, the very pinnacle, of social distinction, to belong to a Chinese Letter fraternity. Used to be impressive, you belonged to a Greek Letter mob, because nobody knew what it meant, the letters. Not even you, usually. Now it is downright common, Greek. There is but one drawback."

We didn't know The Horse recognized drawbacks?

"Well, call it a bothersome detail," The Horse agreed to our point. "There'll have to be three times the number of beds in any Chinese Letter frat, as coolies. I mean, brothers. With such fashionable unreadable letters as Chinese, every night the coolies will be all clobbered up in the wrong pagodas."

He meant tea-houses. Pagoda was Japanese.

"Okay, and won't that be a novelty—tea-houses in Chapel Hill's Frat Row!" The Horse had a short horse-laugh. "But can you picture the Chee Chun Ho lads getting fouled up in Chun Chee Ho houses, or Chun Ho Chee houses, when actually they were supporse to bed down in the Ho Chee Chun house? Loud, sing cuckoo! Alas and welladay!"

We regretted The Horse ever having been admitted to English Twenty-one and Chaucerian sayings.

"And the boys in the dorms," The Horse went on, "will have either Japanese Letter frats, Russian

(See HORSE, Page 4)

Tar Heels Beat N.C. State, 7-6, In 11 Inning Game

Baseball Team Wins Big Four Championship

By Tom Peacock

RALEIGH, May 12.—Connie Mac Gravitte smacked a two-run homer in the 11th inning here today to break a 5-5 tie and give North Carolina the Big Four championship with a 7-6 win over N. C. State.

The Tar Heels scored three runs in the seventh to tie the score and stranded four runners in the next three innings before Gravitte's game winning blow. State loaded the bases in the bottom half of the 11th with no outs and scored a run, but winning pitcher Joe Morgan put out the fire.

Carolina's totals were seven runs, 11 hits, and two errors, while State scored six runs off seven hits and committed six errors.

Joe Pazdan started for the Tar Heels and allowed only four hits in four and one-third innings, but five costly walks were enough to give the Wolf pack five runs. Morgan relieved in the fifth and allowed two runs, one being credited to Pazdan.

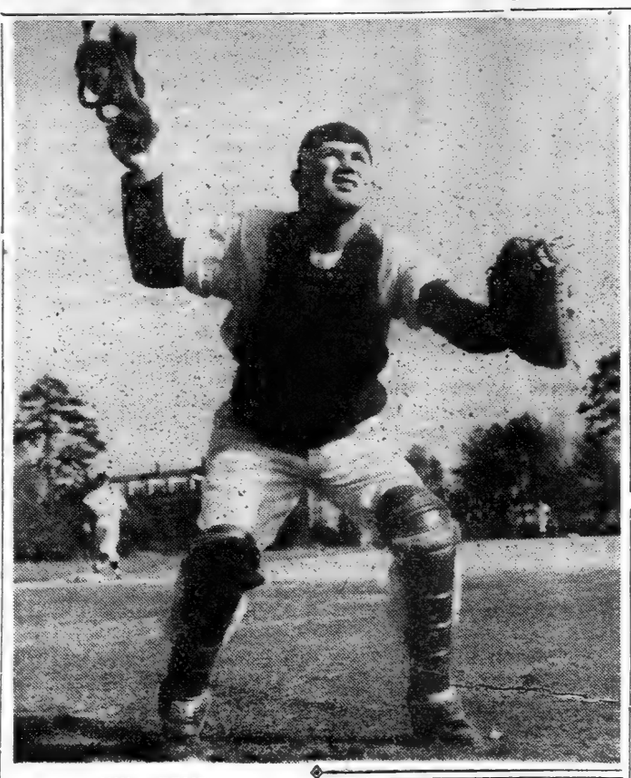
Loser Ed Horbelt of State went the distance.

The Pack scored a quick tally in the first on two walks and a single, and added two runs in the fourth and fifth. Carolina scored twice in the fourth, three times in the seventh, and twice in the 11th.

The Tar Heels have taken two-out-of-three wins from State, Duke, and Wake Forest to give them a 6-3 record in the Big Four and the championship.

Add Big Four Crown

The box:



Carolina	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Lloyd, 2b	6	0	1	5	3	1
Dale, ss	4	1	0	1	4	1
Keller, rf	6	1	1	3	0	0
White, lf	5	0	1	2	0	0
Frye, c	6	2	2	6	0	0
Gravitte, cf	6	2	2	4	0	0
Holt, 3b	6	0	1	0	0	0
Henning, 1b	4	0	0	11	2	0
Pazdan, p	2	0	1	0	2	0
Morgan, p	2	1	2	1	1	0
Totals	47	7	11	33	12	2

N. C. State	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Whitley, 3b	5	0	0	0	2	4
Turney, 2b	3	2	1	1	4	0
Yvars, ss	4	0	1	2	4	1
Morris, 1b	5	0	0	8	1	1
Fuscoe, cf	5	0	0	3	0	0
Wyles, c	6	1	2	8	0	0
Barringer, rf	5	0	0	5	0	0
Santoli, lf	5	2	1	5	0	0
Horbelt, p	3	1	2	1	0	0
a-Yvars, Ja.	1	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	42	6	7	33	11	6

a—Grounded out for Barringer in 11th.

Score by innings: R.
Carolina 000 200 300 02—7
N. C. State 100 220 000 01—6

Runs batted in: Wyles 2, Pazdan 2, Yvars 3, Keller, Gravitte 3, Fuscoe. Two base hits: Holt, Lloyd. Home runs: Wyles, Gravitte. Stolen base: Santoli. Sacrifices: Whitley, Turney. Double plays: Yvars (unassisted), Lloyd and Henning. Base on balls—off: Horbelt 4, Pazdan 5, Morgan 3. Struck out—by: Horbelt 5, Pazdan 4, Morgan 2. Hits—off: Horbelt 11 in 11, Pazdan 4 in 4 2/3, Morgan 3 in 6 1/3.

WILL FRYE
. . . Carolina catcher

MURALS

Today's Tennis

5:00—Law School-2 vs. Connor; ATO vs. Zetes.

The match between Law School-2 and Connor dorm is the championship match of the dormitory division of the intramural tennis playoffs.

The softball playoff will be single elimination and will start on Monday, May 18.

Duke Given Tourney Spot By SC Ruling

Duke will join Carolina in representing the Southern Division of the Southern Conference in the conference baseball tourney which opens in Raleigh Thursday.

Selection of Duke for the runner-up spot was announced yesterday by Roy Clogston, athletic director for North Carolina State College and director of the baseball tourney.

His announcement came after he had conferred with Capt. Dick Smith of Washington and Lee, chairman of the Conference baseball committee.

Carolina won its tourney spot by leading the Southern Division play during the regular season. George Washington and Maryland will represent the Northern Division.

There had been some confusion about the runner-up spot in the Southern Division until attention was called Monday night to a rule of the Conference Baseball Committee. It said that all regular season games must be completed three days prior to the tournament.

MAMMOTH DISPLAY OF TV SETS
UHF IN ACTION —See yourself on TV
Antennas — Converters — Factory Experts
WIN ONE OF 20 FREE TV SETS
Register At Your TV Dealer
IN PERSON
Continuous Entertainment. Shows Every Hour — Big Feature Show Twice Daily.
• Lanny Ross — Singing Star of Movies
• Dinning Sisters — Capitol Recording Stars
• Homer & Jethro — Breakfast Club Stars (Thurs. and Fri. Only)
• Hal Leroy — Hollywood's Favorite Dancer
AUDREY (Mrs. Hank) WILLIAMS (Sat. Only)
PLUS....
8 Other Acts and Winners of TV-TALENT HUNT
3 BIG DAYS
MAY 21—7 to 11 P.M.
MAY 22—3 to 11 P.M.
MAY 23—2 to 12 P.M.
Wm. NEAL REYNOLDS Coliseum — Raleigh
ADMISSION 50c and 25c
Benefit Damon Runyon Fund
1st RALEIGH - DURHAM TV FAIR

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

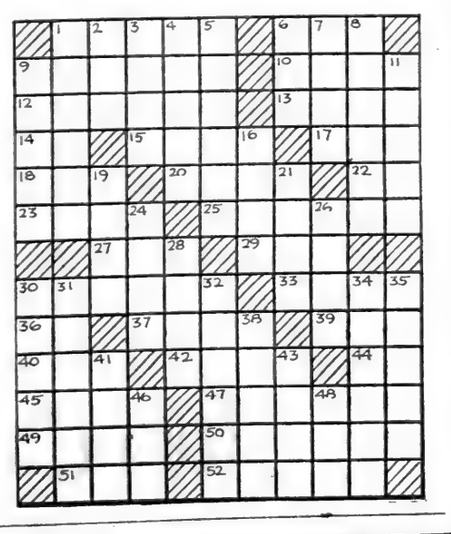
The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2307 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill.—Adv.

Primitive love of Swamp Girl lures two dangerous men into the voodoo-haunted bayous!
A man's struggle to free himself from the death of quicksand!
"CRY OF THE HUNTED"
M-G-M's SAVAGE THRILLER!
Starring VITTORIO GASSMAN BARRY SULLIVAN · POLLY BERGEN
TODAY ONLY
Carolina

Do you really think you've seen Everything?
A wonderful new touch has been added to song and dance and story—and all America loves it!
SAMUEL GOLDWYN'S NEW MUSICAL WONDERFILM
Hans Christian Andersen —and the dancer
Starring Danny Kaye
TECHNICOLOR
FARLEY GRANGER and JEANMAIRE introducing
Directed by CHARLES VIDOR • Screenplay by MOSS HART • Words and Music by FRANK LOESSER
Choreography by ROLAND PETIT
HAPPY SONG HITS!
"No Two People"
"Anywhere I Wander"
"Thumbelina"
—and more!
LATE SHOW SATURDAY
SUNDAY—MON.—TUES.
ADMISSION:
ADULTS—Matinee 60c Night 74c
Children All Day 30c
Varsity

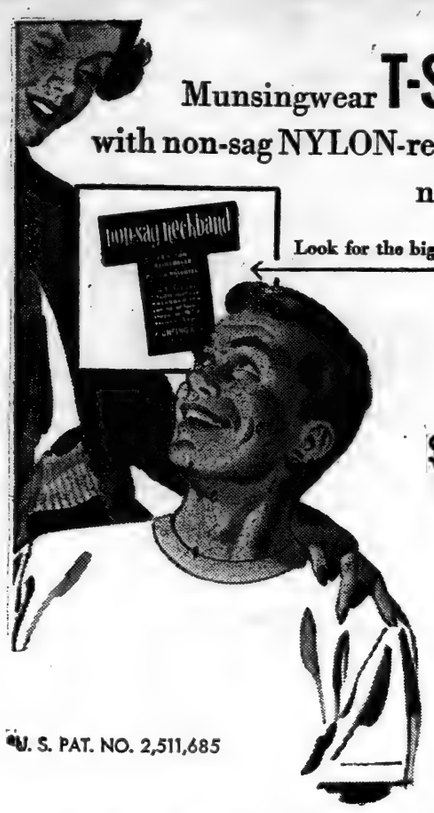


DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Insipid
6. Owns
9. Western state (U. S.)
10. Performs
12. Wild ass
13. Snare
14. River (Chin.)
15. Organs of hearing
17. Before
18. Shield
20. Famous Chicago district
22. Norse god
23. Vend
25. Lingered
27. At the present time
29. A letter of the alphabet
30. Kinds of rocks
33. Unable to hear
36. Toward
37. One of people near Baltic sea
39. Disfigure
40. Sprite
42. Young salmon
44. Cirrus (abbr.)
45. Pen-name of Charles Lamb
47. Singing and dancing girl (Jap.)
49. Nobleman
50. Less difficult
51. Marry
52. Austere

DOWN
1. Italian city
2. Polynesian drink
3. A boy attendant
4. Perfect
5. Famous American lawyer
6. Head covering
7. Measure of land
8. Perish from hunger
9. Organs of smell
11. Celerity
16. Cleansing agent
19. Forearm bone
21. Mottled, as a horse
24. Lounge
26. Abound
28. Cry
30. Metal
31. Empty
32. Platforms
34. Prussian city
35. Member of a religious order
38. Care for medically
41. Discharge, as a gun
43. Ascend
46. Sum up
48. Title of respect

Yesterday's Answer



The ORIENTAL
Air-Conditioned
CHINESE & AMERICAN
Open Daily 11-9:45
Sunday 12-9:45
116 E. Parrish St., Durham

Stationery—Books—Greeting Cards—Gift Shop
Esterbrook Pens—Picture Frames and Picture Framing
Thomas Book Store
Cor. Corcoran & Chapel Hill Sts., Durham
Phone J-2331
L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters—Desk Pads
Shaeffer Pens—Kodaks & Supplies—Desk Lamps
Expert Repair on all makes of Typewriters

THIS WAY TO SAFE SPRING DRIVING
Don't be caught napping! Bring your car in today and let us check it over. Guarantee yourself safe, enjoyable spring driving.
CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR
Try our PURE OIL products for finest results.
POE MOTOR CO.
112 W. Franklin
PH. 6581
DESOTO PLYMOUTH

Test CAMELS for 30 days for MILDNESS and FLAVOR
THERE MUST BE A REASON WHY
Camel is America's most popular cigarette—leading all other brands by billions! Camels have the two things smokers want most—rich, full flavor and cool, cool mildness... pack after pack! Try Camels for 30 days and see how mild, how flavorful, how thoroughly enjoyable they are as your steady smoke!
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.
More People Smoke CAMELS than any other cigarette

Munsingwear T-Shirts with non-sag NYLON-reinforced neckband

Look for the big green sticker

$1.50

U. S. PAT. NO. 2,511,685

The green sticker on a Munsingwear T-Shirt is your guarantee the collar will never lose its shape. The patented* NYLON-reinforced neckband eliminates sag forever! Wear it, wash it, pull it, stretch it . . . the neckband will always stay flat and neat.

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

Professors, Students Plan Picnic Monday

The School of Education will take another step in its program of improving relations between students and faculty in the form of a student-faculty picnic at Crabtree State Park near Raleigh next Monday afternoon beginning at five o'clock.

Letters of invitation and directions for reaching the park have been sent to all members of the School of Education and the Department of Physical Education. Anyone who failed to get one of these is asked to contact Mr. John Peck in Peabody Hall. Additional information may be obtained at the Peabody Picnic Headquarters in the west end of the first floor of Peabody.

The picnic will feature hamburgers and hotdogs, with every kind of trimming, and planned recreation after the meal. There also will be planned recreation for the children and someone will be on hand to take care of them beginning at five.

Tickets at 75 cents each are being sold in the various education classes this week and are also available at the Picnic Headquarters. Children will be admitted free. All ticket sales have to be made before nine a.m. on Monday morning. Judging from the present sales, a large turn-out is anticipated.

—HORSE—

(Continued from Page 2)

Letter frats, or even Tocharian-B Letter frats. You catch?"

We caught. Out with the alleged social distinctions! We'd all have some distinction! A wonderful idea!

The Horse clattered his first-baseman-mitt lips in a sort of super-Bronx cheer. The tower-bells rang twenty minutes ahead of time from the vibration.

"Nom d'un nom d'un nom," he said, showing off his 'D' he'd got in French 3-X, by pronouncing each 'm.' "You are missing the educational value entirely. You get through collitch, what can you do with Greek Letters?"

So what could he, The Horse, do with Chinese Letters?

"Wouldn't it help a little, maybe," The Horse snapped, "you could get friendly with the guy who holds your laundry, if you could say, 'Chee Chun Ho! Pay you next week, Coolie—I mean, Brother?' Listen, if we're going to be exclusive, let's be so with an eye to the practical side of it."

We sighed. The Horse does see imperfectly.

Carolina Political Union Initiates 2 New Members

The Carolina Political Union initiated two new members at its executive meeting Sunday night. Gene Cook, junior from Fayetteville and Charles Wolf, sophomore from Chapel Hill were taken into the Union.

Cook is active in student government, the Di Senate, the Student Party, and the Episcopal Student Congregation. Wolf is a member of the Di Senate, the student legislature, the Student Party, and the varsity swimming team.

Union membership is limited to thirty students but there are a few openings left and interested students are invited to petition for membership.

"LONE EAGLE" NUMBER TWO—Jon Lindbergh (above), 20-year-old son of famed "Lone Eagle" Charles A. Lindbergh, has laid claim to at least part of his father's title with a daring exploration. Young Lindbergh, a member of a scientific party exploring a cave in California, dived more than 150 feet under water to discover one of the largest submerged caverns in the West.—NEA Telephoto.

Contest Tonight Decides Best UNC Senior Speaker

The annual Mangum Medal oratorical contest will be held at eight o'clock tonight in the Di Hall, New West. The Mangum Medal is awarded each year to the senior who delivers the best original oration of ten minutes in length. The Di and the Phi Societies administer the award which is the oldest award given by the University.

Entrants in this years contest are: Alva Stewart, Curtis Meltzer, Bob Clampitt, Fred Crawford, Bob Pace, Ed Smith, and Ham Horton. Professors George Harper and Kermit Hunter are to be judges. A third judge has not yet been announced.

Orientation Interviews

Interviews will be held for Orientation Counselors today on the second floor of Graham Memorial from 4 to 6 p.m.

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

FOR SALE 6S

FOR SALE — SMALL FAMILY home in the woods three blocks from Post Office. Call 7406 for information. 1-8009-5

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

FOR SALE 1949 CHEVROLET convertible, good condition, low mileage, radio and heater, one owner. Can be seen at 124 Daniels Rd. Victory Village. 1-8010-2

What Goes On Here

Square Dance

The final square dance of the Spring series sponsored by the YMCA will be held Friday night at 8:15 in the Y Court. Music will be provided by the band from the Youth Rehabilitation Center at Camp Butner. Refreshments will be sold, and there will round and folk dancing on the program.

WUNC Schedule

7 p.m.—Holland Calling.
7:15—The U.N. Story.
7:30—Carolina Sports Review
7:45—Famous Belgians.
8—Old Books, Old Friends.
8:30—Masterworks from France.
9—Concert Favorites.
9:30—Everybody's Business.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.
11—Sign Off.

GM Director

Applications for the position of director of Graham Memorial Student Union are being accepted by the board of directors. Applicants should contact the dean of students' office in South Building. The position carries a salary of $3,200 per year.

Jayvee Baseballers In Finale Tomorrow

The Carolina JV baseball team will play its final game of the season tomorrow against Gardner-Webb at Emerson Field. It will be an attempt to bring their victory streak to six straight and extend their season's total to eight victories against three defeats.

Books Make Wonderful Gifts

For Engagement Presents
The Prophet $3.00
This is My Beloved 3.00
Shakespeare's Sonnets 1.00
For Wedding Presents
The Southern Cook Book $4.50
Flowers of the South 5.00
Rodgers and Hart Song Book 7.50
For the New Mother
Berenstein's Baby Book $2.00
Gesell's Infant Development 3.50
Better Homes and Gardens Baby Book 2.95
For Bon Voyage Gifts
Elizabeth and Philip $3.50
Key Guide to Europe 2.00
Shopping all over the World 2.95
Graduation Presents
Complete T. S. Eliot $6.00
The Decameron 4.50
Peter Pauper Editions 2.50

Whatever the occasion, your cluttered old bookshop has the answer.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

We cater to all banquets, large or small.
Bring your date and stop in for one of our deluxe Sunday night suppers.
$1.35 SPECIAL

Beverages of all kinds — Open Daily 5 p.m.

THE SADDLE CLUB — HILLSBORO ROAD — Durham City Limits

SHIRT SALE

STOCK UP NOW AT THESE WHOLESALE PRICES

Our $5.00 Basket Weave Button-Down Dress Shirts Reduced from $5 to . . . $2.99

Our $4.75 Brooks Cut Button-Downs and English Round Collars Reduced to . . $2.99

Large group of Choice Lightweight Long Sleeve Sport Shirts . . . Values to $6.95—Reduced to $3.99

Our Famous Egyptian Cotton Tucka Sport Shirts Specially Made for us in Holland—Reduced from $3.95 to $2.99

Terry Cloth Shirts—Perfect Beach Accessory—Reduced 40% to $1.99

Our New Batiste Summer Dress Button-Downs, Reduced to $3.95

Milton's Clothing Cupboard

Pony Express, Edgar A. Poe and Pisa answer the quiz . . . and SUTTON'S DRUG STORE can answer your cosmetic needs with our complete line of Elizabeth Arden and Helena Rubinstein cosmetics and beauty aids. We can please.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER — Sutton's DRUG STORE — Be MACHINES

COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

Attention Senior!

We are offering a regular 1 year $4. subscription to The Daily Tar Heel to Graduating Seniors for just $2.50. A booth will be set up in the Y from 9-12 beginning Tuesday for your convenience. HURRY! This offer is limited!

THE DAILY TAR HEEL

Campus capers call for Coke

No matter if the big act goes wrong, you can't beat a skating party on a winter night. Be sure there's Coke along . . . for refreshment.

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

Durham Coca-Cola Bottling Company

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
5-31-47

WEATHER
Warm, humid, possible showers with 85 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

CO-OP
The editor says one is needed between IDC and IFC. Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 150 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. | THURSDAY, MAY 14, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

That Ain't Chanel No. 5

St. A's Little Stinker Lends Distinctive Air

By Joyce Adams

Harland Heliotrope is the most unique undergraduate at Carolina. He's a skunk, majoring in archaeology.

Delta Psi Dave Cole had him shipped from the Thompson Animal Farm in Clewston, Fla., and keeps the little beast over at the St. A house. So far it hasn't caused much trouble, except to get under the furnace one cold night, but Dave hasn't really had it long enough to tell.

The little black and white kitty is about four months old, and as yet, not very tame. Being a nocturnal animal, he very much resents being hauled out into the afternoon sun, and once showed his contempt by gashing his master's hand. Dave's comment: "His teeth are so sharp I didn't even feel it."

Harland is crazy about horsemeat, lettuce and frogs, but Dave has had rather a hard time rounding up the latter item. Anyone interested in getting rid of a few frogs just bring them over to the St. A house.

Although Harland has been deskunked, he still smells a little skunky every once in awhile, and some of the St. A's are wondering if the condition is going to be permanent.

Asked why he decided to get a skunk, Dave commented that he'd had quite a bit of trouble at home because of his dogs jumping into the swimming pool with him, and he decided to switch his affections to an animal he hopes will stay on dry land.

Dave, a senior majoring in history, is from Hartford, Conn. He says skunks can be trained, and said to hold judgment for a couple of weeks and see how Harland is getting along.

Harland's only comment was "Aw, this archaeology is a crip."

NC Editors To Meet Here Over Weekend

The North Carolina Editorial Writers Conference, with Reed Sarratt of the Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel in charge of the program, will be held at the Carolina Inn here Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Thomas J. Lassiter, secretary-treasurer, said yesterday.

There will be an informal get-together of the editors from 8 to 10 p.m. Friday, and Saturday morning registration will begin at 8:30 in the lobby of the Inn.

At 9:30 a.m. Saturday the delegates will be divided into four editorial critique groups under the following chairmen: Don Shoemaker, Asheville Citizen; C. A. (Pete) McKnight, Charlotte News; A. G. (Pete) Ivey, Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel, and E. A. (Al) Resch, Chatham News, Siler City.

Alan Barth of the Washington Post will speak on "The Contemporary Threat to Intellectual Freedom" at a luncheon session at 1 p.m.

At 2:30 Saturday there will be a clinic on editorial page make-up, with Louis Dey, Louisville Courier-Journal, as discussion leader. At 4 p.m. the critique sessions will be completed.

Harry Golden, Charlotte, editor of The Carolina Israelite, will speak on "The Conscience of the Editorial Page" at the dinner session Saturday night at 6:15.

Sunday morning will be devoted to summaries and a business session beginning at 10 o'clock.

Officers of the conference are: W. T. Polk, Greensboro, chairman; Weimar Jones, Franklin, vice-chairman; Tom Lassiter, secretary-treasurer; Don Shoemaker, Al Resch, Ben Park, Raleigh, and John Harris, Albemarle, members of the executive committee.

"Search" Name Of UNC Movie

The University has been chosen as the first to have its activities recorded on film for a new series which is soon to be shown over all networks of CBS-TV.

The series is to be given the overall title of "The Search" and the Chapel Hill project is called "Between the Mountains and the Sea," for obvious geographical reasons.

"The Search" will be a weekly program, dedicated to the places where "seekers and learners alike, banded together in the search for knowledge, honour thought in all its finer ways." (John Masefield)

Many parts, both speaking and non-speaking, still remain to be filled. Volunteers are asked to give their names and campus addresses to Samuel Selden's secretary at 7431. Davis will arrange to meet them before the shooting begins on May 19. No previous acting experience is necessary.

Quarterly Editor

The advisory board of the Carolina Quarterly is receiving applications for the editorship of the magazine for next year.

Interested persons are requested to submit a letter stating their qualifications and plans to the English office in 104 Saunders Hall by 4:30 Monday. A meeting will be held Tuesday to interview those who apply.

CAMPUS SEEN

Three profs in Y Court intimidating panic-stricken lizard.

•

Heywood Washburn remarking as male and female canines trot across stage during Senior Class meeting: "Representatives from State and WC."

•

Seniors, who seem to have been little affected by the Carolinawayoflife, upsetting Tuesday night's free movie with vulgarity and general asininity.

SUAB Series Offering Swiss Movie Tonight

Today is the last opportunity to purchase tickets to the remaining three pictures of the Spring SUAB film series.

"Torment," a Swiss movie, which has won a number of awards in the past few years, will be shown tonight in Gerrard Hall at 8 o'clock. An added attraction, "The Color Box" will also be shown. This short was drawn directly on film and is mainly gay abstractions to accompany modern rhythms on the sound track.

The picture next week will be "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." This movie makes a plea for men of good will in Congress.

Rudolph Valentino's movie, "Monsieur Beaucaire," will be the last picture of the series. The magic of Valentino's professional personality still survives in this ornate momento of a celebrity. The younger generation will have a chance to see what made the "great lover" the idol of millions of women a couple of decades ago.

Tickets for the last three pictures of the series may be purchased for $1.00, either at the door or in Graham Memorial. No tickets to individual movies can be sold, and only those holding tickets to the series will be admitted.

WUNC Schedule

7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody
7:30—Night Duty
8 p.m.—The University Hour
8:30—Voices of Europe
9 p.m.—Matters of Note by Dr. Wilton Mason
10 p.m. — News and Coming Events
10:05—An Evening Masterwork.
11 p.m.—Sign Off

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club will meet tonight at 6 o'clock at the Goody Shop.

SEARCHERS IN SAN ANGELO, Tex., found this man, suffering from severe shock, sitting placidly amid the wreckage of what had been his home after a tornado tore through the area. Eight persons were killed here, and at least 67 others are dead in Waco, Tex., after the twisters struck more than 200 miles apart.—NEA Telephoto.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WACO, Texas—A growing death toll which may soar up to 150 was feared as tedious brick-by-brick rescue digging continued here in the tornado-leveled section of Waco. At least 67 persons, all but two of them identified, were known dead here, up to 50 others were unaccounted for and some 320 were on the injured list. Nine other dead had been counted in a similar storm at San Angelo, Tex., for an overall figure of 96.

★

PANMUNJOM—The United Nations gave the Communists a detailed formula for ending the Korean truce deadlock yesterday and, after hearing and reading it, the Communists said the proposal threatened to wreck the entire armistice negotiations. Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief U. N. negotiator, handed the Washington-approved plan to North Korean Gen. Nam Il, the Communist chief delegate, at a meeting in the truce hut. Gen. Mark Clark, Supreme U. N. Far East Commander brought the plan, a counter-proposal to the eight-point Communist formula, to Harrison in a dramatic flight Tuesday to the Allied base at Munsan.

★

WASHINGTON — Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif), charged that Britain is preparing for "a Far Eastern Munich," which Knowland contended will make World War III "inevitable." He said also that the recent policy speeches of British Prime Minister Churchill and Labor Party Leader Clement R. Attlee indicate the United States will be left in a position of "going it alone" in fighting Communists in Asia.

Columbia U. Student Groups Ban Race, Color Segregation

NEW YORK, May 13.—Columbia University has announced a decision to withdraw recognition by Oct. 1, 1960 from all campus organizations, except religious groups, that deny membership because of an applicant's race, color or religion.

The action was announced by the Committee on Student Organizations, a supervisory student-faculty-administration group, and troversial issue not only at Columbia College students as expressed in a referendum held last week.

The ban is aimed at the discriminatory practices of some fraternities, which have been a controversial issue not noly at Columbia, but also in other colleges over the country.

The prohibition is similar to that already in force at Amherst College, the University of Connecticut and Dartmouth College. At the University of Connecticut four of the eighteen fraternities severed ties with their national organizations as a result of the ban. They were the chapters of Lambda Chi Alpha, Sigma Nu, Kappa Sigma and Sigma Chi.

Two of these—Sigma Nu and Sigma Chi—have local chapters at Columbia University that have been reluctantly enforcing the discriminatory provisions of their national chapters.

At other colleges where no formal ban has been enacted, there has been a series of revolts by local chapters against the policies of the national fraternities, revolts that have usually ended either with expulsion or resignation of the chapters. The most recent of these was the February expulsion of the Williams College chapter of Phi Delta Theta for pledging a Jewish student.

From Cossacks To Chapel Hill

Mouza's Ex-Cossack Rudolph Led Charge Against 5-1 Odds

By Bob Upton

Patrons of the Cafe Mouza here have the distinction of being served their hamburgers and hotdogs by a man who fled two major Communist revolutions, and who saw action as a captain in the Cossack cavalry under Czar Nicholas II of Russia.

Elias Filchin, known to many University students who patronize the cafe as "Rudolph," was born 59 years ago in Irkutsk, Siberia, and since then his life has been full of adventure and travel over more than half the earth.

When Russia entered World War I Filchin was an officer in the Czar's army, and fought against the Germans in East Prussia. One of his most vivid memories is of a battle that took place there in 1915 near the village of Kovno.

The Germans had pulled several divisions of troops out of their lines in France to stop the Russian invasion of East Prussia because the people of Prussia were greatly afraid of what the Cossacks might do if they entered the country. Filchin said the Cossacks did their best to make sure the Germans kept this respect for them. Wielding pistols, swords and lances, his company of 200 men charged on horseback into a force of 1,000 German troops and completely wiped them out.

Then the Revolution same in 1917 and Russia was thrown into a turmoil. Filchin said, "For about six months everybody was happy because they had gotten rid of the Czar, but soon after they knew they were worse off than before."

Since he was an officer in the Czar's army, Filchin was unpopular with the Bolshevik Government as were many other officers in the army. When the situation became dangerous in 1920 Filchin decided to leave Russia. At the time he and his Cossacks were stationed at Irkutsk which is near the Mongolian border.

Filchin and his company of Cossacks left in late November with a group of about 2,500 other refugees, in such haste that they could take neither food nor water. The thermometer shivered at 40 degrees below zero and the wind out of the desolate Mongolian mountains made it almost unbearable. They were riding horses, Filchin said, but because of the terrible cold they had to get down and walk every once in a while to make sure their skin did not freeze to the metal parts of the saddles.

The group continued traveling like that for about three weeks, living on whatever food they could forage from the bleak countryside and trade for at the villages they passed. At the journey's end in Harbin, Manchuria, many of the refugees were suffering from frostbite, and over 100 had died along the way. As he related this story of hardship Filchin shook his head slowly and declared he still had nightmares of the terrible trip.

From Harbin he went on to Shanghai, China. There he found

(See RUDOLPH, page 4)

Gorham Picks New Cabinet Of 10 Students

Student body President Bob Gorham appointed 10 students to his cabinet yesterday.

These members will serve as top-level advisors to Gorham. Gorham can call on them for advice on any matter of policy.

Gorham now has two advisory groups. The other one is his executive council. Gorham created that council to help him with campus problems. It is made up of the leaders of campus organizations.

The cabinet would serve mostly as a personal advisory board.

Members of the cabinet are Phinn Horton, Walt McFall, Gordon Battle, Jack Stilwell, Jerry Cook, B. O. Anderson, Lou Wolfsheimer, Bob Farrell, Martin Jordan, and Mike Boyatt.

Coeds Will Be Put To Test Today At Sigma Chi Derby

Eight groups of coeds will be put to test this afternoon at 2:30 in Kenan Stadium to see who will be the winner of the ninth annual Sigma Chi Derby.

Groups participating will be the sororities, the Independent Coed Association and the Stray Greeks. There will be six events with a trophy to be presented the winner in each event.

Special attraction of the Derby will be the choosing of Miss Modern Venus of 1953. Judges for the Modern Venus Contest and the skits will be Norman Cordon, E. Carrington Smith, Victory Huggins, Major Frank Caldwell and Basketball Coach Frank McGuire.

Before the annual derby day event gets started, however, there will be a parade down the main drag of Chapel Hill and through the campus. The parade will form at Chapel Hill High School, move down Franklin Street and turn onto Raleigh Street. From there it will turn right and proceed down to South Columbia Street. It will turn east at the Carolina Inn, go past the Y Court and then head for Kenan Stadium, where the big event of the day will take place.

First event on the program will be the Grand National Obstacle Race. Next on the program will be Hit the Geek, a pie throwing contest. Other events include Race to Flesh, to determine the fastest stripper on campus; a five-minute skit by each group participating; secret event and the Miss Modern Venus contest.

Door prizes will be given out between events. Prizes include electric clocks, thermos jugs, steak and chicken dinners, fuel oil, clothing, movie tickets, hair cuts, and many other valuable prizes.

Organizations entered in the Derby are Delta Delta Delta, Chi Omega, Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Gamma Delta, Kappa Delta, Stray Greeks and Independent Coeds.

Handlers for the organizations will be Charlie Phillips, Bob Ellington, Eric Jonas, Rennie Biggers, Don Evans, Lee Middleton, Sid Hoots, Mickey Chamblee, Denny Mitchell, Don Gladstone and Ben Tison.

Trustees Given Glimpse Of Student Government At Meet With Leaders

"Students learn best when they are free to learn for themselves." Dean of Students Fred Weaver said yesterday to 20 new trustees visiting the University.

Speaking at a student-trustee hour in the Morehead Building, Dean Weaver told the new governing fathers about the traditions of student government and student life. Later, Bob Gorham, student body president, sketched student government's functions for the trustees.

"The aim of student government is to convert the problem of community life into an opportunity for education," Weaver said. He went on to explain that students learn more on their own "with sympathetic, friendly counseling when needed."

Weaver said the scope of counseling ranged "from financial and academic problems to romance and personal problems." He added, "We feel that we have our fingers on the vital pulse of the University."

"Much of what is invaluable to education is learned in the fraternity house, student union and other campus activities," concluded Weaver.

President Gorham said that student government at Carolina "is the greatest setup in the world for learning by doing." Then the newly elected chief executive explained the workings of the Campus Code and Honor System as supervised by students.

"We're learning now what we're going to experience later when we leave Carolina," Gorham pointed out. "We're learning how to budget our money, govern ourselves and to live with each other," Gorham said.

The trustee visit was part of a three-day orientation tour for the newly-elected group. Tuesday the trustees visited State and today they are at Woman's College.

President Gray and Chancellor House spoke briefly to the trustees yesterday morning at the Morehead Building. Gray emphasized the work done by the various departments of the Universities that had gained them national acclaim and explained the enrollment trend.

The enrollment trend is definitely upward, Gray told the trustees, judging by the fact that the University at Chapel Hill on May 1 of this year has already approved 500 more applications for admission of freshmen and transfers than at the same time last year.

Gray said that application increases are also being noted at State and Woman's College. Charts were presented to the group illustrating a leveling off of the post war enrollment and indicating the upward trend of enrollment.

Following the early meeting in Morehead, the group toured and inspected the Division of Health Affairs. A luncheon under supervision of Dr. Henry Clark and a meeting on medical affairs rounded out the day's program.

Last night a dinner at the Carolina Inn concluded the trustees' visit. The glee club entertained and a film on Carolina was shown.

Eleven Chosen To Lead UNC Cheer Section

From over 50 aspirants who tried out for next year's cheering squad, 11 were selected by newly-elected Head Cheerleader Jim Fountain and the non-partisan selection board.

Fountain says, "I was more than pleased with the interest and talent shown at tryouts and certainly feel honored in having such a fine, high-calibered group to work with. No one could ask for more in talent, interest and dependability that has already been displayed in this cheering squad, and it will be a pleasure to work with them, as with all the students at Carolina next fall."

Those selected as cheerleaders for next year are as follows: Marilyn Habel, Pat Turnball, Elinor Wrenn, Dottie Law, Jeanne Bunch, Ann Hartzog, Joan Gant (alternate), Frank Ramos, Tom Wakefield, Jim Lewis, Pete Brumley, Johnny Rhodes, and Frank Harris, (alternate).

A new policy of having a business manager has been set up by Fountain this year. The purpose of the job is to lighten the load of the head cheerleader and the cheering squad. The job requires a great amountof detailed work and book work.

The business manager has the responsibility of seeing that all plans and policies of the cheering squad are carried out. Correspondence with other schools is a big part of his job. The business manager for this year is Bob Litaker.

Dance, Picnics, Speeches Feature Pharmacy Event

Students, guests, and the faculty of the School of Pharmacy will celebrate the 22nd annual Pharmacy Week-end beginning tomorrow.

Activities will be highlighted by a picnic at Hogan's Lake. A softball game between Kappa Psi and Phi Delta Chi, pharmaceutical fraternities, will be played in the afternoon.

Tri-Delt Spaghetti

All the spaghetti you can eat will be served at the Tri-Delt House, Pittsboro St., on Sunday evening between 6:00 to 8:00.

Tickets costing $1.00 can be purchased from any member of the sorority before Sunday or at the door that evening.

Proceeds from the dinner will be added to the scholarship fund for the annual $200 scholarship sponsored by Tri-Delt Sorority.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Asst. Sports Ed. — Vardy Buckalew
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Sohindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith, Eddie Starnes.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Down & Almost Out

Latest among the campus' incurable cancers is student "I don't give a damnism." This is descriptive for student indifference to his opportunities in areas beyond the textbook.

We're tired of pontifications on the causes, political speeches telling how great it is to breathe the healthy air of participation, and timid suggestions for rallying the lazy sudent. We want to see something done, for it can be cured.

The InterFraternity Council and the Inter-Dormitory Council have organizations already set up which can mobilize every male on campus. These have been projects by both, to be sure, but these projects' results have been as faint-hearted as the spirit backing hem. Yet the councils have a potential reigned only by their willingness to do work.

Old clothes drives, blood donations, civic projects within the community—there's no lack of worthy work to be done. But there has been a lack of initiative by the InterFraternity and the InterDormitory Councils.

Both have just elected officers. Both men, Fred Mewhinney of the IFC and Walt Gurley of the IDC, have a year in which to show their leadership and the ability of their organizations. Now is the time for Mewhinney and Gurley to start needling up a lethargic IFC and IDC; put some zest into these groups and we believe you'll put some zip into the campus..

While We're At It

Speaking of the Inter-Dormitory and Inter-Fraternity Councils, we have another proposal: Why not an executive group composed of members from these two?

Already the IFC has taken a forward step within its own group by making fraternity presidents the IFC representatives for their own fraternities, thus assuring the IFC of the best the Greeks have to offer.

If the interdorm outfit would join with the interfraternity group we think it would be a productive union. A small, compact executive council of the IFC and IDC would be invaluable in coordinating activities of the pair.

Such a joint council should be easy to form for Carolina enjoys the benefits of a campus where: 1. fraternities don't hate each other, and 2. there is no difference nor enmity between non-fraternity men and fraternity members.

You Can Take It With You

It's called "the best way to take Carolina with you."

We can think of no better way to define the General Alumni Association and what it does for the Carolina grad.

Headed by Spike Saunders, it's Alumni's job to direct class re-unions, homecoming weekends, local association meetings; it publishes the Alumni Review, a monthly reunion in print of the oldest grad to the class of '53; it keeps tabs on University development and passes on the information to alumni, on whom it also keeps tabs.

To follow the University, to aid in its program and to enjoy the fellowship of the expanding Chapel Hill circle, The Daily Tar Heel encourages those leaving Carolina to leave with a membership in the Alumni Association. After all you know, you can take it with you.

Off Campus

—— Alice Chapman ——

More cunning than a fox — more devastating than the biggest h-bomb dream—more puzzling than any Carolina trustee is this thing called the English language.

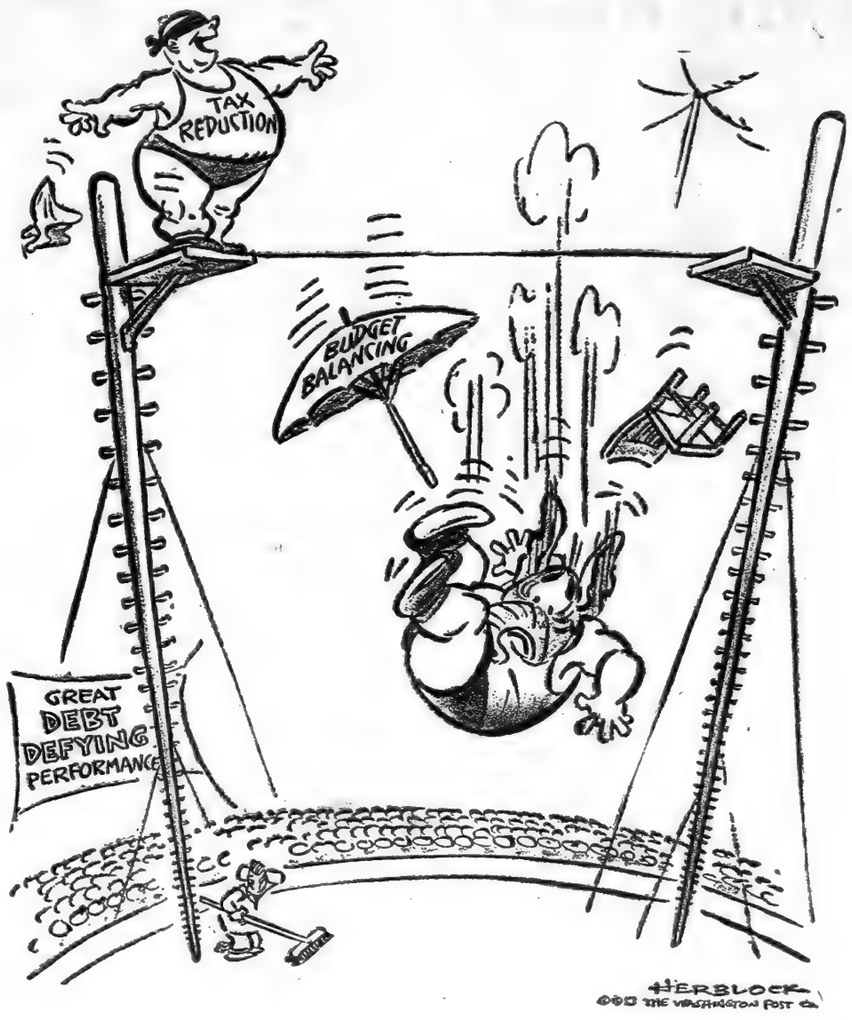
At exactly half past three on the afternoon of May 12 I gave up the idea of ever comprehending the masses of print in the exchange papers and began a campaign to return to the Indians and sign language.

Headlines in every paper fought to see which journal could construe the language into the most impossible meaning per the least space.

It's like 10 crossword puzzles well scrambled with a coach's best football play to try and imagine what some of the headlines actually mean. Try some of these:

"Naids To Present Last Show Tonight". Well, this isn't too hard since Webster says that Naids are spirits thought to live around water. Shall we assume that Iowa State had a bang up production featuring assorted kinds and varieties of spirits? That's what the paper said.

The same college announced that the Za-Ga-Zig men were to have an opening part in the annual Horse show in Des Moines. Anyone knowing the origin, whereabouts, or function of the above will please notify the F.B.I. immediately; they sound like a junior edition of MVD.



In more of the same department, UCLA is selling SoCams all over the campus at the meager price of $5.50 apiece. The column intimated that the article was a type of book known as a June book. Three thousand individuals have bought them so apparently they aren't exclusively for brides.

One headline from the University of Texas states exactly what it means. "Charm School Opens Thursday In Texas Union" says the The Daily Texan. The cowgirls from the Lone Star state have decided to work on their personalities and appearance. Out of jeans and into clothes for a style show the participants will go. All because the Student Union committee has developed a charm school.

And in the case of the maddening initials, and abreviations I find that SAM has taken over the UCLA campus—SAM being not the Uncle but an organization entitled the Society for the Advancement of Management. And people at Cornell have a QMC status about which numerous editorials have been written. As yet the meaning of this appellation has not been determined but the next communication from Ithaca may reveal the secret.

In order to lessen confusion and eliminate eye strain I would advocate the complete elimination of language in written form—but then what of the crossword puzzle institution? What of the many idle hours under the professors eye with nought but an empty notebook and a puzzleless newspaper?

'Ready For Me, Partner?'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — After almost one year of diplomatic dickering the United States is concluding an agreement with Dictator Franco for air and naval bases on Spanish soil. But in order to pin Franco down, U. S. negotiators had to promise secretly an additional future $400,000,000. This is on top of the $187,500,000 already voted him by Congress, and will make a total of $587,500,000.

One factor which nudged Franco's elbow was knowledge that part of his money—the $125,000,000 voted by Congress last year—was about to expire. If the contract wasn't signed by June 30, Franco knew that this $125,000,000 went right back into the Treasury to help balance the Eisenhower budget. And Franco isn't much interested in balancing Ike's budget or anyone's except his own.

This is another chapter in government by Washington attorneys and illustrates how certain lawyers representing foreign embassies sometimes exert more influence than the State Department.

One year ago, both the Sttae Department and the White House, which under the Constitution are entrusted with the conduct of U. S. foreign affairs, informed Congress that they did not want or need bases in Spain. They pointed out that we had all we could do to equip bases in France, England and Western Europe under the NATO pact, and that we were already short on artillery and munitions. If supplies went to non-NATO Spain, they said, it would create ill will both in Korea and among our NATO allies to whom deliveries already were behind schedule.

They also pointed out that Franco was not willing to take the Spanish Army outside Spain; that the arming of Spain would make it appear to France and England that we were going to abandon them, in case of attack, and move to Spain. From behind the safety of the Pyrenees, the French and British argued, the United States would serenely watch the conflict, while the rest of Europe was swept over by Red invaders.

Despite this, Franco got $125,000,000. It was voted him by Congress right over the heads of the President and Secretary of State.

Chief reason for this was the persuasive influence of the Spanish lobby and Franco's two attorneys, Charles Patrick Clark and Max Truitt, son-in-law of ex-Vice President Barkley. Clark, who carefully complies with the foreign agents registration act, was paid $103,499.55 by Franco in 1951 and $79,500 in 1952, according to the Justice Department's listing of foreign agents. Max Truitt, who also registers under the act, was more modest. He got only $22,000 in 1951 and $11,000 in 1952.

However, Clark helped to influence congressional speeches, played gin rummy with key Congressmen, threw fancy parties, ran the gamut of the social lobby to get Congress to vote money for Spain. He succeeded.

Express Yourself

Editor:

Now that the election is over and the tumult and the voting have died, might I just say a few words of praise for some of the nicest folks at Carolina—a group of fellows who typify the Carolina way of life, namely the boys at St. Anthony Hall. They really deserve a lot of credit for their invaluable aid to the Election Board—keeping polls, counting ballots, and whatever else needed doing. As long as we have persons like the St. A's around we don't have to worry about the Carolina way of life, for it is by such persons that this way of life is made.

And also a word for one who merits the thanks of all students be they SP, UP, or no P. For a job well done, Dusty Lamson, Chairman of the Election Board (a St. A also), deserves the thanks of the campus. Student Government needs more persons like him. And we are very fortunate that President Bob Gorham has reappointed him to this position. We are fortunate in two ways; first, that we have a qualified person, and second, that Bob made such an important appointment on the basis of merit rather than as a political reward which by rights he could have done.

Bob Pace

The Eye Of The Horse

—— Roger Will Coe ——

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . ." Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE had been away and the world seemed somehow dull as I tentatively sniffed at a rose in the Arboretum, and wished—

"How can you smell anything, you are tone deaf," the familiar nicker startled me. "And doh't ask what brings me. You wished for me."

I said I would let it be a lesson. But I was curious about this tone-of-odor theory of his.

"I picked that up when I rode into Egypt with the Hyksos," The Horse shrugged his mane. "Everything and everybody has an odor-tone."

I wondered what mine was?

"Not high-tone," The Horse laughed. "Not even Franchot. But speaking of high-tone—I've been up at Bedlam-on-the Potomac watching Oveta Culp Hobby being seducted into office as a Cabinet member."

Inducted, I corrected The Horse.

"Not when it is Oveta," The Horse rolled a romantic eye. "I take it all back, she didn't get the job as part of the price of the Second Louisiana Purchase."

I observed acidly that this crack about the Tidelands affair was not original with him.

"Disintegrate!" The Horse sneered. "Originality is silly when you've got something workable. But let's stick to the point, I've got a one-mile-and a quarter track mind. We could take a tip from Oveta & Company for our next Student Elections. You know what Oveta got that job for? The Woman's Vote!"

That, we thought, was debatable.

"What happened to Stevenson isn't debatable," The Horse snorted. "Listen, I'm not arguing pro or con divorce. It is legal, not to mention popular in Nevada. But the very idea a man could get by without his wife, as Adlai seemed to be doing, was an insult to every woman in the world, and to the American women voters in particular. Besides, they liked Mamie's hairdo. A rained-on ninety-eight cent permanent could spot that hairdo twenty-five pounds and win going away."

That was horse-talk, that twenty-five pound stuff.

"And horse-sense," The Horse said. "I've always claimed that people pretty well deserve the sort of government they have. But you've got to have some live issues before you can get the voters out. Okay, so make a few issues. Something like full-length mirrors in every classroom; or, half-price permanents for every woman voter. And run a hairdresser at the head of the ticket, catch? That would get the girls out!"

We thought the trick was to get the boys out?

"Get the girls out and the boys will follow," The Horse said cynically. "Anyway, that's the way it seems to be at UNC today. The boys have quit cold." But . . . The Horse sees imperfectly.

Our Poetical Senate

Congressional Record Excerpts

MR. ANDERSON. Mr. President, when the suggestion is made that a group of Senators will now proceed to filibuster the economic-controls bill to death, I suggest we follow the line in the Scriptures which reads:

What I say unto you I say unto all: Watch.

* * *

MR. DOUGLAS. Is the Senator from West Virginia aware of the 16th century English verse which is as follows:

The law locks up both man and woman
Who steal the goose from off the common,
But lets the greater felon loose
Who steals the common from the goose.

MR. KILGORE. Yes. I thank the Senator for reminding me of that 16th century rhyme. I think it certainly applies in this instance (off-shore oil debate).

* * *

MR. DOUGLAS. Is the Senator from West Virginia aware of a little verse which was composed by the former Governor of Illinois, Mr. Stevenson, who was the Democratic Party's candidate in the last election—as follows:

Hush, little mink coat; don't you cry.
You'll be Teapot Dome bye and bye!

MR. KILGORE. I remember that very well, and let me say that Mr. Stevenson was certainly correct in making that prophecy.

* * *

MR. NEELY. Mr. President, I am no prophet, unless it be, that, on the ground stated by the old Scotch poet—

'Tis the sunset of life gives me mystical lore.
And coming events cast their shadows
before.

* * *

MR. DOUGLAS. Does the Senator from West Virginia remember the lines on the burial of Sir John Moore after the battle of Corunna?—

Not a drum was heard, not a funeral note.

MR. NEELY. I not only remember those lines, but I remember the entire poem. I shall not quote the entire poem now, although if I run out of text I probably shall quote it. I thank the Senator from Illinois for his remark.

The Ivy League

Think It Over

A Harvard anthropologist has proposed a "revolution" in marital customs. He claims that nowadays men prefer young brides in order to be the intellectual equals of their wives, although a "mother-son relationship" usually develops anyway. To relieve women of the threat of widowhood, he suggests that they marry after 25 and take "child husbands."

The Daily Pennsylvanian

Baseball Team Meets Terps In SC Tournament

Port To Pitch Raleigh Game For Tar Heels

Carolina's baseball team plays its first leg in the Southern Conference tournament in Raleigh today at 4 o'clock.

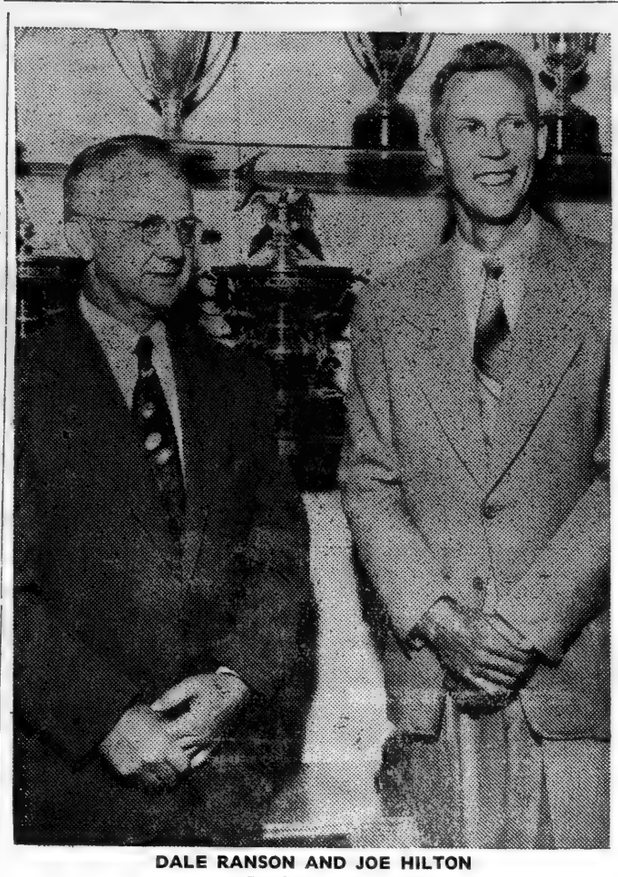
The Tar Heels, winners of the southern division crown, play Maryland in the second game of an afternoon double header that features Duke and George Washington in the first game at 1:30.

G.W. and Maryland were tied for the northern title and the Colonials won the toss for pairings sake.

Tickets are one dollar per day for the games played at Devereaux Meadow in Raleigh. There will be a game between the afternoon losers at 8 o'clock tonight, two games Friday afternoon, and a single game at seven Saturday night. If there is a tie after that one the final contest is scheduled for nine Saturday.

Chal Port, co-captain and twice All-Conference selection, will start against the Terps today. Port has been the work horse of the squad with a 7-2 record for the season including two important wins over Duke.

Coaches Bunn Hearn and Walt Rabb's team beat N. C. State Tuesday, 7-6, in 11 innings to win the Big Four title. The Tar Heels have beaten every other Big Four team two out of three times for a 6-3 record.



Carolina hasn't won the division championship since 1948 when the team won the Conference crown and then the regional NCAA's.

Rabb will use another righthander, Bill Lore, in the second game Carolina plays in the double elimination tourney. If the Tar Heels reach the finals, Port will probably work again with Don Marbry and Joe Morgan in the hole.

Rabb switches his outfields, depending on how the opposing pitcher throws. If the Terps use a southpaw, John Mottsinger, Connie Gravitte, and Albert Long should start, while Wayne White and Ken Keller will be used in place of Mottsinger and Long if righthanded pitching is used.

Bruce Holt at third, Fred Dale at short, Harry Lloyd, second, and Bob Henning, first, will start in the infield, with Ed Hooks or Will Frye at catcher.

Duke, the other team representing the southern division, received the bid in a whirl of controversy.

DALE RANSON AND JOE HILTON
. . . Carolina track coaches

Tickets for the baseball tournament at Devereaux Meadow in Raleigh are on sale at the ticket office in Woollen Gym.

Price is one dollar per day for three games today, two tomorrow, and one or two Saturday.

Carolina Wins Two First Places In Girls' Play Day

Dot Lowenstein, Carolina representative in the Girls' Play Day at Wake Forest, took first place honors in golf with a medal score of 45. Competing with Carolina were coeds from Duke, Wake Forest, and Meredith.

Janie Carey and Sandy Donaldson provided the other win for Carolina. Their victory came in the tennis doubles division where they defeated a strong Deacon team in three sets. Louise Milliken and Carolyn Johnson, playing in the singles competition for Carolina, weredef eated in the second round by Wake Forest and Duke representatives.

Tar Heels Cop Big Four Intramural Crown; Capture 28 Points And Four First Places

The Carolina entry in the Bigevent. The difference was provided by Rod Nicol who won the singles and thereby provided the necessary margin. Bob Page and Frank Bowman won the doubles championship and the team as a whole eked out a win over State.

The most decisive victory of the day for Carolina was in tennis. Norman Jarrard had complete control of the singles matches while Skip Roddey and Bob Fountain were taking the doubles championship.

The table tennis contest also provided a very close match. Kit Crittenden won the singles while teammates Keith Grady and Louie Patseavouras were copping the doubles title. Again the Tar Heels barely edged out State.

The Tar Heels also dominated the golf matches. Leader in this division was Larry Parker who had a 75. Bill McCord had a few bad holes but still managed to win his match easily.

The softball and horseshoe teams both finsihed second. The softballers beat Duke in their first game by a 10-7 score but lost to State 8-0 in the finals. The winning pitcher for the first game was Bob Page.

One of the closest matches of the day came in the handball The horseshoe team was edged out by the Wolfpack with Wake Forest and Duke finishing in order.

The volleyball team finished third behind Wake Forest and State; but there is some consolation in the fact that it lost its first match to the Wolfpack, the eventual winners of the event.

Carolina had four firsts, two seconds, and a third for its 28 point total. State fell down in golf and tennis, where it finished fourth and third, respectively.

The tournament was generally a success, with participation much better than in previous years. It was the second consecutive victory for the Tar Heels.

Next year, with the rise of Wake Forest, should prove to be more than a race between two schools. Duke is also expected to be stronger.

NOW PLAYING

Carolina

— PLUS —
SPORTLIGHT "WEST INDIES"
LATEST NEWS

Complete Line of Van Heusen Men's Wear
TOWN AND CAMPUS

Top Sellers—

Gilbert Highet
People, Places and Books $3.50

Nina Farewell
The Unfair Sex $2.95

Revised Standard Bible
Regular edition ....$ 6.00
Leather edition 10.00

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

FOR SALE 6B

WRINGER-TYPE WASHING MAchine. Excellent Condition, $75.00. Phone 2-926. (1-c8011-2)

FOR SALE AUTOMOTIVE 6BB

FOR SALE 1949 CHEVROLET convertible, good condition, low mileage, radio and heater, one owner. Can be seen at 124 Daniels Rd. Victory Village. 1-8010-2

HELP WANTED: MALE 8B

EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY for a student with a car. Extensive newspaper route opening. Married student preferred. Contact Joe Hamrick, 136 Daniels Rd. by letter or after five o'clock. (1-8012-2)

. . . If he hollers let him go!

ONCE upon a time a huge, ferocious lion escaped from a zoo that adjoined a small college. For days and days, this mangy beast terrorized students and faculty members alike by growling at them from dark places. Finally, one afternoon, word reached the Dean that one of the students had killed the lion.

The Dean was delighted, and sent for the brave student. Soon, Charlie Jones, a 112-pound Freshman, was standing in front of him.

"Did you kill the lion?" the Dean asked incredulously.

"Sure did!", said Charlie. "There I was, walking to class. It was pretty hot, but I didn't mind because I was wearing a cool, comfortable Van Heusen Van Dual Shirt with short sleeves. That smart collar looked swell with my school tie. And imagine, I only paid $3.95 for this swell shirt!"

"But what about the lion?", asked the Dean.

"Well, all of a sudden," continued Charlie, "this fugitive from a circus leaps out from behind a tree and growls at me. This was no spot to be wearing a dress shirt, I decided, so I whipped off my tie, opened my collar, and presto!—my Van Dual became the best-looking, most comfortable sport shirt on campus. Now I was ready for action."

"Yes," said the Dean.

"So I shoved my trusty right arm down his throat, grabbed his tail . . . and pulled him inside out!"

"My word!", said the Dean.

"Lefty" Jones graduated Cum Laude last term.

TRIPLE THREAT MAN!

The Brains of the Team

Teamwork can work miracles. In a football game the man who sparks these miracles is the quarterback. He's the man who calls the signals. There's a man who calls the signals for an Air Force flying team, too!

They call him an Aircraft Observer.

Do YOU have what it takes to become an Aircraft Observer?

It isn't easy. It's tough. You have to be a MAN to qualify as an Aircraft Observer. But when you are one, brother, you're SOMEBODY! The success or failure of a mission involving over a million dollars worth of flight equipment depends on you.

THE AIRCRAFT OBSERVER IS THE SOMEBODY WHO:

As Bombardment Officer, is number one man on a bombing run, the man who controls the plane in the target area!

As Navigation Officer, is the pilot's guiding hand on every flight!

As Radar Officer, is master of a new science and operator of the device that sees beyond human sight!

As Aircraft Performance Engineer Officer, is the one who "keeps the plane flying", the man who knows his plane inside and out, who keeps it fit for the skies and sees that it stays there!

If YOU can accept a challenge like this, you'll take your place beside the best—you'll find your future in the clouds!

TO BE QUALIFIED you must be single, a citizen, between 19 and 26½ years old, have had at least 2 years of college and be in tip top physical shape. If this describes you, then YOU, too, can qualify. Today!

HERE'S WHAT YOU'LL GET! The world's best training. Good food and plenty of it. Uniforms, flight clothes, equipment. Medical and dental care. Free insurance. Flight training in Uncle Sam's greatest aircraft.

AND THEN, AFTER GRADUATION, you'll win your silver wings, and earn more than $5000 a year as an Air Force Lieutenant. You'll enjoy an adventurous, exciting career with a hand-picked crew of real men. You'll be THE BRAINS OF THE TEAM, A TRIPLE THREAT MAN . . . as a Bombardment Officer, as a Navigation Officer, as a Radar Officer, as an Aircraft Performance Engineer.

THE SOONER YOU APPLY, THE SOONER YOU FLY!

GET THE DETAILS: Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer. Or write to Director of Training, Headquarters, USAF, Washington 25, D.C., Attention: Aviation Cadet Branch. If you are in a school that has an Air Force ROTC program, see your Professor of Air Science and Tactics.

New Aircraft Observer Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Two Weeks

U.S. AIR FORCE

AIRCRAFT OBSERVER PROGRAM

If You Collect

THOMAS WOLFE

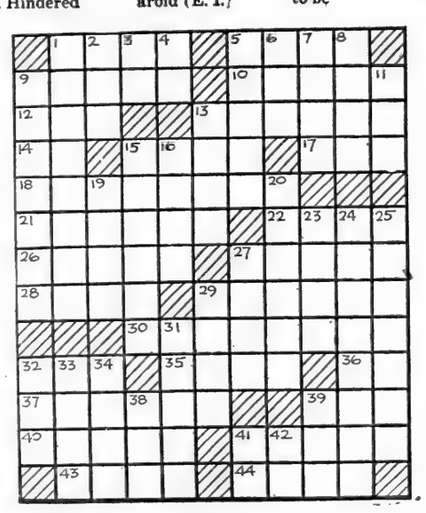
You'll want to see the new book "The Enigma of Thomas Wolfe." Of course you will find it at—

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS



1. Ready money
5. River in France
9. Cinema
10. Employs
12. A single unit
13. Horizontal support above a door
14. Guido's lowest note
15. A clownish peasant
17. Firmament
18. Wealth
21. Surrounded with hills, as potatoes
22. U. S. humorist
26. Call up
27. A wet cloth dressing
28. Sand dune (Eng.)
29. A black eye (slang)
30. Left
32. Long feathered scarf
35. Anger
36. From (prefix)
37. Become visible
39. Ventilate
40. Bars
41. Walks back and forth
43. Similar
44. Hebrew measure

DOWN

1. Devise
2. Hail!
3. River (Chin.)
4. Pronoun
5. Gather (sewing)
6. French river
7. Branch of learning
8. Strong, unpleasant smell
9. Grimaced with the lips
11. Cunning
13. Noisy
15. Hindered
16. Biblical name
19. Biblical name
20. All
23. A relative
24. Swifter
25. People in charge of cattle (U.S.)
27. Rough, matted hair
29. Mast
31. Rub out
32. Stripe
33. Precious stone
34. A coarse aroid (E. I.)
38. Antlered animal
39. One-spot card
41. Italian river
43. Part of "to be"

Yesterday's Answer

Thomas Wolfe Biography Is Book of Week

The Library of the University has selected Richard Walser's latest book, "The Enigma of Thomas Wolfe," as its current Book of the Week.

The ninth biographical work to appear on the North Carolina author since 1943, "The Enigma of Thomas Wolfe" is being published by the Harvard University Press this week.

Each week officials of the University Library select a publication as the "Book of the Week" and this selection is displayed in the main lobby of the Library building, together with other materials concerning the author and the publication.

"The Enigma of Thomas Wolfe" is Walser's third major publication concerning North Carolina writers. His first two books in this field were "North Carolina Poetry" and "North Carolina in the Short Story."

Among the 26 selections contained in the Wolfe book is one of Wolfe's original works that has never before been published. It is "Justice Is Blind," and was written by Wolfe in 1938. Originally it was intended to be the first chapter of a book about New York lawyers. At the time it was written, Wolfe was engaged in legal battles which resulted fr omsome of his earlier writings.

Monogram Club

The Monogram Club will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the club room for the initiation of winter quarter lettermen.

Coaches Sam Barnes, Frank McGuire, Bill Meade, and Ralph Casey will present certificates to letter winners of wrestling, basketball, gymnastics, and swimming respectively.

All members are urged to attend.

FILM STAR CLARK GABLE is target for autograph-seeking Venetian bobbysoxers as he strolls arm-in-arm with a mystery woman. Gable asked servants and friends not to reveal the name of the lady, believed to be either British or American and his latest romantic interest. They are pictured in beautiful old Venice, Italy. —NEA Telephoto.

Josephina Niggli Is Chairman Of Local Symphony Fund Drive

Josephina Niggli, noted Chapel Hill writer and author of "Mexican Village" on which the new film, "Sombrero," is based, has been named chairman of the Orange County Special Fund Drive for the North Carolina Symphony Society.

The announcement of Miss Niggli's acceptance came today from Russell M. Grumman, director of the University Extension Division and State Chairman of the Symphony's Special Fund.

Headed by Miss Dorothy M. Lehman, the Special Fund is an organization set up throughout the state to meet increased costs and service demands on the Symphony Society. The non-profit, educational Society sponsors the North Carolina Symphony, a service orchestra of professional musicians who play half their annual 140 concerts free to Tar Heel school children.

The orchestra, now on its eighth annual tour, from January 21-May 14, is conducted by Dr. Benjamin F. Swalin.

In accepting the position of county chairman, Miss Niggli said:

"I think that the Symphony is so terribly important in this State that it is actually a selfish thing to help take care of it. After all, the orchestra is ours. It enriches us. It gives us something that we can't get from records, from radio, television or other modes of communication, because the North Carolina Symphony furnishes us direct communication with excellent musicians. . . . It is terrible to think of depriving children of an experience that is beauty itself," she said.

Rudolph Still Fighting Reds; Takes Part In Blood Drives

(Continued from page 1)

himself alone in a strange land, without money, and unable to speak the native language. He solved the money problem for a little while by pawning two solid gold medals that had been presented to him while he was in the army. Before the money ran out he had learned to speak a little Chinese and had gotten a job as bodyguard to a Chinese millionaire importer. After three years as a bodyguard, Filchin went to work as an electric turbine operator for a British firm in Shanghai.

He tried to communicate with his family in Russia, Filchin said, but his mother wrote him asking that he not write to them or send any money. That was in 1920, and he has not heard from his family since. He remained in Shanghai, met a girl and married her, and settled down there for 27 years.

Filchin had an opportunity to return to Russia in 1945 when the Soviet Government extended amnesty to all exiles, but he turned it down. In 1949 the Communists once again caused him to take flight. This time the Chinese Communists were closing in on Shanghai and Filchin left, just two days before they entered the city.

He had obtained permission to emigrate to the United States on the recommendation of a U. S. Naval officer who had married his wife's niece, and he came directly to the U. S. from Shanghai. It was through this same officer, Lt. Cmdr. Elmer Zumwalt, once an instructor at Chapel Hill, that he settled here and went into the restaurant business.

Today Elias Filchin is still actively fighting Communism as evidenced by the eight pints of blood he has given to the Red Cross since his arrival here. He is earnestly working toward the day when he will become an American citizen, and he hopes to be naturalized sometime next year.

Yack Staffers

There will be an important meeting of this year's Yack staff at 2:00 today in the Yack office. All persons interested in working on next year's book are urged to be present.

Square Dance

The final square dance of the Spring quarter will be tomorrow night at 8:15 in the Y Court. Music for the dance, sponsored by the YMCA, will be provided by the band from the Camp Butner Youth Project. Refreshments will be sold and there will be round dances.

Today's Horseshoes

7:00—Law School vs. Dental School; Kap Sig vs. (Sig Nu-2 or Zetes-1).

Championship match.

THE COMPLETE ARROW LINE AT THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

Collegians Unfazed By Heat; Keep Cool in Arrow Lightweights

A cool and comfortable summer is predicted for students who cool off in Arrow lightweight shirts and sports shirts. These hot-weather favorites are "air-conditioned" by thousands of open windows in the fabric. Long and short sleeve styles . . . white and pastel colors. Available at Arrow dealers.

ARROW SHIRTS

SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

ARROW SOLD AT

VARLEY'S MEN SHOP

H. G. WELLS' MYSTERY SPECTACLE

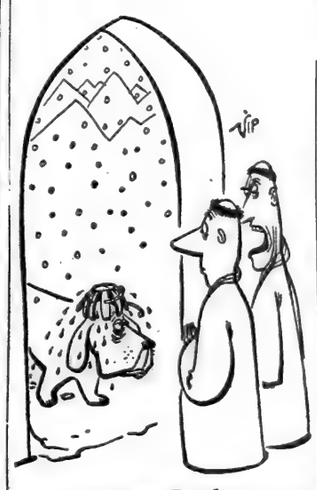
UNBELIEVABLE! WONDROUS!

A MIGHTY SPECTACLE by ALEXANDER KORDA

HIT NO. 1

THINGS TO COME

SEE—BIRTH OF THE SUPERMAN!
SEE—THE GLASS CITIES!
SEE—1000 PASSENGER AIR-LINERS!
SEE—ROCKET SHIP TO THE MOON!



WOMAN of TOMORROW will ship the SADIST BEAST, BARBARIAN BEAUTY! will not KISSES KILL!

a Film Classics Inc. Release

GOOD PICTURES LIKE GOOD BOOKS NEVER GROW OLD!

T-O-D-A-Y ONLY

Varsity

"I told thee, Brother, never to send thy dogs out without the Angostura*."

ANGOSTURA®
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. Angostura is a cocktail's best friend. A dash or two marries the ingredients for a smoother, more satisfying drink.

A NEW SHIPMENT of STEIG CARDS HAS COME IN!

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

A THING OF SONG AND DANCE, LOVE AND JOY!

SAMUEL GOLDWYN Presents

Hans Christian Andersen

Color by TECHNICOLOR

—and the dancer

starring Danny Kaye

and FARLEY GRANGER · introducing JEANMAIRE

Directed by CHARLES VIDOR · Screenplay by MOSS HART

HIT SONGS
"No Two People"
"Anywhere I Wander"
"Thumbelina"
"Wonderful Copenhagen"
"Ugly Duckling"
"King's New Clothes"
"The Inchworm"
"I'm Hans Christian Andersen"

LATE SHOW SATURDAY NIGHT

Sunday — Monday — Tuesday

ADMISSION

ADULTS Matinee .60
Night .74
Children All Day .30

Varsity

Shows Start 1:00-3:00-5:00
7:00-9:00

Attention Senior!

We are offering a regular 1 year $4. subscription to The Daily Tar Heel to Graduating Seniors for just $2.50.

A booth is in the Y from 9-12 for your convenience. HURRY! This offer is limited! Tomorrow is the last day!

THE DAILY TAR HEEL

WEATHER
Sunny and hot with 90 high. Yesterday's high and low, 90 and 65.

The Daily Tar Heel

BIGOTRY
The editor has some kind words for Columbia U. Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 151 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, MAY 15, 1953 SIX PAGES TODAY

Derby Day Doings

Chi O Lindy Lindeman Is Miss Modern Venus

Slim, bronze and beautiful Lindy Lindeman, Chi Omega from Virginia Beach, was crowned Miss Modern Venus yesterday before some 1,500 Kenan Stadium onlookers in the ninth annual Sigma Chi Derby.

First place team trophy for the greatest number of points earned in the various events went to the Tri-Delts with 12 points.

Runnersup in the Miss Modern Venus contest were Tri-Delt Janet Harris and Chi Omega Judy Landauer. The judging, officials said, was based on beauty.

Chi Omega got second place in the team competition with 11 points, and Alpha Delta Pi third with 10 points.

Miss Modern Venus received a cup, a bouquet of roses, and was crowned by the Sigma Chi's.

The various events of the day's program included the Grand National, a series of relays, in which the Tri-Delts won first place, with Pi Phi and the Independent Coeds coming in for places. The Race to the Flesh, a sort of strip tease, was won by Pi Phi, with second and third going to Kappa Delta and Tri-Delts.

ADPi, Alpha Gam and Pi Phi, in that order, won the Hit the Geek feature, a pie - throwing contest.

The "secret event" turned out to be a mass of coeds scrambling for a beer can hidden in a box full of mud. Individual winner was Stella Eason, Chi Omega, whose fed face was not capable of being seen behind an involuntary mud pack.

Winers of the skit were ADPi, Tri-Delt and Alpha Gam, in that order.

During the mud scramble Ann Street fell or was pushed into the goo. She gained revenge in appropriate fashion by throwing handfuls of mud at Derby Day Co-Chairmen Walt Converse and Skippy Roddey.

Door prizes, including toasters, ironers, beer, furniture, haircuts and free meals donated by local merchants, went to many spectators.

Judges for the Miss Modern Venus contest were E. Carrington Smith, Norman Cordon, Major F. C. Caldwell, Coach Frank McGuire and Vic Huggins.

Synod Selects New Judiciary In Jones Case

By Rolfe Neill

RALEIGH, May 14—The Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina today elected 16 ministers and elders—two from every presbytery but Orange—to review the firing of the Rev. Charles M. Jones of Chapel Hill.

Dr. H. Price Gwynn of Flora McDonald College was chosen as chairman of the Judicial Commission and the group set its first meeting for Friday, May 22 in Raleigh at White Memorial Church.

Members of Mr. Jones' church asked for the review, charging in a complaint read this morning "irregularities in the proceedings . . . manifestations of prejudice in the case . . . (and) injustice in the judgment and action."

Dr. Henry Patterson of the group which fired Mr. Jones then obtained the floor and said, "I want to state very emphatically that we deny the grounds of the complaints."

This Judicial Commission can not introduce new evidence, it merely will review the evidence and make a decision on each of the charges of irregularities, prejudice and injustice. (The Synod clerk remarked to a reporter it would take two days alone for the commission to hear all of the 27 exhibits offered by both sides.)

The 364 Synod members present voted unanimously to direct that records given in the case labeled "confidential" be turned ofer to the commission with the rest of the exhibits.

The Synod also voted to make the findings of the commission "conclusive." However, either party, the Chapel Hill church or the Orange Presbytery, could, and probably will, appeal the commission's findings. A minor battle developed among the ministers over this as some wanted to make sure such an appeal would get before the Presbyterian General Assembly at its annual meeting in June.

The Assembly in this case is the Supreme Court of the Presbyterians.

Another group tried to make sure that the probable appeal would be too late for the Assembly meeting. This virtually would halt all proceedings until June of 1954 when the Assembly meets again.

The Synod voted to suspend the rules to allow its moderator to call another Synod meeting at his discretion after at least five days notice. Under the church's rules of order, the moderator must allow 15 days notice for a meeting. This suspension will permit the synod to reconvene before the June Assembly meeting if the commission finishes its work. If it doesn't, the case will hang for a year anyway.

When the Synod does meet again it will be a formality to insert the commission's report in the synodical minutes. No action in the case will be taken by the Synod itself.

Early in the meeting, the Synod members voted not to allow members of Orange Presbytery to speak on the floor. The one or two times Orange men did talk, they had to get the body's consent by vote Because it is involved in the proceedings, Orange did not get represented on the 16-man Judicial Commission.

Today's meeting, which lasted from 10:30 a.m. to 3:25 p.m. with a two-hour recess at noon, was tape-recorded.

The "Chapel Hill Case" has attracted national attention. It arose when a Judicial Commission of Orange Presbytery fired Mr. Jones this year and later fired all of the church officers.

THE LADIES OF ATHENS prepare for one of the most unusual and effective peace moves ever planned in the Carolina Playmakers' production of "Lysistrata," comedy to be presented in the Forest Theatre next weekend. Left to right: Mary Helen Crain, Durham, as Myrrhina; Frances O'Neal, Chapel Hill, as Lampito; Louise Lamont, Chapel Hill, in the title role of Lysistrata. Seated: Joanne San Antonio, Bangor, Me., as Kalonika.

Shotts Selected For Summer Travel Group

NEW YORK—The Council on Student Travel has announced that Claude Shotts, general secretary of the University of North Carolina YMCA, has been appointed a member of the Council's shipboard orientation program staff for this summer's special student sailings to Europe.

Shotts will sail July 4 on the SS Arosa Kulm, and will return August 24 on the M/S Anna Salen. He will be in charge of organizing interest groups for the student-teacher passengers on both voyages.

Three ships have been chartered by the Council on Student Travel to carry students and teachers to Europe and back this summer. Sailing dates are: Eastbound, June 9, June 16, June 24, and July 4; Westbound, August 11, August 24, September 2, and September 28. Fares range from $135 one-way.

Some space is still available for students who wish to go to Europe this summer, the Council said. Those interested should write: Council on Student Travel, Room 601, 179 Broadway, New York 7, New York.

Special Music And Sets To Be Featured In Greek 'Lysistrata'

Some of the features of the forthcoming Carolina Playmaker production in the Forest Theatre including special music and the largest sets ever built on the outdoor stage were described here yesterday.

Tickets for the production, "Lysistrata," the comedy of war and the power of women, which is to be presented next Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 8:30 p.m., will go on sale Friday in the Playmakers' office in Swain Hall and at Ledbetter-Pickard.

The play, under the direction of Foster Fitz-Simons, assistant director of the Playmakers, is being performed to the accompaniment of special music written by Dr. Glen Haydon, chairman of the Music Department, and recorded by the University Symphony Orchestra.

The setting, designed by Sydney Z. Litwack and said to be the largest ever built on the Forest Theatre stage, has 1,000 square feet of playing space and a 35-foot temple at the top of the plank and canvas hill.

The costumes for the unusually large and predominantly female cast are designed by Jeanette Pratt. Pratt.

Camp Counselor

There is an opening for a boy interested in camp counseling work in a YMCA camp in the Tennessee mountains. He would work June 9 through August 9, being provided room, board and transportation. The salary is $150. Interested persons see Sam Blackwood at the YMCA.

UNC Back Again In CUSC; Gorham Changes Passed

The Student Legislature last night approved an amended Consolidated University Student Council constitution and President Bob Gorham appointed delegates to the Council..

This action makes Carolina an active participant in CUSC again after the misunderstanding near the end of the last administration, when several of President Ham Horton's appointees withdrew from CUSC.

Gorham went before Legislature last night to explain his stand on CUSC and the changes made to its constitution.

Gorham discussed the situation with State and WC student leaders after his election. An executive council meeting of the three schools was held at WC last week.

At that meeting, Gorham assured the others that Carolina was coming into CUSC. He told the council that he had studied the situation and felt that changes to the constitution were necessary. He said that Jimmy Adams, former chairman of the Carolina delegation, had resigned because he felt that the constitution was set up so that the Council couldn't function properly.

The consitutional revision proposed by Carolina and one proposed by State were approved by the executive council, by the delegation of each school, and later by their student governments.

Most of the changes were made to the "purpose" article of the constitution. Because of one change, the purpose of the Council now is to represent the opinions of the three schools individually. Before, its purpose had been to represent a compromised Consolidated opinion.

The article was also changed to say that the purpose shall be to act as a means of liaison between the student bodies of the Consolidated University and its administration, "providing that the rights of the respective student gov ernments are not abridged."

In emphasizing the need for a three-school organization, Gorham said that President Gray wants to be able to call on someone who can provide him with student opinion in each of the three schools.

Gorham's appointees approved to CUSC last night were Jim Adams, Ed McCurry, John Ingle, Wade Matthews, Jean Williamson, Alice Hicks, Sonny Crohn, Phin Horton, and Bob Bundy. The Council elected Wade Matthews chairman. Jim Adams served as chairman last year. Gorham and Baxter Miller will also serve on the Council.

The Legislature elected Gorham, Miller, Pete Adams, Ken Penegar, and Joel Fleishman as delegates to the National Students Association convention scheduled for August. Gene Cook, Ed Gross, and Don Geiger were elected alternates. Two more alternates will be elected in next week's special session. The Legislature also passed a bill giving $300 to pay the delegates' registration and part of their living and travelling expenses.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WACO, Tex.—A growing death toll which may soar up to 150 was feared as digging continued yesterday in the rubble of the tornado-leveled section of Waco. At least 87 persons were known dead, 320 injured and 50 others unaccounted for in the worst disaster ever to hit this city. The Red Cross estimated damage up to $500,000,000.

★

WASHINGTON — Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Cal), charged that Britain is preparing for "A Far Eastern Munich," which Knowland contended will make World War III inevitable. He said also that the recent policy speeches of British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Labor Party Leader Clement R. Atlee indicate the United States will be left in a position of "going it alone" in fighting Communists in Asia.

★

PANMUNJOM—The United Nations gave the Communists a detailed formula for ending the Korean truce deadlock yesterday and, after hearing and reading it, the Communists said the proposal threatened to wreck the entire armistice negotiations. The Allied plan calls for repatriation within two months after an armistice of all prisoners who want to go home and release on the effective date of an armistice of all Korean prisoners refusing to be repatriated.

Dormitories To Be Improved With Funds From Bond Issue

Dormitories will be improved soon with funds obtained from a bond issue recently authorized by the state legislature.

Exactly which dorms will get repaired is up to recommendations of the University administration, subject to the approval of the state Budget Bureau. Indications are that the first improvements will be new plumbing fixtures for the older dorms.

Out of the $1,001,000 bond issue, $196,000 is labeled for "renovation and equipment of dormitories." This item is the largest one coming under the issue.

Business Manager Claude Teague explained yesterday that the exact places where improvements will be made haven't been determined. but selections will be based largely on suggestions by the dean of students office. He pointed out that any choice by the administration would be subject to approval by the Budget Bureau.

Budget funds totaling $20,000 were tagged for fire escapes on six of the older University buildings.

The soundproofing of dormitory hallways has been mentioned as another possible improvement. However, nothing official has been said by the administration about the exact nature of any of the dormitory improvements.

Also included in the bond issue were funds for improvement of Bingham Hall, excavation of Peabody Hall basement, equipment for the new south wing of the Medical Building, complete post-graduate facilities for the School of Dentistry, equipment for the cancer research floor and Institute of Government Building.

What Goes On Here

Visit To Camp Butner

Students who want a glimpse of life at the Camp Butner Youth Rehabilitation Center for juvenile delinquents are invited to come along on a visit there Sunday afternoon. Students may sign in the Y information office beforehand, or just come to the Y at 1:30 Sunday afternoon.

University Band

The annual business meeting of the University Band for the election of officers and presentation of band keys will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the choral room of Hill Hall. All band members are urged to be present. The lawn concert will follow at 4:30.

Square Dance

The final square dance of the spring series sponsored by the YMCA will be held tonight in the Y Court. Starting at 8:15, the program will feature round and folk dancing. Music will be provided by the hillbilly band from the Camp Butner Youth Rehabilitation Center.

Beach Weather

The weather man says it will be good beach weather for most of the weekend.

Beachenders can expect warm to hot weather through tomorrow at least, with temperatures in the high 80's and mid 90's. There will be moderate southwesterly winds increasing somewhat tomorrow, with a chance of very widely scattered showers.

Sunday is a little far ahead to predict accurately, but the forecast would seem to be probable showers and still warm.

Of Mountain, Hill and Plain

North Carolina Collection Tells Living Story Of Tar Heel State

By Ken Sanford

From Manteo to Murphy—from 1585, when Sir Walter Raleigh sent a colony to Roanoke Island, to the present—is the scope of material included in the North Carolina Collection of the University Library. It is the story of North Carolina.

The North Carolina Collection had its beginning about 1845 with a meeting of the Historical Society of the University of North Carolina. The Society had as its main objectives the collection of copies of books and pamphlets published in the state,

In 1903 John Sprunt Hill of Durham made an original endowment to the Collection which he has increased over the years. Mr. Hill served as chairman of the building committee for the construction of the library's new wing. At the time of its dedication he made a substantial increase to his endowment by giving the income from the rental of a block of Chapel Hill stores to the North Carolina Collection.

The most interesting and widely used books on the state are kept in the reading room of the Collection. These include books of North Carolina history and genealogy. Rare books on the state, some of them unique copies that are found nowhere else, are kept behind bronze grillwork.

The reading room also holds a collection on Thomas Wolfe placed there by his family. This collection is made up of letters and albums of photographs of Wolfe and members of the family along with first editions and foreign editions of his books.

The North Carolina Collection contains sociological as well as historical material. Unlike many collections which contain only material from the past, it is also a collection of contemporary material. Among the contemporary material are documents published by the state and manuscripts and printed records of the University.

The Collection has an extensive clipping file. It probably contains more clippings on Dr. Frank Graham than on any other person. Miss Mary Thornton, who is in charge of the North Carolina Collection, pointed out that when Dr. Graham was campaigning for the Senate, both his opponents and his supporters used the file as a source of information to be used in the campaign.

The Collection's newspaper file is a valuable source of North Carolina history. A file of the Hillsboro Recorder includes copies dating from 1820 until about 1874. There are also copies of many other North Carolina newspapers in the file. Miss Thornton suggested that these files are an unlimited source of plot material and background information for writers of North Carolina fiction.

Perhaps the most interesting parts of the North Carolina Collection are its period rooms. One is furnished in the style of the Sir Walter Raleigh period and is a collection of material by and about him; the other is an early North Carolina colonial room. These rooms will be described in detail in later articles.

Student Nurses To Hold 'Vanity Fair' Party

"Vanity Fair" will be the theme of a party to be held Friday, May 15, from 8 until 12, by the student nurses and members of Whitehead dormitory for the purpose of raising funds to send a representative of the nursing class to the national convention.

All students, stag or couples, are cordially invited to attend the festivities, which will include Bingo, bridge, a cake walk, dart throwing, and dancing on the open air patio. There will also be a lemonade stand, completing the carnival-like atmosphere.

CAMPUS SEEN

Barefoot philosophy prof sitting in Y Court eating lunch with nary a thought about giggling onlookers.

The ratio taking a beating as three gals and a guf play bridge on McIver lawn.

Bunny Hop

"Learning the Buny Hop" will be the feature of an informal dance at the Durham YWCA tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

College students from several nearby schools will be there in addition to any UNC students who wish to attend. The YWCA is located at 515 W. Chapel Hill Street.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Asst. Sports Ed. — Vardy Buckalew
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Sehindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Big 5 For The Big 7

It looks as if sanity is going to prevail after all.

With the formation of a new conference by seven members of the unwieldy, antiquated Southern Conference, we hope athletes will regain their proper niche in collegiate life. We believe a handy guide to athletic sanity was given recently by President Gray when he spoke to the Trustee Executive Committee about the new league.

The technics of President Gray's five suggestions will have to be worked out by the new conference, but the president's advice will make an excellent point of reference.

Among President Gray's proposals we particularly were elated with the fifth one. In essence, it provides that sports be de-emphasized. And there's nothing tricky nor intricate about the machinery to do it. Simply, the new conference will decide by majority rule if it wants to allow bowl participation; if so, the conference also can say what it thinks should be done with the profits.

Presently the Southern Conference uses some of its funds to help pay travel expenses for teams in the minor sports, assuring these teams a crack at the rest of their brethren in and out of the conferece. The Daily Tar Heel hopes this will be continued in our new conference.

Another worthy object of bowl profits would be professorial retirement funds. Every school has a retirement fund, but the benefits are niggardly.

De - commercialization of athletes is a cause to which President Gray has dedicated himself. We can think of none better and are pleased that his long-pregnant ward seems about to be delivered.

Hail Columbia

The time has come for the University to play follow the leader.

Columbia University, acting on the spur of a student referendum which approved by two to one, will withdraw university recognition from any organization required by national regulations to discriminate in its membership on a racial or religious basis. Target date for this action is 1960, in order to give sufficient time for revision of the naional constitutions of groups which would be affected by the ban.

Although the National InterFraternity Conference adopted a resolution opposing such a move, there is a growing feeling throughout the country that fraternal discrimination should cease. Last year the national fraternity confab took the position that "any attempt to restrict or regulate" the right of a college fraternity to choose its own members was an inadvisable interference with the right of free association.

A clause in the national constitution of a fraternity that prescribes racial or religious barriers is in itself "restricting and regulating" the right of chapters to choose their own members. No one quarrels with the right of free association, but it ought to operate both ways.

Some of the national constitutions affected by an order such as Columbia's were written a long time ago and do not actually represent the wish and feeling of a majority of the chapters now. Official action by the University of North Carolina can supply some pressure to get needed revision that might otherwise be allowed to lag behind through mere inertia.

Carolina already has two social fraternities, Pi Lambda Phi and St. Anthony, which have no such discriminatory clauses. Others, Phi Delta Theta perhaps, will work for removal of the bias restrictions at their national conventions.

The Daily Tar Heel does not believe a social organization should be required to admit any individual at any given time. After all, fraternity membership is not a civil right. But, no such organization should be obliged to exclude a person on racial or religious grounds. To do so is to nuture the bias our colleges are trying to outgrow.

All That Glitters . . .

John Taylor

Hans Christian Andersen, which begins a three day run at the Varsity Sunday can best be summed up in a quotation from a recent Theatre Arts, "All that's Goldwyn does not glitter". For despite all the much touted publicity on the tremendous expense and intense research for this fable" on the famous Danish story-teller, the result is an archly superficial extravaganza in the Hollywood tradition that leaves one with the disappointing afterthought that it could and should have been so much better.

Moss Hart's plot, such as it is, is the trumped-up and illogical tale of Anderson's trip to Copenhagen and his subsequent one-sided love for a ballerina. After the final disillusionment of this affair, he returns to his native village, content with being merely a teller of tales.

Around this flimsy story Samuel Goldwyn has provided many sumptuous, but artificial sets, and a general atmosphere of much money but very little taste in the use of it. There is a great deal of dancing in the film and it is done with great gusto by a well-trained corps de ballet, but the choreography by the usually brilliant Roland Petit of the Ballets de Paris is inferior and strangely lacking in imagination. Fortunately this supposedly fanciful mishmosh is presented in beautifully mellow technicolor hues, but this is a minute virtue in the face of all the excessive faults of the film.

Some of Frank Loesser's tunes, most of which are musical versions of the famous Andersen fairy tales, are beguiling and witty, but none is above the standard that one might expect from a two-bit musical comedy. The best are "The King's New Clothes", "Thumbelina", and "Wonderful Copenhagen".

This film contains some very strange casting, some of which has paid off, some of which was obviously a great mistake. The usually frantic Danny Kaye turns in a remarkably restrained and sincere performance. This corner shudders to think how much worse the movie would have been without him. The best scenes — and they are very good indeed— are those in which he is spinning his stories for a group of wonderfully animated children.

Farley Granger plays, of all things, a ballet master with the startled expression of an actor who has wandered off the set of an action film and been shanghaied. Jeanmaire, another recruit from the Ballets de Paris, is an expert ballerina but without the sex appeal she exuded to an incendiary degree in Carmen.

There is quantity in Hans Christian Andersen, but very little quality. The tiny tots will probably enjoy it, and their parents will find it relaxing if nothing else. But those people who go to the film expecting the enjoyment that the combination of talent here assembled should produce will be greatly disappointed.

'Care To Look Over Our Line, Friend?'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court decided to review a case the other day which had nothing to do with the Rosenberg-Greenglass atomic spy death sentence, but did have a great deal to do with Irving Kaufman, the judge who sentenced them to death. It also had a great deal to do with one of the greatest perennial problems of the nation's capital —keeping track of lobbyists.

The story is more colorful than that of the atomic spies — and not so sordid.

It goes back to a period just before Pearl Harbor when a genial gentleman wearing a broad-brimmed hat with only a few dollars in his pocket came up from Texas, leaving hind a none too savory reputation. After only six years in Washington, this columnist found him on a first-name basis with various Senators. A heavy speculator on the Chicago commodity market, the owner of 7,000 acres of cotton land around Granger, Texas, 1,-800 acres and 700 cattle near San Antonio, plus a 531-acre farm near Poolesville, Md.

The gentleman in question is ebullient, back-slapping, fast - talking Ralph Moore, whose meteoric rise as a capital lobbyist illustrates how a man with a happy smile, a ball-bearing tongue and plenty of gall can roll up a fortune overnight. His career also illustrates how a smart operator could manipulate the commodity market when millions in Europe were starving.

Moore is delightfully frank about his career. Visited in his converted office building at 1707 N Street, the gentleman from Texas sat against a backdrop of mounted longhorns, handsome paintings and ornate gray-green draperies.

"I never have to bribe anybody," he bragged. "It's a bad practice. I just show them how to make a little mony. If you give a man $500 or $1,000 he feels like he owes you something and that you are trying to bribe him. But if you just show him how to make money, he doesn't feel like he owes you anything. That's what I do with my contacts. That's what I would do with you if I trusted you."

Asked whether he handled the grain speculations of any Senators, Moore said that he did not, but that several of them had speculated and usually operated through Bache & Co. in Washington, or Harriss & Vose in New York.

"Making money is easy," continued Moore, "if you know what the market is going to do. I'll make you some money right away and it won't cost you a dime, if you'll go easy on me. But I'm afraid of you. I'm afraid you might put it in the paper. If I could only trust you. I could make you quite a few thousand dollars in a hurry."

There came a time when the genial gentleman from Texas did not feel quite so expansive toward this columnist, in fact there came a time when Ralph sent word he was going "to shoot that so-and-so Pearson" if he kept on digging into his commodity - market speculation on behalf of Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma.

This was about the time Judge Kaufman entered the picture. Irving Kaufman was not a judge then. He was a rather green, hard - working, conscientious young attorney who had come down from New York on the somewhat thankless job of enforcing the new lobbying registration act.

That act had just been put on the books as a result of influence peddlers who flocked to Washington during the lush days of the new deal, preying both on unsuspecting businessmen and unsuspecting senators.

Finally Congress decided that while there was no way to abolish lobbying, it was only fair to make all lobbyists register, so the public would know who they were. This was in accord with the foreign Agents Registration Act, which requires attorneys and representatives for foreign embassies to register so the public may identify them.

Kaufman grabbed hold of the Ralph Moore case with gusto, when it was placed before him, and made it the first test of the new lobbying act.

Also partly as a result, young Irving Kaufman was appointed to the U.S. district court in New York where fate later handed him the difficult atom spy case in which for the first time in American history a death sentence was given for treason.

The Opossum

A. Z. F. Wood Jr.

The opossum is a member of the phylum chordata and the family mammalia. Not only that, it is a marsupial. It is peculiar to South America and the United States 1 and is the only marsupial found outside Australia.

The opossum looks rather ratty. It has a white angelic face, gray fur, and a long, naked, grabby tail. The tail is very useful for the opossum likes to climb around in trees and hang by its tail from a limb. 2

The opossum is partial to night-life, 3 during which time it hunts, eats, and makes more little opossums. An opossum will eat almost anything in God's green earth but it is especially fond of good ripe corn and big fat chickens. For this reason farmers combine business with pleasure and get a big bang out of blowing an opossum's head off. 4 The opossum used to fool hunters by playing opossum but the hunters soon wised up and started hunting with dogs The dogs aren't fooled.

Marsupially speaking the opossum is king.5 It is the most promiscuously, prolifically procreative of them all. It has more litters per year than any other mammal and more per litter than most. There are between 10 and 20 every small opossums per litter. When the opossums are born they aren't much to look at.6 They are no longer than a half inch and what there is of them is very ugly and slimy. Momma opossum hasn't got much of a job, for she hasn't got any placenta to worry about and the little ones automatically crawl into her abdominal pouch somehow where each will attach himself to one of momma's mammary glands like a bull-terrior to your leg. Then when the little opossums get cocky enough or when momma runs dry, they come out and wander around a bit.

Opossums never have more than fifteen mammary glands8 and sometimes a litter will number more than fifteen. In this case somebody's going to get left out. It's usually the weakest or the slowest and there's nothing else for them to do but die.9 I do not know how the mother opossum gets the dead ones out of her pouch. I feel fairly certain, however, that she does.

The opossum was so named by the Indians who used to run this country three or four centuries back.

1—The South American opossums have pretty well kept their place, however, and there is no stipulation for them in the McCarran Act.

2—When doing so, the opossum gives the impression of meditation. Don't let him fool you. He's sleeping.

3—Their eyes look like it. They are red-rimmed.

4—Some of the poorer farmers used to eat the opossum, but he doesn't taste very good, and, unlike the racoon, the coat isn't any good; so what else can you do but just blow their heads off?

5—More accurately: the opossum is queen.

6—Come to think of it, neither are people. The opossums improve with growth.

7—But if something scares them they jump right back in again.

8—Then, they never have less than fifteen either.

9—There's your red-blooded American competition. The opossum need have no fear of McCarthy.

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . ." Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE was suddenly walking at my side near the Planetarium. He had been away from me a few days.

"Hello," he said. A hiccup defeated his attempt at casualness. He tried again. "How are you?"

Better than The Horse, obviously. My eyes were not bloodshot, my knees didn't buckle, I didn't look hunted.

"Jealous," he murmured. "I forsook this lithosphere, rocketed through the atmosphere, zoomed through the troposphere, blazed through the stratosphere, and cropped azure grasses on the slopes of Mount Helicon with my old buddy, Pegasus. Romping with Pegasus, Steed of the Muse!"

What I'd heard and how he looked, it seemed more likely he had been romping with the mead of the stews than the Steed of the Muse. However, it was nice to have him back.

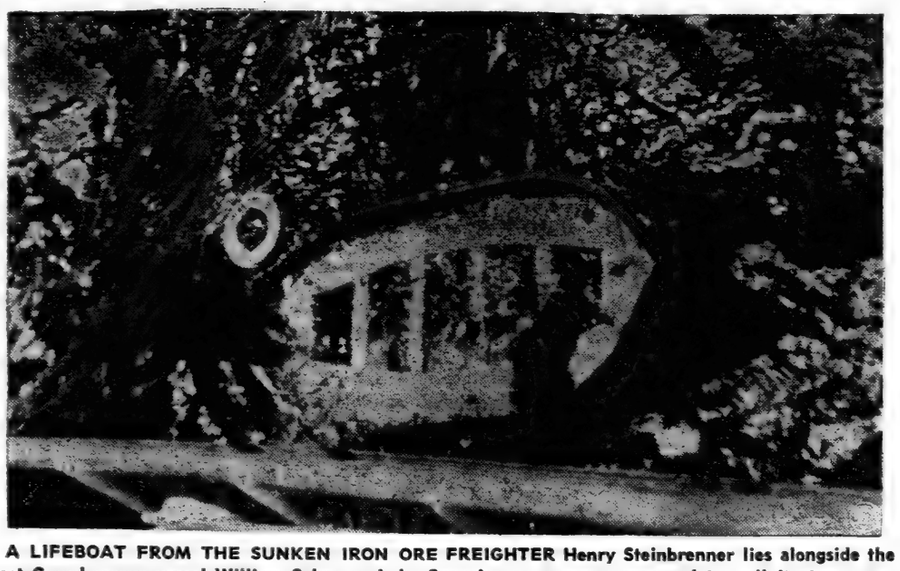
"Got to get to work," The Horse said, suddenly kicking up great divots of Moreheadian lawn. He paused, peered intently at the divots, and gouted up some more. "No chernozem," he said. "Simply not a bit of chernozem. Loud, sing cuckoo!"

I thought some explanation was in order?

"What crass ignorance," The Horse chittered, his velvety lips exposing king-size piano keys of teeth. "You do not know that 'chernozem' is the scientific word for 'black earth?' It is a Russian word, and the approved text-book term."

I wondered what Joe McCarthy would think?

"What makes you believe he thinks?" The Horse snorted. He kicked up some more divots ere ceasing. "Alas and welladay! Nothing but Reddish-Brown Podzolic! The Mayor of Carrboro is not going to like this."



Nor did I like it. Why not speak English?

"And have everybody know what I am talking about?" The Horse horse-laughed. "How naive of you, Roger! Don't you know that this radical suggestion of yours would turn four-year college courses into three years, or less? Look how many teachers, would have to go to work, then? I mean," he corrected himself hastily, "how many would be put out of work? And if all students knew what you were talking about, and thus got A's and B's, where would The Curve be? Flat. Flat on its . . . Curve."

Still, I didn't think graduates could make much use of those terms unless they were speaking regularly with foreigners.

"Well, Uncle John says we have two-hundred fifty-eight foreigners on the faculty alone," The

(See Horse, page 6)

A LIFEBOAT FROM THE SUNKEN IRON ORE FREIGHTER Henry Steinbrenner lies alongside the Coast Guard rescue vessel William Sykes on Lake Superior as rescuers prepared to pull its two occupants aboard. Bernard Oberski was saved, but Frank Tomszek, hanging over the stern of the boat, was dead. At least 13 of the Steinbrenner's 31-man crew drowned after the ship struck rocks in the lake and sank.—NEA Telephoto.

Chancellor House Tells New YMCA Officers To Continue Marching Under Jesus' Banner

Officers and Commission Chairmen for the 1953-1954 year were installed at the YMCA's annual Installation Banquet held Tuesday night in the Blue Room of Lenoir Hall, marking it's 93rd year at this University.

Principal speaker at the banquet was Chancellor Robert B. House, who hit a serious note by encouraging the new officers and members of the YMCA to continue their forward march, through association together, under the name of Jesus Christ on this campus.

"I hope you won't rest until you have gotten as many members of the University as possible under the banner, and then as an organization follow the spirit of Christ," Chancellor House said, adding that he would like to see the YMCA expound personal energy in getting as many new members as possible.

"There is something immensely encouraging in young men's association together," Chancellor House continued, "I would like to see YMCA members on the football fields, and football players in the YMCA."

New officers installed were: Ned Harbin, president; Robert Hyatt, vice-president; Susan Fink, secretary, and Stuart Jones, treasurer.

Commission chairmen are: Harold White, Baxter McIntyre, Alice Chapman and Clinton Lindley, with W. J. Graham and A. C. Shearer the new advisory board members.

Other speakers at the banquet were: Dean Cecil Johnson, toastmaster; Gilbert Marsh and YMCA General Secretary Claude C. Shotts.

Dr. Leavitt Will Lecture In Four Latin Countries

Dr. Sturgis E. Leavitt, Kenan professor of Spanish and director of the University's Institute for Latin American Studies is being sent this summer by the U. S. State Department on a lecture tour of four South American countries.

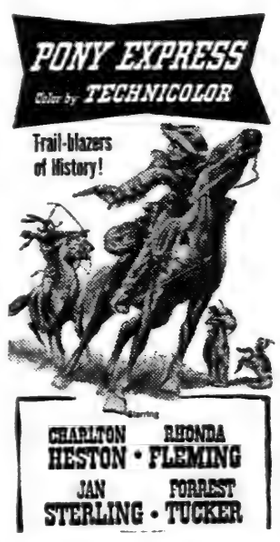
Dr. Leavitt, accompanied by Mrs. Leavitt, will leave Chapel Hill, June 1, spend two days in Washington where he will be briefed on his itinerary, and then fly to Miami and from there to Colombia. He will visit Ecuador, Peru and Chile in addition to Colombia.

On their return trip, the Leavitts will stop off in Mexico to attend the sixth Congress of the Instituted Internacional de Literatura Iberoamericana, to be held there August 31-September 3. Dr. Leavitt was one of the founders of this organization and attended the first Congress held in Mexico in 1938 as United States delegate. He was for 15 years associate editor of its official organ, the "Revista Iberoamericano."

While in South America Dr. Leavitt will lecture on the following topics: "The Foreign Student in an American University," "Drama in North American Universities," "The Dramatic Art of Lope de Vega," "Early Cultural Contacts Between the United States and Latin America," and "Latin American Literature in the United States." While in Peru he will give a seminar on Spanish American Bibliography at the University of San Marcos.

All his lectures will be delivered in Spanish.

50 Midshipmen Take Field Trip To Charleston



A group of about 50 Naval ROTC midshipmen have returned from a field trip to the Charleston, S. C., Naval Base and a weekend cruise on the Destroyer Escort Earl K. Olsen.

The midshipmen were accompanied by Lt. L. R. White, Jr., assistant professor of naval science.

Before going on the cruise the students toured the ship, visited historic points in Charleston, and some toured a submarine tied up near the Olsen.

On board the Olsen the midshipmen were assigned to special sea details, battle stations and the various watches. They participated in drills, fired the 20 and 40 millimeter guns, observed the Sonar demonstration for the detection and destruction of enemy submarines, and conducted man overboard drills.

According to the ship's officers the performance of the midshipmen was very good and in the eyes of the midshipmen the weekend was highly successful.

TODAY AND SATURDAY
Carolina

PEPSI-COLA
Bottling Company
OF DURHAM
305 South St. Durham

CLARK GABLE
and his Captive bride
GENE TIERNEY
IN
"NEVER LET ME GO"
FROM M-G-M

CAROLINA THEATRE
LATE SHOW SATURDAY
SUNDAY — MONDAY

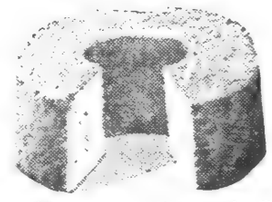
If You Collect
THOMAS WOLFE
You'll want to see the new book "The Enigma of Thomas Wolfe." Of course you will find it at—
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

A&P
Come See At A&P
Look At These Big A&P
VALUES!

For Summertime Refreshment — A & P
GRAPE JUICE - - 24-Oz. Bot. 27c
Elberta Freestone
A&P PEACHES - - 29-Oz. Can 33c
Ann Page Rich-Creamy
MAYONNAISE - - Quart Jar 49c

ECONOMICAL WHITE HOUSE Evaporated MILK 3 14½-Oz. Cans 39c

Ann Page Strawberry PRESERVES - - - 12-Oz. Glass 29¢
Ann Page Salad MUSTARD - - - - - 6-Oz. Jar 9c
Ann Page Prepared SPAGHETTI - - 2 15¾-Oz. Cans 25c
Cheese Food Spread CHED-O-BIT - - - - 2-Lb. Loaf 93c
Easy To Six Puffin BISCUITS - - - - 2 Pkgs. 25c



Tenderleaf Tea Bags 48-Ct. Pkg. 53c
Blue Label Karo Syrup Pint Bot. 23c
Underwood Deviled Ham 2½-Oz. Can 19c
Peter Pan Peanut Butter 12-Oz. Glass 35c
Peter Pan Salted Peanuts 7½-Oz. Glass 29¢

"SUPER-RIGHT" MEATS

Freshly Ground Beef - - - - - Lb. 39c
"Super-right" Bone in Plate Stew - - - - - - Lb. 19c
Heavy Western Beef—Chuck Blade Pot Roast - - - - - - - Lb. 45c
Cold Cuts- SPICED LUNCHEON MEAT Lb. 49c
"Super-right" Fresh Pork Loin End Pork Roast - - - - - - Lb. 53c
"Super-right" Dressed & Drawn Fryers - - - - - - - Lb. 49c

Beef Stew Walker's Austex - - - 15-Oz. Can 33c
Chili & Beans Walker's Austex - - 15-Oz. Can 35c
Angel Soft White Facial Tissues - - - 400 Sheet Pkg. 23c
Angel Soft Rainbow Facial Tissues - - - 400 Sheet Pkg. 25c
Swan Soap - - - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c
Swan Soap - - - - 2 Lge. Bars 23c
Lux Toilet Soap - - - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c
Lux Toilet Soap - - - - - 2 Bath Bars 23c
Wrisley Soap Plastic Bag - - 8 Asst. Cakes 49c
Ivory Soap Personal Size - - 4 Bars 21c
Tide - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c Giant Pkg. 69c
Dreft - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c Giant Pkg. 69c
Breeze - - - - Lge. Pkg. 30c Giant Pkg. 59c
Dial Soap - - - - - 2 Comp. Bars 25c
Dial Soap - - - - - 2 Bath Bars 35c

Jane Parker Large Angel Food

Now Only 49c
Regularly 59c
Cloud-white, heavenly light cake, made from famous "13-Egg Recipe." And a real family-size buy at this low price!

A&P Fresh Prune Plums - - - - - 30-Oz. Can 27c
Short Grain Comet Rice - - - - - 12-Oz. Pkg. 17c
A&P Small Whole Beets - - - - 2 16-Oz. Cans 27c
Ocean Spray Cranberry Sauce Delicious With Chicken - - - 16-Oz. Can 20c
Nabisco—Donald Duck Cheese Crackers - - - - 6-Oz. Pkg. 19c
Shortening Crisco - - - - 1-Lb. Tin 33¢ 3-Lb. Tin 91¢

Fruits And Vegetables

Well Filled Ears FRESH CORN - - - - 4 ears 25c
Sweet Juicy WATERMELON - - - - Lb. 5c
Heavy With Juice LEMONS - - - - - - - - Lb. 15c
Crisp Golden CARROTS - - - - - - - 1-lb. Cello Bag 12c
Juicy Florida ORANGES - - - - - - - - 8-lb. Bag 45c

Dulaney FROZEN Chopped Spinach FOODS 12-Oz. Pkg. 19¢
Garden Pict Fresh Frozen Concentrate Orange Juice - - - 2 6-Oz. Cans 29c

AMERICA'S FOREMOST FOOD RETAILER . . . SINCE 1859
A&P Super Markets
THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY
These Prices Effective Saturday, May 16th

DURING HIS WORLD TOUR ex-presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson visited Rangoon's famous Shwedagon pagoda where he is shown lifting a wishing stone. According to local tradition, those who make a wish while lifting the stone will see their wish come true. Looking on is U Tun Khin of the Burmese Foreign Office stationed in Rangoon, Burma.—NEA Telephoto.

Library Displays New Gifts From 'Friends Of Library'

A number of special gifts to the University Library were revealed last night at a dinner meeting of the Friends of the Library.

Among those announced were:

A group of eight choice rarities, including first editions of "Tom Sawyer," "Comic History of England," and "Life of Sir John Falstaff," as well as scarce titles by Dickens and Cruikshank, presented by Mrs. B. F. Bernard, Winston-Salem, mother of President Gray.

Selections from the James Boyd Library, 191 items, including Caesar's "Commentaries" (Venice 1517) and Locke's "Essay Concerning Human Understanding" (London 1694) and important serial files, presented by Mrs. Boyd, Southern Pines.

The author's original manuscript and typescript of "Marching On" by James Boyd, presented by Mrs. Boyd for addition to the Collection of Original Manuscripts by North Carolina writers.

Selections from the library of the Rev. William D. Moss, 186 items, presented by Miss Mary E. Broome of Chapel Hill.

Collection of 209 original photographic prints of early North Carolina houses made by Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Cannon of Concord, who made the project possible.

Complete files of approximately 25 medical journals comprising 200 bound volumes and 3367 unbound issues, presented by Dr. J. C. Pass Fearrington, Winston-Salef.

Two notable groups of 361 additional Shaviana materials, including many rarities by and about Shaw, presented by Dr. Archibald Henderson of Chapel Hill for addition to the Archibald Henderson collection of Materials relating to George Bernard Shaw.

Additions to the Jacocks Collection of Maps and Prints relating to the South and two score of books by O. Henry and Thomas Wolfe, largely first editions, presented by Dr. William Jacocks, Chapel Hill.

The Jente Library of Proverbs, numbering approximately 2,000 items, acquired from the estate of Richard Jente of Chapel Hill through special funds made possible by Friends of the Library.

The Gregory L. Paine Collection of American Literature, numbering more than 800 titles, presented by Mrs. Paine of Chapel Hill.

Selections from the Library of Mrs. S. Westray Battle, totaling 2,400 items rich in literature, art and travel, presented by her daughter, Mrs. Robert S. Pickens of Leesburg, Va.

An expanding collection of scarce World War II military history materials, presented by Colonel Harold Harold E. Potter, Aldie, Va.

Collection of books on sailing ships, accompanied by six exceptionally fine ship models, and selected graphic art material from The Studio of William Meade Prince, presented by Mrs. Prince of Chapel Hill.

Approximately 4,000 volumes of Masonic proceedings and books on Masonry, including a file of the rare "Collectanea," as well as correspondence and manuscript records of 10 North Carolina Lodges dating from 1765, presented by J. Ray Shute of Monroe.

A fine copy of the "Nuremberg Chronicle" (1493), a complete file of "The Tatler" (1709-11), first editions of Chesterfield's "Letters" (1774) and the "Memoirs of Samuel Pepys (1825)—together with 60 scarce and rare additions to the three Whitaker Collections relating to Samuel Johnson, Charles Dickens and George Cruikshank, presented by William A. Whitaker of New York City.

New Sky Show Is Announced By Planetarium

Thousands of visitors, especially school children, have attended the current Morehead Planetarium presentation, "Reasons for the Seasons."

The popularity of this program is attributed to the simplicity with which the confusing physical principle of yearly Sun-Earth relationship is explained so that even the children are able to grasp and fix in mind the factors responsible for our seasonal cycle. Final showings of this program will be given through Monday, May 25.

On Tuesday, May 26, at 8:30 p.m., the next program, "Scouting the Skies," will commence. Presentations, thereafter, will be given every vening at 8:30, matinees on Saturdays at 3:00 and on Sundays at 3:00 and 4:00 p.m. Group reservations are invited.

The program will include the prominent astronomical objects of the month visible to the naked eye from this part of the world. The forms of prominent constellations will be superimposed on their respective star groups in the Planetarium sky and the fascinating legends associated with these mythological figures will be recounted. A general survey of the sky is made and interesting facts about the Sun, planets and Moon will be demonstrated.

Other Planetarium presentations will continue to be given during the entire summer, at the times indicatd above.

Awards Given To Students Of Pharmacy

A number of awards and medals were presented to students in the School of Pharmacy at the annual Awards Night program in Howell Hall here Tuesday night. Dean E. A. Brecht presided over the ceremonies.

The following were presented:

The Lehn and Fink Gold Medal for the highest scholastic average during the four years of study, Patsy Ruth Upchurch.

The Buxton Williams Hunter Medal for scholarship and campus citizenship, Waller Stephen Perrow.

The Merck Awards for outstanding scholarship, Charles Donald Blanton Jr. and Junious Franklin Ferguson.

The Bristol Award for meritorious scholarship, Kenneth L. Wiggins.

The School of Pharmacy Student Body Award for highest qualities of character, deportment, scholarship, participation in extra-curricular activities, and promise of future distinction in the profession, Waller Stephen Perrow.

The Kappa Epsilon Award to the woman student who has demonstrated qualities of leadership, character, service, and scholarship, Martha Ann Smith.

The Pharmacy Senate Award for greatest loyalty and service to the School of Pharmacy, Edward Marvin Smith.

North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association Award for the best student program on the year, sponsored by the Student Branch of the NCPA, the Phi Delta Chi professional fraternity.

...banish "BOOK FATIGUE"

KEEP ALERT SAFELY!

Your doctor will tell you ...a NoDoz Awakener is harmless as an average cup of hot, black coffee.

Take a NoDoz Awakener when you cram for that exam...or when mid-afternoon brings on those "3-o'clock cobwebs."

You'll find NoDoz gives you a lift without a letdown...helps you snap back to normal and keep alert SAFELY!

When fatigue is a handicap, take a NoDoz Awakener. Used by millions of busy Americans since 1933.

• ON THE HIGHWAY • ON THE JOB • AFTER HOURS

NODOZ AWAKENERS

ASK FOR THE LARGE ECONOMY SIZE!

Paper-Mate Pen makes note taking push-button EASY

With a Paper-Mate Pen, you're ready to write at the click of a button. No cap to close. Refill cartridges in blue, red, green and black ink. Change ink colors in writing reports, making charts and graphs, doing accounting work. Get the versatile Paper-Mate today.

- Bankers approve
- Ink can't smear or transfer
- Can't leak
- Guaranteed for 20 years

70,000 word refills ... 49¢

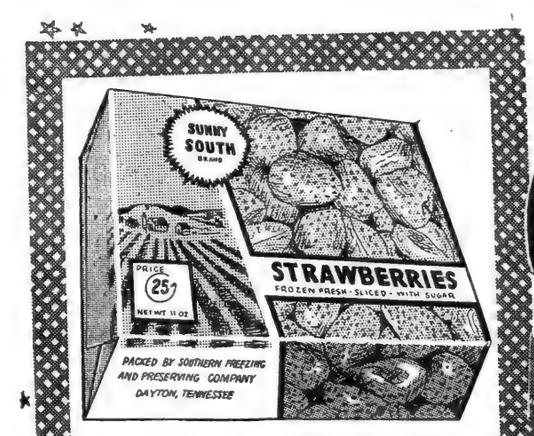
$1.69

Fair-Traded

On Sale at your college or university store

For Truly Good Ice Cream And Lots Of It—

Visit our beautiful Dairy Bar, the finest in the south. Rapidly gaining popularity not only at Carolina but with Duke and State students as well. Try one of our specialties—large servings—each one made with personal pride.



OVER 20 DIFFERENT ICE CREAM FLAVORS TO CHOOSE FROM

FOR A TASTY SNACK TRY ONE OF OUR FRESHLY MADE SANDWICHES

Dairyland Farms Inc.

The Home of Fine Ice Cream

Glen Lennox Shopping Center

Sunny South Fresh-Frozen
STRAWBERRIES 11-OZ. PKG. 25c

Serve Strawberries with . . .

OUR PRIDE DESSERT CUPS PKG. OF 6 20c

RICH'S WHIP TOPPING 7-OZ. CAN 45c

Our Pride Delicious
ORANGE CHIFFON CAKE REGULAR 59c VALUE! 18-OZ. SIZE 49c

COLONIAL STORES MARK OF QUALITY FOODS

high quality... wide variety... low prices.

Treat Your Sweet Tooth!

BAMA BRAND PURE STRAWBERRY PRESERVES 12-OZ. JAR 25c

Redgate Tomato CATSUP 2 14-OZ. BOTS. 29c

Mother's Salad DRESSING PINT JAR 25c

Carolina Beauty Cucumber PICKLE SLICES 15-OZ. JAR 19c

Pillsbury's Best FLOUR PLAIN OR S. R. 10-LB BAG $1.03

Speas Apple Cider VINEGAR ½-GAL. BOTTLE 45c

Scott Toilet TISSUE 2 ROLLS 23c

Well-Filled Golden Ears
FRESH CORN LARGE, SWEET AND TENDER 4 EARS 25c

BANANAS GOLDEN RIPE 2 LBS. 25c
CROWDER PEAS 2 LBS. 25c
BELL PEPPER MEDIUM SIZE LB. 15c
WINESAP APPLES 2 LBS. 29c

OUR PRIDE 18 OZ. SIZE FRESH BAKED ORANGE-CHIFFON CAKE REG. 59¢ VALUE 49¢

Serve Cake with Southern Dairies
AUTOCRAT ICE CREAM YOUR CHOICE OF SEVERAL TASTY FLAVORS! ½-GAL CARTON 69c

Now On Sale At Both Colonial Stores In Chapel Hill!

4-H CLUB SHOW BEEF

From recent 4-H Club Fat Cattle Show held in Durham . . .

ON SALE AT REGULAR LOW COLONIAL BEEF PRICES, AS LONG AS IT LASTS!

U. S. Choice Milk-Fed Veal Values!

VEAL CHOPS

RIB CHOPS LB. 75c | LOIN CHOPS LB. 85c | SHOULDER CHOPS LB. 49c

VEAL JIFFY STEAKS LB. 85c
VEAL PATTIES FRESHLY PREPARED LB 63c
VEAL SHOULDER ROAST LB 49c
VEAL ROAST SIRLOIN OR RUMP LB 75c

SERVE HOT OR COLD – SPICED LUNCH MEAT LB. 55c
CHEF'S PRIDE READY-TO-SERVE B-B-Q SPARE RIBS LB 95c
CHEF'S PRIDE PREPARED COLE SLAW FRESH! LB. 25c
CELLO-WRAPPED FLOUNDER FILLETS LB. 59c
HEADLESS AND DRAWN WHITING FISH 2 LBS. 25c

Made Fresh—Sold Fresh! GROUND BEEF LB. 39c

Thick White FAT BACK LB. 15c

COLONIAL STORES

• Corner Franklin & Graham Sts. TWO STORES • Glen Lennox

Baseballers Defeat Terps, 13-2, In First Game

Carolina Pounds 4 Maryland Pitchers; Meets Duke Today

DEVEREAUX MEADOW, RALEIGH, May 14—(Special) — The Carolina baseball team defeated Maryland, 13-2, today in a game in which the Terps used four pitchers and three catchers.

In the first inning, the game looked as though it was going to be a pitcher's duel between Chal Port and Maryland's Grafton, when both sides were put down in order. But there was a complete change when Carolina came to bat in their half of the second.

Catcher Ed Hooks started things off with a double. He came home on Connie Gravitte's two-bagger. Bruce Holt, who had been absent from the Carolina lineup for some time, knocked a 340-foot home run over the left-field wall, and from that moment on there was no stopping the Tar Heels.

Every member of the team came to bat in the second inning, and when it finally ended, Carolina was on the long end of a 7-0 score.

In spite of the one-sided score, Maryland did manage to pick up eight hits. Carolina had 11 safeties but scored most of its runs on Terrapin errors. The three Maryland catchers had a total of five passed balls. Catcher Muth removed himself from the game when he made two of them in a row.

Ed Hooks was the batting star for Carolina, picking up three hits in as many attempts, two of which were doubles. First baseman Bob Henning got two for four.

The Tar Heels will face Duke in a semi-final game this afternoon.

Maryland	ab	r	h	po	h	e
Dilloian, 2b	3	0	0	2	2	0
Miller, ss	4	1	2	0	1	0
Hanulak, cf	4	0	1	1	0	0
Zatz, rf	4	0	0	1	0	0
Baden, lf	2	0	1	0	0	0
Guiseppe, c	0	0	0	2	0	0
Weiss, p	1	0	1	0	1	0
Dilworth, p	1	0	0	0	1	0
Oberg, 3b	3	0	1	0	3	0
Berliner, 1b	3	0	0	7	0	1
Gratton, p	0	0	0	0	0	1
Duffey, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Nuth, c	2	1	2	2	0	0
Doane, c	1	0	0	3	0	0
Total	28	2	8	18	8	2

UNC	ab	r	h	po	ft	e
Lloyd 2b	3	2	1	1	3	0
Dale, ss	4	3	1	0	4	0
Keller, rf	3	2	1	2	0	0
Hooks, c	3	2	3	3	0	0
Gravitte, cf	3	1	1	1	0	1
Holt, 3b	3	1	1	0	0	0
Long, lf	3	1	0	6	0	0
Henning, 1b	4	1	2	8	0	0
Port, p	3	0	1	0	1	0
Total	29	13	11	21	8	1

Maryland	070	330	x—13
UNC	000	010	1— 2

Golf Tourney Starts Today; UNC Favored

By Biff Roberts

Carolina will defend its Southern Conference golf title at Winston-Salem's Old Town Country Club today and tomorrow. It will mark the climax of Conference golf for three Tar Heel seniors.

For the past three springs, Bob Black, Bill Williamson, and Jim Ferree have been fixtures on the Carolina team. In that period the Tar Heels have won 37 dual matches—and lost but three.

Unfortunately those three defeats were spread out as thin as was possible, one coming in each of the three seasons so that in not one of the campaigns could they claim an undefeated year.

In 1951 Carolina had a 15-1 record. Last year it was 14-1, with a loss in the final match of the year spoiling the record. This year, against slightly tougher competition, the team won eight and lost one.

The dual meet record is noteworthy in itself, but the Tar Heels added more to that last year at Old Town when they walked off with both the individual and the team championships.

After being tied with Wake Forest following the first day's play, the Tar Heels loosened up on the final eighteen to notch a 585 total and top the field by eight strokes.

High Point's Tommy Langley, then a sophomore, won the individual title with two even par rounds of 71 and a 36-hole total of 142. He joined the service, however, and will not be back to defend his crown or help his mates in the team race.

But the three seniors should be able to keep things pretty well in hand. Black, the captain of the team, who is from Philadelphia, has played as the number-one man all year and could easily pick up the individual honors.

Five Tar Heels Make Quarterfinal In Conference Tennis Tournament

DAVIDSON, May 14, (Special)—Five Carolina players advanced into tomorrow's quarterfinal round of the Southern Conference tennis tournament as play in the annual affair got under way here today.

Led by Del Sylvia, defending champion and captain of the team, the UNC contingent placed five out of the eight players in the quarterfinal round tomorrow. The other three are all from Duke and include Norm Shellenger, Buzzy Hettleman, and Kess Deimling.

In the doubles competition three of the Carolina teams entered in the tournament also advanced to the quarterfinals with one team playing tomorrow.

Those advancing were Green and Sylvia, Browne and Payne, and Bradford and Thompson. Browne and Payne are the defending champions.

The Tar Heel team suffered one casualty as Sam Handel had to forfeit his match to teammate Pete Green when he developed charlie horses in both legs. He will continue to play in the doubles tomorrow with Ronnie Kerdasha.

Sylvia drew a bye in the first round and won his second round match against John Copf of Davidson easily. He advanced to the quarterfinals by beating Bob Payne 6-2, 3-6, 6-2 in the third round.

Perhaps the most significant victory for a Tar Heel for the day was Don Thompson's win over Lacy Keesler of Davidson in a third round match. Keesler plays number one man for the Wildcats and is a very fine player.

Tom Bradford, who also drew a first round bye, advanced into the circle of eight by beating Ralph Paris of Duke and Corky Johnson of Davidson. Herb Browne made his advance with wins over Dave Schimmel of Duke and H. C. Koester of the Citadel.

The summaries:

First Round

Singles—Handel defeated Memory (WF), 6-2, 6-1; Green (UNC) defeated Johnson (WV), 6-1, 6-0; Payne defeated Greene (Davidson) 6-3, 6-4; Schellenger (Duke) defeated Kerdasha, 6-3, 6-3.

Doubles—Bradford and Thompson defeated Dockrage and Weathers (WF), 6-0, 6-2.

Second Round

Singles — Thompson defeated Leach (WV), 6-0, 6-2; Bradford defeated Paris (Duke), 7-5, 6-4; Handel defeated Greene (Duke), 6-4, 4-6, 7-5; Green (UNC) defeated Allred (WF), 6-1, 6-1; Sylvia defeated Copf (Davidson), 6-4, 6-2; Payne defeated Plowgen (Citadel), 6-1, 6-1; Browne defeated Schimmel (Duke), 6-3, 8-6, 7-5.

Doubles—Green and Sylvia defeated Johnson and Bivens (Davidson), 6-1, 6-1; Browne and Payne defeated Leach and Johnson (WV), 6-0, 6-1; Bradford and Thompson defeated Copf and Lynn (Duke); Kerdasha and Handel vs. Sneed and Green (Davidson), ppd. until tomorrow.

Third Round

Singles — Thompson defeated Keesler (Davidson), 6-1, 5-7, 6-2; Bradford defeated Johnson (Davidson), 6-4, 6-0; Green (UNC) defeated Handel by default; Sylvia defeated Payne, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2; Browne defeated Koester (Citadel), 6-4, 7-5.

Stickmen Journey To Charlottesville

For its last match of the season, Carolina's lacrosse team will travel to Charlottesville where they will encounter the University of Virginia's national champions tomorrow.

The Tar Heels, owners of a 3-6 record, will be the underdogs against the Cavalier powerhouse. However, all three of the locals' wins occurred on their road trip to New England, so it seems as though they play much better when they are away from Chapel Hill.

Coach Al Moore will probably call on Earl Johnson, Steve Trimble, and Tommy Stokes to hold down the defense positions. Bucky Barkley, Dick Baker, and Jim Cole will start at the mdfield positions.

Dick Harrall, Dick Pilsbury, and either Ted Dawes or Joe Walker will start at the midfield positions. mons to the attack spots. Lew Floyd, in his last game for Carolina, will be on hand as goalie.

In The Majors

American League

Chicago 7, New York 5.
Boston 5, Cleveland 4 (11 inn.)
Detroit at Philadelphia, night.
St. Louis at Washington, night.

National League

Pittsburgh at Milwaukee, night.
New York at Cincinnati, night.
Philadelphia at Chicago, ppd. rain.
Brooklyn at St. Louis, night.

Conference Outdoor Games At Duke Today And Saturday

The Twenty-ninth Annual Southern Conference Outdoor Games will be held this Friday and Saturday at Duke University. Duke, winner of the indoor games, is favored to take first place. The other top contenders stack up as Maryland, VPI, and Carolina in that order, followed by VMI and South Carolina.

The meet will see four of last year's champions returning. They are Buz Sawyer of N. C. State, Joel Shankle of Duke, Tom Hunt of West Virginia, and Bon Lankford of VPI. All four of these are again rated to cop wins in their various events.

In last year's games Shankle won both the high and low hurdles, while Hunt registered firsts in the shot put and discus, Sawyer took a win in the mile run and Lankford won the high jump.

Six of the visiting out of state teams will stay here in Chapel Hill, including four Virginia teams. The teams staying here will be Maryland, Davidson, VPI, Richmond, VMI, and William and Mary.

The top Carolina contenders in the Games will be Bill Cornell, Sonny Beall, and Bobby Bell in the hurdles; Bobby Barden in the two mile run, Charlie Yarborough in the broad jump, Bill Cornell in thej avelin, Roger Morris and Tom Higgins in the Shot put and Steve Marcinko in the 880-yard run.

Morris, a sophomore from Newark, has tossed the shot 51 feet this season and may crack the loop record if he can get off another heave like that. The Tar Heels will miss Jeff Newton and Harry Brown in the sprints.

Jayvees Beat Gardner Webb In Ninth For Sixth Straight

By John Hussey

The Carolina jayvee baseball team brought its season to a close here yesterday with a 3-2 victory over Gardner Webb.

Charlie Aycock, freshman from Washington, was the individual star for the Tar Heels. Entering the game in the sixth inning, he allowed the opponents only one hit and shut them out in the three frames he pitched. He received credit for the win, his fifth of the season against no defeats.

Aycock was a standout on offense. He singled in the winning run in the ninth inning with one out. Jack Woods took individual batting honors for the Tar Heels by getting two hits in three trips to the plate.

It was the sixth consecutive win for the jayvees. Their overall record for the season was eight wins and three losses.

Yesterday's game marked the first defeat of the season for Gardner Webb. They hold the title of state champions in the junior college division.

Coach Henry House and his assistant Pete Gillespie were very pleased with the outcome of the game and that of the entire season.

Line score:

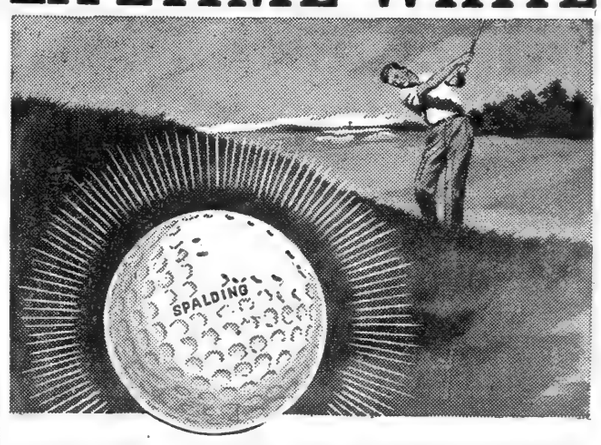
Gar. Webb	000 002 000—2	5 0
Carolina	100 001 001—3	7 1

Batteries: Gardner Webb—Myers and Morrisett; Carolina — Maultsby, Aycock (6), and Dodson.

Know your car! Don't drive unless you know your safety is guaranteed. Drive in today and let us give your car a check-up.

We use PURE OIL Products for Servicing.

POE MOTOR CO.



112 W. Franklin

DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

Spalding Air-Flight Golf Balls

THE CAROLINA SPORT SHOP

New! SPALDING GOLF BALLS ARE LIFETIME WHITE

RESISTS SCUFFING, BRUISING, STAINS

SPALDING does it again! Adds a spectacular new permanent whiteness to the game's greatest golf balls.

New LIFETIME WHITE, exclusive with Spalding, is the brightest, whitest white . . . the toughest, highest gloss white of any ball you ever played.

Proven by "torture tests," Spalding LIFETIME WHITE resists scuffing, bruises, stains . . . won't yellow or chip . . . keeps its sparkling sheen for life.

SPALDING Sets the Pace in Golf

There's a Spalding golf ball for every game and pocketbook. See your golf professional or dealer.

JUST RECEIVED

NEW SHIPMENT OF SWIM SHORTS AND PLAY SHORTS in solid colors and plaids

THE Sport SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

With all its higher quality . . .

Chevrolet is lowest priced!

Above: The "Two-Ten" 4-Door Sedan. At right: The "One-Fifty" 2-Door Sedan, two of 16 beautiful models in 3 great new series.

It brings you more new features, more fine-car advantages, more real quality for your money . . . and it's America's lowest-priced full-size car!

Farther ahead than ever in quality . . . yet the lowest-priced full-size car . . . with sharply greater economy of operation!

Imagine — the most beautiful car in its field, with new Fashion-First Bodies by Fisher that set the standard of styling, inside and out. The most powerful car in its field, with your choice of a new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" high-compression engine* or greatly improved 108-h.p. "Thrift-King" high-compression engine.

Yet, with all these new and exclusive advantages, there is no increase in Chevrolet prices, and it remains the lowest-priced line in its field!

Yes, indeed, only Chevrolet gives such excellence with such economy. Come in and prove it at your earliest convenience!

Combination of Powerglide automatic transmission and 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine optional on Bel Air and "Two-Ten" models at extra cost.*

CHEVROLET

Ask us about our Safe-T-Way SERVICE A public service program to promote safer driving.

MORE PEOPLE BUY CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER CAR!

SEE YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER FOR ALL YOUR AUTOMOTIVE NEEDS!

Conveniently listed under "Automobiles" in your local classified telephone directory

SPONSORS FOR THE ANNUAL PHARMACY Weekend to be held May 15, 16 are Miss Anne Sherrill, Taylorsville, with Rowe Campbell, Taylorsville, president of the student body; Miss Grey Bullock, Fayetteville, with Graham White, Burlington, vice-president of the student body; Miss Martha Ann Smith, Warsaw, secretary-treasurer of the student body, with Al Cole, Raeford; Miss Beth Lloyd, Chapel Hill, with Steve Perrow, Bedford, Va., Men's Honor Council representative; Miss Marian Simons, Black Mountain, secretary-treasurer of the freshman class, with Robert Simpson, Selma; Miss Daphne Adams, Fuquay Springs, with Ralph Ashworth, Fuquay Springs, president of the sophomore class; Miss Peggy Pierpont, Chapel Hill, with Jimmy Robinson, Littleton, president of the junior class; Mrs. Bill Murray, Chapel Hill, with husband, president of the senior class; Miss Jane McFarland, Durham, with Frank Ferguson, Durham, president of Pho Chi; Mrs. Tom Kostic, Chapel Hill, with husband, pharmacy senate; Miss Don Kepley, Denton, president of the pharmacy girls' association, with escort; Miss Patsy Ruth Upchurch, Morrisville, president of Kappa Epsilon, with Woodrow Tucker, Raleigh; Miss Barbara Moore, Hickory, with Jimmy Miller, president of Phi Delta Chi; and Miss Lois McKinnon, Greensboro, with Clegg Herring, Albemarle, regent of Kappa Psi.

Sigma Chi's Will Crown Sweatheart Saturday At A Dance To Be Held In Burlington

The 1953-54 Sweetheart of Sigma Chi will be crowned tomorrow night at a formal dance to be held at the Alamance Country Club in Burlington after a round of parties honoring the candidates.

Included in the partying festivities were a party at Hogan's Lake, a dinner and informal dance at the house, and a birthday party for one of the brothers.

The court was selected by the brothers at a chapter meeting, and from the ten chosen girls, one will be crowned queen. Only the president of the fraternity knows the identity of the girl, and it will not be revealed until tomorrow night, when all members of the court will be presented.

The girls in the court and their sponsors are Mase Chapin, Richmond, Va., Carr Dorm; Joan Blocker, St. Petersburg, Fla., Pi Beta Phi; Peggy Murchison, Raleigh, Spencer Hall; Virginia Whiteman, Atlanta, Ga., McIver Dorm; Sandy Donaldson, Wilson, Spencer Hall; Elinor Wrenn, Greensboro, Delta Delta Delta; Sandra Wright, Winston-Salem, Chi Omega; Julia Kester, Winston-Salem, Chi Omega; Len Daniel, Coral Gables, Fla., Pi Beta Phi; and Jerry Snider, Fayetteville, Independent Coeds.

The candidates for the title were Mary Bryan and Jean Bryant, Alpha Gamma Delta; Betsy Woods and Lou Ann Watkins, Kappa Delta; Joan Blocker, Sara Rose, and Len Daniel, Pi Beta Phi; Jean Williamson and Elinor Wrenn, Delta Delta Delta; Judy Landeauer, Sandra Wright, and Julia Kester, Chi Omega; Patsy Barry and Flo Carter, Stray Greek; Jerry Snider and May Wooten, Independent Coeds; Julia Shields, Marilyn Habel, and Billie Daniels, Alpha Delta Pi; Betty Parsons and Mase Chapin, Carr Dorm; Virginia Whiteman and Anita Anderson, McIver Dorm; Sandy Donaldson and Peggy Murchison, Spencer Hall; Judy King and Helen Foust, Smith Dorm; Peg Hall and Betty Birch, Alderman Dorm.

Dream Girl Is Freshman Coed

Miss Bunny Webb, freshman coed from Chapel Hill, was named Dream Girl" of Theta Chi" for 1953 at a formal dance Saturday night, May 2, at the Carolina Inn.

Miss Webb, escorted by John W. Lee, Rocky Mount, was presented a loving cup and a bouquet of red carnations, the fraternity flower, in recognition of the honor.

Other awards presented at the dance by President James W. Warren, North Charleston, S. C., were the Active Chapter Service Award, given to the man who has contributed the most to the welfare of the chapter, Jack Scism, Pelham; the Alpha Eta Award, given to the man most active in promoting the welfare of the fraternity in campus activities, Robert Skillen, Durham; and the Most Outstanding Pledge Award, given to Eugene Roberts, Pikeville.

Roberts also won the Pledge Scholastic Award; Alan Perry, Charlotte, and Donald Phillips, Marion, were named the outstanding seniors in the group.

—Horse—

(Continued from Page 2)

Horse waved a hoof. "You might just by foul luck meet with them, and how nice to be able to say, 'Happq Podzolic' if they salute you with a courteous 'Good Chernozem.'"

Perhaps. But I wondered what would happen if you said to a Tar Heel farmer something to the effect you wished you had some chernozem?

He'd probably look carefully over either shoulder and snick a jug out of the haystack," The Horse admitted. "But worse things could happen; and it would not be corrupting Education and lowering it to the understanding of the masses. Goodness, imagine saying 'rich black soil' when you mean rich black soil? I may be a horse, but you talk like an ass."

Sometimes The Horse does see in the right focus.

WUNC Schedule

Today:
7 p.m.—The Children's Circle
7:30—The Musician Comments
7:45—Report from Europe
8—Coronation Music
9:40—Music Appreciation

Jobs with a future

Every year hundreds of college girls use Gibbs secretarial training to get the right job and assure quick promotion.

Special Course for College Women. Five-school personal placement service. Write College Dean for "GIBBS GIRLS AT WORK."

KATHARINE GIBBS

BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough Street NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Avenue
CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Superior Street PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell Street
MONTCLAIR, N. J., 33 Plymouth Street

A THING OF SONG AND DANCE, LOVE AND JOY!

SAMUEL GOLDWYN Presents
Hans Christian Andersen
—and the dancer
Color by TECHNICOLOR
starring
Danny Kaye
and introducing
FARLEY GRANGER · JEANMAIRE
Directed by CHARLES VIDOR • Screenplay by MOSS HART

HIT SONGS
"No Two People"
"Anywhere I Wander"
"Thumbelina"
"Wonderful Copenhagen"
"Ugly Duckling"
"King's New Clothes"
"The Inchworm"
"I'm Hans Christian Andersen"

LATE SHOW SATURDAY NIGHT

Sunday – Monday – Tuesday

ADMISSION
ADULTS Matinee .60 Night .74
Children All Day .30

Varsity

Shows Start 1:00-3:00-5:00 7:00-9:00

WE RECOMMEND THIS AS ONE OF THE BEST WESTERNS WE HAVE SHOWN IN SOME TIME.
—THE MANAGEMENT

SPEED ON THE DRAW WAS THE ONLY LAW!

COLUMBIA PICTURES presents
John HODIAK · John DEREK · David BRIAN · Maria Elena MARQUES
AMBUSH AT TOMAHAWK GAP
Color by TECHNICOLOR
Story and Screen Play by DAVID LANG • Produced by WALLACE MacDONALD • Directed by FRED F. SEARS

T-O-D-A-Y & Saturday
Varsity

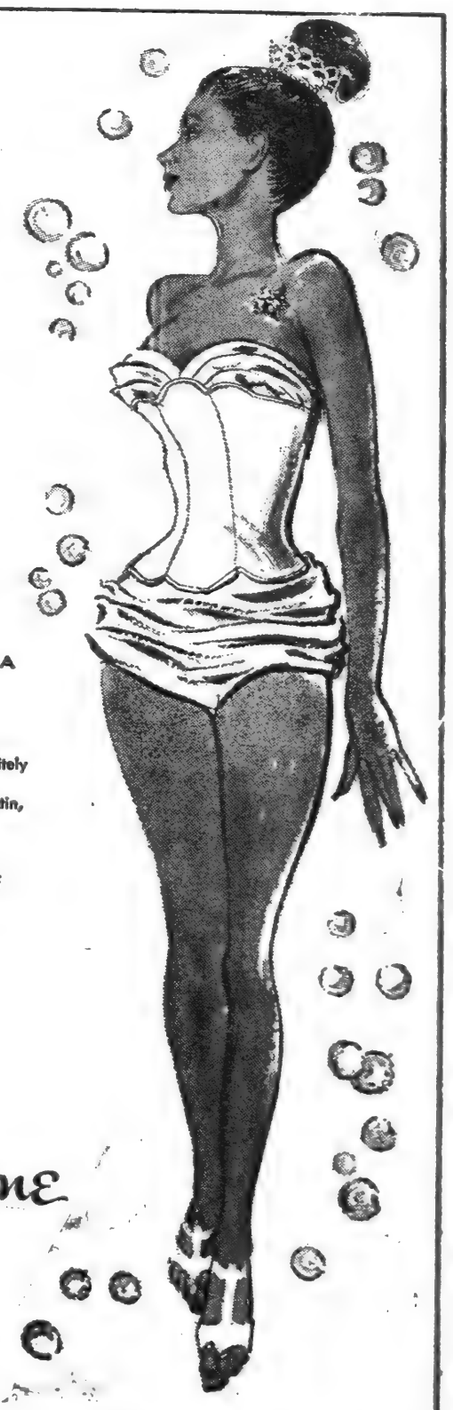
Top Sellers—

Gilbert Highet
People, Places and Books $3.50

Nina Farewell
The Unfair Sex $2.95

Revised Standard Bible
Regular edition $ 6.00
Leather edition 10.00

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings



FORDHAM UNIVERSITY
School Of Law
NEW YORK
Three-Year Day Course
Four-Year Evening Course
CO-EDUCATIONAL
Member of Assn. of American Law Schools
Matriculants must be College graduates and present full transcript of College Record
Classes Begin Sept. 28, 1953
For further information address
Registrar Fordham University
SCHOOL OF LAW
302 Broadway, New York 7, N.Y.

JUST RECEIVED
Another Shipment Of
IMPORTED LINEN SLACKS
$10.95

LINEN WEAVE SLACKS
$7.95
We have all shades including Charcoal Grey.

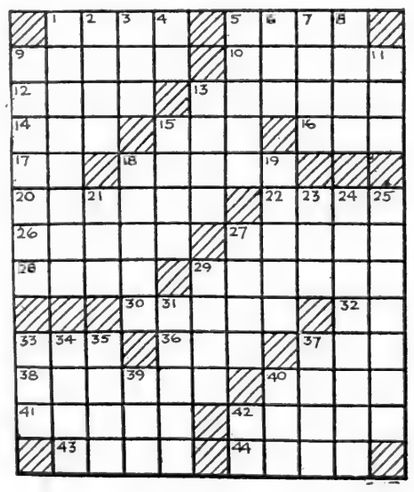
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

AS ADVERTISED IN HOLIDAY

Rose Marie Reid

JEWELS OF THE SEA

A brilliantly different swimsuit, the Edwardian Hourglass is exquisitely fashioned in opalescent antique satin, elasticized for infinite flattery. Little wonder it's the most-talked-of suit of the year! 25.00



SECOND FLOOR

Ellis Stone
DURHAM, N. C.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Storm
5. Crust on a wound
9. Enticed
10. Goods
12. Send forth, as rays
13. Writer
14. Offer
15. Garden tool
16. Firmament
17. Indefinite article
18. Kicks, as a dropped ball
20. That is to say
22. Three Wise Men
26. Japanese city
27. Cloth from flax yarns
28. Salamander
29. Timber tree of Brazil
30. Bite greedily (dial.)
32. Erbium (sym.)
33. Astern
36. Enemy
37. Skill
38. Substance in bone center
40. White ant (var.)
41. Near (poet.)
42. River (So. Am.)
43. Sown (Her.)
44. Projecting end of a church

DOWN
1. To chew the cud
2. Dry
3. Obtain
4. Man's nickname
5. A confection
6. Metal container
7. Weapons
8. Bill
9. City (Pa.)
11. Upward curving of ship's planking
13. Small horse
15. Tuft of brilliant yellow feathers from o-o
18. County (Scot.)
19. Captain John ——
21. Bird's stomach
23. Keel-billed cuckoo
24. Cause to be
25. Sluggishness
27. Delicate fabric
29. Winter precipitation
31. Before (dial.)
33. Wine receptacle
34. Winnows
35. Woody perennial
37. Mother of Irish gods (poss.)
39. Male sheep
40. Lofty mountain
42. Father

Yesterday's Answer

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

FOR SALE 6B

WRINGER-TYPE WASHING MAchine. Excellent Condition, $75.00. Phone 2-926. (1-c8011-2)

FOR SALE — SMALL FAMILY home in the woods three blocks from Post Office. Call 7406 for information. 1-8009-5

HELP WANTED: MALE 8B

SALES POSITION OPEN: IN Clothing Store. To undergraduate students for this Summer and next Fall. Apply Mgr. THE SPORT SHOP, N. Columbia St. (chg. 1x1)

WEATHER
Cloudy and warm with chance of rain in late afternoon, 90 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

FINIS
A complete wrap-up on all Spring sports tournaments in today's issue.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 152 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. SUNDAY, MAY 17, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

Golf, Tennis Teams Are Champions Baseballers Take 2nd, Runners 3rd

TEX BENEKE

Tex Beneke Serenade In Memorial Tomorrow

Tex Beneke comes to town tomorrow night for the benefit of seniors and juniors, beginning at 8 o'clock at Memorial Hall.

The program winds up an energetic Senior Week which started last Monday with seniors showing off their bare feet.

During intermission, Mr. Alumnus and Miss Alumna will be announced by Dean Ernest L. Mackie, chairman of a special faculty committee. This is the first year that such an award is being made.

Beneke was here last year for a German's concert and dance. Successor to Glenn Miller, Tex sings and plays the saxophone as well as leads his orchestra.

When the news came that Major Glenn Miller was missing while in the Air Force in 1944, Beneke secured permission from Mrs. Miller, to take over the Miller band as he had planned it for postwar entertainment.

Beneke joined Miller in 1939 at the suggestion of Gene Krupa. His best recordings with Miller were "Kalamazoo" and "Chattanooga Choo Choo."

At age 13, Beneke organized his first band.

The worn out sax that Beneke plays is ten years old. Originally costing $200, Tex has spent over $750 in repairs and refinishing on the instrument.

The selection of Mr. and Mrs. Alumnus and Miss Alumna was done by a committee composed of: Dean Guy B. Phillips, Dean Thomas H. Carroll, Professor Walter Spearman, Dean Clifford P. Lyons, Dean E. A. Brecht, Dean Fred Weaver, Dean Katherine K. Carmichael and Dean Mackie.

Carolina's NROTC Riflemen Win Cup In National Match

WASHINGTON—The University of North Carolina's Naval ROTC rifle team took top honors to win the coveted Secretary of the Navy cup in nation-wide competition, Secretary of the Navy Robert B. Anderson said yesterday.

Out of a possible team score of 1500, the Tar Heel shooters marked up 1411 points. The UNC Middies ledabo ut 70 other teams from Naval ROTC units all over the country.

Individual cup winner was a middie from the University of Illinois who scored 295 out of a possible 300. An average score is 230. Last year, Illinois took first place, while the Tar Heels were 68th.

The five man UNC team and their scores were Joseph F. Rosenberg, Troy, Ala. and Raymond L. White, Columbus, Ga. ,tied for top score with 287; John P. Jackson, Eau Gallie, Fla., 285; Donald L. Harley, Haddonfeld, N. J., 282, and Elon A. Abernethy Blowing Rock, 275.

T/Sgt. John A. Quinn, USMC, is coach of the quintet.

Captain J. S. Keating, commanding officer of the Chapel Hill Naval unit, commented, "This is the greatest honor we've received in years."

For the Carolina riflemen, the Secretary of the Navy trophy was the latest in a series of honors. The team won the ROTC Southern Conference title, the Sixth Naval District regional area contest, and took sixth place in the William R. Hearst trophy contest. This year, the team has won 33 postal matches out of 34.

Competing schools sent in their scores through the mail recently. Officials from the National Rifle Association graded the scores.

The silver Secretary of the Navy cup weighs about 65 pounds and is rotated to the new winner each year.

Fraternities Fined

The Inter-Fraternity Council Court this week fined a fraternity $25 for conviction of a charge of missing two consecutive IFC meetings.

The group pleaded guilty to the charge and was convicted.

Under IFC rules, fraternities can't legally miss two IFC meetings in a row.

Mural Debate Is Tomorrow

The annual intramural debate tournament begins tomorrow and is scheduled to run through Wednesday.

The debate topic this year is "Resolved: That the President of the United States should be elected by the direct vote of the people."

Awards to winners of the tournament are a large team trophy which rotates each year and two permanent trophies to individual winners.

Research material on the topic of debate is available at the Library. Tournament officials said the Library staff will cooperate with anyone interested in gathering the material.

Student Wives

Student wives will meet Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the YWCA. Mrs. Virginia Atkins will talk on "How to Choose, Use and Care For Your Sterling. Mrs. Joy Taylor will speak on "Ideas For Interesting Center Pieces."

Klan Fighter On Campus

Pulitzer Winning Carter Got Little Police Help

By John Jamison

He is a young bespectacled fellow of slight build who somehow doesn't look the part of a Pulitzer Prize winner. And his face shows a little embarrassment over the whole thing.

Horace G. Carter, editor of the Tabor City Tribune, recent winner of the highest honor in journalism, is on the cmapus this weekend for the North Carolina Editorial Writers' Conference. He got here a little early and spent Friday morning chatting with friends and students in Bynum Hall.

Carter is very candid now in his criticism of public officials and others who failed to back him up in his long crusade against the Ku Klux Klan, just as candid as he was in the crusade itself.

"I never felt that the local police officers did anything at all to halt the Klan's activities until the FBI made the first arrests," the 32-year-old UNC graduate said.

He recalled one instance in which he proposed to Tabor City officials that an arbitrary drivers' license check be pulled in the town during one of the Klan's automobile parades. The officials, he said, refused to ask the State Highway Patrol to take this action, "or we would have at least known the names of a few Klansmen a whole year before we did."

Carter said his "crusade" began back in 1951 when the South Carolina branch of the Klan moved across the state line into Tabor City one night to stage its first scare parade there. ("About 30-odd cars drove through town and headed for 'the bottom,' a Negro section. The lead car carried an illuminated cross on the hood, and all the cars had their dome lights on, revealing four or five hooded figures inside. In 'the bottom' four or five shots were fired from the cars.")

"In the next issue of The Tribune I ran an editorial in 10-point bold face type right down the middle of page one. I told my readers how I felt about the Ku Kluxers, that no group had the right to attempt rule by fear, and that no group had the right to say that one race is superior to another."

For a good many months following, The Tribune made an editorial page out of page one, Carter said, and the Klan's activities continued at full speed. Carter received implied, but not actual, threats, telling him he was a "low-grade moron and a Communist." Little Ku Klux stickers were pasted all over his car and his office door.

"I was observed in my home on many occasions by Klansmen who would drive silently by the house with their headlights off," he said. "But I was sufficiently armed, I think, to put up a good deal of resistance." (He kept firearms in his home but never carried one on his person.)

Probably as a result of Carter's newspaper campaign, 19 Klansmen are now serving prison sentences, including Thomas L. Hamilton, the self-made "Imperial Wizard" of the KKK. Hamilton, an ex-grocer and a 32nd degree Mason, is now occupied on a South Carolina chain gang near Myrtle Beach.

Why did Hamilton revive the Klan?

Carter says he's a shrewd businessman and saw in the Klan a good thing financially. He had recruited 30,000 members in South Carolina—at $10 a head. ("All they got for the $10 was a bed sheet and a hood.")

In an afternoon-long interview with Carter before the trial. Hamilton maintained the Klan's innocence of the flogging charges, denying the KKK had taken part in any of the 30 beating incidents it had been accused of. But later he admitted guilt on two counts before the court. ("He is two-faced," Carter says.)

Right now Horace Carter is running for mayor of little Tabor City (He declared his candidacy before the Pulitzer Prizes were announced). A few days ago a man who was considering running against Carter in the election expressed doubt that he could beat a man who had just won a Pulitzer Prize.

A friend, who has little faith in the intelligence of the Tabor City electorate, advised him to spread the word that Carter had bought of pullets. "If they hear he's been tickets to a raffle and won a bunch in a gambling game they'll never vote for him."

McLeod Heads Men's Council

At a recent meeting of the Men's Council, George McLeod, president elect of the Senior Class, was chosen as chairman of the Council.

McLeod, who is from Florence, S. C. is also a member of Phi Eta Sigma and has served on the Orientation Committee. He is a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. At the same meeting, Herbert Browne of Columbia, S. C. was chosen clerk.

DAG HAMMARSKJOLD, new United Nations Secretary-General, puffs on a cigar as he holds his first press conference since succeeding Trygve Lie. Hammarskjold said that he believes "there is a very long way to go" before a Korean armistice is reached.—NEA Telephoto.

Teachers Will Take In Picnic Tomorrow PM

Final plans for the School of Education Student-Faculty Picnic tomorrow have been completed.

The menu for the picnic will be hamburgers, hot dogs, potato chips, ice cream, soft drinks, and sweet, sour and dill pickles. Planned recreation will include relay races, horseshoe pitching, darts, archery and square dancing. There will also be a supervised children's recreational program, separate from that for the adults. ,

As previously stated by letter and newspaper, the picnic will be held at camp site number one in Crabtree State Park near Raleigh, and the price of tickets is 75 cents, with children admitted free.

The picnic will start at 5 o'clock, with the serving of food set for six and recreation at seven o'clock. Seniors and juniors will be able to return to Chapel Hill in time for the Tex Beneke concert at 8 o'clock.

Free transportation will be leaving from Peabody Hall at 4 o'clock. There is shelter available at the park in case of rain.

Lazy Literates

Dr. Robert Mann, of the Mathematics Department, will talk to the Lazy Literates Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Subject of Dr. Mann's talk and the discussion following is "Christianity and Communism."

Something New Added

New 1953 Yackety-Yack Has Full Color Cover Photograph

The big, blue and beautiful 1953 Yackety-Yack rolled off the presses this week and on to the Carolina campus.

Decorated with a full color cover, the '53 version of the campus annual will be ready for campus consumption tomorrow. Students may pick up their Yacks by bringing their ID cards to the Williams-Wolfe lounge in Graham Memorial this week from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The new Yack sports several innovations. Introductory photo pages are embellished with strokes of Carolina blue. The last page of the introduction is a color shot of one of the most pleasant scenes in everyday Carolina life.

As the new Yack says, it includes the happier memories — beauty contests, dances and familiar South Building steps. Also it records a few sad memories — hours spent in required courses, news of Saturday classes and Kenan Stadium during football season.

Beauty is represented in a big way in this year's Yack. Twelve queens — or princesses, as Yack editors say—adorn the beauty section. The comely coeds include Ruta Bergmanis, Mase Chapin, Kathleen Dover, Bish Fox, Peg Hall, Ann Hartzog, Mary Elizabeth Lindeman, Beth Lloyd, Page Moore, Sara Rose, Carman Nahm, and Virginia Wilson.

The inside cover contains a black and white panorama of campus activities. Pages of candid photos give samples of the lighter side of Carolina life.

The sports section, edited by Tom McDonald, bears the outline of the football squad's formation with lines from positions to each player's picture.

Hugh Gale is editor of this year's Yackety-Yack. Russ Cowell is business manager. Other staffers include Managing Editor Bob Colbert, Senior Class Editor Helen Gustafson, Graduate and Professional Schools Editor Mary Lilla Browne, Freshman Editor Sarah Jane Capps, Photography Identification Editor Hartwell Conklin, Junior Editor Margarite Grady, Fraternity Editor Gene Hafer and Sophomore Editor Mary Mitchell.

Golfers Eleven Over Par; Sylvia Defeats Bradford

By The Sports Staff

The Tar Heels came out on top in two out of four of the conference tournaments this weekend. The golf and tennis teams completely dominated their competition, the baseball team came in second—all of which added up to a successful weekend for Carolina.

Led by Jimmy Ferree, UNC senior, the golf team had an 11 over par 579 to set a new conference record and win the Southern Conference championship by three strokes.

Ferree had 140 strokes for 36 holes to win the individual championship. His win was doubly significant because the tourney was held on Winston-Salem Old Town Country Club course where Purvis Ferree, Jimmy's father, is the pro.

Bob Black, another Tar Heel senior, yas three storkes behind Ferree and finished third in individual standings. Freshman Billy Ford and sophomore Bill Thornton had the next lowest scores for Carolina. Ford had a 147 and Thornton had a 149.

The baseball team started well by beating Maryland, 13-2 on Thursday as Chal Port picked up his ninth win of the season. However, they ran into trouble when they met Duke Friday, and George Carver handcuffed them, 7-2.

Friday night looked like batting practice for the home team when they trounced Maryland, 15-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Don Marbry. It was Marbry's fourth win of the season against no defeats.

Going into Saturday's play, the Tar Heels needed a double win over Duke to take the championship. Port started the game, and everything yas going well for Carolina when they got two runs from Duke's star pitcher, Joe Lewis, in the first inning.

Duke went hitless until their half of the fourth when all-American Bill Werber singled through center. An error, sacrifice and a single tied the game up. lead in the seventh inning on successive doubles by Wayne White and Ed Hooks. Hoyever, this lead was short-lived, for Duke had a three-run surge in the top of the eighth to sew up the game and the championship.

The track team, although placing third in the conference, made a much better showing than was expected. The team was nosed out of second place by a 3¼ point margin, Dukea gain playing the villians orel '.

Harry Brown took the only first place for the Tar Heels. His victory came in the javelin throw. Sophomore Joel Shankle, Duke's one man team, took individual honors for the meet by collecting 19 points. He took first place in the high hurdles, tied for first in the pole vault and high jump and was second in the low hurdles.

Carolina ran away with the ten-

(See SPORTS, page 3)

Concert Band Will Perform At Davie Poplar

The University Concert Band, under the direction of Earl A. Slocum, will present the second of its 1953 series of lawn concerts today at 4:30 by Davie Poplar.

In case of rain the concert will be held in Hill Music Hall.

Included in today's program are: "Men of Ohio March," Henry Fillmore; "Suite of Old American Dances," Bennett; "Selections from Porgy and Bess," Gershwin; "Psyche and Eros,' Franck; "Spite in F," Holst; and a number of light, popular arrangements. The program conncludes with the traditional' 'Hark! The Sound." The public is invited to attend.

YWCA Group Receives First Currie Award

For having rendered constant service, while upholding the Christian outlook of the YWCA, the Hospital Committee of the Y received the first Gay Currie Service Award recently at the installation program in Gerrard Hall.

The '53 Y Cabinet set up the award to be a reminder that the work of all committees is worthy of mention and for a challenge to future servers of the Y. The title of the award went to Gay Currie, executive director of the Y, who after assisting the YW for five years, leaves Carolina in June.

The Hospital Committee, under the leadership of Rosemary Scovil, helped at the Memorial Hospital throughout the year. Coeds were "ward clerks" Monday through Friday during fall quarter and everyday Winter and Spring Quarters.

These girls work by the side of the nurses recording temperatures and pulse rates, feeding the patients, reading to and writing letters from them. Other small but appreciated jobs and going to the hospital shop to get magazines, candy, drinks or helping some one into a wheelchair, putting him on the elevator and into the car.

The committee meets about two times a quarter to schedule its duties and to hear speakers in this field whose guidance and ideas are helpful. This year they heard Dr. Forigs, Butner Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center psychiatrist, and Sucille Spalding, director of nursing of the hospital.

Loyal workers for '53 are Connie Lassiter, Alice Chapman, Janie Carey, Janice Jurczak, Peggie Jean Goode, Alice Jones, Margaret Padgette, Alice Jane Hinds, Mary Grace Houser, Virginia German, Betty George Williams, Louise Taylor, Alice Clifford, Ann McCulloch, Pat Smith, nad Jean Ratliff.

Mason, Painter, Hardy Are Awarded Fellowships

Three more seniors have been awarded distinguished fellowships and scholarships for graduate study next year, according to Dean Ernest Mackie.

Wave Officer Will Interview

Lt. Helen M. Horne, WAVE procurement officer, will be at the Placement Service tomorrow afternoon to discuss opportunities for women in the Navy.

College graduates between 21 and 26 years of age are eligible. Duty will begin on September 1, and pay starts at $338 per month.

For additional information and to arrange interviews, contact the Placement Service, 204 Gardner Hall.

Spaghetti Tonight

Delta Delta Delta sorority will have a spaghetti supper at the house tonight from 6 to 8.

The price is $1 per plate, profits to benefit the Tri-Delt scholarship fund. Tickets may be purchased at the door. The address is 210 Pittsboro Street.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Asst. Sports Ed. — Vardy Buckalew
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Schindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Freedom To Search For Knowledge II

(This is the second of a three-part series of guest editorials by Dr. Robert MacIver, Columbia University sociologist.—Ed.)

Some of the enemies of (academic) freerom say: "We are perfectly willing to let the teacher do his job. His job is to impart information—we don't in the least want to interfere with that.

"What we object to is when the teacher throws his weight around and starts indoctrinating his students. That's not his business. By all means let him give the students any knowledge he has, but let him keep to the facts and keep his valuations out of it. We don't pay him to teach values, especially values contrary to our own."

This sounds plausible — perhaps even reasonable. But let us see how it works out. Suppose, for example, you are a teacher of English literature. What would confining yourself to "the facts" mean? What sort of understanding would you convey of a play of Shakespeare or, say, Walt Whitman's poems if you confined yourself to "the facts"? Would it not deaden any incipient interest the student might have, or at the least deaden his interest in you, unless you did a bit of interpretation? And if you do that, you are no longer giving "the facts".

Or suppose you are economist and you're talking about inflation. Would you reel off changing index numbers and stop there, or would you analyze inflation as a problem? If the latter, are you confining yourself to "the facts"? Are you even steering clear of "Values"?

Or you are a sociologist, and you're discussing, say, a housing shortage in some part of the country. But why call it a shortage? A shortage is not a "fact" but a conclusion you believe to be borne out by the evidence. And why deal with it at all if you're eschewing values altogether? The facts are of interest because they have meaning for us. If you exclude the meaning your teaching is dead. If you include it you cannot altogether exclude values.

He who seeks knowledge is seeking the conections between things. He is not interested in mere detached items of information. He want to find out how things are related. His mere opinions do not count and he should not foist them on his students. But he should be free to express any conclusions he reaches as a result of his study in his own field, explaining how he reaches them. His conclusions may be faulty, but there is no other road to knowledge. Nor is there any other way to education since the teacher is out to train the student's mind, not to load his memory with undigestible "facts".

This, then, is the freedom the scholar needs, the freedom that is now on the defensive. Why is it important? Why does it matter much to anyone but the scholar? Why should the people, too, be concerned if this freedom is threatened or abridged?

(To be concluded next Sunday.)

Off Campus

Never Say Die

Sloppy weather has caused the cancellation of many outdoor activities everywhere. At Brown the sport problem is being partially solved by having indoor turtle races to entertain the sport enthusiasts.

Buck Up

When pre-dirtied white bucks went on sale recently at Harvard, the novelty received a good deal of publicity. We note just a touch of jealousy in the Cornell Sun, which advertised them in the Fall. The Sun titled the Harvard idea "beastly clever." All that fuss over a little grime.

Daisy

—Norman Jarrard—

Edmund Wilson is having a good year.

Not too long ago he published a volume of critical essays, Classics and Commercials, which was followed by a similar book, The Shores of Light. An early Anchor Book reprint will be his To the Finland Station. (Most non-specialists probably remember him best for his Memoirs of Hecate County, a collection of short stories which was banned because one of the stories described the actions of making love—in an inoffensive manner it seemed to me—in realistic detail.)

The book in hand, however, is a reprint of Wilson's I Thought of Daisy (Ballantine and Farrar, Straus, $.35 & 1.50; 216 pp.), which was first published in 1929. It well deserves a revival. It is a novel about the Twenties and the people who lived those years and made them some of the most interesting in our history.

What astonishes me—as Noah Webster would say—is that Wilson was so well able to understand what was happening while he was still in the middle of everything himself. The sympathetically satiric tone of the story probably shows that the author felt that he too had gone through the same phases that he runs his characters through.

Wilson says that he thought of writing a sequel to Daisy, but, "by the time you have finished this book, if you do ,you will no doubt have had enough of Daisy." However, I think most people will like Daisy as much as I did. I enjoyed her naturalness and her wisecracks.

One place that I found amusing occurs when the narrator had just found out that the man Daisy was living with was not married to her. Daisy commented realistically," It was a lucky thing, too; if I'd married um, it would have been harder to leavum."

There are a lot of passages I would like to quote. There is Wilson's frank forward in which he tells what he was trying to do and what he failed to do. I let this suffice for quotes from the story: "I thought of Daisy under her different aspects ,as she had seemed to me at different times —and I remembered the literary productions which at one time or another she had inspired —all so different from my present vision of her, from our present reality: first, the night that I had met her at Ray Coleman's, the cool Gallic short story I had imagined, with its humanitarian irony—then, the night that we had gone to the movies, the romantic apostrophe of the sonnet —then, when I had visited Pete and Daisy in the country, the savage moralistic satire which the letter I had received from Rita and the spectacle of Grosbeake's equanimity had prevented me from writing. I had, in fact, rejected all these projects— as I had outgrown those phases of myself of which my successive conceptions of Daisy had been merely the reflections in another.

"And now I felt that I should be content if I could only make some sketches of Daisy, as I remembered her at different times and places—if I could only hit off, in prose, her attitudes, her gestures, he rexpressions, the intonations of her voice—preserve them so they should not vanish, as Degas had done for his dancers—dreamed a whole series of Daisy . . . "

'But, Winnie, There Were No Cartridges In It'

Judgment Over Daniel

John Taylor

It was indeed a pleasant relief to observe that at the close of "Judgment Over Daniel," the Playmakers' final full-length experimental production of the year, the stage was not littered with corpse as it had been at the end of the two preceding works. For although Frank Groseclose's play is a serious domestic drama, it thankfully lacked the melodramatic mass murders with which "The Pink Circus" and 'Ballad for Jeannie" had been climaxed.

The Daniel of the title is a supposed drunkard—yhether he actually is or not is left vague. Consequently, he is the source of much worry on the part of the other members of his family, which include his father and mother, his wife, his brother and his brother's wife. His mother, a religious soul, holds a family prayer meeting to decide what to do with him. In the meantime Daniel and Agatha, his wife, have a discussion in a barn on approximately the same subject and later appear at the meeting, which climaxes in the realization of the family that he is not the weak individual they had believed him to be.

The simplicity and the deft and moving characterizations of the play make it extremely effective in places and ranks it as one of the better experimental productions. However there are some aspects of it that should be altered and some that should be made clearer.

Number one on the list of grievances is the religious element, which seemed out of place and added little or nothing to the play. The simple fact that it is there at all and is frequently stressed, particularly in the long prayer meeting scene, shifts attention to a subject, which in this play should be, at most, secondary. If the mother were the principal character, the scene would then take on meaning, but as the play now stands, it is simply disturbing.

Also causing some consternation to this playgoer was the device of having the important scene between Daniel and Agatha, one of the most moving ones of the play, occur in the barn. When with very little alteration it could occur more simply and with no loss of effect in the living room set in which the rest of the play takes place.

Other complaints registered here are the vagueness of the anguish over Agatha's pregnancy, the tremendous length of the scene occurring towards the beginning of the play between Robert, the other son, and his wife Nancy, most of which could be cut to keep the showf rom slowing down, and the lack of a center of focal interest among the characters. ,

If these criticisms seem unnecessarily severe, it is only because "Judgment Over Daniel" is generally an excellent play from a talented young playwright. Groseclose has shown a good insight into character and a fine knowledgé of what is good theatre in many dramatically effective scenes and speeches. He bears watching, for what he needs now is development as a writer; then active ability is there.

John Miller's direction kept what might have been a slightly talky play moving to the point of theatrical excitement in many moments. He had a fine cast with which to work. The stars of the coming evening were Neta Whitty and Bill Trotman. In the role of Agatha Miss Whitty showed the woman's mental conflict with every vocal inflection, movement, and facial expression and gave a well-integrated and thoroughly effective performance. Trotman was equally good in his warm and human portrayal of the inwardly strong and understanding father.

Lillian Prince was quite convincing as Mother Graham, the strong-willed but mistaken matriarch of the family, and Betty Vickery as Nancy, although overly emotional in parts of her long scene with her husband, turned in anatural and winning job as Nancy.

The same cannot be said for Charles Hadley, who, as Robert, was properly stuffy, but lacked the compassion to give the character more than one dimension. In the pivotal role of Daniel Milton Beyer gave a competnent performance, but lacked the fire to project across the footlights the inner torment of the man.

"Judgment Over Daniel" is a moving evening n the theatre. Its improvement should be in its moving evening in the theatre. over the characters, rather than simply to general interest.

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . . " Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

The Horse is nobody to have reading over your shoulder; his eyes are so large they click like billard balls when he blinks them, and he doesn't merely breath on your neck, but stormily down it.

So when he disappeared I sighed my relief and went on with my perusal of the Korean War news; and then returned to read more of the reception given North Carolina's first returned POW from the Chinese Reds.

Then, the very feather of a wisp of a breeze told me The Horse was back. I tried to ignore him.

"For the love of Mike," he chittered inelegantly.

I declined the gambit.

"Loud, sing cuckoo- Alas and welladay!"

I conceded I was checkmated. So?

"I've been to Korea, and to Jacksonville, N. C."

I knew somewhere else he could go.

"We are hoist by our own mortar," he gloomed.

Petard was the word, not mortar.

"A mortar is a modern petard," The Horse explained. "Zounds, you churl, you should bring yourself up to date. I shall assist in this if you will but listen. Mark Clark's offer of a hundred-thousand dollars for a nice new shiny MIG is old hat, and we are in danger of losing the war anon. By the way, 'anon' means 'immediately,' and not 'soon.'"

If there is anything I hate more than an ignorant horse, it is an educated horse. Him and his English 3!

"Have it my way," The Horse agreed pleasantly. "But have you considered what may happen if these Homecoming Jacksonville-Pots get any bigger? It's swell this GI got home, but—well, first they make a Full General salute him and speak to him, see?"

How did he know the General was full?

"Then," The Horse went on chitteringly, "they give him a gold key to the city, hockable at maybe Five; a letter from the Governor; a parade, complete with band; money; luggage; a watch. You know what I think? I think it is a Communist-inspired plot, and Joe McCarthy should booby-trap the area with his little red mousetraps, that's what I think."

I recognized this as The Horse's normal cerebrations.

"All right," he surprised me by agreeing, "but just picture yourself hiding in a foxhole, and wondering what the boys in Danziger's Back Room were doing—as if you didn't know—and how a good juicy steak tasted, and things like that, and wishing your rotation would hurry up and kindly to rotate. And suddenly you snap your hooves—"

I didn't have any hooves, thank you.

"You will have if you don't stop interrupting," The Horse warned. "And suddenly you snap your hooves and say, 'Why didn't I think of this before?' The very next Chinese patrol you meet, you're on your way home."

The way I saw it, the returned GI should be given a Congressional Medal after he got through shaking hands with the Chamber of Commerce, having the Legion fire a volley over his head, and having to listen to all that speech-making.

I'm going to see an oculist, because The Horse agreed with me, and The Horse has imperfect vision.

"I guess you're right," he chittered. "But how else are all these Home Guards going to compensate the GI's service? Hey, I got it- Get all this stuff together for them—they certainly enjoy it quietly! Don't even say who it is from."

See what I mean about The Horse's vision?

CPU Roundtable

Bob Pace

Tonight at 8 the Carolina Political Union is discussing the problem of religious tolerance and the preservation of American freedom.

This should be a lively discussion. It seems that many Protestants (and especially the Baptists) have great fear that Catholicism is unAmerican. We must have separation of church and state they insist, and proceed to send representatives to Washington to do the very thing "those Catholics" are accused of doing:

And what do we mean by the word Catholic? Usually it is Roman Catholic; for there are other Catholics, namely Orthodox and Episcopalians. Then what do we mean by tolerance? For the Catholic christian there is a difference between tolerance and charity. Charity is a christian virtue. We love all persons regardless of race or creed because God loves them and died for their (and our) redemption.

Whereas tolerance is accepting ones ideas as being at least as good as your own. For a christian this is impossible since Jesus Christ is the way, the truth, and the lift; and anything apart from Him is false.

The question of where final loyalty lies always arouses controversy. A christian must be loyal to

(See CPU, page 3)

Express Yourself

Editor:

I was interested to read John Taylor's garbled rehash Friday of the movie review of "Hans Christian Anderson" which first appeared in the December 1st issue of Time.

By using the words "trumped-up" and "illogical" as applied to the plot, Mr. Taylor gives the wrong impression, as the movie claims to be only "a fairy tale about a great spinner of fairy tales."

Though I must agree with many of Mr. Taylor's comments on the movie, I cannot agree with his remarks on the ballet and the casting. A great deal of taste was used in the choice and design of the settings of the ballet, as well as in the costumes and staging.

The 22 minute run of "The Little Mermaid" was delightful and diverting entertainment. As for the cast, with the exception of Farley Granger, they were most acceptable and appealing, particularly the young boy who played the part of Han's apprentice.

Rosemary Neill

DEVILS, TERPS TAKE BALL, TRACK

Sylvia Triumphs; Ferree Medalist

Duke Defeats Baseballers By 5-3 Score

RALEIGH May 16—Duke University scored three runs in the eighth inning to take a 5-3 win over Carolina and win the Southern Conference baseball championship here tonight.

The Tar Heels got eight hits off winning pitcher Joe Leyis one more than the Blue Devils could get off three Carolina hurlers, but five errorsmad e the difference in the game.

Duke's win places it in the NCAA regional playoff in Charlotte June 1, 2 and 3.

Chal Port of Carolina, with two season wins over the Blue Devils, was removed in the eighth inning and credited with the loss.

Carolina took a two-run lead in the first thats stood until the fifth yhen the Blue Devils tied the score. Carolina went ahead again at the bottom of the sevent hwith a single run, but Duke's three-run eighth inning clinched the win.

,Catcher Ed Hooks and leftfielder Wayne White led the Carolina attack with two hits apiece. White and Hooks both doubled in the bottom of the seventh for the only extra blows of the game.

Lewis walked Harry Lloyd and Fred Dale, the first men to face him, and then Ken Keller reached first on a drag bunt that loaded the bases.

White drove Lloyd in with a deep fly to center field, and Gravitte scored Dale from second with a line drive single.

Duke	ab	r	h	po	a	e
Spangler, cf	3	0	2	5	1	0
Gibbons, cf	3	0	1	2	0	0
Carr, c	5	0	0	12	1	0
Werber, 1b	5	0	1	3	0	0
Lea, ss	4	1	2	2	1	0
Clapp, lf	4	1	0	1	0	0
LeSleroq, 3b	3	1	0	1	2	1
Brewer, 2b	3	1	1	1	1	0
Lewis, p	4	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	34	5	7	27	6	1

Carolina	ab	r	h	po	a	e
Lloyd, 2b	4	1	1	8	1	1
Dale, ss	2	1	0	0	2	0
Keller, rf	5	0	1	0	0	0
White, lf	5	1	2	0	0	0
Hooks, c	4	0	2	9	0	0
Gravitte, cf	4	0	1	3	0	0
Hope, 3b	3	0	1	1	3	1
Henning, 1b	4	0	0	5	1	0
Port, p	3	0	0	1	2	3
Marbry, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
a-Lore	1	0	0	0	0	0
Pazdan, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
b-Frye	0	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	35	3	8	27	9	5

a-struck out for Marbry in eighth
b-ran for Hooks in ninth

Duke	000	020	030—5
Carolina	200	000	100—3

Runs Batted in—White, Gravitte, White, Hooks. Stolen Bases—Gibbons 2, Hooks, Brewer, Lewis, Spangler. Two Base Hits—Gibbons, Lloyd. Sac—Lewis, Spangler, Clapp, Gibbon, LeClercq. Double Plays—Lloyd and Henney. LOB—Duke 11, Carolina 12.

In The Majors

American League

Washington 6, St. Louis 0.
Detroit 6, Philadelphia 3.
Chicago 5, New York 3.
Boston 1, Cleveland 0.

National League

Pittsburgh 3, Chicago 2.
Philadelphia 3, Milwaukee 0.
Brooklyn at Cincinnati, rain.
New York at St. Louis, night.

—CPU Roundtable—

(Continued from page 2)

both church and state; but if there is a conflict, then the church must come first. And what of aid to parochial schools? It seems to me that there should be no aid to the schools. But the services which the children should get, health examinations, free lunches, etc., should be given regardless of where the child attnds school.

Perhaps you disagree with these conclusions; or agreeing — have different reasons for doing so. You are invited to bring your ideas to CPU tonight in Graham Memorial.

Golf And Tennis Teams Win Second Consecutive Titles

Carolina's Bradford And Thompson Win Conference Doubles

DAVIDSON, May 16—Del Sylvia successfully defended his Southern Conference singles title here this afternoon by defeating teammate Tom Bradford in the all-Carolina finals.

In the doubles competition, it was a freshman competition from Carolina which again captured the crown. Don Thompson and Bradford, a pair of frosh lefthanders beat Keff Daimling and Ralph Paris of Duke for the title. They advanced to the finals by defeating the defending champion, Bob Payne and Herb Browne.

Except for the doubles tournament, it was exclusively a Carolina affair, as the Tar Heel talent, which carried them through an undefeated season, was too much for the rest of the conference.

But for a fluke in the morning double semi-finals, it might have been Carolina all the way around. Sylvia and Pete Green were hooked up in a tight match with Deimling and Paris, and it yas Carolina's add in the fourth set which stood 5-4 against the Tar Heels.

At this point, the umpire ruled interferance by a player from an adjoining court, and the Duke pair went on to win the set, 6-4 and the next.

Sylvia was at his best this afternoon as he closed out a colorful college career by winning his second conference title in a row. He defeated Bradford easily in straight sets, 6-0, 6-4, 6-0.

—Sports—

(Continued from page 1)

nis championship for the second straight year. That the netters had no competition in winning is shown by the fact that all four men in the semi-finals were Tar Heels.

Del Sylvia won the individual title, beating teammate Tom Bradford in three straight sets. Sylvia was also champion last year. Other semi - finalists were Herb Browne and Don Thompson.

Thompson and Bradford, two left-handed freshmen, won the doubles title. They defeated Ralph Paris and Kff Deimling of Duke. They also beat Browne and Bob Payne, who were last year's champs.

Port Is Named Athlete Of Year

Carolina's highest athletic award, the Joseph F. Patterson Medal, has been voted unanimously by a faculty-student committee to Chalmers Port of Mirrletown, N. Y., for 1953.

Port is a 21-year-old senior who has lettered three years in both baseball and football. He is co-captain of this year's baseball team, after having made the All-Southern Conference team as a pitcher in both his sophomore and junior years. During the regular season this year he won eight while losing two.

Coaches Bunn Hearn and Walter Rabb praise him as one of the best captains they have ever had, calling him "a real leader, who keeps on top of his teammates all the time."

As an athlete he has earned the reputation of being an exceptionally keen competitor. Port was a halfback on the football team, playing on both offensivé and defensive teams at times.

A shoulder separation, a broken wrist, and an appendectomy hampered his career on the gridiron; but for which he might have shown brightest in that sport.

The Patterson medal was established in 1924 by the late Dr. Joseph F. Patterson in memory of his brother, John Durant Patterson. Cecil Milton of Albemarle now a medical student here, won the honor last year.

Tar Heels Set New Tournament Record; Black Takes Third

WINSTON-SALEM, May 16—(Special)—Carolina's golf team came from behind today to win the Southern Conference Championship for the second year in a row and establish a new scoring record.

Jimmy Ferree of North Carolina won the individual title with a two under par eighteen hole total of 140. Ferree, the son of Purvis Ferree who is the pro at the Old Town course, put together a 69 and 71 to take the honors.

After trailing Duke by three strokes at the end of the first day's play, the Tar Heels picked up these and three more to win with a 579 total. This broke the 580 record which was held by the 1949 Wake Forest team and betterd their own 1952 score by six strokes.

Bob Black moved up to third place in the individual standings after being fifth on Friday. He had a 143 total, putting together a 72 and a 71. He trailed Ferree and second place Phil Weichman of Wake Forest who had a 141.

Billy Ford was Carolina's third man with a 147. It was the first SC tournament for the Charleston, S. C. freshman. Sophomore Bill Carolina with 149. Thornton had Thornton was the fourth man for a 77 yesterday but settled down to shoot a one-over 72 today. He edged out Lou Brown who put together a pair of 75's for a 150 total.

Bill Williamson, playing in his last match for Carolina, had a 74-73—147. He tied with Ford but his score wasn't counted along with the team's because he had been playing badly the week before. George Mountcastle had 152 and John Frazier had 153.

Ferree, whose game has been steadily improving all season, put on a good show for his home town folks. He was tied with Weichman at 69 yesterday but edged out the Wake Forest sharpshooter with his even par score today. He almost broke par again this afternoon. Coming up to the five-par to win. He drove the green in two eighteenth hole he needed a par shots and putted within eighteen inches of the cup.

MURALS

Tomorrow's Softball

5:00 — Field 1, Zetes vs. ZBT; Field 2, Sig Chi vs. Phi Delt Chi; Field 3, Chi Phi vs. Kap Sig; Field 4, Law School vs. Alexander.

Tomorrow's Horseshoes

7:10—Sig Nu-2 vs. Phi Gam-4 (Fraternity Championship).

Tomorrow's Tennis

4:00—Pi Kap Phi vs. Sig Chi.

Maryland Wins Southern Loop Outdoor Game

The University of Maryland successfully defended its Southern Conference track crown yesterday afternoon when it nosed out oncoming Duke and Carolina to win the 29th annual Southern Outdoor Games.

The Terrapins scored a total of 58½ points. They were followed by Duke with 41½, Carolina with 40¾ and VPI with 27¼. The other teams were VMI 14, South Carolina 10⅝, North Carolina State 9¼, West Virginia 8, Richmond 5⅛, Davidson 2, Furman 2, W & L 1½.

The individual star of the meet was Joe Shankle of Duke, who scored 19 points. Shankle registered a first in the high hurdles, tied for first in the pole vault and high jump and scored a second in the low hurdle.

Summary

Pole Vault — Shankle (D), Swartz (Maryland) Tit; 2 Jordon (UNC), Digg (W & L), Roginson (USC), Roberts (VPI), Tie. Height 13 feet.

Shot Put—Lawshe (D), 2 Morris (UNC), 3 Holland (Richmond), 4 Kistler (Duke), 5 Hunt (W. Va.). Distance 50' 6½".

Discuss — Hunt (W. Va.), 2 Couch (VPI), 3 Ditson (Maryland), 4 Byrd (VMI), 5 Lawsh (D). Distance: 136' 10½".

440 run — Pentzer (Maryland), 2 Wilson (Maryland), 3 Wilcher (USC), 4 Violett (VPI), 5 Pleasants (VPI). Time: 49.4.

Broad Jump—Shankle (Duke), 2 Strope (Maryland), 3 Yarborough (UNC), 4 Paczkewski (Richmond), 5 Amling (D). Distance: 23' 1¾".

100 Yard Dash — Matthews (Maryland), 2 Mapp (VMI), 3 Ray (UNC), 4 Jones, (Maryland), 5 Arnold (VPI). Time: 9.9.

Mile Run — Shasher (VPI), 2 Garrison (NCS), 3 Saas (Maryland), 4 Bennett (UNC), 5 Blake (VPI). Time: 4:23.

Javelin—Brown (UNC), 2 Ishburgh (Maryland), 3 Gaddy (Maryland), 4 Gilbreath (Furman), 5 Marcinkco (UNC), Distance: 190' 9 3/8".

880 Yard Run — Bach (Maryland), 2 Tate (D), 3 Angle (VMI), 4 Roberts (USC), 5 Hoyell (Maryland). Time. 1:53.8.

120 Yard High Hurdle—Shankle (D), 2 Beall (UNC), 3 Bell (UNC), 4 Cornell (UNC), 5 Fink (W: Va.). Time: 14.8:

220 Yard Low Hurdles—Mapp (VMI), 2 Shankle (D), 3 Scott (UNC), 4 Cornell (UNC), 5 Gaddy (Maryland). Time: 23.3.

220 Yard Run—Matthews (Maryland), 2 Ray (UNC), 3 Arnold (VPI), 4 Spencer (Maryland), Harllengaugh (W.Va.). Time: 21.4.

2 Mile Run—Sawyer (NCS), 2 Bardon (UNC), 3 Porter (Richmond), 4 Tibbets (Maryland), 5 Shaffer (VPI) Time: 9:40:

High Jump — Shankle (D), Mitchell (USC), Tie; 2 Lankford (VPI), Mayor (D) Tie, 5 Hall (VPI), Gaston (VMI), Jordan (UNC), Summer (USC), Bell (UNC), Dickman (NCS). Height: 6' 2½".

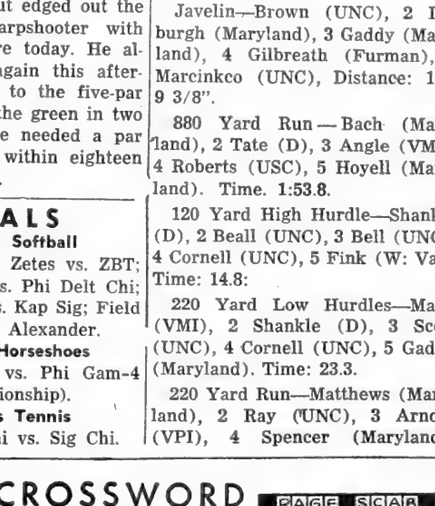
Mile Relay—Maryland, 2 USC, 3 Duke, 4 Davidson, 5 VPI. Time: 3:22.8.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1. A low plant
5. A rodent (So. Am.)
9. A killer whale
10. Greek coin (anc.)
11. Crescent-shaped
13. Mischievous persons
15. Gold (Her.)
16. Back
18. A pastry
19. Viper
21. One engaged in study
23. Unable to hear
25. Long, wide scarves
26. American Indian
28. Coin (Peru)
29. Fight
32. Beaks of birds
35. Entertaining
37. Perish
38. Stripe
39. Small body of water
41. Cerium (sym.)
42. First man (Bib.)
44. Made of wood
46. S-shaped molding
48. Let fall in drops
49. River (Belgian Congo)
50. Serpent-lizard

DOWN



1. Paris stock exchange
2. Vase with a pedestal
3. Cicatrix
4. Detests
5. Italian river
6. Biblical name
7. Forced
8. Of the Alps
11. Burden
12. Consumes
14. Places
17. Wagon wheel grooves
20. Pasture land
22. Large tree (Ceylon)
24. Oily substances
27. Ornamental clasp
29. Baby (India)
30. Punk
31. Enough (poet.)
33. Muscles
34. Observed
36. Merchandise

RAGE SCAB
LURED WARES
EMIT PENMAN
BID HOE SKY
AN PUNTS
NAMELY MAGI
OTARU LINEN
NEWT SATINE
HANCH ER
AFT FOE ART
MARROW ANAI
ANEAR PLATA
SEME APSE

5-16

Yesterday's Answer

40. Learning
43. Honey
45. Slope
47. Electrical Engineer (abbr.)

Virginia Beats Carolina, 18-3; Lew Floyd Sets New Record

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 16—(Special)—Virginia's national champions completely overpowered the Carolina lacrosse team here today by an 18-3 score.

Goalie Lew Floyd, playing his last game for Carolina, made a total of 31 saves. This gives him an unofficial total of 211 for the season. If the above total is correct, Floyd will have a new national record to his credit. He set the record for saves at 210 last year.

The Lineups

Harrall	A	Carrington
Dawes	A	Agerton
Pilsbury	A	Smith
Baker	M	Grieves
Cole	M	Compton
Barkley	M	Devries
Johnson	D	Vest
Stokes	D	Scott
Trimble	D	Guy
Floyd	G	Moore

Carolina	0	2	0	1	3
Virginia	3	8	5	2	18

UNC substitutions—Sully, Walker,, T., Spooner, Jones, Bryant, Burrell, Wolfsheimer Haynes - worth, Dameron, DuBose, Styron, Winston, Friedman.

Virginia substitutions—Shumaker, Williams, Bell, Plinctat.

Scoring—UNC: Harrall, Dawes, Barkley; Virginia: Carrington, 4, Shumaker 2, Agerton 5, Smith 2, Grieves 4, Bell.

YWCA Cabinet

The YWCA Cabinet will meet at 4 p.m. tomorrow in the YWCA.

We Are Expanding Our Business In Chapel Hill And Have Position Open With Excellent Opportunity And Future. Apply Mr. Lane At THE SPORT SHOP, North Columbia St.

PLUS
TOM and JERRY CARTOON — NEWS
NOW PLAYING
Carolina

GRADUATION GIFTS

Works Two Ways

For the graduate, nothing will better preserve the values of College than a well-chosen book For the class seeking a gift for a well-loved instructor, no choice could be so sure of a welcome as a book — —

THE BEST CHOICE IN BOOKS AWAITS YOU AT

SUGGESTIONS

BOOKS AT $1.00

Our selection includes the smaller Peter Pauper Gift editions, the Collectors Editions, and a whole table-full of other nice books.

BOOKS UNDER $2.00

Including Modern Library, we offer more than a thousand titles suitable for gifts, and priced at less than a two-spot.

PETER PAUPER EDITIONS

These masterpieces of the printer's art are priced at only $2.50.

RARE BOOKS

In our rare book section, you'll find first editions and collectors items priced from $2.00 to $75.00—and each is a truly distinguished gift.

SOMETHING IMPRESSIVE

If you really want to dig down, pal, we can help you dig. You can pick something in a set, and spend anywhere from $10.00 to $35.00. But it's something memorable when you spend that much on a book!

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

Campus Carousel

By Janie Carey

Summer is a comin' in, what with barefoot day, engagements, and weddings. From the ATO house comes the news that Tom Adler, of Leonia, N. J., and Peggy Foley, also of Leonia, are engaged. They plan to be married a year from June. Also from the ATO house, the Roger Atkinson Kingsbury III memorial award for the most lackadaisical pledge of the year goes to Bill Beebe of Lewis, Del.

The Lambda Chi's and the TEP's had a softball game Friday at Hogan's. The Phi Gam's will have a party at Hogan's this Thursday.

The TEP's traveled to Myrtle and Wrightsville this weekend, and the AK Psi's had not one, but two houseparties this weekend at Ocean Drive. The SAE's had a pledge houseparty at Wrightsville, and both Holden's Beach and Long Beach were graced by the KA's.

The Kappa Sig's sound as if they're really down and out. Seems that they traveled to the homes of alumni all over the state this weekend hunting for money. ,

They say that in spring a young man's fancy turns, and, judging from all the pinnings this week, it's true. Theta Chi Herb Pendergraft, Chapel Hill, has pinned Dorothy Gregory of Enka, and Bob Osborn, Greensboro, also a Theta Chi, has pinned Millie Anderson, of Long Beach, California.

The Order of the Golden Bear award for the best party of the week goes this weekt o the Phi Delt party held at the Kit Kat at Myrtle last weekend.

In addition to the Derby and the Sweetheart Ball, the Sigma Chi's had a farewell party for the seniors at the house Friday. The ZBT's also had a party for graduating seniors Friday afternoon.

ZBT Henry Isaacson, Greensboro, has pinned Alice Seder, Cleveland, Ohio. Phi Kap's had a patio party Friday afternoon.

Chi O's were entertained by the Chi Psi's Tuesday night at a party at Hogan's. The Chi O's were also entertained by the Alpha Gam's Monday night at a dessert party.

Pi Phi Alice Hazlett, Chapel Hill, was crowned Maid of Chi Psi last weekend. The Pi Phi's will have a faculty tea this afternoon from 4 to 6.

Chi Phi's serenaded Betty Duncum, Duke coed, pinned to Rufus Hackney, Durham, Thursday night. The St. A's had a roof party Saturday night, complete with a combo.

,Delta Sigma Pi's went to Virginia Beach for the weekend.

The Kappa Psi's, national pharmacy fraternity, held an open house Friday for all returning alums. They also had a banquet aSturday night in Durham prior to the Pharmacy dance Saturday night.

The Tri Delts had a breakfast for the graduating seniors this morning. Tonight the Tri Delts are giving a spaghetti supper. Tickets are $1 per person, and the campus is invited.

Mary Bryan, Alpha Gam from Nutley, N. J. was pinned to SPE Tom Torguson last week.

The Zete's had their alumni banquet Friday night at the Carolina Country Club in Raleigh. Saturday night the Zete's had a party at Hogan's.

The Alpha Gam's went to Myrtle eBach this weekend. Their headquarters was the Tally Ho.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Albert Dickson, a last year's graduate and a member of Phi Bete, of Kensington, Md., to Gail Dixon, Norfolk, Va.

Least, but far from least, humble apologies go to the AD Pi's. Seems that we commended them for their excellent partying ability at a pajama party last week, when it should have been for their excellent partying ability at a PJ party.

Party Held By Pharmacy Men

The annual Pharmacy weekend was held this weekend. Participating were all pharmacy students, including the members of both Kappa Psi and Phi Delt Chi fraternities.

Friday afternoon the annual softball game between Phi Delta Chi and Kappa Psi, both Pharmacy fraternities, was held from 4-6 at Hogan's Lake. Following the game the annual pharmacy picnic was held, with both fraternities enjoying beer and the music of a combo which played from 6 to 9.

Saturday both the Kappa Psi's and the Phi Delta Chi's held cocktail parties at their respective houses. That night the Kappa Psi's had a banquet at Watt's Grill, and the Phi Delta Chi's had a banquet in Durham. This was also the Phi Delta Chi's awards night. Presented were the scholarship key, the pledge of the year award, the Reggie Ferrell intramural athletic award, and the Past Regent Award.

Saturday night a formal dance was held from 9 to 12 in the Woollen Gym. Buddy Klein and the Statesmen furnished the music. Both fraternities held open house after the dance.

Sunday the Phi Delta Chi's held a cocktail party at the house for the returning alumni.

The girls in the figure were presented with small beer mugs as favors.

PI KAPPA ALPHA SPONSORS for the annual Dream Girl Ball included Ginny Brown, Albemarle, with Jake Rountree; Charlotte Hory, Shelby, with Jule Rousseau; Sallie Cowles, Statesville, with Clayton Jackson; LaVern Olney, Dallas, Tex., with Tom McMillan.

Pika's Name Ginny Brown As Dream Girl For Coming Year

Tau chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha last night named Miss Ginny Brown of Albemarle their Dream Girl for 1953-54 during the figure highlighting the annual Dream Girl Ball.

After the Dream Girl was named, she was presented with a sweetheart pin by Pika president Jule Rousseau, on behalf of the members of the fraternity. Miss Brown was then presented with a bouquet of orchids and lillies of the valley by Bish Fox, Pi Phi from Roanoke, Va., last year's Dream Girl. Other members of the figure carried red roses. Members of the fraternity then serenaded the Dream Girl and her court with the Dream Girl Song.

Escorting Miss Brown was Jake Rountree of Mt. Airy. Other sponsors and their escorts were: Charlotte Hoey, Shelby, with Jule Rousseau, North Wilkesboro, president; Sallie Cowles, Statesville, with Clayton Jackson, Tarboro, vice - president; Emily Baker, Rocky Mount, with Bill Calvert, Norfolk, Va., secretary, and LaVern Olney, Dallas, Texas, with Tom McMillan, Rocky Mount, treasurer.

The Carolina Inn was festive, decorated in magnolia leaves, with a giant replica of the Pika pin as a backdrop. Roy Cole and his orchestra provided music from 9 to 12. Favors for the occasion were miniature beer mugs.

Chaperons for the evening included Mr. and Mrs. James Horton Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cleveland, Miss Sallie MacSnider, and Mr. Gordon E. Carrington Smith.

Preceeding the Dream Girl Ball there was a party at the Chapel Hill Country Club prior to a banquet held at the Pika house.

Cotillion Club Announces Plans For Summer Dance

The Carolina Cotillion Club's office at Planters Warehouse No. 2 will open May 20th in order to issue bids to active and honorary club members, and will close June 6th. The office will be open from 10:00 a.m. to Noon, and 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 10:00 a.m. to Noon on Saturday.

The officers and committee chairmen of the Carolina Cotillion Club for the 1953 June German to be held in Rocky Mount, June 19th, are. Reece Bailey, President; Hayward Taylor, Vice-President; H. H: Strandberg, Jr., Secretary; Fred Parker, Treasurer; and Billy Shearin, Chairman of the Board. Directors of the Club are Billy Goodwyn, Frank P. Meadows, Jr., Jake Rosenbloom, Bernice Smith and Don Wilhalf. The following are Committee Chairmen: Emmett Pate, House and Decorations Committee; Herbert Knight, Membership Committee; Jim Wilgus, Publicity Committee; Dewey Weaver, Music Committee; Ollie Bass, Jr., Printing Committee.

The 73rd June German will feature music by Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra.

Alpha Kappa Psi, KD's Delta Alpha's Initiate

New initiates of Beta Chi chapter of Kappa Delta are Elinor Taylor, Atlanta, Ga.; Janet Green, Chapel Hill; Catherine Marks, Wilmington.

Delta Phi Alpha, National Honorary German Fraternity, announces as new initiates Harry Heilig, New Bern; Henry Irvin, Enka; Bruce Tyler, Asheville; and R. G. Mason, Henderson. The ceremonies, which were conducted by Dr. Herbert Reichert and Nathaniel Sparrow, were held at Clearwater Lake on May 13.

Fourteen new members have been initiated into Alpha Kappa Psi, professional fraternity in business administration.

They are: Lacy G. Baynes, Greensboro; John Stuart, Shelby; Al G. Stanley, Whiteville; Herman A. Sampson, Greensboro; Pat Huntley, Emporia, Kan., Marvia L. Greer, Durham; Thomas H. Bridges, Shelby; Lamont Krimminger, Kannapolis; William C. Casper, China Grove; J. I. Miller, West Jefferson; Samuel Ingram, Sanford; Ben C. Smith, Charlotte; Donald G. Angell, Winston-Salem, and Arthur W. Winstead, Roxboro.

Dormitory Men Needed For Orientation

"There seems to have been some misunderstanding as to who can be an orientation counselor," Tom Creasy said yesterday as he announced the extension of interviews through today.

Interviews for those interested in becoming counselors will be held from 1 to 3 o'clock this afternoon on the second floor of Graham Memorial.

Creasy said, "I wish to stress the fact that it makes no difference whether one is a fraternity or non-fraternity man, rising sophomore, junior or senior." He added that it would be desirable to have a balance of all these.

"Applicants will be judged entirely on their merits," Creasy said.

He said that in the past there has been criticism of the Orientation Committee for choosing more fraternity men than non-fraternity men. "This is inevitable when only five per cent of those applying have been non-fraternity men, because it is only possible to select from those having had interviews," Creasy said.

What Goes On Here

Catholic

The Newman Club will hold a business meeting this afternoon at 5:30 on the second floor of Lenoir Hall. New officers will be elected. Mass will be held in Gerrard Hall at 8 and 9 o'clock this morning, and 7:30 on weekday mornings.

Baptist

Dr. J. T. Dobbins, head of the analytical division of the Chemistry Department, will speak tonight at the BSU supper forum at 6 o'clock. Dr. Preston Epps will continue with his series, "Sermon on the Mount" in the student Sunday school at 10 o'clock this mroning. Morning services are at 11 o'clock.

Presbyterian Church

Dr. C. Hugh Holman of the English Department, will speak to the Westminster Fellowship of the Covenant Presbyterian Church. He will talk on John Calvin. Supper will be served befire the talk at the Institute of Pharmacy Building at 6 o'clock.

Student Party

The Student Party will hold its last meeting of the quarter tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in Roland Parker lounges 1 and 2. Plans will be discussed for the coming semester.

JUST RECEIVED

Another Shipment Of The Popular

FADED DENIM WALKING SHORTS

6 New Shades To Choose From

$3.50

THE Sport SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

SWIM! FISH!

PICNIC! Spend An Enjoyable Afternoon In The Sun At

EASTWOOD LAKE

First Road On The Left After Brady's On The Durham Road

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

HELP WANTED: MALE 8B

EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY for a student with a car. Extensive newspaper route opening. Married student preferred. Contact Joe Hamrick, 136 Daniels Rd. by letter or after five o'clock. (1-8012-2)

LOST 12

LADIES' WRIST WATCH. NAME carved on back: Lucy Riddle, Cheyenne, Wyo. Reward; Call R. E. Dickinson, Phone 9-5206. 1-c8013-3

EMPLOYMENT WANTED 5

OPPORTUNITY TO SAVE $300—$600 during summer months working on circulation promotion program with Dunn & Bradstreet rated Southern concern. Journalism and Advertising students especially welcome. Minimum age men 18; women 21. Must travel and be able to drive. Transportation furnished, all expenses advanced. Write John Evans, Box 2070, Birmingham, Ala., for details; giving three references, date, place available to begin work. chg 1x2

FOR SALE 6B

SPORTSMAN TRAILER— EQUIPed kitchen, electricity, bed, ideal for camping. $295 or offer. Chapel Hill 9-8689 evenings. chg 1x1

When it Comes to Slacks, no one can beat us for quality and comfort, variety and value. Whatever you want in the way of fabric ... from cotton to pure worsted ... whatever you want in model ... from California styles to classics ... we have 'em, so come on in.

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

"When you're in love...you're nine feet tall!" Yes, it's on everyone's lips...and in everyone's heart—everywhere. All America has fallen in love with "Hans Christian Andersen"!

Something Wonderful Happens . . . when you see

SAMUEL GOLDWYN'S MUSICAL WONDERFILM

Hans Christian Andersen

and the dancer

starring Danny Kaye

and FARLEY GRANGER · introducing JEANMAIRE

color by TECHNICOLOR

Distributed by RKO RADIO PICTURES, INC.

Directed by CHARLES VIDOR · Screenplay by MOSS HART · Words and Music by FRANK LOESSER · Choreography by ROLAND PETIT

"Probably the masterwork of the long producing career of Samuel Goldwyn!" —Alton Cook, N.Y. World Tel.

"Lovely to look at and enchanting to hear!" —Rose Pelwick, N.Y. Journal

"As pretty and graceful a picture as has come down the rocky pike this year and it is peaked with such lovely ballet dancing as has seldom been seen before in films! —Bosley Crowther, N. Y. Times

Starts Today For 3 Wonderful Days

ADMISSION: Adults—Matinee 60c; Night 74c Children All Day 30c

Varsity

UNC LIBRARY
PUBLICATIONS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
6-31-47

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and warm with 90 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

FOXHOLE
It came from Korea but now it's on page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 153 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. | TUESDAY, MAY 19, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

Alan Barth Charges

Congress Encoaching On Judiciary's Rights

By Frances Walls

"Congress is now usurping powers that belong to the coordinate branches of government, and this arrogant assertion of power on the part of the national legislature is a real danger to the freedom of the American people" said Alan Barth of The Washington Post in an address here Saturday at the North Carolina Editorial Writers Conference.

Barth spoke on "The Contemporary Threat to Intellectual Freedom" at a luncheon session in the Carolina Inn.

"Through distortion and abuse of the vital power of Congress to investigate, we are facing extension of legislative power which threatens to take the government into an area reserved in American life for non-government administration. Investigations are now being used by Congress in a coercive fashion to direct the policies of the executive branch. This interference of executive power was begun some years ago and is now the almost absolute authority of Senator McCarthy. The power to investigate is indissociate from the power to legislate, and it must not be curtailed because of some irresponsible legislators," Barth said.

He expressed his concern over the reckless invasion of the judicial branch of government by committees operating not to secure information but rather to put individuals on trial for acts which are not criminal. He pointed out that the punishment is in the form of publicity, loss of money, and often loss of livelihood. He added that many of these investigating committees are trying to do the job for which the courts were formed.

"A free society is distinguishable from totalitarianism in that the greater part of life is not controlled in any way by the state," he coninued. "In the U. S. the institutions of higher learning, the press, and clergy have from the beginning of the nation, served as checks on governmental authority through their efforts to educate the people to question and search for themselves. The special power and greatness of our country comes from the production of individuals who searched and found their own values and clung to them because they believed in them."

Barth told the editorial writers that it is their business to fight every act of oppression and to fulfill their function as one element of the system of checks and balances to keep governmental authority within bounds set by the constitution. He reminded them that if in an effort to resist a totalitarian state, toaliarian methods are employed, the effort will be useless.

Ku Klux Fight Renewed Faith —Editor Cole

By Joyce Adams

"The greatest benefit and richest harvest has been a renewal of faith in an aroused citizenry and a restoration of confidence that right can triumph in a common cause. We smashed the Klan because there were honest law-enforcement officers, an awakened citizenry and an able prosecutor."

Whiteville News Reporter Editor Willard Cole says that is his greatest reward for his fight against the Ku Klux Klan, for which he won the Pulitzer Prize.

The Klan movement which started in Horry County, S. C. spread across the state line to Whiteville. The reign of terror started there with a cross-burning rally which about 5,000 persons attended. There were several such rallies in the southeastern part of the state, and between Oct. 6, 1951 and Jan. 8, 1952, twelve persons were dragged off by the Klan and flogged. Nine fo these were white and three colored. Three of the victims were women.

The law had a hard time finding out who the victims were since they were afraid to talk. But Cole's wife, a schoolteacher, overheard enough of the children's conversations to identify three, who then reluctantly talked to the sheriff.

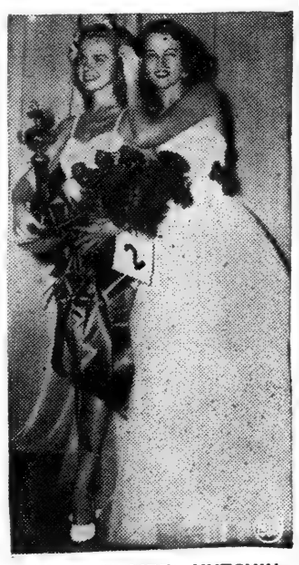
Cole wrote up the inhumanities of the beatings in his paper. Even citizens who despised hte Klan resented the bad publicity it brought to the community. Cole continued his crusade. However, writing 79 editorials and 143 news stories in the next eighteen months.

By this time the Klan had control of practically everything except Cole's paper. His life was in constant danger. He carried a revolver with him night and day. "I made sure everyone in town knew I had that gun," Cole said, "But I was always afraid some of them would get drunk and say, 'Let's get that so-and-so.'" Luckily it never came to that.

Cole credits some of the luck to his editorials, in which he stressed the possibility that things had gotten so out of hand that even Klansmen were afraid they might be dragged off next. Cole got statements from ministers saying that the Klan oath, which demands death rather than betrayal, was invalid since it was given in an unholy cause. Two weeks later the first case broke.

License numbers of all the cars at the rallies were checked, and since the police figured about 80 per cent of the people there were just curious, if they found a car that attended all the rallies, some of which were 65 miles away from his home, the owner became a prime suspect and his movements were closely watched.

County, state and federal officials worked together ,and slowly,



(See KU KLUX, page 4)

Yackety Yack

Yackety Yacks are being distributed each day this week from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 2 p.m. to 5.

New shipments are coming in every day and Business Manager Russ Cowell advises students to be patient in case they don't get a yearbook the first time they try.

ID cards are needed; the dean of students office can provide a substitute certificate if the ID has been lost.

LUCIA CLAIRE HUTCHINSON is crowned "Miss Georgia" by another Georgia beauty Neva Jane Langley, who last year went on to win the title of Miss America. The contest was held in Columbus, Ga., where seventeen girls representing cities throughout the state competed for the coveted title. Miss Hutchinson will receive a wardrobe with a minimum value of $1,500, three scholarships, trophies and an all-expense paid vacation trip for two.—NEA Telephoto.

CAMPUS SEEN

Students, after getting the new Yackety Yack, hurrying through the pages, first to see if their picture's there, then to see if their name is spelled correctly.

▪

Political science prof and early morning class chuckling over sign on side blackboard: "Socks washed 5 cents a pair, 447 Cobb Dorm."

▪

Sprightly English instructor stepping over wire barrier to sample wild strawberries growing beside Saunders Hall.

Chow Is Free At Danziger's For Graduates

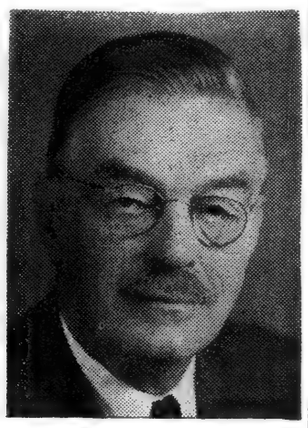
Seniors! Free food and drinks are yours for the asking. Just drop in at Danziger's tonight after 8 o'clock. The restaurant is serving coldcuts and beer "on the house" to all seniors.

Mr. Danziger, who has been holding open house for seniors for the past ten years, said on extending the invitation, "We feel it's a small thing we can do to express our gratitude to the seniors who have been our good customers for the past four years."

Music Dept. Has Concert In Hill Hall

The annual Concert of American Music will be held tonight at 8:30 in Hill Hall.

The concert is sponsored by the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia music fraternity in collaboration with the Sigma Alpha Iota music sorority.



Featured on the program are Wade Williams, baritone, and Mary Alice Dalrymple, pianist.

Graduates, undergraduates, and staff members of the Music Department will participate in the varied program, which includes both vocal and instrumental music by American composers William Billings, Gail Kubik, Henry Crowell, Beryl Rubinstein, and Willson Osborne.

Admission is free, and the public is invited.

PROFESSOR GREEN

PROFESSOR CALDWELL

Professor Caldwell Resigns; Green New History Chairman

Dr. Fletcher Melvin Green, Kenan professor of history, has been nabbed chairman of the Department of History, to replace Dr. Wallace E. Caldwell, who is resigning as chairman as of September 1, it was announced here yesterday by President Gray and Chancellor House, following approval by the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Green, who has been a member of the faculty since 1925 except for three years (1933-36) at Emory University, is a native of Gainesville, Ga. He attended Emory University where he took his Ph.D. degree, the University of North Carolina where he received his A.M. in 1922, and the University of Chicago where he was awarded his Ph.D. in 1925.

He taught at Sparks College and Vanderbilt and Emory Universities between 1923 and 1925 when he returned to Chapel Hill as a fellow in the Institute for Research in Social Science. He joined the history faculty in 1927 and was made Kenan professor in 1946.

His chief field of research and teaching has been in Southern history, and he has been particularly successful in attracting, stimulating and directing graduate students using extensively the noted Southern Historical Collection in the Library here.

Dr. Green has maintained professional contacts through active connection with local, regional and national ristorical associations. He was one of the pioneers in organizing the Southern Historical Association, of which he was secretary from 1935 to 1939 and was president in 1945.

His chief publications have been "Constitutional Development in the South Atlantic States, 1776-1860"; "Heroes of the American Revolution," "Studies in Confederate Leadership," "The Romance of the Western Frontier," and edited "I Rode With Stonewall," by Henry Kyd Douglas.

Dr. Caldwell has been chairman of the History Department since March, 1951. He succeeded the late Dr. A. R. Newsome, who resigned at that time because of ill health and yho died the following August.

Dr. Caldwell has been granted a leave of absence for the fall semester of 1954 to study new excavations in Italy and Greece.

A member of the history faculty here since 1922, Dr. Caldwell is a native of New York. After taking his A.B. degree at Cornell and his Ph.D. from Columbia, he taught at Bethlehem (Pa.) Prep School, the Allen Stevenson School, New York, and at Columbia University before coming to Chapel Hill.

Dr. Caldwell is a member of the American History Association, the Classical Association, the American Philological Association, the American Archaeological Institute, and Phi Beta Kappa. He was president of the Archaeological Institute, and Phi Beta Kappa. He was president of the Archaeological Society of North Carolina from 1933-36 and governor of the North Carolina Society of Mayflower Descendants from 1942-45. He has held numerous high positions in the Grand Lodge of Masons and was Grand Master of Masons in this state in 1951.

Accent Is On Sex In America

Britons Scoff At Restrictions On U. S. College Students

NEW YORK—Well, rawther, old boy, we just don't go for a dry campus along tne Thames.

"You can drink anything you want—if you can afford it, which you ordinarily can't," said one of Cambridge University's top debaters.

The British University exports two of its brighter, more vocal spirits every other year to America to make a debating tour.

The current duo, winding up a successful 30-debate tour—Alastair Sampson, 24—found many things about America hard to understand, and particularly college drinking rules.

"Take your theory of a dry campus," said Peter. 'You know, that youldn't go at all in England. Wine and spirits are for sale on the campus. Most of our students —Alastair and I are typical — have spent tyo years in service.

"It is difficult to tell a veteran what he should and shouldn't do."

The two British lads were a bit shocked at American university restrictions during the tour—and the need for them.

They are accustomed to a system under which students are permitted more latitude. They can serve liquor in their rooms if they choose, and a man is free to entertain a woman student in his chambers without chaperon until midnight, but—

"I wouldn't say the same system would work at all in your country," said Peter. "You see in England there are so few universities that the people who go there, go at least partly, to work."

"Yes," nodded Alastair vigorously, "not for the social life."

They pointed out that only one out of 10 students at Cambridge was a woman, and she was bent in knowledge because she had to pass a stiff examination even to be admitted to the institution.

Both lads seemed disillusioned with the fruits of coeducation, both here and at Cambridge.

"There is a lot of emphasis on chasing girls here in America," said Peter.

"Yes," said Alastair, "there is so much accent on sex in American life it is bound to have an effect on the undergraduate at the time he begins to drive a car and enjoy freedom."

Both lads were convinced by their tour that America had much to offer, much to learn.

"You have a wonderful technique for living in the United States," said Peter, "You have a fast pulse . . . a feeling of change . . . a great ease between people . . . you are not shy and awkward with eah other as we sometimes are."

"Yes, you have so much to be proud of," said Alastair. "What surprised us most on this first visit is how much more of a real nation you are than a melting pot. A second generation Italian and a third generation Swede have everything in common. Your unity is amazing."

"And dangerous," said Peter.

They both agreed on this. They thought that Americans yearned for culture but their drive for unity created a situation where "those who try to build a culture are suspected because they are different, they have to fight against social stigma."

As to the comparative advantage of American and English college girls, Peter said:

"The American girl is better dressed, more charming, although her charm may be synthetic, and she is not ashamed of being attractive to men. The English girl is baggy and—."

"Oh, I wouldn't say that," protested Alastair.

"I would," said Peter.

Navy's Annual Awards Day Is Tomorrow At Emerson Field

The most colorful review of the year for the Naval ROTC unit yill be held tomorrow at 4 o'clock on Emerson Field on the occasion of its second "Annual Awards Day."

At that time, a total of 20 awards will be presented to members of the NROTC.

Invited to present the awards personally to the NROTC midshipmen are Victor S. Bryant of Durham, a Trustee of the University, and Collier Cobb, Jr., of Chapel Hill, a former Trustee. Reviewing officers are to be Commodore O. O. (Scrappy) Kessing, USN (ret), and William D. Carmichael, Jr., University controller and vice-president.

A special award won by the NROTC unit for the largest percentage of participation in the latest Red Cross blood drive will be presented to the corps by Junius C. Fox, chairman of the Chapel Hill blood drive.

Captain J. S. Keating, USN, professor of naval science extends an invitation to all to attend the event.

Medals and trophies will be awarded for excellence in the various fields of military study, drill and leadership. Among the awards are the "Professor of Naval Science Award" made annually to the midshipman who in the current academic year, has contributed most to the welfare of the unit; the "Josephus Daniels Scholarship Award" for the highest four year average in naval science study, and the "Sons of the American Revolution Award" for excellence in marksmanship. The awards for the best drilled platoon and company will be made to the winners of the drill competition held on May 6th.

Phi Assembly To Debate Sex Matters Tonight At 8

The Phi Assembly will hold its last regular meeting before elections tonight at 8 o'clock in Phi Hall, New East.

A bill advocating sex education in the public schools, psychiatric treatment of persons convicted for sexual perversions, and sterilization of the feeble minded will be discussed.

Outlook Brightens As IFC Approves New Visiting Rule

By John Jamison

The prospects for an actual revision of the Coed Visiting Agreement were brighter than ever last night as a result of the Inter-Fraternity Council's approval of a substitute agreement embodying several administration-suggested changes.

The actual revision of the agreement as stated in the University catalog will take place when and if the administration and the Trustees places their approval on the modified version.

Last night's action by the IFC followed up an earlier action (February) in which the fraternity leaders submitted to the administration a proposal to revise the agreement to permit greater recognition of the Campus Code in fraternity conduct. The new proposal, passed last night, is essentially the same as the earlier one, but incorporates some changes recommended by South Building.

The new proposal places more emphasis on self-restraint by men and women in respect to fraternity house drinking. It would, in effect, allow women to drink in the houses, governed by their own judgment and the Campus Code.

Should the administration approve this new proposal, and belief is that it will, it would then consult the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees since the original regulation was instituted by the Trustees. The rule was placed in the catalog about 1905.

If the catalog rule concerning coed visiting in fraternity houses is changed along the lines of the IFC proposal, the following rules will be in effect:

1. Each fraternity shall have available for assistance and counseling regarding the entertainment of women and other house matters a visiting committee comprised of not less than three adult non-student women. It shall be the responsibility of the members of the committee to visit the fraternity regularly and to be available for advising and serving as hostesses at fraternity functions.

2. There shall be a special committee called the Visiting Advisory Committee composed of seven members representing fraternity-interested areas of the University community. This committee will meet regularly to discuss fraternity social activities and shall be available for counseling and assistance to fraternities, their advisers and the visiting committees. They will approve all members of the visiting committees.

3. Women will not be permitted to visit in fraternity houses before 11 a.m. and after the following hours: 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday; 1 a.m. on Friday; 2 a.m. on Saturday, and 12 p.m. on Sunday. The IFC may extend visiting hours one hour on four weekends per year. These dates are to be recorded at the beginning of each year in the office of the dean of students and will apply to all fraternities.

4. The IFC Court will consider all violations of this agreement involving fraternities as a group, and the Men's Council will consider individual violations.

5. Each fraternity is required to post a $50 bond prior to becoming eligible for the visiting of women in the house.

6. This agreement is in effect on the first day of each semester through the last day of classes.

7. Chapters desiring to entertain women during the summer sessions must file a request with the IFC during the Spring term immediately preceding the Summer session.

8. The IFC is charged with the responsibility for the administration and the re-negotiation of this agreement. Any new provision or change in this agreement must originate within the IFC.

9. Those fraternities having non-members residing in the house will not be qualified to entertain unchaperoned women.

CUSC Breezes Through Easy Business Meet

The Consolidated University Student Council met in a harmonious business and social session Sunday afternoon.

Bill Hagler of State College was elected president of the council.

The main order of business was the discussion of the new amendments to the constitution. A new set of by-laws was drawn up to go with the revised constitution.

A resolution was passed commending Chancellor John W. Harrelson of State College, who is retiring at the end of the present year, for his service.

CUSC is planning a detailed study of the honor systems of the three schools. This is not an investigation but rather a study to find ways to improve the systems.

Plans are being made for Consolidated University Day on the weekend of the State game next Fall.

After the business session the delegates went to Hogan's Lake for refreshments.

Jimmy Adams, who resigned as chairman of the Carolina delegation near the end of Ham Horton's administration, said, "I think that CUSC can definitely get something done in a fair and efficient manner now."

Diplomas

Graduating Seniors are reminded that they must pay their $10 diploma fee before graduation if they expect to receive the diploma on June 8.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Asst. Sports Ed. — Vardy Buckalew
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Sehindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles, Frances Walls.

Night Editor for this Issue: Ken Sanford.

No Escape But Escape

It's been a long time—much longer than the legal limit—since those expensive "condemned" signs went up on the doors of 35 fraternity and sorority houses.

Right now it looks as if the eown will win this race of the tortoises with its recent ultimatum: Ready for fire escape construction by June 5 or get out by June 10.

Inspected by qualified state men, the houses' rooms above the first floors have been found unsafe. Unsafe, the inspectors said, because if fire strikes there are not enough ways out of the houses. At least two exits are required on each floor.

You've got 90 days in which to have the changes made, the inspectors told offending houses when the inspection was made in December. The period was up April 5 and not a nail had been driven. In fact, not a bid had been let. Cognizant that it would be an expensive strain on Greek treasuries, the town building inspector stretched the interpretation of the law, then begged for action as the deadline passed.

Although a month and a half has gone by since the April 5 deadline, only eight of 35 houses have made any positive plans. Now the town finally has quit the job of wet nurse and hauled out the hickory limb.

As financially unpleasant as it may be the the fire escapes must be installed. With June 5 near we hope fraternities and sororities realize the town's pussy foot has become a bear's paw; somebody better drag out the blue prints and a tool box.

On Being Photogenic

Memo to next year's Yackety Yack staff: How about more pictures of the student body and less of the editor.

Express Yourself

Editor:

In The Daily Tar Heel of the 15th of May, I was interested to see the picture of Adlai Stephenson at th Shwedagon Pagoda at Rangoon. I also read the explanation of the wishing stone and its tradition.

For the interest of all, I would like to explain the correct version of the method of making a wish at the wishing stone. The person who is going to make the wish sits before the stone and makes his or her wish mentally at the same time saying "If my wish is going to come true, may this stone which I am about to carry, become 'light'."

The stone is lifted and personal judgment is exercized as to whether it has become light or is as heavy as it ordinarily should be. The same procedure may be repeated, but the stone may be asked to be heavy so that it won't move from its resting place.

We also believe that some people make better mediums for wishing at the wishing stone, and it is not out of place, to find large groups of people at the Pagoda, using just one person for testing if their wish will come true; naturally without revealing what their wish may be.

I hope my explanation is of interest to some people. It just happens to be one of those old beliefs and simple tradition, which if we lost would be a sorry thing indeed.

Frank R. Harman

(Mr. Harman is a student in the School of Public Health and is from Burma.—Ed.)

Our Poetical Senate

Congressional Record Excerpts

Pink Laughs

Recently at the Communist investigations in Cambridge, Mass., someone handed Senator Joseph McCarthy the new issue of the Record, Yale's humor magazine. In it appeared an article dealing with "Russians, Reds, and Red Hunters." McCarthy commented that it might seem humorous to a gullible few, but added that it was this attitude which was responsible for the tragic communist infiltration in American universities.

A Yale junior, eyeing the Record's chairmanship, commented, ". . . I refuse to answer (McCarthy's statement) on the grounds that it might tend to incriminate me."

Tar Heel

At Large

—Lt. Chuck Hauser

ON THE WEST - CENTRAL FRONT—Things are quiet during the day in Korea.

You wouldn't know there was a war going on except for the fact that as far as you can see from the top of your hill, there is no movement—no sign of life. Only the trees stir in the bright sunlight.

Most of the time, that is. There are exceptions to the rule.

Every now and then the peaceful quiet of the mountainous countryside is broken by the booming of a big gun or the nasty cr-r-runch heard as a Chinese shell drops in behind our lines.

Every now and then UN artillery splatters into a valley across the way from which enemy mortars or artillery have been giving us trouble.

Every now and then a tank platoon maneuvers forward and brings direct fire on camouflaged Chinese bunkers and observation posts high up in the ragged mountain ranges.

Every now and then a section of Chink territory is turned into a swirling inferno of smoke and flame as Air Force fighter-bombers chalk up another air strike mission.

As the glaring rays of the sun are cut off by the peaks to the west a change occurs on the Korean battlefront. The Chinese Reds, feeling secure in the dusk, begin to stir. A good pair of binoculars brings into focus small groups of the enemy moving about, preparing for the night's activity.

So you reach for your map with one hand and your telephone with the other, and call in the coordinates of the area where you have sighted the enemy. It gives you a strange feeling of satisfaction as you see the flashes, the smoke, the dust, and the torn bodies on the ground after the smoke and the dust drift away.

Dusk is over, and night has come. Guns begin barking all along the front. Somewhere below you a machine gun fires a burst, and its tracer bullets etch an arc of bright red stars across no-man's-land.

Night has come, the enemy is stirring from his daylight lethargy, and you begin the agonizing wait that is part of every Korean night.

Off Campus

If Columbia wants to demand removal of fraternity bias clauses, that's o.k. However, University of Michigan students "must decide for themselves," a fraternity leader says.

The speaker indicated Michigan fraternity support toward such a move was mild. Even if it took positive action, it would face possible administration disavowal.

A time-limit clause removal plan (Columbia gave offending groups until 1960) was passed by the student legislature at Michigan two years ago but the president vetoed it. Then again last year a plan was vetoed which would have achieved the same result.

Zeta Beta Tau and Alpha Sigma Phi at Columbia said they were "reluctantly enforcing their bias clauses." The chapters at Michigan commented curtly that the regulations are supposed to be secret.

'I'd Like To See You Get It, But You Know Our Policy'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — There are still a few stumbling blocks in the way, but the State Department believes a Korean truce is now just a matter of time. The latest Communist proposal is so close to the Indian compromise, which the United States has already accepted, that the State Department is ready to close the deal. It has been the joint chiefs of staff, who have been holding back.

South Korean President Syngman Rhee has also been threatening U.S. officials that he would launch an offensive with his own South Korean troops and risk upsetting the truce negotiations. He is flatly against any truce that falls short of unifying all Korea. In fact, Rhee has been so belligerent of late that General Mark Clark dropped around to see him privately to soothe him. Rhee finally promised not to take any rash action without first consulting Clark.

In the backstage argument over Communist truce terms, the State Department has been willing to accept red Poland and Czechoslovakia on the armistice commission to police the truce and screen 48,000 prisoners who don't want to return home. The State Department feels that Sweden and Switzerland would balance these two communist countries. What worries Washington, however, is the fifth member which the Communists propose, India, which would have the deciding vote on any controversies.

The joint chiefs have told the State Department that India can't be depended upon and there is no telling which way she might decide the isues. As a result, both the State and Defense Departments have agreed that Pakistan should be the fifth member.

The joint chiefs are also insisting that the fate of the prisoners who are unwilling to return should be settled before the truce, and not left up to a political conference.

The Communists have already given in on two key points: 1. They agree not to insist on forcible repatriation; 2. They agree not to ship prisoners who refuse to go home to some neutral territory.

The joint chiefs told the State Department, however, that the Communist proposal did not set a time limit on how long the unwilling repatriates could be held in Korea, and left the disposition of the prisoners up to the judgment of a political conference.

The joint chiefs feared that this political conference might stall along for years, keeping the 48,000 prisoners incarcerated while the politicians haggled.

After a conference of the top civilian and military brass at the White House, the Pentagon finally sent instructions to General William K. Harrison, Jr., the chief U. N. Negotiator, to try to settle these objections.

Harrison was instructed to substitute Pakistan in place of India and to clarify the fate of the prisoners who still refused to go home after four months of thinking it over.

One drawback is that the Communist proposal would give their officials an opportunity to proselyte these prisoners for four months after the Armistice. The joint chiefs were also apprehensive that the reds might use this opportunity to intimidate the prisoners.

However, Washington officials believe there is enough basis for agreement to settle the Korean truce. This can be accomplished speedily after the negotiators meet — unless the Communists go back to haggling over minor points.

While most of the nation has been worried about Indo-China, Korea and Europe, the State Department has been exchanging frantic cables with the British foreign office over the surge of Communism in the Caribbean—just across from the Panama Canal.

Both American and British authorities were stunned by the communist sweep in British Guiana's recent elections. The Reds, parading under the banner of the Peoples' Progressive Party, won 18 out of 24 seats in the House of Assembly.

This means the Communists are in complete control of the legislature and will have a major voice in running this British crown colony.

PULQUE

John Gibson

Up to this point, most of my discussion about the honor system has been rather general in nature. Today I would like to get somewhat more specific, and discuss the council itself. I can speak only directly for the Men's Council, but I see no reason why other councils might not suffer from the same problems presented here.

The functioning of the council is greatly dependent upon the personnel chosen to it. This is true for any body, of course, but especially so for the honor council, because of its amazingly broad powers. In this connection the council is subject to pressures from two rather different sources, both steming from the fact that the council represents such an important part of the University's political system..

First, because membership in the council is a prestigeful position, it is quite possible that some students are attracted to it so they can add another "notch" to their last of activities, thus giving them something to shout about at election time. I think it is quite possible that the fraternities (and sororities) entice members to run for honor council positions, so they can have the reflected "glory" of these posts during rushing, and after.

All this hurts the council if the people involved are not really serious about being members, since it is absolutely essential that all council members be motivated by a rather sincere desire to help other students.

Most of the present members of the council, I feel, are quite serious about their jobs, but this is a problem that will always be a serious threat to the system so long as members are elected as they are. The only way it can be combated is for students to be familiar with the candidates for office, a chore which most students rather completely ignore.

Actually, once or twice since I have been on the council we have hurried through cases when we might just as well have taken a little more time. I am just as much to blame as anyone for this situation, but it is one we should recognize as a serious problem. A student whose case comes up late in the evening is likely not to receive the same conscious deliberation as a student whose case appears earlier. This situation is heightened when the council members are made up largely of important campus personages, since they are more often pushed for time.

Perhaps if the councils were large enough so that presence at meetings could be staggared among the members, this would take the pressure off individuals. Or, a person with many activities might be declared ineligible to run, though personally I do not like this type of regulation. However, something should be done so that each case gets the complete deliberation it merits.

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . ." Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE surprised me by chittering from the lawn of Swain Hall, "Hey, you!"

I thought this rude. I thought a university horse could say, "Ah, there, old boy, how are you! Nice day, what?"

"Obiter dicta," The Horse said throatily, with an unnecessary show of his molars, "as we Political Scientists say when we mean, too many words. You know what? You are a pop-off."

Never mind that. We were surprised he was here. He should be studying for some quizzes.

"I am," The Horse said. "Scientifically. You have heard of the Proces of Osmosis?"

Diffusion of material through membrane? Yes.

The Horse, who is taking twenty hours this Spring, was sitting bolt upright, braced on his forelegs. Now, he raised his forehoofs. A text book was under either one.

Even if his theory was sound, that was only ten hours.

The Horse raised his empennage to show two more texts, and eased down again. "Poetic justice," h snapped. "All this Quarter I've been at the tail-end of these subjects. And now—let's talk about you. Didn't I hear you speak for the Saturday-class idea?"

N-no-o, not exactly. I hadn't spoken against them.

"Well, they cooked up the Semester system to make the Saturday classes look logical. I've just been reading where the Quarter system is the coming thing; and here we are popping off into the Semester. Also, how about poor Carl, now?"

Carl who?

"Snavely, of course," The Horse sneered. "Everybody said Carl was a great single-wing coach, but that was all he knew. Now, the Rules Committee of N.C.A.A. has fritzed the substitution-platoon deal up, so everybody will go back to the single-wing in football; and Carl is gone."

The new coaching staff was packed with talent and wisdom.

"Unfortunately," The Horse gloomed, "they don't let the coaches play. Of course, the real issue in the Saturday-classes deal was, so many of us could go home week-ends, and did, that Cow College and Dook started calling us 'The Chapel Hill Day School.' Also, the town could use more money."

How would The Horse have handled the week-end deal?

"Like Princeton did," The Horse shrugged. He turned his texts over to osmose the back chapters and sat down again. "At Princeton, they let the students vote for either automobiles, or beer. They voted for beer. No autos, no parking problems, no week-end home runs. Everybody sticks around on Saturday, so the town is happy. The brewers are happy because the boys ar happy."

Couldn't The Horse see any good in the Semester system?

"Maybe." He drummed his hoofs and bounced up and down on his empennage to study a little harder. "They may give us some decent movies over the week-ends. But I must say it seems a round-about way to go after better movies."

Tar Heel Sports

By Tom Peacock

Clemson University officials are still mumbling to themselves over the "fast shuffle" the Tiger baseball team received in the Conference baseball playoffs . . . Nobody bothered looking up the last date games could be played towards eligibility for the tournament . . . Newspapers, led by the Associated Press, made quite a game of the different possibilities of who would be second in the southern division . . . North Carolina cinched first with a win over Duke Saturday week . . . Clemson, they said, could clinch second with a win over Furman Monday in a re-scheduled game . . . Duke was virtually out.

Wake Forest, however, beat N. C. State twice in a row . . . Monday, after the second win, Deacon Coach Taylor Sanford pranced over to the State mentor, Vic Sorrell, and announced his intention to fly to Clemson the next day to play a rained out game with the Tigers . . . If Wake Forest won that game, they would clinch second place and a berth in the playoffs . . . the tourney started Thursday, though, and if these teams played right up to the wire, what was to be done about programs and all the other technical aspects of staging a tournament.?

★ ★

There has to be a stopping place somewhere, thought Sorrell, so Cap'n Dick Smith of Washhington and Lee, chairman of the conference baseball committee, was contacted . . . Yes, said Smith, I'm sure there is a pre-tournament date for deciding the two top teams, but I'm not sure when it is . . . he looked it up in the minutes of the last meeting, and sure enough, he proposed the rule himself . . . The two tournament teams from each division will be decided by the standings three days from the start of the tourney . . . Ironically, Bob Smith of Clemson seconded the motion . . . The playoffs started Thursday, no games are played on Sunday, so games played on Saturday were the last ones to count towards eligibility . . . Clemson lost to South Carolina Saturday and was a few percentage points behind Duke, so the Blue Devils backed into the affair . . . It's little consolation to Clemson that it is second in the division in complete standings, and Duke and Wake Forest are tied for third.

There were some interesting sidelights to the matter . . . Cap'n Dick was as surprised as anyone else (he reads the papers), and hated to make the decision . . . so he said it was up to the southern division members of his committee, of which Carolina Coach Walt Rabb is a member . . . Rabb wanted no part of the passed buck, and referred it right back to the whole committee . . . the only decision possible was to follow the rules, so dear old Duke made the tournament . . . Bob Smith of Clemson promptly sent Smith a two-foot long telegram, telling him just what South Carolina in general and Clemson in particular thought of the whole affair.

It's all over now, and it's agreed that the smaller new conference should eliminate a mixup such as that . . . Part of the commissioner's job will be to see that all coaches are posted on the rules and the overall situation . . . The rhubarb was ludicrous at best, and was certainly unfortunate.

★ ★

A more pleasant subject, at least to some people, is the news that Big Jim Tatum will probably be coaching football at N. C. State in 1954 . . . State asked Gordon Gray if it should give up football or go all out for the team, and Gray gave the go ahead for the team . . . Greater University officials want a healthy rivalry between State and Carolina in all sports . . . Tatum can pull up the Wolfpack fortunes better than anyone else we know . . . Comptroller Billy Carmichael especially wanted "Cousin Jim" at the brother institution . . . Tatum reportedly told intimates at the recent Southern Conference meeting in Greensboro that he looked quite favorably on the move . . . Tatum and Curly Byrd, the Maryland president, don't get along too well, mostly because they both love to talk.

Along with Tatum comes a rennaissance in football at State . . . Riddick Stadium will be enlarged by 10,000 permanent seats . . . Money will be provided to get some ball players. . . . A hefty rivalry between State and Carolina would be a good stroke for both schools. . . . Tatum and George Barclay, the Carolina head coach, are both UNC graduates, and have both coached here before . . . The Wolfpack needs a dog biscuit in the form of a good football team to get the alumni back in line.

Lacrosse Team Ends Season With 3 Victories, 7 Defeats

By John Hussey

The Carolina lacrosse team ended its season with an overall record of three wins and seven losses against some of the toughest competition in the nation.

Al Moore, who also served as soccer coach, has lead the team for the past three seasons. His 1950 team was 42nd in the nation and in 1951 they jumped to 36. Last year they showed an immense improvement and ranked twenty-fourth nationally. The totals for this season have not yet been released.

Although these records are not outstanding, they were made against some of the top teams in the nation. This year's schedule included Virginia, Dartmouth, Williams, Harvard, and Duke—all of whom will probably be placed among the first ten teams in the nation. Virginia was rated as the number one team last year.

The outstanding individual achievement for the team was made by goalie Lew Floyd. Last year he established a new national record for saves at 209 in ten games. This year, playing in his last season for the Tar Heels, he lagged behind his '52 pace throughout the year and going into the last game had a total of 179. The game was against Virginia, and although he let eighteen shots go by, he did manage to stop 31 of them. This gave him a total fo 210 for the year and a new unofficial record.

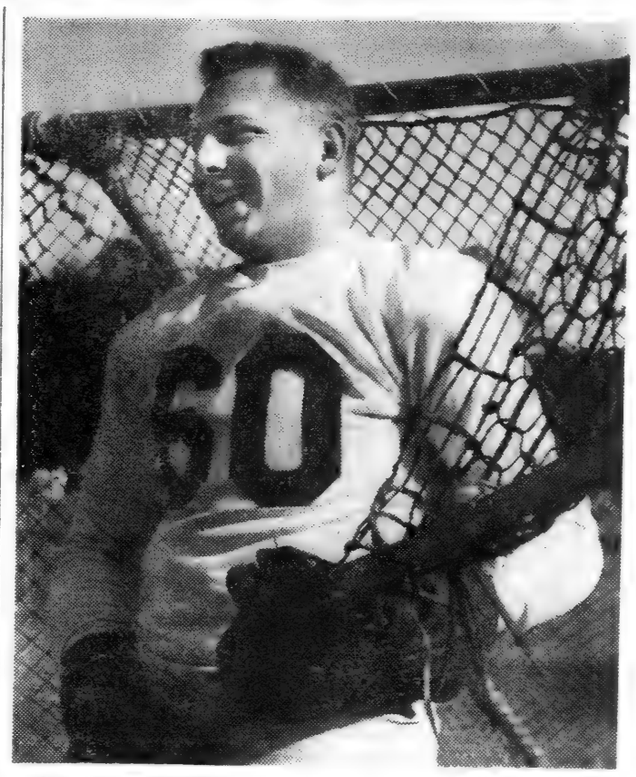
The team started the season badly by losing to Williams College here by a 13-6 score. Walt Ernst who co-captained the team along with Floyd, played well from his midfield position. Ernst suffered a broken toe later on in the season and was unable to compete in the final three games of the schedule.

Facing Cornell next, the Tar Heels met with one of their worst defeats of the season as the Big Red team downed them, 16-3. This was followd by a 15-9 loss to Dartmouth.

Their first win came against the University of Massachusetts. The game was played at Amherst in the rain, and it was so muddy that at one time the ball was lost in the mud near the goalie's circle. Bucky Barkley and Dick Pillsbury were standouts as the Tar Heels took a 6-3 victory.

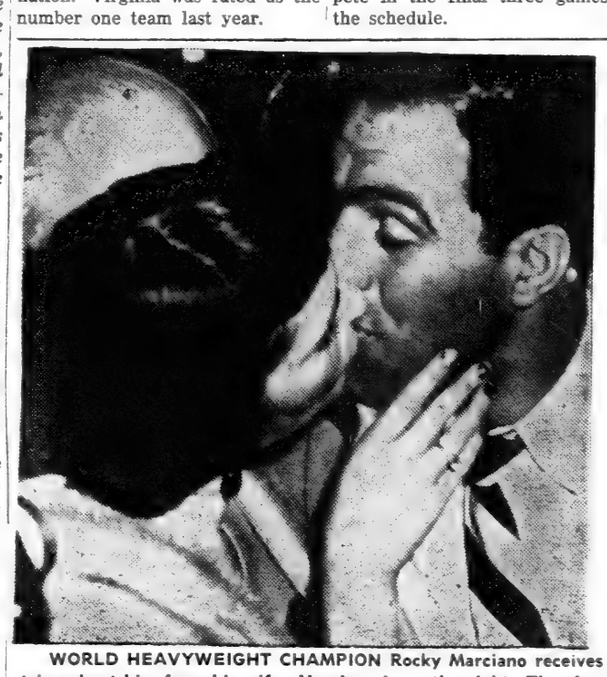
A second game with Massachusetts was snowed out. The next victory for Carolina came against Amherst College when the team worked together much better than previously. The Tar Heels missed shutting out their opponents by one goal while managing to pick up eight points themselves. Ted Dawes played one of his best games of the season.

The third win, this one over Trinity, gave the Tar Heels a .500 won-lost percentage. The score was 11-5 and the teamwork was the best all year. Jim Winston suffered a badly broken nose.



Harvard broke the Carolina win streak at three, mainly on the basis of superior depth. The score in this game was 17-6. Altogether, the northern trip was a big success for the Tar Heels, picking up three wins against one defeat in one of the more popular lacrosse regions of the country.

Back in Chapel Hill again, they faced Augusta Military Academy in a jayvee contest and won, 9 to 3. The win was not counted along with regular season contests.



The Washington and Lee Generals came to Carolina and completely mastered the Tar Heels by a 11-2 score. Freshman Dick Baker, who replaced Ernst in the lineup, was outstanding for the locals.

Duke set Carolina back on its heels by a 13-4 score. Bright spots for Carolina were provided by sophomore Dickie Harrall who collected three goals. Harrall led the team in scoring again this year with a total of 21 markers. He was slightly off his last season's total but this was becaue he was absent in several games.

Although Virginia walloped the Tar Heels by an 18-3 score, they did play a better brand of ball than against Duke or W&L. The defense, Tom Stokes, Steve Trimble, and Earl Johnson, played a flawless game. Dave Cole and Toby Haynesworth were outstanding from the midfield positions.

LEW FLOYD
. . . Carolina goalie

WORLD HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION Rocky Marciano receives a triumphant kiss from his wife. Marciano is on the right. The champ is at a celebration party in the Morrison Hotel in Chicago, and he has a right to be happy—he kayoed Jersey Joe Walcott in the first round of their fight, and the boxing commission declared it all legal.

POSITION OPEN

WE ARE EXPANDING OUR BUSINESS IN CHAPEL HILL AND HAVE POSITION OPEN WITH EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY AND FUTURE. APPLY MR. LANE AT THE SPORT SHOP, NORTH COLUMBIA ST.

MURALS

Today's Softball

5:00—Field 1, (Zetes-1 or ZBT) vs. Sig Nu-2; Field 2, (Sig Chi or Phi Delt Chi) vs. (Chi Phi or Kap Sig); Field 3, Winston vs. (Law School or Alexander)*.

*Dormitory championship.

Football Tickets On Sale To UNC Faculty Members

Football tickets for 1953 are on sale here now, but hold your hosses. So far they are available only to members of the University of North Carolina faculty. The month of May is reserved for faculty members to purchase their tickets.

The UNC ticket office has sent out an urgent notice to faculty members to place their orders before the deadline ends for them to participate in the usual faculty arrangement.

Yarborough, Lineberger Offer Program For Kids

Ken Yarborough, University of North Carolina football captain, and Henry Lineberger Jr., a University Medical Student, have organized a summer recreation program for Chapel Hill which will start June 10.

Yarborough and Lineberger plan a daily afternoon program of planned sport activity, swimming and games. All local children and those from neighboring areas have been invited to join the activity.

In The Majors

American League

Chicago at Washington, (Night).

Detroit 5, Boston 2, (First game of double-header).

National League

New York 8, St. Louis 6.

Philadelphia at Milwaukee, (Night).

Brooklyn at Cincinnati, (Night).

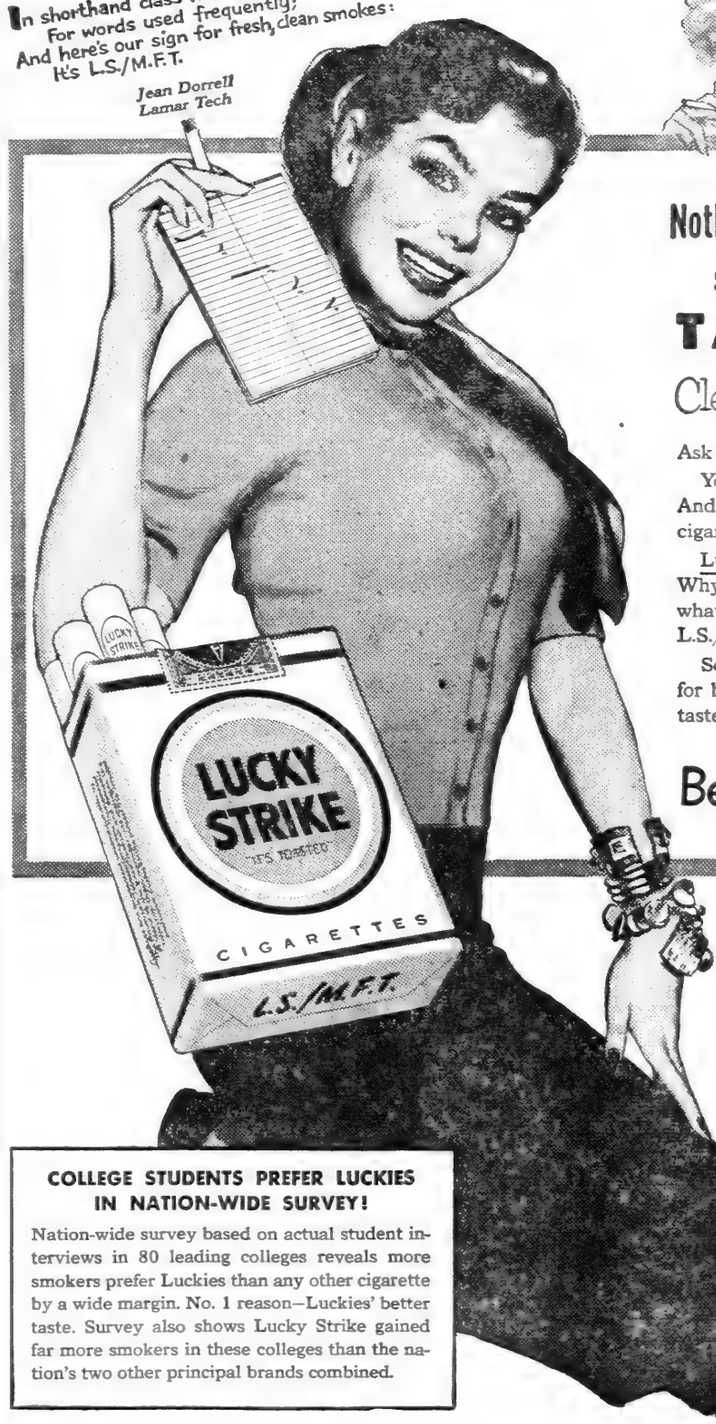
For something really special you should get into this linen sport jacket. You can use it for casual wear, or dress up in it for an evening out. Its clean, crisp look fits into either picture. The linen is treated to resist wrinkling. And wait 'til you see how cool it is.

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.



I've tried most brands of cigarettes, Discarded all the rest — I'm sure your taste will tell you, too, That Luckies are the best!

Barbara Kaplan
University of Chicago

In shorthand class we learn brief forms For words used frequently; And here's our sign for fresh, clean smokes: It's L.S./M.F.T.

Jean Dorrell
Lamar Tech

Nothing-no, nothing-beats better taste and LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!

Cleaner, Fresher, Smoother!

Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke?

You know, yourself, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.

Luckies taste better—cleaner, fresher, smoother! Why? Luckies are made better to taste better. And, what's more, Luckies are made of fine tobacco. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco.

So, for the thing you want most in a cigarette... for better taste—for the cleaner, fresher, smoother taste of Lucky Strike...

Be Happy-GO LUCKY!

I get a thrill from catching trout And love to fish for pike; But fishing ain't complete without My good old Lucky Strike!

George Morhous
Holy Cross College

COLLEGE STUDENTS PREFER LUCKIES IN NATION-WIDE SURVEY!

Nation-wide survey based on actual student interviews in 80 leading colleges reveals more smokers prefer Luckies than any other cigarette by a wide margin. No. 1 reason—Luckies' better taste. Survey also shows Lucky Strike gained far more smokers in these colleges than the nation's two other principal brands combined.

© A. T. Co.

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

PRETTY PRINCESS RAGNHILD of Norway, daughter of Crown Prince Olav and Crown Princess Martha, was married to former commando Captain, commoner Erling Lorentzen, in Asker, Norway, a little village outside Oslo. The 22-year-old princess is shown with her 30-year-old husband in April, at the family mansion of the Norwegian Crown Prince—NEA Telephoto.

Out This Week

Weaver Article To Be In Spring Quarterly

The spring issue of the Carolina Quarterly, due out this weekend, will feature an article by Dean of Students Fred Weaver, "The Tradition of Student life at Chapel Hill."

The piece, an examination of the growth of Carolina student government, is an outgrowth of Dean Weaver's survey of U. S. colleges, made under the auspices of the Carnegie Research Foundation last year.

Dean Weaver's article makes a defense of the Carolina student government, and indicates how students here have grown to have more autonomy than at many other schools in the country. A thorough appraisal of the growth of student power from its inception at the University is the basis of this defense.

The spring Quarterly yill also include four short stories by William O'Sullivan, Dan Reid, Guy Owen, and Jim Dunn, all campus authors.

Charlotte Davis, Quarterly editor this spring said yesterday, "This selection of material by campus authors keynotes our efforts to re-focus our magazine's attention on the creative life of the University."

The spring issue is scheduled to appear May 22.

Independent Coeds

The Independent Coed Board will hold its annual picnic tomorrow evening in Battle Park. All independents, Joyner Dorm, and AK Psi are invited. The group will meet in the parking lot behind Graham Memorial at 5 o'clock.

Di Senate

The Dialetic Senate will debate on offshore oils tonight at 8 o'clock in New West. The topic will be "Resolved, that the Federal Government should retain all powers of eminent domain it now holds."

SUAB Information

Deadline for information concerning the SUAB "Who's Who" is this Thursday.

Heels 'N Toes

The Tar Heels 'N Toes will meet tonight from 5 to 6:30 p.m. in the Women's Gym. Plans for a party will be discussed as well as some important business.

Tarnation

There will be a meeting of the Tarnation staff and all those interested in working on the mag in Roland Parker Lounge 3 at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Inter-Faith

The Inter-Faith Council meets tonight in the YWCA.

Student Wives

Student Wives will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the YWCA. Mrs. Virginia Atkins will talk on "How to Choose, Use and Care for Your Sterling." Mrs. Joy Taylor will talk on center pieces.

WUNC

7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—Vistas of Israel.
7:45—Review of the British Weeklies.
8—The People Act.
8:30—Opera.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—Evening Masterwork.
11—Sign Off.

—Ku Klux

(Continued from page 1)

with the cooperation of the people, one by one the cases were broken, until today all but one have been solved. The first mass arrest occurred in Feb. 1952 when FBI agents swooped simultaneously on the suspects, giving none a chance to warn the others. Eventually 89 persons were arrested on 211 indictments.

Asked why people joined the Klan, Cole said, "The big ones, like Thomas Hamilton, the Imperial Wizard, were in it for money. Others liked the feeling of power it gave them. Several wanted to get control of the eourts, which they did for awhile. Some wanted to get business from fellow Klansmen, and others just wanted a chance to even up old grudges."

Cole shares the honors of the prize with a fellow editor, Horace Carter, of the Tabor City Tribune, who worked with him during the fight. Cole also gives credit to his publisher, Leslie S. Thompson, "Who always stood behind me, even when the risk was great."

Cole says the people in Whiteville, who had previously been angry over the unfavorable publicity his campaign was attracting are now most proud of the national recognition it brought to a place, "Where decency is upheld."

In addition to the Pulitzer Prize the two men have won other awards and received letters of good will from people of every class, race and creed in the United States.

After the nomination had been made by Jonathan Daniels of the Raleigh News and Observer, the Asheville Citizen remarked that if a New York editor sitting immune in his urban office had won the Prize for his fight gaainst the Ku Klux Klan, as happened some years ago, how much more deserving were two men who had done even more while living in the midst of the terrorists.

Pharmacy Fun Highlighted By Formal Dance

The 22nd annual Pharmacy Weekend held on the campus Friday and Saturday was highlighted by a formal dance held Saturday night in the Women's Gym.

Buddy Klein and his Statesmen played for the dance which was sponsored by Kappa Psi and Phi Delta Chi, professional pharmacy fraternities.

The weekend event opened Friday afternoon at Hogan's Lake yith a softball game between Kappa Psi and Phi Delta Chi. After the picnic, the Duke Ambassadors Dixieland Combo entertained the group. Both fraternities held open house during the evening.

Kappa Epsilon, women's honorary pharmaceutical fraternity, entertained Saturday with a luncheon at the Institute of Pharmacy.

Dr. J. P. Harland was guest speaker at the Kappa Psi banquet held at Harvey's Cafeteria in Durham. Rowe Campbell was presented with the achievement award for participation in extra-curricular activities. Steve Perrow was given the Post Regent ayard. Jim Knight won the award as the most outstanding pledge. The Reginald Ferrell Ayard for the student highest in athletic participation was given to Al Mebane.

The Phi Delta Chi's entertained Alumni and friends yith a banquet at the Pines.

Wallace Pridgen Elected Dance Committee Head

Wallace Pridgen, rising senior, was elected chairman of the University Dance Committee. The committee is responsible for supervising all dances given on the campus.

Pridgen served on the committee for the past year and has held positions in several organizations on campus in the past two years. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Gray Sees Rise In Enrollment In The Future

The trend of enrollment at the three institutions of the Consolidated University is upward again, after a natural drop that followed the peak campus influx of postwar veterans.

Over a period of the last 25 years, taking into account materially increased admissions expected next fall, the enrollment trend at the Woman's College at Greensboro, State College at Raleigh, and the University at Chapel Hill, has been definitely upyard.

Applications at Chapel Hill from freshmen, transfers, and for readmission, in the undergraduate classification, numbered 1383 on May 1 as compared to 973 the same date last year.

This represents an increase in applications of 410 over the corresponding period last year.

Increases in the graduate and professional schools also are indicated.

More than 90 per cent of the applications are from North Carolina residents.

Applications from freshmen, transfers and for re-admission at the Woman's College numbered 1084 on May 1 as compared to 1013 on the same date last year, representing an increase of 71.

The application figures for State College on May 1 were 794 in contrast with 700 for the corresponding period last year, showing an increase of 94.

President Gordon Gray believes these figures indicate definitely that the trend prior to World War II is "re-asserting itself." Over the past 25 years the trend of enrollment has been constant, and, on the basis of current applications, it appears that this trend will continue and will turn upward in the next decade as the result of population increase and the return of Korean war veterans, he says.

He notes that the war-time drop in enrollment in the middle forties has been compensated for by a post-war bulge in the late forties when the enrollment at State College hit 5500 in 1947, reached 7600 at Chapel Hill in 1948, and was 2300 at the Woman's College in 1950.

The lowest enrollment for the three institutions during the 25-year period was 1300 for the Woman's College in 1933 (a depression year), 900 civilian students for State College in 1944 (during World War 11), and 1685 for the University at Chapel Hill in 1944 (during World War II).

As might be expected, the war years did not affect enrollment at the Woman's College nearly as much as it did registration at the two brother institutions, there being only a slight dip in 1944 when the other two institutions hit their lowest enrollment mark.

The depression years brought declines in enrollment at all three institutions, and the decline would have been much greater had it not been for loan funds that were made available to hundreds of students at the three institutions.

Last Y Meeting This Afternoon

The YMCA will hold its last meeting of the year today at 4 o'clock at the Claude Shotts farm. Recreation which includes a softball game, horseshoes and volleyball will begin at 4 o'clock. A picnic supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

Following supper, Alice Chapman, Baxter McIntyre, Bob Hyatt, and Clinton Lindley, commission chairmen for next year, will report on their present work and plans for next year.

The members of the YMCA Advisory Board will be special guests of the cabinet and stfaf. All active members of the YMCA are invited to attend.

Film Is Cause Of Teachers' Losing Position

TALBOTTON, Ga.—A veteran public school teacher has been dismissed from the faculty of Talbot County Schools here for showing a sex education film to an eighth-grade English ciass.

Robert Jordan, chairman of the Talbot County School Board, said the action against Miss Anna Cooper was taken Saturday following an investigation of the matter.

"The film was clearly marked for showing to maies only," Jordan said. "The film stated the males had to be above 16. However, it was shown to a mixed class of eighth grade students."

Contacted at her home, Miss Cooper said the showing of the movie was "just a mistake."

"I wouldn't have shown it if I had known what it was," she said, explaining that the film yas authorized by the Georgia Department of Education.

"I had shown the English class one picture on Longfellow," the teacher said. "At the conclusion it was found that we still had 10 to 15 minutes before the end of the period. That meant we had time for one short film."

She said she obtained a film entitled "Very Dangerous." She said it dealt with venereal diseases, but added that she had thought it was about traffic violations.

Miss Cooper said students reported the incident to the office of the county school superintendent, Mrs. G. L. Carter.

Cost Of School Is Subject Of Survey Here

A group of approximately 350 Carolina students will participate Wednesday in a nationwide survey of costs students incur in attending college.

Carolina is one of 100 schools throughout the country picked for this poll of higher education expenses. The survey is being conducted by the Health, Education and Welfare department of the U. S. Office of Education.

"Students yho received cards requesting them to attend a brief meeting Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Carroll Hall will be rendering a service to education," said Roy Armstrong, coordinator of the project.

HARRY GIRTH, 27, former German POW who surrendered to immigration authorities seven years after he escaped from a U. S. prison camp, hugs his sweetheart, Mrs. Judy Godel, 29, Atlantic City divorcee, as he arrived in New York from Ellis Island. Released in $1,000 bail, Girth has been granted permission to leave the U. S. voluntarily within the next 45 days. The move paves the way for his return as a legal immigrant.—NEA Telephoto.

Mann Plans Address For Lazy Literates

"Christianity and Communism" will be discussed at the final meeting of the Lazy Literates this year today at 4 p.m. in the YWCA. Dr. Robert Mann of the Math Department will speak.

Dr. Mann is well known on campus for his ability to present this subject. He will discuss some of the outstanding communist writings and will lead a discussion later.

The Lazy Literate committee has collected a group of books on "Christianity and Communism" in the YWCA office, which are available for browsing before the meeting. The community is invited.

Fan Lewis, chairman of the group, said, "This should be one of the most interesting programs of the year.

FOR GRADUATION . . .

GIVE LAUGHTER

Your graduate has earned a relaxed chuckle — and he'll jolly well need it when he gets out into the world. Here are a few suggestions from the big humor table at the Intimate Bookshop:

Rowdy Rhymes
A sizzling Peter Pauper edition that will be just right for the pal who rates a gift, but not a major investment. $1.00

It All Started with Columbus
American history put through the sausage machine by Richard Armour. $2.75

The Unfair Sex
Nina Farewell's attempt to settle the war of the sexes is just about as witty reading as you're likely to run across. $2.95

And Gift-Wrapping is FREE at

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

WILL THE YOUNG MAN WHO accidentally ran over the Shetland Collie on Gimghoul Road please contact Mrs. Wade at 3661. (chg 1x1)

LOST 12

LADIES' WRIST WATCH. NAME carved on back: Lucy Riddle, Cheyenne, Wyo. Reward; Call R. E. Dickinson, Phone 9-5206. 1-c8013-3

EMPLOYMENT WANTED 5

OPPORTUNITY TO SAVE $300—$600 during summer months working on circulation promotion program with Dunn & Bradstreet rated Southern concern. Journalism and Advertising students especially welcome. Minimum age men 18; women 21. Must travel and be able to drive. Transportation furnished, all expenses advanced. Write John Evans, Box 2070, Birmingham, Ala., for details; giving three references, date, place available to begin work. chg 1x2

FOR SALE 6B

SPORTSMAN TRAILER—EQUIPed kitchen, electricity, bed, ideal for camping. $295 or offer. Chapel Hill 9-8689 evenings. chg 1x1

FOR SALE — SMALL FAMILY home in the woods three blocks from Post Office. Call 7406 for information. (1-8009-5)

FOR RENT

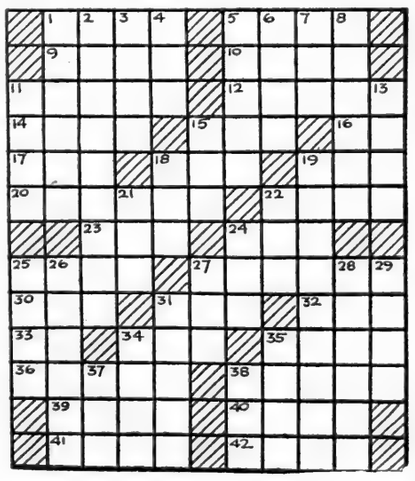
OCEAN FRONT COTTAGE, LONG Beach, N. C. 3 bedrooms, hot and cold water, electric stove and refrigerator. Open dats, May 31 to June 21 inc. Rate $65.00 per week, write or phone J. D. DeVane, Phone 2-3007; 124 Rowan St., Fayetteville, N. C. (chg 1x2)

WILLIAM OATIS, Associated Press correspondent, has a big smile as he crosses Czechoslovakian border into American sector of West Germany at Waidhaus, after his release from a Czechoslovakian prison. Oatis rode from Prague where he was freed after two years imprisonment on charges of spying. He was later taken to Nuernberg where he was given a physical examination and his first freedom meal.—NEA Telephoto.

AAUP

There will be a meeting of the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors tonight at 7:30 in the faculty lounge of the Morehead Building. Chancellor House will speak on "The Outlook for the University."

DAILY CROSSWORD



ACROSS
1. Mineral springs
5. Keg
9. Canvas shelter
10. Exchange premium
11. Late
12. Sum
14. Armed forces
15. Plead
16. Behold!
17. Biblical name
18. Animal's pelt
19. Vehicle
20. Epistle
22. Foundation
23. Old weight for wool
24. Distant
25. Squeak
27. Musical instrument
30. Particle of addition
31. Remnant
32. Man's name
33. Neuter pronoun
34. Swabbing implement
35. River (Eng.)
36. City in France
38. Small wire nails
39. Price
40. Eye
41. Female sheep
42. Foreman

DOWN
1. Perish from lack of food
2. Let
3. Man's nickname
4. Pig pen
5. Provide food
6. Eager
7. Perch
8. Arboreal marsupials (Austral.)
11. Chinese money
13. Learning
15. Prickly envelope of a fruit
18. Nourished
19. Traveling amsemenut shows
21. Apex
22. Stripe
24. Mist
25. Anguish
26. Whole
27. Crown
28. Eats away
29. Converts into leather
31. Flowers
34. Apportion
35. Large constellation
37. A bird's crop
38. Cut short, as hair

C	H	A	P		S	L	A	P
T	H	O	L	E		T	A	L	E	S
H	A	R	L	E		E	X	A	C	T
E	S	N	E		R	A		S	K	Y
R	T			A	I	M	S
M	I		A	G	A		H	E	A	T
A	Z	U	R	E		T	E	N	S	E
L	E	S	T		L	I	D		P	A
			S	L	O	P			I	S
A	D	S		O	W		H	A	R	E
B	E	L	O	W		D	I	N	A	R
B	L	A	R	E		I	R	O	N	S
		E	W	E	R		D	E	N	T

5-19

Yesterday's Answer

— GIG YOUNG · JAMES WHITMORE

— PLUS —
SPORTLIGHT — NEWS

TODAY

Carolina

What you read this Summer depends on what you buy now!

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

WEATHER
Cloudy and warm with chance of thundershowers, 80 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

ACTION
The press, public opinion give 111 Murphey an overhaul. Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 154 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. WEDNESDAY, MAY 20, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

SUAB Strives For Rewarding '54

Warmer Campus Spirit Is Student Union's Goal

By Jennie Lynn

To create a warmer campus spirit by serving the student and stimulating his desire to get more out of college through participating in its activities, is the goal SUAB is striving for and hoping to attain next year, according to Chairman Nancy Horne.

Carolina students, recognizing the value of the work of student unions on other campuses, set up SUAB (Student Union Activities Board) this year. It's purpose is to help students in any way it can —through bringing them information, noted speakers, worthwhile concerts, thorough publicity and co-ordination and cooperation of all campus organizations.

Desiring to know more about other student unions, SUAB's chairman, Nancy Horne, represented Carolina in the national Convention of College Unions at Berkeley, Calif. last month.

Seventy-five universities and colleges, from Hawaii to New York attended this meeting. The representatives discussed ways to serve the students, faculty and alumni, how to operate with other organizations, and how to help in the orientation programs. They also talked about and shared ideas concerning the educational, social, and cultural values that can be expected to be received from student unions.

Next Fall SUAB plans to be in full swing. It's expectations are to continue and enlarge the undertakings of '53. During orientation, as it did this fall, the board will give to new Carolinians copies of important information concerning all campus organizations, to enable the various groups to make personal contacts with interested students.

The polls committee plans to take surveys of the student body's opinion of national, international, and campus affairs for any organization that desires them to be made. This project will be under the guidance of an adviser, experienced in statistical work. Results of the surveys will be published.

The student union will sponsor a monthly theme dance, similar to the Sadie Hawkins Dance in November. Also to help the new students to get to know more people it plans to hold informal picnics, banquets or a just-have-fun day each month.

The organization's dance committee is working on entertainment that will use the talent on campus. They hope to have semi-weekly shows, where students will sing, play the piano or dance for patrons of the Rendezvous Room.

The film committee will continue its bringing outstanding pictures to Gerrard Hall, and such entertainment as Polgar is on next year's agenda.

All organizations, honorary and social fraternities, have been asked to send to SUAB a list of officers and outstanding members to compile a "Who's Who On Campus" to be placed in Graham during the first week of orientation. While counselors and advisers are introducing the newcomers to UNC on the tours during orientation week, SUAB will serve drinks and cookies in the lounge of the building.

One of SUAB's greatest hopes is to stimulate a better relationship between students and faculty by their getting together for informal talks and discussions, over coffee and sandwiches.

Y Members Play Baseball With Butner

Batter up was the call of the day when Carolina lads and lasses visited the boys at Camp Butner Sunday.

Barefoot coeds, skirts flying, rounded the bases with the best of them, and at the end of a delightfully exhausting afternoon the score stood at 2 to 1, Butner's favor.

Other students watched from the sidelines or visited with the boys around the Center. The trip to the Youth Rehabilitation Center is the last of a series of visits back and forth between students and the boys during this school year.

Several times about 75 of the boys have come over to Carolina to spend Sunday evening with different student groups. YMCA leaders here hope plans can be made for a swimming party this coming weekend at Sparrow's Pool, but as yet definite arrangements have not been made. Interested students are asked to keep in touch with the Y office.

Lt. Peacock Lists Openings In Reserve

It. Hal Peacock commander of the local army reserve unit says there are openings in the local unit for men with or without previous military service.

For non-service men it offers a chance for training prior to entry into active duty, and chances for rapid promotions. There will be one day's pay for every meeting attended. The meetings will be held here every other Tuesday night for two hours.

Ex-servicemen with reserve obligations can cut down their reserve time from five to three years. They are also entitled to pay for meetings attended, and will be entitled to promotions and retirement benefits.

Interested persons should call Lt. Peacock at 9-9128 and make an appointment for the mental and physical tests.

FIRST TRIPLE ACE OF the air war over Korea is Capt. Joseph McConnell, Jr., (above) who in one day blasted three enemy MIG's from the skies to bring his total of kills to 16. McConnell's feat brought him from third to first place among pilots still active in Korea, and made him the world's leading jet pilot.—NEA Telephoto.

Commencement Guests Can Stay In Dorms

Degree candidates can reserve free dormitory rooms for guests during commencement weekend through James Wadsworth, UNC Housing Office, Chapel Hill.

Students or their parents must phone, write, or sign a reservation list in the office to give the student's name, guests' names, address, and the nights they plan to stay in the rooms.

No Yacks Today

There will be no Yackety Yacks distributed today, because of a failure in shipment from the printers.

More yearbooks will be here tomorrow, according to the Yack staff. The office will be open from 3 p.m. to 5 for the distribution.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower will ask Congress to extend the excess profits tax for six months beyond July 1—the present expiration date. He will also recommend that individual income taxes be maintained at the present level for the rest of this year. President Eisenhower gave Republican congressional leaders a five-point tax program which calls for letting a 10 per cent cut in individual income taxes go into effect on schedule Jan. -.

★

LAS VEGAS—The Atomic Energy Commission staged the ninth blast of its current test series yesterday and a pilotless plane made the first successful flight into the turbulent thermal envelope surrounding the nuclear fireball. The test, "jinxed" by four postponements because of excessive radiation and unfavorably weather, appeared to rank with the most powerful atomic explosions ever set off on Yucca Flat.

★

NEW ORLEANS—Parts of Georgia and South Carolina were put on tornado alert yesterday as the death toll rose to six from foul weather that has plagued the Southeast throughout the spring. Louisiana was in the midst of flood relief that brought the evacuation of more than 2,500 persons. The figure was increasing by the hour.

★

SEOUL—South Koreans infrantrymen yesterday turned back Communist attacks on Allied positions, killing an estimated 241 Chinese as fighting erupted anew on the 155-mile Korean battlefront. Sabrejets went aloft but met no resistance after knocking out 12 MIG's.

Ralph Linton, Noted Scholar, Will Lecture

Dr. Ralph Linton, well-known anthropologist and Sterling professor of anthropology at Yale University, will deliver a public lecture tomorrow night in Carroll Hall at 8:30.

Dr. Linton, who is being sponsored by the Institute for Research in Social Science and the Anthropology Club, will speak on the subject, "What Is National Character?"

Recently chosen to deliver the Huxley Memorial Lectures at the Royal Academy in London next year, Dr. Linton is one of only four Americans to be so honored.

He is coming to this campus as a consultant on a Veterans Administration project being carried on by the Institute for Research in Social Science.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. EISENHOWER leave the presidential yacht "Williamsburg" after a four-day cruise which took them to Yorktown, Va., Norfolk, and the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. The trip, which ended at Alexandria, Va., marked the last time that the "Williamsburg" will be used. The luxurious yacht is being put in mothballs as an economy move.—NEA Telephoto.

Carolina Students Taking Part In Survey Of College Expenses

A selected group of Carolina students will participate today in a nationwide survey of costs students incur in attending college.

Carolina was selected as one of 100 schools throughout the country to be polled on the cost of higher education. The Health, Education and Welfare Department of the U. S. Office of Education is conducting the survey.

Students who have received cards will attend a brief meeting this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Carroll Hall. Those participating in the study will be rendering a service to education, said Roy Armstrong, coordinator of the project.

Armstrong requested that students who find it impossible to attend the meeting notify Charles Bernard at the Admissions Office today or tomorrow.

The study of college costs will include a sample of 35,000 full-time undergraduates who are now attending 100 selected colleges.

"The success of this project depends heavily on a high student response rate," explained the group making the study. "We hope you will accept the challenge of this opportunity to perform a valuable public service for American higher education."

Reason for the survey, stated the Office of Education, is to study the situation which has been cause of concern to educators and other citizens.

The statement was:

"Parents, college administrators, boards of trustees, donors, agencies of State and Federal governments, as well as students themselves, have frequently expressed concern about the pyramiding costs students incur in attending college.

"There appears to be a well-founded fear that these costs may price certain economic groups out of the college market, thus depriving the nation of the effective use of one of its most valuable resources—the leadership potentiol of its young men and women.

"In order to get at the facts of the situation, the U. S. Office of Education is undertaking a study of the patterns of student expenses and of the sources from which funds for these purposes are obtained. Special attention will be given to an analysis of the relation of family income to decisions regarding college attendance."

WAA's Annual Picnic Is Tomorrow, 4 O'clock

The WAA will hold its annual Spring picnic tomorrow from 4-6 p.m. behind the Women's Gym. Lots of good food will be provided and everyone is invited to attend, at a cost of 65 cents a person.

Highlighting the afternoon's activities will be the presentation of Senior awards, monograms, and plaques and cups to the various intramural winners.

Jobs Open On Directory Staff

The YMCA Publication Board is seeking applicants for editor and business manager of next year's Student Directory. Application forms may be secured in the main office of the YMCA.

Applicants who plan to attend Summer School will be preferred by the Board, which hopes to publish the Directory by the end of the second week of Fall Term. The business manager will receive a percentage of all ads that he sells, and the editor will be provided with an expense account to use at his discretion.

Americans Live In Clubs

Austrian Student Sees Campus, Likes Carolina's Honor System

By Ken Sanford

"I especially like your honor system," said Peter A. Pliem, an Austrian student who is visiting Carolina's campus to study student government.

"In Austria we have a supreme court for students made up of two professors and one student." Pliem said. Then he added, "But our student government has more power than yours."

He explained that in Austria the state owns all universities. If their Parliament wants to pass a bill affecting students, it must first go before student government. Pliem said that when the Minister of Education wanted to raise tuition and fees the students struck and won their case. "We have a union of students like your labor unions," he said.

Pliem is a student at Graz University and is in the United States on the State Department's exchange program. He is studying the American system of education, student organizations and community life, especially campus life.

He has visited Georgetown, Columbia, Rutgers, and Princeton Universities and lived on the Bucknell University campus for a week.

"I am very glad to see that American students are studying Europe, because it is very important for them to learn as much as possible since America occupies such a position of world power," Pliem said.

In comparing American and European universities Peter said that America places the emphasis on quantity, and Europe places the emphasis on quality of education. "Our students get more intensive training and harder quizzes while yours get a broader scope of studies," he said.

"European universities don't have campuses, but I think it would be nice to live on a campus."

He said he likes the informality between students and professors in America. He said that in Europe if a student doesn't go to his professor's office, he doesn't ever get to speak to him. There are no class discussions.

Of American family life Pliem said that most families seem to live in clubs and organizations. "The European family has more home life," he said.

Phi Bete Initiates 98 In Ceremony; Ryon Is President

Phi Beta Kappa's chapter here received 98 new members yesterday afternoon in initiation ceremonies in Gerrard Hall.

Automatically elected as president for the next year by virtue of his academic average was Dale Sanford Ryon of Asheville. He has a straight A average for his college career. Elected vice-president by the same principle was Charlotte Lambert Davis of Chapel Hill.

The entire membership of Phi Beta Kappa here elected Susan Ambler of Fort Myers, Fla., as its recording secretary.

Following the initiation ceremonies there was a banquet in Lenoir Hall honoring the new initiates. Principal speaker was Dr. George B. Cutten, former president of Colgate University, now a resident of Chapel Hill.

Old officers in charge of the initiation were Archibald T. Fort, Oxford, and William R. Harris, co-presidents; Judson Hardy Jr., Silver Springs, Md., vice-president; John Motsinger, Winston-Salem, recording secretary, and Dean E. L. Mackie, corresponding secretary-treasurer.

Initiates from North Carolina are: Roger W. Ackerman, Wallace; Nancy Ann Ader, Walkertown; Norman H. Allen, Greensboro; Mary Alice Ballew, Denton; Anna M. Beeson, Greensboro; Marion W. Benfield Jr., Belwood; Marvin B. Berry, Asheville; Harold J. Bradley Jr., Greensboro; Robert A. Brown, Robersonville; Beverly J. Chalk, Greensboro; David M. Clinard. Winston-Salem; Robert L. G. Connelly, Raleigh; Fred J. Dale Jr., Hickory;

Charlotte L. Davis, Chapel Hill; George T. Davis, High Point; Lloyd B. Ennis, Salisbury; Vallin D. Estes Jr., Raleigh; Thomas A. Farmer Jr., Smithfield; George W. Ferguson Jr., Charlotte; Joseph B. Fields, Durham; Joseph D. Gilliam, Thomasville; Robert D. Gorham Jr., Rocky Mount; Leonard H. Grodsky, Durham; Marilyn Habel, Chapel Hill; James L. Haney Jr., Glenwood; Max A. Harris, Drexel; Hamilton C. Horton Jr., Winston-Salem;

John R. Ingle, Silver City; William R. Jacobs, Selma; Katherine E. Jente, Chapel Hill; Thomas M. Johnson, Clayton; Betty Ann Kirby, Winston-Salem; Ruth M. Ledford, Durham; James B. Linder, Greensboro; Celia W. Lively, New Bern; Henry A. Lowet, Winston-Salem;

Carl G. McCraw Jr., Charlotte; Gerald T. McMahon, Asheville; Ancel C. Mewborn, LaGrange; Billy W. Miller, Morganton; Lloyd B. Moon, Charlotte; Joseph L. Murad, Wilson; Henry V. Murray Jr., Burlington; Gertie Nelson, Lumberton; Morris F. Osborne, Arden; John L. Prugh, Charlotte; William A. Rankin Jr., Reidsville; Aubrey W. Redman, Leaksville; John L. Rendleman, Salisbury; Nancy G. Ripple, Winston-Salem; Nathan R. Roberson Jr., Robersonville; William H. Ruffin Jr., Durham; Dale S. Ryon, Asheville;

Arnold F. Schild, Conway; Melvin J. Schwartz, Wilmington; Margaret W. Sears, Raleigh; Raymond R. Showfety, Greensboro; Grace P. Silvers, Chapel Hill; Zebulon V. Smith Jr. Concord; Nathaniel L. Sprarow, Chapel Hill; William R. Story, Wilkesboro; Richard LeR. Taylor, Raleigh; Herbert H. Thorp, Rocky Mount; Raphael W. Vinson, Ahoskie; Wisner McC. Washam, Cornelius, and James R. Younts, High Point.

Out-of-state initiates: Susan Ambler, Ft. Myers, Fla.; Douglas W. Ayres, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.; William Q. Beard Jr., St. George, S. C.; George W. Brain, Tomkins Cove, N. Y.; Barry W. Bryant, Annapolis, Md.; Robert E. Calvin, Ravenna, Ohio; Kenton B. Creuser, Avondale Estates, Ga.; Farrell R. Crouse, Penn's Grove,

(See PHI BETE, page 4)

CAMPUS SEEN

Three-year-old tot at Sunday's lawn concert arranging her sunsuit in off-the-shoulder fashion, influenced by warm weather apparel of older music lovers.

*

Meticulous male in photography class blacking shoes with bottle of Griffin's he had brought along.

*

Old West junior scientist's telescope being taken over by Di Senators, just out after a lengthy session.

Seniors Have Another Movie Tonight—Free

"The Magic Box," one of the year's top British movies, has a special showing at the Varsity tonight for seniors.

The cast, 60 of England's leading actors, includes Lawrence Olivier, Robert Donat, Stanley Holloway, Glynis Johns, Emlyn Williams and Michael Redgrave. Other outstanding English stars have small roles.

The technicolor picture, filmed to win the '53 British Film Festival, brings to the screen the life of William F. Green, inventor of the first motion picture camera.

The New Yorker's Bosley Crowther says, "Donat does a superlative job — excellent setting and superb camera all around."

Coeds will have late permission and are asked to return to their dorms directly after the picture.

Jimmy Adams Is Council's New President

Jimmy Adams was recently elected president of the Student Council.

Adams, a rising senior from Warrenton, has served a year and a half on the council.

He has served as chairman of Carolina's CUSC delegation for the past year and is a delegate for the coming year.

Adams is a member of the Order of the Grail and Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. He served one term in student legislature and was recently appointed to President Bob Gorham's Cabinet.

Jane Berryhill was elected clerk of Student Council. Other members of the council are Mase Chapin, Lois Collins, Elinor Wrenn, Henry Lowet, Ed Gross, Bill Ruffin and Herb Cohn.

Women's Residence Council

The Women's Residence Council will meet today at 4 p.m. in the Women's Council room of Graham Memorial. A discussion of the proposed revision of the Coed Visiting Agreement is on the agenda.

Degree Candidates

There will be a compulsory meeting of all June candidates for degrees tomorrow at 4:15 in Memorial Hall, Dean Clifford P. Lyons said yesterday.

The Daily Tar Heel

WEDNESDAY, MAY 20, 1953

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Asst. Sports Ed. — Vardy Buckalew
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Sehindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles, Frances Walls.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night editor for this issue: John Jamison

Up The Creek

Without direction, Graham Memorial drifts on.

As the University's student union, Graham Memorial is supposed to present a program of activity for students and be receptive to their suggestions for improvement or diversification. With the exception of its well-organized Student Union Activities Board, our student union—for lack of a director—is doing few of the things it should.

For many reasons it's time the selection committee picked its man. Here are some of the reasons why:

1. Mere conservation of facilities requires that someone be on the job permanently. The building is not in the proper state of repair and needs continual checking. Also, people steal.

2. The dozen or so members of the Graham Memorial Board of Directors will be scattered with the end of this quarter. It will be impossible for them personally to attend to choosing a successor to Bill Roth. (They must pass on the selection committee's choice.)

3. There are three or four applications up for consideration. Undoubtedly the applicants want to know something, and soon. Furthermore, a director needs to be picked now if he is to have a good program for the Fall.

4. Finally, we need a permanent student union director, not a man who would fill in during the Summer and be replaced at the beginning of the Fall. (This has been seriously suggested.)

The Daily Tar Heel believes that some members of the selection committee for personal prejudices are blocking the appointment. We think it a self-evident truth that this is bad.

We reiterate that we also believe it self-evident that Graham Memorial's plight, and it is just that, necessitates a decision. How about it selection committee?

Prodigal Son

The last mud has splattered and Carolina, errant third of the Consolidated student body, has come back into the tri-collegiate fold.

The Consolidated University Student Council, i.e., CUSC, always has suffered the stigma of being identified by initials. Its aims, its work have been obscured because for some reason students don't like to fathom initials. But further, its contributions as a Consolidated affair haven't been bell-ringers, and the area in which it has strived hardest the Consolidated University Student Council has done poorest, namely representing student opinion.

This largely was because the constitution provided no outlet for the minority party in Consolidated disputes to file a dissenting opinion. Recognizing the situation and its impediment, Carolina's Jimmy Adams resigned last quarter. Since then he has led the move to change this constitutional prohibition. Finally he has won.

Better progress should mark this side of consolidation from now on.

While We're At It

While speaking of consolidation, The Daily Tar Heel suggests it be pointed out to President Gray that consolidation does not mean bondage nor a "leveling" for the three institutions. Rather, it should mean coordination where practical, continued separation where desirable.

Cops & Robbers

— A.Z.F. Wood Jr. —

"It's just a glorified game of cops and robbers," said Bill Gray, 1st Lieutenant in the Marine Corps. Bill has just returned from an eleven-month sojourn on the peninsula of Korea. "Nothing but patrols and setting up outposts. Then they over-run of our outposts and we've gotta go get it back again."

"What do you want the outposts back for?"

"Well, they're higher than our lines, on a hill usually, and if they stay there they can look down on us and shell our supply lines."

"Do we go after one of their outposts much?

"The only time is when the truce-talks are going on. Then we send a patrol out to establish contact so if and when they decide on a truce and each side has to move back a couple of hundred yards, we won't have to go back so far. This holds particularly true close to a river. We want to be able to stay on the north side."

"What about these truce - talks?"

Bill shrugged. "These Orientals are patient. Very patient. They're in no big hurry to get things settled. They're perfectly content to stay right there—to live out their lives right there."

"Do you think they want peace?"

"Who?"

"Well, the big dogs at Panmunjom."

"I don't think so. They could have had it two years ago. But as soon as they got their troops back to top strength again or as soon as they figured the UN had relaxed a little, they said to hell with the truce-talks."

"What about the ones who are doing the actual fighting?"

"No, they don't want to stop. Particularly the Chinese. They've got something to eat for a change, some clothes, and enough dope to keep them going. And when they're through fighting they get a little plot of land back in China and maybe an ox and they're all set."

"Why doesn't something happen besides patrols and skirmishing?"

"Well, I guess the UN is still waiting on the truce-talks. I don't know what the Communists are waiting for. We could make a big drive if we wanted to and push right off the peninsula and they could push us off if they wanted to. Maybe one reason is that we won't let them set up air-bases anywhere south of the Yalu and they can't make air-strikes. But they could still push us off if they wanted to."

"What's it going to do, just drag on and on?"

"Yep, just drag on for years and years. And even if there was a truce, it wouldn't do any good. The South Koreans want a united Korea and so do the North Koreans. If we signed a truce and got out one or the other would attack trying for unity. And both of them are war machines. So we can't get out because we wouldn't know if the Russians would. And they can't get together anymore and agree to unity, for what kind of government would you have? One side wants Communism and the other doesn't. So it's just drag on and on, and as I said, these Orientals are awfully patient."

"Sounds kinda futile."

"Yep, kinda futile."

'Funny Weather, Isn't It?'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—For some time I have been sitting in court in a legal action that went against me. In 30 years of newspapering I have battled a few of these suits, and I am not ashamed of them. They are unpleasant, time-consuming, and dollar-consuming, but they are necessary in the newspaper profession — unless you adopt the policy of running away from a fight.

If you try to unearth what's really going on in Washington; if you try to tell what takes place behind the scenes, if you don't rely on the official handout, then you are likely to sit a certain amount of time on the hard benches of the court.

I believe in protecting my newspapers and radio stations, so I have always fought these lawsuits out. That's what courts are for, and as a strong believer in the American jury system, I make no complaints.

As a matter of fact, juries have treated me extraordinarily well during the years, handing down favorable verdicts in such important cases as that of Congressman Martin Sweeney of Ohio, the man in the Red House on R Street, Attorney General Fred Howser of California, Dan Duncan of Buzzard's Roost, and others.

Last week, however, I lost my first case. Paradoxically I lost to a onetime friend, Norman Littell, whom I had defended when he was under fire in the Justice Department and during various other battles in which he got embroiled.

However, the first time I wrote even two lines about him that weren't dripping with praise he slapped a suit on me. He also got Senator McCarthy's personal attorney to represent him while McCarthy himself even busied himself trying to collect certain evidence against me—evidence that didn't exist.

The two lines, buried near the bottom of a column, stated that the Justice Department was checking on Littell's propaganda activities for the Dutch in connection with the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

This reference was written in 1949 when a lot of people in Washington were lining up for and against the Dutch during the row over Indonesia.

And perhaps the most important aspect of the Littell suit was the ruling of Judge Henry Schweinhaut that these two lines were libelous per se. Merely to report that a man is being investigated, or being checked by the FBI or having his tax records by internal revenue is now considered, under this ruling in the Littell Case, libelous per se in the nation's capital.

This means that the press could not have reported that Ambassador Chip Bohlen was being checked by the FBI during the fight over his confirmation. It means that the press could not have reported that Lamar Caudle was under investigation by a congressional committee unless an official announcement was made by that committee.

Express Yourself

Editor:

I want to thank Mrs. Rosemary Neill for her backhanded compliment on my "Hans Christian Andersen" review in her Sunday letter to the editor. Flattered as I am by her mistaking my criticism for that of a nation-wide publication, I cannot, however, agree in her comparison.

Today I looked up the December 1st copy of Time in the extension library and, aside from a plot analysis, a favorable paragraph on Danny Kaye, and just a hint that the production of the movie was incongruous with the subject matter, I can't find anything remotely similar between the two articles. Time liked the music and "The Little Mermaid" ballet; I did not. I liked the color; Time did not. So I still must contend that the review, garbled or not, was my own and was written shortly after I saw the film in New York at the Criterion Theatre at the beginning of the Christmas vacation.

Mrs. Neill, on the other hand, did make two valid points. The first was my incorrect choice of adjectives in describing the plot. Upon consideration I have decided that "unimaginative" and "heavy-handed" would have been more appropriate than "trumped-up" and "illogical." She was also correct in her citation of Joey Walsh, who played Andersen's young companion. He was quite appealing, and I admit negligence in omitting him for the review.

John Taylor

Foreign Languages In Our Schools

English Club

(Two statements have already been run in this column on the use and abuse of foreign language education in American schools. They were written by nationally significant people who feel that the subject is approaching tragic proportions.

(A professor of foreign languages at this University has consented to write the following piece for the English Club in order to make clear what educators have been doing to rectify a serious situation involving all the students on this campus.)

It is a well known fact that the foreign language requirements in American colleges and universities have ben cut drastically in the last two decades. Here in Chapel Hill foreign languages as a requirement for the A.B. degree were reduced from six courses in two languages, or 60 quarter hours, to four courses in one language, or 20 quarter hours, i.e., they were reduced by two-thirds within 20 years. This is in the face of certain truisms that are as valid and vital, both to the individual and the nation, as they were 20 years ago, or, for that matter, 200 or 300 years ago.

Objections to this senseless curtailment of foreign languages in the college curricula began to be heard at the time of World War II; they began like the distant rumbling of an approaching thunderstorm and have now reached an overpowering crescendo that is heard by all. Men whose utterances make news in every corner of the nation, large national organizations, industrial corporations of all kinds, and persons responsible for our relations with other countries have joined those educators who have not lost sight of the meaning and aims of culture and education toward it.

It is natural that these persons from different walks of life with widely varying interests state their cases in different ways and from various points of view. The worldly wise "adviser to presidents," Bernard M. Baruch (April 29, 1952) says: "The study of languages provides a home on which young minds are sharpened. Furthermore, foreign languages provide the key to a full command of English and at the same time open our minds to an appreciation and understanding of other peoples and cultures." Mrs. Newton P. Leonard, President of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, made this statement in Washington on January 15, 1953: "More of us must learn at least one foreign language in school. We must learn it well enough to read it, to speak it, to understand it when we hear it . . . Now if our parent-teacher associations —all 38,000 of them—are well informed about new proposals for teaching languages in the elementary schools, they will do all in their power to see that other community groups understand the value of these proposals . . . "

A president of a large overseas air line, representatives of American companies participating in the rapid industrialization in many foreign countries urge the study of foreign languages for purely practical reasons. They need graduates "in increasing numbers" who wish to make their futures in overseas work. The fact that General Motors, Remington Rand, National City Bank, department stores, overseas airlines, and steamship companies in New York send their trainees to "company sponsored" foreign language schools shows that the public schools have failed these trainees. 4,000 "young journalists," at a meeting at Columbia Unievrsity last March were urged by all those who addressed them to learn foreign languages. "How else are you going to know what the other fellow is thinking?" (Samuel Sharkey, assistant national news editor of the "Time's" United Nations Bureau.)

We cannot give the names of many others who have expressed themselves in the same spirit. But on deserves mention here: Earl J. McGrath, who has just resigned his position as U.S. Commissioner of Education, beat his breast in a public speech in St. Louis on May 3, 1952, and stated that he had taken an unwise position for some years. "I have now seen the light and I consider the foreign language a very important element in general education." To his credit, it must be said that he has not missed an opportunity during the last year to state his new posiion vigorously in a number of public addresses.

A turn of trend can be seen clearly in a resolution made in Chicago on March 7, 1953. 719 persons,

(See LANGUAGE, page 4)

The Bitter End

Ruth Hoyt

Now that the fourth Spring has rolled around and with it talk of graduation and the ever-present question that lurks in every Senior's mind, "Where do I go from here?" I realize only too well the truth in the words "these are the best years of your lives." Now when the safe, secure road that I have followed for four years is about to be torn from under I realize the weight that these words carry.

With only three weeks remaining in this moonlight-and-roses dream world that I have been living, my mind has suddenly become very much aware of several things. I can think back now and see all the wrongs I have done, remember how much more conscientious I could have been, realize how much harder I could have tried. And now, as always, it is too late.

Now is the time when I regret that I considered so many things unworthy of my interest and attention, how insignificant it might have been.

And yet, with it all, these four years have also taught me a great many things. Most of all, I have learned to be humble, not afraid or ashamed to stand up and take my criticism with good grace. I have learned to be a good deal more understanding of other people's actions and accept their failings and shortcomings on the same basis as my own.

Four years of college have taught me these things. And now when I realize that my departure must one day be inevitable I have realized one thing more-how much something meant to you until you have really lost it.

Baseball Team Loses Only Nine Men

By Tom Peacock

Coaches Bunn Hearn and Walt Rabb produced a young and hustling baseball team this year that loses only nine men through graduation.

Chal Port and Wayne White, the team co-captains, Bobby Henning, and Bill Lore are starting seniors that the team will miss. Alternating starters Ed Hooks, Bobby Williams, Joe Pazdan, John Motsinger, and John Stowe all receive their cap and gown, too, but Hearn and Rabb have a fine bunch of replacements.

The Tar Heels, winners of the southern division of the conference and second in the playoffs, finished the season with a 17-5 season record, 19-7 including the playoffs, their best since 1948.

Port, an All-Conference pitcher for the past two seasons and a cinch for this year's team, was Carolina's leading hurler and will be hard to replace. Some fine pitching from Don Marbry and Joe Morgan indicates the Tar Heel pitching should at least hold its own next season, despite the loss of Port, Lore, and Pazdan.

The infield stays about the same, and with another year of experience should be an improvement over this year's keystone bunch that is famous for getting off quick double plays. Henning, the fancy fielding first baseman, leaves, and Rabb will use either Joe Mosier or freshman Will Frye to replace him.

Bobby Williams at third base won't be back either, but Bruce Holt is coming back for his senior and best year, so there are no worries at the hot corner. Fred Dale and Harry Lee Lloyd, the keystone combination, come back to provide that tight middle a winning team needs.

Hooks, one of the two Carolina catchers, graduates, but Will Frye has three years to go behind the plate. If Hearn and Rabb come up with another good young catcher next year, they can free Frye for first sack duties.

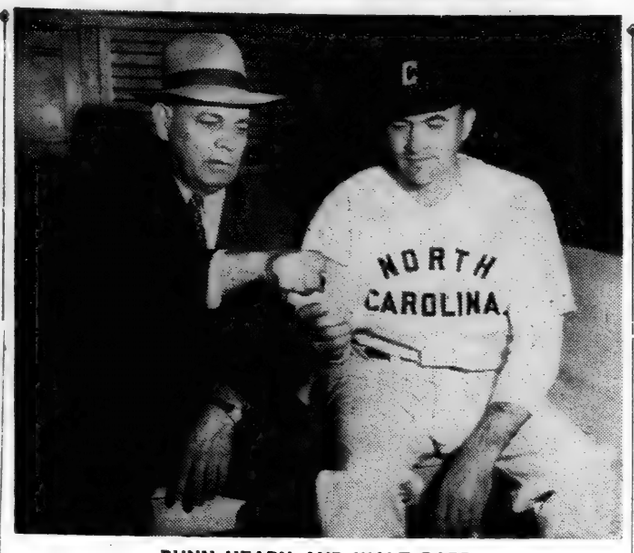
White and Motsinger, who alternated this ear, and Stowe are the only outfielders the team loses. White, who bats left handed, was used against right handed pitchers, and the right batting Motsinger played against southpaws.

Connie Gravitte, Billy Hawks, Albert Long, Ken Keller, and Billy Joe Johnson will all be back in the outfield, so Hearn and Rabb have few worries there.

At least two sophomores and one junior on the squad have the major league scouts drooling already. Gravitte and Lloyd, with two years to go apiece, are watched closely by the scouts and both will be sought for when they graduate. The same is true for Dale, who only has one more year. Most teams would sign those three right now, but fortunately, they all want college educations.

Also, two good young infielders, Charlie Yelverton and Calvin Lane will be with the club, and the warm-up catcher from this year, Dick Dodson.

The Carolina coaches have a nucleus for the best team in the new conference, and possibility the best in the South. Hearn and Rabb aren't expected to rest on these boys and Rabb is well known for his ability to get prospects to come to Chapel Hill.



One of the most satisfying titles the team earned this year, at least from a coaching viewpoint, is Big Four champions. The rivalry between the Big Four schools is great, and local papers, fans, and radio stations turn out for the games. Vic Sorrell, Taylor Sanford, and Ace Parker, the coaches at State, Wake Forest, and Duke, are all old major leaguers, as is Hearn, and the title is coveted among them.

The Tar Heels whipped all three of those teams two-out-of three times in regular season play to earn the championship.

Carolina's baseball team takes a trip to Florida early in the season to take advantage of the warmer weather and meet some teams that are usually more advanced in spring training.

The coaches have a pretty good line on the boys by the end of the trip. The Tar Heels played four games on this trip, losing two.

The usefulness of the trip was obvious, as Carolina played only one really sloppy game for the remainder of the season. That was a 10-5 loss to State the first time the two teams met.

BUNN HEARN AND WALT RABB
. . . Carolina baseball coaches

Lacrosse Meeting

There will be a meeting of all members of the lacrosse team at 4:15 today in room 304 in Woollen gym to discuss prospects for a banquet.

MURALS

Today's Tennis

4:10—(ATO or Kap Sig) vs. (Sig Chi or Pi Kap Phi).*

*Fraternity championship.

SPORTS STAFF

Tom Peacock, editor.
Vardy Buckalew, asst. editor.
John Hussey, Shermood Smith, Eddie Starnes.

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2307 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill.—Adv.

Stationery—Books—Greeting Cards—Gift Shop
Esterbrook Pens—Picture Frames and Picture Framing

Thomas Book Store

Cor. Corcoran & Chapel Hill Sts., Durham
Phone J-2331
L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters—Desk Pads
Shaeffer Pens—Kodaks & Supplies—Desk Lamps
Expert Repair on all makes of Typewriters

FOR GRADUATION . . .

GIVE LAUGHTER

Your graduate has earned a relaxed chuckle — and he'll jolly well need it when he gets out into the world. Here are a few suggestions from the big humor table at the Intimate Bookshop:

Rowdy Rhymes
A sizzling Peter Pauper edition that will be just right for the pal who rates a gift, but not a major investment. ——— $1.00

It All Started with Columbus
American history put through the sausage machine by Richard Armour. ——— $2.75

The Unfair Sex
Nina Farewell's attempt to settle the war of the sexes is just about as witty reading as you're likely to run across. ——— $2.95

And Gift-Wrapping is FREE at

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Browne Elected Tennis Captain

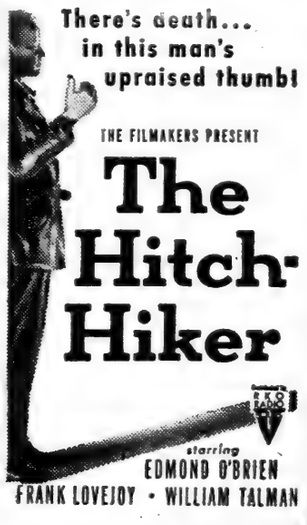
Herb Browne, rising junior from Columbia, S. C., has been elected captain of the Carolina tennis team for next year to replace the graduating Del Sylvia.

Browne was outstanding in scholastic play before entering Carolina and so far has lived up to the promise he showed. He won the Interscholastic singles championship in 1950 at Charlottesville and stepped into the number two singles position for Carolina as a freshman last year.

This past season he performed again in the second spot for most of the season, although receiving some stiff competition for that position from Freshman Tom Bradford.

In the current Southern Conference tournament, Browne advanced to the semifinals where he was defeated by defending champion Sylvia, who ultimately went on successfully to retain his title.

Browne and Bob Payne play doubles together and they won the conference championship as freshmen last year, the first freshmen ever to accomplish the feat.

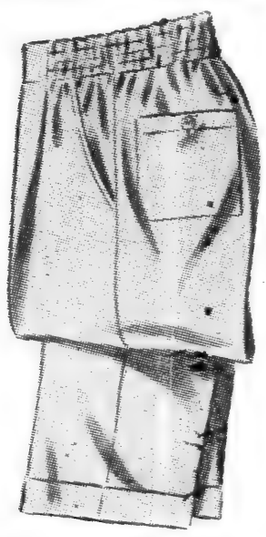


Ironically, this year they were beaten by teammates Bradford and Don Thompson in the semifinals, the latter pair going on to be the second combination in the history of the conference ever to win the doubles title.

In The Majors

National League
New York 6, Chicago 4.
Brooklyn at Milwaukee, (night)
Philadelphia at Cincinnati, (night)
Pittsburgh at St. Louis, (night)

American League
St. Louis 3, Boston 4.
Cleveland at Washington, (night)
Chicago at Philadelphia, (night)
Detroit at New York, (night)



Today-Thursday
J. Arthur Ranks
Penny Princess
In Technicolor
Starring
Dirk Bogarde
Yolande Donlan
Varsity
FRIDAY-SATURDAY

TV FAIR 1st RALEIGH - DURHAM
3 BIG DAYS
Starting Thursday, 7 p.m.
Friday 3 to 11 p.m.
Saturday 2 to 12 p.m.

IN PERSON!
And On TELEVISION
Inside Coliseum To Latest TV Models On Display
★ LANNY ROSS ★ DINNING SISTERS
★ HOMER and JETHRO (Thurs. and Fri. Only) ★ HAL LEROY
★ AUDREY (Mrs. Hank) WILLIAMS (Sat. Only)
CONTINUOUS ENTERTAINMENT
Shows Every Hour—Two Feature Shows Daily
WIN ONE OF 20 FREE TV SETS You Need Not Be Present To Win
Free Registration at TV Dealers and at Coliseum
DISPLAY OF LATEST TV MODELS
See Yourself on Television
ADMISSION 50c—Children 25c Inc. Tax
Benefit Damon Runyon Cancer Fund
Wm. NEAL REYNOLDS
Coliseum — Raleigh
May 21-22 and 23
TV FAIR 1st RALEIGH - DURHAM

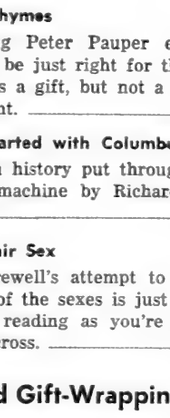
SPECIAL PURCHASE

MEN'S WASHABLE
DENIM
Hobby Slax

The smart new slacks for sports and casual wear. Elastic-back belted waist for comfort. Easy to launder, too! Available in a smart variety of colors you'll appreciate.

2.99

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.



SPECIALS FOR YOUR PICNIC THIS WEEK-END

springtime is picnictime—let us supply you with a complete line of picnic foods for your Chapel Hill weekend

PICNIC HAMS AND MEATS
HOT DOG AND HAMBURGER ROLLS
OLIVES AND PICKLES
POTATO CHIPS AND PRETZELS
SOFT AND MALT BEVERAGES
COMPLETE LINE OF CAKES AND COOKIES
CHEESE AND CHEESE SPREADS
RELISHES

FOWLER'S FOOD STORE
WEST FRANKLIN ST. PHONE 1416

You Can't Beat Our PRICES!

New Shipment—
Linen Sport JACKETS
$21.50

THE TOWN & CAMPUS

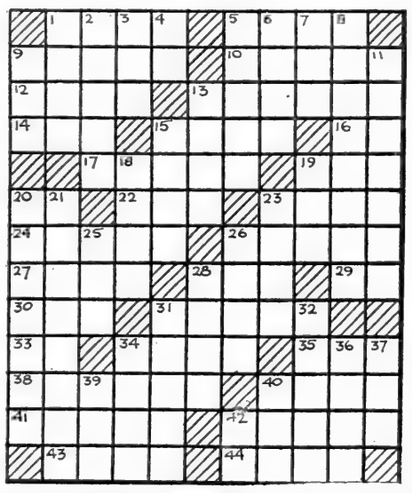
The ORIENTAL
Air-Conditioned
CHINESE & AMERICAN
Open Daily 11-9:45
Sunday 12-9:45
116 E. Parrish St. Durham

Independent Coeds

The Independent Coed Board will hold its annual picnic today in Battle Park. All independents, Joyner Dorm, and AKPsi are invited. The group will meet in the parking lot behind Graham Memorial at 5 p.m.

WUNC Schedule

7 p.m.—Holland Calling.
7:15—The U.N. Story.
7:30—Carolina Sports Review.
7:45—Famous Belgians.
8—Old Books, Old Friends
8:30—Masterworks From France
9—Concert Favorites.
9:30—Everybody's Business.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—Evening Masterwork.
11 p.m.—Sign Off.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Natural cavern
5. Flourished
9. Nobleman
10. Sharpened, as a razor
12. Enough (poet.)
13. Implement for spreading grass
14. Fuel
15. Sea eagle
16. Kings (abbr.)
17. Wading bird
19. Linen vestment (Eccl.)
20. Exclamation
22. Tree
23. Child's bedstead
24. Approaches
26. Basket for fish
27. Venture
28. Enemy
29. Southeast (abbr.)
30. Before
31. Female horses
33. Close to
34. Stitched
35. Swiss river
38. Come back
40. Projecting end of a church
41. Breathe noisily in sleep
42. Shun
43. Observes
44. Ancient Irish capital

DOWN
1. Biblical city
2. Ascended
3. Solemn promise
4. Half an em
5. City in Belgium
6. Floated
7. Finish
8. Periodicals appearing once a week
9. Plead
11. Trickle
13. Travel by oxcart
15. Epochs
18. Pierce with the horns
19. Part of "to be"
20. Makes beloved
21. Cheers
23. American Indian
25. Land-measure
26. A cereal grain
28. Young deer
31. Mountain pools
32. Flavor
34. Certain
36. Largest continent
37. Primary color
39. Digit
40. Polynesian drink
42. Close to

Yesterday's Answer

Complete Program Is Listed For BA School's Dedication

Three handsome, new buildings comprising the new School of Business Administration will be formally dedicated at exercises to be held Monday, May 25.

Construction of the three units was started in 1950, but the structures were not completed until last winter because of shortages of building materials and strikes.

The dedicatory program will be held in the auditorium of Carroll Hall, the center building, beginning at 2 p.m.

Two addresses are scheduled for the afternoon program and two again at 8 p.m., with open house being held in Room 301, Carroll Hall, from 1 to 6 p.m., and tours of the buildings scheduled between 1 and 2 p.m. and 5 and 6 p.m.

Dean Thomas H. Carroll will preside over the ceremonies getting under way at 2. Speakers on the afternoon program include James E. Webb, former Under Secretary of State and earlier Director of the Budget Bureau, now president of the Republic Supply Company, and George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks and Vice-President of the American Federation of Labor.

Webb will speak on the role of businessmen in relation to government service and the role of schools of business administration in training personnel who may go into government service.

Harrison will discuss the responsibilities of labor toward business and the place of labor in education for business.

Dean Donald K. David of the Graduate School of Business Administration, Harvard University, will discuss the role of education for business, at the night program, beginning at 8 o'clock, and Thomas B. McCabe, president of the Scott Paper Company, will follow, speaking on the subject of business responsibility from the point of view of business management.

Staff and students of the School of Business Administration moved into the new buildings early this year from Bingham Hall, home of the School for many years.

Of traditional design in architecture, the three units are constructed so as to complete the quadrangle of the South campus.

The central unit, Carroll Hall, houses the School's administrative and faculty offices, seminar and conference rooms, and has an auditorium with a seating capacity of 450. It is named for former Dean Dudley D. Carroll, now professor of economics, who established the School of Commerce here in 1919. The name was changed to the School of Business Administration in 1950.

Gardner Hall is named for the late O. Max Gardner, former governor and supporter of the University.

Hanes Hall is named for the Hanes family of Winston-Salem.

Hanes and Gardner Halls contain a few offices and classrooms and laboratories for the specialized fields of business administration: accounting, statistics, personnel management, production management, finance, marketing and transportation.

Headquarters of the North Carolina Business Foundation are located in Carroll Hall, and the University Placement Service has moved from South Building into Gardner Hall. The North Carolina State Board of Certified Public Accountant Examiners, a state agency has its headquarters in Hanes Hall.

Established in 1919 under the direction of Dudley D. Carroll as the result of a long-felt need for more special training for business leaders, the School of Business Administration has enjoyed an amazingly rapid growth. The graduating class grew from 12 in 1921 to 550 and the number of students enrolled from 46 to 1,250 in the same period.

Raymond Weeks, Durham architect and engineer, designed the new buildings, and J. A. Jones Construction Company of Charlotte had the general contract.

—Languages—

(Continued from page 2)

representing 364 accredited colleges and universities, attended the 8th National Conference on Higher Education, sponsored by the Association for Higher Education, and voted unanimously for the following resolution:

WHEREAS, a great need of our generation is for a wider and deeper understanding of other nations and other peoples, and

WHEREAS, a knowledge of the language of a people contributes greatly to the understanding of a foreign culture.

BE IT RESOLVED: That the Conference recommend that increasing provision be made for the study and effective teaching of foreign languages and cultures at all levels of American education—elementary, secondary, higher.

—Phi Bete—

(Continued from page 1)

N. J.; Joyce E. Dickman, Arlington, Va.; Shirley A. Gee, Johnson City, Tenn.; Chovine R. Gordon, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Jim Hicks, Laurens, S. C.; Henry C. Johnson Jr., Roanoke, Va.; Mary E. Jones, Atlanta, Ga.; Paula R. Jones, Flat River, Mo.; Bruce Marger, Miami, Fla.; Carman L. Nahm, Deland, Fla.;

Makis Papas, Newport News, Va.; Marian Parkins, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Andrew H. Patterson II, Bronxville, N. Y.; Walter H. Reichelt, Paramus, N. J.; William K. Scarborough, Annapolis, Md.; Robert L. Selig, New York City; Nancy P. Shotwell, Lynchburg, Va.; James P. Smith, Montgomery, Ala.; Jane A. Sneed, Ft. Pierce, Fla.; Jackson G. Sparks, Warrenton, Ga.; Ann Trabue, Hopkinsville, Ky.; Charles S. Tolbert, Decatur, Ga.; Joel S. Watkins Jr., Warren, Ark.; James N. Weatherly Jr., Georgetown, S. C.; Dixie Belle Whitley, Bronxville, N. Y.

What you read this Summer depends on what you buy now!

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

POSITION OPEN

WE ARE EXPANDING OUR BUSINESS IN CHAPEL HILL AND HAVE POSITION OPEN WITH EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY AND FUTURE. APPLY MR. LANE AT THE SPORT SHOP, NORTH COLUMBIA ST.

Campus capers call for Coke

Parties click when the mood is right. With enough Coke on hand you can set the scene for a gay session . . . anytime.

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

Durham Coca-Cola Bottling Company

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

WE'RE PROUD

Yes, we're very proud to be able to offer you the best automobile service that money can buy. Drive in today and have your car checked by skilled mechanics. Remember! All of our servicing is done with — PURE OIL Products.

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR

POE MOTOR CO.

112 W. Franklin

DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

Plus
Sportlight—News

TODAY

Carolina

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

WILL THE PERSON WHO FOUND C. T. Hill's class ring contact him through the YMCA office. (1-8016-2)

EMPLOYMENT WANTED 5

OPPORTUNITY TO SAVE $300—$600 during summer months working on circulation promotion program with Dunn & Bradstreet rated Southern concern. Journalism and Advertising students especially welcome. Minimum age men 18; women 21. Must travel and be able to drive. Transportation furnished, all expenses advanced. Write John Evans, Box 2070, Birmingham, Ala., for details; giving three references, date, place available to begin work. chg 1x2

FOR SALE: AUTOMOTIVE

1948 PLYMOUTH—FOUR DOOR. Going in service and must sell. In perfect condition with radio, heater, and new motor. Contact Tom Weil—115 Cobb. Phone 95011. (1-8017-1)

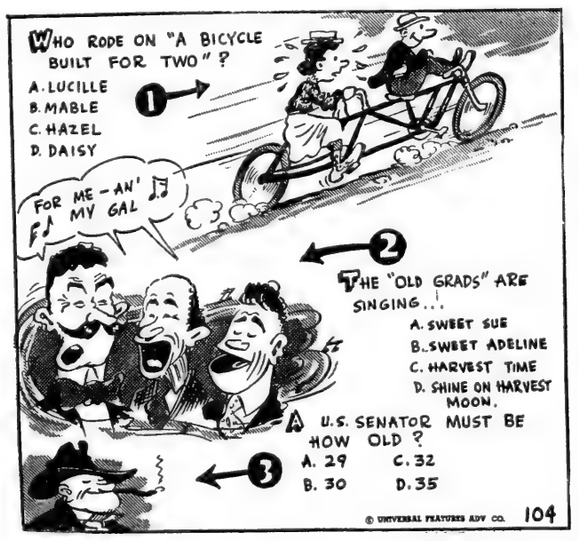
LOST 12

LADIES' WRIST WATCH. NAME carved on back: Lucy Riddle, Cheyenne, Wyo. Reward; Call R. E. Dickinson, Phone 9-5206. 1-c8013-3

ONE BROWN LEATHER BILLfold, probably around Carolina Inn. Identification card inside. If found, see Alva Stewart, 117 Cobb. Reward offered. 1-8015-1

FOR SALE 6B

SPORTSMAN TRAILER—EQUIPed kitchen, electricity, bed, ideal for camping. $295 or offer. Chapel Hill 9-8689 evenings. chg 1x1



DEATH. PICK ME UP, I AM THE Hitch Hiker, I will deliver it to you personally. See my story at the Varsity Theatre Friday and Saturday. Chg. 1x1

ELECTRIC KELVINATOR REfrigerator $50.00 Freezes quickly and clean. 9x12 blue wool Axminister rug, reasonable, also rose studio couch cover. 105 Polk

FOR RENT

OCEAN FRONT COTTAGE, LONG Beach, N. C. 3 bedrooms, hot and cold water, electric stove and refrigerator. Open dates, May 31 to June 21 inc. Rate $65.00 per week, write or phone J. D. DeVane, Phone 2-3007; 124 Rowan St., Fayetteville, N. C. (chg 1x2)

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY— Sutton's

The answer to "Where to get gifts for the June Graduates at the most reasonable Cost" is as simple as the quiz answer (Daisy, Shine on Harvest Moon and 30 Years) . . . it's SUTTON'S DRUG STORE.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER
Sutton's DRUG STORE
Rx SPECIALISTS
COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

MILTON SAYS ! !

SO MANY TARHEELS HAVE BEATEN MY BRAINS ON ACCOUNT OF THE B.F. (before fixtures) SALE AT MY NEW STORE ON THE WOLF-PACK CAMPUS, THAT I AM FORCED TO PASS ALONG ANOTHER GIANT SAVINGS PLAN TO MY CHAPEL HILL CUSTOMERS.

This is not the same merchandise that was sold on make-shift counters at my Carolina State store. The Wolf-Pack tore that stock to pieces, and there just 'ain't no mo'. However, since I have always contended that now is the time for all good men to stock up on Summer and Fall wearing apparel.

And whereas, I am the kind of a guy who puts up or shuts up; MILTON'S (Chapel Hill) CLOTHING CUPBOARD IS NOW FEATURING A GIANT COMMENCEMENT SALE of Regular Stock Items (no phoney 'specials' dragged in for the occasion).
All merchandise eminently suitable for SUMMER and FALL use by Carolina Gentlemen of Distinction. Cast your glassy eye on a few of the items below and then whistle.

Come in, try them on, and sell yourselves.

$5.00 Basket Weave dress shirts 2.99
Moygashel Irish linen suits reduced to 44.99
Viscose linen suits reduced to 29.99
Regular sanforized cotton cord suits (not baby cord) now 19.99
Regular .85 Sarfert Summer socks, 3 prs. for 1.29
Howard & Foster's 3 eyelet cordovan shoes, 24.00 value, reduced to 13.99
Custom Original cordovan shoes in cap toe blucher, good 23.00 value, reduced to 11.99
$4.95 value Tweka of Holland polo shirts reduced to 2.99
Brooks cut button down and English round collar shirts reduced to 2.99
Fall suits and sport coats will be slightly higher this fall due to labor increase, hence our mark-downs are all the more outstanding—
Charcoal flannels in Brooks cut, reduced from 57.00 to 39.99
Large Group of Sport Coats, including our choicest Ivy League model, substantially reduced
Summer short sleeve sports shirts ½ price, now 1.99

New Items to be added daily from now till the end of the quarter
No Charges on Sale Items

Milton's Clothing Cupboard

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and warm with 85 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

WEEKEND
Saturday classes bring the need for entertainment. Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 155 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. | THURSDAY, MAY 21, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — Investigating senators called yesterday for a statement from President Eisenhower himself on Allied nations' trade with Red China, after hearing testimony that two British-owned vessels transported Red Chinese troops along the China coast last year. The testimony came from Robert Kennedy at a public hearing before the Senate investigations subcommittee of which he is an assistant counsel. It drew angry comment from some of the senators present. Sen. McCarthy, the committee chairman, said he would have a letter to Mr. Eisenhower drawn up yesterday afternoon.

★

TOKYO — The United Nations in a "final" truce offer to the Communists will agree that anti-Red Chinese prisoners of the UN be sent to a neutral country until their future is decided, a reliable source said yesterday. But the UN will stand pat on its insistence that the anti-Communist Korean prisoners it holds be kept in Korea, the informant said. The UN offer will be made when the truce negotiations are resumed at Panmunjom Monday.

★

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower faced a major test of his political leadership yesterday in Congress to hold off tax cuts until next year. High-ranking Republicans and Democrats of both houses pledged their support of his five-point tax program, which would add about $1,000,000,000 to the government's income during the 1954 fiscal year.

★

SEOUL — Allied infantrymen killed or wounded an estimated 230 Chinese Communists near T-Bone Hill yesterday and American fighter-bombers followed through with a heavy raid on a troop and supply center. Three hundred Chinese charged the Allied-held outpost in the Chorwon area on the western front after smashing barbed-wire entanglements and minefields. Meanwhile, in the air war four unidentified planes dropped bombs and strafed a bridge behind Allied lines, the Eighth Army announced. Nine UN soldiers were killed or wounded.

FAMED WOMAN PILOT Jacqueline Cochran stands beside the Canadian-built F-86 Sabre-jet plane which she used to break the sound barrier in a high-speed test over the Muroc Dry Lake in California. Miss Cochran became the first woman pilot to fly faster than the speed of sound when she piloted her craft around a circular course for an average of 652 miles per hour.—NEA Telephoto.

Linton Talks

Dr. Ralph Linton, well-known anthropologist and Sterling professor of anthropology at Yale University, will deliver a public lecture tonight in Carroll Hall at 8:30.

Dr. Linton, who is being sponsored by the Institute for Research in Social Science and the Anthropology Club, will speak on the subject, "What Is National Character?"

Dormitories To Get Streamlining With Bond Issue Funds

By Louis Kraar

A streamlined system of coordination of the housing office, dormitory managers and advisers is among the proposed improvements for dormitories, it was learned yesterday.

Other planned improvements will provide additional recreational facilities for some dorms, and acoustical ceilings and asphalt tile flooring for the corridors of all men's dormitories.

The new coordination system for dorms would set up offices for the director of men's residence halls, and dorm advisers and managers within the residence hall area. This improvement would provide a single office for all dormitory administration from paying bills to conferring with dorm advisers, administrative officials pointed out.

These improvements were provided for in the request for the recent bond issue authorized by the state legislature. Out of $1,001,000 in the bond issue, $196,000 is labeled for renovation and equipment of dormitories.

The requested improvements as made by the administration are:

1. Finish basement in the south wing of Cobb Dormitory.

2. Treat corridors of all men's residence halls not already so equipped with acoustical ceilings and asphalt or rubber tile flooring.

3. Provide offices for the director of men's residence halls and staff the head manager and director of dormitory advisers within the residence area.

4. Treat walls and ceiling of part of Cobb basement for use as recreation, meeting or study room. Furnish the room.

5. Finish basement of Alexander Dormitory with acoustical treatment and asphalt tile.

6. Finish basement of Stacy Dormitory with acoustical treatment and asphalt tile.

7. Finish with acoustical treatment the basements of Connor, Joyner and Winston Dormitories.

8. Modernize plumbing equipment and treat floors and walls in Old East and Old West.

9. Provide carpets for Connor, Joyner and Winston Dormitories lounges.

Administration officials said that they hoped work would begin early this Summer and be completed by next Fall. They also explained that the proposed improvements are subject to changes.

Other budget funds totaling $20,000 were provided for fire escapes on six of the older University buildings.

Navy Awards Twenty Cadets In Ceremony

Twenty awards, citations and medals were presented cadets in the Naval ROTC unit at the annual Ayards Day program on Emerson Field yesterday afternoon.

Capt. John S. Keating, professor of naval science and tactics and commander of the UNC unit, made the presentations.

The following awards were made:

"Professor Naval Science Award," to Arthur J. Eagan, Portsmouth, Va., for contributing most to the welfare of the unit.

"American Legion Medal," Joel S. Watkins, Warren Ark., for outstanding qualities of military proficiency.

"Best Drilled Company Award," Erle D. Litzenberger, Bethlehem, Pa., for company leadership in inter-company drill competition.

"Best Drilled Platoon Award," Jerome W. Bolick, Conover, for leadership in inter-platoon drill competition.

"NROTC Journalism Award," Joel L. Fleischmann, Fayetteville, for contribution towards the publishing of the unit newspaper, The Carolina Cutter.

"Best All-Around Freshman," citation, Elon A. Abernethy, Blowing Rock.

"Excellence in Marksmanship Award," given by the Sons of the American Revolution, John Payne Jackson, Eau Gallie, Fla.

"Drill Team Award," Donald L. Harley, Haddonfield, N. J.

"Rifle Marksmanship Award," Elon A. Abernethy, Blowing Rock.

"Pistol Marksmanship Award," Elon A. Abernethy, Blowing Rock.

"Marine Corps Gazette Ayard," Arthur J. Eagan, Portsmouth, Va., as outstanding member of graduating Marine Corps candidates.

"Rifle Team Membership Award," William G. Parmele, East Orange, N. J., for competition in postal and other rifle team matches.

"Pistol Team Membership Award," Loren A. Brandt, Charleston, S. C., for competition in postal and other pistol team matches.

"Navigation Medal," William K. Scarborough, Annapolis, Md., for highest average in navigation.

"Marine Science Medal," Harvey D. Bradshaw, Greenville, for highest average in Marine science courses.

"Supply Science Medal," Harry H. Arnold, Dover, for highest average in supply science courses.

"Ordnance and Gunnery Medal," Frederick D. Hamrick, III, Rutherfordton, for highest average in naval ordnance and gunnery courses.

"Special Letter of Commendation, with Medal," Julian H. Rountree, Mount Airy, for diligence and devotion to duty in behalf of welfare and organization of the unit.

"Naval Institute Proceedings Award," Bruce A. Bauer, Arlington, Va., and William D. Smith, Bethel, for demonstrating exceptional interest in professional, literary, and scientific knowledge of the Navy.

"Trophy for largest blood donation to Red Cross," presented to the entire unit, by Junius C. Fox, Red Cross Bloodmobile Drive chairman.

WUNC Schedule

7—Sketches in Melody.
7:30—Night Duty.
8—Duke Symphony Orchestra.
9:30—Matters of Note by Dr. Wilton Mason.
10:30—News and Coming Events.
10:35—Evening Masterwork
11:00—Sign Off.

CAMPUS SEEN

South Building drinking fountains, which seem to have been built for midgets, responding to your thirst with a stream of tepid water.

★

Mayor Ed Lanier sporting a new paint job of his antiquated A-Model.

J. P. Jones' 'Lost Months' Are Revealed

By J. D. Wright

Members of the Graduate History Club heard Dr. Archibald Henderson reveal what happened during the 20 "missing months" in the life of John Paul Jones last night in the Library Assembly Room.

According to Dr. Henderson, no one in the world can show documentary evidence that John Paul Jones was anywhere on the face of the earth for the 20 months after Feb. 1, 1774, although thousands have devoted most of their lives doing so.

Dr. Henderson has had those months on his mind since childhood, and together with the help of his sisters has discovered what he believes to be an answer to the mystery.

"John Paul," Dr. Henderson says, "while the master of a ship around the year 1772, had trouble with a crew member and flogged him. After returning to England the sailor bitterly showed his wounds to many people, denouncing John Paul. Three months later the man died at sea on another vessel, but it was believed his death was a result of the flogging. John Paul had to obtain many affidavits to prove his innocence, but finally did so.

"Two years later, he had trouble agian at sea with another sailor, and this time he killed him. These two incidents, were heavy on Jones' conscience, and, afraid he would not receive justice, he went incognito for 20 months."

He then came to Philadelphia, Dr. Henderson said, and looked up James Smith, owner of a shipping company, and an old friend, who sent him to Edenton, North Carolina to see his brother. While in Edenton, he met and stayed at Willie Jones' home, and later became associated with high-ranking Masons. After several months he returned to Philadelphia and gained a captain's rank and master of an American ship.

All the time he was incognito, John Paul signed his name as J. P. Jones.

Five Tapped By Valkyries In Ceremony Early Today

MARILYN HABEL

ALICE CHAPMAN

NANCY HORNE

LILLIAN YOUNGS

(A picture of Miss Hutchinson was not available)

Five University yomen were tapped by the Valkyries, top honorary organization for women on campus, this morning at 2:30.

The five, including three juniors and two honorary post-graduates, were Marilyn Habel, Alice Chapman, Nancy Horne, Doris Hutchinson and Lillian Youngs.

Selection is based on character, service, scholarship and leadership.

Miss Habel is from Chapel Hill. Her record lists the following achievements: Women's Honor Council, YWCA (president), cheerleader, Phi Beta Kappa, Graham Memorial Board of Directors, Town Girls' Association and Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Miss Chapman is from Welch, W. Va. Achievements: editor of Women's Handbook, president of Alpha Delta Pi, Student Union Activities Board, YWCA and The Daily Tar Heel.

Miss Horne is from Norton, Va. She is president of SUAB, Women's Orientation chairman, Women's Athletic Association. State Student Legislature, Smith Dormitory House Council and Social Committee, Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

The honorary post - graduates were chosen for their interest and help in student welfare and progress.

Miss Hutchinson is from Charlotte. She is an assistant professor of physical education and advisor to WAA. She received her BS degree from Woman's College and taught at Guilford College. She received an MA degree here in 1947.

Miss Youngs is from Kannapolis. She has a teaching fellowship in zoology here and is working on her Ph.D. in embryology. She received an AB degree from Catawba College in 1949 and her MA here in 1952. She is the graduate member of the Women's Council and president of Kenan Dormitory.

Dear Gets Abernethy Award; Jamison, Honorable Mention

Walt Dear, former Daily Tar Heel editor and Publications Board chairman, has been named winner of the Ernest H. Abernethy prize for outstanding work in student publications, it was announced yesterday.

John Jamison, present Daily Tar Heel managing editor, was cited for honorable mention. The award committee lauded Jamison for his work in covering South Building this year.

Honorable mentions usually are not given, but the committee said it felt Jamison's reportorial work merited a special consideration.

The Abernethy prize, established in 1941, consists of an annual award of a plaque and $50 in cash, which is presented to the student who is judged by a committee to have done the most distinctive work during the current year in the field of student publications.

Dear assumed the position of editor after the Fall election. While editor, he helped spearhead the student side of the Saturday class fight, the Charlie Jones controversy and election of Trustees. He originated a special issue for the 60th birthday of the paper.

Both Dear and Jamison are seniors. Dear is from Jersey City, N. J. Jamison is from Charlotte.

Members of the award committee were Assistant Dean of Students Roy Holsten, Daily Tar Heel Editor Rolfe Neill, President Bob Gorham, Graham Memorial Director Bill Roth and journalism Professor Walter Spearman.

Valkyrie Myth Is Perpetuated

Back in the olden days of Norwegian mythology there lived in the court of the warrior, Chief Odin, nine select maidens called Valkyries.

These maidens were daughters of the gods and yet were mortal as well. As one of their duties, they selected for Odin those warriors who were to be slain on the battlefields and led them to Valhalla, the hall of fame. It was considered a great honor to belong to the chosen group, the Valkyries, because they shared the glorious companionship of departed heroes.

The armor they wore shed a strange light and their appearance on the battlefield meant that great heroes were present and would be chosen.

'Passion, Poison, Etc.' Is English Club's Play

The English Club will present George Bernard Shaw's play, "Passion, Poison, and Petrification; or The Fatal Gazogene" tonight at 8:15 in the assembly room of the Library. The production is directed by Elmer Oettinger.

Members of the English Club, their husbands and wives will take part in the play. Thad Seymour is in charge of sound effects, Norma Jean Hill, props, and Polly Seymour and Edith Potter, costumes.

Coffee and cakes will be served before and after the play.

Movie Cameras Take Over The Campus

CBS Film Maker Is Impressed By Carolina's Drama Activity

Allan Davis, who is in Chapel Hill to direct the CBS-TV film of University life, is an Englishman who came to the States on a three-months trip three years ago, and has been working here ever since.

With the Old Vic company at Bristol, England, Davis directed such actors as George Couloris, Frances Rowe and Robert Edison. He also has directed several plays in London.

A Rockefeller Foundation grant made possible his tour of American university drama departments, during which he visited Chapel Hill, and was so pleased with the attitude which he found here toward entertainment in all forms that when CBS began to plan its series on American universities he asked to be assigned to this phase of the series.

In his first visit to Chapel Hill, Davis was especially impressed by the great attention given here to young playwrights. "No university, stock theatre, or any theatrical group," he says, "can hope for a lasting place in the development of theatre history unless it encourages, develops and gives birth to new playwrights." It is interesting to note that, at the Old Vic, when he was directing there, for every production of a Shakespeare play they also gave an entirely new play, often by an unknown playwright.

Davis' three-month's Rockefeller trip was extended to six, and during that time he traveled over 20,000 miles and saw drama in "every conceivable form and condition—in factories, on wharves, in the mountains, in hotel ballrooms, in converted mills—as well as in more conventional theatres." Following the tour, he directed a new adaptation of Moliere's "Tartuffe" by Miles Malleson in Boston, with Sam Jaffe in the leading role. Then he went to Hollywood under contract to MGM, and directed there, among other things, "Rogue's March," featuring Peter Lawford, Richard Greene and Leo Carroll, which was shown here a few weeks ago. When "3-D-mentia" set in, Davis left Hollywood for Ney York, where he has been directing a TV film series, "The Doctor" which has been seen over the NBC network.

The first in the CBS series "The Search" will be filmed here on the campus during the next two weeks. Entitled "Between the Mountains and the Sea," the film tells the story of a North Carolina mountain boy who becomes fired with a desire to write after a visit of the Carolina Playmakers to his home town, where live actors had never been seen before. The story follows him to Chapel Hill, and through many and varied University activities, in his own personal "search."

Actors in the film will be University students. Davis has expressed a hope that he will not have to import professional actors for the film, and if he finds sufficient talent here, does not plan to do so.

"The Search" will be a weekly program, to be televised next fall, and is dedicated to the places where "seekers and learners alike, banded together in the search for knowledge, honour thought in all its finer ways." (John Masefield) It will be seen by some 30 million Americans.

Daily Tar Heel Editor's Salary Raised By PB

The Publications Board this week voted an increase in salary to The Daily Tar Heel Editor.

The editor's salary was upped from $7.50 per week to $10 per week plus three per cent of the advertising revenue provided the total salary doesn't exceed $25 weekly.

Increasing the salary of the editor will put it at an amount comparable to the business manager of the paper.

The board also approved all feature services of the paper for the coming year.

Joe Raff, Publications Board Chairman, was chosen financial coordinator. The board decided to wait until Fall to decide the salary for this position.

WAA's Annual Picnic Is Today At 5:30

The WAA will hold its annual Spring picnic this afternoon at 5:30 in back of the Women's Gym. Everyone is invited, at a cost of 65 cents a person—for lots of good food.

Highlighting the afternoon's activities will be the presentation of Senior awards, monograms, and plaques and cups to the intramural winners.

Degree Candidates

There will be a compulsory meeting today at 4:15 in Memorial Hall for all degree candidates, Dr. J. C. Lyons said yesterday.

Procedures for the ceremonies will be explained and graduates' questions answered, Dr. Lyons said.

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Problem Child

If as many students stay on campus during next year's weekends as predicted, somebody better start doing some planning. Chapel Hill's recreational facilities are not sufficient to satisfy the "exodus" which decides to remain at the University.

The Daily Tar Heel believes student president Bob Gorham and Dean of Students Fred Weaver should get together a committee to find more recreational outlets for student energy.

We suggest, among other things, the institution of bowling, billiards or roller skating. (Durham draws a nice crowd of Carolina students for these purposes). With this idea in mind we suggest the exploration of the potentialities of the Tin Can, the old Vets Club behind Lenoir Hall, or the 180 x 50 concrete slab close by Fetzer Field.

The University also is going to need to know whether Woollen Gym should extend its weekend hours, what additional services it might provide.

When President Gray and the Trustees put the University into Saturday class bondage they also put in this problem of recreation. We hope Chancellor House, Dean Weaver and the rest of the Chapel Hill administration will have some solutions—effective the first day of Fall Semester.

Strictly Winners

The Southern Conference meets in four Spring sports, baseball, track, tennis and golf, are over, and Carolina bowed out of the old circuit with unqualified success. The Daily Tar Heel congratulates these four teams and the six men who guided them.

(1) John Kenfield, in his 26th season at Carolina, has produced probably his best tennis team in history. Not only did it repeat as conference team and individual champion, but also it broke a 42-match winning streak of Princeton University, placing the Tar Heels among the top three teams in the country.

(2) Chuck Erickson, probably in his last year as golf coach, produced his second straight conference championship team. Faced with the loss of the individual champion through the service, Erickson looked to his talented group of golfers and produced another winner.

(3) Bunn Hearn and Walt Rabb have produced a young and fiery baseball team that, without making excuses, can be called the best in the conference. After winning the Big Four and southern division titles, Carolina went to the playoffs and beat the northern division representatives by scores of 13-2 and 15-0. Baseball is baseball, however, and the Tar Heels were beaten twice by a last minute entry and took second place.

(4) Dale Ranson and Joe Hilton, Carolina track coaches, have done the most with the worst luck imaginable. The team, supposedly riddled by graduation, was further shot by an uncanny number of injuries to winning competitors. The team still had a winning season, and was beaten by the discouraging margin of only three-fourths point for second place in the conference.

Express Yourself

Editor:

Yack Editor: You have produced a yearbook. Congratulations. It is, in many ways, far superior to others that have been published. The cover is unusual, the layout is attractive. Because of the many good features, I cannot help but be disappointed in your total disregard for other details.

The typographical errors can be overlooked — though it does seem odd that there are so many misplaced identifications. Your 28 (count 'em) pictures of yourself certainly must have made you feel important—though perhaps it would have been more effective to devote two or three pages to yourself all together— stressing quality instead of quantity. The last two pages of the book containing the glossary of terms for freshman was very skillfully copied from the Tarnation—without credit, naturally.

In view of the above mentioned items it would seem that perhaps Yack editors in the future would pay a little more attention to detail—perhaps even hire a proofreader or two. It might also be thoughtful to give credit where it is due.

Don't take offense, Mr. Editor, the book was enjoyable—but with a little honest appraisal, instead of merely "getting the job done," it could have been outstanding.

Name withheld by request

The History Of

A Classroom

—John Schnorrenberg—

Last week in a front page article in The Daily Tar Heel 111 Murphey Hall was given the first major publicity in its twenty-five year history (or at least in that part of its history coextensive with my college career.) The article which exposed its iniquities was an interview of Professor J. P. Harland of the Classics Department.

I read the article with enthusiasm. No revelation I felt could do justice to the wretched state of the pigpen which the University calls a classroom. I composed a vigorous letter to the editor demanding that the University authorities take notice of the article and act upon it. I think it was a good letter. It had a lot of fierce phrases in it, grand rhetoric, fiery stuff. I didn't send the letter to the editor because it set me thinking.

Instead, I went to see Mr. J. S. Bennett, Director of Operations of the University. Such things as the terrible state of 111 Murphey are Mr. Bennett's concern and responsibility. He showed his intense concern for student welfare during the two hours he spent talking to me.

As Mr. Bennett analyzed the problem of 111 Murphey it falls into three parts. There is the problem of design which was the responsibility and error of the architect who designed and built Murphey Hall and ultimately of those who engaged his services. There is the problem of acoustics, of talking and hearing in the room. This problem was that of the architect, too, but his grievous mistakes have been a little remedied and Mr. Bennett feels that a little more can be done. There is the problem of heating and ventilation. Again, these were properly the architect's job. Mr. Bennett seeks always to do the best that can be done wth what is already at hand.

More than one faculty member who has taught in 111 Murphey from its first use as a classroom to the present has condemned the architect for the mistake that the room is. Mr. Bennett has neither the authority nor the money to tear the room down and replace it. He does periodically have money to paint and repair all classrooms. Last year the walls of 111 Murphey were repaired and painted, the roof was mended, the old and dirty window shades were removed and the windows painted with opaque paint to render the room satisfactory for slide projection in the archaeology and art history courses for which it is used.

In recent years the ceiling has been covered with acoustical tile. Several years ago according to Mr. Bennett at the request of a faculty member the arms of the seats were removed because they were defective and beyond repair. Mr. Bennett says that to the best of his knowledge essential repairs and maintenance have always been made when called for. As a result of my talk with him about the Tar Heel article, Mr. Bennett made an inspection of the room and had the antiquated ventilating system inspected and put in the best possible order.

What more can Mr. Bennett do? He has a certain amount of money to spend on maintenance. Most of it must be used to maintain the essential services: heat, light, water plant, sewage disposal, and so on. Next comes maintenance of buildngs: painting, plastering, repairs to furniture and equipment. Finally come special projects such as the rehabilitation of 111 Murphey.

But rehabilitation can only do so much to overcome the evil effects of bad design. No money is available now for new seats. New seats would be wasted in a room where only fantastic expenditure can improve wretched acoustics. The legislature would hardly be sympathetic to the best solution of the problem of 111 Murphey: tearing it down.

Murphey 111 is a lesson in architecture for those who must work in it. It teaches that it does matter how a building is designed. It teaches that thought must be taken for the purposes for which a classroom is to be used and the people who are to use it. It is probably true that those who dictate the architectural policies of the University have not learned the lesson thoroughly yet. . . . But this horrible architectural misdeed is not their responsibility.

A room which is the fault of no one here is endured by many now here. Though we cannot remedy its faults, we can understand them and hope n the future to avoid them.

'Old Pal! How Have You Been?'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It may not be pleasant to talk about, but at no time in years have our relations with our ancient allies in Europe been on such thin ice.

Behind the senatorial blasts of Joe McCarthy et al—which are bad enough—relations with our old friend and mother country, England, are in deplorable shape. Not much better are our relations with France.

Here are some of the background factors which have strained relations to the point where we are not only bitterly disliked in many British circles, but where British officialdom has almost given up the idea of working with us and seriously contemplates closer ties on the continent and even behind the iron curtain!

1. Churchill's desire for a big three meeting lies squarely across the Dulles - Eisenhower belief that there must be no such meeting until the Russians show some indication that they are ready for genuine cooperation.

2. The appointment of red-headed Adm. Arthur Radford as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff is the signal that the U.S.A. from now on will follow an Asia-first policy.

3. The shortsighted sleight of hand by Secretary of Defense Wilson in juggling the low British bid for generators for the chief Joseph Dam has the British boiling. Admittedly the British made the low bid. Admittedly, under U.S. law, the defense department was obligated to accept the bid. However, Wilson finagled new bids in order to cut the British out.

4. Chancellor of the Exchequer Butler charges that we have forced England to curtail trade with China and satellite countries and simultaneously blocked British trade with the United States. We can't have our cake and eat it too, the British say. They also allege that the Eisenhower slogan of "trade-not-aid' is a complete phony.

5. If the Eisenhower administration doesn't let down the trade barriers, the Churchill government is ready to re-establish heavy trading with Red China and iron curtain countries.

The important thing to remember is that this impasse has taken place not with the labor government of England, but with the British conservatives led by a Prime Minister whose mother was American and whose chief policy in the past has been cooperation with the United States. In fact, Churchill took a special trip to the United States to visit Eisenhower before the inauguration in order to cement a friendship which some felt had lagged under Truman.

Furthermore, Eisenhower himself was considered the best wartime friend England had, and his Guildhall speech in London has been hailed as a milestone cementing American-British relations.

The tragedy is that Ike himself, though realizing the dangerous drift between the two allies, seems unable to do anything about it. His desire to "get along with congress" is now uppermost on his agenda of objectives. In fact, some friends say he seems hypnotized by that goal.

Of the various snags in the path of British-American relations, you will probably hear less about the appointment of Admiral Radford as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Yet it rankles deep with the British.

They are too diplomatic to talk about a domestic American appointment; nevertheless, they recall all too well how Radford has advocated virtual war with China, and how he sold Eisenhower a promising but phony bill of goods regarding the power of Chiang Kai-Shek's Formosan army only to have it turn out to be a dud.

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some thing, minimizing others . . . " Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE had been missing from his usual haunts for some few hours when we saw clouds of dust rising above Emerson Field. We hastened over expecting to see our Conference Titlist Tar Heel team going through a drill.

Instead, we saw a singularly active Horse gouting up the basepaths with roaring slides, while George, the campus Collie, watched with approval.

We wondered what was going on?

"Just in case," The Horse said darkly.

In case what?

"In case those Dooks get away with this dumb play of theirs and get to meet our Champs in the play-offs. Not but what they aren't to be pitied, passing up a cool million dollars in publicity at the very least."

Would The Horse elucidate?

"Okay," The Horse agreed, dusting off his hooves. "We all know Clemson earned second-place in the Southern division of the Conference, don't we? But down there in the fine print it said to the effect that after a certain date games should not be scheduled because a play-off of a possible tie might result during the season. And due to this technicality, the Clemsons are declared out and the Dooks in. And right there Cap'n Dick Smith of V.M.I., the Southern Conference boss, laid a one-million dollar publicity egg into the Dook nest; and Dook matched it."

How did The Horse mean?

"Dook laid the egg right back by accepting the role of fifth-wheel. Can you imagine the praises that would have been sung to Duke all over this broad and fair land if they had said, 'Boys, Clemson really won it in the big print, and, by golly, we're not going to take it away from them in the small print. Clemsons, go to it and play it off like y'all earned the right to!'"

Well, yes; it would have been nice . . .

"Nice?" The Horse snorted. "It would have been tremendous! Also, it was the sporting thing to do. And if you want to look at it really squarely, it would have been a sensational birthday present from the Dooks to a fellow-member of the new conference just starting out."

Well, yes. But had anything like this ever happened?

"Ol' King Carl," The Horse reminded us. "When he had an undefeated season with a great Cornell team. The very last game that season for the Big Red was against a miserably weak Dartmouth team; and, incidentally, Cornell's bitter rivals. Cornell won, 7-3, in the last seconds of the game, with Dartmouth hollering they had given Cornell an extra down in the last set of them. Red Frissell, the head man on the field, said Dartmouth was nuts, and to play ball. They did. Cornell rammed over the score. And won."

So?

"Well, it was all over—game, season, the works. But Carl Snavely puzzled about it and when he got back to Ithaca he had his own personal movies of the game run off. There it was. Cornell had got a fifth down, just like Dartmouth said. All Carl had to do was keep his mouth shut and pose as a coach with an unbeaten team. Instead, he went to the president of Cornell and said, 'Technically, we won

(See HORSE, page 4)

A Question

John Gibson

The time has come, my college chums,
To speak of many things,
Of peace and war, deferments long,
Of panty raids and sings.

Of sacred trust, and privilege great
Of immaturity,
Of college days, and college ways,
And our security.

We spend our years in ivied halls,
Not fox holes deep with slime,
We live and love our youth away,
Not struck down in our prime.

We buy our way from jungle swamps,
With gold for college bills,
We take a test, four hours long,
And shun beleaguered hills.

We're granted time to fill our minds
With wisdom of the years,
To find the ways to stop again
The world's war weary tears.

The books are here, a million strong,
With secrets of the ages.
The answers to man's Godlessness
Locked between the pages.

The men are here, professors great
To inspire, lead, direct.
To help us grasp great mysteries,
To comfort, guide, correct.

Great halls of learning, brick and stone,
Set in campus green,
Teasing us with thoughts and hopes
Of visions yet unseen.

All these are ours, the price is small,
Yet can we claim we pay it,
When we booze away our college time,
And only holiday it.

"Let's raid the dorms, the lingerie,"
The forces mobilizing,
While somewhere in a saddened house,
A widowed wife is crying.

The store is out of beer, alas, on
The picnic ground there's mud.
And somewhere on a distant hill,
A medic's out of blood.

Could you, my white bucked college chum,
If you were now to die,
Meet a dead Korean vet
And look him in the eye?

Carolina Caray

Jake
The S
On Sp

By Jake

The wrap-up on of North Carolina
season, highly su
the inevitable dis

The Tar Heels
Conference flags
golf, finished sec third in track. In it was a clean sw
to team honors, th conference tennis
(Del Sylvia) and Bradford and D along with the championship (Jin

Here is the run

BASEB

Leading hitter w a catcher who had hind the plate in til last season. H
.450. An infielder
only once in his conversion had he er's gear. That single pitch in ba
Kenly high schoo
Coaches Bunn He
Rabb worried ab department of the
he had better lea
wanted to play
Jayvee he did so
all this spring a
with his proficie
plate, developed
ter and one of valuable players.
topped a fine p
proved a superl
captain with Wa
Lee (Rat) Lloyd,
tracted attention
a scrapping, hus
to watch, despit
the pay-off nu
after licking the out of three in t

TEN

From top to b never a better T not even excep
Kenfield's sparl combinations of fore the Tar He match, it was
was abundant.
rounds were nec
ine the top pos
busy man Tom Herbie Browne
other played in spot. Sylvia
the leadership conference sinc second year in and Don Thomp
lar newcomers gratifying wins and Princeton disappointment to play Rollins

We would l
there and see and old pro P as his son, Jim to the Southe championship
Club in Winst
Heel golfers. were a well-b with strength
down the line.
canny ease u slump when t
with Wake Fo
triumphed, fa
Southern at ently going on the ride, and beating from given when t
to its capabil
ence meet to team title wh
the individual big cup look
Coach Chuck
where he will days before p
phy case wit
The Tar Heels
ed their golf conference co
before.

When Prin
Tar Heels by season, it be the track seas
of cherries.
and throwing
Dale Ranson
fered some stripped the might other Sprinter Ha
muscle in Vince Murra suffered a knock him
Jeff Newto champion, p
220 in the Billy Duke,

Carolina Caravan

Jake Gives The Story On Sports

By Jake Wade

The wrap-up on the University of North Carolina's spring sports season, highly successful despite the inevitable disappointments:

The Tar Heels won Southern Conference flags in tennis and golf, finished second in baseball, third in track. In tennis and golf it was a clean sweep. In addition to team honors, they collected the conference tennis singles crown (Del Sylvia) and doubles (Tommy Bradford and Don Thompson), along with the golf individual championship (Jimmy Ferree).

Here is the run-down.

BASEBALL

Leading hitter was Edgar Hooks, a catcher who had never been behind the plate in a ball game until last season. He batted a lusty .450. An infielder as a schoolboy, only once in his life before his conversion had he put on a catcher's gear. That was to catch a single pitch in batting practice at Kenly high school. But last year Coaches Bunn Hearn and Walter Rabb worried about the catching department of the future, told Ed he had better learn to catch if he wanted to play ball here. As a Jayvee he did so, then astonished all this spring as a varsity man with his proficiency behind the plate, developed into a power hitter and one of the squad's most valuable players. Chalmers Port topped a fine pitching staff and proved a superb leader as co-captain with Wayne White. Harry Lee (Rat) Lloyd, among others, attracted attention of scouts. It was a scrapping, hustling team, a joy to watch, despite its disaster in the pay-off number with Duke after licking the Blue Devils two out of three in the regular season.

TENNIS

From top to bottom, there was never a better Tar Heel net team, not even excepting Coach John Kenfield's sparkling, undefeated combinations of the thirties. Before the Tar Heels ever played a match, it was evident that class was abundant. Repeated challenge rounds were necessary to determine the top positions. Del Sylvia, busy man Tommy Bradford and Herbie Browne at one time or another played in the number one spot. Sylvia eventually claimed the leadership berth and won the conference singles title for the second year in a row. Pete Green and Don Thompson were spectacular newcomers in the fold. Most gratifying wins were over Duke and Princeton. Season's biggest disappointment was being unable to play Rollins on account of rain.

GOLF

We would like to have been there and seen long-time friend and old pro Purvis Ferree beam as his son, Jimmy, stroked his way to the Southern Conference golf championship at his Old Town Club in Winston-Salem. The Tar Heel golfers, like the netmen, were a well-balanced combination with strength well distributed all down the line. They won with uncanny ease until a late season slump when they ran into trouble with Wake Forest but eventually triumphed, faltered badly in the Southern at Athens, Ga., apparently going on that junket just for the ride, and took an unexpected beating from Duke. All was forgiven when the team played up to its capabilities in the conference meet to walk off with the team title while Jimmy captured the individual championship. The big cup looks very pretty on Coach Chuck Erickson's desk, where he will admire it for a few days before placing it in the trophy case with last year's silver. The Tar Heels had merely repeated their golf team and individual conference conquests of the season before.

TRACK

When Princeton defeated the Tar Heels by 67 to 64 early in the season, it became apparent that the track season would be no bowl of cherries. The running, jumping and throwing thinclads of Coaches Dale Ranson and Joe Hilton suffered some bad breaks which stripped them of successes they might otherwise have achieved. Sprinter Harry Brown pulled a muscle in that Princeton meet. Vince Murray, indoor running star, suffered an appendectomy to knock him out of competition. Jeff Newton, indoor 60-yard champion, pulled a muscle in the 220 in the Maryland engagement. Billy Duke, promising pole vaulter, dislocated an elbow against Virginia. Miracle of the year was little Bobby Barden's recovery from polio and his fine second in the conference two-mile. In the gloaming it appeared that the Tar Heels were second in the conference meet, but after the pole vault and high jump, when all points were counted, it was disclosed that Duke's great Shankle had done us in. The Tar Heels wound up third, where they expected to be with their injury-riddled squad, but only three quarters of a point behind the Blue Devils. The squad justifiably could take some bows.

Jayvee Baseballers Win Eight

By John Hussey

The Carolina jayvee baseball team had a very successful season this year, winning eight out of eleven games. The last six of their victories were consecutive.

Sophomore Raymond Perry, a Danville, Va., boy, led the team at bat with 17 hits in 42 trips to the plate for a .405 average. He was followed in this department by first baseman Tom Zachery who had .385.

Charlie Aycock, in his first year at Carolina, led the mound staff with five wins and no defeats. He received credit for four of the last five Tar Heel victories. He was also prominent at the plate, hitting a home run in the first Duke game and knocking in the winning tally in the final contest.

The infield combination had Zachery at first, Paige Stout at second, Jack Woods at shortstop, Calvin Lane at third and Dick Dodson behind the plate. These were five good reasons for such a successful year.

Perry was in left field, Bobby Paller in right, and Lou Rogers and Malcolm Harding alternated in center.

The Tar Heels started the season in a big way by defeating Cranbrook 18-6. Rudy Paquette was the winner. Perry was the batting star as he got three singles in five times at bat.

Campbell handed the jayvees their first loss of the season. They picked up two runs in the ninth inning to take a 4-3 victory. Carolina had only six hits and these were well scattered.

However, the Tar Heels gained revenge with a 6-5 victory in their third game. Jim Bedingfield was the winner and Zachery got two for four.

Carolina dropped their Big Four opener to Wake Forest by an 8-1 score. It was the only Big Four loss they suffered all season. Perry got three of Carolina's five hits.

Wingate gave the locals their second straight loss. The Tar Heels were held to four hits and two runs in their third and final defeat of the season. The score was 4-2.

Then came the six game victory jaunt. Appropriately, Wingate was the first to fall. The Tar Heels led all the way and clinched the victory by getting six runs in the seventh inning. Harding had a triple and two singles.

Aycock got his second win in the first Duke game and his teammates backed him up with 15 hits and 17 runs. Dodson and Paller led at the plate with three apiece. Aycock aided his cause with a two run homer in the third.

The Wake Forest loss was avenged in a game at Chapel Hill. The visitors were allowed only three hits as the home team crossed the plate twelve times. Eleven of these runs were collected in the third frame. Aycock again received credit for the win, his third.

For their next game the Tar Heels traveled to Wake Forest where they downed the Deacs 6-2.

The big inning this time was the third, as every man on the Carolina team came to bat.

The second win over Duke was next, with Bedingfield taking the victory. Don Christopher, substituting for Lane at third, was the batting star with 2 singles.

The eighth victory of the season came against Gardner Webb, an undefeated team which held the title of state junior champions. It was a close game all the way. The Tar Heel victory came in the ninth when Aycock singled in the winning run to give him his fifth win of the season.

Altogether, coaches Henry House and Pete Gillespie were very pleased with the outcome of the season. Although the team started rather slowly, their finish was strong and their final first place standing in the Big Four was indicative of the team they had.

Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias is resting comfortably in her brother's home at Newton, Texas, after staying in the Beaumont Hospital for 43 days.

Mrs. Zaharias underwent a malignancy operation that threatened to end her golfing career.

Cornell, Ray Receive Track Awards

Bill Cornell of Charlotte and Mac Ray of Mebane have been named to receive the E. J. Evans Award for Carolina's outstanding senior track athletes.

The award, donated by the Mayor of Durham and a former Tar Heel halfmiler, went to Gene Brigham last year.

Cornell, a pre-medical student who will enter the University's School of Medicine next fall, competed at Charlotte Central High School in the high jump before coming here but has turned into a jack-of-all trades on the track team. He broad jumps, runs the high and low hurdles and throws the javelin.

In last week's Southern Conference championship meet, he was third behind Duke's Joel Shankle and Carolina's Sonny Beall in the high hurdles and fourth in the low hurdle race. Cornell had no hurdle experience before coming here, but developed rapidly and was a member of the crack Tar Heel shuttle relay team which was runner - up in the Penn Relay's Championship of America event this year.

Ray is a physical education major and had no track experience when he tried the sport here. He is a member of the mile relay team, runs the 100 and 220-yard dashes and the 440. As a sophomore he was a member of the undefeated mile relay team which won the conference indoor and outdoor championships.

During the past two seasons he has concentrated on the 440 and relay but was switched to the 220-yard dash two months ago when ace sprinters Harry Brown and Jeff Newton were lost for the season. He showed excellent possibilities and placed second in the conference meet Saturday in the 220.

Tuesday before the championship meet, it was decided to try Ray in the 100-yard dash and he turned in a startling performance to finish third in a :09.9 race won by Dave Mathews of Maryland.

Hooks, Dale Named Captains For Next Year's Baseball Team

Edgar Hooks of Kenly and Fred Dale of Hickory have been elected co-captains of the University of North Carolina's 1954 baseball team. Both were outstanding players during the 1953 season. They succeed Chalmers Port and Wayne White.

Hooks was a Tar Heel regular for the first time this season after seeing action in only one game in 1952. He was switched from third base to a catching position this season and turned in an excellent job behind the plate. Defensively Hooks handled 64 putouts and five assists and made but one error.

The Kenly senior, who will return here for graduate studies, was the Tar Heels' leading batter with a .450 mark for the season. Included were 11 runs batted in and five doubles.

Dale is considered one of the Southern Conference's finest infielders and has been a Tar Heel regular for two seasons. He stepped into a first string berth as a sophomore last year when he was the team's second highest hitter with a .230 average.

Dale upped last year's mark to .337 for the 1953 season when the Tar Heels won 19 games and lost 7, again taking second place in the standings behind Hooks. He handled 43 putouts with 89 assists. His hitting included six doubles, four triples, a home run and 13 runs-batted-in.

White, a senior from Bynum, will graduate in June and play professional baseball before going into service, while Port, a senior from Mifflintown, Pa., will graduate in January.

Coed Organizations Back Visiting Change

The Women's Residence Council and the Pan-Hellenic Council, representing virtually every coed, yesterday backed the new Coed Visiting Agreement which would allow coed drinking in fraternity houses.

Both groups, leaders said, were very receptive to the plan and there was "very little dissension." Next move is up to the administration which meets Tuesday. From there it will go to the Trustee Executive Committee.

MURALS

Today's Softball

5:00—Field 1, (Zetes-1 or ZBT) vs. Sig Nu-2; Field 2, (Sig Chi or Phi Delt Chi) vs. (Chi Phi or Kap Sig); Field 3, Winston vs. Alexander*

*Dormitory Championship.

Today's Horseshoes

7:10—Sig Nu-2 vs. Dental Sch.

Campus Championship.

Today's Tennis

4:10—(ATO or Kap Sig) vs. Sig Chi.

Fraternity Championship.

SEIXAS WINS

Vic Seixas, United States Davis Cup captain and former Carolina tennis player, was in the second round of the Paris International Tennis Tournament yesterday, and wasn't expected to face any tough competition for another round or two.

Seixas won his opening match over Oliverio Rodriguez of Columbia, 6-0, 6-1, 6-0.

In The Majors

American League

New York 9, Detroit 8.
Boston 3, St. Louis 2, (14 innings).
Cleveland at Washington, (Night).
Chicago at Philadelphia, (Night).

National League

New York 16, Chicago 6.
Brooklyn 7, Milwaukee 2.
Cincinnati 14, Philadelphia 5.
St. Louis at Pittsburgh, (Night).

New Sports Conference May Can Freshman Rule

The new abbreviated Southern Conference, meeting at Roanoke on June 25-27, may lift the old ban against freshmen playing on varsity squads, according to Ed Merrick, head football coach at the University of Richmond.

Merrick said that he believed many of the members of the new Southern Conference think that they can put out better teams if they are allowed to use freshman talent.

The June meeting will consist of the ten college presidents, their ten athletic directors, and a faculty representative from each school.

Monogram Club

The Monogram Club will meet tonight in the club room to elect officers and discuss final plans for the beach trip.

"He is rather nearsighted — but he never forgets the Angostura* in a Manhattan!"

ANGOSTURA
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. Smart hosts use their heads when they use Angostura to bring out the true flavor of Manhattans and Old Fashioneds. Try Angostura in soups and sauces, too.

LAST TIMES TODAY

J. Arthur Ranks
Penny Princess
In Technicolor
Starring
Dirk Bogarde
Yolande Donlan

Varsity

FRIDAY-SATURDAY

Safe at home base!

SILHOUETTED against the fading light, a Navy scout glides to an easy landing on the deck of a U. S. Navy Ship. Such a lone scouting mission takes the cooperation of more men than work together to bring about a home run for a major league ball club!

And it takes cooperation from us at home, too. One of the best ways we can help is by investing regularly in United States Savings Bonds. For it is your personal security, and that of every other American family welded together, which means a strong economy for our country. And remember, peace is only for the strong.

Are you one of the 43,000,000 thrifty Americans who already own Series E Savings Bonds? If you're not, why don't you join the Payroll Savings Plan today where you work. Or invest through the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank.

Here's how E Bonds now earn more money for you!

Now safe, sure U. S. Series E Savings Bonds pay an even better return than ever before . . . thanks to 3 brand new money-earning features announced by the U. S. Treasury.

1 Now every Series E Bond you get earns 3% interest, compounded semiannually.

2 Every Series E Bond you own can now go on earning interest for 10 more years after it reaches the original maturity date.

3 All maturing E Bonds automatically earn interest at the new, higher rate (average 3% compounded semiannually) for 10 more years.

Start now! Invest more savings in better-paying Series E Bonds—through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank!

Peace is for the strong! For peace and prosperity invest in U. S. Savings Bonds

JUST RECEIVED

Another Shipment of Those Popular
Sanforized Baby Cord SLACKS
In Blue and Tan
All Sizes
Especially Priced At
$6.95

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

1st RALEIGH - DURHAM
TV FAIR
TOMORROWS PROGRAM
IN PERSON

3 P.M.—Panama and his Cool Cats.
4 P.M.—Feature show with Lanny Ross, Dinning Sisters, Homer and Jethro and Hal LeRoy.
5 P.M.—Charlie Thomas and his orchestra.
6 p.m.—Paul Montgomery.
7 P.M.—Homer Briarhopper.
8 P.M.—Feature show with Lanny Ross, Dinning Sisters, Homer and Jethro and Hal LeRoy.
9 P.M.—Capital City Five.
10 P.M. Talent Hunt Winners.

All acts on Television to TV Models on Display.

FREE TV SET
DRAWING EACH HOUR
You need not be present to win.
WM. NEAL REYNOLDS
Coliseum - Raleigh
ADMISSION
50c—Children 25c Inc. Tax
Benefit Damon Runyon Fund

for Graduation . . .
GIVE SONG

One of these beautiful books will send your graduate out into the world with a song in his heart:

The Rodgers and Hart Song Book
No book in our shop has been more yearned-for than this—and that's saying a lot. ——$7.50

A Treasury of Gilbert and Sullivan
Words and music of 102 songs from 11 operas, plus color illustrations. ——$6.00

Fireside Book of Folk Songs
Gay color plus a wonderful selection of songs keeps this book high on our Chapel Hill best seller list! ——$5.00

English Folk-Songs from the Southern Appalachians
This handsome two-volume set is constantly admired by serious students, but the price is high. Maybe you can make somebody supremely happy at graduation! ——$13.50

Gift-Wrapping Is Free At

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Scholarships For European Study Offered

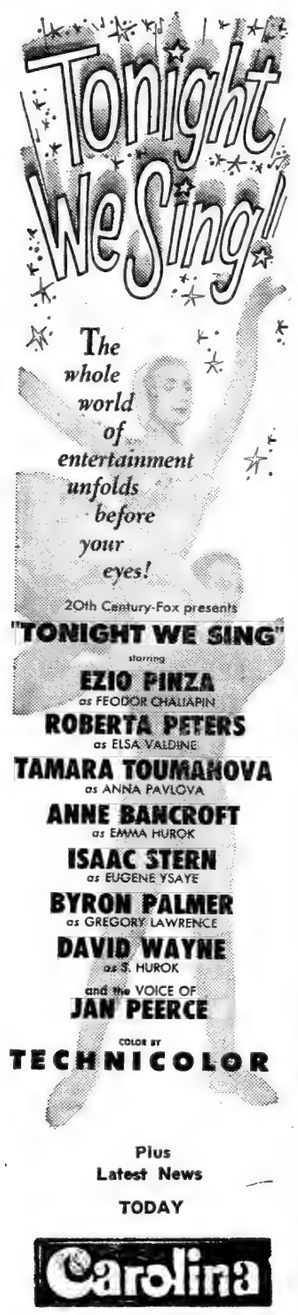
The American Committee on United Europe is offering a scholarship of $1,750 for an American college graduate to attend the 1953-54 session of the College of Europe at Bruges, Belgium.

The scholarship includes the following items:

1. Tuition, board, lodging, and laundry for the academic year, and $10.00 a month pocket money.
2. Transportation from New York to Bruges, Belgium and return.
3. An incidental expense allowance of $250.00.

Applications for the scholarship should be addressed to: "Scholarship, American Committee on United Europe, 537 Fifth Avenue, New York 17, N. Y." All applications must be in the committee's hands by June 30; final selection will be made by July 15.

MORE RAIN PREDICTED FOR ALREADY STORM-RAVAGED south Louisiana is expected to push flood waters of the Mississippi River even higher than the stage which has forced evacuation of more than 2,000 families. At Natchez, La., the Mississippi flooded the school and church shown here.—NEA Telephoto.



What Goes On Here

Student Legislature

Student legislature will meet tonight at 7:15 in New East. This will be the last session of the school year.

GM Directors

The Graham Memorial Board of Directors will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Grail Room to hear the report of the Director Selection Committee.

You wouldn't Go into The desert Without Water . . . Don't go Vacationing Without Books

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Lysistrata Has Professional Who Starred With Tallulah

By George D. Boozer

Louise Lamont, a cousin of the famous Tallulah Bankhead, who abandoned a 10-year career on the professional stage to return to Chapel Hill to finish work on her degree in dramatic art, will play the leading role in "Lysistrata."

This famous Greek comedy of war and sex will be presented by the Carolina Playmakers in connection with the dedication of the Koch Memorial Forest Theater here tomorrow through Sunday.

"I feel very humble to have a part in the dedication of this fine memorial to 'Proff' Koch," she said yesterday, "because I received my first real inspiration for the stage while a student of 'Proff's' here some years ago before going into professional work. I also feel as theatre peaple we must always be working and learning.

"The genius who founded the Carolina Playmakers taught me to look about, study the people and surroundings and then translate into dramatic art the abundant material waiting to be expressed. That's what I've been doing ever since I used to live in the same neighborhood with Professor Koch here in Chapel Hill.

"One of the greatest experiences of my career was playing the Queen in 'Hamlet.' My son, the play's protagonist, was done by Professor Koch, who was around 45 at the time. I was only 20. But small irrelevancies of that sort didn't bother me, and I know it didn't 'Proff,' for he believed that to overcome them required talent concentrated and dedicated to the ideal of grand drama, and he was only interested in actors and actresses who had this requisite singleness of heart."

Apparently Louise had this ideal too, because she soon left Chapel Hill for the professional stage, but she carried with her memories and experiences with the Playmakers which inspired her to greater achievement.

The pretty brunette had wide experiences with some of the nation's best known stock companies —Provincetown, Chase Barn, Barter and theatres in Chicago, Buffalo, Detroit, Cincinnati and Toronto. In New York she appeared in "Everywhere I Roam" and "This Thing Called Love."

"One of my biggest thrills was playing with Tallulah and Fred Stone," Louise says. But she recalls other famous personalities of the stage and screen with whom she has acted. Glenda Farrell, for example, John Dall, Tom Drake and Gregory Peck.

Gregory Peck was a young, struggling fellow-actor at the Barter theatre in Virginia when Louise was with the company.

"The Barter Theatre," she explains, "is the famous playhouse where the box office takes in farm produce in exchange for tickets. One season the farmers had an abundant crop of string beans and the members of the company ate beans three times a day for weeks. Gregory ate so many of them I always thought that must be where he got that 'lean' look which is now making such a hit on the screen."

Louise has many interesting anecdotes in her repertoire, and she tells them with a highly developed sense of humor.

"After 10 years away from this wonderful place called Chapel Hill, one day something hit me like a stroke of lightning. I decided to come back to the University, settle down, and finish working on my degree. I'm finishing up in June and you know, I've been on the Dean's List every quarter since I came back. That makes me very proud because actresses aren't suppose to have too many brains—just emotions!"

When asked if she planned to do graduate work after graduation, she replied in a typical house-wife fashion, "My husband and I are going to build a house and you can't look after such an undertaking like that and go to school at the same time."

Since Louise came back to Chapel Hill she has played leading roles in "I Remember Mama," "Rain," and "The Little Foxes." Last summer she played Nancy Ward, the Cherokee Indian princess, in Kermit Hunter's outdoor drama at Boone, "Horn in the West." Several plays which Louise wrote have been given in the experimental theater here.

In closing, Louise added, "You can tell them if they want to learn how to milk a cow to look me up. I can do that, too. I learned how on my father's farm in Alabama."

—Horse—

(Continued from page 2)

it. Frissell can't be wrong when the game is in the books. Actually, we lost it. Dartmouth should have had the ball with seconds to go. Can we fix it?' They could. They did."

I didn't think King Carl's sportsmanship was recalled when he was being labled a lame duck with only a single-wing.

"The last and final official-scorer has it writ large in his pearly-bound books, and don't you forget it," The Horse snorted. "Sportsmanship is what counts, not money and glory."

The poor, cockeyed, myopic Horse!

Bowles To Be YM President For Summer

Norman Bowles, pre-med senior from Durham, has been elected president of the YMCA for the 1953 Summer Session, according to Ned Harbin of the Y.

As Summer Session president, Bowles will head the YMCA Cabinet which will carry on the program and activities of the YMCA during June, July and August. In accepting this position, Bowles emphasized that the Summer program must be developed on a teamwork basis on the part of all students who are interested in planning the activities of the Summer sessions.

In the past, the YMCA has cooperated in planning for the Watermelon Festival, Square Dances, Vespers, Supper Forums, picnics and other summer activities,

In order to develop the team, Bowles is asking all students who will be here for Summer School, and who are interested in planning the above activities, to leave their names in the YMCA office today and tomorrow. A planning meeting of the Summer Cabinet will be held at a convenient time within the next few days. The time and place will be announced in The Daily Tar Heel tomorrow.

Korea Vets Must Start On Bill Within 2 Years

Veterans of Korea and others who have had active military service since June 27, 1950 must begin training under terms of the Korean GI Bill within two years from their date of discharge if they wish to take advantage of this benefit, Veterans Administration says.

In the case of those who were discharged before August 20, 1952, their GI training must be begun before August 20, 1954. The former date is the time the Korean GI training program took effect.

More than 112,000 veterans are already enrolled in training under this program. Nearly 90 per cent of them are following courses in schools and colleges.

MRS. WILLIAM OATIS, whose letter to the President of Czechoslovakia brought about her husband's release from a Communist prison camp, was on hand to greet him when he arrived back in the United States. Oatis, imprisoned for more than two years on spying charges, landed at New York's Idlewild Airport. The couple is shown leaving the plane after their first embrace in three years.—NEA Telephoto.

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

WILL THE PERSON WHO FOUND C. T. Hill's class ring contact him through the YMCA office. (1-8016-2)

EMPLOYMENT WANTED 5

OPPORTUNITY TO SAVE $300—$600 during summer months working on circulation promotion program with Dunn & Bradstreet rated Southern concern. Journalism and Advertising students especially welcome. Minimum age men 18; women 21. Must travel and be able to drive. Transportation furnished, all expenses advanced. Write John Evans, Box 2070, Birmingham, Ala., for details; giving three references, date, place available to begin work. chg 1x2

FOR SALE 6B

SPORTSMAN TRAILER— EQUIPped kitchen, electricity, bed, ideal for camping. $295 or offer. Chapel Hill 9-8689 evenings. chg 1x1

ELECTRIC KELVINATOR REfrigerator $50.00 Freezes quickly and clean. 9x12 blue wool Axminister rug, reasonable, also rose studio couch cover. 105 Polk Street, Victory Village. (1-8014-1)

1952 10 CU. FT. DOUBLE DOOR Philco Refrigerator—Used 8 mo. $135 off List Price. Also Electric Range. Phone 96790. Gen. G372

8 CU. FT. HOTPOINT REFRIGERator for $150. Also Tappan Gas Range for $100. Terms may be arranged. Phone 96134. 1-c8018-1

RIDES WANTED 18

HAVE YOU EVER PICKED UP A hitch hiker? You won't ever want to do it again after seeing the HITCH HIKER at the Varsity Theatre Friday and Saturday. (Chg. 1x1)

Your bonds can lead a double life!

Now your maturing Series E Bonds can earn for 10 years more...at 3%

NOW, THOSE SERIES E BONDS which have been quietly earning money for you for ten years can continue to earn interest . . . at 3% compounded semiannually . . . for ten more years. Your investment can return you as much as 80% over the original purchase price.

And there is nothing whatever for you to do. Just keep holding your Bonds as you have been. The continued earning period is absolutely automatic. The Bond you got for $18.75 can now pay you $33.67 . . . a $37.50 Bond will be worth $67.34 . . . and so on.

This is true of all Series E Bonds—the ones you own now and any you may invest in in the future. Every Bond you invest in now starts earning interest sooner and matures earlier, too.

Of course, any Series E Bond may still be redeemed at any time after you have held it for two months. But you'll be smart to hold on to it if you possibly can, just as you hold on to savings in any form.

8 million Americans now save regularly with Defense Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. Are you one of them? If you're not, why not start now? Join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. It's one sure way to save because it saves something out of every check before you have a chance to spend it.

No matter how small your income, you know you can't afford not to put something aside for yourself. So strengthen your own future and that of your country by saving your money in U. S. Defense Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. Or if you're self-employed, start a Bond-A-Month Plan at your bank. It's safe, it's sure, it's automatic!

3 new money-making opportunities for you!
New Series H, J, and K
Defense Bonds pay 2.76% to 3%!

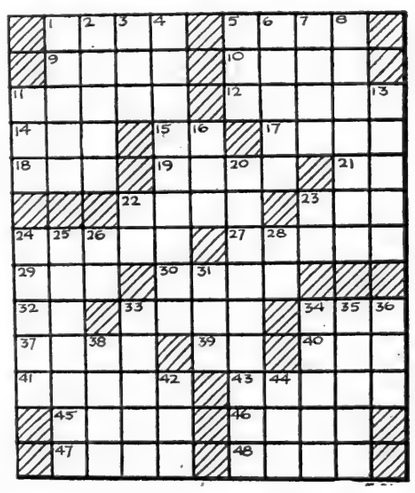
Ask at your bank for descriptive folders about these new Bonds:

Series H. A new current income Bond, available in denominations of $500 to $10,000. Sold at par. Matures in 9 years 8 months and pays an average 3% interest per annum if held to maturity. Interest paid semiannually by Treasury check. Annual limit, $20,000.

Series J. A new 12-year appreciation Bond, available in denominations of $25 to $100,000. Sold at 72% of par value. Pays 2.76% compounded semiannually if held to maturity. Annual limit, $200,000 issue price jointly with Series K Bonds.

Series K. A new 12-year current-income Bond in denominations of $500 to $100,000. Pays interest semiannually by Treasury check at the rate of 2.76% per annum. Sold at par. Annual limit, $200,000 issue price jointly with Series J Bonds.

Now even better! Invest more in Defense Bonds!



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Spinning toys
5. Cicatrix
9. Send forth, as beams
10. Sea eagle
11. Live coal
12. A tithe
14. Simian
15. Water god
17. Turkish coin
18. High craggy hill
19. Dexterous
21. Close to
22. Large reading desk (Early Churches)
23. Frozen dessert
24. Selected
27. Presents
29. One of a warlike people
30. Highway
32. Type measure
33. Former title (Russian ruler)
34. Edge of a wound
37. Edible root of taro
39. Music note
40. Miscellany
41. Talk
43. Sticky, as fresh paint
45. Dash
46. Back of the foot
47. Erase (print.)
48. Manufactured

DOWN
1. Rate of movement (mus.)
2. Spanish card game
3. A pastry
4. Ribbons
5. Place
6. Crinkled fabric
7. Coin (India)
8. Take back
11. Consume
13. Detests
16. Warp-yarn
20. Mathematical term
22. Like
23. Whether
24. Peep
25. Cardinal number
26. Ahead
28. Fish
31. Cereal grain
33. Entire
34. Fastened with a shoe string
35. Kind of linen tape
36. Coat a ship's bottom
38. Vale
42. East-northeast (abbr.)
44. Fiber from candlenut tree bark

Yesterday's Answer

MRS. J. M. COX OF PANAMA CITY, FLA., sole survivor of a Delta-CS Airlines crash near Marshall, Tex., has told her story to newsmen who were allowed to interview her briefly in her hospital room. Mrs. Cox told the reporters that she awoke from a nap to find the DC-3 transport "turning over and over" just before it crashed. Nineteen persons died when the big plane crashed during a rainstorm.—NEA TELEPHOTO.

U. N. C. LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Cloudy and warm, possible showers late today with 88 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

RABB
Big Four's Coach of the Year. See story columns 6 and 7.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 156 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, MAY 22, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Creasy Names 86 Men Orientation Counselors

Orientation chairman Tom Creasy yesterday released the names of 86 men who will be counselors for the fall orientation program.

"I feel that half of the success of the program has already been attained with the fine group of counselors selected," Creasy said.

He said that the program for the fall is beginning to take definite shape. "The schedule for the week is complete and many of the activities planned need only the final trimmings which will of course have to wait until then," Creasy said.

On Monday night the men's and women's orientation groups heard talks by President Gordon Gray and by Assistant Director of Admissions Charles Bernard, and on Tuesday night Kay Kyser spoke to them.

After the talks Creasy went over the mechanics of the program and asked that everyone be back on September 11 so that three meetings can be held before orientation begins on September 14.

The following counselors were chosen for next fall's Orientation program: Jimmy Adams, Bob Aldridge, Ken Anderson, Osborne Aycue, Karl Barkley, Carroll Berry, Ed Borden, Bobby Brawley,

Bill Brawner, Herb Brown, Marion Buie, Henry Cheney, Leonard Clein, Jerry Cook Ed Crawford, Bruce Crater,

Max Crohn, Jim Crouch, Russ Cowell, Bill Dameron, Bob Eberle, Art Einstein, Lloyd Farrar, R. B. Fitch,

Eddie Gauss, Jay Goldburg, Bob Gorham, Ed Gross, Bruce Gustafson, Bob Hardin, Ned Hardison, John Hawes, Mason Hawfield, Toby Haynsworth,

Scotty Hester, Bob Henley, Ham Horton, Weston Houck, Fred Hutchins, Clay Jackson, Martin Jordan, Abbie Keyes, Don Kurtz,

Dusty Lamson, Bob Litaker, Larry Maddry, John Markham, Bob Mason, Jim Maynard, Billy McCoy, Ed McCurry, George McCleod,

Baxter McIntyre, Manning Muntzing, Thomas Moore, Joe Mauretic, Ken Myers, Billy Oliver, Lionel Perkins, Frank Ramos, Al Resnick,

Charlie Rodenbough, Jake Rountree, Jim Schenck, Webb Sherrill, Sherwood Smith, Bob Skillen, Jack Skinner, Ollie Smithwick, Dickey Spangler, Jack Stevens,

Jack Stilwell, John Stoughton, Winfred Sugg, Bill Temple, Rollie Tillman, Steve Trimble, Bernie Theiling, Jim Turner, Doug Van Nappen, Jimmy Warren, Charlie Waters, Carl Webb, Jim Winston, Lou Wolfsheimer and Ogburn Yates.

Appointees Of Gorham Are Listed

Student body President Bob Gorham yesterday released a long list of appointments.

Bob Glenn was appointed chairman of the Student Audit Board. Frank Leak, John Hawes, Louie Patseavouras and Bill Yates were also named to that committee.

Charlie Yarborough was appointed to the Carolina Forum.

Ken Penegar was appointed chairman of the National Students Association Committee. Malcolm Cox, Pete Adams, Virginia Whiteman, Bev Webb, Chal Schley, Joel Fleishman, Zack Waters Mort Cooper, John Ammons and Ken Myers will serve with Penegar on that committee.

Gorham appointed Jerry Cook chairman of the Budget Committee. Other members are Jim Schenck, Eric Jonas, Bruce Marger, Patsy Barry, Lib Suddreth, Manning Muntzing, Joe Burrell and Jim Butler. Gordon Forester, representative from legislature, and Bob Glenn, chairman of the Audit Board will also serve on the Budget Committee.

Entry Deadline Of Manuscript Contest June 1

Deadline for entries in the contest for the Putnam Prize, to be offered by the publishing company through the English Department for the best manuscript by a student of any three units of the University is June 1, according to Miss Jessie Rehder of the English faculty, who is in charge of the contest arrangements.

The prize, to be an annual award, is $2,000 for the best manuscript either fiction or non-fiction by a graduate or undergraduate student at State College at Raleigh, Woman's College at Greensboro, the University at Chapel Hill and by students enrolled in the University's Extension Division.

It is emphasized that works of a strictly scholarly or highly specialized interest are not to be submitted. To be eligible for the contest a manuscript must consist of at least 40,000 words with a detailed synopsis of the unwritten parts of the book.

The publishers reserve the right to divide the prize if several manuscripts appear to be of equal merit, Miss Rehder explained, and not to award the prize if no worthy manuscript appears.

Judges for the contest are three well-known authors, Pearl S. Buck, Marjorie Rawlings, and James Street.

WUNC Schedule

7 p.m.—Adventures in Research
7:15—The Musician Comments
7:30—Songs of France
7:45—Report from Europe
8—People Under Communism
8:30—The Symphony Hour
9—Music Appreciation by Dr. William Newman
10—News and Coming Events
10:05—Evening Masterwork
11—Sign Off.

WUNC TOMORROW

7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody
8—Paris Star Time
8:30—Take It From Here
9—The Hill Hall Hour
10—News and Coming Events
10:05—Evening Masterwork
11—Sign Off.

YMCA Schedules Meeting For Students In Summer Session

Summer Session students who wish to assist in the planning of the Summer program activities should attend a meeting this afternoon at 4:30 in the Cabinet Room of the YMCA, according to Norman Bowles, the Y's Summer president.

Bowles asks all interested persons, men or women, to take part in the planning.

Bowles emphasized that the program plans will depend on personal interests as expressed by students who will be on campus during the Summer. In past years the program has included a watermelon festival, square dances, vespers, films, supper forums and picnics.

Students who are interested in the project but who cannot attend the meeting today may leave their names and program suggestions in the YMCA office today.

Yackety Yacks

The Yackety Yack staff has received 500 more yearbooks from the printers, and will distribute them from 2 to 3 this afternoon.

The final shipment will be here the latter part of next week. Watch The Daily Tar Heel for further information.

CAMPUS SEEN

Candy - selling Chi Omega sweet-talking a history prof into a sale.

Business Administration students pondering the meaning of the delivery yesterday of several cases of "chaser" to the basement of Carroll Hall.

Wide-eyed males taking in the rather amazing picture of Russell and Monroe on the cover of this week's Life.

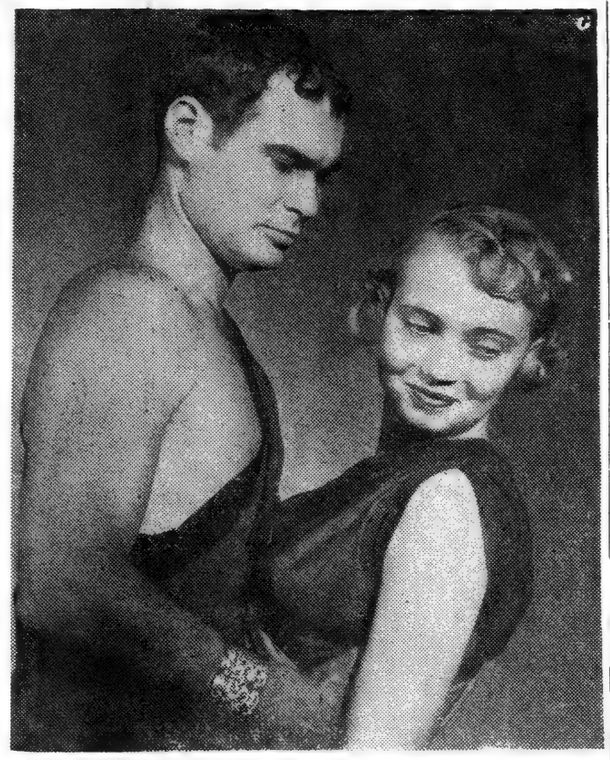
Mackie Names Annual Award Recipients

Anna M. Beeson, Eugene Oberdorfer and Gay Wilson Currie have been chosen for the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award, Dean of Awards Ernest L. Mackie announced yesterday.

The award, established in 1928, is given annually to the man and woman who have best demonstrated an attitude of unselfish interest in the welfare of their fellow men, according to the University catalog. It is not based entirely upon scholastic, athletic or other collegiate attainments, states the description.

Miss Currie, the first faculty member to be honored with this award since 1946, is executive director of the YWCA.

Miss Beeson, of Greensboro, is the outgoing YWCA president, a member of Phi Beta Kappa and the Order of the Old Well.



Oberdorfer, of Atlanta, Ga., is a member of Order of the Golden Fleece, the Order of the Old Well, Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Eta Sigma.

Carman Nahm and Waller Stephen Perrow were named Miss Alumna and Mr. Alumnus last week at the Tex Beneke concert. Perrow is from Bedford, Va. Miss Nahm is from Deland, Fla.

Mason, Painter, Hardy Are Given Fellowships

Three more seniors have been awarded distinguished fellowships and scholarships for graduate study next year, according to Dean Ernest Mackie.

Dick Painter and Judson Hardy have received general education board scholarships, and Julian Mason has been awarded a Carnegie Fellowship to study at George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville.

LYSISTRATA OPENS TONIGHT at 8:30 in the Forest Theatre with Mary Helen Crain of Durham playing the role of Myrrhina. James Pritchett of Lenoir plays Kinesias. Ysistrata, a riotous demonstration of Man's universal underestimation of women, will be the last major production of the Carolina Playmakers' season.

Playmakers Open Outdoor Production Of 'Lysistrata'

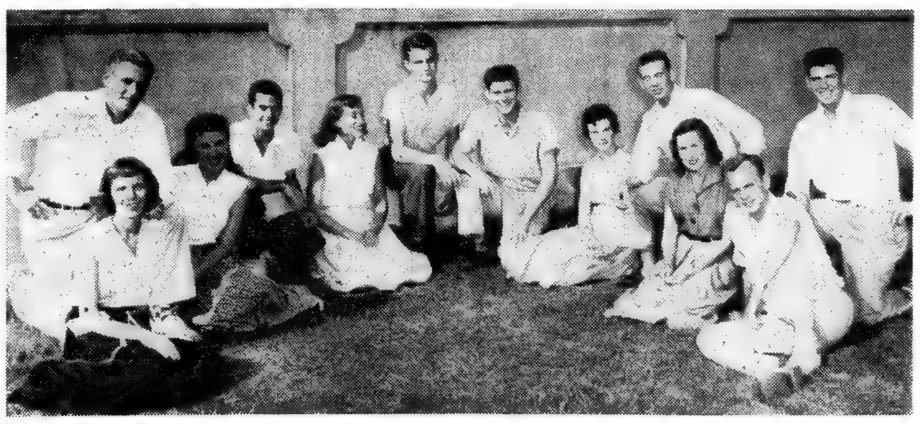
Following the dedication of the Forest Theatre this afternoon at 5 o'clock, the Carolina Playmakers will present the opening performance of their 35th anniversary outdoor production, Aristophanes' "Lysistrata," also dedicated to the memory of Frederick H. Koch, founder of the Playmakers.

The play will run through Sunday night, and in case of rain will be postponed until the next clear night.

An unusually large and striking setting for the play has been designed by Sidney Litwack, representing the Acropolis, with the Parthenon on top. Its 1000 square feet of platforms and ramps provide by far the most playing space ever built in the Forest Theatre.

Colorful costumes by Jeanette Pratt, lighting by Donald Treat, and special music composed for the occasion by Dr. Glen Haydon of the music department, also contribute to making "Lysistrata" the most lavish production of the Playmakers' season.

Under the direction of Foster Fitz-Simons, the cast will be headed by Louise Lamont, in the title role, and includes 46 actors—one of the largest companies ever on a Playmakers stage.



Principals in the cast are Joanne San Antonio, Mary Helen Crain, Frances O'Neal, James T. Pritchett, Marion Fitz-Simons, Barbara Treat, and Frank Groseclose.

Others are Julianne Hale, Keen Oliver, Betty Johnson, Martha Davis, Emily Selden, Dean MacCoy, Martha Boyle, Joyce Doughty, Janet Carter, Diana Whittinghill, Jean Hillman, Mary Anna Blair, Janet Green, Mary Sanford. Beth Okun, Evelyn Tracy and Nancy Green.

Men in the cast are Edgar Daniels, Wade Williams, George Boozer, Charles Johnston, William Casstevens, Dan Reid, John Taylor, George Spence, Paul Anisko, Billy Barnes, Jim Fouts, James Turner, Barclay Gordon, Don Carmichael, H. B. Patterson, J. B. Tyndall, Terry Chronaki, Clinton Lindley, Carl Williams and Hiram Black.

Officer Candidate Program

A Naval recruiting officer will be on campus Tuesday to talk with seniors interested in the Navy Department's officer candidate program. Persons interested in arranging an interview should contact the Placement Office, 204 Gardner Hall.

Carolina's cheering squad for next year are from left: Jeanne Bunch, Jim Lewis (kneeling), Pat Turnbull, Frank Ramos, Joan Gant, Tom Wakefield, Jim Fountain (head cheerleader), Ann Hartzog, Johnny Rhoades, Elinor Wrenn, Frank Harris and Pete Brumley.

Fountain Aims At Better Team Support

Cheerleaders Work Enthusiastically To Revive Dynamic Carolina Spirit

Jim Fountain, head cheerleader, reported yesterday that the cheering squad is already hard at work mapping out a strategy to "rejuvenate the dormant Carolina spirit."

"This small group of enthusiasts hopes to instill within each student, alumnus, and fan the dynamic Carolina spirit for which we have been noted during the years," Fountain said.

He continued, "It's our school and our team, and if we want spirit we'll have to produce it. The more genuine support the team receives from the student body, the better showing the team will make."

Regarding Friday night pre-game rallies, Fountain said, "They will be the most gigantic pep-rallies Carolina has ever seen. We'll have a show that no school can top."

The new head cheerleader stated that his group would work in cooperation with the University Club and Carolina Athletic Association but stated that the cooperation and support of the student body will be urgently needed.

Dr. Graham Here For Koch Service

Former UNC President Frank P. Graham, special mediator for the United Nations, will speak at the dedication of the Forest Theater, a memorial to the late Frederick H. Koch, who was the founder and director of the playmakers for many years.

The program will take place at the theater this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Dr. Archibald Henderson, chairman of the Koch Memorial Theater Committee, will serve as master of ceremonies.

A bronze plaque commemorating the work of the pioneer in a "people's theater" will be unveiled by Dr. Koch's granddaughter.

Following the ceremony tea will be served in the theater.

The Playmakers will present the first of three performances of the famous Greek comedy, "Lysistrata," at 8:30 tonight.

The leading lady is Mrs. Louise Lamont of Chapel Hill, who played the queen in the Playmakers' "Hamlet," with "Proff" Koch in the Forest Theater more than 20 years ago.

Another feature of the dedication of the theater to "Proff" is a collection of pictures of Koch and books edited by him being shown in an exhibit in the Library.

Bedmaking Is Subject Of Bill By Legislature

By Ken Sanford

With the passing of a bill asking that janitors make up beds in the dormitories beginning next fall, the Student Legislature last night ended its business for the school year.

Phin Horton spoke in favor of the bill. He said that J. S. Bennett, director of operations for the University, had informed him that this service would cost students nothing extra.

Horton said, "The janitors can use some of their three-hour coke time to provide this service."

Gordon Forester said, "This would put us on a level with Duke and other country club schools."

Gerald Parker made a lengthy speech in opposition to the bill. He said he didn't want to see Carolina placed on a level with Duke. Parker said that there are janitors behind every bush and that they can be used for something better than making up beds.

Parker said that if there are too many the money could be used to buy better beds. "I am in favor of that," he said. The speaker ruled that this was not pertinent to the question on the floor.

Forester said, "Let's take the janitors out of the bushes and put them to making beds."

The bill was passed with a roll-call vote.

Other business was considered in a more serious manner.

Privileges of the floor were extended to Gene Cook. He told the Legislature that he was going before the Student Council and ask that surplus funds of the Publications Board be returned to the general surplus of the Legislature. He read a section of the constitution which provided for the return of unused surplus to this fund. (Student Legislature is going to investigate Cook's recommendation.)

Cook said that the Publications Board had approved a raise for The Daily Tar Heel editor in bad faith even though he believed that the editor should get more money. He said that he felt that the Legislature should be the only one to make salary increases.

The Legislature approved Presi-

(See LEGISLATURE, page 4)

GM Directors Deadlock On New Manager

Deadlocked over the selection of a new Graham Memorial director, the student union board of directors yesterday appointed John Ammons acting manager.

Ammons will serve until a director is chosen some time this Summer. The student union position was vacated this month by Bill Roth who left to enter professional Boy Scouting.

Another meeting of the selection committee will be held soon, probably after graduation. Included on the committee will be members of the Graham Memorial directors in Chapel Hill at the time as well as the original committee members, Dean of Students Fred Weaver, Alumni Secretary Spike Saunders and GM Board Chairman Ken Penegar.

Sigma Alpha Iota

Nora Jane Rumph was recently elected president of the UNC chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, women's national musical fraternity.

Other new officers are vice-president, Pat Bohenkamp; secretary, Miriam Lewis; treasurer, Mary Alice Dalrymple; editor, Emile Patton; and chaplain, Katherine Gente.

Rabb Named Top Big Four Baseball Coach

Walt Rabb, Carolina assistant baseball coach, has been named the outstanding coach of the 1953 season in the Big Four. Rabb received two votes, while Ace Parker of Duke, and Taylor Sanford of Wake Forest each received one.

Chal Port, co-captain of the Tar Heels, was tied in voting for the most valuable player in the Big Four award by Johnny Yvars, NC State shortstop.

Port led the loop's pitching department, hanging up a 4-1 record. including two wins off Duke. He had almost perfect control, and in three games against Duke he walked only two batters, both in the third game.

Rabb, active assistant to oldtimer Bunn Hearn, helped Carolina to win the Big Four title for the first time in a number of years, and also led the team to the southern division championship in the Southern Conference. Rabb is a member of the conference baseball committee.

He is also active in NCAA District Three baseball, heading the committee that works out plans for the district's diamond playoffs each year. Rabb's committee will meet Sunday at Charlotte to iron out final details for the four team, double elimination series to be held there during the period June 1-5.

Two Carolina players were named to the All-Big Four team for the 1953 season. They were sophomores Harry Lee Lloyd and Connie Gravitte. Lloyd plays second base and hit over .300, and Gravitte is a heavy hitting outfielder.

Rabb's 1953 baseball team is the best Carolina has had since the 1948 conference and district NCAA champions. The team took first place in the Big Four by beating all the other teams two-out-of-three games for a 6-3 record. Port was credited with four of the wins.

Port also received the Patterson Medal for the outstanding senior athlete at Carolina. He is a football letter winner and has a scholastic average.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Asst. Sports Ed. — Vardy Buckalew
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Sehindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles, Frances Walls.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Foot Loose

Chapel Hill's aldermen have gotten tough with delinquent fraternities and sororities on correcting the fire hazards in their houses. However, this is only one half of the program Inspector P. L. Burch announced in January.

After condemning 35 Greek abodes, the inspector said the inspection would be extended to town lodging houses and they would be required to make any necessary alterations. So far, the town fire check has not materialized.

Mr. Burch has said "We'll have to get our foot loose from the fraternity-sorority houses before we can take anything else." He added that "We would have to determine which are 'rooming houses' as specified in the law, and which are private dwellings which don't come under the law."

Having set June 5 as the last deadline for the Greeks, Mr. Burch should be free shortly afterwards to continue with his inspection work. Now that the program has started it should be thoroughly continued until complete.

Spirits

With a new Coed Visiting Agreement in their brief cases, the Administration meets Tuesday to consider the student recommendations about visiting and drinking in fraternity houses.

The nine-point proposal of the Inter-Fraternity Council is a realistic approach to a rather insoluable problem which in the past has been regulated by farcial, hypocritical rules. Stressing self-regulation, the new Inter-Fraternity plan calls for individual and fraternity responsibility, not for some flying brigade of vigilantes.

This new visiting agreement is the fruition of several years' work; this year, somehow, its proponents have persevered and apparently they're about to get their end-of-the-rainbow pot of gold. May the Administration add its blessings this Tuesday.

Tarnation

— Dorman Cordell —

Tarnation has managed to come out again, and although it is nothing to have hysterics over, it is the best of the year. It seems that each issue has been better than the last.

Jerry McMahon's Slob is on the cover again, and McMahon also has several cartoons inside which are pretty good. In fact, his cartoons have been the one bright spot in some of the previous issues.

Professional cartoonist Bill Harrison contributed two on the subject of graduation, and the professional touch is evident immediately.

The two-page spread by Stan Smith is fair to middling, and may provoke a yuk among Y-Court dwellers.

On the writing side, Barry Farber's "Into The Fire" is good for two or three columns, but then becomes a little tedious. However, it is, on the whole, probably the best in the current issue.

"Men of Destiny" by Kit Crittenden and Steve Chaseman is short but sweet.

Daily Tar Heeler Louis Kraar relieved some of the nation's surplus of corn by using barrels of it in "Georgi Peorgi," which is amusing if you like the "1000 Jokes" or "Charley Jones Laugh Book" sort of thing.

The jokes in the new Tarnation seem to be fairly new (at least to this reviewer) for the most part, although some from Grandpa's heyday insist on popping up occasionally.

As college humor magazines go, Tarnation does as well as most, what there is of it.

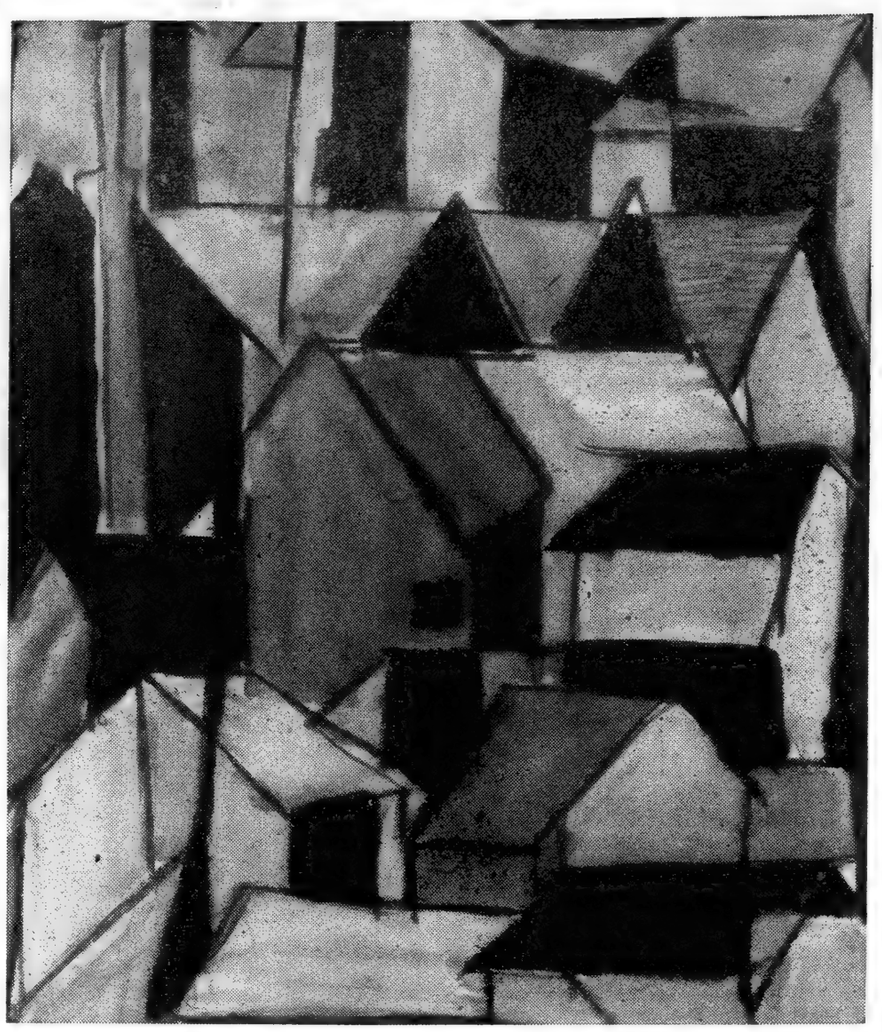
Seceding Seven

— Morton Ershler —

The much talked of Southern Conference split has finally materialized. The Big Seven—Duke, N. C. State, Wake Forest, Maryland, Clemson, South Carolina and North Carolina have at last made the move that will mean the end to a troublesome, burdensome seventeen-member athletic conference. The move has been anticipated for years—talked of in smokefilled rooms behind closed doors for years—but it took only a little speed at an open session of all concerned to put the finishing touches on the movement and the split was achieved.

As far as the record book is concerned the split was here long ago. The seceding schools have consistantly carried off honors in the major sports as football, baseball, and basketball; they have usually come out on the long end of the minor sports score in track, golf and tennis. It seems as though the seceding seven have taken with them all the conference championships, while leaving behind to the remaining ten schools the sum of $156,000 to set up shop with.

While the seven schools go to make up one of the toughest athletic conferences in the nation to win a championship in, and while they have the necessary leadership available to make them the most progressive conference in the country we suggest that they take into consideration the following ideas which can make them the undisputed champs of the nation:



1. Include four more big schools in the new conference that are willing and capable of playing ball on the same level as the Big Seven. Suggested are: Virginia, West Virginia, Florida State and Miami. Even though travel will be costly, increased gate receipts as a result of this addition should cover the expenditure.

2. Tie-up with the Orange Bowl so that the conference champ will definitely get a bowl bid, but allow the other teams in the conference to participate in other bowls around the nation if they are invited. The Southeastern Conference last year had five of their schools participating in bowl games.

3. If an alignment with the Orange Bowl is made, and teams are allowed to play in other bowls too, let the Conference divide the bowl money into shares such as the Big Ten does in the Rose Bowl. This would increase the revenue of all schools in the conference.

4. In writing the by-laws of the new conference, make it clear just who shall determine athletic policy for the schools concerned. It is felt that it is not the job of the university presidents to formulate policy and ramrod it down the throat of the conference, but rather each school's athletic council shall determine policy with the help of their president, and pass it on to the conference through their director of athletics.

5. It is finally urged that the new conference bring the question of subsidizing athletes out in the open. Make subsidizing a legal affair with certain agreed upon limitations. Let us start our new conference right . . . by pulling no punches to begin with, even though we may not end up that way.

It Must Be Truth Or It Cannot Exist, Says Artist

(With this painting by Lewis Ennis, The Daily Tar Heel inaugurates a weekly feature on its editorial page.—Ed.)

Ennis, a senior art student from Durham, describes his work:

It is my aim to organize space and form in nature. This is true, perhaps, because I know I "cannot copy 'that' nature." I want to utilize nature in order to bring about an organization of "things" that will be meaningful and compatible to myself, and with a desire the same organization will also be meaningful and compatible to others.

If I choose to draw from "that" nature certain shapes and forms that will add unity to my own being; if I choose or feel the need to take this rooftop and that chimney; if I choose to turn around and take this church steeple or that window, then I do so because I feel that window, then I do so because I feel that this nature can help me express the emotion, idea, or even the humor that I wish to make manifest.

I feel that if the artist is to seek truth he cannot allow himself to become "restricted" by the nature in which he must live. I realize this. I am aware of the existence of things that cannot be added to or made better. Therefore, I strive to organize space and form.

I believe that a work of art may be an expression of my own inner feelings or vision, and that it may be a thing useful to society, but I also believe that beyond both of these it is a "thing-in-itself." Regardless of whether it is an emotion, an impulse, an ideal or a funny story—regardless of whether it is intellectual, spontaneous, or psychological—it must have a unifying organization which is divorced from the mere copying of another's creation.

It must be truth or it cannot exist.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey won't know it when he presents his ideas to the House Ways and Means Committee today, but the tax cards are completely stacked against him. Chairman Dan Reed's feathers are ruffled over the whole tax situation and he just isn't going to cooperate.

So no matter what Humphrey proposes in the way of new taxes, he just isn't going to get much from his fellow republicans. In fact, he'll probably get more cooperation from the democrats.

What Humphrey has been working on in the way of a tax program is this:

A.—Continuation of the excess-profits tax.

B.—No cutting of income taxes this year.

C.—As a sop to business, Humphrey is considering more generous depreciation rates, thereby permitting a quicker write-off of capital investments.

But regarding the future, Humphrey believes congress can not cut taxes substantially without jeopardizing national defense.

What the Secretary of the Treasury doesn't know, however, is that Republicans on the Ways and Means Committee, who are supposed to support him, have entered into a secret deal to let the excess-profits tax die on the vine June 30—no matter what he recommends.

Furthermore, Uncle Dan Reed got quite nettled the other day when Humphrey made the understandable mistake of conferring with Sen. Gene Millikin of Colorado about taxes before he consulted Reed.

Doesn't he know, fumed Uncle Dan at a closed-door meeting, that tax legislation originates in the Ways and Means Committee, not in the Senate?

Of course, Humphrey is only a plain, hard-working Cleveland businessman, though a most successful one. And he probably didn't realize the niceties of congressional protocol, and whom he should talk to first.

However, the result of all this is that there's almost certain to be no tax legislation passed at this session of Congress. Taxes will be caught in a deadlock. The House, following the advice of Uncle Dan Reed, will do nothing. The Senate, led by Chairman Millikin of the Finance Committee, will accept the advice of Secretary Humphrey. But out of the impasse between the two, no new tax bill is likely to be written.

This means the excess-profits tax will automatically expire June 30 and personal income taxes automatically will be reduced 10 per cent—at the end of the year.

Chinese are tired—U.S. Intelligence experts are now convinced that the Chinese Communists want to end the Korean War. For example, not a single anti-American sign showed up in the Peiping May day parade. In contrast, even before Korea, every May day parade featured anti-American signs .

The Eye Of The Horse

— Roger Will Coe —

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . ." Hipporotis: circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE was filching some laundry-bags from the University Laundry and was not at all disturbed when I suggested he might get caught.

"It will be worse if I get caught without the bags," he chittered. "I'm staying for the Summer quarters."

I didn't get the connection? What did laundry-bags have to do with education?

"Education?" he sneered elegantly. He gathered his loot and started away, past the Port Hole, past Hill, and on toward the library. "You are definitely old hat, my boy. It is no longer fashionable to 'Educate.' To-day, we INducate; or perhaps ADducate, if you are an optimist and believe much of it even stays stuck to you."

Would he be less obscure?

"Okay," The Horse said, sprawling out in the shade of the Y-Court. "Attend me, Roger. 'E-duco' is Latin for 'I bring out,' or something equivalent, right? Well, in the old days the schools did bring out whatever was in the student, and just that. You think they try to bring out whatever is in the student in the way of talent, now?"

Didn't The Horse believe so?

"Alas and welladay!" The Horse sighed. "How juvenile you are! To-day, we are not concerned with what a student can give us. Barring the price of tuition, that is. To-day, our concern is in giving him things. A bit of this subject; a dash of that; a splattering of some other. You stand in line like Oliver Twist begging at the board of Education; you hold the little bag open; we dump you in some alleged knowledge; you get going. And no repeats!"

Was it possible The Horse was a radical, a malcontent?

"A realist," The Horse corrected. "The only fun in being a horse is you got horse-sense. The important thing to-day is, what you do not know. You meet with some other collitch folk socially, say, five years from now, and you worry that the guy you are talking with may know more than you do. So you ask, after a bit, where he went to collitch, and what degree?"

"'Yale, A. B., majored in History,'" he answers. Right away you feel relaxed. He doesn't know any more than you do, and he paid more money not to know it. But if the guy says, 'Boston Tech, and I'm a Chemical Engineer,' get moving! They got to know something to get that! But if he should say, 'I got a B. S. degree at East Cupcake Abnormal,' start patronizing him, because they don't have to have such big bags for a B. S. as for a B. A. If he is an M. D. or an LL. B. or D., stare him down, because he will want your business."

I thought The Horse was a cynic?

"I'm a stoic," he growled, pushing to his hooves and collecting his bags for summer school. "How else could I stand you?"

I think The Horse hears imperfectly, also . . .

The Aardvark

— A.Z.F. Wood Jr. —

(Browsing in the Intimate Book Shop the other day I came upon Will Cuppy's "How to Attract the Wombat," in which were sketches of various animals, common and uncommon, including, much to my consternation, the earthworm and the opossum. So I am now duly apologetic for trying to out-Cuppy Cuppy. But there are a few animals which he has not sketched and one of them is the aardvark. Thus:)

The aardvark is a member of the family mammalia and the order Tubulidentata which means he's got teeth but they're not very good. He hasn't got any in the front of his mouth and the twenty-six he has got have neither enamel or roots.1

The aardvark is a stout, hump-backed, scraggly-haired, rabbit-eared fellow between five and six feet long, one-fourth of which is tail. He eats ants. He is equipped with very strong claws with which he tears an ant-hill all to hell and a flypaper tongue with which to lap them up. His diet is apparently exclusively ants and he seems to have little trouble finding plenty of them.2

Aardvarks are to be found mostly in South Africa, though if you went down there to see one you would probably be very disappointed. They are very shy and if they hear you coming they'll burrow straight down into the ground and be gone before you can say, "You're a Communist."3

The Dutch call the aardvark the earth-hog and that just shows how unimaginative the Dutch are. Just because the aardvark burrows around in the earth and has a snout like a hog, is that any reason to call him an earth-hog?4

Because of the fact that the ardvark has teeth, no matter how lousy they are, he has never been accepted into the Grand Order of the Edentata, which is an exclusive club for all toothless anteaters. So the aardvark went out and founded his own order (Tubulidentata), but apparently his feelings were hurt, for he has become nearly extinct everywhere except in South Africa.5

So far as the sex life of the aardvark is concerned, all I can say is that he's got one. They have one or two little aardvarks by the usual mammal process and are nursed in the usual mammal way. How many times they go through this I don't know, but apparently not enough to make up for the hurt feelings and ensuing road to extinction brought on by the snooty Edentatas.

1—And I am told that the aardvark has not got halitosis. Let the Colgate people figure that one out.

2—If this diet seems a bit unbalanced to you, remember, you are not an aardvark.

3—I do not know why they are so shy. They are supposed to make very good pets: gentle, easily house-broken, and simply wonderful picnic companions.

4—The English called the Dutch Boers; so maybe the Dutch took it out on the aardvark.

5—I haven't been able to find out what happens when about twenty square miles of inch-long driver ants come into aardvark territory. I have a hunch that this has something to do with his quasi-extinction.

Sigma Nu Softballers Defeat Sigma Chi's For Championship

Led by pitcher Bob Page, the Sigma Nu's won the fraternity intramural championship from the Sigma Chi's by a 11-8 score.

The victors took the lead in the first inning when they got four consecutive singles for three runs. John Fountain, Bob Page, Bull Page, and Wallace Pridgen were the batters.

The Sigma Chi's tied the game up in their half of the first after two were out. They scored their runs on two errors, a walk, and a single.

The Sigma Nu's came back in the second to score three more runs and take a lead which they never relinquished. Most of the scoring came in the first three innings with the winners picking up nine of theirs and the losers getting seven of their eight.

It was the second victory in as many days for pitcher Page. The day before he had a no-hit shut-out against the Zetes as his team was getting a total of fifteen runs. Page was the winning pitcher against Duke when North Carolina sent its representatives to the Big Four Intramural Meet in Raleigh.

(See SOFTBALL, page 4)

Horseshoe Champs

Sigma Nu-2 defeated the Dental School last night for the campus horseshoe championshihp.

The summaries:

Singles — Heath (DS) defeated Fountain (SN) 21-14, 27-21, 5-16.

Doubles — Page and Duke (SN) defeated Hord and Harless, 10-21, 22-18, 23-20; George Watkins and Sam Watkins (SN) defeated Magginison and Gauve (DS), 7-23, 22-20, 21-14.

TV FAIR

TOMORROWS PROGRAM

IN PERSON

2 P.M.—Soupspoon Boys—Oliver Bloomer.

3 P.M.—Central Prison Band.

4 P.M.—Feature show with Lanny Ross, Dinning Sisters, Hal LeRoy, Audrey (Mrs. Hank) Williams and Homer Briarhopper.

5 P.M.—Rhythm Kids from N. C. State School For The Blind.

6 P.M.—Paul Montgomery.

7 P.M.—Ensemble from Meredith College Chorus.

8 P.M.—Feature show with Lanny Ross, Dinning Sisters, Hal LeRoy, Audrey (Mrs. Hank) Williams and Homer Briarhopper.

9 P.M.—Beddingfield - Leocarta Dancers.

10 P.M.—Mills Twins & Country Boys.

All acts on Television to TV Models on Display.

FREE TV SET DRAWING EACH HOUR

You need not be present to win.

WM. NEAL REYNOLDS Coliseum - Raleigh

ADMISSION

50c—Children 25c Inc. Tax

Benefit Damon Runyon Fund

for Graduation . . .

GIVE SONG

One of these beautiful books will send your graduate out into the world with a song in his heart:

The Rodgers and Hart Song Book No book in our shop has been more yearned-for than this—and that's saying a lot. ——— $7.50

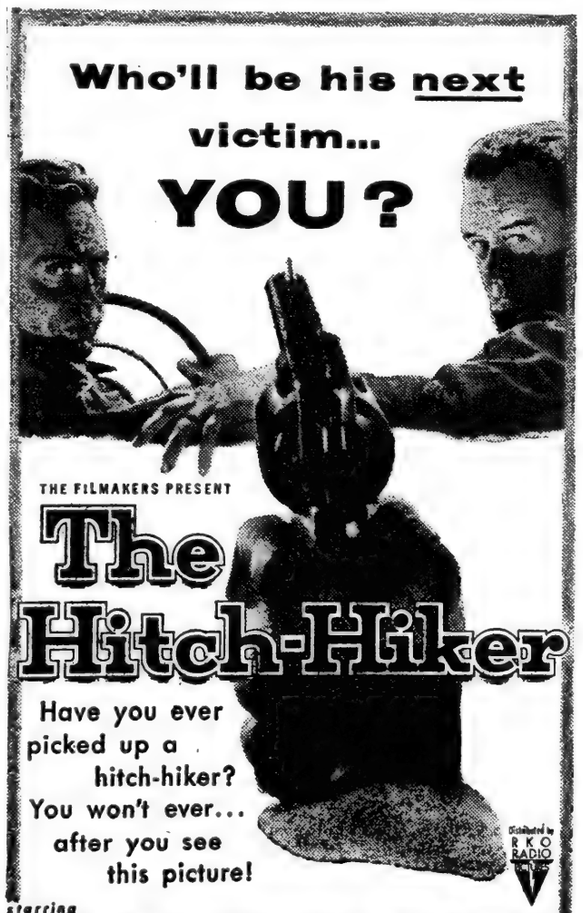
A Treasury of Gilbert and Sullivan Words and music of 102 songs from 11 operas, plus color illustrations. ——— $6.00

Fireside Book of Folk Songs Gay color plus a wonderful selection of songs keeps this book high on our Chapel Hill best seller list! ——— $5.00

English Folk-Songs from the Southern Appalachians This handsome two-volume set is constantly admired by serious students, but the price is high. Maybe you can make somebody supremely happy at graduation! ——— $13.50

Gift-Wrapping Is Free At

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP



205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

"TOPS IN TENSION!"

THIS MOVIE HAS "OUT-HITCHED HITCHCOCK!"

He's waiting . . . just waiting . . . to thumb another victim down the road to death!

starring EDMOND O'BRIEN • FRANK LOVEJOY • WILLIAM TALMAN

Produced by COLLIER YOUNG • Directed by IDA LUPINO • Screenplay by COLLIER YOUNG and IDA LUPINO

— PLUS —

NEWS—CARTOON—SPORTS

T-O-D-A-Y & Saturday Varsity

Late Show Sat. Nite!

REGULAR SHOWING SUNDAY — MONDAY

Drama that EXPLODES right in your face!

starring STEPHEN McNALLY • ALEXIS SMITH JAN STERLING • KEITH ANDES ARTHUR HUNNICUTT with PAUL KELLY

Distributed by RKO RADIO

Lima Grands Superfine — 2 8-Oz. Cans 23c

Clapp's Strained Baby Foods — 3 4½-Oz. Jars 29c

Clapp's Chopped Junior Foods — 8-Oz. Jar 14c

Chicken of The Sea Tuna Fish — Bite Size ¼-Size Can 20c

Chicken of The Sea Tuna Fish — 7-Oz. Can 39c

Converted Rice Uncle Ben's — 14-Oz. Pkg. 20c

COME SEE!.. COME SAVE!.. HERE IS POSITIVE PROOF OF Lower Food Prices at A&P!

Ann Page Fancy Tomato Ketchup - - - - - - 14-Oz. Bot. 17c

Prem or Treet - - - - - - 2 7-Oz. Cans 85c

Packers Label Red Sour Pitted Cherries - - - - - - - 21-Oz. Can 21c

Golden Maid — In Quarters Margarine - - 1-Lb. Carton 21c

Iona Golden Cream Style Corn - - - - - 2 16-Oz. Cans 27c

Mild American Cheese - - - - - Lb. 47c

Scot Toilet Tissue - - - - 2 Rolls 23c

★ A REAL VALUE

SULTANA OLIVES — Packed In Re-Usable Glass Tumbler 3¼-Oz. Jar 19c

Campbell's Tomato Juice ——— 46-Oz. Can 27c

A&P Grapefruit Sections ——— 2 20-Oz. Cans 29c

Scott Paper Towels ——— 2 Rolls 35c

Angelus Marshmallows ——— 10-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Iona Bartlett Pears ——— 16-Oz. Can 23c

Staley's Waffle Syrup ——— 12-Oz. Jar 21c

Green Giant Peas ——— 17-Oz. Can 19c

——JANE PARKER——

Spanish Bar CAKE Ea. 29c ★ A REAL VALUE!

Iona California Peaches ——— 29-Oz. Can 27c

Welch's Grapelade ——— 16-Oz. Jar 25c

N. B. C. Premium Crackers ——— 1-Lb. Pkg. 25c

A&P Grape Juice ——— 24-Oz. Bot. 29c

Heavy Western Beef Chuck Roast POT ROAST Lb. 45c

Heavy Western Beef SIRLOIN STEAK - - Lb. 79c

"Super-Right" Freshly GROUND BEEF - - Lb. 39c

"Super-Right" Bone in PLATE STEW - - - Lb. 19c

"Super-Right" Center Cut Rib PORK CHOPS - - - Lb. 69c

"Super-Right" Loin End PORK ROAST - - - - Lb. 49c

Swift's All Meat PREMIUM FRANKS - 1-Lb. Pkg. 49c

"Super-Right" Dressed and Drawn FRYERS - - - - - - Lb. 47c

Well Filled Ears—Fresh CORN - - - - 4 ears 29¢

Juicy Sweet WATERMELON - Lb. 5½¢

Juicy Florida ORANGES - - 8 Lb. Bag 45c

Heavy With Juice LEMONS - - - - Lb. 15c

Crisp Golden CARROTS - - - 1-Lb. Cello Bag 12c

Fine Yellow ONIONS - - - - - Lb. 4¢

New White POTATOES - 10 Lbs. 43c

Pick of Carolina Pickles

Kosher Dills - - - - - - - 32-Oz. Jar 29c

Sweet Mixed - - - - - 2 16-Oz. Jar 35¢

Whole Sweet - - - - - - 16-Oz. Jar 25c

Bean Sprouts La Choy - - No. 2 Can 19c

Chinese Dinners - La Choy 18-Oz. Pkg. 59c

Noodles La Choy Chow Mein - - - - - 4-Oz. Can 18c

Chop Suey La Choy Chicken - - - - 19-Oz. Can 67c

Brown Sauce - - - - - - 5-Oz. Jar 19c

Woodbury Facial Soap - - - 3 Bars 25c

Camay Soap - - - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c

Cheer - - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c Giant Pkgs. 69c

Joy Liquid Dishwasher - - - - - Bot. 29c

Paper Napkins Marcal - 80-Ct. Pkg. 10c

210 WEST FRANKLIN ST.

These Prices Effective Thru Saturday, May 23rd

AMERICA'S FOREMOST FOOD RETAILER . . . SINCE 1859

A&P Super Markets

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

Students Urged To Contribute Textbooks, Clothing To Needy

By Jess Nettles

A combined clothing and textbooks drive, to acquire those items which college students normally dispose of when their utility no longer matches the chore of retaining them, will be conducted during exam week by the Inter-Faith Council in joint effort and with the cooperation of the Inter-Fraternity and Inter-Dormitory Councils.

With finals just around the corner, the three activities request that students who are preparing to vacate the campus for the summer remember the world's needy while packing. Every effort will be made for the convenience of vacationers desiring to contribute to the worthy cause.

Collection boxes are to be situated in strategic locations in all dormitories, in fraternity and sorority houses, and in the Y-lobby beginning May 30, and contributions will be solicited until June 4.

All wearing apparel and household materials will be brought together and forwarded to the American Friends Service Committee regional office in Greensboro for further routing to distribution points overseas. The AFSC points out that clothing, shoes, linens, sewing materials, etc., are the most needed articles.

Concurrent with the drive for these articles, and also provided for by the three campus activities sponsoring it, will be a "Books-for-Korea" drive, urged by the World Student Service Fund, Inc. This organization seeks textbooks and stresses Korea's need for the following types: those in the physical sciences and philosophy, advanced texts and reference books; and books containing standard works in English literature.

The privilege of offering American texts is cited as a particularly effective method of assisting foreign students to see things as Americans do. The goal of this drive is to obtain those textbooks which will otherwise either gather dust in "collections," or which might go for trivial sums at second-hand rates.

In The Majors

American League

Philadelphia 9, Boston 0.
New York at Washington, night.

National League

Philadelphia at Pittsburgh, night
Brooklyn at New York, night.
Cincinnati at St. Louis, night.

YWCA

Mrs. R. M. Wettach, chairman of the YWCA advisory board, will speak on the founding and purpose of the local YW at the last meeting of the cabinet Monday afternoon.

—Legislature—

(Continued from page 1)

dent Bob Gorham's appointments to the Student Entertainment Committee, Budget Committee, Audit Board, and all except one member of the National Students Asscoiation Committee.

The legislative committee on appointments recommended that Malcolm Cox not be accepted because he is opposed to NSA. They pointed out that the committee is supposed to further NSA on the campus.

— Softball —

(Continued from page 3)

The Sigma Nu's clinched their victory in the seventh inning by getting two runs. Up until that time the Sigma Chi's had pulled up to within one run of their opponents. The runs were picked up by two bases on balls and two singles. Ray White and Gene Shaw got the hits.

Shaw and Brooks Page were the batting stars for the winners, each getting three hits in five trips to the plate.

Don McCormick, Ed Middleton, and Bill Mosier led the Sigma Chi team in this department, picking up two hits apiece.

Erwin Potts pitched one of the best games he threw all year for the losers. Catchers for the two teams were John Kelton for the losers and Brooks Page for the victors.

The game to decide the campus championship will be played next week. The date has not yet been set, but it will probably be toward the beginning of the week so as to avoid conflicts with exams.

Line Score:

Sigma Nu	333	000	2—11	14	3
Sigma Chi	313	001	0— 8	9	0

Batteries: Sigma Nu, Page and Page; Sigma Chi, Potts and Kefton.

Now Carolina

MGM presents Barbara STANWYCK Barry SULLIVAN Ralph MEEKER

A Woman in JEOPARDY

plus "THE HOAXTERS"

SWIM! FISH!

PICNIC! Spend An Enjoyable Afternoon In The Sun At

EASTWOOD LAKE

First Road On The Left
After Brady's On The
DURHAM ROAD

M-G-M presents the inside story of the world's greatest fraud! narrated by

MARILYN ERSKINE
HOWARD KEEL
GEORGE MURPHY
WALTER PIDGEON
DORE SCHARY
BARRY SULLIVAN
ROBERT TAYLOR
JAMES WHITMORE

THE HOAXTERS

TODAY & SATURDAY

Carolina

TITANIC

20th Century-Fox presents

TITANIC

STARRING

CLIFTON WEBB · BARBARA STANWYCK
ROBERT WAGNER · AUDREY DALTON · THELMA RITTER with BRIAN AHERNE · RICHARD BASEHART

Late Show Saturday
SUNDAY — MONDAY

CAROLINA THEATRE A

You wouldn't Go into The desert Without Water . . . Don't go Vacationing Without Books

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Get Everything Under Control!

Now is the time to tune-up, straighten-up your car . . . get "everything under control" for miles and miles of safe, care-free driving this Summer.

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR

POE MOTOR CO.

112 W. Franklin

DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

PICKARD ROOFING CO. BUILDing supplies, hardware, and paint. Free estimates on old and new work. Main street Carrboro. Phone 9-5693. (chg 1x1)

EMPLOYMENT WANTED 5

OPPORTUNITY TO SAVE $300—$600 during summer months working on circulation promotion program with Dunn & Bradstreet rated Southern concern. Journalism and Advertising students especially welcome. Minimum age men 18; women 21. Must travel and be able to drive. Transportation furnished, all expenses advanced. Write John Evans, Box 2070, Birmingham, Ala., for details; giving three references, date, place available to begin work. chg 1x2

FOR SALE 6B

SPORTSMAN TRAILER— EQUIPped kitchen, electricity, bed, ideal for camping. $295 or offer. Chapel Hill 9-8689 evenings. chg 1x1

1952 10 CU. FT. DOUBLE DOOR Philco Refrigerator—Used 8 mo. $135 off List Price. Also Electric Range. Phone 96790. Gen. G372

1951 MORRIS-MINOR. EXCELlent condition, new tires and battery. 30 miles to the gallon. Call 7-7397 in Durham after 6 p.m. (chg 1x1)

1949 FORD CUSTOM - CLUB Coupe. Radio and Heater. Can be seen at 44 D Glen Lennox after 5 p.m. on weekdays, and after 1 p.m. on Saturday, or call 9-6367. (chg 1x1)

FOR SALE — SMALL FAMILY home in the woods three blocks from Post Office. Call 7406 for information. (1-8009-5)

HELP WANTED: MALE 8B

SALES POSITION OPEN: IN Clothing Store. To undergraduate students this for Summer and next Fall. Apply Mgr. THE SPORT SHOP, N. Columbia St. (chg. 1x1)

Let NANCY CARTER help plan your... Menus!

Enjoy the wonderful new services of Nancy Carter, Colonial's director of home economics. She is a graduate home economist with 19 years of experience in the field, and she can help make your job of homemaking easier with menu suggestions, tested recipes, buying tips, and other useful information.

In the Colonial Stores kitchen, Nancy Carter tests every recipe and menu before awarding it her approval. For homemaking information and recipes, write to: Nancy Carter, Director of Home Economics, Colonial Stores, Inc., P. O. Box 4858, Atlanta, Georgia. She will be glad to give you her personal assistance with your homemaking problems!

MAYONNAISE
Kraft's "Kitchen-Fresh" Save 4c At Colonial!
PINT JAR 33c

APPLE JELLY OLD VIRGINIA 1-LB. JAR 19c
PINK SALMON REDGATE ALASKAN TALL CAN 45c
SPICE CAKE OUR PRIDE MADE WITH FRUIT 3-LB. SIZE 79c
MIDGET BEETS DEERFIELD Whole—40 to 50 Count 2 NO. 2 CANS 25c

COLONIAL STORES

FROZEN FOODS

SOUTHLAND FRESH-FROZEN CUT OKRA 10-OZ. 19c
SEABROOK FARMS FRESH-FROZEN CUT Green BEANS 10-OZ. 19c
SEABROOK FARMS FRESH-FROZEN BABY Green LIMAS 10-OZ. 19c
SOMERDALE—TWO EARS PER PACKAGE Corn-On-Cob 2 PKGS. 33c
SEABROOK FARMS FRESH-FROZEN Green PEAS 2 10-OZ. 33c
SOMERDALE FRESH-FROZEN GOLDEN CUT CORN 2 10-OZ. 33c
SOMERDALE FRESH-FROZEN CUT GREEN BROCCOLI 2 10-OZ 33c

DAIRY fresh
Southern Dairies "Autocrat" ICE CREAM ½-GAL. CTN. 69c

STOCK UP YOUR PANTRY WITH FAMOUS BRANDS

SUNSHINE FRESH COOKIES HYDROX LB. PKG. 26c
DRY MILK CLOVERLEAF 7-OZ. 17c
SCOTTIES ABSORBENT Facial Tissues PKG. 15c
FANCY BLENDED TEA Silver Label ¼-LB. 33c
SERVE DELICIOUS ICED TEA WITH Tenderleaf ½-LB. 57c
FOR TOAST—OUR PRIDE GOLDEN LOAF BREAD 1-LB. LOAF 17c
OUR PRIDE GIANT LOAF SANDWICH BREAD 24-OZ. 20c
SMOOTH OR CRUNCHY PEANUT BUTTER PETER PAN 12-OZ. 37c
FINEST LONG-GRAIN RICE CHINA DOLL 3-LBS. 55c
GOLD SEAL GLASS WAX PINT 59c
STALEY'S CUBE STARCH 2 7-OZ. 13c

Guaranteed MEATS

CHUCK ROAST — TENDER AND ECONOMICAL!
Budget Beef—U. S. Com'l. lb. 39c | Col. Pride—U. S. Choice lb. 45c

RIB ROAST — 7-INCH CUT, PROPERLY TRIMMED
Budget Beef—U. S. Com'l. lb. 59c | Col. Pride—U. S. Choice lb. 63c

MEATY, TENDER PLATE OR BRISKET STEW BEEF LB. 19c
MADE FRESH AND SOLD FRESH GROUND BEEF LB. 39c
MEATY MARKET-STYLE PORK FRESH BACKBONE LB. 49c
FRESH NUTRITIOUS SLICED PORK LIVER LB. 35c
FINE FOR SOUPS, STEWS—FRESH CHICKEN BACKS LB. 19c

ARMOUR'S STAR OR SWIFT'S PREMIUM FRANKS 1-LB. CELLO 49c
ALL-MEAT SLICED BOLOGNA LB. 49c
CHEF'S PRIDE PREPARED B-B-Q FRYERS LB. 95c
CHEF'S PRIDE POTATO SALAD 1-LB. CUP 29c
GORTON'S RED PERCH FILLETS 1-LB. CELLO 35c
Select from Colonial's Complete Variety of Ocean-Fresh Seafoods!

fresh from the GARDEN

Fancy Fresh Red Ripe Slicing TOMATOES 2 CTNS. 33c
ICEBERG LETTUCE 2 LGE. HDS. 29c
SUNKIST LEMONS LARGE SIZE DOZ. 43c
NEW POTATOES U. S. NO. 1 WHITE 10 LBS. 45c
Large Firm Golden Ripe BANANAS 2 lbs. 25c

LUX SOAP 2 BATH SIZE 23c 3 REG. SIZE 23c
SWAN SOAP 2 BATH SIZE 27c 3 REG. SIZE 23c
LIFEBUOY 2 BATH SIZE 23c 3 REG. BARS 23c
WAX PAPER KITCHEN CHARM 125-FT. ROLL 21c

Heavy Duty Suds SURF LGE. PKG. 29c

Nancy Carter Tested Recipes . . .

DEVILED SALMON CASSEROLES

1 tall can Redgate salmon
2 Pick-of-the-Nest Eggs
2 tablespoons Triangle butter
3 tablespoons flour
About ½ cup milk
1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon Tabasco
3 cups fine dry bread cubes
1 tablespoon grated onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Drain salmon, saving liquid; break fish into flakes, removing bones. Hardcook, peel and chop eggs. Melt butter; blend in flour. Add milk to the salmon liquid to make 1 cup. Add to flour mixture; cook over low heat until thickened and smooth, stirring constantly. Add all ingredients, except crumbs, to sauce. Mix well; put into individual, well-greased casseroles. Sprinkle crumbs on top. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, about 20 minutes or until browned. Makes 6 servings.

For specific recipes, homemaking or cooking information, write to me: Nancy Carter, Director of Home Economics, Colonial Stores, Inc., P. O. Box 4358, Atlanta, Ga.

COLONIAL STORES

Corner Of Franklin & Graham Sts. — FREE PARKING — Glen Lennox Shopping Center

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Fair and hot with 92 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

BA
School of Business Administration dedication is today. See stories col. 6 and 7.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 157 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. SUNDAY, MAY 24, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Neill, Roberts, Sanford, Kraar Are Commended

Winners of the Press Club's quarterly awards to Daily Tar Heel writers have been named and will receive certificates of merit at the club's second outing at Hogan's Lake tomorrow night.

Honors for the current quarter's best contributions to the paper will be presented to Editor Rolfe Neill for "timely and well-written" editorials, Louis Kraar for news writing, Ken Sanford for feature stories, and Biff Roberts for sports coverage.

Two of the recipients of awards are repeaters this quarter. Biff Roberts earned commendations for sports writing during the 1952 spring quarter and also during the winter quarter of 1953. Neill received his first award for news coverage last fall.

The awards, first issued in 1952, were originally based on the single best stories in the four categories for which they are now issued on the basis of overall contributions during the quarter. Pete Hulth, Rebecca Near, and Jess Nettles were awards committee judges this quarter. Prof. Walter Spearman served as faculty advisor.

Also to be feted at the outing are Leo J. (Buddy) Northart, charter member and president of the Press Club from its beginning until the recent installation of Jerry F. Epps who was elected this quarter, and graduating seniors of the club's membership.

Monday's program will mark the last meeting of the club for this quarter. President Epps has said the activities will be resumed during the summer sessions and that the Press Club looks forward to a big revival of interest during the coming year.

Mary Myers Is Next Year's Council Head

Mary Kit Myers, Tri-Delt from Greensboro, will be chairman of the Women's Honor Council next year.

Council clerk will be Sara Rose of Chapel Hill.

Miss Myers is treasurer of Delta Delta Delta sorority, a member of the Y Cabinet, and a member of the Honor Council since last Fall.

The council consists of Lillian Youngs, Mary Fran Allsbrook, Pat Smith, Jo Demming, Nancy Shaw, Carolyn Johnson and Marilyn Habel.

A report of the council's activities for Fall and Winter Quarters includes 16 violations tried. There were 14 social rule charges, in several instances involving more than one charge, three Campus Code offenses, and two Honor Code offenses.

Of the two Honor Code cases, one was acquitted and the other was found guilty of indirect lying involving a serious social rule and Campus Code violation. This case did not result in suspension.

There were two removals of probation.

Trustees Here For Regular Spring Session

The full Board of Trustees meets in Gerrard Hall tomorrow at 11 a.m., to hear, among other things, a report from the committee on selecting a new State College chancellor and a provost for the Consolidated University.

The session will be the regular Spring Commencement meeting.

The Board will elect new members to fill standing committee vacancies resulting from the recent expiration of some trustees' terms.

Also on the agenda are routine reports from President Gray and the three chancellors, and a statement from Controller W. D. Carmichael Jr. on the Consolidated University's budget for the biennium 1953-55 as approved by the state legislature.

WUNC Schedule

7 p.m.—Sunday Showtime.
7:30—Learning in Later Years.
7:45—Songs of France.
8—Little Orchestra Society Concerts.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—Evening Masterwork.

Tomorrow

7 p.m.—Stories 'n' Stuff.
7:30—Adventures in Research.
7:45—Bonjour Mesdames.
8—University of Chicago Roundtable.
8:30—Drama of Poetry.
9—British Concert Hall.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—Evening Masterwork.

Organ Recital Features Bach Chorale Pieces

A service of special music centering around the new Standaart organ will be presented at the Methodist Church tonight at 7:30.

The service will include a recital of organ music by Monte Howell of the Music Department, a performance by the choir of Haydn's "The Heavens Are Telling," under the leadership of the church's regular director, Joseph Wood, and a prayer and benediction by the Reverend William Howard.

The organ recital will include three short Fugues by Pachelbel, Bach's Chorale Settings "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring," and "Thou Comest, Jesu, Down From Heaven," the D-minor Toccata and Fugue of Bach, Liszt's "Andante Religioso," and the Toccata from the Fifth Symphony of Widor.

The public is invited to attend.

CPU Discusses Freedom Vs. Catholicism Tonight

The Carolina Political Union will conclude this year's program with a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

The discussion will be on the question, "Is American freedom threatened by Roman Catholicism?"

This question was brought up as a result of Paul Blanshard's book, "American Freedom and Catholic Power."

Final Exam Schedule

No student may be excused from a scheduled examination except by the University Infirmary, in case of illness, or by his General College Faculty adviser or by his dean, in case of any other emergency compelling his absence.

All 3 p.m. classes and Bus. Adm. 71 & 72 and all classes not otherwise provided for in this schedule	Saturday, May 30, 8:30 a.m.
All 10 a.m. classes	Saturday, May 30, 2 p.m.
Common Examination (All French, German, and Spanish courses numbered 1, 2, 3 & 4)	Monday, June 1, 8:30 a.m.
All 11 a.m. classes	Monday, June 1, 2 p.m.
All 1 p.m. classes	Tuesday, June 2, 8:30 a.m.
All 12 noon classes	Tuesday, une 2, 2 p.m.
All 2 p.m. classes and zoology 104	Wednesday, June 3 8:30 a.m.
All 8 a.m. classes	Wednesday, June 3, 2 p.m.
All 9 a.m. classes	Thursday, June 4, 8:30 a.m.

CAMPUS SEEN

Luxuriant growth of poison ivy beside the Public Health Building.

•

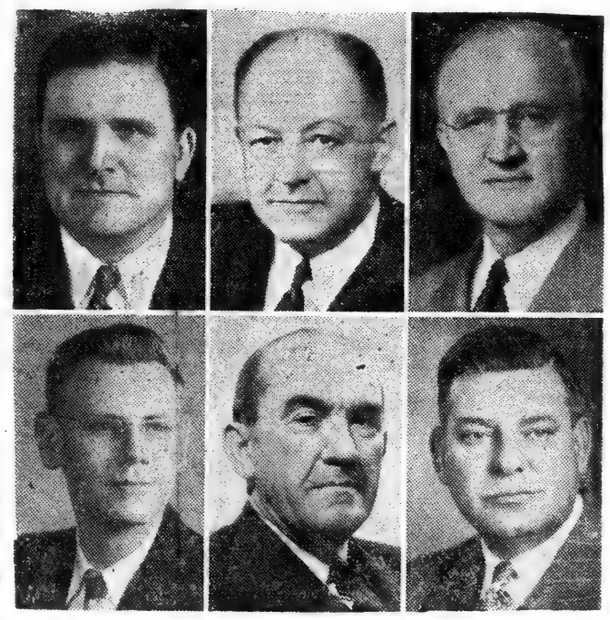
Coed poppy hustlers barricading the YMCA door, with purchase of one of the red flowers required for entering or leaving the building.

Voice, Brass, String To Be In Concert

Faculty members of the Music Department will be heard in a concert of chamber music tonight at 8:30 in the auditorium of Hill Hall.

The concert will feature music for voice, for brass ensemble and for string quartet. There is no charge for admission ,and the public is invited.

The program will include "Two Ricarcari for Brass" by the contemporary American composer, Willson Osborne; a Bach aria for baritone, flute and piano; a setting of Matthew Arnold's "Dover Beach" by Samuel Barber, for baritone and string quartet; and the "String Quartet No. 1" by Randall Thompson.



Performers include the University Brass Ensemble, made up of Fred Hierson, trumpet, David Gaddy, trumpet, Guyte Cotton, horn, John Adams, horn, Joseph Fields, trombone; Lloyd Farrar, trombone and Joseph Wood, tuba; the University String Quartet, made up of Edgar Alden and Jean Heard, violins, Dorothy Alden, viola, and Mary Gray Clarge, violoncello; and baritone soloist Joel Carter. The Bach number will include Caroline Sites, pianist, and Earl Slocum, flutist.

Faculty Group Topic Is Iran

Charles F. Milner, associate director of the University's Extension Division, will talk on the situation in Iran before the Men's Faculty Club luncheon Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Carolna Inn ballroom.

Mr. Milner, who spent six months in Iran recently giving audio-visual instruction under a grant from the State Department, will show pictures taken during his stay, particularly those taken of the partisan street mobs which formed in the showdown between Premier Mossadegh and the young Shah.

Top Figures In Business Here For BA Dedication Program

SHOWN HERE ARE SIX OF THE MAJOR figures in tomorrow's dedication of the new School of Business Administration. Top row, from left are: James E. Webb, president of Republic Supply Company, Oklahoma City, Okla., former budget director, under secretary of state and under secretary of the treasury; Donald K. David, dean of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration; Thomas B. McCabe, president of Scott Paper Company, Chester, Pa.; bottom row, from left: Thomas H. Carroll, present dean of the Business School here; Dudley D. Carroll, professor of economics and former dean of UNC's old School of Commerce; and George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks and vice-president of the American Federation of Labor.

Four distinguished leaders in the fields of business and industry will deliver the featured addresses at formal dedicatory exercises for the new home of the School of Business Administration tomorrow.

The program will be held in the auditorium of Carroll Hall, beginning at 2:30. Addressing the afternoon session will be James E. Webb, president of Republic Supply Co., Oklahoma City, Okla., and George M. Harrison, Cincinnati, Ohio, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks and vice-president of the American Federation of Labor.

Governor Umstead will be present at the afternoon program to present the three buildings to President Gray. This will be among the first major activity by the governor since he was stricken with a heart attack shortly after his inauguration in January.

The night program, which will begin at 8 o'clock, will be highlighted by addresses by Thomas B. McCabe, president, Scott Paper Co., Chester, Pa., and Dean Donald K. David of the Graduate School of Business Administration, Harvard University.

Three new buildings comprise the new home of the school — Carroll Hall, the central unit (named for former Dean Dudley Dewitt Carroll), Gardner Hall (named for the late Governor O. Max Gardner) and Hanes Hall (named for the Hanes family of Winston-Salem).

Of traditional design in architecture, the three units are constructed so as to complement the Saunders-Manning-Murphey quadrangle across the mall.

Raymond Weeks, Durham architect and engineer, designed the new buildings, and J. A. Jones Construction Co., of Charlotte had the general contract.

A number of interesting exhibits have been arranged especially for the dedication, including the Internatoinal Business Machines Corporation Art Exhibit entitled "Painters of the United States — 1720 through 1920."

Webb, who will speak on the role of businessmen in relation to government service and the role of schools of business administration in training personnel who may go into government service, is a native of Granville County and an alumnus of the University. Before becoming associated with Republic Supply Co., he was under secretary of state, director of the Budget Bureau, under secretary of the Treasury and vice president of Sperry Gyroscope Co.

Harrison started his career as a railway clerk, became president of a local chapter of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and worked his way up to head of the national organization in 1928. He has served as the U. S. delegate to numerous world labor meetings. He will discuss the responsibilities of labor toward business and the place of labor in education for business.

Dean David will open the evening program with an address on the role of education for business. He received his master's degree in business administration from Harvard in 1919 and the following year became instructor and assistant dean at Harvard Graduate School. He served as president of Maize Products Co. from 1932 to 1941 and has been dean of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration since 1941.

He is a trustee of Radcliff College, the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, General Electric Co., is a director of the Boys Club of America and author of numerous books on problems in retailing.

McCabe will take business responsibility from the point of view of business management for his subject. He has been with Scott Paper Co. since 1915 when he graudated from Swarthmore College. Starting off as a salesman, he became assistant sales manager, vice president then president. He has been a director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia since 1938 and chairman of the board since 1939.

Open house will be held in room 301 Carroll Hall, from 1 to 6 p.m., and tours of the buildings are scheduled between 1 and 2 p.m. and 5 and 6 p.m.

New Exhibits Are Featured In BA School

One of the highlights of the dedication of the new school of Business Administration are the many interesting exhibits that have been arranged by the faculty under the direction of Prof. Alton G. Sadler.

One of the feature exhibits is the International Business Machines Corporation Art Exhibit entitled "Painters of the United States—1720 through 1920", which will be on public display on the fourth floor of Gardner Hall until June 7. This exhibit, which is valued at $200,000, includes some of the original works of such famous painters as Durand, Peale, Remington, Stuart, Harnett and Whistler.

The School of Business Administration textbook exhibit, arranged by Delta Sigma Pi professional fraternity, is a display of all texts used in required courses in the school. It is divided into three primary groups; the sophomore, junior, and senior year requirements.

The senior-year group is subdivided into eight parts—the eight majors: accounting, production, marketing, personnel, banking and finance, statistics, insurance and business economics.

The junior-year displays the seven core requirements, required of all business students, and the sophomore year group shows four courses required in this year: the basic accounting and economics courses.

The graduating class in accounting systems, which is taught by Professor Sadler, is presenting tomorrow in Hanes Hall a display of the many accounting systems now in use in North Carolina, along with an accounting practice set of 1854, a textbook of 1901 and the "Federal Income Tax Service of 1918." Also includd in the display are more than 200 volumes which have been presented to the "Professional Accountant's Library," and the "Accounting Teacher's Library", and it is thought that they constitute one of the most valuable accounting libraries in the South.

The entire ground floor of Carroll Hall, the main building of the new school, has been set aside as a center of adult education and training available to all businessmen and other citizens of the state and region. The exhibit, "Educational Programs for Businessmen," has been arranged by Prof. Rex Winslow and includes pictures and literature of some of the activities of the program of institutes for business and industry.

The Production Management Department of the Business School has arranged in its laboratory on the basement floor of Gardner Hall some of the equipment and material that is used to acquaint the students with all types of production. The exhibit is under the direction of Prof. John Dykstra.

Prof. Richard P. Calhoon of the Personnel Administration Department has arranged an exhibit in Gardner Hall to illustrate the many aspects of personnel relations and the analysis of different materials now in use. The exhibit is also designed to serve as source material for development of different types of personnel problems and projects.

In the library Prof. Warren Pierpont and Mrs. H. von Beckerath will have an exhibit of different types of constructive writings of students associated with the school and writings of current faculty members in the form of articles and books.

French Play

Le Petit Theatre Francais will present its annual play Wednesday and Thursday at 8:30 in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

Fleishman Gets Chairmanship As CPU Elects New Officers

Joel Fleishman was elected chairman of the Carolina Political Union at its last meeting to succeed Bob Pace.

A rising junior, Fleishman is active in student government and student politics. He is parliamentarian of the Student Legislature, active in the Di Senate, secretary of the Carolina Forum, past vice-chairman of the Student Party, member of the Young Democrats Club, chairman of the Blood Committee last year, and outstanding freshman in the NROTC last year.

Officers elected to serve with Fleishman are: Don Sherry, vice-chairman; Norwood Bryan, secretary; and Gene Cook, forum representative. Sherry is a rising senior from Connecticut and active in the Phi Assembly. Bryan is a rising sophomore and is active in the Student Party and the IDC. Cook, a rising senior, is active in student government, the Di Senate, and the Episcopal Student Congregation.

The CPU was organized in the early thirties under the leadership of Professor E. J. Woodhouse for the purpose of discussion and bringing speakers to the campus. It has brought such persons as Franklin D. Roosevelt, William Howard Taft, Sen. Paul Douglas, and Maurice Tobin to the Carolina campus. This year it undertook a new venture in the presentation of television discussions over WFMY-TV in Greensboro.

Tonight the CPU is holding the last discussion of the year which is a continuation of the question of religion and the preservation of the American way of life.

Recruiting Officer

A Naval Recruiting Officer will be on campus Tuesday to talk to seniors interested in the Navy Department's Officer Candidate Program.

The Boys Will Go Too

Globe-Trotting Nashes Prepare For Busy Schedule In Summer

By Joyce Adams

Hop, skip and jump—around the world.

That's how it will be for Dr. and Mrs. Arnold S. Nash, teaching and counseling team here, when they begin their global tour next month.

The main purpose of their trip will be their work for six months in India. Dr. Nash will be working with the Commission on Higher Education of the National Council of Churches in India, and Mrs. Nash with the Commission on Marriage and the Home.

Their trip is being sponsored by the Harvard-Yenching Foundation which is concerned with the colleges and universities of Asia. Dr. Nash will report the team's experiences in India and the other countries of Southeast Asia in a report to the International Missionary Council. The data will be used in working out a new policy for Christian higher education in the light of the new political regimes of India and the other countries.

Mrs. Nash will be reporting on her work to the Carolina Mental Health Society, the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, and the American Association of Marriage Counselors. She will also write for the journal, "Marriage and Family Living."

The first hop of the airborne journey will be to Ireland, where the Nashes will visit with friends prior to skipping on to England. There they will spend a month vacationing and working with the International Missionary Council planning their work in India and the Near East. Dr. Nash has been invited to preach at the Oxford University Chapel while there.

During their stay in England Mrs. Nash will jump over to Geneva for the second ecumenical conference on "The Church and Marriage." This will be attended by psychiatrists, psychologists, sociologists, and clergymen from America, Europe and the Near East.

They will go from England to France where Dr. Nash will preach at the American Cathedral in Paris. From there they go to Switzerland for a short visit with Dr. H. G. Baity, on leave from UNC to work with the World Health Organization, and his writer wife, Elizabeth Chesley.

Next they will spend a month meeting with professors and administrators at the universities of Yugoslavia, Greece, Palestine and Egypt. On their way to India they plan a few days in Pakistan with the Richard Duncans. Duncan, an alumnus of Carolina, is in Karachi with the Point Four Program.

The Nashes are taking their two sons along on part of the trip. Sixteen-year-old Keir will be dropped off to spend the latter half of the summer with friends in Germany. David, 10, will do more traveling than any other member of the family. In Egypt he will take a plane to Uganda, East Africa, to visit his aunt for six months. Later, he will rejoin his parents in India for the trip home via Burma, Siam, Japan and Hawaii.

Like any other woman, Mrs. Nash's chief concern at the moment is how to get a year's supply of summer and winter clothing into the 44-pound weight limit prescribed by the airlines.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Asst. Sports Ed. — Vardy Buckalew
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Schindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jennie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles, Frances Walls.

Night Editor for this Issue: Ken Sanford

Freedom To Search For Knowledge III

(This is the third and concluding Sunday editorial in a series by Dr. Robert MacIver, Columbia sociologist.—Ed.)

Academic freedom is important to us all because knowledge is important, and because the spirit of the search for knowledge is most important of all.

That knowledge is important needs no telling. Knowledge is power and knowledge is opportunity. Knowledge alone enables the "frail reed," man, to make nature serve his purposes. On knowledge alone can intelligent policy be based and successful action be carried through.

The search for knowledge has again a value outside of the direct rewards it brings. Anything we know, we know only in part, and many things we think we know are not knowledge.

At one time men knew the earth was flat and that the heavenly bodies revolved around the earth. Until recently Newtonian physics, itself a tremendous advance, was the last word in knowledge. But there is never a last word. To the seeker after truth all horizons are eternally open. He is the enemy of all the hard, proud dogmatisms that fasten on the minds of men and breed intolerance and sharp division between people and people, between nation and nation.

The business of the university is not so much the guardianship of knowledge as the search for knowledge, the keeping open of the intellectual horizon. This service is invaluable. The one institution supremely dedicated to the spread of enlightment is the institution of learning. Its individual members have interests and prejudices and passions like other men. They go wrong like other men. But together, each in his own field, they seek for knowledge, and thus the institution is redeemed. It is the belief in the supreme importance of the freedom to seek knowledge which unites them.

Without that belief and its triumphant vindication in our colleges and universities the right of a man to think for himself, to inquire, to have his own opinions, would lack any sure foundation. Democracy, in a world of incessantly whirling propaganda, would have no strong defense. And civilization, what remained of it, would become no more than a mesh of techniques designed for the enslavement of body and mind, as it was in Hitler's Germany, as it is in Soviet Russia.

Only the spirit that animates the endless search for knowledge can save us from these things. This spirit must continue to flourish outside our universities as well as within their walls. It is the same spirit that keeps the press free. It is back of the democratic willingness to let the views of every group be decently heard. It is the spirit that repudiates the right of the state or the church or any other bodies to establish a censorship over the expression of opinion or the freedom of inquiry.

It is now endangered. In every society there are always those who, fearful for their interest or secure in their dogmatisms, are ready to suppress or to control the search for knowledge. In ours today they have found a formidable new weapon.

Under the guise of protecting us from communism they employ a Communist technique to further their own interest to acquire political capital or economic advantage. They brand as "red" or 'pink" or "subrevsive" or att he least "un-American" everything they happen to dislike, whether it be progressive education or state hospitals or anti-discrimination laws or social insurance or a policy toward China different from their own or Keynesian economics or the United Nations.

The real danger besetting academic freedom—and indeed the fundamental freedom of thought, opinion, and inquiry in every form—comes from the misdirection of legitimate fears of communism and the deliberate exploitation of those fears. Communism has at this stage no influence whatever in our institutions of learning, and even in the heyday of the Thirties its influence was insignificant in the great majority of these institutions.

(See FREEDOM, page 4)

The Fatal Gazogene

English Club

In accord with its policy of reviving neglected masterpieces, the English Club presented, on Thursday evening in the Assembly Room of the Library, a performance of Bernard Shaw's Passion, Poison, and Petrifaction, Or, The Fatal Gazogene.

In general, Shaw's plays are characterized by a great deal of talk and very little action. The Fatal Gazogene is a glorious exception. Its essential message, which is the continuance of the Life Force and the destruction of all forces in opposition to it, is imparted to the audience not directly, through the dialogue, but allegorically, through the action. The guilty lover, who symbolizes lack of self-control, is poisoned and petrified. The landlord (symbolizing economic control), the policeman (symbolizing political control), and the doctor (symmolizing birth control) are all struck dead by a thunderbolt (symbolizing scientific providence, or Maxwell's Demon).

When the performance ended, the only persons left alive on the stage (except for the Heavenly Choir, who, as I shall later explain, had no business there in the first place) were the three basic persons of the Shavian mythology: the husband and wife (avatars of Adam and Eve) and the maid Phyllis (an avatar of Lilith). Note the striking similarity of the names "Phyllis" and "Lilith"; it has not, I believe, been mentioned by any other critic.

The cast of last Thursday's performance were uniformly excellent. Joan Weston and Lamarr Stephens, as the wife and husband, and Pat Stroup, as Phyllis, were obviously full of the Life Force. John Byars, Bill Heald, and Jim Scholes, as, respectively, the landlord, the policeman and the doctor, showed that they carried within them the seeds of their own destruction.

If any single performer was outstanding, it was Tom Walker as the poisoned lover. He had to die over a longer period than any other characters in dramatic literature, with the possible exception of Wagner's Tristram and Isolde, but he was never at a loss for a groan.

The costumes and set were ingeniously contrived by Polly Seymour, Edith Potter, and Norma Jean Hill. In charge of the sound and lighting effects, Thad Seymour somehow managed to do the work of three men.

Elmer Oettinger's direction was, on the whole, commendable. He effectively solved the problem of what to do with Shaw's lengthy stage-directions by having a narrator (Brad Stroup) read them. However, he made a mistake in bringing the Heavenly Choir on the stage. The singing of the Choir was sufficiently ethereal ,but their appearance was not, despite all that the costumer could do for them. Shaw's intention was that disembodied angelic voices should filter down from above, and this effect could easily have been achieved by the use of a concealed loudspeaker.

Among the very large audience I noticed several distinguished members of the faculty and Dr. Archibald Henderson, who is perhaps the foremost living authority on Shaw. I did not, however, see any of the gentlemen from CBS who are currently engaged in filming the University for TV.

I do not quite see how CBS can hope accurately to represent the theatrical life of the University if they miss so vital a manifestation of it. Perhaps a repeate performance can be arranged for their benefit.—F. H. M.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It was President Eisenhower himself who decided on the Big Three meeting in Bermuda. The main purpose he had in mind, he confided to friends, was not necessarily a subsequent meeting with Premier Malenkov, but to pull the disjointed policies of the Allies back together.

Eisenhower became convinced that something must be done to heal British - French - American wounds after reading Senator McCarthy's speech blasting ex-Prime Minister Clement Atlee. He began conferring with his advisers immediately thereafter, also exchanged some secret messages with Winston Churchill.

Churchill and Eisenhower have got into somewhat the same habit of conferring with each other by telephone or private cable as did FDR and Churchill during the war. And in one of these exchanges, Churchill suggested that he and Ike meet privately without the French.

Naturally this leaked out. Naturally, also, it made the French sore. The British denied that such a conversation ever took place, which only served to make the French sorer. However, the State Department insisted all along that the French must participate.

Eisenhower has been deeply worried of late over the way American, British and French relationships were drifting apart. As one who delivered the famous Guildhall Address in London, a milestone in Anglo-American relations, and as one who insisted that no officer who couldn't get along with the British serve in a key post under him, Eisenhower felt especially sensitive on this point.

He also realized that if the Allies did sit down for a Big Four conference with Malenkov, the Russians would be able to split them wide open if policies were not patched up in advance.

Though President Eisenhower is still hanging back regarding the proposed Big Four conference with Malenkov, Prime Minister Churchill is doing just the opposite. Despite his 78 years, he has become the eagerest beaver on th diplomatic horizon.

Twice he has even talked secretly with the Soviet ambassador in London, Jacob Malik.

Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, who has been ill, has tried to discourage Churchill's irrepressible diplomacy, but to no avail. Eden fears that any talk with Malenkov would, first of all, get nowhere; second, mislead the world, and, third, antagonize President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

However, Sir Winston, during Eden's absence, had the foreign office contact Ambassador Malik and arrange a personal meeting. At the meeting, Churchill told the Soviet envoy he was sure both he and Eisenhower would meet with Malenkov, provided Russia made some definite move in order to show good faith toward easing the cold war. This, Churchill said, would make it easier for the United States to participate.

Malik was friendly and promised to cable Churchill's ideas to the Kremlin immediately.

The second meeting between the Soviet Ambassador and the Prime Minister of England was held at Malik's request immediately after Churchill gave his speech in the House of Commons urging a Big Four conference and, in effect, threatening to confer with Malenkov himself if the United States didn't cooperate. The ambassador told the Prime Minister that this speech had been favorably received in the Kremlin and that Russia would soon show by its deeds that it was interested in a new understanding with the West.

Meanwhile, from Moscow Ambassador Charles Bohlen has cabled the State Department a message which has caused astonishment, even amazement among U. S. diplomats. Bohlen reported that the Russians may surprise the world and accept Allied terms for an Austrian peace treaty.

Austria is one part of the world, Secretary Dulles has said, which would be the key test as to whether the Kremlin means what it says about ending the cold war. If the Red army is pulled out of Austria, Dulles has indicated, it would be a genuine demonstration of Russian good faith.

State Department officials are still skeptical regrading Ambassador Bohlen's cable. Incidentally, they were just on the verge of making concessions themselves regarding Austria when the cable arrived.

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . ." Hipporotis: circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE said, "Let's face it, Dook beat the Hearn-Rabb Baseball Club. I have been a diminutive colt ever since."

He meant he felt small?

"I mean I'm still a little hoarse," The Horse said. "But I wish someone would brief me on this deal of why it is okay to lose in some sport but not in others."

How did he mean?

"Well, if I were president of this here now more or less Consolidated Universities, mainly less," The Horse said hoarsely, "and I trust you not my unerring use of the subjunctive? It is a fool-proof sign of erudition to use a plural verb with a singular noun. But if we was—again the subjunctive, this time showing an ambidextrous use of the singular verb with the plural noun." He paused and sucked on a hoof thoughtfully. "Where were I?"

Lost in the trackless subjunctive.

"Oh, yes. But if I were, I would formulate some chart to show what we can lose, with impunity to the coaching staff, and after that I'd try to explain it. We bust poor King Carl as a lame duck because he is master of the single-wing; we give the heave-ho to our great sportsman lacrosse coach when he has hardly had time to develop a team. But we can lose won games in baseball to Dook, and this is quite all right."

Sentiment, I thought.

"You mean sediment," The Horse chittered throatily. I hate him when he gets throaty. "We are God's gift to Dook baseball. Ol' Jack Coombs admits that from force of habit he still gets down on his hunkers and prays his gratitude for UNC baseball." A fact. 'Thank you, Sir,' he prays every night, 'for Carolina baseball. I could not win without them, Sir.' Now Ace Parker is doing it."

Dook, the back-in champs, we thought.

"Yeah?" The Horse yeahed. "Well, maybe they backed in, but we could do with the way that they used their backs once they got 'em in! Alas and welladay. Dook loves it, and we seem to be en rapport, as they do not say in Ireland. By the bye, is it true that in the south of Ireland the folks say, 'Erin go bragh, you-all'?"

I had no idea.

"I once knew an Irisher who ate chittlins with his shamrocks, and washed them down with peat-whiskey," The Horse stated.

Ugh!

"Yeah," The Horse nooded, "I agree with you. I just couldn't go those chittlins and shamrocks. They interfered with the more important part of the meal. If you follow me, you are silly.

We thought The Horse was adept at double-talk.

"Well, I see double, why shouldn't I speak to everybody I see? It is the polite thing to do, as we say when we are throwing away a game to the Dooks. Football may be our national shame, but baseball is our national game."

Obiter dicta, I thought, to borrow a Horsely phrase.

"Or get us a new song," The Horse suggested. "Now, here's a perfect one: 'Come, Fill Your Glasses Up To Princeton, That's All'," he demonstrated in his usual off-key style. "Good, hah?"

What was so good in the Old Nassau song?

"Eminently practical," The Horse chittered. "They win? Okay, fill up the glasses! They lose? Okay, fill up the glasses! The eye always on the main purpose of the game, see?"

No wonder Hipporotis said The Horse didn't see perfectly.

Catcher In The Rye

Norman Jarrard

Every now and then you read a book which takes hold of you on the very first page, hangs on to the end, and leaves you completely satisfied.

I found J. D. Salinger's "The Catcher in the Rye" (Signet, 25c) to be such a book. I don't know if everything I see in it is actually in it or not, but to me it is one of the best-knit stories that I have ever read. It is told by Holden Caulfield, age seventeen, about "this madman stuff that happens to me around last Christmas just before I got pretty run-down and had to some out here and take it easy."

It seems to me to be a kind of case history, told by the patient, of the last few days before his nervous and physical breakdown. Holden's trouble is largely mental, it appears, so that the real story of what is happening to Holden is only implicit in what he tells us. Everything that happens has a special meaning, a kind of symbolic meaning, under these circumstances.

Holden's problem is shown objectively by the fact that he can't pass his schoolwork—except for English—and is flunked out of one school after another. There are several factors which contribute to this. His parents were of different religions and the children all call themselves atheists. He seems to have inherited a tendency toward nervousness from his mother. The family is talented and well-to-do. Holden brags about how intelligent his little sister Phoebe is and his brother Allie, too, before he died. He calls himself a moron—which he obviously isn't.

The real beginning of his trouble, however, seems to have been the death of his brother, Allie. He can't forget it. When Phoebe asks him to name one thing that he likes the first thing he thinks of is Allie. About visiting his brother's grave Holden says, "It wasn't too bad when the sun was out, but twice—twice—we were there when it started to rain."

Afterwards, Holden becomes depressed every time it rains. However, at the end of the story, just before his breakdown, there is a change. It begins to rain while his sister is riding a carousel. He says, "I got soaked . . . I didn't care, though. I felt so damn happy all of a sudden, the way old Phoebe kept going around and around. I was damn near bawling, I felt so damn happy."

Holden is sensitive, intelligent, and idealistic. He is told by one if his teachers that he is the type

(See CATCHER, page 3)

Tar Heel Sports

By Tom Peacock

Track coaches Dale Ranson and Joe Hilton are spearheading a drive that with cooperation could easily be the most fruitful carried on at Carolina in recent years.

"My plan," says Ranson, "is to get each student and instructor at the University to try to talk a talented high school senior into coming to school here. The sentiment of the coaches is that the best salesman for UNC are students who go home and convince their friends that there's no place like Carolina."

Ranson sent a letter to that effect to every member of the faculty and administration in the middle of February, and was surprised with the great support he received. The letter said ". . . We will appreciate your taking occasion to mention to your students the value or participation in some form of varsity or freshman athletics. . . . We would also appreciate your encouraging talented high school graduates to enter Carolina."

Ranson cannot stress this point too much. While he is not an official spokesman of the athletic department, Ranson guarantees that every athletic coach in the school would be forever grateful to students who sell a good high school athlete on Carolina. People ask Ranson why every boy in the state doesn't want to come to Chapel Hill—the state university, abeautiful campus, numerous social outlets, and excellent faciities.

Ranson replies that it's a job of selling. The other Big Four schools and Davidson all go to the prospective student, not wait for him to come to the school. Each Carolina student is a salesman—should nearly 5,000 students give one talented high school boy a good sales talk, the outlook would pick up around here considerably.

"It's not true with sports alone, either," says Ranson. "I would like to see good writers, debaters, speakers, and students come here too. Athletic talent isn't the only kind we should encourage to come here, it's just more in my line. Sure, I'm selfish. I would like to see every good track man in the state come to Carolina."

Ranson is doing a lot to get these track men here. He is sending a letter to 2,100 former UNC letter winners who are now spread throughout the state, asking their support in his embryo program. "If I get half the results I got from my letter to the faculty I wil be satisfied."

Ranson also sent out complete track records of UNC to every radio station and newspaper in the state in a not-too-subtle attempt to get publicity. In an accompaning letter he points out that no sport encompasses so many different types of boys as track, and that he has had men on his squad from 100 to 300 pounds. Also track trains men for other sports, and is unrivaled as a conditioner.

Each year Carolina, under the track departments guidance, sponsors the state high school track meet on Fetzer Field. Entries from one to 30 boys from almost every school in the state come to Chapel Hill and compete, and Ranson can often be seen taking winners aside to congratulate them. What is said in these talks is a mystery, but the boy is often a Carolina freshman the following year. "Suppose we had gotten Joel Shankle," says Ranson with a far away look in his eyes. Shankle, the number one track man in the conference, gets his Duke tuition free since his father is a Methodist minister, and Carolina never had much chance with him.

Ranson does everything in his power to help high schools improve their program of athletics and particularly track. He recently sent oua a six-page booklet entitled "Suggestions for a Modified High School Track Program" in which he takes a high school program and explains it from beginning to end. Included is an explanation of physical and mental conditioning, facilities needed, striding form, starting and stopping, how to train, and then a rundown on every event.

Each one of us could do the school a service by taking the suggestion of this active Carolina booster.

Four Seniors Keep Bogies Away From Golf Coach Chuck Erickson's Door In Past Years

By Biff Roberts

Chuck Erickson has had plenty of worries as Carolina's Athletic Director since he took over the post last spring but thanks to four seniors his golf team has given him no thouble at all.

The energetic Tar Heel alumnus, who holds the dual post of athletic director and golf coach, has had most of his problems well taken care of on the golf course. For the past three years Bob Black, Bill Williamson, Jim Ferree, and Lew Brown have kept the bogies away from his door.

In that three year period the Carolina team has won 37 dual matches while losing only three and copped the individual and team Southern Conference championships for the past two years running.

With these four playing their final season for the Tar Heels, this year's team can probably be ranked as Coach Erickson's finest. It went through the season undefeated in eight matches before losing the final match at Duke, 14-13.

To retaliate for the loss, however, the Tar Heels made a terrific comeback last weekend at Winston-Salem to win the Southern Conference team championship.

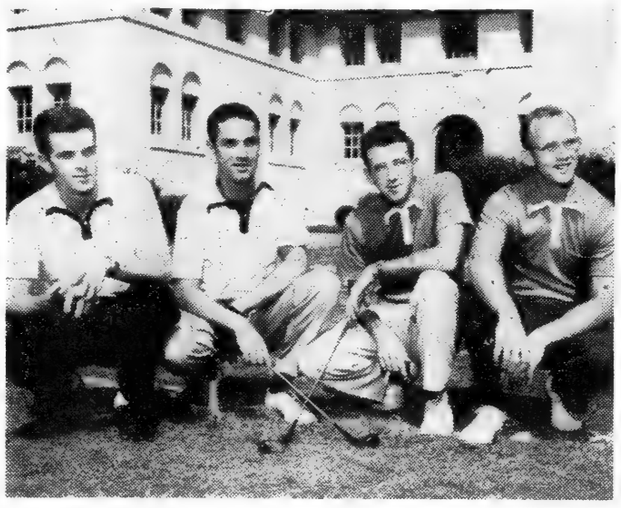
The Blue Devils took a three stroke lead after the first day of the 36-hole tournament. But playing like the champions they are the Tar Heels pressed the Blue Devils into the ground, picked up six strokes on Duke and won the team championship for the second straight year.

The manner in which they won the team title was impressive enough but to insure the victory the Tar Heels finished with a 579 total to set a new team record for the 30-year old tourament.

Carolina repeated as individual champion, too, with Jimmy Ferree finishing first in the field of 76 with a 36-hole total of 140. Playing on his home course, Ferree had rounds of 69-71 to finish two strokes under par.

Of course, the winning way of the Carolina team hasn't been due to those seniors alone. Coach Erickson has had some younger players, who will be back next year to continue the Conference dominination, to carry the load in several matches.

Billy Thornton, a sophomore from Manchester, Conn., had the lowest single round of the year when he shot a 67 against The Citadel in the season's first match. His two-round total of 149 contributed toward the team's winning total at Winston-Salem.



Billy Ford, a Charleston, S. C. freshman, finished a fine first year by shooting a 73-73-147 at Winston. A consistently low scorer throughout the season, Ford is one of the longest hitters on the team and should be one of the most outstanding golfers to play for Carolina by his senior year.

George Mountcastle and John Frazier alternated at the sixth position for the Tar Heels throughout the season. Mountcastle took medal honors twice near the end of the season and was one of the steadiest players on the team. Frazier, too, showed great promise and will help out next year in filling the vacated positions.

A strong junior varsity will act as a feeder for next year's varsity. With such players as Jimmy Sykes, Joe Correll, Phil Kriess, Charlie Erdman, Eddie Pell, and others coming back as sophomores next season Coach Erickson will find his main problem being that of choosing the right starters.

It will be hard to replace the four graduates and it will be even harder to keep up such a fine record. Since Black, Williamson, Brown, and Ferree registered here four years ago Carolina golf has gone a long way—two Congerence championships have been won and the Finley golf course has been built.

A fine record has been set in that time, and it will be hard to beat. But on the other hand, it may be an indication of better things to come—records, they say, are made to be broken.

BROWN, WILLIAMSON, BLACK, AND FERREE
. . . Carolina's golfing seniors

—Catcher—

(Continued from Page 2)

who goes out and dies "for some highly unworthy cause." There is something worrying him about his sevuality. He thinks he is being continually approached by perverts.

An important aspect of his character is explained by the title of the book. Holden says he mistook Burns' line to be "If a body catch a body comin' through the rye." "Anyway," he says, "I keep picturing all these little kids playing some game in this big field of rye and all. Thousands of little kids, and nobody's around—nobody big, I mean—except me. And I'm standing on the edge of some crazy cliff. What I have to do, I have to catch everybody if they start to go over the cliff— I mean if they're running and they don't look where they're going I have to come out from somewhere and catch them.

"That's all I'd do all day. I'd just be the catcher in the rye and all. I know it's crazy, but that's the only thing I'd really like to be. I know it's crazy."

All - Conference

Three members of the Carolina baseball team have been selected for the All-Conference team by the Southern Conference Sports Writers Association. They are shortstop Fred Dale, outfielder Connie Gravitte, and pitcher Chal Port.

Trackmen Third In Conference; End With 4-3 Dual Meet Record

By Sherwood Smith

The Carolina track team, although copping only four out of seven meets, made a very creditable record this year. The Tar Heels were plagued with injuries throughout the season and amazed many visiting coaches with their fine finish in the Southern Conference Outdoor Games.

The Tar Heels started off the season in fine style with a crushing victory over Wm. and Mary. The next Saturday, against Princeton, they saw an eight point lead slowly dwindle until before the mile relay, Carolina led by only two points. In the relay, Princeton, after trailing for the first two laps, suddenly surged ahead on the third lap, going out in front to win the relay and the meet by the narrow margin of 67-64.

The Tar Heels had lost not only the meet but the services of their two stellar sprinters as well. Jeff Newton and Harry Brown both suffered pulled leg muscles and were sidelined for most of the remaining season.

The trackmen surged back the ensuing Saturday to defeat VMI and seemed well on the way to a championship season, only to lose to a strong Maryland team the next week. The Tar Heels then split with Duke and N. C. State in their last home meets of the season, defeating the Wolfpack and losing to the Blue Devils.

Carolina, in the last meet of the season, succeeded in breaking its record of three and three by defeating the Cavaliers from the University of Virginia by the score of 96-34. Thus the Tar Heels finished the season with a record of four wins and three losses including a three and two conference record.

Injuries

Those trackmen who were lost for much of the season because of injuries included, in addition to Newton and Brown, freshman star Charlie Yarborough. Yarborough sprained his ankle in practice and was sidelined for the Duke and N. C. State meets. Sonny Beall also was out for much of the season with a pulled muscle.

The real star of the season for the Tar Heels was two miler Bobby Barden. Barden suffered an attack of Polio last fall and at the time it appeared doubtful to many people whether he would ever run again. All through the indoor track season he worked out constantly and despite an early season fifth place in a dual meet he finished third in the Southern Conference Indoor Games in the 2 mile run.

He had steadily improved during the outdoor track season, but still was predicted by several visiting coaches to finish no better than fifth in the Outdoor Games a week ago. Bobby finished second behind Buz Sawyer of N. C. State.

Conference Meet

In the Southern Conference meet the Tar Heels, led by Bobby Brown, finished a strong third. They were nosed out by Duke for second place by the slight margin of ¾ of a point. Brown won the javelin event for the Conference Championship with a throw of 190' 9⅜".

The top scorer for the Tar Heels was Roger Morris with a total of 64 points. He was followed by Sam Jordan with 47 and Yarborough with 44. In fourth and fifth places were Mac Ray with 43 and Bill Cornell with 42. The other high scorers were as follows: Jeff Newton 41, Sonny Beall 35, Charley Scott 33, Bobby Barden 33, Bobby Bell 32, and Morris Osborne with 31.

DALE RANSON
. . . UNC track coach

STUDENTS! TEACHERS!

GO TO EUROPE THIS SUMMER

Space Available on Special Student Ships

S.S. AROSA KULM
M/S ANNA SALEN
M/S SKAUBRYN

eastbound	westbound
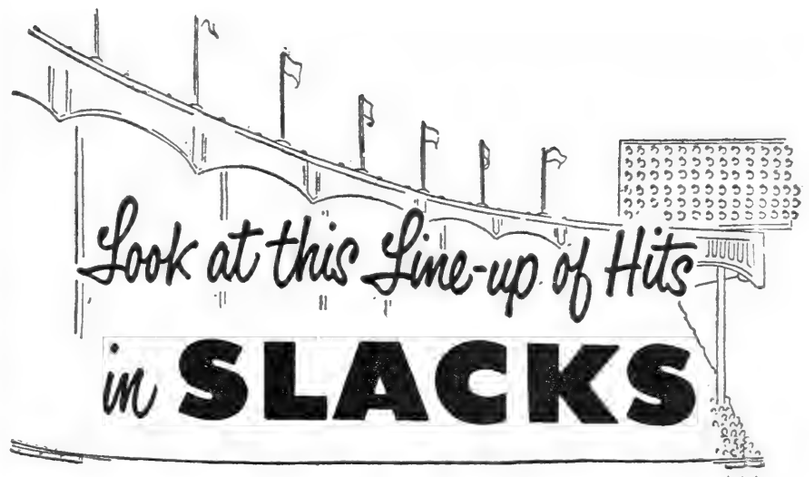
June 9	Aug. 11
June 16	Aug. 24
June 24	Sept. 2
July 4	Sept. 28

Also other dates $135 up



COUNCIL ON STUDENT TRAVEL
179 Broadway, New York 7, N. Y.
REctor 2-0936

SWIM! FISH!
PICNIC! Spend An Enjoyable Afternoon In The Sun At EASTWOOD LAKE
First Road On The Left
After Brady's On The
DURHAM ROAD

'They Say You May Be Able To Get Up Next Year'
THIS BORES US AS MUCH AS IT BORES YOU—
BUT —
COLLEGE OUTLINES
WILL SEE YOU THROUGH —
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

T-O-D-A-Y and MONDAY
Varsity

The Biggest Selection Of Fabrics, Colors and Prices We Ever Assembled!

How are you fixed for SLACKS? We've never been fixed so well—never stocked so many beauties or such a dazzling variety in our long career of outfitting Carolina men. Come see us today and pick your favorites from a showing that includes every smart new idea of the season.

Imported Linen Slacks	10.95
Palm Beach Slacks	10.95
Orlon and Acetate Slacks	10.95
Linen Weave Slacks	7.95
Tropical Slacks	7.95
Baby Cord Slacks	6.95
Cotton Cord Slacks	4.95
Denim Slacks	3.95

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

Campus Carousel

By Janie Carey

This was the weekend of final parties—the last ones before exams, before graduation, before Saturday classes, before answering Uncle Sam's call, before the end of school year 1952-53. Seniors should have had a farewell they'll never forget.

The KA's, still enthused by last weekend's houseparties at the beach, went in part to Myrtle and Wrightsville this weekend. Likewise, the Beta's held their annual beach houseparty at Ocean Drive.

Phi Kap's seem never to cease their traveling. Some of the brothers partied at Nags Head, while others went to the Preakness (that's a horse race) in Baltimore.

TEP's, undecided between the Plantation Club in Greensboro and the sand at Myrtle Beach, split ranks and half the chpater partied at each place.

New pin-up of SAE Jimmy Vance, Greensboro, is Sidney Rustem, Greensboro, a student at St. Mary's. Also missing a pin is Theta Chi Bill Ellis, Shelby. New owner is Dot Baber, also of Shelby, a student at GC.

Saturday night AKPsi's partied at their house, and, as a final affair before the fatal exam day arrives, they will have a jam session Tuesday night.

Golden Bear Party Award of the week goes to the Kappa Psi's, for their Tex Beneke party Monday night. And the announcement of the week comes from the Kappa Sigs: Herb Dowd will resume his musical entertainment in Y-Court as soon as he retreives his guitar from the beach.

Several KA alumni of last year who are now in service were in Chapel Hill this weekend and were royally entertaind by the chapter.

Seniors were entertained this wekend by the St. A's with a party at the house. Following through in true style, the Kappa Sig's will party with their departing seniors at the house Thursday night.

Two pinnings are news at the Phi Delta Chi house. Jimmy Miller, Hickory, pinned Barbara Moore, also of Hickory; and Sue Wallace, Pennsylvania, is now wearing the pin of George Harris, Durham.

Deke's, partying throughout the state as usual, "housepartied" in Pinehurst Friday and Saturday, and stopped in Charlotte on the way home Sunday for a tea dance. Wednesday night, after chapter meeting, the Deke's will have their annual party for the seniors, at which the Eddie Caldwell Award for the most outstanding member of the fraternity will be presented.

Hogan's was the scene of a Chi Phi party Saturday afternoon, and Phi Delt's had a chapter party at the house this weekend for boys only!

Betty Duncan, Chi Phi pin-up and a student at Duke, was serenaded by the brothers Wednesday night. Out-of-state pin-ups of the Sigma Chi's were serenaded at the Sweetheart Ball.

More beach parties. Sae's situated themselves at Myrtle this weekend, as did Pi Kappa Phi's. And partying at Wrightsville were the SPE's. The Monogram Club held their annual beach houseparty at Myrtle this weekend; their headquarters weer located at the Thomas Manor.

Dr. Henry Clark, faculty advisor for the Sigma Nu fraternity, entertained the graduating seniors with dinner at his home Wednesday night. The Sigma Nu's celebrated their victory in the horseshoe tournament all during the weekend.

SPE David Aderholdt, Charlotte, pinned Peggy Stevens, also of Charlotte, and Pi Kappa Phi Al Strauss, Brooklyn, N. Y., gave his pin to Sherry Jones of Raleigh.

ZBT's, in honor of their graduating seniors, will have a party at the house Tuesday night.

And finally, Sigma Chi Buell Moser, Burlington, pinned Pat Long, also of Burlington, a student at GC. Announcement is made of the engagement of Tommy Frazier, Sigma Chi from Winston-Salem, to Joanne Fagg, Winston-Salem.

Thus endeth the society column for the year. See you fall semester with a smattering of pinnings and a splattering of parties.

...banish 'BOOK FATIGUE'

KEEP ALERT SAFELY!

Your doctor will tell you ...a NoDoz Awakener is harmless as an average cup of hot, black coffee.

Take a NoDoz Awakener when you cram for that exam...or when mid-afternoon brings on those "3-o'clock cobwebs."

You'll find NoDoz gives you a lift without a letdown...helps you snap back to normal and keep alert SAFELY!

When fatigue is a handicap, take a NoDoz Awakener. Used by millions of busy Americans since 1933.

• ON THE HIGHWAY • ON THE JOB • AFTER HOURS

NODOZ AWAKENERS

ASK FOR THE LARGE ECONOMY SIZE

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

PICKARD ROOFING CO. BUILDing supplies, hardware, and paint. Free estimates on old and new work. Main street Carrboro. Phone 9-5693. (chg 1x1)

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll oven buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

EMPLOYMENT WANTED 5

OPPORTUNITY TO SAVE $300—$600 during summer months working on circulation promotion program with Dunn & Bradstreet rated Southern concern. Journalism and Advertising students especially welcome. Minimum age men 18; women 21. Must travel and be able to drive. Transportation furnished, all expenses advanced. Write John Evans, Box 2070, Birmingham, Ala., for details; giving three references, date, place available to begin work. chg 1x2

FOR SALE 6B

SPORTSMAN TRAILER— EQUIPed kitchen, electricity, bed, ideal for camping. $295 or offer. Chapel Hill 9-8689 evenings. chg 1x1

1949 FORD CUSTOM - CLUB Coupe. Radio and Heater. Can be seen at 44 D Glen Lennox after 5 p.m. on weekdays, and after 1 p.m. on Saturday, or call 9-6367. (chg 1x1)

1951 MORRIS-MINOR. EXCELlent condition, new tires and battery. 30 miles to the gallon. Call 7-7397 in Durham after 6 p.m. (chg 1x1)

BABY CARRIAGE — SELL OR swap. Call 95383.

SMALL BED FOR CHILD. ⅔ OF original price, spring and mattress. Almost brand new. See Edison Rivera, 122 Connor Dorf. 1-c8019-2

WANTED TO BUY 24A

1947 or 1948 MODEL JEEP OR any other earlier model in good condition. Phone 95665 or see Dick O'Neal, 3 Justice St. 1-c8020-6

For Graduation . . .

. GIVE POETRY

Nobody has such a wide choice of good poetry as the Intimate Bookshop. For example, here are three gift subbestions:

Sonnets from the Portuguesse— Elizabeth Barrett Browning's immortal love poems. ——— $1.00

With All My Love— Torrid, but bodern, Frank Kimball's book makes a fine graduation gift ——— $3.00

Collected, T. S. Eliot— No finer graduation gift could be found for the sophisticate — $6.00

Girt-Wrapping Is Free At

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

WHO SAYS BEACHCOMBERS ARE CRAZY? The familiar "diving girl" symbol on swimwear is nothing new under the sun. What is new is the fashion sun in this suit of acetate and laton with the eye-arresting "bib'n tucker" styled bra line. At any pool or beach in the world, you'll be "right in the swim" with this Jantzen, shown in Harper's Bazaar and available in nine colors, including gold, red, navy, and green, at about $16.

Three Fraternities Name Officers For Next Year

Alpha Sigma chapter of Chi Psi announces as its officers for the coming year Rod Hood, Philadelphia, Pa., president; Bill White, Winston-Salem, vice-president; George McKinney, Marshall, secretary; Larry Cobb, Long Island, N. Y. treasurer.

Newly elected officers of Alpha Tau chapter of Sigma Chi are Charlie Phillips, Greensboro, president; Abbie Keyes, Greensboro, vice-president; Harry Anderson, Asheboro secretary; Tom Coghill, Richmond, Va. treasurer; Roddey Dowd, Charlotte, pledge trainer; Bill Moore, Burlington, corresponding secretary; Skippy Roddey, Charlotte, social chairman and German Club representative; Sid Hoots, Winston-Salem, dining room manager; Denny Mitchell, Beaver, Pa., intramural manager; Doug Powell, Durham, house manager.

Officers for Beta chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon are Jim Schenck, Greensboro, president; Herbert Thorp, Rocky Mount, vice-president; Buzzy Shull, Winston-Salem, secretary; Wade Coleman, Arlington, Va., house manager; Bill Patteron, Salisbury, Jim Schenck, Wade Coleman, Al Shortt, Winston-Salem, Herbert Thorp, and Steve Owen, Long Island, N. Y., members of the Executive Committee; Jim Schenck, Bob Mason, Charlotte, German Club representatives; Bill Patterson, rush chairman; Osborne Lee, Lumberton, intramural manager; Bill Patterson, pledge trainer; Jim Schenck, Harrison Dunlop, Asheville, IFC Representatives; Syd Shuford, Asheville, alumni secretary; Bob Mason, Steve Owen, social chairmen; Tom Stokes ,Raleigh, ceremony and ritual chairman.

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY

The Jesse J. Moorhead Squadron of the Arnold Air Society, University of North Carolina chapter of the National Military Fraternity for AF ROTC cadets, has installed new officers for 1953-54.

Robert James, a rising senior from Elkin, succeeds Kenneth G. Anderson, Durham, as commanding officer of the group.

Others installed were Charles Howard, Charlotte, executive officer; Don Ebert, Winston-Salem, treasurer; Roland Burnstan, Paris, France, operations officer; John Boushall, Tampa, Fla., public information officer; and Roger Ackerman, Wallace, adjutant-recorder.

PEPSI-COLA Bottling Company OF DURHAM

305 South St. Durham

Sigma Xi Has Annual Banquet

North Carolina chapter of the Society of the Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society, initiated twenty-nine full members and forty-five associate members at the annual banquet and initiation ceremony held in the ballroom of the Carolina Inn on Monday, May 18, at 6 p.m. The list of initiates included ten full-time members of the faculty of the University and sixty-four graduate students. Following the banquet and initiation ceremonies, the Society met in Phillips Hall at 8 p.m. to hear the annual presidential address which was delivered by Dr. Kenneth M. Brinkhous, head of the Department of Pathology in the School of Medicine. Dr. Brinkhous lectured on the subject, "The Logistics of Blood Clotting — an Unsolved Problem." He was introduced by the vice-president of the Society, Dr. William L. Engels. Dr. Brinkhous is a nationally recognized authority on blood clotting, and he has made many important contributions in this field of research.

—Freedom—

(Continued from page 2)

The danger in this direction is grossly exaggerated — for whatever purposes. Attacks on academic freedom have increased on the specious ground that faculties need protection from Communist infiltration. Our colleges are perfectly capable of protecting themselves. Beyond that, these institutions (as the writer can report from personal knowledge) have shown the light to more than a few students who came to them as Communists and there learned the error of their way:

Misguided legislative bodies and pressure groups — such as the Broyles Commission in Illinois—have wanted to pass laws to expel from our colleges any Communist student. Nothing could be more stupid—or more alien to the democratic way. We can trust Americans when they understand the alternatives. That is the way of the institution of learning.

We cannot defend democracy abroad if we undermine our own at home. t is the free world—or rather the freedom of all mankind—that America is now called upon to guard. But our defense of it will be vain if it is not undertaken in the spirit as well as in the name of democracy.

There is the fear of the darkness and there is the fear of the light. The Soviets have chosen the darkness, the darkness of thought control, and so they fear our light. And because they would impose it on the rest of mankind, we must fear their darkness. But if we should come to fear alike the darkness and the light.

New twist on evolution theory as signs on campus shout: "Danger, Men Working In Trees."

Campus Briefs

Young Methodists

The Rev. W. M. Howard will speak on "A General Approach to the Study of the New Testament" Tuesday evening at 7:30 to the Young Adult Group of the Methodist Church.

Newman Club

The Newman Club will meet this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock on the second floor of Lenoir Hall for the election of officers. Mass will be celebrated at 8 and 9:30 a.m. in Gerrard Hall.

Baptist Church

The BSU will have Dr. Charles E. Maddry, who is former chairman of the Baptist Foreign Mission Board, as its supper forum speaker. Next Sunday's program will honor graduating seniors.

Westminster Fellowship

Mrs. W. Robert Mann will speak to the Westminster Fellowship of the Covenant Presbyterian Church on "Modern Trends in the Church" after supper at 6 p.m.

Episcopal Church

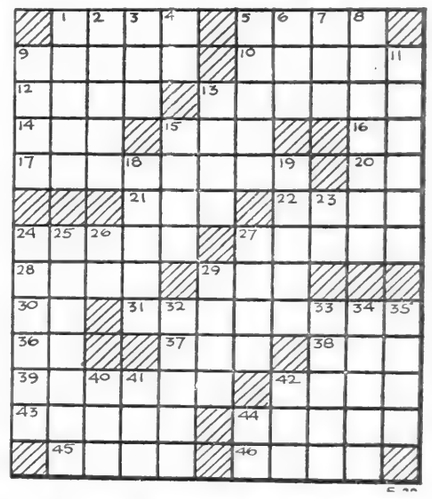
The Episcopal Church will celebrate Holy Communion at 8 a.m. At 9:30 a.m. the Bible Discussion Group will meet upstairs in Lenoir Hall, and at 11 a.m. there will be a Celebration of Holy Communion and a sermon. The Rev. John Drake, Rector of Saint Timothy's Episcopal Church of Winston-Salem, will speak to the Canterbury Club at 6 p.m., and there will be an evening prayer service at 8 p.m.

Statistics Colloquium

Sigurd L. Anderson will address the Statistics Colloquium on the subject, "A Robust Test for Variances" tomorrow at 4 p.m. in 206 Phillips Hall.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS



1. Missile weapon (So. Am.)
5. The weft
9. River (Ger.)
10. Long-eared rodents
12. Dry
13. American Indian
14. Exclamation (slang)
15. Trouble
16. Girl's nickname
17. Odder
20. Old Testament (abbr.)
21. Lettuce
22. At one time
24. River (So. Am.)
27. Observes
28. Leading actor
29. Little girl
30. King of Bashan (Bib.)
31. Male fowls
36. Egypt (abbr.)
37. Place
38. Contend
39. Pieces cut on the diagonal
42. An authoritative decree
43. Come in
44. Agreements
45. A shark (Atlantic ocean)
46. Species of pillar

DOWN

1. Kind of cap
2. Variety of willow
3. Guided
4. Land measure
5. Large marine animal
6. Tree
7. Mountain: comb. form
8. Tuft of hair on horse's leg
9. Oscillates
11. Fries lightly
13. Excavates
15. Wild ox (Celebes)
18. Performer
19. Perch
23. Negative reply
24. American flycatcher
25. Protective covering for the leg
26. Land-measure
27. Roll
29. French coins
32. Musical drama
33. Oust
34. Lasso
35. Matched groups
40. Luzon native
41. Arrange, as type
42. Cooling device
44. Father

Yesterday's Answer

New "convertible" styled to warm up COOL dolls

If your smiles-per-gal is low, you'll improve your operating efficiency in a Manhattan DRESS-N-PLAY. This fully convertible collar is equally handsome with or without a tie. And smooth Manhattan styling means it's loaded with pick-up power. Choice of fabrics in white or colors . . . regular DRESS-N-PLAY or spread DRESS-N-PLAY collar. Stop in at your Manhattan men's shop—see many more most-for-your-money values in distinctive menswear.

Manhattan

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and hot with 92 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

RUARK
The globe-trotter recalls Chapel Hill days on page 2.

VOLUME LXI, NUMBER 158 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, MAY 26, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Change In Visit Rules Is Possible

By Louis Krar

Students and administrative officials will sit down today to discuss what may be the completion of a long-sought revision of the coed visiting agreement.

The agreement which will be considered is a revised one recently approved by the Inter-Fraternity Council and other student groups. It embodies several administration-suggested changes.

If the agreement is passed, it would remove some contradictions from the catalogue and Woman's Handbook rules concerning coed visiting and drinking in fraternity houses. Official revision of the agreement would need Trustee approval, should the administration accept it.

Today's meeting will be the first one in which a unified student-approved plan will have been submitted. A new group appointed by President Bob Gorham, called the Executive Council, has contributed towards bringing the student side of the agreement together. The Executive Council is made up of representatives from all major campus groups.

The new proposal, in effect, places more emphasis on self-restraint by men and women in respect to fraternity drinking.

Among the innovations in the suggested agreement is a special committee called the Visiting Advisory Committee. It is to be composed of seven members representing fraternity-interested areas of the University community.

This committee will meet regularly to discuss fraternity social activities and shall be available for counseling and assistance to fraternities, their advisers and the visiting committees. They will approve all members of the suggested visiting committees.

The visiting committee, provided for in the revised agreement, is to be made up of not less than three adult non-student women. Each fraternity is to have one of these groups available for assistance and counseling regarding the entertainment of women and other house matters.

It will be the responsibility of the visiting committee members to visit the fraternity regularly and to be available for advising and serving as hostesses at fraternity functions.

Television

As many students as possible are needed tomorrow morning at 8:45 to participate in a scene for CBS television. Students interested should assemble behind South Building.

NEWS IN BRIEF

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—The world's first atomic artillery shell was fired successfully yesterday from a monster cannon and burst over the Nevada proving grounds to usher in a new era of ground warfare. A brilliant double fireball, the first ever seen by observers of atomic tests in the United States, shot up from the explosion, indicating the military may have something newer even than the shell itself among its store of nuclear weapons.

★

PANMUNJOM—The United Nations handed the Communists a secret plan to end the Korean war prisoner deadlock yesterday and then gave them a week to think it over. Two brief secret sessions were held here yesterday following an eight-day recess, and American military police kept newsmen from approaching the conference hut or the UN staff's tents nearby.

★

TOKYO—A group of about 20 Japanese women, led by an American-born woman married to a Japanese, yesterday pulled Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt from her car outside the Labor Ministry Building, the newspaper Yomiuri reported. Mrs. Roosevelt was not hurt.

Ryon, Stewart Win Mangum, Petty Awards

Dale Sanford Ryon, president of Phi Beta Kappa, has been named for the Jessie Mai Petty Award, Dean of Awards Ernest L. Mackie announced yesterday.

The award, given by Jessie Mai Petty in honor of her son, James B. Petty of Gastonia, consists of $100 cash. It is awarded for the first time this year.

The award is given to the junior with the highest average. Ryon is president of Phi Beta Kappa by virtue of his top average. He is a chemistry major and from Asheville.

It was also announced yesterday that Alva Ware Stewart has been awarded the Mangum Medal in Oratory, the oldest medal on campus.

The Mangum Medal, established in 1878, was originally set up by the Misses Mangum in memory of their father, Willie Person Hangum, class of 1815. It has been continued by two lines of his descendants.

This medal is awarded to that member of the senior class who, in the opinion of a group of judges, gives the most excellent oration at an annual oratorical contest.

Some of 15,000 volunteer workers battling time against rising Sabine river dump sandbags along secondary dike after main levee (in tree-grownbackground) already breached. Workers continue to fight the onrushing water as thousands are homeless in the southwestern states of Texas and Louisiana. This action occured in Orange, Texas.—NEA Telephoto.

Flood Account Is Reported By Local Man

Corky Cretini, a Chapel Hill resident and alumnus of the University got a first-hand account Saturday of the flood in Louisiana.

Cretini's people live in Lake Charles, La., where most of the residential section was under water last week.

Cretini tried to get a telephone call through to them all Friday night to try to find out if they were safe. Only emergency calls were going through then, but on Saturday he finally got his call through and learned that the flood had missed their home.

"The house stands in the old business district which is the highest point in town," Cretini said.

Lake Charles is a port town in the bayou country. Most of the residential district is built on drained swampland. "This is where the flood did most of the damage," Cretini said.

Cretini said the water was 18 feet above flood level. He said, "Winds from the Gulf kept the water from draining and caused the flood."

Cretini said port towns will be hard hit as the high water moves on toward the Gulf.

Cretini entered the University after serving in the Marines in World War II. He has two degrees from UNC. In 1948 he got a degree in mathematics and in 1950 he received a degree in geology.

Cretini is now working at Merritt's Service Station on the Pittsboro Road.

CAMPUS SEEN

Woman's College Chancellor E. K. Graham, here for the Trustees meeting, locking car bumpers with the Consolidated Mercury.

Sarcastic downtown clerk to lady at counter: "What did you say you wanted these boxes for?" Lady replies, "You see, I'm Mrs. Snavely and I'm packing."

Judge Parker To Be Honored By Di And Phi

Federal Judge John J. Parker will be honored tonight at the fifth annual Di-Phi Banquet at 8 o'clock in the Monogram Club.

Judge Parker, an alumnus of the University and the Dialectic Senate, will be presented the Di-Phi Award for outstanding service to the University, the state and the nation.

He is recognized as one of the most outstanding and qualified jurists in the nation.

Past recipients of the award are Frank P. Graham, John Motley Morehead, Albert Coates and Archibald Henderson.

Bob Pace, speaker of the Phi, will be toastmaster and will present the award to Judge Parker. Charlotte Davis, president of the Di, will present the Di Faculty Award to the outstanding Di Senator. Pace will present Phi awards to the outstanding senior and freshman of the Phi.

Grail Awards To 8 Students Announced

The Order of The Grail made its second annual presentation of awards last night.

The awards are made to students in certain fields who have excelled both in their fields and in scholarship.

Awards were made in the following categories: senior self-help student, freshman self-help student, senior athlete, and senior active in student government.

The freshman self-help award was presented to Donald Fowler, and the senior self-help award was presented to David Kent Jackson. James Andrew Bell Jr. was presented the senior athlete award. The senior active in student government award was presented to Gilbert Ernest Marsh.

The Grail officers for the year 1953-54 are Delegate Edward Bailey Gross, Scribe Herbert Browne Jr., Exchecquer Harvey Deakins Bradshaw and Vice-Exchequer and Ring Chairman Walter Dallas Gurley Jr.

French Drama Group Opens In Moliere Play

Tomorrow night marks the first of two performances of Moliere's "Les Precieuses Ridicules" by Le Petit Theatre Francais.

The play was Moliere's first Parisian success. The Petit version is to be in the main lounge of Graham Memorial at 8:30 p.m. and will star Henriette Rhyne, Norma Flint and Charles Hadley.

BA School Here Filling Big Need, Says J. E. Webb

With the opening of its three new buildings for the School of Business Administration, the University is taking a long step forward in its program to meet "the constantly growing need for professionally trained business men."

This view was stressed by James E. Webb, president of Republic Supply Company, Oklahoma City, Okla., formerly Director of the Budget Bureau and former Under Secretary of State, who spoke at the opening session of the dedicatory program for the three buildings held here yesterday.

Webb is a native of Granville county and a graduate of the University.

George M. Harrison, Cincinnati, Ohio, grand president, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, and vice-president, American Federation of Labor, the other speaker this afternoon, stressed the importance of training responsible labor leaders.

Three new buildings, Dudley D. Carroll Hall, O. Max Gardner Hall and Hanes Hall, were dedicated.

Dean Thomas H. Carroll presided over the opening session which was held in the auditorium of Carroll Hall and welcomed visitors to the ceremonies.

Dr. I. G. Greer, executive vice-president, North Carolina Business Foundation, gave the prayer of invocation.

The new buildings were presented by Frank Taylor for Governor William B. Umstead and were accepted by President Gordon Gray.

Brief talks were made by Archibald T. Fort, president of Phi Beta Kappa and Beta Gamma Sigma, on behalf of the students in business administration; R. Arthur Spaugh, Jr., president of the University Alumni Association, for the alumni; Dr. William S. Wells, chairman of the University faculty; Robert M. Hanes, first president of the Business Foundation, for that organization; Dr. B. U. Ratchford, Duke University, president, Southern Economic Association; Dr Calvin B. Hoover, Duke University, president, American Economic Association; and Dean Arthur M. Weimer of the School of Business of Indiana University, president, American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business.

Dean Carroll responded on behalf of the School of Business Administration.

(See HARRISON, page 4)

No Chancellor Candidate Yet For NC State

A mostly shirt-sleeved Board of Trustees had no kind words for the heat inside Gerrard Hall yesterday as they raced through a rather routine agenda in about 90 minutes.

What might have been a major action by the Board did not develop as President Gray reported he had no candidates to offer for chancellor of State College or provost of the Consolidated University.

Governor Umstead, performing probably the most strenuous task he has faced since suffering a heart attack in January, presided over the regular commencement session in vigorous fashion. (The governor is ex officio chairman of the Board.)

Gray told the Board the number of prospects for the top position at State has been narrowed down to four, any of whom would accept the post if offered it, as far as Gray knew. A special meeting of the Board will be held in September for the purpose of hearing the name of the final candidate and taking action on the nomination.

Present Chancellor John W. Harrelson, who requested to be replaced at the end of this school year, told the Board he would be willing to continue until September 1 so the office would not be left without an occupant.

Gray said he was not able to present a qualified candidate for the office of provost. He said the morning mail had brought him a request to be dropped from consideration from the foremost candidate.

The Trustees elected members to fill vacancies on several standing committees. Mrs. Albert Lathrop of Buncombe County and Maj. L. P. McLendon of Guilford County were placed on the Executive Committee by unanimous votes.

In other action, the Trustees renewed their three-school policy of permitting 15 per cent of the enrollment in each branch to be students from other states.

The textiles building at State College was named Nelson Hall for the Late Thomas Nelson, first dean of the School of Textiles.

There were 78 of 100 Trustees present at yesterday's meeting (plus the governor).

MARJORIE STILL

Marjorie Still To Give Recital In Hill Tonight

Miss Marjorie Still of Hillsboro, special student in piano of Dr. William S. Newman of the Music Department, will give a recital in Hill Hall tonight at 8:30 o'clock. The public is invited.

Miss Still's program will include Sonatas in D major and A minor, Scarlatti; Prelude and Fugue in E-Flat minor, Well-Tempered Clavier, Bach; Sonata quasi una Fantasia ("Moonlight"), Beethoven; Scherzo in B-Flat minor, Chopin; Intermezzo in E major, and Rhapsody in E-Flat major, Brahms; and the stirring modern American Composition, the Sonata in C-Sharp minor by Herbert Elwell.

Creasy Says Progress Is Made On Fall, Summer Orientation

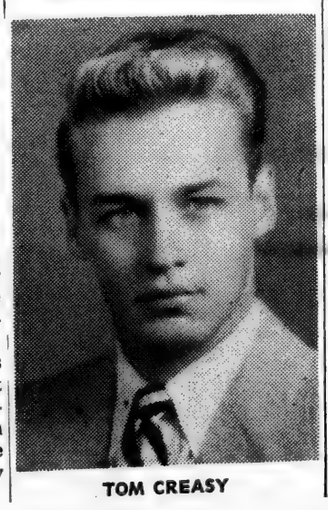
Orientation Chairman Tom Creasy yesterday reported that his orientation program is well under way.

Creasy said most of the required printed material will be ready by the first week in June. The counselors' manuals will be ready at that time so they can be getting themselves prepared during the summer.

Bill Brown is chairman of the planning committee for the Coed Ball.

Bob Grimes is chairman of the planning committee for the orientation picnic.

A new plan for this fall is to have freshman pictures for the Yack made during orientation week.



Creasy said, "Since we have 20 more counselors than we have had before we can have smaller groups to give each boy a chance to take a greater part in the program.

"Since Summer orientation is limited to two days we can't get in everything from the Fall program, but we have a program planned to include as much of the Fall program as possible, Creasy said.

Abbie Keyes will act as chairman for Summer orientation.

"I will work to tie all the ends together and keep in touch with the counselors during the Summer so we may have a successful program," Creasy sad.

President Bob Gorham said, "Creasy is living up to my expectations. I think it should be one of the best orientations ever."

TOM CREASY

Faculty Favorite

Fears, Hopes, Doubts Existed In Ancient Days -- Dr. Caldwell

By Jennie Lynn

To his students it would be an utterly worthless fact that the battle of Marathon was won by Athens over the Persians in 490 BC if Professor Caldwell did not turn the Athenians into a fearful, yet hopeful handful of fathers and sons, fighting against unbelievable odds to overcome the powerful Persian king.

Following the belief that knowledge of occurrences in ancient history is useful only when it gives to students an experience of lasting influence on their characters, in his teaching Dr. Wallace Everette Caldwell combines the feelings and actions of men of long ago with present problems.

These fears, hopes, and doubts that the Greeks felt do not exist for 490 BC alone, but for the hearts of men of all time . . . for your grandfathers in the Spanish American War, for soldiers on the Korean front today.

Although he is able to reach his pupils while he is lecturing, one of Dr. Caldwell's most sincere concerns and desires is to be closer to them outside of the classroom. He feels that the barrier between students and faculty is due partly to the negligence of the students themselves, partly to the largeness of the University.

The few minutes of pre-registering is the only time that teachers see the students, other than in class. "I don't know just what it is," he said. "Either they can't be bothered or the school is just getting too big. During my first years here I used to have Greek history class at Danziger's over Turkish coffee and pastry—now this isn't done. The teachers visited the dorms and fraternity houses frequently for supper and informal get-togethers. Now I find that I know hardly anyone at the formal social teas."

As of this year, Dr. Caldwell has 31 years of teaching ancient history and two years as head of the History Department behind him. He was born in Brooklyn and is a Dodger fan. He went to school in the North, receiving his A.B. from Cornell and his Ph.D. from Columbia. After teaching at Columbia for four years following 1919, he came south to make Carolina his home.

In bringing the European world into the classroom, Dr. Caldwell's two trips abroad have been invaluable. He plans to return in July of next year to study the latest excavations and expositions in Athens and Rome. While traveling he will visit his younger son, connected with the State Department in Copenhagen. His older son is a research enginer at MIT, his daughter, following in her father's

(See CALDWELL, page 4)

Tryouts Open For 2 Plays

Open tryouts will be held today at 4 p.m. in the Playmakers Theater for two one-act plays, scheduled for production on Commencement Day, June 8. The plays will be under the general supervision of Foster Fitz-Simons, and there will be no admission charge to the performances.

"Two's Too Many," a comedy of married life by William Waddell will be directed by George Spence and requires a cast of two men and two women.

Jean Hillman will direct "Skybow," by Dan Reid which has a cast of one man and one woman.

The plays will be presented at 2:30 and 4 p.m. Commencement Day.

Carolina Quarterly

The spring issue of the Carolina Quarterly will be on sale today and tomorrow in the Y court, the Intimate Bookshop, the Bull's Head Bookstore, and the Carolina Inn.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

News Ed. — Bob Slough
Asst. Sports Ed. — Vardy Buckalew
Assoc. Ed. — Nina Gray
Sub. Mgr. — Tom Witty
Circ. Mgr. — Don Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Bill Venable
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Adv. Mgr. — Bob Wolfe
Feature Ed. — Sally Sehindel
Exch. Ed. — Alice Chapman

NEWS STAFF—Louis Kraar, Ken Sanford, Richard Creed, Joyce Adams, Jeanie Lynn, J. D. Wright, Jess Nettles, Frances Walls.

EDITORIAL STAFF—A. Z. F. Wood Jr., John Gibson, Dan Duke, Bill O'Sullivan, Ed Yoder, Ron Levin, Norman Jarrard.

SPORTS STAFF — John Hussey, Sherwood Smith.

PHOTOGRAPHERS — Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Dedicated to McCarthy's brain-washed.

Cogency

—A.Z.F. Wood Jr.—

" . . . but McCarthyism is one of the biggest threats we have today," I said.

"Why?"

"Why?"

"Yeah, why?"

I just looked at him. My mouth probably bore some resemblance to Carlsbad Caverns.

So he said, "I hear all this talk about McCarthy infringing on our liberties and intimidating people and all that guff. I don't see it. He's rooting all those communists, and that's got to be done."

"Do you think all those guys he calls up before his committee are communists?" I managed to say.

"Sure they are. They don't call anybody up that they don't have the goods on."

"Wexler?"

"He's a commie."

"He was a commie."

"Oh, don't give me that. He still is. That's obvious."

"Guilty until proven innocent, eh?"

"He's guilty of communism."

"How do you know?"

"How do you know that Malenkov is a communist?

That stumped me. My mouth was agape again; so he resumed: "Just what is it that you think McCarthy has done wrong?"

I was beginning to feel a bit depressed but I tried anyway: "He calls up people before his Inquisition and bullies them because he's in a position of power. Then he insinuates that the defendant is a liar or a communist or a traitor or a crook or all four. He thinks that anybody who doesn't agree with him is a communist or at least a parlor pink. And when the defendant leaves the "investigation" he has a stigma that will stay with him for the rest of his life, whether he is proved to have done anything wrong or not. And McCarthy hasn't found any communists anyway; all he's succeeded in doing is scaring a lot of people."

"Scaring a lot of communists, you mean. One of the freedoms you're talking about is freedom of speech. I'm glad McCarthy has freedom of speech, or this country would be over-run with commies."

"There are constitutional limitations of freedom of speech. One is slander. You can't tell lies about anybody. And you can't insinuate lies about anybody, or you'll be sued. McCarthy can't be sued. He's got senatorial immunity."

"Don't you think senatorial immunity is good?"

"Yes, provided it isn't abused. At its conception, it was assumed that senators would be men of integrity and courage."

"McCarthy can always be impeached if he abuses it."

"Possible but not probable. Never been done before. Too much red-tape and too many loop-holes."

"Nevertheless, it can be done. The reason it hasn't is because McCarthy hasn't done anything wrong. Do you realize where we'd be if it weren't for men with guts like McCarthy. He stands for no lily-fingered compromises. He's a true American all the way."

I saw there wasn't any use in arguing anymore; so I quit.

'We Might Clear Him For Foreign Travel If He Doesn't Take Any Books Along'

CONSOLIDATION

Lynn Nisbet

CONSOLIDATED — The official designation is the "Consolidated University of North Carolina," for the three units at Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Greensboro. The unofficial designation for the units continues to be the "University" at Chapel Hill, "State College" at Raleigh and "Woman's College" at Greensboro. The two university-level institutions for Negroes—North Carolina College at Durham and A. and T. College at Greensboro, and Pembroke College for Indians are not in the consolidated system with the white institutions and are entirely separate from each other as to administrative control.

EVALUATION — During the past few days your reporter has heard more than usual comment to the general effect that the time has come for a review of the whole higher education policy in North Carolina, and a revaluation of the consolidation idea. Many of the reasons advanced in justification for such study are not new. The two factors which may be called new and which are the immediate occasion for the revived interest in the whole program are the unusual criticism of the manner of selecting trustees by the General Assembly and the delay in naming a vice president of the Consolidated University and chancellor of State College to succeed Col. John W. Harrelson, who said a year ago he wanted to retire as of June 30.

LONG TIME — Some of the long-time reasons given for a thorough review of the whole program include the facts that consolidation has never been completely effected; there is still acute rivalry among the units included and there remain three university-level institutions not included; women students are accepted at Chapel Hill and Raleigh and Negro students at Chapel Hill for graduate courses, thus to some degree destroying the allocation formula of the original consolidation concept without achieving the unity of operation originally intended. And, keen observers who have recently visited many of the college campuses in North Carolina, report that morale and esprit de corps among faculty and students is higher at individual institutions than at the several units of the Consolidated University.

UNIFIED — Observers of the operations of State institutions are bound to admit that much more cohesive unification has been achieved in the university set up in 22 years. The situations are not exactly analogous, but they serve for purposes of comparison. There are two main differences. The hospitals and correctional systems include all institutions for all races, while the university system embraces only half the educational institutions. And, secondly, the trustees of the independent educational as well as the hospitals and correctional boards are appointed by the Governor, while the trustees of the university are elected by the Legislature.

TOO BIG—Admitting that political considerations influence executive appointments, the political angles are not nearly so controlling as in the case of legislative selection of trustees. Another important difference is that there are more than 100 trustees of the university, while most of the other boards have membership of 10 to 15. The practical effect of the oversize university boards is that many of the vitally important decisions are made by an executive committee of 12 chosen by the whole board from its entire membership. Although the decisions of the executive are subject to review and debate by the full board, and generally they are debated at length, more often than not they are approved.

PROGRESS — Certainly the record will show that the University of North Carolina, each and every one of its units, has progressed more toward the ultimate goal of service to North Carolinians during the 20 years since consolidation was effected than in all time before. It is the considered opinion of many alumni and friends of State and Woman's Colleges than they have fared better than they would have if left on their own. But, it is also true that N. C. College and A. & T. and the six teacher colleges have advanced more in the past 20 years than in all previous time.

REORGANIZATION—The recognized need for reorganization in government or in private business corporations does not imply that the existing structure is bad or is not doing a good job. Nothing devised or operated by human beings can be perfect. There is always chance for improvement. Maybe something bad can be eliminated; maybe something good can be made better; maybe what we have will prove to be the best we can hope to attain under the circumstances prevailing.

Spring & Funny Things

—Robert Ruark, '35—

It is Spring, again I see, for the people are seeing flying saucers and the boys at Princeton are rioting and the pantie raids are on and the Science Service stories are in full glory, such as a hen turning into a rooster and ladies being restored from manhood to ladyship again.

Spring has always puzzled me greatly in its effect on people, especially the young. There comes a gentle idiocy in the Spring that is missing in the other seasons, although I will be the first to admit that idiocy is never entirely missing at any period of the year.

I don't know if I ever told you about one Spring when the flowers were blooming in the arboretum at Chapel Hill, N. C. and a soft smell of jasmine flooded the little town. A pair of friendly ruffians, named Tom Webb and Barney Menge, and I decided to take a ride because it was such a nice night and smelled so pretty. We wound up in Montreal, Canada which is rather more than a short distance from Chapel Hill. Why? O dunno. It just seemed like a much too pretty night to go to bed.

I am expecting almost momentarily to see some flying saucers on my own, because if they can see them in Germany I can see them from whereever I'm at, which is flexible. As a matter of fact, we saw some in Africa in January. It was a clear day and we had just seen three pink elephants, of which I shot one, the day before.

Concerning the little red hen that has just become a rooster in Warsaw, N. Y. I am not shocked, because I have already told you about Willie the hyena who became both a mother and a father in the same year, which is pretty neat, even for a hyena. Nor am I overly impressed with the lady who is living happily with a guinea pig's glands in her body, because there are many mornings when I feel that my head is the property of a rank stranger, and has nothing to do with me.

I do not really understand the fanaticism with which the students pursue the panties of coeds or neighboring young lady scholars, because in my day we were always more interested in the girls per se than in the things they wore. I am not sure whether we saved many garters as souvenirs, but man, the memories of those scented evenings on the front porch of the Phi Kap house, listening to the screams of the girls that the Dekes were chasing unsuccessfully down the street.

One must finally decide that people are not really accountable in the Spring, and should not be penalized for their actions in the Spring. This is why I submit this piece with the expectance of tolerance on the part of editors. It's Spring, and even a columnist should be allowed to be incoherent occasionally in the Spring.

The Eye Of The Horse

—Roger Will Coe—

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . . " Hipporotis: circa 500 B.C.)

THE HORSE clicked his eyes noisily as he read over my shoulder. His breathing became so loud I all but missed the ten-of bell.

So, I asked him as we went along toward Bynum Hall?

"That item about the North Carolina Credit Women deploring our state's standing in national earnings," The Horse said. "Of course, the old girls just want us all on payrolls so we will have more credit readings from them and charge more stuff with them. Not alone a selfish wish, but a silly one."

I wasn't following him?

"Of course you aren't," he agreed pleasantly. "We are walking side by side. I wonder if those Credit Women don't know we are the largest per capita farm-owning state in the union?"

What had that to do with it?

"It has to do with our income-rating," The Horse said. "The North Carolinians are small-farm owners, for several reasons. One—the big crop is tobacco, a crop which requires a great deal of labor, but not a great deal of land. Two—the soil is not given to bumper crops of grains; too much fertilizer would be necessary, and it has been established that to compete in the big grain markets harvest machinery is required; and it takes at least four hundred acres to support machinery on a farm. Third—many of our industrial workers own their small farms and work a sort of combination factory-and-farm plan of economy. It may not show as income, exactly; but many of them raise most of their food on the farm."

Was that good?

"Of course it is good," The Horse chittered. "They love the land they own, making for good citizens. They work it, making for good health. They eat a lot of what they raise, making for less out-go if not more income."

I was being impressed with this when The Horse horse-laughed.

"Besides," he went on without invitation, "look at the fine balance it makes if we hit hard times? I have some cousins that live on a farm in the state. Things get tough with my payroll, what do I do?"

"Oh, one fine day I show up at Cousin Swayback's farm and I say, 'Just thought I'd drop in and see how things were. My, there's nothing like a farm, is there?' So I sit down and eat off Cousin Swayback until I can get things cooking again. Now, just try and do that if all your relatives were city folk!"

I felt sorry for Cousin Swayback.

"Save your tears," The Horse chuckled. "Crops go bad, Cousin Swayback sort of wanders in on me and says, 'Just thought I'd drop in and see how things were. My, there's nothing like the city, is there?' So he sits down and eats off me and my payroll until he can get things cooking again. A perfect balance, I call it. What do the Credit Gals want, something as industrialized as the British Isles? Look at the fix they are in."

I'd heard the Scotch raised a lot of grain, and—whoosh!, The Horse was away and hammering up the Football Highway toward Durham.

"Thanks for reminding me," his shrill cry came floating back. "Scotch grains. Also, I want to check my credit-rating with the ABC. I'll be seeing you!"

I doubt it. Even normally, he doesn't see too well.

Express Yourself

Editor:

In the past The Daily Tar Heel has awarded editorial orchids to deserving individuals and groups. Since browsing through the 1953 Yack I think full recognition should be given to the select group that produced this year's abortion and recommend that they be awarded the editorial wild onions of the year.

Honest mistakes such as the erroneous identification of photographs can be expected. But to knowingly insert one's own picture into a group of which he is not a member is neither funny nor honest. Apparently Hartwell Conklin, the photography identification editor, is intrigued by his own smiling face. Freshman Conklin owes an apology to the first year law school class and the student body whose money was wasted to expand the ego of an irreponsible freshman.

Perhaps other students like myself are wondering about the secret greek letter organization apparing on page 413. Several of the alleged members when questioned disclaimed any knowledge of the Sigma Omega Beta (S.O.B.) chapter of Omega Gamma Mu Iota. Surely someone knows what the little joke is. How about letting the student body whose money was wasted in on the fun?

An explanation is in order!

Here's onions to this year's Yack.

J. W. Anderson

An Answer

Editor

I would like to clear up a few points concerning the photograph ID staff and the '53 Yack.

In previous editions of the Yack, the proper identification of large group shots had produced a great problem. To overcome this problem, the photo ID staff was established. The duties of this staff were to arrange a time and location for each group shot, hire a photographer and have members of the staff present to identify the picture when it was made.

The majority of pictures handled by this staff involve campus organizations which are found in the Activities section of the Yack.

Individual pictures, along with fraternities and sororities were not included.

Hartwell Conklin
Photo ID Editor
'53 Yack

Tar Heel Sports

By Tom Peacock

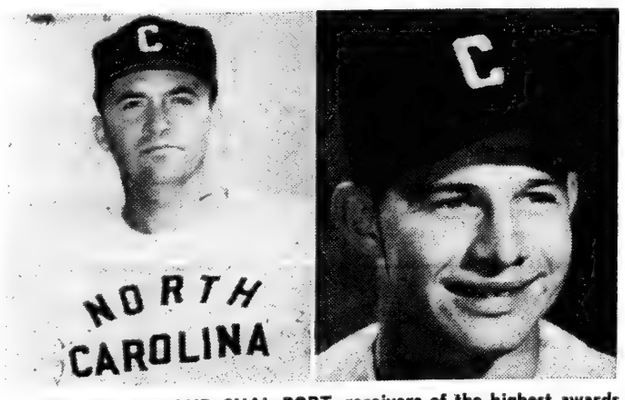
Some Random Shots

The Durham newspapers are taking the liberty of calling Carolina teams "Tarheels." The papers certainly have a point in shortening the famous Carolina nickname, since one word is easier to handle and use than two. English words go through a metamorphosis, especially the sporting terms. Shortstop is a good example — it went from short stop to short-stop, and is now one word. It would be ridiculous to put Tar Heels through a hyphenated stage, but the one word version should get a lot of support including that of the Daily Tar Heel sports department. Being inherently lazy, the easiness of writing one word instead of two is fascinating to this writer. Also, "Tarheels" fits in a head line a lot more easily than the longer version, and would save a lot of time and space. The name of this newspaper defeats the use of the one word version for a good little while to come, however. Which version do you prefer?

Semi-Pro Leagues

Now that the ranks of the three services are filled with college graduates and other young men, the service football teams will again be among the best in the country. Last year's champion service team from Bolling Air Force Base would stack up well against any college outfit. All-American from Michigan State Al Dorrow led the Airmen, and two Carolina graduates played first string. They were center Andy Miketa. Dorrow's roommate, and Carolina co-captain on the 1951 squad, Joe Dudek. Dudek was considered one of the better service team linemen in the country. Now the Quantico Marines are proudly touting their football team, and a glance at the roster convinces me that the Leathernecks are a cut above the Los Angeles Rams. Three men from the Big Four, two from Carolina, are on the Quantico squad. They are Tar Heel guard Roscoe Hansen, who went to the Philadelphia Eagles before donning Marine Green, Bob (Goo Goo) Gantt, another 1951 Carolina co-captain, and John Mounie of Duke. Gantt was a leading ground gainer for the Tar Heels from his wingback position in the single wing. Also playing for the Marines are John Pettibon (Notre Dame and Dallas Texans), Ken MacAfee (Alabama and New York Giants), and Tom Seeman (Notre Dame). In all, there are seven outstanding pros on the Quantico team. The Marines had one of the best teams in the country during the last war, and have wasted little time in amassing a formidable opponent to Bolling Field.

Colonial Conference



The new conference that seven schools including Carolina is forming has about three dozen problems, but nothing is bothering the people like the choice of a name. We don't much care what they call it as long as it's short (the old headline problem again), but Colonial seems to be the best suggestion. Maryland snafus the possibility of a geographical name such as Mid-South, and there is already a Big Seven Conference. All the schools in the new group are in states that were members of the 13 colonies, and Colonial Conference has a pleasant ring about it.

Add All-America

Two hustling young lads from the University of Pittsburgh have come up with an idea on All-American teams that hasn't been aired before. These men, Carroll Cook and Russ Franke, are of the opinion that sports editors of college newspapers are closer to the football situation than anyone else, and therefore are best qualified to pick the true All-America team. The pair hint darkly about some great syndicate lurking behind them, ready at a moment's notice to grab up the college editors and publicize it nationally. A "player of the year" will also be picked. We'll pass this buck on to the readers, and come next year let them pick our selection for the All-America team.

Duke Is Back

Duke University is back on the revered spot—last place—on the Carolina football schedule. The University of Virginia was the Tar Heels' traditional rival on the last football weekend of the season for many years, and in 1951 Carolina played the Cavaliers in Charlottesville two years in a row so Duke could take over the number one spot. On the theory that the Carolina-Duke rivalry had many times surpassed that of the Carolina-Virginia series, this schedule juggling seemed to be a wise move. Then, last year, the University of Miami took over the last game position for a Friday night contest. A look at the record book showed that Carolina had played Miami once before, and no one thought too big a rivalry ensued, especially since the Hurricanes weren't rescheduled for the following year. The simon pures shook their heads, but everything is all right now. Carolina plays Duke in Durham on November 28.

WALT RABB AND CHAL PORT, receivers of the highest awards in Big Four baseball. Rabb was named as the outstanding coach of the season, and Port tied for the Most Valuable Player award. Port also received the Patterson medal for outstanding Carolina senior athlete.

Intramural Manager's Banquet Is Held In Lenoir Hall Tonight

The annual intramural manager's banquet will be held at 6:30 tonight in the North Dining Room of Lenoir Hall.

Organizational, individual, and outstanding manager's awards will be presented to the winners in both the dormitory and fraternity divisions.

Awards will be given to Connor Dormitory and ATO, the finalists in the mural tennis match which will be held this afternoon. Sigma Nu Fraternity and Winston Dormitory, the opponents in the intramural softball game which was held yesterday, will also receive awards.

The speaker for the night will be swimming coach Ralph Casey, who will deliver a short address. His talk will be followed by movies of Carolina's one-point basketball victory over State in the Coliseum.

Last Week

This is the last week faculty members will have priority on tickets to football games this fall Vernon Crook announced yesterday. Tickets are obtainable at the ticket office in Woollen Gym.

Sig Nu's Win Softball Championship

Page Brothers Lead Winners

Fraternity Champs Win Eighth Straight

By John Hussey

The Sigma Nu fraternity established itself as the campus intramural softball champions yesterday with a 8-5 victory over Winston Dormitory. It was the eighth straight victory for the champions.

Bob Page was the winning pitcher. He allowed nine hits and five runs in the six innings he played. He was in trouble only one time, in the sixth, when the Dorm champs staged a last minute rally by getting four runs and four hits.

Second baseman Bill Page, Bob's brother, led the batters with two singles and a home run in three trips to the plate. His homer started the six-run fourth inning surge which eventually won the game for the Sigma Nu's.

The first ining and a half were uneventful, with both teams being set down in order. However, the scoring began after two were out in the bottom half of the second.

Gene Shaw went to first on an infield error, stole second, and went to third on another error. He scored on Bill Page's single. Page stole second and came home on a single by Dave Elliot.

There was no further scoring until the bottom half of the fourth. Bill Page led off with a homer to right field. Elliot walked and went to third on two wild pitches. George Watkins brought him home with a single and then pitcher Berry Pate leaded the bases with two straight walks.

Two men scored on Brooks Page's single in the seventh and eight runs were scored on Wally Fridgen's hit to center. There was no further scoring in the inning.

The Winston team broke into the scoring column in their half of the fifth. Charles Poindexter led off with a single to right field. Dick Lackey then beat out an infield hit with Poindexter going to second. After two pop-ups, Pate singled to center and Poindexter scored.

Pinch hitter Nash LaGrande started the seventh inning for the Dormitory team by hitting the first pitch over the shortstop's head.

He advanced to third on catcher Bill Howard's single and scored on a fielder's choice. Howard scored a moment later when Sonny Hale hit to right field.

After Skippy Winstead reached first by being hit by a pitched ball, Jerry Pence knocked in two runs with a Texas Leaguer over second base. The game ended with a long fly to lft by Poindexter.

Both teams will be honored at a banquet tonight in Lenoir Hall.

Line Score:

Winston	000	010	4—5	9	3
Sigma Nu	020	600	x—8	8	0

Batteries: Winston—Berry Pate and Bill Howard; Sig Nu—Bob Page and Brooks Page.

WUNC's Schedule

7—Sketches in Melody
7:30—Vistas of Israel
7:45—Review of the British Weeklies
8—The People Act
8:30—Opera
10—News and Coming Events
10:05—Evening Masterwork
11—Sign Off

Tarheels & Toes

The Tarheels & Toes will have its last meeting today at 5 p.m. All members and interested persons are invited.

BROWNE, KENFIELD, GREEN AND SYLVIA
. . . Browne, the new captain

Sylvia Is Only Netter Graduating This Year

By Vardy Buckalew

Coach John Kenfield returned to his native Chicago this spring after his 26th season as coach of the Carolina tennis team. He left the Southern Conference singles and doubles crowns and team championship resting safely in Chapel Hill. carefully guarded by a team which will be minus only its number one man next season.

For Coach Kenfield it was probably the most successful campaign he has ever experienced. His team won 23 dual matches without defeat and turned the Southern Conference tournament into another one of the team round-robins which he staged several times in Chapel Hill during the spring to determine his starting singles lineup.

The conference tournament was the perfect end to a perfect season. In the singles division, it was all Carolina after the quarterfinals as captain and defending champion Del Sylvia, Herb Browne, Don Thompson, and Tom Bradford all advanced to the semifinals.

In the doubles, one outsider slipped in to prevent the last day of play being completely Carolina. The Duke team of Kess Deimling and Ralph Paris upset Sylvia and Pete Green in the semifinals to gain entrance to the finals against Don Thompson and Tom Bradford.

Browne and Bob Payne were the defending champions as they had set a new record last year by being the first pair of freshmen ever to win the doubles championship. This year they were beaten in the semifinals by Thompson and Bradford who went on to be the first pair of left-handed freshmen ever to win the conference doubles crown.

Sylvia swept through all the competition in the singles division to win his second straight title without a tough match the whole time. He defeated teammate Bradford in the finals in three straight sets for the crown.

For Sylvia it was the end of a long colorful college tennis career. During his three years on the varsity, he racked up two conference singles titles and finished in the runner-up position in his first try. He was beaten by teammate Buddy Agar in the finals as a sophomore.

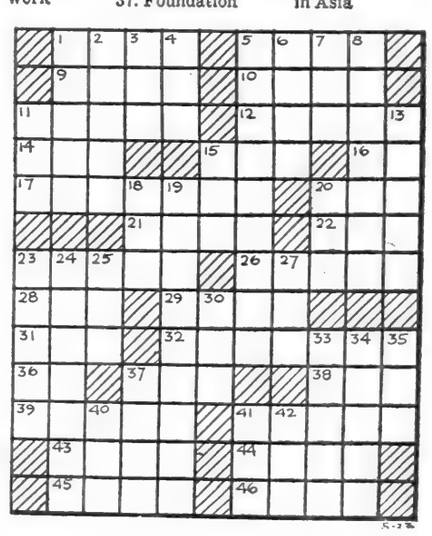
Sylvia played in the number one position for the Tar Heels all three of his years, and was captain of the team for the last two. He is from Richmond, Virginia.

The regular season for the Tar Heels was successful from beginning to end. Way back in the middle of March they opened the season successfully with a 9-0 win over Springfield. This was a preview of things to come.

Out of 23 dual matches, the Tar Heels shut out their opponents eleven times while losing only one match in three others.

The climax of the season, literally and figuratively, came on the second Saturday in May at Princeton. The Tigers were on the Carolina schedule for the first time in many years, and they were riding the crest of a 42-match winning streak stretching over four years. Their last loss had been at the hands of Virginia back in 1949.

The Princeton team was considered one of the top teams in the country and they were planning to claim the national championship after the win over Carolina. However, when the smoke had cleared that afternoon, the Tar Heels were the victors by a 6-2 score, with one match called on account of darkness.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Hamper
5. Exclamation of disgust
9. Nuclei of starch grains
10. Robust
11. Breezy
12. Kind of duck
14. Writing fluid
15. Audience
16. Norse god
17. Cheap cigarets (Brit. slang)
20. East Indian herb
21. Sea weed
22. Ancient
23. Offense
26. Clamor
28. Primary color
29. A footway
31. Poem
32. Sounding, as a goose
36. Cry of pain
37. Defective
38. Female deer
39. Mohammedan bible
41. A mark over Spanish n
43. Malt kiln
44. Toward the lee
45. Colors, as Easter eggs
46. Ventilates

DOWN
1. Oriental country
2. Rings of a chain
3. Ancient
4. Merry
5. Long-tailed birds
6. Natural covering of head
7. Old times (archaic)
8. Beetles
11. Covering of false hair
13. English author
15. Unit of work
18. Knave of clubs (loo)
19. Pachyderms
20. Hawaiian food
23. A hook
24. A coniferous tree
25. Fish
27. Exclamations
30. Help
33. Loafer
34. Protuberances
35. Exclamation (slang)
37. Foundation
40. Beam
41. Chinese pagoda
42. River in Asia

Yesterday's Answer

JUST RECEIVED
CHARCOAL GREY
DENIM SLACKS
Regular Waistband style. Especially priced at $3.95
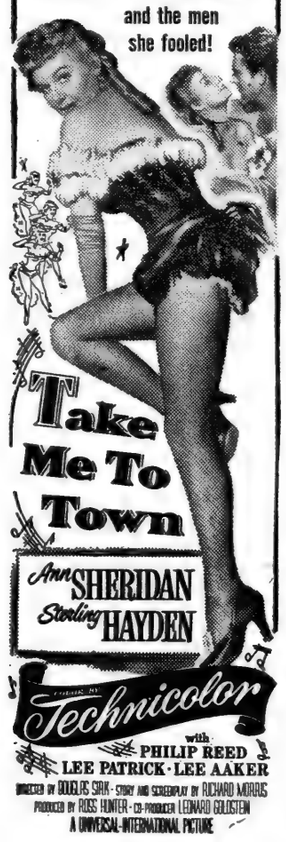
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

THIS BORES US AS MUCH AS IT BORES YOU—
BUT —
COLLEGE OUTLINES
WILL SEE YOU THROUGH —
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

SHIRTS
2.50--3.00
All sizes and collar styles. Broadcloth and Oxford cloth.
We have rearranged our display stock and as a result we have a large selection of shirts without boxes — we are passing this saving on to you.
• Van Heusen • Enro • Manhattan •
HOBBY – JEANS
• DENIM
• 4 COLORS
BABY CORD SLACKS
• BLUE AND BROWN
Town and Campus
BOB and MONK



Carolina
T-O-D-A-Y

DAN DAILEY · JUNE HAVER · DENNIS DAY
— Plus —
CARTOON — NEWS
Comfortably COOL

THE TALL, TALL TALE OF VERMILION O'TOOLE
...the town she tamed and the men she fooled!

— PLUS —
CARTOON — SCREENLINER
NOW PLAYING
Varsity

David Reid, Norris Bell Win Debate Award

David Reid and Norris Bell were awarded trophies last night at the Debate Council Banquet.

Reason for the awards was that Cobb Dormitory last week talked their way to top honors in the third annual intra-mural debate tournament.

Reid and Bell, of Cobb, defeated TEP fraternity and the Di Senate in debating. The topic was "Resolved: That the President of the United States Should be Elected by a Direct Vote of the People."

Representing the Di Senate affirmative were Joel Fleishman and Gerald Parker. Marc Gittleman and Marshall Waldman debated the negative side for TEP.

The winner was determined on a point basis, with the judges considering logic of argument, approach to the subject, refutation and presentation.

Cobb Dorm will receive a large trophy and it will remain in their possession for one year. Any organization winning the trophy three years in succession keeps it permanently.

Co-chairmen of the tournament, Bill Zuckerman and Ken Myers said they regretted the fact that more organizations didn't enter the contest. They extended an open invitation to everyone to come out for the debate team next year.

"Next to the Navy, I don't know of any other organization that travels so much," said debater Myers. "We've seen just about every campus on the east coast and plan a trip to England possibly next year."

The Debate Council is subsidized by the student Legislature from student fees.

The team attended three tournaments this year and debated over 60 schools, including Yale, West Point, Princeton, George Washington, Florida, Miami, Emory and Duke.

Other members of the debate team this year include Al Levine, Bruce Marger, Beverly Webb, Tom Neal, Derith Alexander, Charlotte Davis and Bob Clampitt.

Webb has been elected president of the group for next year.

Alumni Drive Deadline Will Be Today

The deadline for campus organizations to turn in final results in the alumni membership drive is today, chairman Heywood Washburn said yesterday.

Committee members should contact Washburn between 7 and 8 o'clock tonight at the Sigma Chi house.

The halfway mark has been reached towards a goal of 600. Washburn said that last year's class secured over 550 members.

Seniors will be given an additional opportunity to join the Alumni Association at most senior activities between now and commencement.

Membership cost is $1 and includes a subscription to the Alumni Review. After graduation membership costs $3.

THE REV. PAUL UBINGER, (L), 60, Pittsburgh, Pa., and the Rev. William Westhoven, 57, Liberty Center, Ohio, arrive at Idlewild Airport in New York from Paris. Released from imprisonment by the Chinese Communists, the two Roman Catholic priests said the Red Chinese government's greatest fear is that the Chinese people will "have contact" with Americans. They told of unfair trials and indignities imposed on them by their captors.—NEA Telephoto.

WILMA ENGLAND, 8, RICHMOND, Calif., feeds the as yet unnamed baby camel that arrived in San Francisco at the Fleishhacker Zoo two days ago. The 75-pound youngster (the camel, that is), has to be bottle fed because his mother, Meanie, killed her last two babies by kneeling on them.—NEA Telephoto.

Campus Briefs

Card Board

The person now in possession of brushes and supplies belonging to the Cardboard is requested to return them to the office in Smith basement.

Young Adult Group

The Young Adult Group of the Methodist Church will meet tonight at 7:30 at the church. Rev. W. M. Howard will speak on "A General Approach to the Study of the New Testament."

Men's Faculty Club

Mr. Milner, associate director of the University's Extension Division, will talk on the explosive situation in Iran before the Men's Faculty Club luncheon at the Carolina Inn ballroom this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Navy Officers

A Naval Recruiting Officer will be on campus today to talk with seniors interested in the Navy Department's Officer Candidate Program.

Contact the Placement Office, 204 Gardner, if you are desirous of arranging an interview.

French Supper Club

The French Supper Club will meet tonight at 6 o'clock in the upstairs dining hall of Lenoir.

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

PICKARD ROOFING CO. BUILDing supplies, hardware, and paint. Free estimates on old and new work. Main street Carrboro. Phone 9-5693. (chg 1x1)

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

FOR SALE 6B

1949 FORD CUSTOM - CLUB Coupe. Radio and Heater. Can be seen at 44 D Glen Lennox after 5 p.m. on weekdays, and after 1 p.m. on Saturday, or call 9-6367. (chg 1x1)

1951 MORRIS-MINOR. EXCELlent condition, new tires and battery. 30 miles to the gallon. Call 7-7397 in Durham after 6 p.m. (chg 1x1)

SMALL BED FOR CHILD. ⅔ OF original price, spring and mattress. Almost brand new. See Edison Rivera, 122 Connor Dorm.(1-c8019-2)

EMPLOYMENT WANTED 5

OPPORTUNITY TO SAVE $300—$600 during summer months working on circulation promotion program with Dunn & Bradstreet rated Southern concern. Journalism and Advertising students especially welcome. Minimum age men 18; women 21. Must travel and be able to drive. Transportation furnished, all expenses advanced. Write John Evans, Box 2070, Birmingham, Ala., for details; giving three references, date, place available to begin work. chg 1x2

WANTED 24

ROOMERS TO SHARE EXPENSES in small air-conditioned home four blocks from university. See Rick Faw, 305 Lewis Dormitory any evening this week. (1-8021-1)

WANTED TO BUY

USED FURNITURE AND RUG, Call 9-8656 after 5 p.m. (chg. 1x1)

WANTED TO BUY 24A

1947 or 1948 MODEL JEEP OR any other earlier model in good condition. Phone 95665 or see Dick O'Neal, 3 Justice St. 1-c8020-6

Harrison Says Nation Looks To B A Schools For Leaders

(Continued from page 1)

Following the two principal addresses a portrait of Dudley DeWitt Carroll, former Dean and founder of the School of Business Administration (formerly the School of Commerce) for whom Carroll Hall is named, was unveiled by Chancellor Robert B. House. The portrait was a gift of friends and former students.

Chancellor House introduced the principal speakers.

Last night Thomas B. McCabe, president, Scott Paper Company, Chester, Pa., and Dean Donald K. Davis of the Graduate School of Business Administration, Harvard University, spoke.

In his address Webb paid tribute to the leadership of former Dean Carroll, Governor Gardner and members of the Hanes family, for whom the new facilities are named, to Lindsay C. Warren, Comptroller General of the United States, a product of the University whose action, Webb said, "has improved governmental administration and without whose vision a tremendous step forward would still be but a vision of the future."

The nation needs many such men, Webb asserted, adding that "the opportunity for service in this field is greater than any other I know.

"Effective governmental administration must draw on the University Business School for those graduates who have gone out into business and achieved success, and then have come into governmental positions of great power and influence," he said.

President Gray followed this pattern, he pointed out, and rendered far-sighted and distinguished public service as Secretary of the Army.

Harrison called for "university trained representatives of industry with a greater understanding of the human problem," declaring that it is here that the schools of business administration can be most effective.

One of the chief problems for many American industries, he asserted, is the development of skills to deal with organized labor .

"It is important that the young men and women attending this school, who are the potential leaders of tomorrow, should be given an objective presentation of the great contribution which American trade unions have made and are continuing to make in the development of and the preservation and extension of democracy in this country and throughout the world.

The degree to which the economy of North Carolina moves forward in the years to come depends in large measure, he said, upon the degree of statesmanship, cooperation and mutual goodwill displayed by the leaders of industry, labor and education in working toward common goals.

Caldwell Came South To Live

(Continued from page 1)

footsteps, is a junior at Cornell.

The professor has written two informative and widely - read books. "Hellenic Conceptions of Peace" was written at Columbia in 1919 and "The Ancient World" was finished and published in 1937. His translation of "Thebes" appeared in "Popular History of the World" after four years at Carolina.

Last week Dr. Caldwell left his classes for a few days to go to Maine, where he was awarded the Drummond Medal for distinguished service in the Grand Lodge of Men. He was Grand Master of the Masons in North Carolina in 1951, past master of the University Lodge, and past high priest of Durham Royal Arts Missions.

Through the years of his Carolina life he has been active in other organizations. He is a fellow of Commission for Relief in Belgium Educational Foundation, a member of the King's County Committee of the Progressive Party.

Dr. Caldwell helped to organize the Archaeological Society of North Carolina and was president of this society for three years. He is a member of the American History Association, the Classical Association, and The American Philological Association.

For Graduation . . .

. GIVE POETRY

Nobody has such a wide choice of good poetry as the Intimate Bookshop. For example, here are three gift subbestions:

Sonnets from the Portuguesse— Elizabeth Barrett Browning's immortal love poems. ——— $1.00

With All My Love— Torrid, but modern, Frank Kimball's book makes a fine graduation gift ——— $3.00

Collected, T. S. Eliot— No finer graduation gift could be found for the sophisticate — $6.00

Girt-Wrapping Is Free At

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

MILTON SAYS—

Thar's Gold In These Y'ere Hills — But Not As Much Since My Commencement Sale Started as There Was Before That Memorable Sale.

In other words business has been just 'ducky.' And whereas so many of the items are developing a slightly 'picked-over' look . . . .

We have decided to add some new stock items for the benefit of those who couldn't get in last week . . . . and thus carry on until MONDAY, JUNE 1. With Tarheel blessings, natcherly . . .

Check These And Then Check Your Check-book

Denim Pants with elastic waistband—Now 3.49
Our Genuine natural crepe soled Cordovan Shoes, never before put on sale, $25.00 value ——— 15.99
Assorted styles Cordovan Shoes, values to 23.00, Now ——— 10.99
$.85 Socks, nationally advertised, Now 3 prs. for ——— 1.29
$24.50 Cotton Cord Sanforized Suits, reduced from 24.50 to ——— 19.99
Just received a few more of Hasepl Baby Blue Cotton Cord Suits, including some extra longs ——— 24.50
Sizeable reductions on year round and Summer Apparel
Large group of Summer Pants—sizes 27-32 —Drastically Reduced
$5.00 Dress Shirts Reduced to ——— 2.99
Our famous 'Tweka of Holland' Polo Shirts, $5.00 value, reduced to ——— 2.99

Milton's Clothing Cupboard

Summer Employed ...Summer Not

OR . . . Before You Can Whistle While You Work, You've Got to Get on the Payroll

Once there was a Junior who had procrastinated himself into a Bleak Outlook. Two weeks from the end of the Term, he had no Summer Job lined up, no Prospects, no Funds.

Browsing through "Help Wanted", his eye hit a High Octane Item. To wit "Wanted: college man of intelligence, initiative and good appearance to accompany family to Europe this summer and drive car. All expenses, reasonable salary, ample free time."

"Eureka!" our Boy breathed, "this is Indubitably It! I'll write 'em tonight." He sank back, Spellbound. Suddenly, however, he heard a Tiny Voice, speaking from within his Medulla oblongata. "Look, Junior," it said, "what about all the guys who have written already?"

"Okay, Okay," said our Hero, "I'll write right now!"

"Write, schmite?" continued the Tiny Voice. "Drag your hulking Frame out of that chair fast, and down to the Western Union office. The ad specifies Intelligence and Initiative—you'll show both by applying by Telegram, and be Number One Man."

He did—and he was. Talk about a Bon Voyage!

Whether you're Setting Up a Summer Stint or Prospecting for a Permanent Position, get the jump on Competition, use Telegrams to schedule appointments, outline your Talents, reach the Man on the Hiring Line ahead of the Mob. Businessmen use Telegrams for many Practical Purposes. They'll respect your judgment in Doing the Same.

North Columbia Ave. Telephone 2681

Campus capers call for Coke

The accent's on hi-jinks at the Winter Carnival and a happy part of the occasion is refreshment... with delicious ice-cold Coca-Cola.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

Durham Coca-Cola Bottling Company

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark.

© 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

C R C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Fair and hot. Yesterday's high, 97, low, 70.

The Daily Tar Heel

OTHERS
The German viewpoint is on page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 159 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. WEDNESDAY, MAY 27, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

From Student To Administrator Easy Journey For Roy Holsten

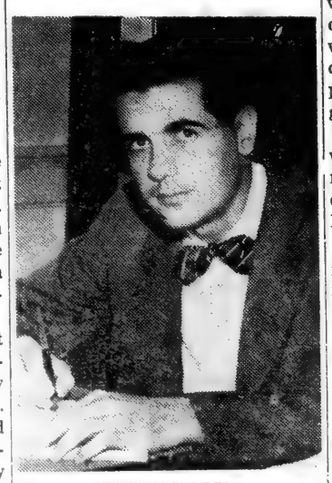
By Louis Kraar

There's a friendly guy in South Building who likes to talk with students on everything from golf to girl friends—Roy Holsten, assistant dean of students.

The affable adviser was a Carolina student himself just three years ago. And he still remembers sitting on the students' side of the desk in the dean of students office, as regulars on South Building steps will tell you.

"I enjoy having students come up just to smoke a cigaret and talk. They don't necessarily have to have a problem," Roy remarked the other day. (Assistant Dean Holsten is known simply as "Roy" to most students after a couple of visits.)

Talking with and helping Carolina students is nothing new for the assistant dean, but rather a carryover from an active student career. Roy served on the Student Council, headed the Men's Council, worked as a Daily Tar Heel sports staffer and lived an active academic and fraternity life.



Roy Holsten originally came from Ridgewood, New Jersey, but is a truly transplanted Tar Heel. After a year and a half stint in the Navy, he decided on a college education in the state of North Carolina, without definitely picking the school.

He seems to enjoy talking about how he finally decided on Carolina on that day in 1946 shortly after his discharge from service. "I was over at Duke," explained Roy, "Where I had just about decided to go to school. It was my first time in the state. I went to see the admissions director there, but he wasn't in." After waiting around awhile, he decided to visit Chapel Hill.

Duke was ruled out that very day. "When I came over that day, everyone was so friendly and helpful that I could tell that this was the place for me."

Still an ardent sports fan, Roy remembers working on the sports staff of the paper. His love for sports is another carry over into administrative Carolina life. "I go to just about all of Carolina's games—when I have time," said the counselor who rarely has much spare time.

Roy received his A.B. in English in 1950. "I majored in English because it was suggested by several prospective employers." Shortly afterwards, he married a Carolina coed, Liddybet Myatt.

ROY HOLSTEN

He met her one weekend "on a blind date to one of the German dances." Roy, a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, was president of the German Club that year, and his date and future wife Liddybet, was a Pi Phi.

After graduation, the Holstens went to Greensboro. Roy took the position of assistant employment manager at the Vick Chemical Company. A year later, he was employment manager and editor of the company newspaper.

A phone call from Chapel Hill one day brought him back to talk about a permanent place at Carolina. "We always talked of coming back to Carolina some day, but I never realized we would be able to so soon," said Roy.

As assistant dean of students, he works closely with Fred Weaver, dean of students. He acts as adviser to all student activities, counsels students on individual problems and works with faculty groups on basic student problems.

Roy spends his little spare time with his family and two hobbies, music and sports. He's got two children, two-year-old Roy, and Bruce, four months old.

Jazz music is one of his many musical interests. "I had about 3,500 records at one time. Just the other day, little Roy broke about a hundred of them though. You never know what to expect from him next," Roy said with a smile.

From the appearance of this tall adviser's active schedule, it seems that he is back at Carolina even nearer the heart of the University —and the students.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — The United States yesterday ordered a Romanian diplomat kicked out for trying to blackmail an American who risked the lives of his two sons by refusing to spy for the Communists. The State Department told the Romanian legation to arrange "immediate departure" for Christache Zambeti, first secretary of the legation.

★

SEOUL, Korea—President Syngman Rhee indicated yesterday the South Korean government might compicante the snarled truce talks by boycotting the Panmunjom sessions indefinitely. Rhee called his cabinet to an extraordinary three hour and 45-minute session to discuss "certain measures" in connection with the recessed negotiations.

•

LONDON — The royal standard flew from Buckingham Palace yesterday, announcing Queen Elizabeth was back in a London which has been transformed into a Mardi Gras city. With the coronation exactly one week away, the excitement mounted as Elizabeth made another visit to Westminister Abbey and elegant little pages practiced carrying coronets.

★

WASHINGTON—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey predicted today that public interest whipped up by the long "tidelands" fight will help put across a measure to give the nation's schools the revenue from off-shore oil lands retained by the federal government. The Minnesota Democrat said he is optimistic about the chances for Senate approval of the "oil for education" proposal on the second try.

French Play Opens Tonight In GM Lounge

Graham Memorial's main lounge will take on a continental glow tonight at 8:30 with the presentation of "Les Precieuses Ridicules," a French comedy.

The play is being presented by Le Petit Theatre Francais. It is a Moliere farce, which was the comedien's first Parisian success. It will be given arena style with bright colored costuming and informal staging. It will also be presented tomorrow night.

Henriette Rhyne and Noma Flint will play in the leading roles. Miss Rhyne is a native of Dijon, France. Miss Flint studied French at the Middlebury School of Languages in Vermont.

Charles Hadley, Statesville, will play the male lead. Hadley is a dramatic art major and has studied in France.

The Play is a long one-act satirizing an over-refined kind of spoken and literary French that was in vogue during the first half of the seventeenth century. Under the guise of a reform movement, this high society language was known as "preciosity."

For anyone having any understading of French, the language of the play will probably provide many amusing twists of dialogue.

Although no admission will be charged, a collection will be taken up during the evening to help cover expenses.

Visit Agreement Is In Final Round

Student leaders put the revised coed visiting agreement before the administration yesterday afternoon and were told that a yes or no would be given in the next few days.

The agreement, in effect, removes some contradictions from the catalog and Woman's Handbook rules concerning coed visiting and drinking in fraternity houses.

Yesterday's meeting was the first formal presentation of a unified student approved plan. The administration talked the question over with the student representatives and said they would make the decision in a few days.

A report from the Faculty Committee on Fraternities and Sororities is expected shortly. With the recommendations of this group, the rest of the administration will consider the problem.

The agreement submitted yesterday was the revised one passed by the Inter-Fraternity Council and other student groups. It includes several administration-suggested changes.

The new proposal is the result of student work over the last few years. It emphasizes self-restraint by men and women in respect to fraternity drinking.

The new agreement, if adopted by the University, would tend to maintain similar visiting rules for coeds and imports and establish advisory boards for fraternity houses. The IFC Court would enforce visiting rules, and individual violators would be tried by the appropriate campus court.

If passed, the agreement would put the following rules in effect:

1. Each fraternity shall have available for assistance and counseling regarding the entertainment of women and other house matters a visiting committee comprised of not less than three adult non-student women. It shall be the responsibility of the members of the committee to visit the fraternity regularly and to be available for advising and serving as hostesses at fraternity functions.

2. There shall be a special committee called the Visiting Advisory Committee composed of seven members representing fraternity interested areas of the University community. This committee will meet regularly to discuss fraternity social activities and shall be available for counseling and assistance to fraternities, their advisers and the visiting committees. They will approve all members of the visiting committee.

3. Women will not be permitted to visit in fraternity houses before 11 a.m. and after the following hours: 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday; 1 a.m. on Friday; 2 a.m. on Saturday and 12 p.m. on Sunday. The IFC may extend visiting hours one hour on four weekends per year. These dates are to be recorded at the beginning of each year in the office of the dean of students and will apply to all fraternities.

4. The IFC Court will consider all violations of this agreement involving fraternities as a group, and the Men's Council will consider individual violations.

5. Each fraternity is required to post a $50 bond prior to becoming eligible for the visiting of women in the house.

6. This agreement is in effect on the first day of each semester through the last day of classes.

7. Chapters desiring to entertain women during the Summer sessions must file a request with the IFC during the Spring term immediately preceding the Summer session.

8. The IFC is charged with the responsibility for the administration and the renegotiation of this agreement.

Judge Parker Says Societies Train Leaders

By J. D. Wright

"It was in the literary societies that such men as Gardner, Stacy, Alderman and Vance received their training, while here at UNC, which was to make them great leaders in the life of the state," Federal Judge and alumnus John J. Parker, told the Dialectic Senate and Philanthropic Assembly last night.

Judge Parker was presented the fifth annual Di-Phi Award for outstanding service to the University, the state and the nation. Former recipients of the award are Frank P. Graham, John Motley Morehead, Albert Coates and Archibald Henderson.

Judge Parker became a member of the Dialectic Senate 50 years ago, and served one term as its president during his senior year. He returned as one of the speakers at the inter-society banquet at the commencement in 1913. Since that time he has been interested in the societies' welfare.

"The one thing the Di and Phi Societies have stood for above all else in the life of the University is the development of leadership," Judge Parker said. "And since we have recently emerged from the simple life of an agricultural state into a highly developed industrial community, never has the need been greater for the development of such leadership.

"What the civilization of the world will be for centuries to come depends upon the leadership that America furnishes in the current crisis," Judge Parker told the group. "What that leadership will be depends in large measure upon our educational institutions and societies such as this which are devoting themselves to training our young men for leadership in their communities and in the world."

Also at the banquet, Dr. Robert Lincoln of the Romance Languages Department was presented the annual Di Faculty Achievement Award for his work in bettering student-faculty relations and his active interest in student affairs.

Other awards presented were to Edward M. Smith, Di Senator, for loyalty and service to the society; Louis Brumfield, Phi Assembly, the Phi's outstanding freshman award; Ham Horton, Phi Assembly, outstanding debater of the Phi, and Sol Cherry, outstanding senior member of the Phi.

Frosh Might Have To Live In Basements

Next year's increased enrollment may mean that a number of freshmen, particularly those who enroll late, will have to live in dormitory basements.

"Cobb is the one we will probably use," Housing Officer James E. Wadsworth said yesterday.

Last fall a number of freshman students had to live in dormitory basements for the first part of the quarter.

Wadsworth said, "There will be no three-man rooms. More students would be inconvenienced than helped by setting up three-man rooms."

You're Invited To Be On TV!

Carolina students have a chance this morning to appear on the television show being filmed here by appearing on South Building steps at 8:45.

As many students as possible are needed for this scene, CBS television representatives said yesterday.

Students in the scene will be excused from the first five minutes of class, the Dean of Students office said.

Godfrey Goes West For Summer Teaching

Dr. James L. Godfrey, professor in the History Department, is going to teach history in the Summer session of the University of Missouri at Columbia, Mo.

40 Will Receive Commissions At Commencement Ceremony

Lt. Colonel Jesse J. Moorhead, Professor of Air Science and Tactics announced yesterday that 40 Carolina seniors will receive commissions at joint NROTC and AF ROTC commissioning ceremonies at Commencement.

The graduating seniors, all advanced cadets in the AF ROTC program at Carolina, include Curtis T. Allen, Kenneth G. Anderson, and Joseph H. Hurd of Durham; Keith R. Biggers, John S. Cramer, Lloyd B. Moon, Alan R. Perry, and Herbert R. Spaugh of Charlotte.

Christian R. Bruning, Robert W. Osborne, Hal C. Sigman and Charles A. Collins of Greensboro; John L. Booker and Clarence Kelly of Plymouth.

John A. Cates and Bobby R. Scarlette of Hillsboro; Thomas D. Johnson, and Thomas M. Wooten, of Fayetteville, Needham B. Correll and James E. Turner of Winston-Salem; Avery M. Cooke and Jacob H. Froelich of High Point.

Frank A. Daniels and Nelson T. Fletcher of Raleigh; Solomon G. Cherry, Roxobel; Elisha L. Bryan, Goldsboro, John N. Fountain, Fountain, Charles L. Haywood, Chapel Hill, William L. Hall, Wilmington, Frank L. Hood, Asheville, Robert D. Lingerfield, Gastonia, Lyman B. McLawhon, Kinston, Robert P. Midgett, Elizabeth City, and Alva W. Stewart, Marshville.

Douglas Warren Ayres, White Sulphur Springs, Va., Theodore G. Frankel, Atlanta, William L. Harper, Bethesda, Md., Alvin B. Samuel, Paragould, Ark., Thomas A. Sully, Charlottesville, Va., and Robert T. Wallace, Baltimore, Md., are graduating students who have come to Carolina from other states.

Colonel Moorhead also said yesterday that 32 of the 40 cadets who will be commissioned in June ceremonies will report for a tour of active duty with the Air Force a short while after they receive their commissions. The normal tour of duty for AF ROTC graduates is two years. Those electing to apply for flight training have an active duty of three years including their flight training.

The young Air Force officers who will begin active Air Force careers following commissioning in June include Allen, Anderson, Biggers, Booker, Bruning, Bryan, Cherry, Collins, Cooke, Correll, Cramer, Daniels, Fletcher, Fountain, Frankel, Froelich, Haywood, Hood, Johnston, Kelly, Lingerfeldt, Midgett, Moon, Perry, Samuel, Scarlette, Sigman, Spaugh, Turner, Wallace and Wooten.

Seven other seniors, who will graduate in June, will be commissioned at the conclusion of a four week summer camp session. They are, James A. Bell and Eugene D. Foushee, Greensboro, Benjamin E. James, Jacksonville, Fla., William L. McCord, Chapel Hill, William T. Milburn, Winston-Salem, Henry T. Sisk, Wilmington and John J. Pazdan, Trenton, N. J.

In addition to the June graduates, the AF ROTC unit at Chapel Hill will commission 15 students who will graduate in July. The 15 include, Bobby Deal, Rockingham, John H. Debnam, Wilmington, Ormond H. Dunphey, Merchantville, N. J., Lewis A. Ennis, Durham, Malcolm P. Hoover, Pineville, Thomas G. Hopkins, Reidsville, Robert C. Ingram, Chapel Hill, Jerry Kefalas, Wilmington, Bill S. Lester, Greensboro, James M. Peerson, Burlington, Ronald S. Prince, Atlanta, Ga., Lewis S. Simon, Charlotte, Thomas W. Thomas, Greensboro, Bryan T. Watlington, Reidsville and Johnny R. Way, Winston-Salem.

Student Survey

Some 130 students who still have not turned in their forms in connection with an educational survey being taken for the federal government by the University, are requested to do so.

The forms should be turned in to Charlie Bernard at the Admissions Office, second floor South Building.

Sunday Is Last Day Of WUNC

By Richard Creed

WUNC, Carolina's first campus station, will conclude its first season of operation this Sunday.

Because its staff is composed of students, the "voice of Carolina" will be silent during the Summer months. Programs will be resumed late in September, when the Fall Semester is under way.

"It is most unfortunate that we must go off the air this Summer," said Earl Wynn, director of the Cmomunications Center. "Actually, our audience includes many more residents of the Durham-Raleigh-Chapel Hill area than it does students," he commented.

WUNC first reached the ears of central North Carolinians on November 3, 1952, after a week of "dummy" broadcasts, checking and rechecking, and the task of adjusting the staff to the requisites of a campus station. At first the plans were for WUNC to broadcast 5 days a week, 2 hours a day. But the staff was reluctant to allow a lapse in broadcasting over the weekend which they thought would cause their audience to "forget" WUNC until about the middle of the next week. So the plans were changed, and the FM station now broadcasts 7 days a week, 4 hours a day.

Seniors in the radio school for the last few years had wanted to set up a campus station. Through the combined efforts of the Communications Center, the faculty of the Department of Radio and the student staff, WUNC was assigned its frequency by the Federal Communications Commission last Summer.

A statement of the policy of WUNC was presented to the Faculty Committee on Communications last October. The policy provides, among other things, that "programs will be prepared or accepted for broadcast only if such programs reflect the aims of the University of North Carolina in disseminating knowledge and culture to ever-widening circles of the people of the State. 'The University Station' — WUNC must mean to its audience a broadcasting service representative of a

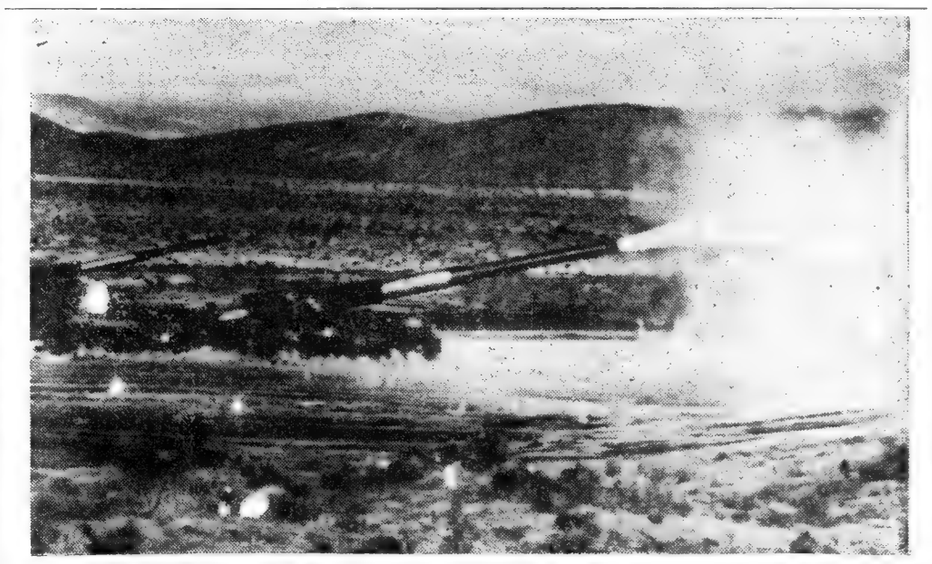
(See WUNC, page 4)

Kear Requests Bill Clearing

All outstanding bills and accounts should be cleared before summer vacation, Harry Kear, Student Activities Fund auditor advised campus organization treasurers yesterday.

Bills and accounts must be brought up to date so that Kear's office can close out the year's work and prepare the academic year's financial statement for student organizations.

Band Chooses Officers For Coming Year



The University Band elected officers for the coming year at its annual business meeting last week.

Elected were president Jim Headlee, Asheville, vice-president, Ken Pruitt, Winston-Salem, secretary-treasurer Lewis Mack, Mooresville, publicity manager Rollie Tillman, Lake Wales, Fla., business manager Lloyd Farror, Clemson, S. C., assistant business manager Lee Bostian, Raleigh.

Librarians Otto Henry, Asheville, and Dan Swaim, Winston-Salem, Band Notes editor Peggy Needham, New Bern, University Club representative Ken Pruitt, Winston-Salem.

In recognition of three years of service in the University marching and concert bands, gold band keys were presented to Lee Bostian, Raleigh, Lloyd Bostian, Raleigh, Charles Cronham, East Orange, N. J., Bob Curtiss, Marian, David Gaddy, Albemarle, Don Hamilton, Fairfield, Conn., Jim Headlee, Asheville.

Lewis Mack, Mooresville, Gilbert Marsh, Thomasville, Martha Snow, Charlottesville, Va., Wesley Thompson, Winston-Salem, Joel Watkins, Warren, Ark., Sue Wilkins, Sanford, Joseph Wood, Chapel Hill.

THIS IS THE ARMY'S new 280 mm cannon as it fired a test round in Frenchmans Flat, Nev., and later fired the real McCoy, the first atomic artillery shell ever to be fired. The shell exploded with a violence equal to that of 15-thousand tons of TNT. It was recalled that the first atomic bombs dropped on Japan were not much more powerful than this shell. About 31-hundred officers and men watched the test from trenches about five-thousand yards from the target area.—NEA Telephoto.

End In Sight

Friday morning's Daily Tar Heel will be the last for Spring Quarter. Publication will be resumed Fall Semester.

Copy for Friday's paper must observe the usual deadlines: news by 3 p.m. Thursday and editorial by 3 p.m. today.

There will be a Summer Tar Heel published on Tuesday and Friday each week during the first session.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

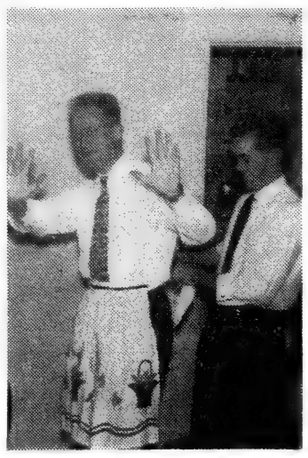
Editor ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor JOHN JAMISON

Chapel Hill Abroad

Beginning today, The Daily Tar Heel is running several letters from members of the German student team which recently returned home after spending two quarters here.

The impressions our visitors received are, we think, accurate. Chapel Hill is a rather indulgent existence, easy paced—and with time for more study; the students and professors are a gregarious crew and the atmosphere is one of informality.

As the letters testify, Chapel Hill has had some keen observers in its midst. To those at home, these impressions will mean America. We hope they're not disappointed.



As Others See Us

—Otto H. Vehrenkamp—

Dean Dean and Mrs. Weaver:

This morning the photos were forwarded to me from home. Probably you have learned already from the address that I am back 'home' in Gottingen.

I want to thank you straight away, otherwise it might take a couple of weeks until I settle down again. Again I got plenty of fun out of them (photos). Marcha the 'smiling beauty', (Martha has not returned to Gottingen, not yet, of course. She had to undergo a slight operation. We all hope to see her soon), then Helmuth, the glamour boy, Hans and me, the kitchen servants, Eberhardt the big businessman. My special thanks for the two photos of you and little Frances (wasn't that her name?) You know that is my greatest crux: I forget names too easily.

Otto pins the apron on Hans in Dean Weaver's kitchen.

It has been four weeks now since I arrived in Germany again, it seems much longer. I found it not easy to readjust myself to our situation: Everything was so much smaller, so many people crowded together. The Russians were so close again, America and all the dear friends so far away.

I do not know to how many people and how often I talked about your country to all my friends, to my old school, to everybody who has some relatives over there.

Then on May 4th I came back to Gottingen: At first I did not like it at all, everybody is so serious here, so bent on working. But by and by I settle down and readjust myself with the old familiar atmosphere.

I met Dr. Hartmann. He is very busy in his work—and family. His little boy (then a baby of two months) has grown up to be a little rascal of 10 months. Mrs. Hartmann is a nice and dear person. I wish you could meet her. Helmuth and Hans are also back in Gottingen, both are well.

Very often I am thinking of Chapel Hill. The more time passes on, the more our visit to your country draws back into the past the more I am appreciating the importance of this experience. It was, indeed, the greatest experience I have had up to now. Looking back the odd little troubles and criticisms step back into a gray nothing, and memory puts the important and interesting experiences clear into the foreground. Everything becomes clearer and clearer. One thing especially,—the knowledge we have some dear friends over there,—the knowledge also that over there is a country with people like we are, with her problems and troubles. I am grateful to everybody who made this experience possible for me and only hope that one day I may return to your country, again as a visitor or as a would-be citizen—who can tell that now.

Up to now we have not done anything as a team. People move slowly in Europe. Probably we'll have a little party this week end; it might be then that we cook up something. On June 2nd we shall have a meeting with Dr. Krause and Mr. Healy (the newly appointed exchange officer in Hannover). We do not know yet what is going to happen, then, but probably we shall not be able to avoid to tell Herr Krause a thing or two.

Now what is going on at Carolina. By the way I was very glad to receive those UNC reports, whoever sent it to me—many thanks.

With great expectation I am awaiting the year book, because it will probably include everything that was important and dear to us.

I would be interested in the following questions and would be glad if you could answer them:

How much are the salaries of teachers in elementary—,high schools, of lecturers and professors at an average university? What has become out of the decision of the Supreme Court on segregation? How is Bob Gorham as President? How are you getting along without NSA? And anything new in Carolina?

Now for today all the best and good luck for you and Carolina.

With best wishes
Otto

Lysistrata

It is indeed fitting that the occasion of the dedication of the Forest Theater to Frederick Henry Koch, founder of the Carolina Playmakers, should be accompanied by the handsome and entertaining prdouction of "Lysistrata." It is always an impressive event when the Carolina Playmakers and the magnificent setting of the Forest Theater combine to produce a thoroughly satisfying evening of theater.

A classic in itself, "Lysistrata" was given a production worthy of it, with a professional competence and a bouyant enthusiasm. Under the able and sentient direction of Foster Fitz-Simons the play moved at a brisk tempo, gathering momentum along the way. The editing of the script was well done, retaining without offense the essential ribaldry of the situation. The fine mock-classic set, designed by Sydney Litwack, gave humor and proportion to the production and provided ample space at different levels for movement and mass. The costumes were gaudy and gay, fitting in with the high spirits of the performance.

In the title role Louise Lamont gave a splendid performance, bringing both dignity and humor to the part with well modulated variety. Mary Helen Crain as the sprightly Myrrhina was delightful and beguiling, while Jim Pritchett played her frustrated husband with a robust relish. Joanne San Antonio was competent in the role of Kalonika. As the Spartan leader, Lampito, Frances O'Neal gave a highly colorful performance.

Edgar Daniels, as President of the Athenian Senate, suffered indignity with classic restraint. Marion Fitz-Simmons' characterization of the Leader of the Old Women was drawn with high humor, while the women themselves gave a credible impression of aniiity and caroused about the stage with energetic enthusiasm and reckless abandon.

One could wish that the Old Men had been more convincing and less obviously natives of the Southern United States rather than the southern part of Greece. The chorus of Athenian women was not only characterized by a good collective performance, but is to be commended for its consistent comeliness (an essential which has been sometimes neglected in Playmaker choruses).

The Spartans, the Thebans, and the "virtuous" Corinthians were attractive additions, although one fears that the roles were somewhat more precious than Aristophones intended. The other players were adequate, with Polydorus' plea for "Anybody! Anybody!" one of the high points of the play.

One could find little fault with the technical aspects of this production of "Lysistrata." Donald Treat's lighting was good, although the demands of the set allowed small opportunity for subtleties. Glen Haydon's music, composed for the 1936 production, was well suited to the drama, but unfortunately so inaudible as to be often inconsequential to the over-all staging. Such a production, as the playbill so graphically demonstrates, depends on the close cooperation of a large and bulky production staff. The many departments and persons who contributed to the success of "Lysistrata" are to be complimented for the smoothness with which they combined their resources and energy to produce a dramatic entity.

The production as a whole had a kinetic unity which makes it difficult to select individual scenes for comment. The finale of the play, however, deserves special mention in that technically it was a masterful job. For the last minute of the play the stage turned into a vast panorama of movement, color, and noise as the bacchanal gets under way. With forty-six players on the stage, all in motion, each in his individual orbit, the effect was magnificent and closed the performance not with a whimper but a bang. —P.T.

'Baaaa'

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . . " Hipporotis: circa 500 B.C.)

THE HORSE was barking military commands while he marched and counter-marched on the greensward by Hill and Person Halls. Somewhere in Hill, a music student was giving Mendelssohn's Wedding March a workout on a piano.

I wondered what was going on?

"I love martial music," The Horse chittered. "You've heard of the Marine Monkey Drill? Wait until you focus on my Horse-Marine Drill! Two!—faw!—siss!—eight! Two—faw!—siss!—eight!"

Wait a minute, wait a minute! Why not 'One, two, three, four?'

"With four legs, you double the count," The Horse snapped.

I didn't know about that. But he was confused about the music. Mendelssohn's was "marital", not martial. War-music was "martial", not marital. There was a great difference.

"We'll discuss that after you've been married," The Horse sneered. "Now, watch this, Roger: if you know the intricacies of Marine Monkey Drill?"

Of course I did. One platoon or squad went one way, while another platoon or squad went another way, in perfect cadence; and they re-met to correctly barked commands back in original formation, still marching. But The Horse didn't have two squads.

"Oh, no?" The Horse glared. He barked, as he marched forward, "Left Squad, column left! Right Squad, column right! Hep, hep, hep, haw! Hep, hep, hep, haw!"

I stared fascinated, as his portside legs marched away to his left and his starboard leg marched away to his right. The Horse himself sank slowly to almost a full-split while his legs marched away in perfect cadence.

"To the rear, 'harch!'" The Horse bawled, and his legs obediently did one-eighties, and he came slowly erect again and marched off a bit, only to come parading back. "Platoons, halt!"

I was overcome with admiration, he was so military. As usual, though, The Horse overdid it.

"Dismiss'!" he barked to his platoons; and crashed heavily to the ground when his legs took off in various directions. "Oh, well," he chittered, "might as well rest a while."

Had The Horse had much military service?

He shrugged. "War Won, I signed up in the Hay-viation Section, Signal Corps. And to my surprise, I found myself flying. War Two, I signed up in the Hair Corps; and to my surprise, I found myself flying. I figured all we'd do is eat hay in the Hayviation Section; and that the Hair Corps was cavalry. It was the fault of that darned Cockney recruiting-officer. You know how they pronounce an 'aitch' where it ain't?"

What was an Englishman doing recruiting U. S. troops?

"They talk us into all our wars, now that they've stopped making them against us," The Horse waved a hoof. "Why not go whole hog and take over the recruiting, also. Not that I minded flying. But cross-country sort of fouled things up. No matter where they would tell me to fly to, I'd end up in the Horse Latitudes. And as you perhaps know, there's no chernozem in the Horse Latitudes. Not even a little little. Inferior grasslands. Lousy beer, too."

Oh, I was glad he had brought that up! I had got an F-for-effort for saying, in a Geography quiz, something about 'Reddish-Brown Podzolics' around the Planetarium. It should have been Red-and-Gray Podzolics. And he, The Horse, had told me that.

"That's a horse on you," The Horse horsed hoarsely, horsing up to his platoons again. "It was Red-and-Gray until Mr. Morehead figured Gordon didn't have a cent in the plant, so why give him any free advertising with Gray Podzolic so he had some chernozem imported from that foreign country—North Dakota, I think—and now it is Reddish-Brown Podzolic. If I see you in Danziger's Back Room, be sure and yell Hello because I don't always see so well."

Well? In Danziger's, The Horse sees worse than ever . . .

PULQUE

John Gibson

In doing this series on the honor system I have tried to get a little more specific each time. There remain now two important points to cover. First, what to do when you want to turn somebody in and second, what to do if you are turned in yourself. I will cover the first point today.

It has already been mentioned that getting students to turn in each other is a difficult job because it seems on the surface like "tattling", which we were taught as children not to do. However it really is not. We must recognize that there are, and probably always will be, a certain number (small we hope) of students who cheat. In doing this, they are harming themselves and also the other students especially with grades being as important as they are in the collegiate system. Thus some method of preventing cheating must be found.

The honor system has been proven to be particularly effective to this end, while at the same time allowing the student to develop to a level of personal maturity not possible under the proctor system. Thus, when you turn in a student for a violation of the code, you are really helping him, though perhaps neither of you will see it that way at the time. You are, in effect, saying to him "my friend, there are values in life (honesty in this case) which we place higher than mere material success (in this instance grades). You, apparently, have not yet learned this. Perhaps it is time that you did."

The cynic will at this point shout htat in the "real" world honesty is indeed often sacrificed for material gain. To this I say that the world does not get better by adjusting behavior to fit goals we ideally recognize as inferior. We cannot believe in ourselves, much less each other, until we are willing to accept a source of values not subject to the fluctuations of human inconsistencies.

At any rate, you as a student have an obligation to do your share in the perpetuation of the system. If you see a student cheating (or lying or stealing) your course of action depends somewhat on the circumstances. If it is on a test, first you should see if any other students notice the violation. If so, get their names and the council will summons them as witnesses. Then, go to the professor and ask him to check for similarities in the papers while he is grading them. Finally, turn in a report of the violation to a member of the proper council, or the dean's office.

You need not talk to the violator. He has a chance to turn himself in before he is contacted by the council, or can plead guilty at the meeting. (This will be discussed in detail later, but either of these courses of action will help the violator.)

You must be prepared to face the accused at the council meeting, as you would want the same privilege if you were in his place. You need not be afraid of intimidation, as this happens only infrequently, and the council will act quickly and decisively in case that it does.

In other circumstances your procedure may be somewhat different. However, the most important steps are (1) making a full report as soon as possible to the Deans office or a council member, and (2) getting together all the relevant evidence you can. The council will assist in this phase also. Undertake the whole job with a determined seriousness Do not make believe you are a junior G-Man.

Remember, the continued functioning of the honor system depends upon your willingness to assume full responsibility for its operation.

on the

Carolina Front

Louis Kraar

The man sitting next to me on the train started turning in his seat after about an hour. We had been sitting together that long, and I hadn't spoken yet.

"You a student?" he asked. That seemed enough to start the conversational ball rolling. I told him that I was a student. And he continued with the questioning, just long enough to be polite before telling me about himself.

The rather stout man in the blue suit sitting next to me was from California. He was a railroad man—a good one, he said. This was his vacation and his first trip south. He wasn't sure that he'd like it.

"How do they treat the colored people around here?" he asked rather cautiously, looking around carefully before he continued. "I mean do they stay in their place?"

"We have what you'd call a liberal approach to the thing," I started, hoping that I hadn't bit off more than I could swallow whole. "We believe that people are all equal and should have the same chances. We feel that when both races have made enough progress towards understanding each other, the hate will disappear."

I still wasn't sure who "we" was, but I had a good enough idea to continue the conversation.

"Don't get me wrong," my traveling companion said. "I don't hate them. It's just that they're so darn inferior. You know you can't trust one of them. They just aren't any good."

I overlooked the generalization, probably because it was just an hour before I'd be in Raleigh.

He had another question. "How about the Jews? Do they run everything like where I come from."

I told him that there was little discrimination against those of that religion. I added that I didn't think they "controlled everything."

"Now I have nothing against them either. But when it comes to money, you can't trust them. I saw one cheat his own father out of his business. So I know that they're no good," the porcine looking man in the blue suit insisted.

"Now you take those Italians," he kept on. "Their table manners are terrible. Every damn one of them is the same."

The train puffed into the station. I told him that I enjoyed talking to him. He said he liked it too.

"There's one good thing I like about traveling," he said sort of confidentially as I got up to leave. "You certainly get to meet all kinds of people. Of course I still like just regular Americans like us best of all."

Sigma Chi, Law School Win Murals

Al Poppleton, Rod Nicol Are Best Managers

Lineberger, Evans Get Top Individual Awards

Sigma Chi and Law School received trophies as highest organizations in their divisions at the annual intramurals banquet in Lenoir Hall last night.

Smitty Lineberger of Law School and Bob Evans of Zeta Psi were awarded trophies for the highest number of individual points in each division, and Rod Nicol of Law School and Al Poppleton of Sigma Nu received the awards for outstanding Intramural Managers.

Med School and Sigma Nu took awards as runners-up in the division Med School trailed the Lawyers by a little more than five points, while Sigma Nu was second by 27.

Sigma Chi had 926.79 points, Sigma Nu 899.72, and in the dormitory division, Law School had 828.83 points to Med School's 824.-71.

Evans amassed more individual points than anyone in either division.

Swimming Coach Ralph Casey spoke after the banquet, and then movies of the State-Carolina basketball game played in the coliseum were shown.

Connor Takes Mural Tennis

Connor Dormitory won the campus intramural tennis championship yesterday by defeating the ATO team 3-1.

Norman Jarrard, playing in the number one position for the victors, beat freshman Graham Shanks in two sets, 6-3, 6-1. It was the first defeat for Shanks in eight matches this year.

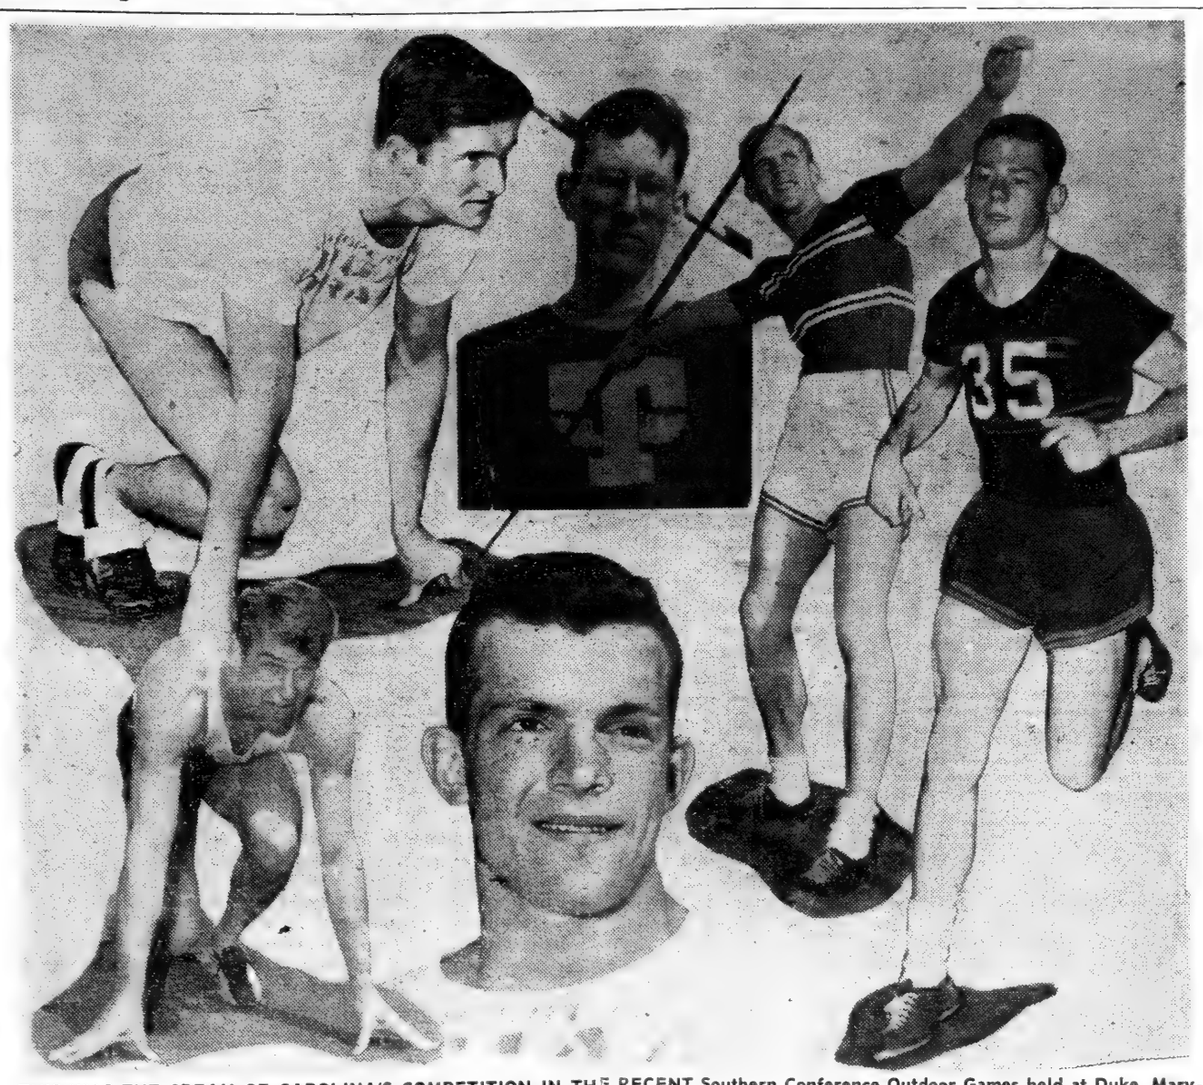
Graduate student Frank Bowman of the dormitory team had little trouble disposing of ATO Donald Carroll in two love sets.

The only victory for the fraternity team came when Keith Grady, playing in the number three spot, downed Charles Levy by 6-1, 6-4 scores.

In the only doubles match Norman Kaplan and Bill Howe teamed to defeat Dan Duke and Kay Wilson of ATO. It was also the closest match of the meet. The scores were 7-5 and 6-4.

The Connor team reached the campus finals by defeating the Law School team 4-1 in the dormitory championship. They were undefeated in six matches.

The ATO's got their position in the campus match by downing the Sigma Chi's 3-2 for the fraternity championship. They were undefeated in eight straight matches.



Results:

Jarrard (C) defeated Shanks, 6-3, 6-1.

Bowman (C) defeated Carroll, 6-0, 6-0.

Grady (ATO) defeated Levy, 6-1, 6-4.

Kaplan and Howe (C) defeated Luke and Wilson, 7-5, 6-4.

THIS WAS THE CREAM OF CAROLINA'S COMPETITION IN THE RECENT Southern Conference Outdoor Games held at Duke. Maryland took the team title for the second straight year, with Duke second and the Tar Heels third by three-fourths point. Left to right, top row, they are: John Tate, captain of the Duke track team; Ben Lanford, VPI's indoor high jump record holder who tied with Duke's Shankle for first place in the outdoor meet with a jump three inches below his six-foot five record; Pete Isburgh, who wasn't enough for Carolina's Harry Brown in the javelin; and Ken Thornton, a Terp who contended in the 880. Bottom row, left to right: Bobby Drawdy, outstanding South Carolina football halfback who is the Gamecock's high scorer in track and a leading dash man; and Joel Shankle, Duke's sensational sophomore performer who has been the leading scorer for Duke, and who led the outdoor games with 23 individual points.

Baseball Attorney Asks Court For 'Reasonable' Interpretation

Attorney Frederic A. Johnson, commenting on the Supreme Court's decision to examine baseball's controversial reserve clause, declared today, "we are not asking the court to make every player a free agent."

Johnson, counsel - in - chief for minor league player Walter J. Kowalski and minor league club owner Jack Corbett, whose suits weer accepted by the Supreme Court Monday, insisted that "we're not trying to undermine baseball.

"All we are asking for is a reasonable interpretation of the reserve clause so that the 16 major league clubs do not monopolize the player market from the equator to Hudson's Bay."

In accepting the suits of Kowalski, Corbett and another minor league player, George Earl Toolson, the Supreme Court agreed to decide whether organized baseball still is a sport or whether it has become a business subject to anti-trust laws.

In 1922, the Supreme Court ruled that the national pastime was immune from anti-trust prosecution on the grounds that it was essentially a sport and not a business.

The players involved in the current suits want the court to declare the "reserve clause" in player contracts a violation of the anti-trust laws. Under the clause, the ball clubs have complete control of the players.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon Names New Officers

Delta chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon has elected as its officers for next year Alexander McMillan, Charlotte, president; Edward Hardison, Wadesboro, vice-president; John Gold, Wilson, secretary; John M. DuBose, Chapel Hill, treasurer; and Robert Gibbon, Charlotte, house manager.

New initiates of the fraternity are William Armfield III, Greensboro; William McDonald III, Hickory; Thomas Moore, Winston-Salem; Arthur Newcomb, Jr., Charlotte; James Norfleet, Winston-Salem; Bobby Payne, Richmond, Va., Edward Pell, Charlotte; Samuel Reeves, Thomaston, Ga.; William Sandridge, Winston-Salem; James Seely, Winston-Salem; Broadus Thompson, Jr., Columbia, S. C.; Louis Woodbury, Wilmington; and Charles Yarborough, Louisburg.

In The Majors

National League

St. Louis 6, Chicago 3. (First game of a double-header.)
Milwaukee 5, Cincinnati 0.
(Only games scheduled.)

American League

Detroit at Cleveland, (night).
Chicago at St. Louis, (night).
Boston at Philadelphia, (night).

Cars Begin Time Trials For Raleigh Stock Race

RALEIGH, May 26—(Special)—Drivers began wheeling their cars on to the Raleigh speedway today as qualifying time trials started for Saturday's 300-mile late model stock car race.

Time trials also will be held tomorrow and Thursday afternoons from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. More than 60 drivers are expected to compete in the big race for a purse of $15,250.

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2807 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill.—Adv.

JUST RECEIVED

Another Shipment of Those Popular

Sanforized Baby Cord SLACKS

In Blue and Tan
All Sizes

Especially Priced At

$6.95

PLAID SWIM TRUNKS

3.95—4.95

THE Sport—SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

THIS BORES US AS MUCH AS IT BORES YOU—
BUT —

COLLEGE OUTLINES

WILL SEE YOU THROUGH —

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

For Graduation . . .

GIVE CAROLINA MEMORIES

Wherever your graduate may go in the years ahead, the golden days at Chapel Hill will be remembered with warmth. The gift of a well-chosen book will provide a focus for those memories.

Memories of an Old Time Tarheel
Kemp Plummer Battle's fine story of the early days of the University. ——— $1.00

The Campus of the First State University
History of, and guide to the University, by U.N.C.'s own Archibald Henderson. Illustrated. ——— $5.00

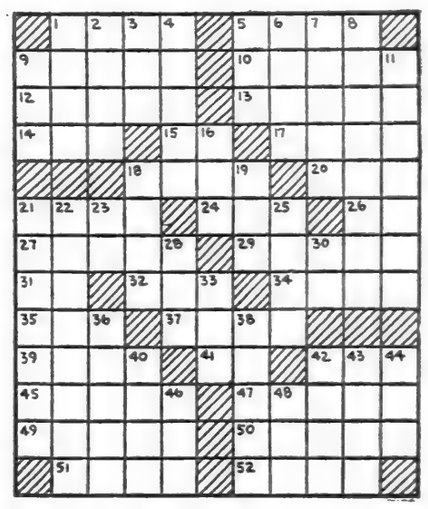
The Early Architecture of North Carolina
The haunting beauty of the Old North State is captured in the 281 photographs in this book. ——— $12.50

Girt-Wrapping Is Free At

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

THE TALL, TALL TALE OF VERMILION O'TOOLE
... the town she tamed and the men she fooled!

— Plus —
Cartoon—Screenliner
TODAY ONLY
Varsity



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Exclamation of sorrow
5. Large yellow feathers of o-o
9. Fissure
10. Take as one's own
12. Winged
13. Quadruped
14. Roll of money
15. Sun god
17. Location
18. Repast
20. Weaken
21. Capital of Norway
24. Tear
26. Music note
27. Word used in drinking one's health
29. Flavor
31. Thulium (abbr.)
32. Slow, clumsy boat
34. Waste
35. Guido's highest note
37. Movable barrier
39. Earthen pot
41. Depart
42. Flap
45. Sacred pictures (Russ. Ch.)
47. Marsupial (Australia)
49. Italian poet
50. State flower (New Mex.)
51. Fruit
52. Man's name

DOWN
1. After the manner of
2. Guide
3. Astern
4. Cubic meter
5. Exclamation
6. Japanese shrubs
7. Small nocturnal lemur
8. Parvenus
9. Cry, as a crow
11. American Indian tents (var.)
16. Swiss river
18. Ditch around a castle
19. Ignited
21. Bonelike
22. Close-fitting hat
23. Behold!
25. Wan
28. Carry with effort
30. Thus
33. Sack
36. Unaccompanied
38. Capital (Jap.)
40. Species of pillar (arch.)
42. Diplomacy
43. Small, long-haired dog (Trop. Am.)
44. Cry of a sheep
46. Varying weight (Ind.)
48. Retired

PHASE PES
LADEN ANT
FEND DUNDEE
LADLE STERN
ICLETS ANI
PEE HOVERED
SERIN
APPAREL SPA
COR SLOPED
TRACE ABIDE
SKIERS ORAN
ESS ALLEN
RES WAIST
5-26

Yesterday's Answer

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY Sutton's

SUTTON'S DRUG STORE wants you to know that we have a complete stock of supplies for University students. We also want you to know the correct answers to the quiz . .. Mansard, Fasces and Sir Thomas Lipton.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER Sutton's DRUG STORE Rx SPECIALISTS
COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

Carolina
TODAY

— Plus —
CARTOON — NEWS

WE BUY TEXTBOOKS WHETHER USED OR NOT

THE BOOK EXCHANGE

Five Points—Durham, N. C.

TEXTBOOKS • OUTLINES • TRANSLATIONS

UNCLE POGO SO-SO STORIES

— ARE AT —

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

MEMBERS OF THE 1953-54 SWEETHEART of Sigma Chi Court are Miss Geraldine Snider, Fayetteville, with John Wescott, Richmond; Miss Sandra Wright, Winston-Salem, with Jim Ferree, Winston-Salem; Miss Peggy Murchison, Raleigh, with Vernon Ferrell, Winston-Salem; Miss Joan Blocker, St. Petersburg, Fla., the new Sweetheart, with Britt Glenn, Spartanburg, S. C.; Miss Elinor Wrenn, Greensboro, with Bob Ellington, Burlington; Miss Julia Kester, Winston-Salem, with Bill Swing, China Grove; and Miss Sandy Donaldson, Wilson, with Z. A. Collins, Kinston. Not pictured are Miss Mase Chapin, Richmond, Va., with Walt Converse, Spartanburg, S. C.; and Miss Len Daniel, Coral Gables, Fla., with Heyward Washburn, Great Neck N. Y.

Miss Joan Blocker Crowned 1954 Sweetheart Of Sigma Chi

Miss Joan Blocker, junior from St. Petersburg, Fla. and a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, was crowned Sweetheart of Sigma Chi Saturday, May 16, at a dance held at the Alamance Country Club in Burlington.

From a court of ten girls, Miss Blocker, escorted by Britt Glenn, Spartanburg, S. C., was selected by the members of the fraternity. The entire court was presented at the dance.

Miss Carman Nahm, Pi Phi from Deland, Fla., crowned the new queen with a tiara of white roses and presented her with a loving cup. Miss Nahm, escorted by Lew Brown, Chattanooga, Tenn., was the former Sweetheart.

All girls in the court wore white dresses and carried bouquets of white roses, decorated by yellow and blue ribbons, the fraternity colors.

Color, For A UNC Coed, Is Sensation And Feeling

Color, for a woman, is sensation, feeling, and impulse—something to soothe and stir the feminine soul. It is the hankering for a new color, and the emotional promise of a new color name, that makes women grow tired of what they have and yearn for something different.

Red is the universal feminine favorite, as is evident by the varying shades of the color worn by Carolina coeds—fuschia, magenta, burnt orange, tangerine, and lilac. And according to McCall's Hollywood office, Marilyn Monroe prefers bright red "for its pagan qualities and implications of 'I dare you.'" But the Carolina gentleman, if he is typical of the American male, likes blue, a cooler, more remote color.

Color has found its way into all phases of life for the modern woman. If the coed is exemplary, she will choose a green automobile in preference to a blue or black one; a red lollipop over an orange or yellow one; and a white ice cream cone rather than a brown or pink one. Color has gone to her fingers, her toes, her eyes, and her hair. She prefers clear red lipstick instead of blue-red or pink, clear red nail polish, and blue or green eye shadow. And her hair is tinted auburn or black, or is streaked with greyish-white powder.

In choosing clothes, the coed will select for herself a black hat, a grey suit and coat, and black shoes—the more conservative colors. But in buying a tie for the favorite fellow, she will unhesitatingly pick a red one, instead of a blue or brown one.

After graduation, in her home the coed will decorate her living room in shades of grey and green, her bathroom in pink or blue, and her kitchen in yellow or blue. Her sheets will be white or light blue, her towels yellow, and her tablecloths white or pale green.

Color has hit the campus, from green toothpaste to bronze skins, and it is definitely here to stay. As the campus wheel of activities goes around, the color wheel spins simultaneously.

JUST RECEIVED

LINEN WEAVE SLACKS

7.95—8.95

We have all shades including Charcoal grey.

THE Sport SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

Festival Plans To Be Formed

Plans for the annual Watermelon Festival, to be held June 26 during first summer session, will begin Thursday at 7 p.m., with a meeting in the YMCA of all those interested in helping with the program.

Committees will be set up and chairmen appointed to work on the entertainment, publicity, and food for the festivities.

The Festival, the big event of the summer on the Carolina campus, was attended last year by 1500 students and faculty, and 400 watermelons were consumed.

Featured in the celebration will be the beauty contest in which a queen will be selected from the coeds and a king from the faculty. The reigning queen is elected by a voting system of a penny-a-vote, the proceeds from which will help pay for the watermelons.

Another attraction of the Watermelon Festival will be singing and entertainment by students and faculty.

Also sponsored by the YMCA and Graham Memorial this summer will be a get-together dance the first night of classes, Friday, June 12, held for the purpose of meeting fellow Tar Heels.

Student Chamber Recital Scheduled Tonight, 8:30

The first of a new series of student chamber recitals will be presented at 8:30 in Hill Hall tonight.

Performers have been selected from among those who appeared on the regular Wednesday afternoon student recitals during the past year.

Fraternity Awards Given Outstanding Members

Phi Gamma Delta made its annual fraternity awards last week. The James B. Bullitt Award went to Bill Smith, Bethel, Landy Griffin, Williamston, received the Outstanding Intramural Athletic Award.

Alpha Mu chapter of Kappa Sigma elected Charlie Norwood, Goldsboro, the outstanding pledge, and Dan Perry, Kinston, the most outstanding senior. Ed Borden, Goldsboro, received the award for the most outstanding scholarship.

Parker is New Head Of Dialectic Senate

Gerald Parker was recently elected president of the Dialectic Senate.

Parker is a rising senior from Silverdale and a history major. He is a member of student Legislature, vice-president of the Interdormitory Council, president of Battle-Vance-Pettigrew dormitory and a Wesley Foundation member.

Henry Lowet, Winston-Salem, was chosen president pro tempore.

Other officers elected were critic Joel Fleishman, clerk Charles Wolf, treasurer Freeman Grant, sergeant-at-arms Beverly Webb, chaplain Ken Penegar, Carolina Forum representative Charlotte Davis and Debate Council representative David Reid.

Carolina Quarterly

The Spring issue of The Carolina Quarterly will be on sale today in the Y Court, the Intimate Bookshop, the Bull's Head Bookstore and the Carolina Inn.

What Goes On Here

Television

As many students as can assemble are needed today at 8:45 a.m. to participate in a scene for CBS-TV. Students interested should come to the rear of South Building at that time.

Alpha Gamma Delta

The Alpha Gamma Delta house will be open during the second session of Summer School. Any girls interested in living there should contact Mary Bryan. The Alpha Gams also have two bunk beds (without mattresses) for sale.

WUNC Today

7 p.m.—Holland Calling.
7:15—The UN Story.
7:30—Carolina Sports Review.
7:45—Famous Belgians.
8—Old Books, Old Friends.
8:30—Masterworks from France.
9—Concert Favorites.
9:30—Everybody's Business.
10—News and Coming Events.
10:05—Evening aMsterwork.

Kids Must Be Back Right After Labor Day

"University students who have children of grammar school age are asked to be back in time to have their children in school in time for the opening on Wednesday after Labor Day next Fall," Carl Smith, chairman of the local school board, said yesterday.

Smith said that the State bases the teacher allotment on the attendance for the first two weeks of school. "If children enter late, the school might lose a teacher," Smith said.

—WUNC—

(Continued from page 1)

great University."

Probably the major advancement made by WUNC during this first season was the building of new offices and studios on the ground floor of Swain Hall. Mack Preston, electronic engineer for the Communications Center, furnished the station with a custom-built control board.

As the Station Policy states, particular emphasis is placed upon educational or cultural broadcasting. But the programs are planned to be entertaining as well as educational. An example of such a program was the Association of Educational Broadcasting production, "The Ways of Mankind," which was broadcast recently by WUNC.

When the same program was broadcast in Toronto, the New York Times said, ". . . The presentation was as witty and urbane a show as has come on the radio in many a day. What's more, it was informative and educational. A little more radio like this and it will be television's turn to start worrying."

The fact that it cannot broadcast on an AM band and that there are few FM sets among the students is one thorn in WUNC's side. The complex nature of the geography and the placement of students' residences in Chapel Hill makes AM reception impossible in most parts of this section.

But the "University station" has received commendations from its listening audience. Most of them are grateful for not being constantly urged to by a certain brand of tooth paste, automobile tire, or soap flakes. Others ask for technical advice. Still others comment on their reception of WUNC and make suggestions as to how reception difficulties can be alleviated.

"The station has built an enthusiastic and devoted audience during the past six months. The 35 students who plan and produce all of the programs participate voluntarily, and they have done an excellent job. We are already planning the Fall schedule, and it will be even bettr than the one being broadcast now," concluded director Wynn.

Enka Company Is Awarding 2 Scholarships

An annual graduate fellowship amounting to $1,000 and an annual undergraduate scholarship of $500 will be sponsored by American Enka Corporation beginning next Fall, Dr. Arthur Roe, chairman of the Chemistry Department said recently.

These awards will be made to chemistry majors on the basis of need and ability. The Chemistry Department's graduate committee will select the fellowship student, and the University's scholarship committee will name a member of the junior class to receive the scholarship, Dr. Roe said.

Neither of the recipients will be asked to make any commitment regarding future employment.

American Enka is one of the nation's leading producers of rayon yarn and recently began construction of a two-million dollar plant to manufacture nylon. Its scholarship program also will provide for awards at six other major universities and colleges in the South.

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

PICKARD ROOFING CO. BUILDing supplies, hardware, and paint. Free estimates on old and new work. Main street Carrboro. Phone 9-5693. (chg 1x1)

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

FOR SALE 6B

1949 FORD CUSTOM - CLUB Coupe. Radio and Heater. Can be seen at 44 D Glen Lennox after 5 p.m. on weekdays, and after 1 p.m. on Saturday, or call 9-6367. (chg 1x1)

EMPLOYMENT WANTED 5

OPPORTUNITY TO SAVE $300—$600 during summer months working on circulation promotion program with Dunn & Bradstreet rated Southern concern. Journalism and Advertising students especially welcome. Minimum age men 18; women 21. Must travel and be able to drive. Transportation furnished, all expenses advanced. Write John Evans, Box 2070, Birmingham, Ala., for details; giving three references, date, place available to begin work. chg 1x2

PART OR FULL TIME Students for Summer months. Appointments selling nationally advertised product following brief, thorough training period. Remuneration average—$70 to $140 per week. Preference given to students with automobile and/or family responsibilities. See Mr. Jones at Carolina Inn. Wednesday or Thursday from 1-5 or 7-9 p.m. No phone calls please. Chg 1x1

WANTED TO BUY 24A

1947 or 1948 MODEL JEEP OR any other earlier model in good condition. Phone 95665 or see Dick O'Neal, 3 Justice St. 1-c8020-6

HELP WANTED 8

SUMMER JOB—SUMMER STUdent, preferably with bookkeeping experience, for part-time work starting at once and running right through the summer. Apply after 6 p.m. please. INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. Chg. 1x2

Car Road-Ready?

Whether it is the end of this school year or time for your summer vacation let us make your car really ready to roll on those long summer trips ahead. We will put your car in shape for safe, trouble-free driving. Drive in NOW!

CARE WILL SAVE YOUR CAR

POE MOTOR CO.

112 W. Franklin

DESOTO PH. 6581 PLYMOUTH

YEARS AHEAD OF THEM ALL!

1. THE QUALITY CONTRAST between Chesterfield and other leading cigarettes is a revealing story. Recent chemical analyses give an index of good quality for the country's six leading cigarette brands.

The index of good quality table—a ratio of high sugar to low nicotine—shows Chesterfield quality highest

. . . 15% higher than its nearest competitor and Chesterfield quality 31% higher than the average of the five other leading brands.

2. First to Give You Premium Quality in Regular and King-size . . . much milder with an extraordinarily good taste—and for your pocketbook, Chesterfield is today's best cigarette buy.

3. A Report Never Before Made About a Cigarette. For well over a year a medical specialist has been giving a group of Chesterfield smokers regular examinations every two months. He reports . . . no adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield.

CHESTERFIELD IS BEST FOR YOU

Copyright 1953, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

U N C LIBRARY
SERIARS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Fair with moderate temperatures. Yesterday's high, 86, low, 60.

The Daily Tar Heel

DAR
The Horse takes a look at the Daughters on page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 160 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C. | THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1953 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

History In 3-D

Raleigh, Early NC Are Period Room Subjects

By Ken Sanford

A visit to the period rooms of the Library's North Carolina Collection is a history lesson in three dimensions. No amount of reading will produce the same effect as a visit to a historical reproduction of a scene from the past.

The Sir Walter Raleigh Room was reproduced in part and furnished with materials taken from fine English homes of the time in which Raleigh lived. The room contains books that have been written by and about Sir Walter Raleigh. The room is paneled in original Jacobean oak paneling of the late Tudor period, perhaps near 1590. The furniture is of the same period.

Three carved statues of old English oak stand at one end of the room. The center statue is a larger than life-size likeness of Raleigh. It was brought from England to New York for sale. There Col. Owen Kenan of Wilmington bought it and sent it to the University Library. One of the smaller figures on either side of the larger one is of Raleigh and the other is of Queen Elizabeth. They came recently from Preston Davie in New York, a great friend of the Library and a lateral descendant of William R. Davie, founder of the University.

The other period room is from an early North Carolina colonial house. It is a restoration of the Lane House which stood on Little River in Nixonton before 1750. The doors, woodwork and flooring are original material taken form that house. All of the other material was taken from houses of the 1750 period either in North Carolina or Virginia.

The room contains furniture and household utensils that were to be found in the average home of the colonial period. At the fireplace are a low stool, a black iron dutch oven, a candle mold and a fireside toaster with its short legs and long handle.

In one corner stands a walnut corner case with doors which contain handmade glass panes. It contains books that were found in the libraries of the better homes of that day.

A grandfather clock and a spinning wheel are also from that period. Pine paneling frames the tiny windows and low doors.

In the atmosphere that these two rooms create, one can easily imagine himself transported in time back to the time of Raleigh and Elizabeth or to the pre-Revolutionary War days in North Carolina.

Steve Perrow Wins John J. Parker Award

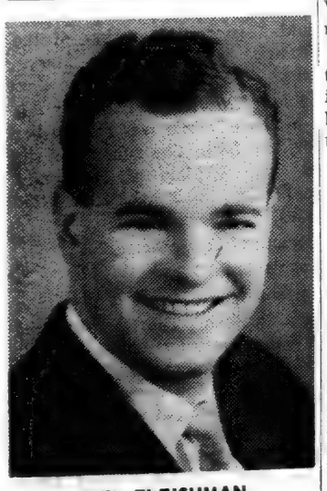
Steve Perrow has been awarded the John J. Parker Medal for "unique leadership in student government," it was announced yesterday.

This gold medal is given annually by Judge and Mrs. John J. Parker in memory of their son, John Johnston Parker, Jr. It was established in 1941.

Perrow is a Pharmacy major from Bedford, Va. He has served on the Men's Council for two years and was clerk one year. During senior week, Perrow was named "Mr. Alumnus."

The award is given by a special committee appointed by the President of the University. It is awarded "to that student who has demonstrated most clearly the highest qualities of leadership in perpetuating the spirit of honor and the process of student self-government," according to the University catalog.

The award committee this year consisted of Assistant Dean of Students Roy Holsten, S. B. Knight and Claude C. Shotts.



Four Annexes Moved Away; Others To Go

"Four temporary buildings have recently been disposed of and others will be removed as soon as they are no longer needed as classrooms and offices," J. S. Bennett, director of operations for the University, said yesterday.

Two were removed from their position beside the Library to Victory Village. There they were put together to form a nursery and recreation center.

A third building between the Library and Venable Hall will be sold to the highest bidder. A building between the Naval armory and Venable has already been sold and removed.

Bennett said that he would like to see all of the temporary buildings removed, but that it would be impossible as long as it remains necessary to use them.

JOEL FLEISHMAN

Fleishman Says Stevenson May Speak Here

"Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic candidate for President in the 1952 election, may be the first speaker on the Carolina Forum's program next year," Joel Fleishman, newly-elected chairman of the Forum said yesterday.

Fleishman said that a great deal of planning remains to be done in regard to Stevenson's visit here.

"The Forum hopes to have a complete schedule ready by the beginning of the Fall Semester," Fleishman said.

Pearsall Heads SEC Program For Next Year

Student body President Bob Gorham recently announced the appointment of a Student entertainment Committee to serve next year.

Harry Pearsall, a rising senior from Rocky Mount, will serve as chairman. Pearsall is on the IDC Court and served on the IDC Dance Committee for the past year. He served as an orientation counselor last year. He is a member of Zeta Psi fraternity.

Other members of the committee are Mary Helen Crain, Billy Barnes, Sherry Smith and John Page.

Pearsall said that no definite plans have been made for next year's program. The committee met with last year's committee and discussed tentative plans.

Pearsall said, "We are definitely going to investigate the possibility of including more students in next year's programs."

There has been much criticism of the SEC program in the past because such a small part of the student body could get into Memorial Hall to see the programs.

SHOWN HERE FROM LEFT ARE NOMA FLINT, Charles Hadley and Henriette Rhyne who appeared last night in Le Petit Theatre Francais' first performance of "Les Precieuses Ridicules" in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. The girls are cast as the two "precieuse" or ridiculous women mentioned in the title. Hadley plays the role of the Marquis de Mascarilla who introduces the action in the 17th Century Moliere farce. The final performance is tonight at 8:30. There is no admission charge (a collection will be taken to cover expenses).

Keating Retires From Navy; Other NROTC Instructors Go

Five of the eight officers now assigned to the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps staff here are due for a change of duty at the end of the present school year.

Captain J. S. Keating, USN, professor of naval science at the unit for the past two years, is retiring from the Navy after 34 years of unbroken duty. Captain Keating plans to vacation in Cape Cod, Mass., this summer. His plans beyond that are indefinite. The new professor of naval science is slated to be Col. Robert C. Burns, US Marine Corps. Col. Burns is expected to arrive in August.

Major Frank C. Caldwell, USMC, the unit Marine officer instructor, will be detached on or about June 20. He will proceed from here to San Francisco, Calif., and Pearl Harbor, T. H., en route to join the First Marine Division in Korea. He expects to be attached to the First Marine Division for a nine-months tour of duty. Major Caldwell will be replaced by Capt. Frank G. Good, Jr., USMC, who has just returned from duty with the First Marine Division in Korea. Capt. Good is due to report to Chapel Hill sometime in August.

LCDR. Thomas E. Bass, III, USN, assistant professor of naval science and instructor of ordnance and gunnery, has been ordered to the Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va., for duty under instruction. The course of instruction will last for about five months. No replacement has been ordered for him at this time.

Lt. L. F. Cooney, Jr., USN, assistant professor of naval science, and navigation instructor, has been ordered to report to Combat Information Center School, Glenview, Ill., for duty under instruction. Replacement for Lt. Cooney will be LCDR. Thomas B. Wheatley, USN, who is expected to arrive in August.

Lt. L. E. Woodall, USN, assistant professor of naval science and supply instructor, has been ordered to report as supply officer to the USS Botetourt, operating out of Norfolk, Va. Lt. Woodall will be detached on or about August 15, 1953. His replacement will be Lt. A. H. Josslyn, SC USN, who comes to the University from the aircraft carrier USS Midway, and is expected to report prior to the departure of his predecessor.

CAMPUS SEEN

Fascinated group stnding near CBS-TV camera boom to listen to accent of English director.

*

Male hot weather fad spreading as secretary to student president arrives for work in shorts.

*

Indiscreet coed greedily gulping high-caloried milk shake.

*

Dumbfounded delivery man from the Colonial House having to give up food without getting paid because he failed to get it there within the time advertised by the restaurant.

In Newfoundland, No Remains In Sight

Moorhead's Entourage Found Lindbergh Rival's Wreckage

By Richard Creed

Lt. Col. Jessie J. Moorhead, commanding officer of the Air Force ROTC at Carolina for the past four years, will leave Chapel Hill this Summer.

Colonel Moorhead will go to Maxwell Field, in Alabama, for six month's study in the Air Command and Staff School, after which he will be reassigned by the Air Force.

The Colonel came to Chapel Hill in August, 1949. He wanted to be assigned to a university since "I thought it more of a challenge to go to a school where ROTC was optional with the students." He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army from Clemson, where ROTC was required of all students, in 1937. Commenting on the natural beauty of Chapel Hill and the attitude of students and faculty, he said, "I don't think I could have gotten a better assignment." He was originally assigned to the AROTC at Duke, but the Air Force changed its mind a few weeks before he took the position.

When he graduated from Clemson, he went to Georgia, where he spent two years with the Eighth Infantry. In 1940 he requested transfer to the Air Force. From Georgia he went to the Langley Field Bomber Squadron.

At the outbreak of World War II he went with the bomber squadron on an anti-submarine patrol of the Atlantic to Newfoundland. He recounts that while in Newfoundland a passenger steamer which had carried him over to Nova Scotia was sunk by a Japanese submarine about a month later.

LT. COL. J. J. MOORHEAD

In his flight to and from Newfoundland he traveled over the same terrain which Lindbergh describes in the story of his trans-Atlantic flight in The Saturday Evening Post. One of his parties found in Southern Newfoundland the wreckage of a plane whose log showed that the pilot, a man named Smith, also was attempting a trans-Atlantic flight at about the same time as Lindbergh in 1927. Colonel Moorhead says no remains of the pilot were found and indications are that he left the plane in the wilderness and tried to find his way back to civilization on foot. At the time Colonel Moorhead's squadron was in Newfoundland there was but one railroad across the forest covered island.

(See MOORHEAD, page 4)

Rousseau Claims Alderman Action Is Discrimination

By Bob Slough

A fraternity-sorority spokesman told the Chapel Hill Town Board this week that his group feels they have been discriminated against because a University-owned rooming house has put up fire escapes that do not meet state fire law requirements.

Jule Rousseau, chairman of the fraternity and sorority fire escapes committee, did not mention the name of the building but board member P. L. Burch said yesterday he was referring to the Theta Chi house on East Franklin Street. Burch agreed with Rousseau that the house does not meet specifications set up by state law. Burch is also Chapel Hill buildings inspector.

Rousseau said his main purpose in going before the board, however, was to explain the present situation—what he termed "lack of competitive bids."

"We wrote letters to companies to ask for bids in March," Rousseau explained. "We got a response from only one company, J. D. Wilkins Co."

He told board members that the bids made by the Wilkins Co. were "considerably higher than we thought they should be" and added that several of the bids ran over $1,000 with one bid going as high as "$1,400 and some odd dollars."

Thirty-five fraternity and sorority houses were condemned in January for failing to provide fire escapes on houses where occupants sleep on second or third floor. They were given 90 days to remedy the situation. The 90-day period ended on April 5.

Two weeks ago, the town board issued a statement notifying fraternities and sororities that they must complete arrangements for the construction of adequtae fire escapes by June 5, or the town will take "all available steps to prevent their further use as a dormitory after June 10." According to the resolution, the dormitory space in the houses will be closed unless they are "equipped or under contract for proper equipment" by the June 5 deadline.

"I don't think any fraternity or sorority is trying to avoid this thing," Rousseau continued. "They are just trying to get competitive bids." He said that A. S. Newsome, another contractor, had made bids recently and that some of the new bids were lower than Wilkins had made previously.

Rousseau assured the board, "If the other houses get bids, I see no reason why they won't be signed by June 5."

Conference's Leaders Meet, Make Plans

Athletic directors of the seven Southern Conference institutions interested in forming a new conference met here yesterday and completed recommendations to be offered at the June 14 meeting of the new group in Raleigh.

Rex Enright, Director of Athletics at the University of South Carolina, presided at the meeting which was also attended by Southern Conference Commissioner Wallace Wade and M. P. Knight, who heads the loop's officials' booking office.

The main issue of business at yesterday's session was schedules in all sports. Sports committees were also set up and long range plans for a "playing conference" were drawn, according to Enright.

"The purpose of the meeting was to work out details for making this a playing conference in a wide variety of sports," he said.

Enright also pointed out that the group has no power and merely worked up some recommendations for next month's full meeting in Raleigh.

Tuesday the directors met in Durham. The recommendations were completed yesterday.

In attendance were C. P. Erickson, North Carolina; O. K. Cornwell, North Carolina; Roy Clogston, N. C. State; Frank Howard, Clemson; James Weaver, Wake Forest; Eddie Cameron, Duke; Jim Tatum, Maryland, Enright, Wade and Knight.

Y To Sponsor Round Robin Letters During The Summer

Are you working in a service project this summer, traveling overseas, or investing your summer in some other way?

If so, Susan Fink, secretary of the YMCA Cabinet would like to know about it. During the summer she plans to send out a round-robin letter composed of letters from Carolina students in various parts of the world.

The plan is for students and faculty to write to Sue on July 1 and again on August 1, giving brief highlights of their work or travel. Shortly thereafter Sue will compile the round-robin letter and mail it to all who have contributed a letter.

Mann To Lead YMCA Board

Dr. Virgil Mann, of the Geology Department, was recently elected to serve as chairman of the YMCA Advisory Board for the coming year, according to Ned Harbin, YMCA president for 1953-54.

Reverend Richard Jackson, of the Congregational - Christian Church, will serve as vice-chairman, and Donald Hayman, of the Institute of Government, will be the secretary.

These officers will replace William Noland, Sociology Department, who was chairman of the board for 1952-53; the Rev. Charles Jones, formerly of the Presbyterian Church, who was vice-chairman; and Dr. Mann, who was secretary.

Two new members were also elected to serve on the board to replace the retiring members, Carl Smith and Dr. Cecil Johnson. W. J. Graham of Business Administration, and A. C. Shearer, Chapel Hill businessman, are the new members of the Advisory Board.

Trading Post Open Monday

The Textbook Trading Post, operated by Alpha Phi Omega in the chapter room in Graham Memorial will be open Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week from 2 to 4 p.m.

Students may pick up their unsold books upon presentation of their claim checks. Books that are left in the Trading Post over two quarters automatically become the property of APO.

Students may leave Books to be sold next fall.

Fletcher Green Elected To Board Of Editors

Fletcher M. Green, Kenan professor of history and new chairman of the History Department, has been elected a member of the board of editors of the "Mississippi Valley Historical Review."

Senior Rings

The last orders for class rings this quarter will be taken from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today in the lobby of the "Y." The rings will be delivered in eight weeks to the student's Summer address.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

No Space In A Manger

We suspect that even James Hinton, first student there and who allegedly walked the 165 miles from Wilmington to Chapel Hill, would have been demoralized if he knew he would have to spend his first freshman nights bedded down in a basement. And unless we miss our guess, there are going to be some unhappy new students here next Fall.

With enrollment up over last September's 5,400, the rooming prospects are gloomier for this Fall. It is true that after the normal first quarter attrition there is sufficient room. However, the first quarter is the quarter for many students who find it difficult to adjust to college.

So yesterday's announcement that some incoming frosh will wind up in the bowels of Cobb Dormitory seems to us impractical. Better, we believe, to inconvenience several hundred males for a couple of months with three-man rooms than to shuffle our new students off to the unattractive quarters of a basement.

The Daily Tar Heel hopes Housing Officer James Wadsworth will reconsider. If obstinate, we suggest he spend a night or two in the basement bunks. Then reconsider.

As Others See Us II

Helmuth Deicher

Dear Mr. Weaver,

It is very true that it is already 10 days since I've been in this country, and I have not yet written: but it takes quite a time to get into everything here again, much more than it takes when one comes back from another European country.

I would not have imagined that much of a chance —there is a difference in almost every dimension. You start off with the difference of houses, trucks, cars, streetcars and taxis, and you finish with some meditation about the definite differences in peoples attitudes.

One thing that strikes immediately is the somewhat hard expression on the faces of so many especially young people, which is of course to an extent the result of the war — and post - war lives; some of them look as if some heavy burden is bothering them, and that they consequently have not had the opportunity to develop slowly and under normal circumstances.

There is an expression of disappointment on many many faces also. On the other hand, you may find them more independent and more conscious looking; the happy-go-lucky type is a very scarce phenomena here today. One misses the American friendliness, and one appreciates by the same token the decisive independence of the individuals.

If I am asked to state exactly what I have learned in the U.S.—apart from the knowing facts about education, politics, history, U.S. Universities, and some part of your county—it seems to be too early yet to define that in definite terms. One thing, however, is quite clear: that I do not want to miss a single minute of the whole time over there, and that I am very happy to have had such an opportunity. Also that I shall be very curious from now on to see more of your country, and I only hope that this time has not been the last time to see on the other side of the Atlantic Ocean.

Our old university is still the same. I stayed home for a week and came here two days ago, and tomorrow work starts—and very seriously, too. There is much to do in the laboratory, and I am happy to be back at work again.

How is your family coming? I hope that every body is fine, especially your little daughter! Your radio case will be almost finished by now, and the pictures will be developed. I hope they have come out nicely, and if I may ask you to send some of them for me . . . I'd be very happy to have those which you took of all of us as well as those we took when Martha and myself came over to say good-bye that Sunday. I am enclosing some, and I hope you will not be embarrassed at the one I took secretly from the back!

We shall soon work on our report and send you a copy as soon as it is ready. In the meantime, may I ask you to remember me to Roy Holsten and his family, and also to all the other friends in your office. And let us once more thank you very much for everything. Special greetings for Mrs. Weaver. Sincerely yours,

Helmuth

The Race

Ruth Hoyt

In a few short weeks many of us will again experience that nerve-racking, tiresome ordeal better known as exam week. This is the time when all students are expected and required to come forth in three hours with all the knowledge that it has taken them ten weeks to accumulate in one course of study.

But most of us take this for granted. By the time we become juniors and seniors in college we passively accept this state of affairs and say nothing.

However, the situation is not all peaches-and-cream. The majority of students do not really object to taking exams. Many actually look forward to them.

But they do have one justified gripe, one to which they are entitled. Quarter in and quarter out the authorities in charge insist on scheduling the first exam immediately after the last class day. This quarter classes end on Friday and, as usual, many students will be facing their first exams Saturday morning at 8:30. For a student who must attend a lab or a late class on Friday afternoon this seems to be very unfair. These people will scarcely have time to review for their exams. And I am firmly convinced that you cannot assimilate ten weeks work on an 80-year period of history in five or six hours.

Surely there must be some way that this system could be reorganized for the benefit of those students who are conscientious about their exams and their grades. There are very few students, I dare say, who would seriously object to one more day of school for the sake of having one free day between classes and exams to get themselves organized.

Another View

Dear Mr. Weaver,

Having arrived at home, I found your letter. Have many thanks. Hans and I had a wonderful trip home. We enjoyed it.

Now we are again in our old environment. I am not able to give my impressions. All things are too new and too strange! Mentally I am still on tour. There has been only little time for readjustments. Besides that I filled the few hours, I had, with another important step of human life: I got engaged as you can see from the peculiar card.

But even in this atmosphere which is certainly not in favor of leisure and meditation, my thoughts go back to Chapel Hill, thoughts, which are filled with a deep gratitude to all in Chapel Hill and particularly to you. Please, accept the expressions of my very thanks. Also I ask you to give my best regards and thanks to Mrs. Weaver.

In your letter you have asked me for the January schedule. I am very sorry that I couldn't find any. Please, excuse that I didn't report this fact before I left.

But now I ask you to wait some other days. I have written to Helmuth. It may be that he can send you a copy. If he also can't send any, I have to believe too that there was none at all. If he has one he will send it to you directly by airmail.

We met on the ship members of other similar teams. I will report about these later. Have again many thanks. With best wishes I am

Ebehard Kindiger

'Uh—Never Mind Dusting Up There'

Express Yourself

Editor:

Mr. Anderson—You state that an explanation is in order. I am very sorry that the Editor-in-Chief Hugh Gale graduated in March and has departed from Chapel Hill to work in Virginia. I feel obligated, therefore, to try to give you your explanation.

When pictures are taken in the Fall of each year, the students who appear are given a form to fill out. When taken to a typist, this form is numbered. The picture taken by our photographer is numbered also. These numbers are identical. It is by means of these numbers that we know well in advance of the time the pictures are due back from the photographer what the lay out of each page will be like.

We use this same number to find pictures when they come back to us. When we find that a picture is missing, it signifies to us that the person wasn't interested enough to wait to have his picture taken. We then have to make a decision—leave a blank space, which isn't very professional, or insert a picture and change the name. We choose to insert the picture.

We were informed by our photographer that using someone's picture with another person's name can result in court action for damages. On the basis of this, we choose to use pictures of people whom we know will not bring suit against us—the staff members of the current book.

In the case of Hartwell Conklin: Mr. Conklin, as far as I know, had no previous knowledge of the incident. The editor-in-chief is the person who, in the carrying out of the duties invested in him by the student body, made the decision about that picture.

In regard to the other point you mentioned—Omega Gamma Mu Iota, this is an honorary society conceived to bring some sort of recognition to those persons who spend most of their time in the Student Union Building trying to make your college career a little more enjoyable. Not unlike some societies, the first announcement of the entire membership appears in the Yackety Yack of the current year. I think you'll find through investigation that although this year's Yack has 424 pages in it, we are being billed for eight pages less, or 416. Thus you'll find that the student body actually didn't pay for the page—it was a gift from the printer for "a job well done".

I will readily admit that there are many mistakes in the book, but I can honestly say that the staff did the best job it knew how to give the student body the best possible book. But as the expression goes, "to err is but human".

Robert S. Colbert
Managing Editor
1953 Yackety Yack

Editor:

. . . to answer your specific proposal: the publishing of paper-backed textbooks. The textbook industry is not a mass production business because there are not enough customers. The low price of paper-backed books is based on a quantity of production far beyond the college textbook market . . .

If college textbooks were paper-bound, the saving in price would be only that part of the manufacturing cost involved in the binding material. This would mean a price differential of only 25c to 50c. As a result the student would be buying a good product in a cheap container, and its value would be lost by the end of the course . . .

Many students, particularly engineering and science students, have a continuing need for their textbooks after college. Many liberal arts students also cherish their textbooks in literature, political science, economics, etc. long after their college days are ended. Paper - backed volumes could hardly serve as the basis of a private library.

. . . Because each college student has an individual curriculum, the problems of mass production increase further . . . Textbook publishers have kept prices far below the increase of general commodity prices in spite of steadily increasing manufacturing costs. The publishers are justifiably proud of this accomplishment.

Leona W. King
Executive Secretary
American Textbook Publishers Institute

New Industry

NEWBURGH, N. Y.—The mystery writer, Mickey Spillane, plans to give his home town a break by using its Hudson River scenes and residents in movies.

The pictures, primarily for television use, will be his alone. Spillane will write, direct, produce and finance the project. These films are not to be confused with the full length movies of his works being made in Hollywood.

Spillane said he would set up a studio here.

"We'd like to be able to start a new industry in Newburgh," commented the sensational best-selling author.

For the indomitable Mike Hammer, hero of Spillane's thrillers, he will use Jack Strang, local patrolman.

Character

English Club

(In answer to a dare the following "Character" was received—sadly the only one out of many that were hoped to be received. Mr. Farrar is to be congratulated on having learned how to use the English language. His piece was shown to a professor of English in the University, and for a pro in this sort of thing, his praise was high.

Mr. Farrar's piece is also apropo to other departments on the campus, i.e., Departmen of Maintenance.)

A DRAIN PLUG

Is a device which, designed to aid man's conservation, now implements his wastefulness. It is manufactureable for two cents and salable for five times that amount. It is found most frequently on the counter in a store and most rarely on the basin in a bathroom. Like an animal, when domesticated it submits to the constraint of a chain but will never submit to loss of wanderlust. If loosed from its stifling collar, it reverts to its archetype, the unchained drain plug. Thi creature defies Dormancy; its prison is the basin top; its home is on the floor. It strays to the shower, the hall, under the water closet. Being normally protectively colored to match its environment, it couches unobserved by those seeking it. Lost plugs exhibit a colonial tendency; groups are found at intervals in the lower corners of sloping bathroom floors. Until recovered, however, they force the seeker to perform his ritual of washing or shaving in a flowing stream rather than a placid, soap-fogged pool. The cost of water consumed far exceeds the cost of a new plug placated, but convenience deleted frugality. Thus the drain plug is an instance of man's inability to progress beyond a primitive state, a being dependent on circumstance, not on invention.

Yr Most Obt, Hmbl & Devtd Servant,
L. P. Farrar
304 Grimes

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

THE HORSE had been missing from his haunts for a few days. I assumed he was boning up for quiz-week. Then I heard a dreadful clatter in Caldwell, and I hurried thither.

The Horse was slamming through a classroom on the second floor, and all but knocked me aside as he roared out. "I'm a Political Scientist!" he chittered. He tore down the stair and across and into a classroom in New East. He brayed, "I'm a Geologist!"

By dint of rugged leg-work, I was in time to see him roar through New West, yelling, "I'm a Psychologist, I'm a Philosopher!"

I got him slowed down by Memorial Hall. What was going on?

"I'm picking up additional culture," he said. "I'm going to a convention of the Durned Arrogant Rebels and I want to impress them."

The Durned Arrogant Rebels?

"The D.A.R.," The Horse sighed. "Tsk, you're dumb!"

I wasn't that dumb. That meant, Daughters of the American Revolution. They were very aristocratic and merited respect.

"Affirmative," The Horse nodded. "Or so they say. It gets me, though, that one of those Durned Arrogant Rebels just the other day was yapping about 'revolutionaries' in this country. I suppose it all depends whose revolution it is. Loud, sing cuckoo. Alas and welladay!"

The radical of today is the conservative of tomorrow.

"Spare me your half-witticisms," The Horse said throatily. I hate him when he does like that. "But I don't know should I go to this racket of the Durned Arrogant Rebels. Not fitting, you know."

Did he feel inferior?

"That's the trouble," The Horse shrugged his front hoofs. "One of these Rebels was tracing her family. Back. Away, way back. She announced she directly descended from William of Normandy. Guillaume, to you, me lad. Heh heh, ain't I the educated one, though?"

Was The Horse jealous of that ancestry?

"Ever hear of Noah's Arch?"

Noah's Ark, he meant.

"It must have been an Arch," The Horse pointed out, "to have shuttled so many animals. No one boat could do it. Well, you got to grant I at least go back to the Arched-Ark. You know, these wild claimers sometimes go too far. Like this one who is related to William of Normandy. History has it that the guy's parents neglected the small detail of a wedding-license. Now, another Durned Arrogant Rebel announces she goes clear back to Runnymede."

Didn't he believe it?

"Her, I do believe. She looks as if she witnessed the signing of the Magna Carta. But she and her playmates ought to slow down on this claiming the ones longest here are the best. They really should."

They were too proud, was that it?

"Pooey," The Horse snarked. "Not only does it sort of say that their folks couldn't get along, or by, in the old country; it also says the American Indians are tops, because they were here before the Durned Arrogant Rebels."

I didn't believe in belittling. I thought everybody had good points.

"Why," The Horse chittered reprovingly, "bring Marilyn Monroe into this? You are speaking of the woman who loves me!"

I hadn't spoken of her at all. But what made him think she loved him?

"She's never said she didn't," The Horse yawned. 'And that is good enough for me. Well, I'll be seein' ya if you see me first."

Fortunately, The Horse does not see well . . .

Lacrosse Could Be Finished As Tar Heel Sport

Tar Heel Sports

By Tom Peacock

The Fate Of A Sport

Now that lacrosse coach Allan Moore has left Carolina, there is some concern, especially among the players, about the fate of this sport. There is good reason to believe that Moore's exit heralds the end of lacrosse as a varsity sport at Carolina. Interest in lacrosse has been picking up on the campus for the past two years, however, and it would be unfortunate at best to end a sport that has provided an interest and outlet for so many people.

There are a number of reasons that cause people associated with lacrosse to have concern over its fate on the campus. Several years ago a long range plan for lacrosse was developed, but Bill Darden, the coach, left, and the sport has been on an indefinite basis since. Now that Moore is leaving, chances of the Athletic Association hiring a full-time replacement appear slim.

In the first place, the sport is not yet popular throughout the south, making schedule difficulties. The Athletic Association has been willing to encourage the sport, but there are only a few teams in the area who play it. They are Duke, Virginia, Washington and Lee and Maryland. Other competition comes from the established teams in the East, the so-called powers of lacrosse, thus the Tar Heels get whipped.

Players Want it

The players want lacrosse next year. They figure they can get a schedule, and the equipment is here and paid for, another talking point in their favor. There are questions to be answered, however. Will the sport attract interest? To survive, we need State, Wake Forest, and others nearby playing it. In the new conference, the emphasis for a well-rounded sports program will not be directed to lacrosse, soccer, or gymnastics. The question, then, is—will others drop it, or will others start it. The former seems more likely.

There are many misconceptions about the sport. A Yankee kid from Worchester came to Chapel Hill last year and someone mentioned lacrosse.

"The Cross? Good school."

He was speaking of Holy Cross, commonly known in New England as "The Cross," and displayed about as much ignorance about lacrosse as the rest of us. No, lacrosse is not a strictly Yankee sport, and all Yankees are not born with a stick in their hand. It is not strictly a Maryland or Baltimore game, either, although it flourishes there.

On the UNC team this year were 46 players. Seven were from Maryland, four from South Carolina, two each from Washington, Florida, Virginia, New York, and Connecticut, three from Georgia, and 17 from North Carolina. It has grown to be a local sport, and that roster can compare favorably with any other sport's. Next year's captains are Tommy Stokes of Raleigh and Newt Barkley from New Orleans, La.

Not A Slaughter

The game is not legalized slaughter as some suspect, though it is a rough sport. The players are well equipped with the proper pads for the vulnerable parts of the body, and the game is no more harmful than baseball. It is the oldest sport native to the United States, an old Indian game, and is called the fastest game on two feet. It takes a number of special skills and techniques. It is often like running the bases with a bat in your hand, hitting the ball at second, catching it at third, and slamming it across the plate seconds later.

Certainly we should encourage lacrosse—as the CAA has done in the past—if there is interest on the campus. One answer is a lacrosse club, but such groups seldom work, needing official sanction for schedules, insurance, and primarily, the guidance of a cocah. Another answer may be intramural lacrosse. If a four or eight team league on the campus flourished, interest would be stimulated, and intercollegiate lacrosse would be saved. All this conjecture hinges on the question of whether the CAA will drop the sport. No one knows the answer, and the decision is up to Dean A. W. Hobbs' sports committee of the Athletic Council. The reason for the conjecture is that we have no coach, and it doesn't appear that the CAA should, would, or could go the expense of hiring a coach for this sport alone. At present, no one knows a man on the staff capable of taking over the job.

The Idea Is Good

The idea for all athletics is good, so this column endorses a movement to keep lacrosse, if some plan could be arranged to keep the sport from facing this problem every year. The sport must be built, and a Class C team should not be fielded against Class B and A competition. It does little good to schedule eight matches against the top powers only to lose each year. We do not play 20 games in football with Notre Dame, Michigan State, or Southern California.

Allen Moore Leaves His Coaching Position

Lacrosse And Soccer Coach Leaves UNC After Three Improving Years With Team

By John Hussey

Al Moore, who has coached three seasons of lacrosse and two of soccer here at Carolina, resigned from his position last week.

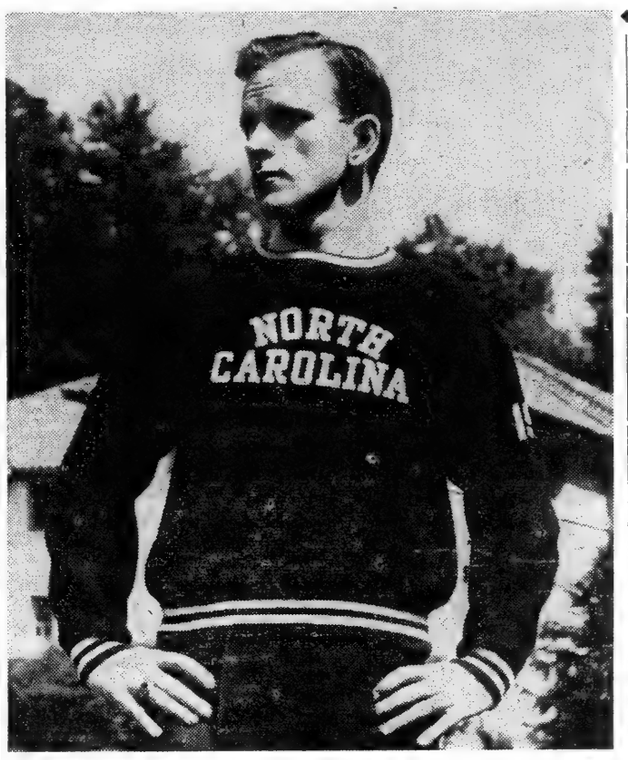
Moore, a native of Springfield, Mass., came here in the spring of 1951 to take over the position vacated by Marvin Allen who went into service. Since that time he has led the two minor sports through successful seasons and has made much improvement in both fields.

Moore attended Springfield College in his home town where he was a standout in both sports. He was elected to an All-American soccer team in New England where it is one of the top sports.

He was also a star lacrosse player for the Maroons, being chosen on several all-star teams.

His best season in lacrosse here was last year, when his team won five, tied one, and lost six. It was chosen as the number twenty-four team in the nation, an improvement of twelve places over the '51 team and 18 over the one of 1950.

Two new records were set by members of his lacrosse teams during his stay here. The most impressive was the one by Lew Floyd who established a new national mark for goalie saves at 209 in 1952. Floyd broke this record by one this year.



The other record was set by Dickie Harrall in his freshman year, 1952. Harrall's mark was 28 goals, a new scoring mark at Chapel Hill. Although he led the team in scoring this year also, he failed to set a new mark because he was absent from several games through illness. However, he still has two more chances.

Moore's outstanding soccer player was Eddie Foy who was named to an All-American team in 1951.

While coaching here, Moore was doing graduate work also, and received his Master's Degree in Education last Summer.

Last year he was head coach of the Southern team in the North-South all-star game at Baltimore. This year he will serve as assistant coach on the same team. The match will be held on June 6.

As yet, he has no definite plans for next year, but would like to carry on with his coaching.

AL MOORE
. . . departing lacrosse coach

Monogram Club

There will be a meeting of the Monogram Club tonight at 7:15.

In The Majors

National League

New York at Brooklyn, (night).
Chicago at Milwaukee, (night).
St. Louis at Cincinnati, (night).
Philadelphia at Pittsburgh, (Twi-night double-header).

American League

New York 3, Washington 1.
Detroit at Chicago, (night).
Cleveland at St. Louis, (night)
Boston at Philadelphia, (night).

Pi Phi, Carr Win Murals

Pi Beta Phi Sorority and Carr Dormitory received cups for their respective intramural championships at the WAA awards picnic last week. Alpha Delta Pi and Kenan Dorm were runners-up for the championships.

Five girls received awards on the basis of participation, sportsmanship, and cooperation. They were Margaret Dickinson, Grace Doar, Gay Hogan, Betsy Norwood and Rachel Williams.

Plaques were presented to the winners in each sport. These winners were: volleyball, Pi Phi; Basketball, Kenan; Hockey, Tri Delts; Softball, Kenan; Tennis, Kenan; Badminton, Kenan; Ping Pong, Pi Phi; Shuffleboard, Pi Phi; Archery, ADPi; Swimming, Town; and Golf, McIver.

Monograms went to Elizabeth Ann Collet, Mary Ruth Davis, Clara Gable, Joyce Gouge, Connie DeLancey, Gay Hogan, Dot Lowenstein, Mary Mitchell, Pepper Stetson, Rachael Williams, Nancy Woodruff, Jane Allen, Sue Ambler, Carolyn Johnson, Pat George, and Johnsie Bennett Long.

BULLETIN

HOYLAKE, Eng., May 27. (SS)—Harvie Ward defeated Frank Stranahan one up after 18 holes here this afternoon in the fourth round of the British Amateur.

The Carolina graduate and defending champion was three up after nine holes with a three-under 33. Ward defeated Stranahan last year to win the title.

GREATEST OF HITCHCOCK'S THRILLERS!

STARRING MICHAEL REDGRAVE MARGARET LOCKWOOD PAUL LUKAS CECIL PARKER DIRECTED BY ALFRED HITCHCOCK

'THE LADY Vanishes'

"A Brilliant Melodrama." —N.Y. Times

"Full of surprises, horrors, thrills, even humor." —New Yorker

"The most entertaining melodrama of Hitchcock's career!" —Newsweek Magazine

Re-Released thru United Artists

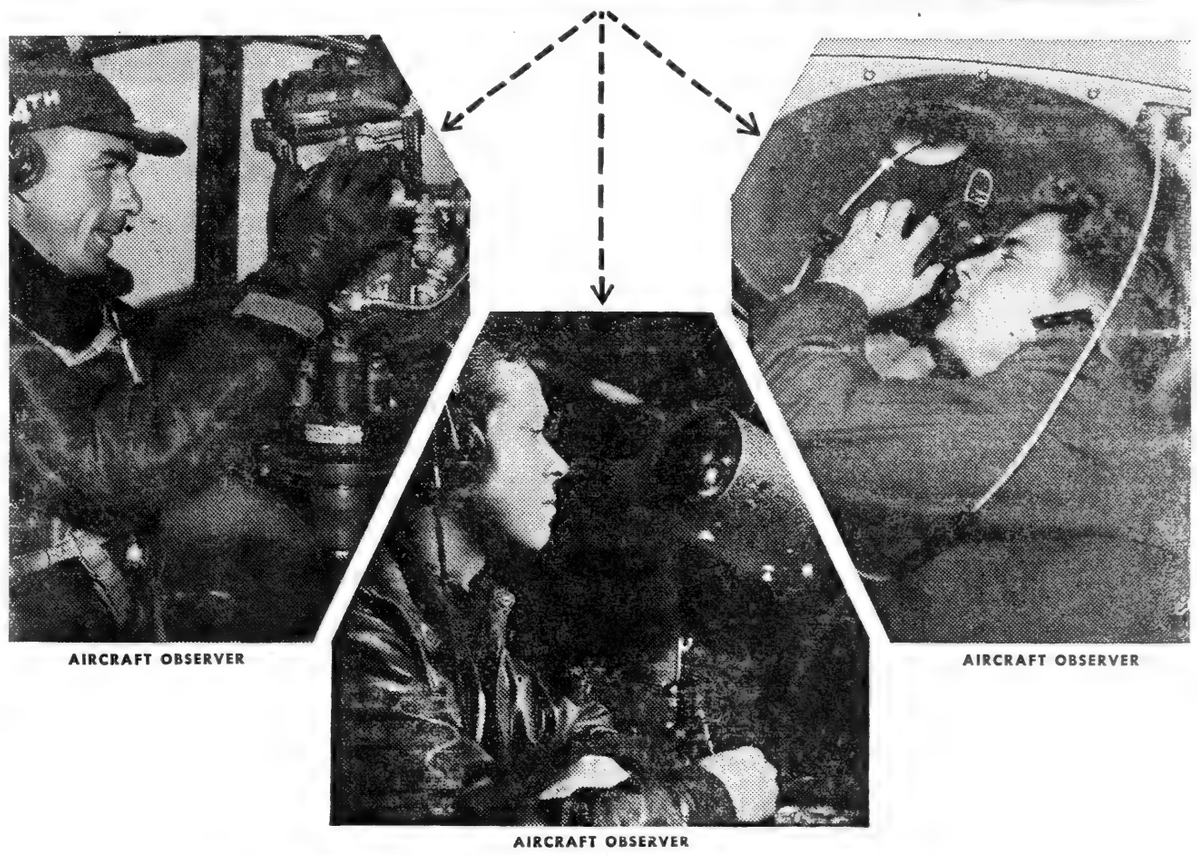
Now Playing Varsity

For Graduation . . .

GIVE CAROLINA MEMORIES

Wherever your graduate may go in the years ahead, the golden days at Chapel Hill will be remembered with warmth. The gift of a well-chosen book will provide a focus for those memories.

Memories of an Old Time Tarheel
Kemp Plummer Battle's fine story of the early days of the University. ——— $1.00



The Campus of the First State University
History of, and guide to the University, by U.N.C.'s own Archibald Henderson. Illustrated. ——— $5.00

The Early Architecture of North Carolina
The haunting beauty of the Old North State is captured in the 281 photographs in this book. — $12.50

Gift-Wrapping Is Free At

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

TRIPLE THREAT MAN!

AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

The Brains of the Team

Teamwork can work miracles. In a football game the man who sparks these miracles is the quarterback. He's the man who calls the signals. There's a man who calls the signals for an Air Force flying team, too!

They call him an Aircraft Observer.

Do YOU have what it takes to become an Aircraft Observer?

It isn't easy. It's tough. You have to be a MAN to qualify as an Aircraft Observer. But when you are one, brother, you're SOMEBODY! The success or failure of a mission involving over a million dollars worth of flight equipment depends on you.

THE AIRCRAFT OBSERVER IS THE SOMEBODY WHO:

As Bombardment Officer, is number one man on a bombing run, the man who controls the plane in the target area!

As Navigation Officer, is the pilot's guiding hand on every flight!

As Radar Officer, is master of a new science and operator of the device that sees beyond human sight!

As Aircraft Performance Engineer Officer, is the one who "keeps the plane flying", the man who knows his plane inside and out, who keeps it fit for the skies and sees that it stays there!

If YOU can accept a challenge like this, you'll take your place beside the best—you'll find your future in the clouds!

TO BE QUALIFIED you must be single, a citizen, between 19 and 26½ years old, have had at least 2 years of college and be in tip top physical shape. If this describes you, then YOU, too, can qualify. Today!

HERE'S WHAT YOU'LL GET! The world's best training. Good food and plenty of it. Uniforms, flight clothes, equipment. Medical and dental care. Free insurance. Flight training in Uncle Sam's greatest aircraft.

AND THEN, AFTER GRADUATION, you'll win your silver wings, and earn more than $5000 a year as an Air Force Lieutenant. You'll enjoy an adventurous, exciting career with a hand-picked crew of real men. You'll be THE BRAINS OF THE TEAM, A TRIPLE THREAT MAN . . . as a Bombardment Officer, as a Navigation Officer, as a Radar Officer, as an Aircraft Performance Engineer.

THE SOONER YOU APPLY, THE SOONER YOU FLY!

GET THE DETAILS: Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer. Or write to Director of Training, Headquarters, USAF, Washington 25, D.C., Attention: Aviation Cadet Branch. If you are in a school that has an Air Force ROTC program, see your Professor of Air Science and Tactics.

New Aircraft Observer Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Two Weeks

U.S. AIR FORCE

AIRCRAFT OBSERVER PROGRAM

McDaniel Wins Phi Bete Prize

John Lewis McDaniel has been awarded the Phi Beta Kappa Award, it was announced yesterday.

This award is a $150 cash prize given to the rising junior on the self-help list who has the highest average.

McDaniel is from Gibsonville.

The award, started in 1941, is given annually by the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. It was raised from $100 to $150 this year.

Robert Winship Heath was awarded the Archibald Henderson Prize in Mathematics, Dean of Awards Ernest L. Mackie announced yesterday.

The award, established in 1908, is a gold medal. It is offered annually to the student who is judged by the faculty as having the highest order of mathematical ability and future promise.

Winship is a senior from Chapel Hill.

—Moorhead—

(Continued from page 1)

In 1943 he was appointed Deputy chief of operations and the executive officer of organization and division at the Pentagon in Washington, D. C. He held this position until 1949. It seems that about this time he was getting tired of the North and wanted to come back down South. He was born in South Carolina and received most of his military training in the Southeastern United States. So he requested AROTC duty in the Southeast, and took his post at Carolina in August, 1949.

He says the ROTC programs have a positive value for the student. He believes that Cadets should be given the responsibilities of running their corps with a minimum of help from the faculty staff.

About the current investigation, started at Colgate University, of the impact of ROTC courses on colleges across the country, he said, "It is the hope of the ROTC that its courses are of such scope and calibre that they can be accepted profitably with the other courses are planned after careful courses of the college." ROTC consideration of their academic value and after consultation with experts in education, he added.

The main concern in the investigations at present, he said, is the credits and the time taken up in ROTC courses. Every college should examine its ROTC program and make changes in the curriculum or methods of instruction as such changes are found necessary, he said.

"I have gained a great deal of personal satisfaction in my career in the Air Force," he said. "The work concerned in a military career, the working with people, the travel involved, all are invaluable to broadening one's concepts."

Again he pointed out that he is an Air Force man for good. And after his studies at Maxwell Field, the Air Force will show him where he goes from there.

MOREHEAD CITY—An 18-year-old University of North Carolina freshman became the first entry in this year's "Miss North Carolina" contest this week.

The first to register was Miss Anne Jacobs of Chapel Hill, who lists her measurements as a "perfect" 36-24-36. Sponsors of the contest expect about 35 entries in all for the event which will be held here July 15-17.

The winner will get a $1,000 scholarship, a lovely wardrobe and an expense paid trip to the Miss America contest in Atlantic City, N. J., in September.

70 Teachers Are Returning From Practice

The 70 student teachers from the School of Education who have been spending the spring quarter cadet teaching at various schools throughout the state will return to the campus Saturday.

An important part of the quarter's work will take place during the three following days, June 1-3, when they will meet for group and individual summaries and evaluation sessions following their practice teaching experience.

On Monday, June 1, they will meet with staff supervisors. Tuesday morning will be devoted to group and subject conferences, the afternoon to "problem" clinics.

A banquet for the student teachers is planned for Tuesday night at Lenoir Hall with Chancellor House as guest speaker. On Wednesday the teachers will meet for individual conferences with their supervisors.

REPUBLIC OF KOREA PRESIDENT Syngman Rhee (back to camera) pins a Korean military medal on the tunic of Capt. Joseph McConnell, Jr., as Capt. Manuel J. Fernandez waits his turn to be similarly decorated. The two American Air Force pilots are the world's leading jet aces. McConnell has downed 16 enemy jets, while Fernandez has 14 MIG's to his credit.—NEA Radiophoto.

Sig Nu Takes Golf Tourney

The Sigma Nu golf team took the intramural golf championship from the SPE's by a 12-6 score.

Low man for the victors was Bob Page with a one-over-par 73. Page put together nine-hole rounds of 37-36 for his total. He and Dave Elliot teamed together to defeat George Hall and Fred Prescott 9-0.

Results:

Page (Sig Nu) defeated Hall, 3-0. Elliot (Sig Nu) defeated Prescott, 3-0. Page and Elliot defeated Hall and Prescott, 3-0.

Beck (SPE) defeated Bischoff, 3-0. Watkins, (Sig Nu) defeated Neville, 3-0. Back and Neville defeated Watkins and Bischoff, 3-0.

Campus Briefs

Semper Fidelis

Semper Fidelis Society will hold its last meeting of the year tonight at 7:30 in the Naval Armory.

Freshman Camp

The Freshman Camp planning committee will hold its last meeting of the Spring Quarter tonight at 7 o'clock at the YMCA. The camp schedule will be drawn up into its final working form.

Room Reservations

The Housing Office advises students to reserve rooms for Fall Quarter as soon as possible, or they may have to sleep in the basement of Cobb Dorm for a while. If you reserve a room and then decide not to use it, let the Housing Office know early so the room can be reassigned.

Students From India

The students from India wish to express their appreciation to the individuals and organizations no campus who helped with the recent showing of films to the Indian students.

Travel Agency

Students are reminded that the Graham Memorial Travel Agency will be closed after tomorrow, the last day of classes.

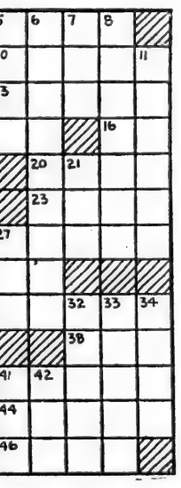
Commencement Guests

Graduating seniors who wish dormitory reservations for relatives during commencement are requested to notify James Wadsworth at the Housing Office.

Joint Recital

Two juniors in the Music Department will give a joint recital of clarinet and piano tonight at 8:30 in Hill Hall. The two soloists are James Headlee, clarinet, and Lee Bostian, piano. Headlee will be accompanied at the piano by Art Winsor.

HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION Rocky Marciano, shown shaking hands with Max Surkont, Milwaukee Braves pitcher before the second game of a twi-light double-header between the Milwaukee Braves and the Cincinnati Reds in Milwaukee. Surkont set a modern league record by striking out nine straight Reds. Rocky is in Milwaukee to see ten round heavyweight fight between Ezzard Charles and Larry Watson. Charles is reported to be seeking a title fight with Marciano.—NEA Telephoto.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1. Rough, matted hair
5. Tart
9. City in Japan
10. Protuberances
12. Ballots
13. Rugged mountain crest
14. Evening (poet.)
15. Knight's title
16. Registered Nurse (abbr.)
17. To ship again
20. Girl's name (poss.)
22. River (So. Am.)
23. Small freshwater fish
24. Serious violation of law
27. Fountains
28. Italian coin
29. A pronoun
30. Of grandparents
31. Guarantee against risk
35. Masurium (sym.)
36. A wing
38. Cut, as grass
39. Flat-floored desert basin (Geol.)
41. "—— in Wonderland"
43. Type of automobile
44. Bills
45. Measure of medicine
46. Questions

DOWN

1. Cooking range
2. Detests
3. Part of "to be"
4. Man's nickname
5. White ant (var.)
6. Halls
7. Fish
8. To lessen reputation
9. Across
11. Becomes aware of
15. Mineral spring
18. Lofty mountains (C. Asia)
19. Frozen water
21. One of the sons of Jacob (Bib.)
24. Treads heavily
25. Emulated
26. Man's name
27. Bog
29. Crested hawk-parrot
32. Eskimo boat
33. Moves from side to side
34. Female sheep
37. Narrow roadway
40. Fuss
41. Sleeveless garment (Arab.)
42. Man's nickname

Yesterday's Answer

ALAS HULU
CLEFT ADOPT
ALATE HORSE
WAD RA SITE
MEAL SAP
OSLO RIP RE
SKOAL TASTE
TU TUB LOSS
ELA GATE
OLLA GO TAB
ICONS KOALA
DANTE YUCCA
PEAR OTTO

5-27

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

PICKARD ROOFING CO. BUILDing supplies, hardware, and paint. Free estimates on old and new work. Main street Carrboro. Phone 9-5693. (chg 1x1)

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

FOR SALE 6B

1949 FORD CUSTOM - CLUB Coupe. Radio and Heater. Can be seen at 44 D Glen Lennox after 5 p.m. on weekdays, and after 1 p.m. on Saturday, or call 9-6367. (chg 1x1)

EMPLOYMENT WANTED 5

PART OR FULL TIME

Students for Summer months. Appointments selling nationally advertised product following brief, thorough training period. Remuneration average—$70 to $140 per week. Preference given to students with automobile and/or family responsibilities. See Mr. Jones at Carolina Inn. Wednesday or Thursday from 1-5 or 7-9 p.m. No phone calls please. Chg 1x1

WANTED TO BUY 24A

1947 or 1948 MODEL JEEP OR any other earlier model in good condition. Phone 95665 or see Dick O'Neal, 3 Justice St. 1-c8020-6

HELP WANTED 8

SUMMER JOB—SUMMER STUdent, preferably with bookkeeping experience, for part-time work starting at once and running right through the summer. Apply after 6 p.m. please. INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. Chg. 1x2

WE HAVE SEVERAL POSITIONS open in retail selling during summer months. Apply Mr. Lane, THE SPORT SHOP, N. Columbia St. Chg. 1x1

FOR RENT 6A

ROOMS AVAILABLE FOR SUMmer, reasonable rates, excellent location. Contact Harold Rhodes, phone 9-2071. (Chg 1x1)

APT. IN CARRBORO TO SUB-LET for Summer. Living room bedroom kitchen and bath completely furnished. $50.00. Phone 9-7862. Mrs. Dwight Clark, Box 402, Carrboro. Chg. 1x1

LOST

GLASSES WITH YELLOWISH brown frames, left ear piece broken. Lost on campus. James Willis, 207 Lewis Dorm. Chg 1x1

For That Summer Trip or Graduation Gift
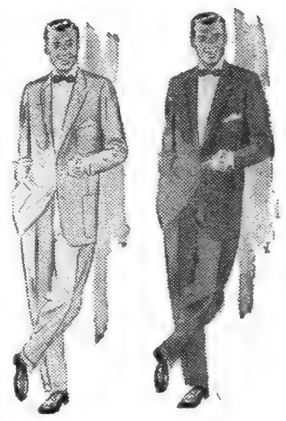
See Us For
SAMSONITE LUGGAGE
Also
MANY SIZED TRUNKS
Berman's Dept. Store

NYLON CORD PANTS
$4.98
SWIM TRUNKS
WALKING SHORTS
BEACH SANDALS
Seersucker
SPORT SHIRTS
$1.98
Berman's Dept. Store

JUST RECEIVED
New Shipment of
CHARCOAL GREY
Nylon Cord
SUITS
32.50
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

Carolina
TODAY
M-G-M's LOVE-AND-LAUGH THRILLER!
Queen of society tangles with a rugged man-of-thrills!
FAST COMPANY
HOWARD KEEL
POLLY BERGEN
MARJORIE MAIN
Marjorie "Ma Kettle" Main is a riot!
NINA FOCH · ROBERT BURTON
Cartoon—News
Refrigerated Atmosphere

SWIM! FISH!
PICNIC!
Spend An Enjoyable
Afternoon In The Sun At
EASTWOOD LAKE
First Road On The Left
After Brady's On The
DURHAM ROAD



UNCLE POGO
SO-SO STORIES
— ARE AT —
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

THIS BORES US AS MUCH AS IT BORES YOU—
BUT —
COLLEGE OUTLINES
WILL SEE YOU THROUGH —
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

STRETCH
Clothing Dollars Like This:

Buy 2 Cool PALM BEACH* Suits at 35.95 each

SWITCH Coats and Trousers Enjoy 4 Smart Summer Outfits!
Palm Beach WOVEN BY GOODALL-SANFORD, INC. ONLY
Fits Better Than Suits Costing Much More!
Patented collar and shoulder construction tailors in handsome drape, flattering fit, seldom found in suits costing much more. Besides, you get Palm Beach's famed coolness and wrinkle resistance—plus a wardrobe of 4 smart outfits for the price of 2 suits.
*Reg. T. M. Goodall-Sanford, Inc. Mohair, rayon, acetate and 5% nylon, in most styles.
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Sunny and mild with 82 high.

The Daily Tar Heel

ART
It's less abstract this time. Take a look. Page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 161 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, MAY 29, 1953 SIX PAGES TODAY

THE BEAMING SENIORS SHOWN here are Steve Perrow of Bedford, Va., and Carman Nahm of Deland, Fla., recently chosen Mr. Alumnus and Miss Alumna for "outstanding qualities of character, leadership and scholarship." The two students received a three-year membership in the General Alumni Association and were awarded trophies in the first occasion of the scheduled annual event.

His Final Docking

Kings And Midshipmen Were Keating's Cargo

By Richard Creed

Discipline, even though imposed, is esential to any young man's life, according to Capt. J. S. Keating, commanding officer of the NROTC, who is resigning June 4 after two years service at Carolina.

Captain Keating is a big, ruddy-faced man, forceful of speech and body. He believes strongly that every person owes his country some time in the public service. "whether it be armed forces, air warden, county judge, alderman or chairman of a blood drive."

"I imagine," he said, "that many of my midshipmen consider me unreasonable in my insistence on the highest standards while they are wearing the Navy uniform. I ask them to remember that I have been in the Navy for 34 years. In all that time, although I have been only a small part of the Navy, the Navy has always been a very large part of me."

At the age of 16, Captain Keating cose Annapolis and the Navy in preference to Harvard and MIT because he believed that a life in the service would offer him the most personal satisfaction. Nothing has happened during the past 34 years to alter that belief, he said.

His early career was Navy routine. He traveled completely around the world. He entered Columbia University where he was awarded his master's degree in 1930. He "enjoyed" the next term as an instructor at Annapolis.

On Pearl Harbor Day, he was in Mid-Atlantic in command of the destroyer "Nicholson," escorting a convoy from Iceland to Nova Scotia. For the remainder of World War II he was commander of escorts with convoys between the United States and Iceland, Scotland, and the Mediterranean, with a short tour in command of the Fleet Anti-Submarine School at Key West.

What he considers "perhaps the highlight" of his career occurred in 1945. He was in command of the massive destroyer escort which took President Roosevelt to the Yalta conference. At this time President Roosevelt directed Captain Keating to Saudi Arabia, where he embarked King Ibn Saud and a retinue of 42 Arabs for a conference with the President. This voyage from Arabia to Yalta proved to be one of the most interesting ever taken by Captain Keating and his crew because of the Arabic influence.

Later in 1945 he was head of a Naval Mission to China, and for the next two years he trained thousands of Chinese Nationalist sailors. In 1947 he commanded the cruiser Manchester. He was commander of Great Lakes, the world's largest Naval training center, from 1948 through 1950, when he came to Chapel Hill as commanding officer of the Carolina NROTC.

In addition to King Ibn Saud, Captain Keating has met, at various times, the kings of England, Norway, Belgium and Greece. He has met Generalissimo Chiang-Kai-Shek and Generals Marshall, Clark, and MacArthur.

Captain Keating noted that at present the "impact of ROTC on our colleges" is being nationally recognized as a matter of vital interest in the field of education and is actually under study at the present time in the University of North Carolina. He had this to say about the matter:

"With regard to the impact of the NROTC training on colleges, I feel that the 'bite' taken out of elective subjects is compensated by discipline invoked on the midshipmen, by the excellent professional instruction, and by the opportunities presented for travel and a career."

Captain Keating will spend this summer in New England. His plans for the future are not completely formulated.

Why did the captain come to Carolina? Because he always "wanted NROTC duty and because Chapel Hill is so favorably known from pre-flight days as a pro-Navy college." He added that he had never regretted his decision and finds Chapel Hill "perhaps the most attractive town in the country from the standpoint of hospitality, climate and natural beauty."

About leaving Chapel Hill and Carolina he said, "I have always received the finest cooperation from both the faculty and administration of the University and will leave Chapel Hill with the deepest regrets."

Final Exam Schedule

No student may be excused from a scheduled examination except by the University Infirmary, in case of illness, or by his General College Faculty adviser or by his dean, in case of any other emergency compelling his absence.

All 3 p.m. classes and Bus. Adm. 71 & 72 and all classes not otherwise provided for in this schedule	Saturday, May 30, 8:30 a.m.
All 10 a.m. classes	Saturday, May 30, 2 p.m.
Common Examination (All French, German, and Spanish courses numbered 1, 2, 3 & 4)	Monday, June 1, 8:30 a.m.
All 11 a.m. classes	Monday, June 1, 2 p.m.
All 1 p.m. classes	Tuesday, June 2, 8:30 a.m.
All 12 noon classes	Tuesday, une 2, 2 p.m.
All 2 p.m. classes and zoology 104	Wednesday, June 3 8:30 a.m.
All 8 a.m. classes	Wednesday, June 3, 2 p.m.
All 9 a.m. classes	Thursday, June 4, 8:30 a.m.

7 Students, 1 Teacher Get Fulbright Awards

Seven students and one faculty member here have received Fulbright scholarships for the coming academic year, it was announced yesterday.

Dr. George Taylor was the faculty member selected, and Jack Averitt, James A. Westfall, Robert Hooper, Frederick W. Vogler, Jackson Sparks, William J. Hall and Talbot R. Selby were the students honored.

Dr. Taylor will be associated for one year with the University of Toulouse and the University of Paris while working on research concerning the history of France during the French Revolution. He received his B.A. degree from Rutgers University, and his M.A. and Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin. He taught for two years at Michigan State University before joining the History Department here last September.

Jack Averitt received his B.S. degree at Georgia State Teachers College, his M.A. at the University of Georgia and is currently working toward his Ph.D. at the University of North Carolina. He will do special work at Kings College of the University of London in history.

Miss Westfall will study zoology in Naples. She received her B.A. from the College of the Pacific and her M.A. from Mills College. At present she is research assistant to Dr. Charles D. Metz in the Zoology Department.

A senior at Carolina, Sparks will study French at the University of Lille. He receives his A.B. degree June 8.

Hall received his A.B. degree at Johns Hopkins University and his M.A. in mathematical statistics at the University of Michigan. He is at present working toward his Ph.D. degree in statistics at Carolina and will study for a year at the University of Manchester.

Hooper will receive his M.A. degree in August before sailing for a year's study of French at the University of Lyons. He received his A.B. from Carolina in 1951.

A year of study in French has also been awarded to Volger at the University of Strasbourg. He receives his A.B. from UNC June 8.

Selby will study classics at the University of Rome, Italy.

Botany Coed Wins Awards For Her Paper

Miss Elizabeth Kathleen Goldie-Smith, of Leicester, England, a graduate student in botany who will receive her Ph.D. at commencement, has been awarded the William Chambers Coker Award for her dissertation entitled "Studies in the Plasmodiophoraceae."

Miss Goldie - Smith also won the Foteat award of the North Carolina Academy of Science at its spring meeting at State College for the best paper presented before the Academy in the field of botany.

The Coker award is a $50 award presented annually by the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society to the graduate student whose thesis or dissertation shall be adjudged the best of those submitted for a graduate degree in the Science Division.

Miss Goldie-Smith was born at Leicester of Scottish parents. She is related to Thomas Carlyle on her mother's side.

She attended Royal Holloway College of London University where she received a BS degree in botany. After teaching in a girls school she returned to get her MS degree.

She came to the University on the Rose Sidwick Memorial Fellowship, awarded by the American Association of University Women.

Extra Credits Are Available In Summer

"How about earning credit for an extra course this Summer while you are working or on vacation," Mary Cobb suggested yesterday.

Miss Cobb is head of the University's Bureau of Correspondence Instruction, agency which handles the extra-classroom work. Credit is granted toward bachelor's degrees for work taken.

Miss Cobb suggested the courses would be particularly helpful to those unable to attend Summer School but who must remove course deficiencies. Arrangements to enroll should be made before leaving Chapel Hill, she advised.

Among the courses offered will be art, business administration, comparative literature, dramatic art, education, English, geology and geography, German, history, Latin, mathematics, music, philosophy, poly science, psychology, religion and sociology and anthropology.

A $2 registration fee is charged each student yearly, regardless the number of courses taken. Individual course fees are in addition to this basic charge. Five hour courses are $18 for in-state students and $21 for out-of-state students. Three hour courses are $11 for in-staters and $12.50 for out-of-staters.

Summer Paper Begins June 11

Publication of a Summer School newspaper will begin on Thursday, June 11, Daily Tar Heel Editor Rolfe Neill said yesterday.

Neill said there would be 10 issues of the Summer Tar Heel, every Tuesday and Friday except for the first issue on Thursday. Neill will be business manager of the summer paper.

Those interested in working for the summer paper should contact Neill at The Daily Tar Heel offices, second floor Graham Memorial.

Thirty

This morning's Daily Tar Heel is the last for Spring Quarter. Publication will be resumed Fall Semester.

There will be a Summer Tar Heel published on Tuesday and Friday each week during the first session of Summer School.

CAMPUS SEEN

Student body president slipping auto bomb onto engine of fraternity brother's car.

Drowsy footballer sleeping through one political science class and right into another.

Seniors experiencing mixed emotions about leaving Chapel Hill for good as graduation approaches.

Scholarships From Book-Ex Funds Ready

Students were invited yesterday to begin applying for some $30,000 to $40,000 forth of scholarship funds.

The money is this year's profit from University-operated campus stores. It comes from the operation of the Scuttlebutt, Circus Room in the Monogram Club, Book Exchange (Steele Dorm basement and Y,) cigar counter in Lenoir Hall and most of the proceeds from soft drink vending machines on campus.

Yesterday's anouncement by Professor D. D. Carroll, chairman of the University Scholarship Committee, said that "any student registered in the University, graduate, professional or undergraduate, is eligible to apply for aid from the Campus Stores Profits Fund for 1953-54."

Good scholastic standing and financial need are the basis of award, the anouncement said. Application blanks are available at the Student Aid Office, 302 South Building.

"Interested students should file application as promptly as possible," concluded the announcement.

The Trustees, in action last spring, directed that student-supported store profits go back to students. Previously the profit had been turned into the University's operating fund.

The $30,000 to $40,000 estimation was made by Business Manager Claude Teague last December. He stressed then that this was an estimate.

On the University Scholarship Committee are O. K. Cornwell, director of physical education, Claude Teague, University business manager, and Dean Thomas H. Carroll of the School of Business Administration.

PB Surplus Okay Is Council's Ruling

The Student Council, the highest court on campus, this week ruled that it is not unconstitutional for the Publications Board to have a surplus.

The council considered the case at the request of Gene Cook, Student Party chairman.

The Student Council ruled as follows: "Having received no concrete evidence that the Publications Board has not spent all of its appropriated funds (as appropriated from student fees by the student Legislature), the Student Council finds that the maintaining of a surplus by the Publications Board is not in violation of article I, section 4, subsection b of the Student Constitution."

The section referred to stated that all unused surplus of student organizations should revert to the general surplus of the student legislature.

The council ruled that income and profits from advertising could not be considered as "appropriated funds."

The council made two recommendations in regard to Legislature—Publications Board relations. The first one was that the two should meet in the near future to discuss their respective future policies. The second sugestion was that surpluses beyond the appropriated funds should in some way be provided for by the student Legislature.

Cook said, "I have asked President Bob Gorham to veto The Daily Tar Heel Budget so that the Legislature can lop off an amount from the appropriation to cover the surplus of the Publications Board."

Gorham said, "Cook has not formally come to me asking me to veto The Daily Tar Heel budget." Gorham signed the budget yesterday.

Gorham said, "In regard to the recent decision by the Student Council, I am requesting the Student Audit Board to make a thorough study of the Publications Board Financial policies."

"I feel that the recent controversies between the Publications Board and the Student Legislature are extremely unfortunate; the Student Audit Board is set up to handle difficulties such as this and I sincerely hope that a solution can be attained next fall," Gorham said.

Grants Are Established In Accounting

The University will award three undergraduate - level scholarships in accounting in the Fall.

These scholarships are available to rising seniors in the School of Business Administration. Each award is in the amount of a300.

Two grants will be made by the North Carolina Association of Certified Public Accountants. These are to be applied to tuition, matriculation, books and various fees, including those for student activities.

The CPA scholarships will be awarded by the University Scholarship Committee to students recommended by the Committee on Accounting Scholarships. Basis for award will be scholarship, character and financial need.

The third scholarship is one recently established by members of the accounting faculty in the memory of John L. Gouger who died in January. Mr. Gouger was a CPA, a graduate of the University in 1937, and utilities accountant for the University. He often taught accounting in the Business Administration School.

More On BA

A scholarship of $300 will be awarded beginning with the Fall Semester to "an outstanding male junior in the School of Business Administration who plans to enter the public accounting profession," it was announced yesterday.

Selection is to be based upon scholastic achievement, leadership qualities and financial need.

Selection of the recipient is to be made by a partner of the Greensboro office of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., and designated faculty members in the Accounting Department here.

Playmakers

The Playmakers will give their last performance of the season, an annual parody on playmaking and its difficulties, tomorrow night at 8:30 at the Playmakers Theater. Admission is free.

Following the performance, Director Samuel Selden will present achievement awards to some 50 of the group.

Farrell Named Summer Head

Student Body President Bob Gorham yesterday appointed Bob Farrell acting president to take over his duties during summer school.

Dusty Lamson will serve as acting secretary-treasurer.

The following people were appointed to serve on the Summer School Government Board: Malcolm Cox, Pete Adams, Bob Grimes, B. O. Anderson, Fred Mewhinney, Mary Helen Crain and Judy King.

Seniors Still May Join General Alumni Assn.

Graduating students will get another chance to join the General Alumni Association when they get their caps and gowns on the second floor, YMCA building beginning Wednesday.

A special booth will be set up to handle sales. Membership costs $1.00, a reduction from the regular $3.00 which will be the price to alumni after graduation.

Yackety Yacks

The final shipment of Yackety Yacks will be distributed today on the main floor of Graham Memorial from 2 to 6 p.m.

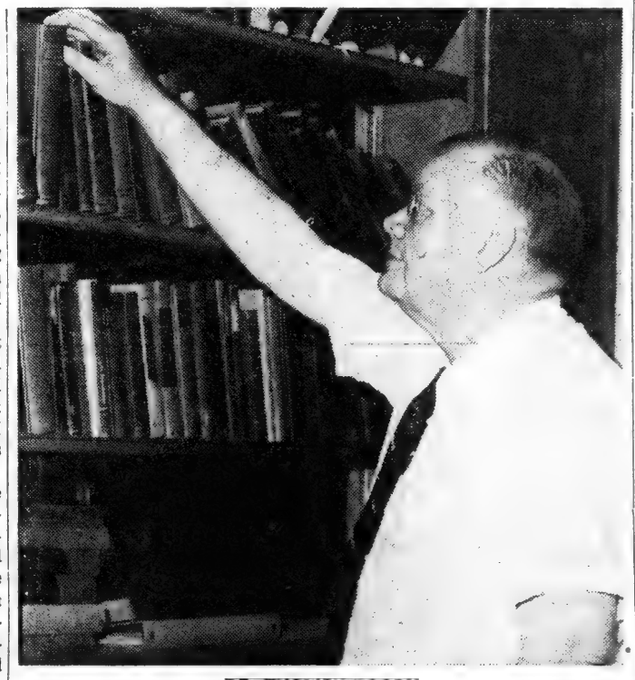
There probably will be no extra copies for sale this year. However, if some are available for sale, they will be sold Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 12.

Business Manager Russ Cowell said yesterday, "We're sorry there have been so many delays in distributing the Yacks this year, but there have been several late shipments by the printers."

Dream Comes True

Versatile Prof English Bagby Gives Practical Side To 16,000

By Jennie Lynn



He says that when he's not teaching psychology Carolina knows him as a hunter and fisherman. We should recognize Dr. English Bagby more as a fisher of life and men.

Filling his 62 years with being everything from the rear end of a camel a Playmakers' production, to the benefactor of self-help students in need of medicine during the depression, he has earned a happy life and many devoted friends.

While he was a sophmore at Princeton, there were two football players who were failing in several courses. Dr. Bagby coached them in psychology, and was such a good tutor that both of his students made A; he turned up with a B.

This experience won him the gratitude of his pupils and inspired a desire to make teaching psychology a career. After several psychology courses at Princeton he was determined to make this plan come true, not because he was enlivened by the classes—they completely disgusted him. "I never had

(See BAGBY, page 6)

DR. ENGLISH BAGBY

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publications of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily except Saturday, Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor — JOHN JAMISON
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — TOM PEACOCK

Night Editor for this issue: Dorman Cordell

Obviously

Reflection on the Student Legislature: If it takes some members as long to make up their beds as it does their minds no wonder they want the janitors to do it.

As Others See Us III

Martha Schaefer

(This is the final letter in a series written by members of a German student team here this year who recently returned home.—Ed.)

Dear friends,

Since 48 hours I am home again and I would like you to know that Helmuth and myself arrived safely in old Europe after a beautiful trip across the ocean. On our way we talked incessantly about Chapel Hill and even now I am thinking what might happen there and what our friends may be doing right now, at the very same moment. see, I am still living more in the United States than in Europe.

We had a very pleasant voyage regarding the time of the year. Neither Helmuth nor myself became seasick, we even won a price for dancing, inspite of the constant rolling of the ship which sometimes made it very difficult to stand straight on your two feet. (Vases and glasses on the dining-table had the same difficulty.)

On a gray and foggy morning we reached Ireland, the first glimpse of Europe, and our mood was very much like the weather. Late on Sunday night we went into Bremerhaven and since then the two of us are living in a continuous protest against almost everything.

Germany seems so small and packed, the people look funny and the cars look so silly, tiny like the box of safety matches. I think this attitude is very natural but very stupid too and I know it will change and we shall get back to our famous critical standpoint of view. And people seem to know so little about the United States, as little as we knew before we went over, and there will thousands of things to be explained and to be talked about.

The next morning after our return we got in contact with the American exchange office where a couple of bad news were waiting for us. Fortunately for him but unfortunately for us Mr. Wise moved to Bonn into a higher position and we shall miss him.

The students exchange programs are expected to be cut down to 20 per cent because of Eisenhower's politics. This certainly includes lots of American public affairs offices to be closed and this altogether is very sad.

Recently we heard that the former president of our university, professor Deutiche, has not been reelected. The student body had the best relationship with him and the students considered him to be the finest president we had in the last five years and to be "international." Probably certain members of the faculty did not like this and also a few were opposed to his close working together with the student government.

You probably can imagine that we went home in a slight depression and with very little courage for a new start. And we all know that it is going to be a new start. These past six months in the United States are a part in our lives incomparable to any other part. The understanding and knowledge we gained, the widely opened minds and doors we found and the friendship and kindness which accompanied us for a long time in a new world, influenced and even changed us.

Now I am back in the old environment and it is not the same anymore because my aspects have changed and time certainly didn't stand still at home. So it is a rather difficult beginning; but I am glad for it because I start newly after almost six unforgettable months, six of interesting, beautiful, happy and sad days I took with me a deep love for your country, a strong love because it was not easy to gain it and it cost a lot of effort.

Whoever has such a full heart as I have cannot say very much, and especially thanking somebody to whom you are deeply obliged and who gave you so much is very difficult. But I do want you to know that I shall never stop being thankful to you from all my heart for your friendship and all the unnamed things you did for us!

And already now I am looking forward to the day when we see us again, here or there. Till this time all my best wishes are with you, especially Elizabeth Gale whom I see growing and growing, who I hope is well and bringing joy and happiness to her parents.

Please give my regards to all our friends and give my love to Chapel Hill.

The most cordial greetings to you,

Sincerely yours,
Martha

New Criticism

English Club

Do you want to be a critic, a clever one? Then be a New Critic. Here's how: Take a poem like Herrick's "Upon Julia's Clothes:'

Whenas in silks my Julia goes,
Then, then, methinks how sweetly flows
The liquefaction of her clothes.

Next, when I cast mine eyes; and see
That brave vibration, each way free,
Oh, how that glittering taketh me!

Now start criticising your 17th century specimen in a dozen different ways: 1 The key image is liquid; Herrick undoubtedly was born under Aquarius and was an alcoholic.

2 Since a liquid is between a solid and a gas, the poem symbolizes the ambivalent transitional period of the erotic initiation ritual.

3 Julia is actually a mask for Julius, the masculine of Julia; Herrick was a homosexual.

4 Not at all! The poet was really a woman, for only a woman would be obsessed with clothing and with the wish to be "taken" which, of course, means back into the womb of her mother. Pure Electra Complex.

5 That decadent, bourgeois word "silk" proves Herrick was completely anti-proletarian. He raves about frilly fineries when the working classes starve.

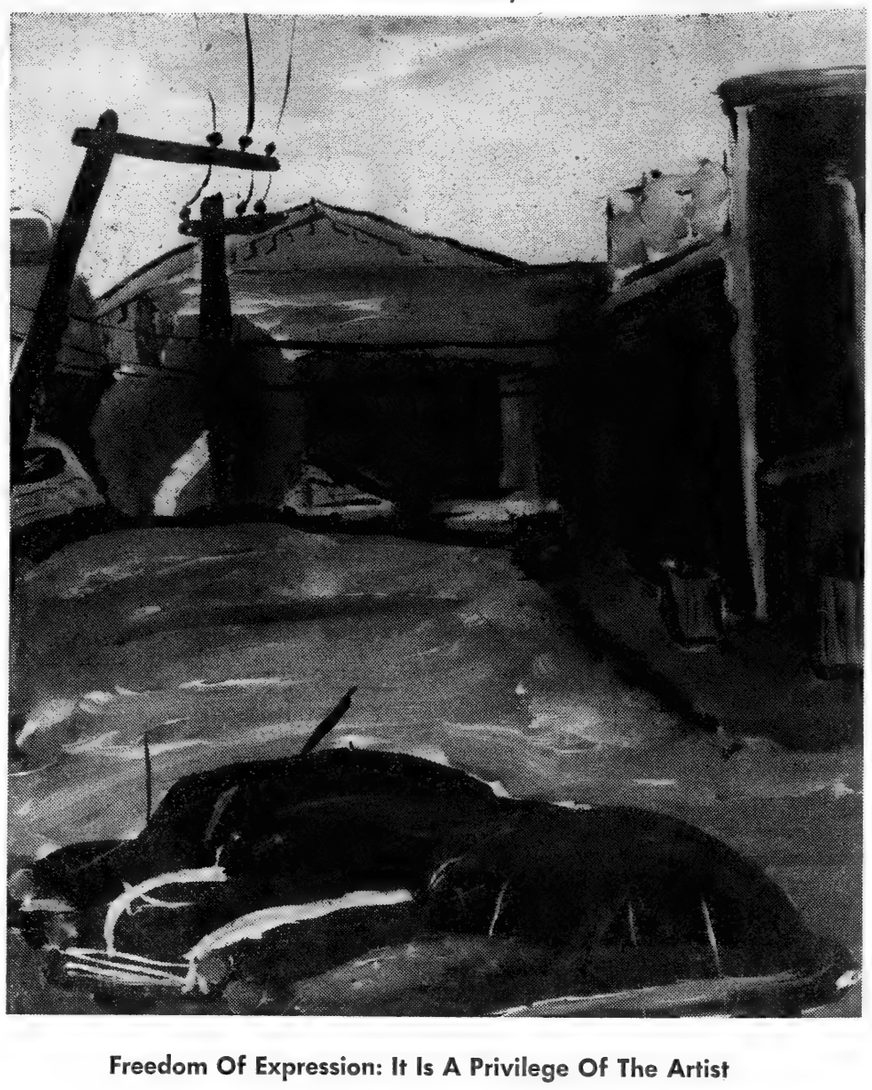
6 This is the myth of Aphrodite. Julia, like Aphrodite, is the idealized loved one; and the references to water in the first stanza refer to Aphrodite, who was sprung from the foam of the sea.

7 Here is a great moral allegory. There is temptation; yet there is restraint. There is Julia; yet there is Herrick. Julia is worldly Epicureanism and Herrick is heroic renunciation. The poem is a documentation of man's struggle and triumph with sin.

8 A subtle tension is created in the very first word of the poem, "whenas." Since the poem is a love lyric, it is evident that Herrick was making a lascivious pun on "Whenas in silks."

9 This flesh-pot lyric is a monstrous anomaly. Though it was written in the 17th century, it contains not a scrap of metaphysical reality or ambiguity. It is purely physical, which is to say, it is nothing.

10 It seems quite obvious Herrick possessed a kinetic, visual imagination, more sensitive to shape and movement than to color and sound. It is no wonder the texture suggests incest.



11 This poem is called a lyric, but its real form may be abstracted to the point of amalgamating form and content. Therefore, this poem is youth, for a lyric is a youth ritual.

12 The fact that Herrick titled his poem "Upon" rather than "On Julia's Clothes" is of utmost significance. "Upon" signifies a perspective of distance which would presuppose an epiphenomenological view of consciousness. Herrick's genius has been slighted all too much.

And which of these dozen criticisms is the right one? None, of course, for historical scholarship has very recently uncovered evidence that Marilyn Monroe's great, great, great . . . great grandmother was a close friend of Herrick's and was named — Julia.

Yr mst Obt, Hmbl & Dvtd Servant
Lear's Fool

'Port Hole Alley'

Freedom Of Expression: It Is A Privilege Of The Artist

An art major from Bluefield, W. Va., Ann McCulloch has done today's "Port Hole Alley." Describing her work, Miss McCulloch says:

Keats, in "Ode on a Grecian Urn," said: ". . . Beauty is truth . . ." I like to think that art is beauty, that we find truth in nature; hence, art is nature. Creative art would then be the selection, interpretation and arrangement of natural objects. Art that interprets an idea would be a form of abstraction. Abstraction comes only after familitrity with truth.

Photographers can catch the truth of nature, even in color, so it is the artist's privilege to distinguish his work from photography by capitalizing on freedom of expression. The utility of painting is not primarily ornamentation, but the organization of color, line, and texture into a unit.

I agree with B. M. Wadsworth who said, "Art is the coordination of the hand, eye, brain plus heart."

Art to me is an outlet and an expression which to others may be stimulating. My organization will vary with mood as often as with subject, and I expect the observer's reaction to it to vary equally as often.

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

THE HORSE was unashamedly crying. I was embarrassed and would not have looked, save it is an impressive sight when The Horse cries.

Impressive? It is fascinating! His eyes flood out of that silly, long face of his, they drift with the tide down to his velvet muzzle he sniffs; the eyes disappear; and in jig tome they are back where they belong: his eyes. And then he weeps some more. Eating one's eyes is infinitely harder than merely dotting 'em.

I wondered what was wrong?

"Lend me your hat," he asked, knocking it off my head without further ado. "Thank you, you are always so kind." He mashed a hoof through the crown of my Dobbs Twenty, or something (I got the head covering one day in Danzigers) and started waving it to and fro, like he had mosquitoes or fleas, or was a Signal Corps Scout.

"In praise of Old Nassau, my boys," he bellowed (off key, as usual), "Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!"

I was getting fed up on this Princestein stuff.

"Fifth Columnist!" he snarked. "Traitor, oaf, gamin! You somewhat Dook—erp, please forgive me, I do not wish to call too names. But you ire me. Loud, sing cuckoo! Our first President of the more or less, mainly less, Consolidated Universities, was a Princeton man named Caldwell." He cleared his throat and the bells in the Morehead-Emerson Tower (the Library's dunce-cap, to be specific) clanged otwenty minutes before time from the vibration.

"Boola Boola!" he roared, suddenly. "Many exhaustive researches, by Darwin, Huxley, and Bell. . . .!"

Hey, hey, hey, not that song. Please!

"I'm an Ivy Boy myself," The Horse chittered throatily, and how we hate him when he gets throaty! "And why not? Heck, I can eat ivy. You recognized that last one, that Hahvahd chant?"

Alas and welladay! Happy chernozem to you!

"The University of Virginia is the Yale of the South," The Horse stated. "And nuts to Athens, Georgia. "We are the Princestein of the South. Now, guess what university of noble name and like pretensions is the Hahvahd of the South?"

Queens?

"Became Liberty Hall in '75," The Horse snarked.

Kings?

"Is now Columbia," The Horse chittered.

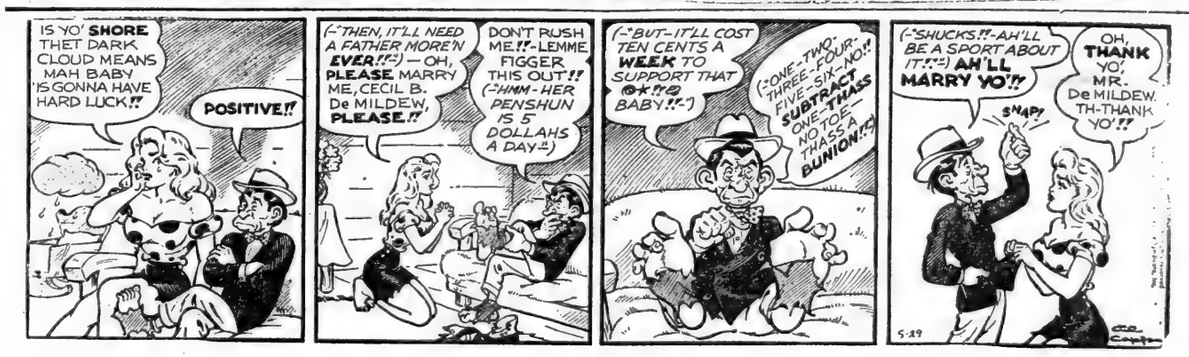
William & Mary?

"Who scored that touchdown against Hahvahd? William? Or Mary?" The Horse sneered. "Try again."

We were licked.

"So will Dook be, next year," The Horse stated. He beat his hooves on the earth, and six hundred Dook men, more or less, fainted in the excitement. Six hundred others started to brush up on Spelling and Geography to stay eligible; but I do not know eligible for what. "We're gonna beat 'em!"

Poooooooor Dooooooooke!



"Won't that sound good!" The Horse bellowed. "Won't it?"

Just great! Was it a guarantee?

"The only thing we guarantee at Carolina," The Horse snarked, "is sportsmanship. When we lose, we lose graciously."

(See HORSE, page 4)

Literary Critic

A. Z. F. Wood Jr.

No society is ever without a goodly proportion of literary critics. They are as numerous and common as mosquitos, which are harmless except for the few that breed Malaria and Yellow Fever. And all one has to do to find about thirty literary critics is to find one writer. If the writer is better than average, you can expect to find some three hundred literary critics in the near proximity. If the writer is someone like Ernest Hemingway or Thomas Wolfe, you could fire all the governmental employees in the United States, replace them with the literary critics you find, and still have a bureaucracy.

Literary critics were not born that way.(1) As a rule, they have had better opportunities than most people to find success.(2) But something went wrong somewhere and it's too late now.

Literary critics, as a rule, begin with the noblest intentions. They study very hard when they are young, memorizing, doing research, re-reading the old masters, and imbibing as much knowledge as possible. They write analytical articles about the allegorical quality and the allusions in Moby Dick, or they write discourses on the autobiographical possibilities of Hamlet, or about the efflux of the soul in Leaves of Grass. (3) All their writing is erudite: it is analytical, sometimes logical, and always dead.

Then our fast-becoming literary critics think it would be just dandy if they wrote a book, perhaps a novel. So they sit down with their dictionary, their encyclopedia, their copy of Homer, and their copies of Shakespeare, Melville, Emerson, Whitman, Hardy, and Thackery and the results are something awful. What they have done is to take the old masters and take a little from here and a little from there, and try to make another classic, complete with classical allusions and intricate literary figures. The characters don't read letters; rather they peruse epistles; and instead of knocking somebody out, they render him insensible. There is no life, no originality, no feeling, no heart, and about as much spontaniety as peristalsis with approximately the same end product.

So our literary critics-to-be become convinced that their books, like all other masterpieces, are ahead of their time, and until such time as the people wake up and recognize them for the giants they are,(4) they will devote themselves to selecting what the general public should read, and mostly what the general public should not read. They do not know that the only perfection is Death; so they criticize every book that they review for its imperfections.

(See WOOD, page 4)

PULQUE

John Gibson

There remains but a single point to cover in this brief summary of the honor system. That is, what to do when you yourself cheat, or are reported to the council.

If for some reason or other you have violated the honor code, your very best bet is to turn yourself in at once, without any pressure from anyone. Besides the great personal satisfaction of getting the thing off your mind and making a clean breast of it, there is the practical reward that your resulting punishment will be easier. Though the personnel of the councils changes all the time, there is a real attempt on the part of any group to deal with cases in a way that is consistent with past precedent. And generally speaking, people who turn themselves in without any pressure make out fairly well.

Next come those who are caught, but plead guilty as soon as confronted with the situation. Punishment here is usually more severe, typically being suspension for a limited length of time. In either of these cases, the student is given the opportunity of returning to school and completely clearing the record. The Carolina honor system is unique in the provisions it makes to give the student a second chance. However, if you have violated the system, and lie about it at the council meeting, you have had your second chance. In all probability you will never see Carolina again. These are rare cases of students bluffing the council all the way through, but the odds are against you. And besides, you still have your conscience to live with. Thus, if you have made a mistake, admit it and get it over with. You will be a better person in the long run.

Now sometime it is possible you will have a summons served on you, and you will honestly not know what the whole thing is about. Don't get mad, or panicky, or run around and holler "unfair, police state, etc." The councils lean over backward not to convict an innocent person. In this case it simply means that there is a case involving a number of persons, and the true violator has not yet been discovered. Therefore, be as cooperative as possible, and tell the council member investigating the case all you know.

If you wish, you may call witnesses to the council meeting to testify for you. You have 48 hours before the case can be tried, after your notification. It will do you no good what-so-ever to run around to the "important" people you might know. The honor system is truly a student system, and others leave hands off. The faculty has a final check on all cases, if it wishes to use it. But it rarely does.

In short, if you are guilty of a violation, turn yourself in as soon as possible. Besides easing your conscience, you will make things better for yourself otherwise. If you have not done anything, don't worry. The honor councils are not groups of frustrated MVD agents. They are made up of a plain ordinary group of students, of your choice, who are trying, often under difficult circumstances, to enforce the rules of a thoroughly fair judicial system.

Over the past weeks we have taken the honor system apart and looked at various parts of it. I hope these brief pictures have helped you understand your system a little better. What few faults it does have, can be cleared up rather quickly by increased student interest and participation. Carry on!

AS VENTNOR, N. J., MUNICIPAL Judge Raymond Stark watches, Harry Girth kisses the American flag shortly after his marriage to the former Mrs. Judy Godel. Girth is the German prisoner-of-war who escaped from a U.S. prison camp during World War II. He had been living as a model citizen in New Jersey for seven years when a friend persuaded him to give himself up to authorities recently.—NEA Telephoto.

WCHL's Ty Boyd Went Into Radio Work Because Of His Great 'Love For Talking'

By Ruth Hoyt

Chapel Hill's newest radio station, WCHL, opens its regular afternoon record show with a vibrant theme called the Pacemaker. And rightly so, for it is played by a disc jockey who is very smoothly setting the pace in music around Chapel Hill these days.

This maestro of music is better known as Ty Boyd, a young man blessed with a subtle "gift of gab," an infectious laugh, and an acute case of ambition.

Actually, Boyd leads a double life, spending his mornings in classes majoring in English and his afternoons in a small, compact studio playing records for his and his listeners' enjoyment.

For 21-year-old Boyd radio is no new thing. But his first actual experience in the entertainment world came while he was still a youngster in school in Statesville, N. C. Each Saturday morning he conducted a Kiddie Show amateur hour at a local theater.

Then in 1946 Boyd went to work for the Statesville station, WSIC. There, at the ripe old age of 15 he got his first start in radio and his first paycheck. For two years he fed the Dixie network with a regular one-hour record show called "Teen Timer." At this stage of the game he was probably one of the youngest disc jockeys around.

When he graduated from high school radio still held a place in Boyd's heart and he set out for greener pastures. He stumbled on an opening in Union, S. C. with a brand-new station, WBCU. Meanwhile, he toyed with the idea of college, but he stayed on at Union's WBCU, playing everything from hillbilly to classic.

After a time Boyd decided he could postpone school no longer and in the fall of 1950 he left radio for Carolina. Though he did not realize it at the time this separation was to be only temporary. "Before long," Boyd states laughingly, "my lack of money and my love for radio took me to Durham and WDNC". His work here consisted of disc jockeying, news broadcasting, and general staff announcing. In addition, he was still going to school and attending a regular schedule of classes. "I worked a full 40-hour week," says Boyd, "and averaged about five hours sleep a night."

Leading this double existence soon began to tell and once again he had to choose between school and work. He decided that choosing school would be the wiser of the two moves. And so he divorced himself from radio for the time being.

Then this year when the spark had just about died out, Boyd took a course in public speaking. "My love for talking was too great, I suppose," he jokingly adds, "and back I went again—this time to WCHL. I heard that they were auditioning for a part-time job and I went out one morning to try my luck. That same afternoon I went to work on a full-time basis."

At present, Boyd is still specializing in disc jockey work in the form of "Dig These," a two-hour afternoon show and a late afternoon program called "Evensong." His radio appearance begins each day at one o'clock after a full morning of classes, a rush lunch, and a bad case of indigestion and lasts until the station sign-off at seven-fifteen. But keeping the turntables spinning is just one phase of Boyd's whirlwind afternoon. Between discs he reads news es them sitting right next to the radio. Instead, he imagines them doing various odd tasks while he entertains with his platter chatter.

Boyd himself offers an ironic conclusion to his start in radio. He still has a year to go before he graduates, and then a two-year stretch in the Navy. After that he plans to attend law school. "Radio announcers are a dime a dozen," he muses, "and I am just one of that dozen."

But meanwhile, Boyd will remain with WCHL and the Village Broadcasting Company, laughing and joking his way into the lives of his many listeners—setting the pace for an afternoon of musical enjoyment.

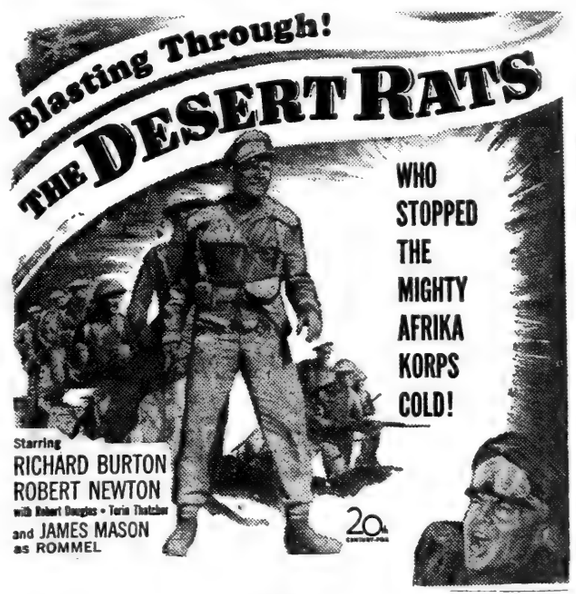
Deadline Is June 1 To Apply For Air Force Weather Job

Deadline for college graduates and second-semester seniors to apply for training as wheather officers with the USAF Air Weather Service has been extended to June 1, 1953.

Requirements remain the same —a bachelor's degree and credit for one year of college physics and mathematics through integral calculus. Both men and women are eligible to apply.

Successful applicants will be commissioned as second lieutenants in the Air Force Reserve. In midsummer they will be ordered to duty for a 9 to 12-month course in meteorology at one of several well-known U.S. colleges and universities.

In addition to the weather training, the officers will attend a short basic officer training course before assignment to active duty in an Air Force weather station.



While attending the government-paid weather training, students will receive full pay and allowances of a second lieutenant. In the case of a married student, this amounts to about $350 a month, for a single officer slightly less.

Application forms for a direct commission and weather training are available by writing to the Commanding General, Air Weather Service, Washington 25, D. C.

The program is administered by the USAF Institute of Technology. Some of the schools participating are the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, New York University Univ. of Chicago, Penn State College.

Carolina

TODAY AND SATURDAY

— PLUS —

SPORTLIGHT — NEWS

COOLEST SPOT IN TOWN

CAPTURE THOSE MOMENTS FOREVER

Graduation and College days can live forever in your snapshots. Be sure you have all the film and flashbulbs you need . . . . and remember, cameras and accessories make wonderful graduation gifts.

OPEN SUNDAY AFTERNOON

FOISTER'S CAMERA STORE, INC.

Colonial Stores declares Every Customer a Queen in the crowning sales-event of the season! For you . . . special grocery values that are pure gems for stretching your household budget! For you . . . garden-fresh produce and guaranteed meats of the high Colonial Quality that wins you salutes as a Queen in Your Kitchen! Come and let Colonial treat you royally to a rich store of savings! Prove once again that . . . Your Total Food Bill Is Less When You Shop at CS!

SAVE 20¢ SWANSON WHOLE CHICKEN 3½ lb. can $1.49

WHITING HEADLESS DRAWN 2 LBS. 19c

Naturally Tender Sirloin, Round, or Boneless Rib

STEAKS

Budget Beef—U. S. Commercial LB. 75c

Colonial Pride—U. S. Choice LB. 79c

ALL MEAT—NO WASTE
JIFFY STEAKS LB 89c
TENDER PLATE OR BRISKET
STEW BEEF LB. 19c
MADE FRESH AND SOLD FRESH
GROUND BEEF LB 39c
CHEF'S PRIDE PREPARED
CHICKEN SALAD 8-OZ. 43c

CHUCK ROAST

Budget Beef—U. S. Commercial LB. 39c

Colonial Pride—U. S. Choice LB. 45c

RIB ROAST

Budget Beef—U. S. Commercial LB 59c

Colonial Pride—U. S. Choice LB. 63c

Old Virginia
PURE APPLE JELLY 8-OZ. JAR 10c

SAVE 10c AT COLONIAL ON KRAFT'S MIRACLE WHIP SALAD
DRESSING QUART JAR 49c
SOUTHERN DAIRIES AUTOCRAT ASSORTED FLAVORS
ICE CREAM ½-GAL. CTN. 69c
LIBBY'S HAWAIIAN CRUSHED
PINEAPPLE NO. 2 CAN 27c
NUTREAT COLORED QUARTERS
MARGARINE 1-LB. PKG. 21c

Our Pride
FRESH COCOANUT CAKE BIG 2-LB. SIZE 79c

SOMERDALE FRESH-FROZEN
SPINACH 2 10-OZ. 29c
SEABROOK FARMS FRESH-FROZEN
LIMA BEANS 10-OZ 23c
SOMERDALE FRESH-FROZEN
CUT CORN 2 10-OZ. 33c
RED LABEL
KARO SYRUP 1½-LBS 23c
LAUNDRY SOAP
OCTAGON 2 BARS 15c
DON'T WIPE—JUST RINSE
VEL LGE 29c
FOR DISHES 'N' DUDS
FAB LGE 29c
NEW IMPROVED
SUPER SUDS LGE 27c
TOILET SOAP
OCTAGON 4 BARS 19c
CASHMERE
BOUQUET SOAP 3 REG. 23c
CASHMERE
BOUQUET SOAP 2 BATH 23c
TRY THE BEAUTY PLAN
PALMOLIVE 3 REG. 23c
MADE WITH OLIVE OIL
PALMOLIVE 2 BATH 23c

Fresh Tender Green Carolina SNAP BEANS 2 LBS. 25c

YELLOW SQUASH FANCY CROOK-NECK 2 LBS. 25c
RED POTATOES U. S. NO. 1 5 LBS. BULK 19c
FRESH CORN GOLDEN BANTAM 4 EARS 29c
YELLOW ONIONS U. S. NO. 1 3 LBS. 12c

Vets Brand Balanced
DOG FOOD 2 1-LB. CANS 19c

Pik-Nik Brand
Fried Shoestring Potato
STICKS NO. 2½ CAN 19c

COLONIAL STORES

Corner Of Franklin & Graham Sts. — FREE PARKING — Glen Lennox Shopping Center

Promotions, Retirements, Leaves Listed For Next Year

Four associate professors and three assistant professors have been named to various departments of the University and approved by the Board of Trustees.

Also approved by the Trustees were several leaves of absence, extensions of leave, resignations, and retirements.

Appointed associate professors are:

Dr. Ralph Pfouts, who has been acting assistant and associate professor in the School of Business Administration here since 1947 and who received his Ph.D. degree here in 1952.

Dr. Harley C. Shands, Boston, Mass., associate professor of psychiatry in the School of Medicine. B.S. and M.D. at Tulane and M.S. at University of Minnesota, he has served as resident psychiatrist at Boston State Hospital the last two years

Miss Rebecca Grier Randolph, associate professor, School of Social Work and Director of the Social Service Department of the N. C. Memorial Hospital. Native of Mooresville, she took her A.B. at Woman's College, Mss at William and Mary, and M.S.W. University of Pennsylvania. She has served as social worker with the American Red Cross and the National Naval Medical Center in Baltimore and Bethesda, Md., respectively, and for the last two years was director of social service, Glenn Dale T.B. Sanatorium, Maryland.

Mrs. Eloise Rallings Lewis, associate professor of surgical nursing, School of Nursing. Native of Pageland, S. C., took B.S. in nursing, Vanderbilt University; M.S. in education, University of Pennsylvania. She has taught at Woman's Medical College Hospital, Philadelphia; Johns Hopkins Hospital School of Nursing; University of Pennsylvania, and Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

Harold Quentin Langenderfer, assistant professor of accounting, School of Business Administration. Graduate of Miami University, Ohio, and holder of master's degree from Northwestern University, he is in process of getting his D.C.S. degree at Indiana University, where he has taught for the past two years.

Dr. Kerr Lachlan White, assistant professor of medicine, School of Medicine. Took M.D.C.M. at McGill University where he was teaching fellow last year.

Dr. James Carlton Ingram, assistant professor, School of Business Administration. Educated at University of Alabama, took M.A. at Stanford University and Ph.D. at Cornell, were he was teaching fellow in 1949-51. Came to Chapel Hill as acting assistant professor in 1952.

Leaves have been granted to: Dr. L. L. Thurstone, director of the Psychometric Laboratory, for four months beginning next February to be visiting professor in Swedish universities under sponsorship of the State Department; Dr. Loren C. MacKinney, professor of history, for spring semester 1954 to study and work with Dr. Sigerist, distinguished medical historian in Geneva, Switzerland; Dr. Wallace E. Caldwell, head of the History Department, for fall semester 1954 to study new excavations in Italy and Greece; George V. Taylor, assistant professor of history, for academic year 1953-54 to study on a Fulbright fellowship; and Dr. S. B. Alexander, associate physician, University Infirmary, who has been recalled to active duty in the Navy Medical Corps for probably two years.

Dr. Herman G. Baity, professor and head of the Department of Sanitary Engineering, has been extended a leave until September, 1954 to continue as director, Division of Environmental Sanitation, World Health Organization.

Retirements listed as those of Dean Oscar J. Coffin of the School of Journalism and Dr. Clarence Heer, professor, School of Business Administration.

Resignations: Dr. Dorothy McCuskey, associate professor, School of Education, and Dr. Joseph G. Dawson, coordinator of clinical training eand associate professor, Department of Psychology.

LATE SHOW SATURDAY
SUNDAY — MONDAY
Carolina

History Prof Tells Story Of Bagasse

American newspapers may soon be printed on newsprint made from sugar cane waste called Bagasse. The story behind that interesting development is told by a UNC professor of history, Prof. J. Carlyle Sitterson, in a recently completed book which tells of the first use of such newsprint in the 1880's when The New Orleans Picayune was printed on paper made from sugar cane waste.

This is only one of the many interesting little known incidents contained in "Sugar Country; The Cane Sugar Industry in the South, 1753-1950," published this week by the University of Kentucky Press at Lexington, Ky.

In it, Professor Sitterson tells for the first time the unique story of the cane sugar regions of the continental United States.

Based upon extensive research and travel in the sugar region, "Sugar Country" relates the colorful and dramatic way of life in the sugar country of southern Louisiana and parts of Texas, Florida, South Carolina and Georgia.

Nowhere else in the South did the plantation society attain the richness and colorful qualities reached in the lush sugar regions.

In his story of the interaction of economic and social life and of the rise, fall, and re-establishment of one of the South's greatest industries, Professor Sitterson breaks new ground.

"Sugar Country" is illustrated with 23 photographs and drawings depicting various aspects of life in the sugar country—the luxurious ante bellum plantation homes, old and new methods of sugar cultivation and manufacturing, and the condition of the laboring groups.

A native of Kinston, Professor Sitterson is a graduate of this University, which awarded him the Ph.D. Degree in 1937. A member of the History Department since 1935, he has written extensively in the field of American history.

• COLD PLATES

• SPRING SALADS

• FRUIT SALADS

• WATERMELONS

and other favorites at

DANZIGER'S

— AIR CONDITIONED —

A Salute

TO THE CLASS OF '53

Here's a salute to our pals and friends in the Class of '53.

You've given us four gay years in the Intimate Bookshop. Your humor has been delightful, your patience exemplary, even when an English version of Racine was indicated, but quickly. You hold the record for lively dickering at textime. We're going to miss you no end.

We hope we've added a bit to the pleasure of your years at U.N.C. We hope our competition in the text field has enabled you to stretch your text money enough to cover a few books of permanent value. We'd like to think that we've at least contributed a dash of seasoning to that cultural omelet you're taking away with you.

So here's wishing you all the finest. May your plans prove inadequate ghosts of your accomplishments. May your road know no detours!

But we'll miss you. And we hope that among the good things the future holds for you will be an occasional browse in the bookshop. Just for old times sake.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

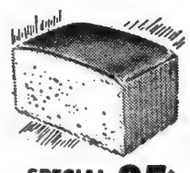
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

Pre-Summer Savings Event!

A&P

COME SEE — AT A&P!

Armour's Vienna Sausage 2 4-Oz. Cans 35c



Armour's Corned Beef Hash - - - 16-Oz. Can 29c

For Summertime Refreshment—A&P Grape Juice - - - - 24-Oz. Bot. 29c

Green Pacific Peas - - 2 16-Oz. Cans 25c

White House Economical Evap. Milk - - - 3 14½-Oz. Cans 39c

Jane Parker 12 Oz. CUT Gold Pound Cake

SPECIAL 25¢ Regularly 32¢

Armour's Potted Meat --- 2 5½-Oz. Cans 25c

Armour's Chopped Ham --- 12-Oz. Can 57c

Armour's Corned Beef ----- 12-Oz. Can 49c

Armour's Dried Beef ------ 2½-Oz. Glass 33c

Angelus Marshmallows 10-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Swift's Jewel Oil Pt. Bot. 33c Qt. Bot. 63c

Swift's Swift'ning 1-Lb. Can 29c 3-Lb. Can 85c

Gerber's Strained Foods 3 4½-Oz. Jars 29c

Gerber's Junior Foods 8-Oz. Jar 14c

Pick of Carolina Pickles Whole Sweets 16-Oz. Jar 25c

Get Your Share of Savings on A&P's Dependably Delicious "Super-Right" Meats

Dressed And Drawn—Cut Up—Pan Ready FRYERS - Lb. 47c

Heavy Western Beef Sirloin Steak - - - - - - Lb. 79c

Heavy Western Beef—Standing 7-In. Cut Rib Roast - - - - - - - Lb. 63c

Super Right Freshly Grounded BEEF - - - Lb. 39c

"Super-Right" Bone In Plate Stew - - - - - - - Lb. 19c

Swift's All Meat Premium Franks - - - Lb. Pkg. 49c

"Super-Right" Fresh Center Cut Rib Pork Chops - - - - - - - Lb. 69c

"Super-Right" Lean Boneless Beef Stew - - - - - - - Lb. 55c

everything you want in COFFEE!

Freshness, flavor, thrift ... you get 'em all with magnificent Custom Ground A&P Coffee! Enjoy it ... and save!

Mild & Mellow EIGHT O'CLOCK 1-LB. BAG 81c 3-lb. Bag $2.37

Rich & Full-Bodied RED CIRCLE 1-lb. Bag 82c 3-lb. Bag $2.40

Vigorous & Winey BOKAR 1-lb. Bag 83c 3-lb. Bag $2.43

SAVE AN EXTRA 6¢ ... BUY THE 3-LB. BAG!

Armour's Chili Con Carne - - - - 16-Oz. Can 32c

Luncheon Meat Armour's Treet - - - - 12-Oz. Can 45c

Niblet's Mexicorn - - - - - - - 12-Oz. Can 20c

Del Monte Fruit Cocktail - - - - 21-Oz. Can 25c

Sultana Flaked Tuna Fish - - - - - - - 7-Oz. Can 27c

Golden Maid OLEOMARGARINE Lb. 20¢

Northern Toilet Tissue - - - 3 Rolls 25c

Fruit-luscious Spreads — THRIFTY PRICE!

ANN PAGE Pure ORANGE MARMALADE 1 lb. Jar 23c

ANN PAGE Pure PLUM PRESERVES 1 lb. Jar 23¢

ANN PAGE Sparkle SHERBET MIX . 3 5-Oz. Pkgs. 25c

ANN PAGE MAYONNAISE . . Qt. Jar 55c

Fine Foods Needn't Be Expensive

Camay Soap - - - 2 Bath Bars 23c

Lux Flakes Reg. Pkg. 12c Lge. Pkg. 27c

Spry Shortening 1-Lb. Tin 32c 3-Lb. Tin 89c

Rinso - - Lge. Pkg. 27c Giant Pkg. 53c

Silver Dust Lge. Pkg. 28c Giant Pkg. 55c

Ivory Snow - - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c

Boullion Cubes Herb-Ox Pkg. 8c

Linen White Bleach - - Qt. Bot. 13c

Get Your Share of Savings on A&P's Farm-Fresh Fruits and Vegetables

PEANUTS Jumbo Salted 8-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Lemons Full of Juice - - - - - Lb. 15c

Carrots Fresh, Crisp - - - - - 1-Lb. Bag 12c

Oranges Juicy Florida - - - - - 8-Lb. Bag 45c

WATERMELONS Lb. 5¢

Potatoes New White - - 10 Lbs. 39¢

A&P Super Markets

AMERICA'S FOREMOST FOOD RETAILER . . . SINCE 1859

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

These Prices Effective Through Saturday, May 30th

Carolina Caravan

By Jake Wade

A Year Of Big Stories

At Carolina, 1952-53 was a school year of big news stories. We were much in the papers and over the airways as a result of the polio and unprecedented football game cancellations, along with an unusually large number of coaching changes.

The polio, actually never approaching an epidemic, hit swiftly, causing real concern if not exceeding alarm. Cancellation of the games with N.C. State and Georgia was a hard blow to the exchequer and, it is reasonable to believe, possibly affected the won-and-lost record of the Tar Heels.

For the most part, it was a hectic season. With sad monotony, the Tar Heels carried on their losing ways of the year before. Coaches worked hard and utilized all their wisdom and experience in an effort to turn their discouraged athletes into the victory channel. They succeeded only twice: against South Carolina when Flo Worrell, up from the Jayvees, turned on dazzling speed for 120 yards in nine rushes, to spark a 27-19 win; and against Miami when the Tar Heels at last looked like a real football team in a smashing 34-7 triumph.

We Get McGuire

Tom Scott's resignation as basketball coach came suddenly and unexpectedly with even the sharpest newsmen caught napping. He went on his new job with the Phillips Oilers with everyone wishing him well, for he was generally well liked, despite the vicissitudes of his teams. Big news indeed was the appointment of Frank McGuire to succeed him. McGuire was fresh out of the big time with a remarkable record as a coach.

Carl Snavely's departure had been rumored for a long time, but it nevertheless was headline copy when he actually turned in his resignation. After what appeared to be an interminable delay, George Barclay got the nod to take over, and that was another story for the big type.

Marvin Bass' return as line coach, together with the naming of ex-Vanderbilt head coach and athletic director Bill Edwards to the staff kept the wires humming. There were other changes and reassignments in the year of transition which actually began during the summer when Dr. O. K. Cornwell was named Chairman of Athletics and Physical Education and Charles P. (Chuck) Erickson was appointed Director of Athletics, succeeding R. A. (Coach Bob) Fetzer. The latter had resigned to become executive secretary of the Morehead Foundation after nearly 30 years of distinguished and honorable service as head of athletics here.

An Interesting Year

Over all, it was an interesting sports year at the University of North Carolina, if not its most successful one. The cagers, given a lift by the new coaching administration, which got right down to business without delay, had one hot winning streak that was the talk of the area. One night the Tar Heels invaded William Reynolds Coliseum and flattened the State College Wolfpack in one of the big basketball upsets of the year.

Tar Heel swimmers and netmen, undefeated in ambitious schedules, may have been the finest in history, while the golfers were not far behind, with only one dual meet defeat, partially avenged in brilliant team and individual championships in the conference tournament.

The dazzling swimmers actually were unbeaten for the third season in a row as they swept through 10 meets and then took major honors in the conference meet. In 15 seasons they now have won 112 dual meets while losing 12. The tennis team won 23 matches without a setback after which Dell Sylvia won the conference singles title and Tom Bradford and Don Thompson took the doubles.

Postscript

Our own office was touched directly and acutely among the year's departures. This is Julian Scheer's last week of work in this bureau. He has been a loyal, hard working and extremely competent assistant who has done a distinguished job. He will be greatly missed, personally and in handling our chores. We wish him well as he takes his talented typewriter into new pastures.

Trackmen Hold Banquet

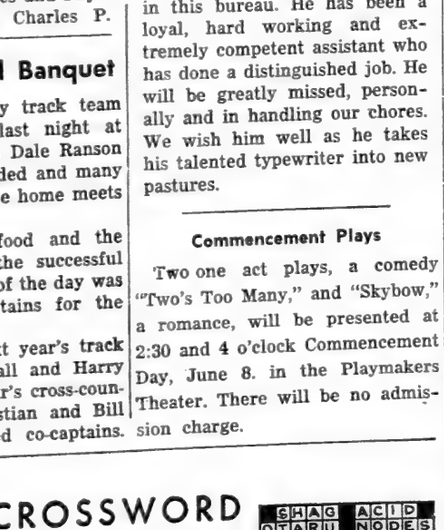
The annual varsity track team banquet was held last night at Lenoir Hall. Coaches Dale Ranson and Joe Hilton presided and many of the officials for the home meets were present.

Along with the food and the commemoration of the successful season, the business of the day was the election of captains for the coming season.

Co-captains of next year's track team are Sonny Beall and Harry Brown. For next year's cross-country team, Lloyd Bostian and Bill Higgins were elected co-captains.

Commencement Plays

Two one act plays, a comedy "Two's Too Many," and "Skybow," a romance, will be presented at 2:30 and 4 o'clock Commencement Day, June 8. in the Playmakers Theater. There will be no admission charge.



DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Biblical name
4. Chinese silk
7. Malayan boat
8. Agreement
10. The moon-goddess (Rom. Relig.)
11. Set of boxes (Jap.)
12. A Mayan Indian (Mex.)
13. Celestial beings
15. Relaxes
18. Malt beverage
19. Sign of the zodiac
20. An S-shaped molding
21. Seize
24. Vehicles with runners
25. Flower
26. Apex
27. Sloths
28. Quiet
32. Utters suddenly
34. Rowing implement
35. Assam silkworm
36. Routes
38. Female deity (India.)
39. Incite
40. Japanese coin
41. Fuel

DOWN
1. Morsel, as of bread
2. Electrified particle
3. Measure (anc. Arab.)
4. Revolves
5. Suspend
6. Extent in acres
7. Scheme
9. Sounded, as a bell
12. Greek letter
13. Fuss
14. Observes
16. Otherwise
17. Cluster of fibers in wool staple
20. Leather flask
21. Seize
22. Disturbed, as water
23. Gives confidence to
24. Coin (Peru)
26. It is (contracted)
28. Blemish
29. British poet
30. Hurl
31. Erbium (Sym.)
33. Split
36. Oscillate
37. Sleeveless garment (Arab.)

Yesterday's Answer

89 UNC Athletes Get Monograms

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Council Gives Its Approval

Lacrosse Team High With 24; Track Has 22

Eighty-nine Carolina athletes received Monogram awards for participation in spring sports, Director of Athletics C. P. Erickson announced today.

The University's Athletic Council approved monograms for 24 lacrosse players, 21 baseball players, 22 track team members and nine golfers.

For participation in varsity baseball, the following received monograms:

Frederick Dale, Jr., Hickory; William Frye, Hickory; Connie Mack Gravitte, Roxboro; Donald Hamilton, manager, Fairfield, Conn.; Robert Henning, Jr., Winston-Salem; William Bruce Holt, Jr., Durham; Edgar Hooks, Kenly; Kenneth Keller, Salina, Pa.; Harry Lee Lloyd, Durham; Albert Long, Durham; William Lore, Smithfield; Ron Marbry, Badin and Joseph Morgan, Winston-Salem.

Also Joseph Mosier, Chattanooga, Tenn.; John F. Motsinger, Winston-Salem; Joseph Pazdan, Trenton, N. J.; Chalmers M. Port, Mifflintown, Pa.; John C. Stowe, Belmont; Wayne E. White, Ervin; Robert Williams, Norfolk, Va.; and Charles H. Yelverton, Smithfield.

Varsity golf: Robert H. Black, Philadelphia; Lewis A. Brown, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Purvis J. Ferree, Winston-Salem; William H. Ford, Charleston, S. C.; John W. Frazier, Salisbury; George C. Mountcastle, Winston - Salem; Barksdale F. Roberts, manager, Fletcher; William Thornton, Manchester, Conn.; and William H. Williamson, Charlotte.

Varsity lacrosse: Richard Baker, Greensboro; Newton Barkley, New Orleans, La.; Alfred Bryant, Durham; Joseph Burrell, Washington, D. C.; Robert Colbert, manager, Washington, D. C.; David Cole, Farmington, Conn.; Lyell C. Dawes, Baltimore, Md.; Jere DuBose, Hartsville, S. C.; Walt Ernst, Baltimore; Lewis Floyd, University Park, Mo.; Charles Friedman, Baltimore; Richard Harrall, Towson, Mo.; Hugh Haynesworth, Sumter, S. C.; Earl Johnson, Raleigh; Wilbur D. Jones, Jr., Wilmington; Robert Linker, Chapel Hill; and Richard Pillsbury, Salisbury, Md.

Also Thomas Stokes, Raleigh; Douglas Styron, Goldsboro; Thomas Sully, Charlottesville, Va.; Ted Tettelback, Point Pleasant, N. Y.; Stephen Trimble, Washington, D. C.; Joseph Walker, Columbia, S. C.; and James H. Winston, Clayton.

Varsity tennis: Thomas Bradford, Washington, D. C.; Herbert Browne Columbia, S. C.; Robert H. Green, West Palm Beach, Fla.; Bruce A. Gustafson, Washington, D: C.; Samuel Handel, Philadelphia; William H. Izlar, Miami, Fla.; Ronald Kerdasha, North Bergen, N. J.; Bobby Payne, Richmond, Va.; Delmer R. Sylvia, Richmond, Va.; Donald V. R. Thompson, Forest Hills, N. Y.; and Stanley Smith, Virginia Beach, Va.

Varsity track: John R. Barden, Newark, N. J.; Louis Beall, Winston-Salem; Robert Bell, Charlotte; John Bennett, Germantown, Pa.; Harry Brown, Hillsboro; William Cornell, Charlotte; William Duke, Norfolk, Va.; Eddie Haire, High Point; Charles Higgins, Fairfax, Va.; Thomas Higgins, Newark, N. J.; Samuel Jordan, Washington, D. C.; Steve Marcinko, Johnstown, Pa.; Albert Marx, Atlanta, Gea.; Roger Morris, Newark, N. J.; Boyd Newman, High Point; Adrian Jefferson Newton, Raleigh; Morris Osborne, Arden; Clifford Ray, Mebane; Edward Reimer, Kerney, N. J.; Barry Rizzo, Monmouth Beach, N. J.; Charles Scott, Graham; and Charles Yarborough, Louisburg.

Jayvee Numeral Winners Announced

Thirty-eight athletes received numeral awards for the Spring quarter. They can be picked up now at the equipment room.

J. V. Baseball—Charles Aycock, Kinston; James Beddingfield, Tuxedo; Archie Christopher, Chapel Hill; Tom Maultsby, Chapel Hill; Bobby Paller, Atlanta, Ga.; Rudolph Paquette, Elkhart, Ind.; Noel Stout, Graham; Bill Suttle, Marion (Manager); Don Thomas, Granite Falls; John Woods, Danville.

J. V. Golf—Joe Correll, Winston - Salem; Charles Erdman, Clarksburg, W. Va.; Eric Jonas, Charlotte; Phil Kreiss, Union, N. J.; Eddie Pell, Charlotte; Jimmy Sykes, Jenkenstown, Pa.; Sam Reeves, Thomaston, Ga.; Gaither Walser, Lexington.

J. V. Tennis—Atwood Askew, Rich Square; Richard Jackson, Columbus, O.; James Skidmore, Albemarle; James Smith, Durham.

J. V. Track — Robert Bryan, Goldsboro; Charles Green, Chapel Hill; Rufus Hackney, Durham; Scotty Hester, Reidsville; Bob Keiger, Winston-Salem; Don Mitchell, Seaford, Del.; Vincent Murray, Elizabeth, N. J.; Lawrence Maslow, Brooklyn; Roland Purdue, College Park, Ga.

Also Harvey Smith, Greensboro; James Skinner, Coral Gables, Fla.; Donald Warren, Brooklyn; Flo Worrel, Wilmington; Bob Wilson, Leaksville; Jay Zimmerman, New Platz, N. Y.; and Charles Jones, Kinston (manager).

WUNC

7 p.m.—Adventures in Research
7:15—The Musician Comments
7:30—Songs of France
7:45—Report from Europe
8—People Under Communism
8:30—The Symphony Hour
9—Music Appreciation by Dr. William Newman
10—News and Coming Events
10:05—Evening Masterwork
Tomorrow:
7 p.m.—Sketches in Melody
8—Paris Star Time
8:30—Sovereign Ladies
9—The Hill Hall Hour
10—News and Coming Events
10:05—Evening Masterwork
11—Sign Off.
Sunday:
7 p.m.—Sunday Showtime
7:30—Learning in Later Years
7:45—Songs of France
8—Little Orchestra Society Concerts
10—News and Coming Events
10:05—Evening Masterwork

Sexias Plays In French Semi-Finals

PARIS, May 28—(Special)—Ex-Carolina tennis star Vic Sexias of Philadelphia faced Czech star Jaroslav Drobny yesterday in the semi-finals of the men's French tennis championships.

The other match brought together Ken Rosewall, 18 year-old Australian star, and Argentina's Enrique Morea. The winners of the two matches will face each other today in the finals.

In the women's section of the tournament, defending champion Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., met Shirley Fry of Akron, O., and Maureen Connolly of San Diego faced Dorothy Head Knode of Istanbul, Turkey.

Ward Wins Again

HOYLAKE, England, May 28. — (Spcial) — Harvey Ward advanced to the quarterfinals in the British Amateur Championship today with victories over C. F. Windlow and G. B. Wolstenholme, both of England.

Ward is the only American remaining in the tournament. In order to win, he must win both of his matches tomorrow and the final match which will be held on Saturday.

THIS BORES US AS MUCH AS IT BORES YOU—
BUT —
COLLEGE OUTLINES
WILL SEE YOU THROUGH —
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

Best Wishes, Graduates!

We would like to take this opportunity to extend to the graduating class our very best wishes for the best of luck in your after college years.

To all Carolina students we would like to say that it has been a real pleasure to be able to be of service to you and wish you a very enjoyable vacation.

POE MOTOR CO.
DE SOTO 112 W. FRANKLIN PLYMOUTH
Phone 6581

PEPSI-COLA
Bottling Company
OF DURHAM
305 South St. Durham

TO THE SENIOR CLASS!
Congratulations and best wishes to you in your future ventures
To you Tar Heels who will be back this Fall, have a good vacation and for your patronage this past year we say
"THANKS A MILLION"
THE TOWN & CAMPUS
BOB, MONK, and BOB ANGLE
DEPT. STORE

SWIM! FISH!
PICNIC! Spend An Enjoyable Afternoon In The Sun At EASTWOOD LAKE
First Road On The Left After Brady's On The
DURHAM ROAD

Inventions Of Leonardo Are In Morehead

Models of the original inventions of the helicopter, parachute, and air conditioner, as constructed by Leanardo Da Vinci over 500 years ago, will be on exhibit here in the Morehead Planetarium from May 31 to June 21.

The exhibit is on tour of American museums and universities through the courtesy of the Fine Arts Department of the International Business Machine Corporation and is sponsored on the campus by Dr. Loren C. MacKinney of the History Department.

Leanardo Da Vinci, known mainly for his paintings, which include the better known works, "Mona List" and the "Last Supper," is considered by many as one of most outstanding prolific inventors that the world has ever known. He foresaw the helicopter, airplane, parachute, air conditioner, machine gun, revolving stage, automatic printing press, gears, textile machines and numerous other mechanisms.

Dr. Roberto Guatelli, one of the world's foremost authorities on Leonardo's work, constructed models of these inventions from the detailed drawings and writings of Leonardo. Guatelli originally constructed the models for the 1938 exhibition of Leonardo's work in Milan, Italy. During the war the exhibit was completely destroyed in Tokyo, and Dr. Guatelli was confined in a concentration camp. When he returned to the United States, he made another set of models, which were purchased in 1951 by the IBM Corporations

—Wood—

(Continued from page 2)

Soon they grow tired of reviewing books because of the fact that they're all imperfect in some way; so they quit (5) and join little literary cliques and write more erudite articles for the learned magazines, and they are just as dead as they ever were.

Many literary critics eventually end up in the English Department of some college or other, and what happens to English majors should be obvious to the most unimaginative.(6)

(1)—There is no literary-critic gene.

(2)—The slum districts produce few literary critics.

(3)—They don't enjoy any of these books. But they were supposed to; so they said they did.

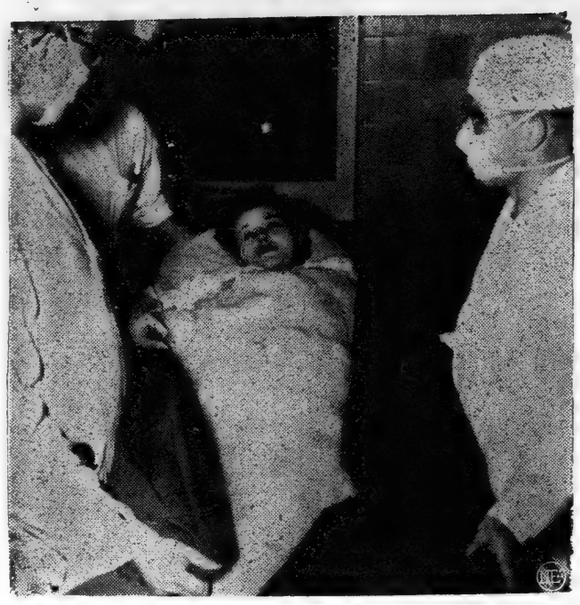
(4)—The general public never does wake up.

(5)—The psychologists call it leaving the field. I call it quitting.

(6)—It didn't happen to Thomas Wolfe. He changed his major.

Educational Administration Book Out; Dr. Knight Author

Publication of "Readings in Educational Administration," by Dr. Edgar W. Knight of the School of Education, has just been announced by Henry Holt and Company.



This recent volume by Dr. Knight contains about 200 original documents from the late 18th century to 1950, running from early state constitutional provisions for education from 1776 to recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States on religious and racial issues in education.

The volume of 534 pages contains original materials on principles of educational responsibility, organization and administration, educational support and control, teachers and teaching, federal relations, and controversies over religion, science and "pure" history in the schools.

In the preface Dr. Knight points out that educational administration or school management, as it was first called, is one of the youngest of educational subjects now taught in colleges and universities. The subject did not become a professional undertaking until the present century, although some important principles of educational administration reached further back than the recent past.

The purpose of the volume is to make easily available to students and teachers of educational administration the major original sources of information, in the belief that acquaintance with such sources is a sound foundation for the study of the subject, just as the "case method" has come to be recognized as very sound in the teaching of law, medicine, business administration, and other professional subjects.

Dr. Knight points out that with the rapid expansion of public education in the United States during the past half century "there seemed to have developed a tendency in teacher-education institutions to make technicians and mechanics of school managers when these should be, more than ever before, people of broad understanding of and hospitable attitude toward the history and principles of school management. Current issues in administration, as in other aspects of education, can be understood only by acquaintance with their historical growth," he says.

ADELE MASULIS IS PACKED in shaved ice by doctors at Michael Reese hospital in Chicago to demonstrate how patients were prepared for heart operation. Doctors used the ice to "freeze" patients to a temperature at which a new technique heart operation was possible. The body temperature was brought down to 79 degrees.. —NEA Telephoto.

Volunteer Workers Needed At Hospital This Summer

With summer vacations taking many volunteer workers at Memorial Hospital out of town during the next three months, there is need for others to take their places, according to Mrs. Viola Jacobs, director of voluntary services at the hospital.

The Hospitality Shop will be under-staffed, with workers especially needed for Saturday afternoons.

In addition to serving in the Shop, helpers man the library cart, which brings books to the patients' bedsides.

Other openings for workers exist in the Out-Patient Department of the hospital.

Members of the Hospital Auxiliary are asked to call Mrs. Jacobs: 9-031, Extension 393, if they have free time available.

Mrs. Collier Cobb, Jr., president of the Auxiliary, urges Chapel Hill women to join the Auxiliary now and give their services to further the comfort of patients in the hospital during these short-handed months.

—Horse—

(Continued from Page 2)

I did not know until now that 'graciously' was a synoym for 'often,' 'regularly,' and 'by great scores.'

"Twenty - five, Seventy - six, Eleven come Seven, Hep;" The Horse shouted. "Hep!"

He shifted his legs; and I shouldn't have watched. I went down as the Horse roared over me.

"Se-Aye-Are-Oh-Ell-Eye . . . N. A!" came back over the thudding hooves of The Horse. "This is a prediction, Roger, we are gonna take 'em!"

Well, I'm not a Tar Heel born, nor a Tar Heel bred, but when I die I'll be a Tar Heel dead.

The Horse sees imperfectly; but sometimes he sees right.

Happy Graduation, you-all. . . .

Dr. Bagby's Alma Mater Song Still Used At VMI

(Continued from page 1)

a satisfactory psychology course during my undergraduate days," he recalls. "It was all so abstract and impractical. I could hardly wait to finish school so I could teach a course that would answer questions that young men and women ask."

This dream has materialized during Dr. Bagby's 28 years' teaching at UNC. To his 16,000 students, as many as anyone in the United States has had, he has taught practical psychology, and helped them to find the roots of worry and inferiority complexes.

The year 1917 brought the World War and lieutenancy in the Sanitary Corps to English Bagby. The Corps experimented with the effects of decreasing amounts of oxygen: The guinea pig was Lieutenant Bagby. At this time he was commuting between the Washington base and Baltimore. Startled by his dazed condition when he came back from the first experiment, his mother refused to let him return home until the torture process was over.

Dr. Bagby was born in Baltimore, Md. After he graduated from high school there, he entered Princeton. He received his A.B. and M.A. and enrolled in Johns Hopkins. In 1920 he received what he says must be the first Ph.D. degree awarded "sight unseen." Unlike an ordinary thesis his was strictly confidential—a report to the surgeon general of the United States Army. It could not be read by any member of the faculty. Luckily his superior officer was a psychologist. He read the paper and certified it to the university.

His first teaching engagement took him to VMI for four years. During this time the ideas for a successful book and a long remembered melody came to him. "The Psychology of Personality," published in 1928 sold over 5,000 copies, and became the textbook in leading universities throughout the country. His music for VMI's "Our Alma Mater" is still played at all their important festivities.

Yale students and summer pupils at Columbia were his next assignments. Then in 1925 a longing for the South and the influence of Dr. Dasheill, the head of the Psychology Department here, lured him to Carolina.

With him he brought memories of playing football, basketball, tennis and golf at Princeton. This athletic energy at UNC was used on fishing and hunting trips with students.

From being a guinea pig in the war Dr. Bagby changed into costumes of a lady dragon, a King, and the rear end of a camel for the Playmakers. He was president of the Rotary Club and the Chapel Hill Country Club, is a member of the American Psychology Association, is listed in the American Men of Science and Who's Who.

Through the changes and years his heart has remained generous. During the depression Dr. Bagby personally paid for all medicine prescribed for self-help students who could not afford it. He underwrote the expense of hospital care for all underprivileged Negro and white children in Chapel Hill. Recently he has given liberally to many needy Negro children of Orange County.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

1949 FORD CUSTOM - CLUB Coupe. Radio and Heater. Can be seen at 44 D Glen Lennox after 5 p.m. on weekdays, and after 1 p.m. on Saturday, or call 9-6367. (chg 1x1)

FOR RENT 6A

ROOMS AVAILABLE FOR SUMmer, reasonable rates, excellent location. Contact Harold Rhodes, phone 9-2071. (Chg 1x1)

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

PICKARD ROOFING CO. BUILDing supplies, hardware, and paint. Free estimates on old and new work. Main street Carrboro. Phone 9-5693. (chg 1x1)

SELL US YOUR BOOKS—WE EAT up quarter dreadfuls, yearn for texts. We'll even buy many dropped texts if you sweeten the pile with something good. And as for ordinary good readable used books, nobody buys so many or sells so many as we do. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St. (chg 1x2)

LOST 12

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON BEtween 12:30 and 10:00 p.m., between Stevens St. and Scuttlebutt. Man's "Mido" wrist watch. Finder please call 3396. Reward. (1-8023-1)

FOR SALE 6B

USED FURNITURE—MODERN 2-piece gray frieze living-room suite. 1952 Easy Spindry deluxe washing machine, 2 double innercoil mattresses and springs. 2 single fold-a-beds. Chests of drawers, bookcases, tables, chairs, and mirrors. (2-8022-1)

1952 "SILVER STAR" TRAILER. All Aluminum — 35 feet long — Spun-glass insulated. Inquire Clay Scot Service Station, Farrington Road. Mr. A. B. Smith. (1-8024-1)

SENIORS,

We'll Miss You

Berman's Dept. Store

WE BUY TEXTBOOKS WHETHER USED OR NOT

THE BOOK EXCHANGE

Five Points—Durham, N. C.

TEXTBOOKS • OUTLINES • TRANSLATIONS

COMMENCEMENT SALE

ENDS MONDAY, JUNE 1ST

Still plenty of Shoes going to bed at give-a-way prices

Cotton Cord Suits in Brooks cut (regular, not baby cord) reduced to $19.99

Good reductions on summer pants in smaller sizes up through 32

Short sleeve Sport Shirts, $3.96 value ... $1.99

Long sleeve Sport Shirts, values to 6.95 NOW $3.99

$5.00 Basket weave Dress Shirts $2.99

Denim Slacks with elastic waistband ... $3.49

85c Socks, 3 prs. for $1.29

Tweka of Holland ingrain cotton mesh Polo Shirts, $5.00 value $2.99

Vicose Linen Suits reduced to $29.99

Moygashel Irish Linen Suits reduced to ... $44.99

Milton wants to wish all graduates the very best of luck and success in their future endeavors Also, thanks for your loyal patronage.

Milton's Clothing Cupboard

HIGH ADVENTURE STORMS THE HIGH SEAS!

— PLUS —

SEE THE FIGHT IN 3 DIMENSIONS!

ROCKY MARCIANO vs. JERSEY JOE WALCOTT

ROUND-BY-ROUND Highlights! CLIMAX THRILLS in Slow-Motion!

BETTER THAN RINGSIDE! Released thru UNITED ARTISTS

T-O-D-A-Y and SATURDAY

Varsity

LATE SHOW SATURDAY NIGHT

regular showing SUNDAY — MONDAY

CLEOPATRA!

The grandeur of her passion ruled the glory that was Rome!

THANK YOU . . .

We thank you, our friends and customers, for your kindly expressions and patronage during the past school year. Your support has made possible the growth of THE SPORT SHOP, which in a few years, has grown to be recognized as one of the South's outstanding clothing stores.

BEST WISHES FOR A PLEASANT SUMMER.

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

POETRY
A Georgian talks about a Chapel Hillian.
See page 4.

The Tar Heel
WEATHER
Continued hot and humid with a high of
Twice A Week
Issues of The Tar Heel, which
PAGE FOUR THE TAR HEEL THURSDAY, JUNE 11, 1953
Charles Eaton's Poetry Honored

Charles Eaton's Poetry Honored In Georgia Quarterly's Review

High praise is given the poetry of Charles Edward Eaton, former member of the University English Department now in Connecticut, by Dr. William W. Davidson of the University of Georgia English Department, in an article in the current issue of The Georgia Review.

A teacher of poetry at the University of Georgia, Dr. Davidson gives a brief analysis of four poems by Eaton in an article, "The Poetry of Charles Edward Eaton."

"What struck me most about the poetry of Charles Edward Eaton when I first read it was the way he handled his material," Dr. Davidson writes. "His method seemed entirely unlike that of any poet I had read, and his technique seemed very skillful and effective without being obtrusive."

After telling the stories of the four poems, all about ladies in white, Dr. Davidson says, "it is easy enough to say that the lady is dressed in white, but to make that mean something important in verse is the work of a poet, and Charles Edward Eaton is a poet."

A native of Winston-Salem, Eaton has published two books of poems,

Twice A Week

Issues of The Tar Heel, which will appear hereafter on Tuesdays and Fridays of each week during the first Summer session, may be picked up at several places.

Copies will be placed in Lenoir Hall, the Y lobby and in the dormitories themselves.

Those interested in working on the paper should contact Rolfe Neill at the newspaper offices on second floor Graham Memorial or by calling 9-3361 or 9-5671.

The Tar Heel

The Tar Heel, published Tuesday and Friday during the first Summer Session and printed by The News Inc., Hillsboro, N. C., is the official publication of the Summer School of the University of North Carolina where it is published by the students.

— Festival —

(Continued from page 1)

with jobs but who do this because they enjoy it."

This and other festivals always draw large audiences. Director Lunsford, who also handles the country's oldest folk festival, the one in Asheville, attributes the popularity to "the fact that the entertainment is genuine and it's our own people."

Construction of a stage for participants is very costly so Lunsford has solved this financial problem and at the same time made it possible for smaller communities to have a folk festival without the expense of professional stage rigging. Lunsford's answer is a portable stage.

Activity Sheet Determines Offerings During Summer

An activity check sheet (a green form) is being given out to all students during registration today and their response will determine the activities to be offered during Summer Session.

Norm Bowles, president of the Summer YMCA Cabinet and chairman of the Summer Activities Council, yesterday said the results of the sheets will be compiled and "the interests will determine the activities."

Summer Activities Council

There will be a special meeting of the Summer Activities Council tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the YMCA office. Those interested are invited.

CLASSIFIED

OLD AND RARE BOOKS — WE have 'em from three for a quarter on up to a month's rent. Browsing's fun. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St.

— NOW SHOWING —

HERBERT J. YATES presents

TRUCOLOR BY CONSOLIDATED

THE LADY WANTS MINK

STARRING DENNIS O'KEEFE · RUTH HUSSEY · EVE ARDEN · WILLIAM DEMAREST

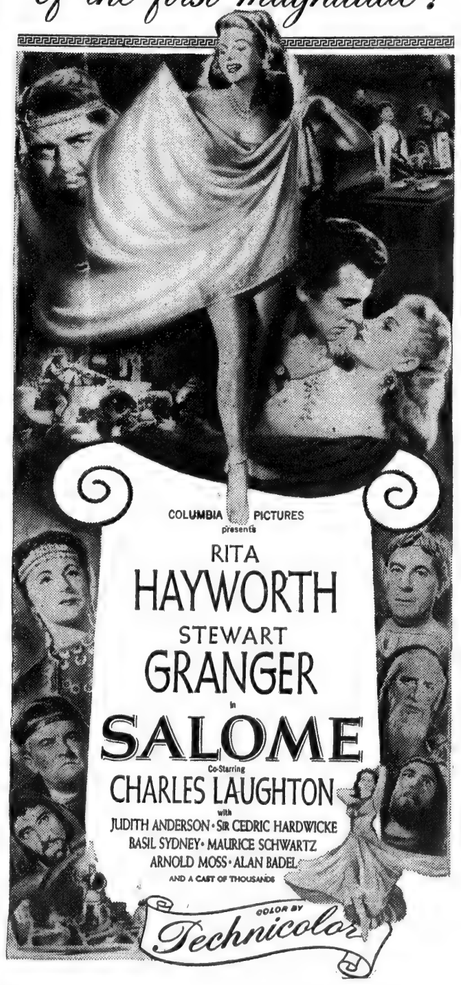
— FRIDAY —

"One of the most fascinating and funniest shows one could hope for!" —NEWSWEEK

CHARLES CHAPLIN'S HUMAN DRAMA!

LIMELIGHT

co-starring CLAIRE BLOOM



SYDNEY CHAPLIN · Nigel Bruce · Norman Lloyd

Written, Directed and Produced by CHARLES CHAPLIN

Released thru United Artists

— SATURDAY—SUNDAY—MONDAY —

A motion picture event of the first magnitude!

COLUMBIA PICTURES presents

RITA HAYWORTH

STEWART GRANGER

in

SALOME

Co-Starring CHARLES LAUGHTON

with JUDITH ANDERSON · SIR CEDRIC HARDWICKE

BASIL SYDNEY · MAURICE SCHWARTZ

ARNOLD MOSS · ALAN BADEL

AND A CAST OF THOUSANDS

COLOR BY Technicolor

ADMISSION THIS ATTRACTION ONLY!

ADULTS: Matinee: 60c Night 74c

CHILDREN ALL DAY 20c

SATURDAY — SUNDAY — MONDAY

Varsity

You Can't Beat

BRAND NAMES

AT THE TOWN & CAMPUS

- BOTANY
- MANHATTEN SHIRTS
- VAN HEUSEN SHIRTS
- MAYFAIR SLACKS
- HICKOK BELTS
- PURITAN SPORT SHIRTS
- AFTER - SIX FORMALS
- INTERWOVEN SOX
- JARMAN SHOES
- GANTNER SWIMWEAR

THE TOWN & CAMPUS

DEPT. STORE Closed Sundays During Summer

their mode of behavior."

WEATHER

Continued hot and humid with a high of 92. Yesterday's high, 92; low, 74.

The Tar Heel

POETRY

A Georgian talks about a Chapel Hillian. See page 4.

VOLUME 16 NUMBER 1 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. THURSDAY, JUNE 11, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Two Ways Out

Greek Houses Comply With State Fire Statute

Faced with an ultimatum to meet state fire law requirements or forget about using their sleeping quarters, the 35 offending fraternity and sorority houses have given in.

Fire Inspector P. L. Burch yesterday said the "last seven or eight" signed their contracts on the deadline day—June 5.

Those failing to do so would have been locked up above the first floor effective today. This is in accordance with a get-tough plan recently adopted by the town Aldermen when most of the Greek houses were sluggish in meeting specifications on which an April 5 deadline had been set.

The houses were inspected last December by state officials and condemned for occupancy above the first floor because they did not have satisfactory fire exits.

Most of the installation work is expected to be completed by this Fall.

Lunsford And Folk Festival Open Tonight In Kenan Stadium At 8

Bascom Lamar Lunsford, a fellow who looks as if he could turn a tune or two himself, brings about 700 performers to Kenan Stadium tonight at 8 o'clock for the first of three nights of the sixth annual Carolina Folk Festival.

The mammoth festival is sponsored by the Folklore Council of the University and will bring participants from all over North Carolina as well as Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee and South Carolina.

Admission for each night's performance is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. In case of rain, the event will be held in Memorial Hall on the University campus.

Lunsford is director of the folk festival and a native of the area from which the music comes —the mountains. Purpose of the festival, according to Lunsford, "is to recapture the cultural values in our traditional American music, dancing and balladry, and to present them in their unspoiled best in a fast moving three evening event, free from caricature, mockery or ridicule."

Featured among the individual performers will be Virgill Sturgill of Kentucky, Paul Jones of Wilkes County and Miss Jean Moser of Buncombe County, all on banjos, and George Pegram of Iredell County, Ruby Lovingood and Chick Martin, string bands and quartets.

The Hanlon Mountain Dance Team of 20 persons from beyond the Blue Ridge in Buncombe County will appear each evening, showing "the lively steps and weird figures of the mountains," Lunsford says.

The festival is a non-profit venture with proceeds going toward operational expenses. It is, however, a self-supporting affair.

Lunsford likes to describe his performers as "professional in skill but amateur in their application. They're just regular floks

(See FESTIVAL, page 4)

Entries Sought In Intramurals; Meet Monday

Carolina's Summer intramural program is open for entries in four sports, softball, tennis, horseshoes and golf.

Softball and tennis entries close next Wednesday with play beginning the next day. Horseshoe entries also close then but play does not begin until Monday, June 22. Golf qualifying is open until June 24 and scores should be turned into the golf shop at Finley course.

There will be an "important" meeting of intramural managers Monday at 7 p.m. in 301-A Woollen Gym, officials said yesterday. Dorms, fraternities or others wishing to enter teams should be certain that a representative is present at Monday's meeting. Details of the Summer program will be worked out then.

Those interested in participating in intramurals are invited to Monday's meeting. Also on the agenda is a discussion of a bait casting tournament to be held.

French House Offering Meals And Program

The French House, offering an opportunity to speak the language and enjoy mealtime fellowship, is operating again this year during the Summer Session.

With headquarters in the Kappa Delta Sorority house at 219 W. Franklin St. (next door to the Institute of Government), the French House offers luncheons for $35, dinners for $35, or both for $65. This is June 12 to July 17 inclusive except Sundays.

In addition, a fee of $10 will be required upon registration and will entitle the members to attend the program of the French House, including films, which will be given every evening except Saturday and Sunday. The programs will last for an hour and be directed by Dr. J. Jacques Hardre of the University and his father, Rene Hardre, professor at Woman's College, Greensboro.

Mrs. Charlotte V. Huse is hostess, a job she has held since the foundation was established in 1945.

Nothing but French is spoken by members of the French House at all times. Further information may be obtained at the house from one of the staff members.

Teachers Will Be Guests Monday At Planetarium

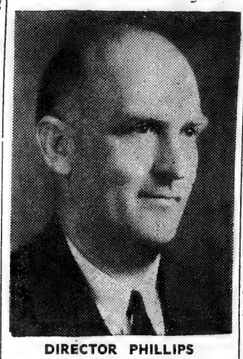
Teachers enrolled in the Summer Session are to be the guests of the Planetarium Monday at 7:30 p.m. for a guided tour and a look at the current show, "Scouting the Skies."

The teachers are asked to meet in the Planetarium rotunda where they will be met by Manager Tony Jenzano. After the show, the teachers will be served refreshments in the Main Lounge of Graham Memorial, student union.

The refreshments will be served through the Summer Activities Council.

Get Acquainted Party Set For Tomorrow At 8; All Are Invited

Tomorrow's first day of classes will end on a social note with a meet-the-students party starting at 8 p.m. behind South Building beside the YMCA.



Food, music and informality are the ingredients, master of ceremonies Nancy Horne said yesterday. She urged all students and faculty to attend tomorrow's fete, sponsored by the Summer Activities Council.

Some 30 Carolina students will be hosts and hostesses, according to Miss Horne. Refreshments will be prepared by a committee under Susan Fink and the music will be that of Bob Cole and his folk music band, starting at 7:45.

Dean Guy Phillips, director of the Summer Session and also head of the School of Education, will introduce some of the visiting faculty. Gray McAllister will call the square dance to be held following the informal program arranged by Miss Horne.

In case of rain, the affair will be held in the Tin Can, beside Woollen Gym on Raleigh Road.

Classes Will Begin Tomorrow; 2,450 Expected To Enroll

DIRECTOR PHILLIPS
. . . starting No. 15

The University's Summer Session opens today with a day-long registration in Woollen Gym. Classes begin tomorrow morning.

This year's Summer work, as for the last 14 years, is headed by Dean Guy B. Phillips who also is head of the School of Education. Dean Phillips has been Summer Session director since 1939.

Saturday classes will be held this week for the only time during the first session. Regular classes will be held in every department.

Enrollment for this Summer is expected to be about 2,450, the same as last year.

Teaching will be a faculty of some 250 to 300, including 20 visiting lecturers. The first term will run from today through July 17 and the second term from July 20 to August 22.

A total of 21 dormitories will be used to house this Summer's student body. Men will use Aycock, Old East, Old West, Battle, first and second floor of Vance, Steele, Grimes, Ruffin, Mangum, Connor and Winston.

Spencer, Kenan, Alderman, McIver, Carr and Smith, regular coed dorms, will be open to women as well as Joyner.

Alexander wil be used for married students. Cobb and Whitehead will be used by the Extension Division.

This year's enrollment is only a little better than half the size of the peak one handled by Dean Phillips. In a session during World War II, he took care of 4,600.

Atomic Expert From Britain To Talk Here

The John Calvin McNair Lectures, given annually at the University, will be delivered March 30 and 31 and April 1, 1954, by Prof. C. A. Coulson, Rouse Ball Professor of Applied Mathematics at Oxford University, England.

Announcement of the lecturer was made yesterday by Dr. Alexander Head, chairman, Committee on Established Lectures at the University.

One of the most prominent figures in Britain in the field of atomic energy, Prof. Coulson received his undergraduate and graduate education at the University of Cambridge. He has visited laboratories in the United States in connection with his atomic energy work.

He taught at Cambridge at the University of St. Andrew's in Scotland before becoming professor of theoretical physics at King's College in the University of London. He went to Oxford in 1952.

Prof. Coulson has published three scientific books and over 100 research papers, chiefly relating quantum theory to theoretical chemistry. In addition to his scientific training and achievements, he is a distinguished theologian in his own right.

The McNair series is supposed to "show the mutual bearing of science and theology upon each other and to prove the existence and attributes, as far as may be, of God from nature," Dr. Heard said.

3 Conferences Now In Session

Three conferences are in session at the University this week.

A confab on alcohol will close tomorrow afternoon. The eighth annual Summer Workshop Conference of the N.C. Classroom Teachers Association also will close tomorrow.

The third conference, an Economic Education Workshop, will continue through July 1. Highlight of this workshop will be an address Monday at 8 p.m. by Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, consulting economist for the Joint Council on Economic Education and formerly President Truman's first chairman of the Council of Economic advisers.

Dr. Nourse's topic will be "Persistent Problems in the American Economy."

Chancellor House Announces New Student-Faculty Plan

Closer relations between students and faculty members will be provided at the University this fall.

There will be a faculty counselor for every 20 freshmen who will look to their adviser for "friendly guidance and advice in an informal off-the-record manner."

The new program was announced yesterday by Chancellor Robert B. House, who pointed out that the plan is not a radical departure from previous University policy. The University has had a faculty advisory program for freshmen and sophomores for many years—and this will be continued—but under the new plan the chief difference is that no faculty counselor will be assigned more than 20 freshmen, he explained. There will be 50 faculty counselors.

"This means," he said, "that each counselor will have ample time to devote to each freshman under his supervision. No freshman should ever be able to say that he did not have available at any time the friendly guidance and advice of an interested and sympathetic teacher."

Chancellor House said the program is "an effort to add the advantage of more individualized attention and treatment to the other facilities afforded by the University.

"The aim of the counselor program is not to supplant the General College advisers (there are nine of them) or to relieve them of any of their present duties and responsibilities but to broaden the scope of faculty-student relations by setting up a plan that will make every entering freshman personally known to some interested an sympathetic member of the faculty."

The faculty counselor will be furnished a capsule history and other background material for each member of his group and with mid-term reports and final grades as they come in. He will exchange information and suggestions in regard to his studies with General College advisers who will continue to assume responsibility for the students' academic programs.

The list of counselors: Profs. R. L. Bunting, M. T. Orr, A. E. Radford, K. R. Davis, J. C. Ingram, J. T. O'Neil, Clarence Philbrook, A. W. Pierpont, T. M. Stanback, W. A. Terrill, H. D. Wolf, A. L. Suskin, T. M. Patterson, Samuel Selden, C. F. Brown, Gordon Ellis, J. T. Hunt, W. M. Jenkins, G. B. Phillips, W. H. Plemmons, J. R. Skretting, D. G. Tarbet, G. M. Harper, G. F. Horner, William Wells, R. B. Voitle, D. G. Basile.

V. I. Mann, H. W. Reichert, J. R. Caldwell, Elisha Douglass, O. J. Coffin, S. W. Sechriest, Walter Spearman, Wilton Mason, F. L. Edwards, G. E. Lockee, S. A. Emery, E. M. Allen, H. C. House, J. W. Straley, G. B. Cleveland, W. J. Daniel, J. S. Clayton, B. H. Boyd, J. E. Keller, R. W. Linker, E. W. Najam, E. W. Noland W. B. Sanders, G. L. Simpson and C. E. Jenner.

Y Contributions

The summer budget of the YMCA comes almost entirely from student contributions, Director John Riebel pointed out yesterday.

Riebel reminded students that pledge cards will be given them during registration. "Those who want to help are urged to," the Y official said.

JUST RECEIVED

Sanforized Cotton

Baby Cord SLACKS

$6.95

— ALL SIZES —

THE Sport SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

USED TEXTS

- At prices that will leave some money in your pocket to buy books of permanent worth.
- FREE ICE CREAM CONES ON TEXT BOOK DAY.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

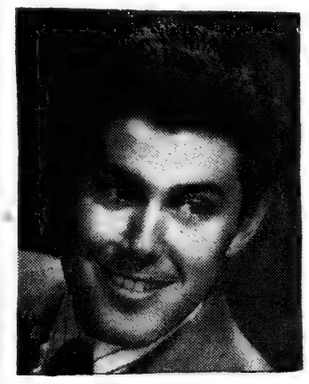
Always COOL HERE!

Carolina

TODAY

Judy & Gene

JUDY GARLAND GENE KELLY in M-G-M's "SUMMER STOCK" TECHNICOLOR with RAY COLLINS



FRIDAY—SATURDAY

RICHARD WIDMARK JEAN PETERS THELMA RITTER Pickup 20th Century-Fox ON SOUTH STREET

SUNDAY—MONDAY

MGM's Color by Technicolor YOUNG BESS starring JEAN SIMMONS · STEWART GRANGER DEBORAH KERR · CHARLES LAUGHTON with Kay WALSH · Guy ROLFE · Kathleen BYRON Cecil KELLAWAY · Leo G. CARROLL

PERMANENT WAVES OF LASTING BEAUTY

MR. ANGELO In Our Durham Salon

Durham, N. C.
Mr. Angelo—Stylist
Miss Rabon—Stylist

Raleigh, N. C.
Mr. Snotherly—Stylist

La Marick Permanent Waves

Super Deluxe Creme Oil Cold Wave	25.00 Value	9.95
DeLuxe Creme Oil Cold Wave	15.00 Value	6.95
Custom Creme Oil Cold Wave	12.50 Value	5.95

(Stylists' Prices Slightly Higher)

We feature only professional and nationally advertised supplies such as Fashion Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Clairol, Revlon and La Marick Cold Wave.

TEMPO PERMANENT ——— $10 up

Each Wave Includes

- Personality Haircut
- Shaping & Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curl
- Oily Neutralizer
- Setting
- Creme Rinse
- Free Consultation

Anytime is Coffee Time with NESCAFE Complimentary in Our Salon

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
PHONE DURHAM 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
PHONE RALEIGH 3-1726
LaMARICK SHOPS

Come See, Come Save at A&P!

A&P SPECIAL SALE of A&P COFFEE!

We Haven't Had Lower Prices on A&P Coffee in Two Years!

Everyone is waiting for coffee prices to come down. A&P has done something about it! For a limited time only, we can offer America's favorite coffee at savings up to 16¢ a pound compared with like-quality coffees. You save even more on the extra-thrifty 3-pound bag! Enjoy the same superb quality — the freshly-roasted goodness that makes A&P Coffee America's Favorite! Choose from 3 superb blends — and best of all, enjoy these special, special prices! Change to A&P Coffee now!

NOW! Mild & Mellow	NOW! Rich & Full-Bodied	NOW! Vigorous & Winey
1-LB. BAG 77c	1-LB. BAG 78c	1-LB. BAG 79c
3 Lb. Bag $2.25	3 Lb. Bag $2.25	3 Lb. Bag $2.31

BUY THE THRIFTY 3-LB. BAG Save EVEN MORE!

Fresh Fruits & Vegetables

Full of Juice Lemons Lb. 15c

Crisp 4-Dozen Size Lettuce Head 17¢

Golden Ripe Bananas 2 Lbs. 25c

Crisp Carrots 1-Lb. Cello Bag 12c

Yellow Onions Lb. 5c

Sweet Juicy Watermelons Each $1.29

Jumbo Peanuts 8-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Jane Parker Large Angel Food Ring Each 49c

Domestic Sardines 2 3¼-Oz. Cans 15c

Packers Label Orange Juice 46-Oz. Can 27c

Swift's Jewel Oil Pt. Bot. 30c Qt. Bot. 59c

Armour's or Libby's Roast Beef 12-Oz. Can 49c

Ann Page Tomato Ketchup 14-Oz. Bot. 17c

Cheese Spread Ched-O-Bit 2-Lb. Pkg. 80c

White House Skimmed Milk 3 14½-Oz. Cans 25c

Bush's Pinto Beans 2 No. 2 Can 25c

Golden Cream Style Iona Corn 2 16-Oz. Cans 23c

Red Band Flour 5-Lb. Bag 70c 10-Lb. Bag 97c

Walker's Austex Beef Stew 15-Oz. Can 29c

Iona Hominy 2 29-Oz. Cans 21c

Ann Page Plum Preserves 2-Lb. Jar 35c

Golden Maid Margarine 1-Lb. Pkg. 20c

GUARANTEED CLOSE-TRIM SUPER-RIGHT MEATS

Swift Hamburger 10-Oz. Can 45c

Ivory Soap 3 Med. Bars 22c

Ivory Snow Lge. Pkg. 27c

Duz Lge. Pkg. 27c Gt. Pkg. 65c

Spic & Span 2 16-Oz. Pkg. 47c

P&G Soap 2 Lge. Pkg. 15c

Toilet Soap Octagon 4 Reg. Bars 19c

Super Suds Lge. Pkg. 27c Gt. Pkg. 65c

Vel Lge. Pkg. 29c

Dial Soap 2 Comp. Bars 25c

Dial Soap 2 Bath Bars 35c

Crisco 1-Lb. Tin 32c 3-Lb. Tin 89c

Deviled Ham Underwood 2¼-Oz. Can 19c

Super Right Heavy Western Beef—Boneless Rib Steak Lb. 79c

Pan-Ready - Cut-Up Fryers Lb. 45c

Super Right Heavy Western Beef Bone-In Plate Stew Lb. 19c

Super Right Heavy Western Beef Rib Roast Boned & Rolled Lb. 69c

Wafer Sliced Bologna Lb. 49c

Smoked Short Shank—4 to 6 Lbs. Avg.—Pork Shoulder Picnics Lb. 45c

Headless And Dressed Whiting Lb. 12c

Fillet of Haddock Lb. 29c

• BIG BUY IN PICKLES •

Everbest Pickles
Sour - Dills
Kosher Dills
Candied Relish
Candied Chips

3 4½-Oz. Jars 29c

AMERICA'S FOREMOST FOOD RETAILER . . . SINCE 1859

A&P Super Markets

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

These Prices Effective Thru Saturday, June 13th

Swift's Prem	Tea Tender Leaf	Northern Toilet Tissue	Ocean Spray Cranberry Sauce
12-Oz. Can 45c	¼-Lb. Pkg. 31c	3 Rolls 25c	16-Oz. Can 20c Delicious With Chicken

What Goes On Here

Student Directory

The Summer School student directory, published by the YMCA and the Summer Session administration, will go on sale this week in the Y lobby. There will be a slight charge for the directories, which are in Mimeographed form and contain the names, campus addresses and home towns of students enrolled for the Summer. Signs will be up in the Y announcing when the directories are ready for sale.

Square Dance Thursday

Max Ballenger will call a dance Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Y Court. Those interested are invited.

Swimming At Night

The indoor pool at Woollen Gym will be open from 7:30 to 9 o'clock tomorrow night for swimming. The swimming will be under the direction of Swimming Coach Dick Jamerson and assistants. Children in the pool must be accompanied in the water by their parents.

Summer Chorus

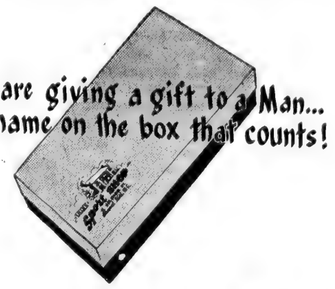
The Summer Chorus, open to interested students, held its organizational meeting last night in Hill Hall. The chorus will meet every Monday at 7:30 p.m. with Director John Park in the Hill Choral Room.

World News Map

A weekly world news map is featured in the YMCA. This week's map, which goes up today, spotlights the Korean War and the problems surrounding the truce talks. The map is displayed in the Y lobby and sponsored by the World Relatedness Commission of the Y.

Phi Delta Kappa

Phi Delta Kappa will meet Thursday at 6:15 p.m. in Lenoir Hall. Dr. H. M. Barr will speak.



Activity Center

The YMCA is acting as activity coordination center for the Summer and prints a weekly schedule of what is going on in the University. Events should be scheduled with the Y to avoid conflicts and those interested in getting information into the weekly sheet should turn in all copy by 10 a.m. each Friday.

Refunds

Students here during Spring Quarter are asked to pick up their laundry refunds.

The checks are at the laundry office on Franklin St., next to the Port Hole alley.

Always COOL HERE!
Carolina
TODAY & WEDNESDAY

THURSDAY

GARY COOPER "HIGH NOON"

A REAL TREAT
EXCELLENT SEA FOOD and STEAKS
Served In Our Newly
AIR CONDITIONED
DINING ROOM
Sea Food is one of our specialties. Always fresh from brook, lake and sea.

BRADY'S RESTAURANT

YEARS AHEAD OF THEM ALL!

Don't you want to try a cigarette with a record like this?

1. Chesterfield Quality Highest. Recent chemical analyses give an index of good quality for the country's six leading cigarette brands.

The index of good quality table — a ratio of high sugar to low nicotine — shows Chesterfield quality highest

. . . 15% higher than its nearest competitor and Chesterfield quality 31% higher than the average of the five other leading brands.

2. No adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield. From the report of a medical specialist who has been giving a group of Chesterfield smokers regular examinations every two months for well over a year.

3. First with premium quality in both regular and king-size. Much Milder with an extraordinarily good taste — and for your pocketbook, Chesterfield is today's best cigarette buy.

Choice of Young America — BEST FOR YOU!

CHESTERFIELD

WELCOME SUMMER STUDENTS
UNIVERSITY SERVICE STATION
Corner Franklin & Columbia Streets — FIRESTONE TIRES — WHEEL BALANCING — MOTOR TUNE-UP — Telephone 4041

DEPT. STORE Closed Sundays During Summer

CLASSIFIED

OLD AND RARE BOOKS — WE have 'em from three for a quarter on up to a month's rent. Browsing's fun. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St.

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and mild with 80 high. Yesterday's high, 73; low, 60.

The Tar Heel

HORSE
Neighing and blinking his good eye, Old Dobbin talks today. See page 2.

VOLUME 16 NUMBER 2 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, JUNE 16, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

DEMONSTRATING AGAINST THE truce terms in Korea, this South Korean, (right) shouts his defiance at photographer Warren Lee in Seoul, Korea. With him, the angry man carries a rifle which he took from a Korean policeman guarding correspondents billets. —NEA Telephoto.

17th UNC Student Art Exhibit Now Showing In Person Hall

The University Art Department's 17th annual student art exhibit opened this week in Person Hall and will continue throughout June.

It offers a complete review of creative activities in the beginners', advanced and graduate classes in the department during the academic year now ending. It ranges from introductory courses in studio methods to works of personal creative expression that have in some cases already found recognition in local and regional exhibitions.

Paintings, drawings and sculpture, as well as work from art education and advertising art classes, are being shown. The paintings in various media including oils, encaustic, transparent lacquers and watercolors extend in subject matter from literal representations with impressionistic, cubistic and geometric treatments to subjective works subtley poetic in content and dramatic works dynamic in visual interest.

Person Hall Art Gallery is open daily from 9 to 12:30 and 2 to 4:30, and on Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Piano Recital Slated Tonight At 8:30 In Hill

Miss Sally Jente of Chapel Hill will give a junior piano recital at 8:30 tonight in Hill Hall. Admission is free.

The program will consist of three numbers, the Mozart Concerto in E-flat Major, K. 271; Ravel's "Valses nobles et sentimentales," and Schubert's Sonata in A minor, Op. 143.

A student in the University, Miss Jente is a pupil of William S. Newman of the University's Music Department. She appeared in several department recitals, and last December she performed a movement of Beethoven's Third Concerto with the University Symphony Orchestra. Before entering the University she studied piano with Viva Faye Richardson at the Northfield School for Girls in Massachusetts.

In her concert Miss Jente will be assisted by Arthur Winsor Jr. of Chapel Hill,

Watermelon Festival Queen To Be Chosen Next Week

Entries open today for beauty queen contestants for the fifth annual Watermelon Festival to be held June 26 under Davie Poplar.

The festival is one of the highlights of Summer School and watermelons are furnished free to participants as long as the participants can eat them.

Chairman Dusty Lamson released four rules for the contest:

1. All contestants must be students enrolled in Summer School here.

2. There will be an entry fee of $3 for each contestant. This fee will help pay for the watermelons.

3. Each sponsor should submit a picture of their contestant, preferably an 8 x 10 as the photo will be displayed in the Y lobby. All photographs will be returned.

4. Entries must be turned into the YMCA or Graham Memorial office by noon this Friday.

Preliminary voting will be held from next Monday through Thursday at a penny a vote (also to help defray melon costs). Voting will be in the Y lobby from 9 to 4 each day. The queen will be chosen from five contestants receiving the largest number of penny votes.

Final balloting will be held Friday, June 26 from 9 to 4 in the Y at five cents a vote. As many votes may be bought, i.e., cast, as one wishes.

Instead, Prepare For Jail

Dr. Einstein Advises Intellectuals Not To Testify Before Red Probes

NEW YORK, June 11—Dr. Albert Einstein yesterday said every intellectual called before a Congressional investigating committee should refuse to testify, and "must be prepared for jail and economic ruin, in short, for the scarifice of his personal welfare in the interest of the cultural welfare for his country."

He declared it is "shameful for a blameless citizen to submit in such an inquisition," and that "this kind of inquisition violates the spirit of the Constitution."

Dr. Einstein made his views known in an exchange of correspondence with a New York teacher of English who is facing dismissal from the school system because of his refusal to testify before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

The teacher, William Frauenglass, wrote the physicist and referred to the recent statement the scientist made in which he described himself as "an incorrigible nonconformist" in a "remote field of endeavor" that no Senatorial committee had yet fell impelled to tackle.

The teacher was called before the investigating committee as a result of lecture course he gave six years ago to some fellow teachers. The course, "Techniques of Intercultural Teaching," was criticized by a committee witness as being "against the interests of the United States."

Dr. Einstein closed his letter, "If enough people are ready to take this grave step (go to jail) they will be successful. If not, then the intellectuals of this country deserve noohing bettere than the slavery which is intended for them."

Football Season Tickets Now On Sale To Alumni

Season tickets to the University's 1953 home football games went on sale to alumni yesterday.

Former students will have a two weeks' priority before the tickets become available to the general public.

The Tar Heels, in a year of transition with the advent of a new head coach, George Barclay, and a reorganized staff of assistant coaches, will play their usual rugged schedule.

307 Are Here For Boys' State; Elections Will Begin Tonight

Three hundred and seven boys from throughout North Carolina, here for the annual Boys' State, begin electing their officers tonight.

Elections will be held for various city, county and state offices during the week with the "governor" addresing a joint session of the "Senate" and "House" Saturday morning.

Boys' State began Sunday. It will continue through Saturday night when there will be a banquet at which awards will be presented.

Basil Sherrill, assistant director of the Institute of Government which with the American Legion is sponsoring Boys' State, is in charge of the program. Among guest speakers appearing on the program are: Dillard Gardner, marshal and librarian, State Supreme Court; Clifford Pace, city manager, Asheboro; Robert Howell, State Department of Tax Research; James Powell, Director, State Bureau of Investigation.

CAMPUS SEEN

Pigeons savoring newly-sown grass seed in center of campus.

■

Student's remark to another: "He certainly piled the work on for the first day. I don't know whether he was just ignorant or knew what he was doing."

■

Unsuspecting coed wandering all through Steele Dormitory in search of basement bookstore, even to the end, oblivious that it was a male rooming hall.

University Women's Club Plans Party On Thursday

The University Women's Club will hold its Summer party Thursday at 8 p. m. in Graham Memorial.

Wives and faculty members of the School of Education will serve as hostesses. Husbands of members are invited and special invitations are extended to all visiting faculty members and their wives.

Activities Unit Meets Tonight, Needs Help

The Summer Activities Council will hold its first meeting of the Summer tonight at 7:15 in the lobby of the Y.

Spearheaded by student leaders from the Y and SUAB, the council depends on summer session students to work on the various committees for the summer activities program.

Persons who want to help develop the activities program are invited to attend tonight's meeting and work on one of the committees. The committee on the June 26 Watermelon Festival has begun to function, but additional members are needed at once.

Other committees to be formed tonight are: Square Dance Committee, Film Forums Committee, Ping Pong Tournament Committee and Community Sing Committee.

Additional programs will be organized around the interests students show. "If you want other activities organized, come to the meeting tonight at 7:15 and expres yourself," Norm Bowles, chairman of the Summer Activities Council, said.

Folk Music Band

The Folk Music Band will meet Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Gerrard Hall. Those interested are invited. Director Bob Cole yesterday pleaded for students to bring instruments, "particularly a bass fiddle." Spectators are invited, too.

their mode of behavior."

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . .. " Hipporotis; circa 500 B.C.)

THE HORSE was sprawled in the shade of a hedge behind Archer House, observing the ebb and flow of Eds and Co-Eds Drop-Adding.

We joined him quietly.

His eight-ball eyes clicked noisily when a cute blonde panthered past. His aged, velvet muzzle quivered when a lisome red-head undulated up the Archer House steps. He rolled onto his back, fanned the air with all four hooves, and emitted a shrill yeigh when a Bikini-built brunette came weaving along. (The Horse mostly yeighs, rarely neighs.)

Things happened swiftly among the Drop-Adders: A spinsterish female slapped the slack jaw of a lounging athlete; a red-head glared at a Play-maker student who glared right back; the brunette murmured her telephone number to a lad who hadn't asked for it . . . but noted it down; and a middle-aged co-ed smiled toothily at a dignified professor of Classics and went back into Archer to add his course.

We were surprised at The House creating this disturbance, and him only fresh away from 9 out of ten days in the hospital.

"Whacha expect, Bud," The Horse nickered, "ten days outa 9? That was a trick deal, that horspital. Especially that Tattoo Trick. Tsk, tsk, such horspitality!"

We wondered what the Tattoo Trick was?

"The first morning, a cute, crispy-looking' lil nurse came dancing into my stall on the wings of invisible music—or so it seemed—and said would I like some pencillin'? I'm quick that way, you know. Pencilling, of course, was tattooing, I figgered. It was a thought, and something for my opposition to look at in horse-races besides my hooves. Ouch!"

"It turned out to be Penicillin, not pencillin'," The Horse said sadly. "A-la needle; and not in my withers, either. Loud sing cuckoo! Well, I suppose you saw the omen in the weekend activities, speaking of such things, and got a bet down on Native Dancer in the Belmont?"

What omen?

"The Folk Dancing Festival," The Horse said, "in Kenan Stadium. Native Dancers' Week, catch? Heh heh, that's a horse on you! But something should be done about these horses on students who come here for advertised summer-quarter courses only to be told there aren't enough students to hold the class they've come for."

The rule said ten to a class, minimum.

"This university," The Horse chittered, "started in one building with one student and one professor in one class."

We didn't get the point?

"Nope, the students who came from hundreds to thousands of miles at great expense, and too late to do anything else about it at some other school, get the point. The same way I got the Penicillin, ouch! We give our word, we ought to keep it. Or, if our goal is twenty students to a cellophane-wrapped pack, let's say so . . . and in big print, not in pica-style."

It was easy to criticize.

"Naturally," The Horse agreed. "That's why I'm doing it. Now, a lot of folks have proved they will walk a mile for a certain product or other, and could be just as well off if they don't get it. But when a trusting and serious student

(See THE HORSE, page 3)

The Tar Heel

The Tar Heel, published Tuesday and Friday during the first Summer Session and printed by The News Inc., Hillsboro, N. C., is the official publication of the Summer School of the University of North Carolina where it is published by the students.

HAVE YOU HEARD THE NEWS?

Everyone is going to

to THE PINES for those WONDERFUL STEAK SUPPERS!

THE PINES

ON THE RALEIGH ROAD

MONEY LOW?

GOT TO GO?

SEE CHARLIE JOHNSTON AT THE

HI-WAY SERVICE STATION

AROUND THE CURVE

In Carrboro

Reg	28.4	Complete
Hi-Test	29.4	Servicing
U-WASH-IT	.50	U-LUB-IT	.50

WE WASH OR LUB — $1.00

Welcome To The Famous

INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

- See More Books — The Intimate Bookshop has the largest stock in the Carolinas, including texts, intelligent new books, and rare books.
- Make New Friends — Intellectuals from half a dozen campuses meet in the famous old Intimate Bookshop.
- Get a Free Map of the Campus to help you find your way around—and to help your friends find you.

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. Franklin St. Open 'Till 9 P.M.

Swimming Pool Hours Announced For Summer

Following is a schedule for the University's two swimming pools, Kessing (outdoor) and Bowman-Gray (indoor). Both pools are located at Woollen Gymnasium. The schedule:

Children's instruction: 11-12, Monday-Friday; children's recreation: 12-12:30, Monday-Friday; 12-12:30, Saturday, and 3-4, daily, with parents.

Adult instruction, 4-5, Monday-Friday; adult recreation: 12-6, Monday-Friday; 11-5, Saturday, and 2-5, Sunday.

Freshman Handbook

Freshmen may pick up their free copies of the Freshman Handbook at the YMCA office. Upperclassmen may obtain a copy for a nominal price.

Foister's offers national lines of finer cameras and camera supplies.

- Leica
- Eastman Kodak
- Graflex
- Revere
- Bell & Howell
- Argus
- Rolleiflex
- Polaroid Land Camera

OPEN 12 TO 5 ON SUNDAYS

FAST DEVELOPING & PRINTING SERVICE

FOISTER'S CAMERA STORE

Free Room

A student willing to work about 30 or 40 minutes a morning can get a free room in return for his services.

The work would be done between 8 and 9 a.m. each day. Those interested may obtain information from the Dean of Students office in South Building.

The room is located within five minutes walking distance of the campus.

ALAN MOORE TO FLORIDA

Alan Moore, who resigned recently as soccer and lacrosse coach at the University has accepted a teaching post as physical education instructor at the University of Florida.

Moore, a former All-America soccer player at Springfield College, coached lacrosse here three years and soccer two. He also taught physical education courses.

—The Horse—

(Continued from page 2)

comes hundreds of miles for a course, let's give it. It is an ill-wind that blows no good-will, and this is it."

Maybe The Horse thought there should be a Weather Bureau at South Building to guard against such ill-winds?

"A bookie should run the deal," The Horse said.

A bookie? A book-maker, like at race-tracks? Why?

"It's 'Put up or shut up,' with a bookie," The Horse snarked. "See?"

But, after all, The Horse doesn't see perfectly . . .

Lawn Party Draws Turnout Of Over 400

Some 400 to 500 Summer students and faculty met together last Friday on the mall behind South Building for a get-acquainted-party.

Divided into 10 groups based on states and regions, the groups met under signs denoting each geographic area. However, one student, Peter Dryer, could not find any of his fellow-countrymen. Peter is from Denmark and the party committee forgot to include foreign countries in the lineup.

Refreshments were served and square dance music played by Bob Cole and his aggregation. Nancy Horne was mistres of ceremonies. Several Administration and faculty leaders were presented as well as other student personnel.

Signs were made by Harry Aycock and Norm Bowles and lighting equipment was loaned for the occasion by John Parker.

Deed Registrars To End Conference Here Today

The annual conference of the North Carolina Register of Deeds Association will close this afternoon with the election of new officers.

The conference opened Sunday and is being conducted at the Institute of Government building.

Today's program includes lectures by two men, Dr. J. H. Hamilton of the State Department of Health, and C. R. Council, also with the State Department of Health.

Room Reservations

A separate room deposit must be made now to reserve a dormitory room for next Fall.

Housing Director James Wadsworth yesterday reminded students that "just because a student has a room for Summer does not entitle him to a room for the Fall." Reservation procedure, Wadsworth said, is to make a $6 deposit with the cashier in the basement of South Building.

HAVE YOU TRIED THE

NEW

UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT?

GOOD FOOD —:— COLD BEER

(Blue Ribbon On Tap)

EASY LISTENING MUSIC BY JOHN SATTERFIELD AND HIS FRIENDS

OPEN 11:00 A.M. TO 11:45 P.M.— LUNCH 11:30 - 2:00 DINNER 5:00 - 8:30
— SNACKS IN BETWEEN —

VARIED MENU—EXCELLENT STEWS—LARGE COLD PLATES

COME IN AND GIVE US A TRY

WE DO OUR BEST TO SERVE THE BEST IN THE COOLEST SPOT AND ATMOSPHERE IN TOWN

— NOW SHOWING — Varsity

WINNER OF ACADEMY AWARD!
N. Y. FILM CRITICS AWARD!
PULITZER PRIZE!

ROBERT ROSSEN'S PRODUCTION OF . . . ALL THE KING'S MEN

— With —
BRODERICK CRAWFORD
JOANNE DRU
JOHN IRELAND
JOHN DEREK
MERCEDES McCAMBRIDGE

WEDNESDAY

Broadway's Best Comedy About The Best Friend Any Marriage Ever Had!

THURSDAY

IT'S HERE AGAIN!
Winner of 3 Academy Awards!
"THE QUIET MAN"
IN TECHNICOLOR
— STARRING —
John Wayne — Maureen O'Hara
Barry Fitzgerald — Victor McLaglen

HALLMARK, GIBSON, RUST CRAFT

FATHER'S DAY CARDS

LEDBETTER - PICKARD

SUNDAY, JUNE 21

WEATHER

Few clouds and plenty of sun with 85 high. Yesterday's high, 84; low, 67.

The Tar Heel

RHYME

A poet gets poetic about teachers. See Gibson, page 2.

VOLUME 16 NUMBER 3 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, JUNE 19, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

PVT. ADOLPH SCARE, Centerville, Mich., pays last respects to his buddy who was killed defending outpost "Harry". United Nations troops at the post held their ground for the fifth straight day yesterday against fanatical Red attacks.—NEA Telephoto.

School Week Confab Opens Monday

Two Addresses For Each Day Highlight Event

Outstanding educators from this and other states will appear on the program of North Carolina School Week to be conducted Monday through Wednesday.

Purpose of the sessions is "to bring to the campus student body and to professional personnel of the state and region points of view of outstanding leaders in different areas of public education," Summer Session Director Guy Phillips said. Phillips also heads the School Week Program.

Formal addresses will be given each day at 3 p. m. and at 8 p. m., while the morning program will be devoted to informal conferences, visitation and follow-up discussions

Dr. Wilbur A. Yauch, head of the Department of Education, Northern Illinois State Teachers College, will speak on "Significant Highlights in Elementary Education," at the opening session Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Dr. H. A. Perry of the UNC School of Education will preside.

Monday night's speaker will be Supt. H. I. Willett, Richmond, Va. public schools, whose subject is personnel problems. Dr. W. E. Rosenstengel of the School of Education will preside.

Dr. W. Carson Ryan, Kenan professor of education, UNC, will speak on "Education and International Good Will" at the Tuesday afternoon session, with Dr. Gordon Ellis of the School of Education presiding.

Dr. W. H. Plemmons of the School of Education will preside Tuesday night when Dean Lindley J. Stiles, University of Virginia School of Education, will discuss secondary education.

Dr. Thelma Gwinn Thurstone of the School of Education, formerly director of special services for the City of Chicago school system, will speak on "Measurement in Education" Wednesday afternoon when Dr. W. D. Perry of UNC presides.

Stewart Harral, Director of Public Relations Studies, University of Oklahoma, will take as his topic, "Telling the Public About Its Schools" at the final session Wednesday night. Dr. A. S. Hurlburt, UNC, will preside.

All sessions will be held in Carroll Hall. Cobb Dormitory will serve as conference headquarters.

Blankets On The Greensward

Old-Fashioned Community Sing Sunday Night In Front Of GM

An old - fashioned community sing, complete with blankets on the greensward, will be held Sunday at 8 p.m. on McCorkle Place in front of Graham Memorial. In case of rain it will be canceled.

Song Leader Joel Savell promises a wide variety of songs "to suit all tastes." Director of the Wesley Foundation here, Savell has handled a number of group sings before.

Accompanist at the piano will be Beth Lloyd of Chapel Hill, a Yack beauty queen.

Nancy Murray of Raleigh, who sang the soprano leading role in the Playmakers' "Princess Ida" this year, will sing several selections, including one written by her accompanist, George Thomas. Miss Murray is a junior and is majoring in education and English. She has sung in light opera in Raleigh and at St. Mary's College there.

Thomas is a junior in the Music Department here.

Savell said if the sing Sunday is successful one will be held every Sunday night. Requests will be taken each Sunday for the following week.

Don't know the words to many songs? Savell answered that, too. A screen will be rigged and the words projected onto it.

It's at 8 o'clock Sunday in front of Graham Memorial, Savell reminded.

NANCY MURRAY, who will sing at Sunday night's community sing, is shown in costume for her soprano role in "Princess Ida," Playmaker production.

No Need For Glen Lennox Baptist Church

No new Baptist church in the Glen Lennox area of Chapel Hill is needed at present was the unanimous opinion of interested persons who met this week in response to a call extended by the Baptist Church.

Dr. Paul Shearin, vice-chairman of the Board of Deacons, presided, and Dr. W. P. Richardson, chairman of the Denominational Activities Committee of the Baptist Church, outlined the purpose of the meeting.

Opportunity also was given to residents of the area who could not attend to indicate their opinion by mail.

Dr. Samuel T. Habel, pastor of the Baptist Church, said "we cordially invite all Baptist residing in the Glen Lennox area who are not already affiliated with us to join immediately and to help us to serve this University community. We are anxious to help people in all ways possible. While we are the largest congregation in Chapel Hill, we have many needs and there is ample room for growth and development."

Civil Service-Personnel Meet Opens Today, Over 100 Come

More than 100 members of local civil service commissions and persons interested in public personnel administration already have registered for the Joint School on Municipal Finance and Public Personnel Administration to be held at the University today and tomorrow.

Donald Hayman, assistant director of the Institute of Government, sponsoring organization, who will conduct the school, announced the advance registration figures yesterday.

Following registration from 12 to 2 p. m. today at the Institute of Government building, sessions will get underway in Manning Hall, home of the Law School, at 2 o'clock, with a program designed specifically for finance officers. J. A. McMahon, assistant director, Institute of Government, will take up such topics as budget preparation, amending the Appropriation Ordinance, budgetary control and safeguarding funds.

Panels also are scheduled on "What Are the Proper Functions of a Civil Service Commission?" and on "What Are the Proper Functions of a Personnel Department?"

A barbecue supper will be given for both groups at 6:30.

A joint meeting tonight will be addressed by E. C. Brandon Jr. city manager, Burlington, on "Recent Trends in Fringe Benefits" and by Director Hayman on "Social Security and State and local Retirement."

McMahon of the Institute will address the finance officers tomorrow morning on sources of municipal revenue, methods of obtaining insurance at lowest premiums, various types of liability insurance, bonding municipal employees, and 1953 legislation of interest to municipal officials.

Art Classes For Children

Summer art classes for children will be given here for the next five weeks by Leonard White and his wife Suzanne.

The sessions will be held at the Chapel Hill Recreation Center from 8:45 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. from Monday through Friday through 6th grade pupils, including those July 17. Eligible are 4th, 5th, and who have just finished the 3rd grade.

The fee for each pupil for the five-weeks course will be $25, plus $2.50 for materials. The class will be limited to 15.

A graduate of the University's art department, White has been an art teacher in the Danville, Va., public schools since the Fall of 1951. Mrs. White holds a degree in art education from L'Institut de l'Enfant Jesus in Brussels, Belgium. She conducts private art classes for children in Danville.

Leonardo's Genius Is Displayed In Model Show At Planetarium

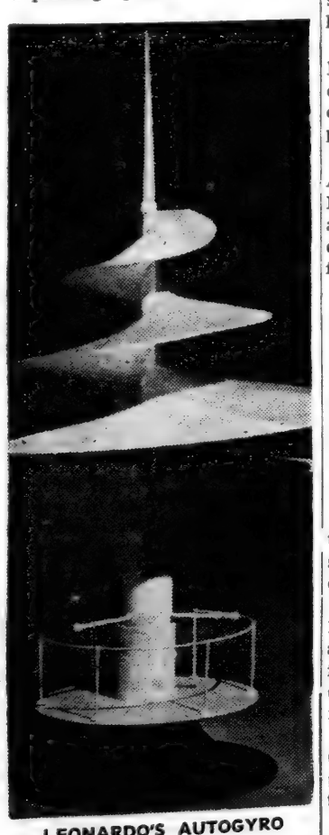
By Tom Parramore

Sunday will be the last day for students to see Morehead Planetarium's exhibit, "Leonardo's Scientific Sketches."

The exhibit is being held under the sponsorship of Dr. Loren C. MacKinney of the Department of History and consists of models made from Leonardo's original drawings which are now touring the museums and universities of the country.

Among the many interesting models is Da Vinci's proposed helicopter which was one of the first serious attempts at mechanical flight. In a day when the most powerful weapon of war was the catapult, Da Vinci designed and built a successful steam cannon which is also depicted among the models. There is a miniature of Leonardo's "Tent of Linen," or parachute, which is also reputed to have been used successfully.

Many of the exhibits are constructed to allow manual operation that one may get a better idea of the work they were designed to perform. Among such models are a printing press, a mechanical scaling ladder, a hydraulic water pump, a device which made variable speed drive possible, a lens grinder and an odometer for recording the distance traveled by a vehicle.



Other models consist of complex arrangements of levers, wheels and pulleys. There is a circular pulley which made it possible for a man to lift tremendous weights with comparatively little effort, an excavation machine, a diving apparatus, a hydraulic saw and a ventilating apparatus.

Leonardo's inventions included many which were designed specifically for wartime use. Models depict a machine gun, aerial bombs which were designed to be fired more accurately than the stone missles of his day, a rotating bridge which could be swung to one side, cutting off passageway for an enemy, a shrapnel projectile, a military tank and a hasty construction bridge.

A free booklet may be obtained in the exhibit room which gives a sketch of Leonardo's life and works along with some of his interesting drawings, photos of the scale models and a commentary on his work in other fields.

Public inspection is invited daily from 2 to 10 p.m.; on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 p.m. until 10 p.m.

The models come from the Fine Arts Department of International Business Machines Corporation and were constructed by Dr. Robert Guatelli, one of the world's foremost authorities on Leonardo.

LEONARDO'S AUTOGYRO

Lynn Bond Wins Award In State Law Contest

Lyn Bond Jr., a University law student from Tarboro, won $50 in the recent Will Drafting Contest sponsored by the American Trust Company of Charlotte.

First place winner was Clifford L. Butler Jr. of Duke and second place went to E. J. Parrish of Wake Forest. Parish is the first totally blind law student to win any of the prizes in the annual contest.

Lenoir Lists Eating Hours DuringSummer

Manager George Prillaman yesterday announced the serving schedule for Lenoir Hall, student dining hall.

The hours: breakfast—7 a.m. to 11; lunch—11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m., and supper, 1 p.m. to 7:15. Breakfast hours are 7:30 to 11 on Saturday and 8 to 11 on Sunday. Other meal hours remain the same.

"We would like to remind students," Prillaman said, that we give free seconds on coffee and tea."

The eating hall is a non-profit affair operated by the University. Costs of meals are based on overhead.

The Pine Room, downstairs in Lenoir Hall, also is now open to serve snacks to students. Manager Elbert Hardy also pointed out that he has some space available to rent to groups for small parties. In addition, there is dancing space open to all.

Serving hours in the Pine Room: 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday; closed on Saturday, and open from 4 p.m. to 11 on Sunday.

Deadline Extended 'Til Monday For Watermelon Queen Entrants

With queen contestants lagging and the fruit ripening on the vine, the Watermelon Festival chairman yesterday made a plea.

"We want candidates," Chairman Dusty Lamson said. Lamson's agitation came about this way:

The Watermelon Festival is to be held next Friday afternoon under Davie Popular. Everybody gets all the melon they want, but the highlight of the day is the crowning of the festival queen. However, no contestants—no queen.

Lamson extended the entry deadline from today until Monday noon. He said he expected a large number of coeds to be entered today as dormitories did not have organizational meetings until last night. Any group may enter a contestant as long as it pays a $3 entry fee and its candidate is in Summer School here.

A photo, preferably 8 x 10, must be submitted. The pictures will be posted in the Y lobby and the campus will vote for its favorite via a penny a ballot. There is no limit on the voting, provided the voter pays for each ballot.

The top five candidates will be announced Friday moraing and the runoff held that day, still voting by money. Proceeds will go toward defraying expenses of the festival.

The Watermelon Festival is an annual event and the top social affair of Summer School. This year's program will be emceed by Director of Admissions Roy Armstrong. Following the eating and crowning, a variety show will be held and after that the Rendezvous Room in Graham Memorial will be the scene of dancing.

Persons interested in helping on the festival are invited to a meeting of the committee this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the YMCA.

High Schools' Economic Ideas Are Keystone

By John Peck

"The level of our economy," said Edwin G. Nourse, nationally famed economist who spoke this week before the Workshop on Economic Education here, "will be determined by the level of economic understanding and economic attitudes instilled into the minds and hearts of that great majority population of our country who do not go beyond high school."

Speaking to the 70 teachers, supervisors and other school personnel attending the workshop from all sections of the state, Dr. Nourse, tall, scholarly authority on the nation's economic pattern, pointed to what he termed the "Five P's" of economic understanding—Problem, Process, Principles, Policy, and Program. It is not only possible but necessary, he stressed, in today's high schools to bring students the basic concepts of these five steps in economic literacy.

Problem, in the vernacular, he said, might be interpreted as "whatever it is that's eatin' you," or whatever raises a challenge in peoples' minds with which they must come to grips.

"Process, a direct function of the teacher, is a matter of analytical development of those phases of the social processes of which the young citizen will become a part, the instilling of sense, sequence and meaning into the problem as it stands before him.

"Principles, involving the moral concept, are those guideposts by which the economic pattern

(See NOURSE, page 2)

CAMPUS SEEN

Butterball student to portly Chemistry prof: "Would you please move so I can see the board." Prof to student: "Certainly. I've been asked that many times, but never by one who knew so well."

*

Boys Staters making sweet harmony in Y Court in the morning.

*

Campus flagpole nude except for a paper sack dangling on the halyard.

Student Union Table Tennis Tourney Set

Graham Memorial Student Union has opened entries for a ping pong tournament to be held next Wednesday beginning at 6 p.m. Entries close Tuesday at 6 o'clock.

Registration for the tourney may be made at the GM main office on first floor.

The student union recently added three new ping pong tables and several new games, including one called Shuttle Loop. Other services offered include a main lounge with extensive periodicals, television and radio. Downstairs, the Rendezvous Room features soft lights and soft music for nightly dancing and whatnot.

Jon Ammons is acting director of the union, succeeding Bill Roth who resigned in May to enter professional Scouting.

Square Dance Tonight At 8 In Y Court

The Summer Activities Council will sponsor a square dance tonight at 8 o'clock in the Y Court. The dance was rescheduled from last night.

Music will be by the Folk Band and calling will be by Max Ballenger and several others.

"Everyone is invited," said Ballenger, "stags, couples and otherwise." He explained that the dance was postponed from Thursday because of objections to holding the activity on a week night.

Refreshments will be served during the program.

"While square dancing is the major event, round dance music will be played between square dance," Ballenger continued. "Everyone should come to these informal get-togethers," he concluded. "It's fun."

Directories On Sale

Student directories containing the home towns and campus addresses of all 2,380 students in Summer School are now on sale in the Y lobby and at Graham Memorial for 15 cents each.

The directories are in Mimeographed form and contain 35 pages. This is the earliest the directory ever has been published during a session.

SOUTH KOREA'S PRIME MINISTER Paik Too Chin is in Washington for talks with President Eisenhower about his country's decision to turn loose 25,000 prisoners yesterday. Korea's defiant action in freeing the PW's may wreck the nearly-completed truce talks.—NEA Telephoto.

Includes a test on their mode of behavior.

Closed Sundays During Summer

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

The Tar Heel

The Tar Heel, published Tuesday and Friday during the first Summer Session and printed by The News Inc., Hillsboro, N. C., is the official publication of the Summer School of the University of North Carolina where it is published by the students.

STAFF—Al Shortt, Pete Adams, Tom Parramore, Rolfe Neill.

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . . " Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE was digging deep divots in the greensward of Peabody in an amazingly loose-gated dance, and shouting some weird chant. I drew closer with caution, ready to draw away again, but fast, should the occasion demand.

"Evoe!" The Horse was chittering. "Magna voce, canta, Cuculus!" He appeared otherwise normal, which is to say both abnormal and subnormal, but not normal; which is normal for The Horse. I emerged from behind a tree and posed the question.

"Nothing is wrong," The Horse answered. "That is why I am shouting 'Loud, sing Cuckoo!' in Latin. Catch? Magna voce, canta, Cuculus! Erudite, huh?"

I hoped so, but I was doubtful. It sounded scrambled.

"Well," The Horse said, snatching a chew of shrubbery and collapsing on the grass to munch it, "we're lucky to have even Scrambled Latin this quarter. We picketed poor Dean Guy Phillips in his office and followed up with an invasion of the Classical precincts of Dr. Ullman, and—"

Poor Dean Guy Phillips, I gawked? Only yesterday he was—well, only yesterday he'd owned some less sympathetic terms in front of his name. Why the change of heart?

"My heart never changes," The Horse sighed. "But alas, I do have some horse-sense. A pity, but there it is. The truth of it is, as Dean Phillips explained it, the University of North Carolina's summer sessions are illegal. Strictly bootleg."

Illegal? Bootleg? I was shocked!

"Don't try to impress me," The Horse snarked. "All the times I've seen you tracking down a smoke column in a woods with a hopeful dollar in your paw!"

Yes; but UNC? a bootleg operation? Illegal?

"Legislature doesn't give for summer sessions," The Horse said through a mouthful of grass. "The lads are on their own. You may guess they were on their own grade-curves last year after dropping a wad of folding money to keep summer school going despite lack of legislative do-re-mi. They even lose money running a ten-student minimum class; but that they will do. Man, it was like an Armenian Rug Auction there in Dean Phillips' office for a while!"

How was that? Bargaining, even?

"Bargaining, yet," The Horse horse-laughed. "One of the eight panting-for-Latin students suggested we could pay the difference betwen ten pupils and eight, and get going in the slaughter of Latin; and Dean Phillips did some quick figuring and said something about twenty-bucks for each student, extra, maybe?"

Yes, yes, go on!

"After the class got up off the floor, we offered four-fifty a head, extra. The good Dean said he wouldn't come down a nickel. A nickel less than nine dollars, that was. We consulted, and galloped over to Dr. Ullman's to get him in on the auction. Dr. Ullman telephoned Dean Phillips; and while I will not say the ensuing conversation quite rivalled the 'Beedle-eedle-eedle-eedle, sold, American!' chant of radio fame, it wan't Latin they were talking, no, suh! Meantime, a Latin fifth-columnist in Archer House caught some student dropping a subject, and the student was swiftly roped, thrown, and branded LATIN ere she arose. Hmmmm, we might get Latin for a buck-ninety-eight extra, who knows, with another student added."

I didn't think this was dignified.

"Neither," The Horse murmured, stretching out to follow the parabolic course of a weaving brunette with his clicking, eightball eye, "were the Caracallan Baths of ancient Rome dignified, but according to reverberating rumor that echoes to us from those ages, they were fun. And one way and another, I see the Latin rhubarb as a durned good lesson in Economics."

Sometimes, I think The Horse sees quite well.

"Is There A Doctor In The Upper House?"

'THE JUGGLER' REVIEWED

It has become, we believe, a Hollywood truism: If it's Stanley Kramer's, it's got to be good.

Now Producer Kramer and Actor Kirk Douglas, men who made each other famous in "Champion," enhance themselves with "The Juggler," opening Sunday at the Varsity.

It is the story of a displaced German (Douglas) who in 1949 is sent to a refugee camp in Israel. He soon escapes. Haunted by the past, which is branded on his arm and his mind, and hunted for a crime he had to commit, Douglas thinks he has an opiate in playing hide-and-seek with the reality of his own life. This is done via some rather leaden jokes and pretty good juggling, an art which made him world famous before the Hitler Jewish purge.

Kirk Douglas

Besides having a neurotic fear of prison camps—an antipathy by the way which gets the movie off to a fast start — Douglas gets another torment from a beautiful young farm worker (Milly Vitale). Kramer can take it from there.

"The Juggler" is an intense movie which is emotionally enervating. Its suspense, and this is where Kramer's adroit work shows well, drains the audience.

The picture also stars Joey Walsh, a rave raiser as Peter in "Hans Christian Andersen." Walsh is a candid fellow of 12 or 13 who falls in with Douglas. The boy is excellent and convincing in his role.

Miss Vitale is an Italian import who even Senator McCarran might o.k. Aside from being beautiful, she also can act. Her part in this saga of the soul calls for grace and poise and she does it with the careless dexterity of a ballet dancer. When a little raw emotion is needed she supplies that, too.

The biography of Kramer and Douglas is as fascinating as the pictures they make. Douglas worked his way through a New York dramatic school and while there so impressed Lauren Bacall that when she later rose in ollywood's grace she recommended him.

Kramer was a small-time producer who made his movies with equipment borrowed from Columbia. He and Douglas got together for "Champion" and scored a knockout. It made both of them.—R & RN.

Nourse Says Private Enterprise Role Must Be Taught In School

(Continued from page 1)

maintains its equilibrium.

"Policy reflects the purpose, the philosophy of life, both individual and social, policy-making being one of the inevitable characteristics of adult growth.

"Finally, comes program, the vehicle by which the problem is met, the proces evolved, the principles expressed and the policy determined. By these five P's," said Dr. Nourse, "the teacher of economics can lay the solid foundations for economic understanding which today's generation needs to parallel its understanding of natural science, mechanics, biology and other social processes."

Dr. Nourse, was the first chairman of the council of Economic Advisors in Washington and is now engaged as economist to the Joint Council on Economic Education. In this capacity he is preparing for the use of teachers and other educators what he told his audience is "an orderly, descriptive list of problems that people, over long periods of time, have come to wrestle with and will continue to wrestle with."

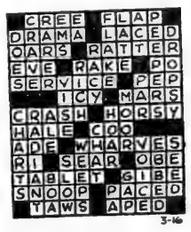
The list of problems includes agriculture, capital, conservation and others.

Devoloping the argument for the betterment of human values Dr. Nourse referred to labor-management relations. Here, he said, was a testing point for the necessity of clear economic understanding.

"We invariably reach a deadlock, a checking of production flow in our highly complex economy," he said, "whenever there is a failure of the two parties to understand the nature of the problem before them and, instead of getting a negotiated settlement, one or both fall back upon their sense of power and conviction that they are right."

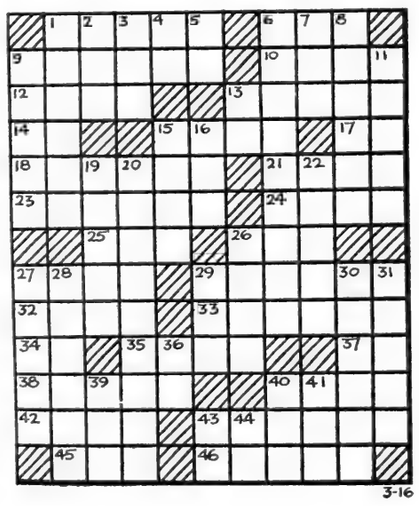
It is necessary to teach, in school, he said, the broad understanding of private enterprise and its value to our economy.

Dr. Nourse, in concluding his address, reached back to the past to show how free, competitive enterprise has proven its worth to America's growth, but has always been paralleled, too, by government assistance.

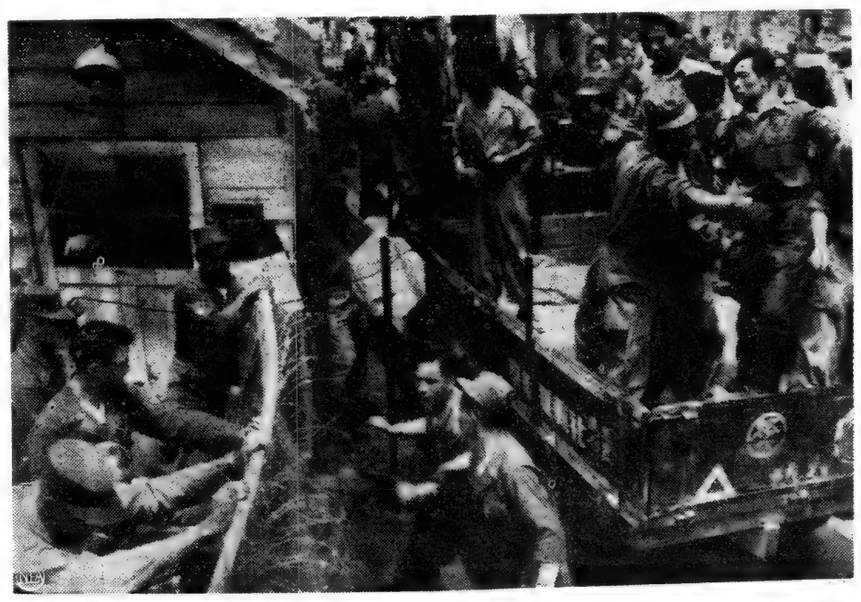


DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS



1. Reason
6. Sack
9. City (Pa.)
10. Measure of land
12. Ripped
13. Sea mammal
14. Sloth
15. Crazy
17. Twice (prefix)
18. Points
21. Fencing sword
23. Long-legged wading birds
24. She made first American flag
25. Period of time
26. Trouble
27. Food for cattle
29. Most independent
32. Blunders
33. Former European empire
34. Music note
35. Gang
37. Measure (Chin.)
38. Inside
40. Stagger
42. One who dyes things
43. Gains knowledge
45. Southeast by south (abbr.)
46. Helmet with movable front plates



DOWN

1. Selection
2. Swiss river
3. Vase with a pedestal
4. Thus
5. Half an em
6. Parapets with artillery
7. Division of a play
8. Diving birds
9. Put away (slang)
11. American Indians
13. From
15. Repudiate
16. Beast of burden
19. Command
20. Open-type automobiles
22. Rods
26. Genus of cuckoopint
27. Having a disagreeable odor
28. One of the Furies (Gr. Myth.)
29. Friar's title
30. Not speaking
31. Appendages
36. Erbium (sym.)
39. Born
40. Male sheep
41. Before
43. Music note
44. Exclamation of hesitation

Saturday's Answer

DEMONSTRATES AGAINST TRUCE—This truck load of ROK veterans demonstrate against the proposed truce outside the barbed-wire-enclosed press billets in Seoul, Korea. Reliable sources reported, meanwhile, that the Allies have decided to sign the armistice "in a week or two" despite South Korean opposition.

Summer School

John Gibson

The summer is the time, you know,
When teachers teach the teachers,
(Somewhat like a church conclave,
Where preachers preach to preachers.)
Far and wide across the state,
Young children breathing easy,
As school marms, and the misters too,
Sit in classes, feeling queasy.
College folk are also here,
Though most of them were pestered,
Into taking extra courses now,
'cause
We have been semestered.
Some are here to study hard,
And some, I fear, are not.
But all will learn the sad, sad truth,
That summer here is hot!
Tennis on the campus courts,
After morning classes,
And then a dip in Kessing pool
With all the bonnie lasses.
Evening brings the picture shows,
(The weekend fare's a mess
When old, old westerns top the bill,)
Anyone for chess?
Friday noon the cars pull out,
Heading for the shore,
Taking forth our gift of youth,
To the beach's Minotaur.
Summer's come to Chapel Hill
And all who can have fled
To (Yankeeland, and cooler climes.)
We face the heat instead.
Welcome, welcome, all you folks,
I hope you like your visit,
"Excuse me please, South Building, please,
"Can you tell me, please, where is it?"

As Others See Us

Hans Jurgen-Lambers

(Hans Jurgen-Lambers is one of a team of German students who recently returned home after spending two quarters here. This is one of a series of letters which we have run.—Ed.)

Dear Dean Weaver:

It is now several week since I left you in Chapel Hill, but I still find it difficult to believe that it might be a long separation before we see each other again. Six months in Chapel Hill—at first sight a remoted, provincial school—but after a short time I realized what wonderful an opportunity it was to know America from this side.

The program was, I think, of very great value for us; though our function, the exploration of one particular campus society, was in itself limited, it gave us the best "key" to knowing the American philosophy of life—much better probably than a general study of it would have done.

But if we can call this program a success from our side, it is entirely due to the great help, excellent preparation and the continuously personal interest that you had for the whole group and each of us. If I mention the personal significance, that this stay had for me, at last — to know you as friends in Chapel Hill, and to feel really part of your Tar Heel community—it is not because I feel it would be of second order, but because this is result that makes us the more grateful to you.

. . .Eberhard: one of Hans' teammates

We met members of three other similar teams on our return trip, and each of them had most exciting experiences, but as to the personal relations I think that our team had the greatest luck. It is on this point that I want to thank you particularly!

Eberhard and I had a very pleasant return trip to Bremerhaven. Though the weather was rather rough for one or two days, nothing serious happened, even to me, who was the object of some oratory efforts to talk me into seasickness. We were busy most of the time—fortunately, I should say, because otherwise it would have been even more difficult to leave your country so suddenly. We arrived therefore emotionally unprepared in Europe, and as mounds of work awaited me, I had almost no time to meditate how unfavorable an impression Europe made on us "returneed."

Perhaps this sort of "cultural security" that we manifested at times was a little big exagerated, if we examine now the European reality. The only person, perhaps, that might be able to suggest an answer is Albert Schweitzer. But the very desire to find some sort of "prophet" indicates how insoluable the situation of our civilisation is. But is there any sense in supplanting reflection by action, without knowing why we act, and to which aim?

I am now almost submerged with my law studies, in order to prepare the bar exam for summer 1954. Only for the next ten days I will stay in Hannover to serve as interpreter at the German Industries Fair. Quite a problem for me because I have already difficulties enough to describe a machine in German. and now, do the same thing in French or English!

Please, remind me to everybody in your office, especially to Roy and Ray, who, as our friends, had always some advice, even for our most unimportant problems! Hoping to hear from you sometime in the near future how everybody is at home I am yours sincerely,

Hans

New Theory

New York Times

However much one may instinctively sympathize with Professor Einstein's suggestion that intellectuals called before Congressional investigating committees should refuse to testify, it has to be pointed out that this would be most unwise. Two wrongs never did add up to one right.

What Professor Einstein has done is to go to an extreme on the opposite side from Senator McCarthy and his followers. This may be to err in the right direction, but it is nevertheless an error. One cannot start from the premise that Congressional committees have no right to question teachers and scientists or to seek out subversives wherever they can find them. Congressmen have that right; what is profoundly wrong is the way some of them are exercising it. An investigation which had no taint of witch-hunting, no bias of anti-intellectualism, no prejudice, no distorted ideas of what is guilt and subversion would be irreproachable.

Of course Professor Einstein and others who feel righteous indignation will say that they oppose the investigations precisely because they do not fulfill these qualifications. However, it is one thing to fight the investigations because of the manner of their procedure and another to oppose the right of investigation, which has always been one of the fundamentals of our governmental system.

The situation which Professor Einstein rebels against certainly needs correction but the answer does not lie in defying the law. McCarthyism will be defeated when a sufficient body of public opinion has been built up to deprive the McCarthyites of power and to sweep their obscurantist and un-American ideas into the wastebasket of history. This tide of freedom and enlightenment is certainly gathering force and it will become irresistible by a natural process of the reassertion of those moral and political principles on which our nation has always been based. To employ the unnatural and illegal forces of civil disobedience, as Professor Einstein advises, is in this case to attack one evil with another. McCarthyism should be fought cleanly and openly, and is will certainly be defeated in the long run. To think otherwise is to lose faith in the American people.

Dancing Class For Students

Dancing—ball room or square, as you prefer—is being taught free on Tuesday and Thursday nights at Woollen Gym.

The classes are informal and free. They are taught by Anne Voorhis of Chapel Hill, a physical education major. "Student interest will determine the type of dancing we teach," she said.

Those interested are invited. Class lasts from 7 p. m. to 8:30.

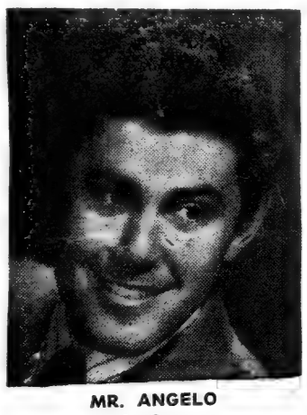
SPERO SAYS:

For great meals, quick lunches, cold beer —— you can't beat THE GOODY SHOP.

IT'S AIR CONDITIONED, TOO!

THE GOODY SHOP

Make it a GREAT DAY FOR DAD!



ON FATHER'S DAY, SUNDAY, JUNE 21

We Have What He Wants

- ARROW SHIRTS
- WING SHIRTS
- SPECIAL — $1.98 Short-Sleeve SPORT SHIRTS
- SWANK MEN'S ACCESSORIES
- SPECIAL ON FRUIT OF THE LOOM —— 69c for Shorts & T-Shirts —— Underwear 49c

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

PERMANENT WAVES OF LASTING BEAUTY

MR. ANGELO In Our Durham Salon

Durham, N. C.
Mr. Angelo—Stylist
Miss Rabon—Stylist

Raleigh, N. C.
Mr. Snotherly—Stylist

La Marick Permanent Waves

Super Deluxe Creme Oil Cold Wave ------ 25.00 Value 9.95

DeLuxe Creme Oil Cold Wave 15.00 Value 6.95

Custom Creme Oil Cold Wave 12.50 Value 5.95

(Stylists' Prices Slightly Higher)

We feature only professional and nationally advertised supplies such as Fashion Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Clairol, Revlon and La Marick Cold Wave.

TEMPO PERMANENT ------- $10 up

Each Wave Includes

- Personality Haircut
- Shaping & Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curl
- Oily Neutralizer
- Setting
- Creme Rinse
- Free Consultation

Anytime is Coffee Time with NESCAFE Complimentary in Our Salon

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
PHONE DURHAM 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
PHONE RALEIGH 3-1726
LaMARICK SHOPS

ANTI-REDS REVOLT IN BERLIN—Rioting East German demonstrators scatter before a big Russian tank as it rumbles down an East Berlin street in an effort to restore order. The Soviet leaders were forced to resort to martial law after some 100,000 anti-Communist rioted, shouting, "Go Home, Ivan," and mauled German Communist officials.

3 Free Films On Tomorrow

Three movies in color will be shown free tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Gerrard Hall, the program to last for one hour.

To be shown are "Italy: Peninsula of Contrast"; "Canon Country (Grand Canyon)" and "In the Name of Freedom."

"In the Name of Freedom" is a technicolored film of campus life. It was made two years ago and features students, faculty and other university personnel. Among the shots in it, are some excellent scenes of card stunts at football games.

The films are chosen from the film library of the University Extension Service. Russell Grumman, extension director, urged teachers here this Summer to acquaint themselves with the offerings of the film library. The films are easily procured for interested groups, he said.

CLASSIFIED

ANNOUNCEMENT

OLD AND RARE BOOKS — WE have 'em from three for a quarter on up to a month's rent. Browsing's fun. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St.

FOR SALE

FOR SALE: ONE 1940 HUDSON with radio and heater; good condition. Also: Encyclopedia Brittanica set. 510 E. Franklin St.

PERSONAL

COME TO THE NEW UNIVERsity Restaurant for the best meals in town. Nice atmosphere. Cool. Combo (Tuesday and Thursday nights). Hours 11:30 a.m. to midnight.

SERVICES OFFERED

JOIN YOUR CLASSMATES AND others on the campus and bring your laundry here where you save money and get your laundry back, washed and dried in one hour. Washed in only 30 minutes. Shirts hand finished. You can't beat our service. Ask the boys who come here regularly. ROSEMARY AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY, 329 W. Rosemary St. Dial 5121.

LOST

GOLD BULOVA WATCH WITH expansion bracelet in front of South Building. L. G. Gibbs, 211 Aycock.

WANTED

DRIVERS EAGER TO SAVE money on gas, oil, accessories. Hi-Way Service Station on the Carrboro curve has regular at 28.4 and hi-test at 29.4. Lubrication's only $1 and nationally advertised oil is cheaper than anywhere.

Post Office To Increase Box Rent Effective July 1

An increase in box rents at the Chapel Hill post office, to become effective July 1, was announced yesterday by Postmaster Bill Hogan.

The rate changes will be as follows: boxes that are now $1 per quarter will be $1.50; those now $1.50 will be $2.25; those $2 will be $3; those $3 will be $4.50, and those $4 wil lbe $6.

UNC Coaches Help In Meets

Several University athletic officials have participated in recent armed services sports events.

R. A. (Coach Bob) Fetzer refereed the all-Army track meet at Camp Jackson last weekend. The all - Navy and all-Marine meets at Camp Lejeune were done by Track Coach Dale Ransom. Football Coach George Barclay was head finish judge at the Lejeune meet and L. J. Phipps, former Chapel Hill judge, was field judge.

This weekend Fetzer will referee the all-service meet at Camp Jackson, starting today. This is virtually a world-wide meeting of the best the services have to offer in competition. Fetzer was former athletic director and track coach here. Presently he is executive secretary of the Morehead Foundation.

Chorus Invites New Members, Meets Monday

Students interested in singing with a chorus are invited to the rehearsal of the Summer Session Chorus, Monday night at 7:30 in the choral room of Hill Music Hall.

The group is directed by John Park, a University graduate, who has been voice instructor and director of the Glee Club at Virginia Intermont College, Bristol, Va. Tommy Sibley of the Department of Music is the accompanist.

It is hoped that a concert can be given during the first Summer Session.

Voices are needed in all sections: Soprano, alto, tenor and bass, but especially alto. There are no tryouts required to sing in the chorus. "The only requirements are a love for singing and a willingness to come to rehearsal," said Park.

Council Forms 4 Committees

Four committees were formed at the first meeting of the Summer Activities Council this week.

They were Watermelon Festival, square dance, community sings, and films on foreign countries.

Next meeting of the council will be from 7 p. m. to 8 Tuesday in the Y. Reports will be made concerning the possibilities of student trips to "The Lost Colony," "Unto These Hills" and the Tennessee Valley Authority. Those interested in these programs are asked to attend Tuesday's meeting.

Camp Tiny Tar Heel Will Have Registration Monday, Tuesday

Camp Tiny Tar Heel, an annual day camp sponsored by the Junior Service League and the Chapel Hill Girl Scout Council, will be in operation for two weeks, beginning June 29 through July 10, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Any girl who has completed the second grade in school through the seventh grade is eligible to attend—those in Chapel Hill or Carrboro.

Activities of the Camp include arts and crafts, music, camp craft, folk dancing, games and sports, nature study, hikes, dramatics, training in citizenship. Credit will be given toward Girl Scout badges. The schedule will be arranged so those girls enrolled in the University swimming classes may continue their swimming during the two-week camp period. Transportation to and from the pool will be provided, and counsellors will accompany the girls to and from swimming classes.

The staff is composed of Mrs. Sam Joyner, director, and trained volunteers from the community to both junior and senior councellors.

This is a non-prowit venture; the only fee required of the campers is $10 to cover the two weeks. Lunches should be brought by the campers and the two sponsoring organizations will furnish fruit juice or milk each day, as well as insurance on each girl.

Camp Tiny Tar Heel is to be held at the Recreation Center on East Franklin Street, with the use of Mrs. Robert Wettach's kindergarden school granted for arts and crafts.

Registration is Monday and Tuesday, 10 to noon at the Recreation Center. At this time, health cards previously mailed to applicants should be turned in.

Further information may be secured by calling Mrs. F. N. Cleaveland at 9-7393 or Mrs. N. J. Demerath at 5106.

Son Is Born To Woodhouses

Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Woodhouse announce the birth of a son, Edward James Woodhouse III, Thursday, June 11 at Watts Hospital in Durham. An eight pound and five ouncer, E. J. III arrived at 1:52 a.m.

Dr. Woodhouse has taught at Carolina for 27 years and his political science courses have been the favorite of many student generations. He will retire next year, having reached the mandatory age limit.

TONIGHT and EVERY THURSDAY and FRIDAY — all the spaghetti and meat balls you can eat plus FREE beer or wine for 99c at the RATHSKELLER.

FRIDAY & SATURDAY

Varsity

GAY READING— FOR SUMMER

Whether you do your reading on the "Browse-and a-quick-peek" principle, or buy, nobody offers so much fun as —

TRY THESE —

The Unfair Sex — In which Nina Farewell takes the male apart, with rapier wit, no mercy, and outrageous results! $2.95

It All Started With Columbus— The most improbable American History since Weems. Wonderful chuckle fodder for summer reading. ——— $2.75

The Portable Hamlet — The only Hamlet that can be read in a swimming pool with one hand tied behind you! ——— $1.00

World's Best Limericks — A handsome Peter Pauper edition, and just right for a deck-chair conversation piece. ——— $1.00

Uncle Pogo So-So Stories—The little 'possom is going great guns these days, and we have the paper edition at ——— $1.00

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St. —:— Open Evenings

"VIVID!" —N.Y. Times

"EXCITING CHASE MELODRAMA!" —Daily Mirror

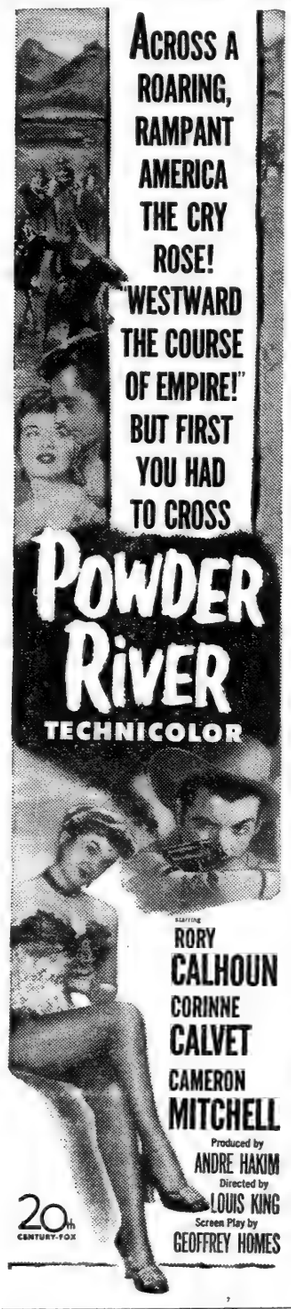
"CONSIDERABLE SUSPENSE . . . KIRK DOUGLAS DELIVERS A BRILLIANT PERFORMANCE!" —Daily News

Columbia Pictures presents

KIRK DOUGLAS

in STANLEY KRAMER'S production

the JUGGLER



SUNDAY & MONDAY

Varsity

Murals Get Started

Always COOL HERE!
Carolina
AIR CONDITIONED
Not cold but cool! Healthfully air conditioned by controlled temperature that 'makes every day a good day!'

TODAY AND SATURDAY

SUNDAY & MONDAY

Tennis Starts Monday, Golf Wednesday

Carolina's Summer Session intramural program got underway yesterday with softball competition. Twelve ball teams have been formed.

Manager Ed Hooks said results would be posted on the intramural board in the gym as well as printed in Tuesday's Tar Heel.

He said first and second round singles in tennis, which start Monday, must be completed by Friday, Doubles also open Monday and completion date for the first round is Friday and the second round is scheduled to end Thursday, July 2.

In intramural horseshoes, singles and doubles players are asked to report Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the pits near the Tin Can.

Golf entries may be turned in through next Wednesday at the golf shop at Finley Course. A 50 cent entry fee must accompany the 18-hole qualifying score.

The 12 softball teams and their managers: Kappa Sigma, Bill Dameron; Phi Delta Theta, Gene Gunter; Ruffin Roughies, Chuck Miner; Polka Dots, Bob Page; Phi Kappa Sigma, Duane Johnson; Old Folks, W. B. Thomas; Squirrel Shooters, Jim Winston; Mountaineers, W. Brown; Pi Kappa Alpha, Simpson & Beamer; Grimes Dormitory, Charles Honeycutt; Dekes, Larry Madry, and Beach Bumbs, McAdams.

Monday's softball schedule: 4:30 p. m.—Beach Bums vs. Pi Kappa Alpha, Field 1; Phi Delta Theta vs. Kappa Sigma, Field 2, and Dekes vs. Phi Kappa Sigma, Field 3.

In Town

Chunk Simmons, a Carolina student several years ago, was in town for the graduation ceremonies. Simmons was third in the 1948 and 1952 decathalon competition in the Olympics.

Sophisticated Greeting Cards —

Steig Cards, Four Seasons Cards, Hate Cards, Oz Cards, Hand Print Cards.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.

Alice Dalrymple Slates Recital Tuesday In Hill

Mary Alice Dalrymple, graduate student in music from Harrisburg, Pa., will give a piano recital in Hill Hall Tuesday at 8:30. There will be no admission charge.

Miss Dalrymple graduated from Oberlin College where she studied piano in the Conservatory under Josephine Lytle. At present she is working toward her M.A. degree in the Music Department here, and studying piano with Dr. William S. Newman of the music faculty.

Her program Tuesday will include two sonatas by Scarlatti, Beethoven's Sonata in G, op. 31, No. 1., Chopin's Ballade ni F, two pieces by Brahms, the Intermezzo in E and the Capriccio in D minor, and the Sonata in C-sharp minor by the recent American composer, Beryl Rubinstein.

What Goes On Here

Ice Cream Social

An old fashioned ice cream social will be held on the Congregational Christian Church lawn, 211 West Cameron Avenue, from 7 to 10 o'clock tonight. Homemade ice cream, cake and lemonade will be served. Everyone is invited.

Sunday Service

The Rev. Bernard Munger, minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Corinth, Miss., will preach at the Sunday morning worship of the United Congregational Church, 211 West Cameron Avenue. He is a former pastor of this church, having served from 1947 to 1950. Summer worship hours are church school at 9:15 a.m. and morning worship at 10 a.m.

Presbyterian

The Presbyterian Church on Franklin Street holds two services on Sunday, one at 9:45 a.m. and another at 11. Dr. Thomas A. Schafer, assistant professor of historical theology in Duke Divinity School, will preach this Sunday.

The student group will meet at 6 p.m. Sunday to begin a series of four programs on the Presbyterian Church. Dr. R. J. McMullen, acting pastor, will lead the study. The group will meet at the Y Court at 6 this Sunday and go to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Wallace Caldwell where they will eat and have a study period.

Baptist

Dr. Samuel T. Habel, pastor, will preach at the 11 o'clock worship this Sunday at the First Baptist Church. Sunday School will begin at 9:45 a.m., with two classes for students. BSU will be held at 6 p.m. at the church. A forum will follow supper.

Episcopal

Holy Communion will be held at 8 a.m. Sunday at the Episcopal Church. A student discussion group will convene at 9:30 and morning worship will be at 11 o'clock. The Canterbury Club, a student group, will meet at 6 p.m. for supper in the church cloister garden. It will be followed by a program in charge of the Rev. L. B. Sherman, Episcopal student chaplain.

Methodist

The Sunday School class of the Wesley Foundation is making a study of "Our Basic Christian Beliefs," beginning Sunday morning with the main ideas presented in the Apostles' Creed. The group will meet at 9:45 for coffee and donuts. At 11 a.m. morning worship will be held. Wesley Foundation meets at 6 p.m. for supper and fellowship.

When you are giving a gift to a Man.. It's the name on the box that counts!

A MEAL YOU WILL ALWAYS REMEMBER — IN AN ATMOSPHERE WE KNOW YOU WILL ENJOY COOKED OVER A FLAMING CHARCOAL BED
• CHICKENS • PRIME AGED STEAKS • SHISKEBAB
THE RANCH HOUSE
AIRPORT ROAD OPEN 5:30 - 12 CLOSED HOLIDAYS

A&P
FINAL WEEK OF THE BIG
SPECIAL A&P COFFEE SALE!

NOW! Mild & Mellow 1-LB. BAG 77c — 3 Lb. Bag $2.25
NOW! Rich & Full-Bodied 1-LB. BAG 78c — 3 Lb. Bag $2.28
NOW! Vigorous & Winey 1-LB. BAG 79c — 3 Lb. Bag $2.31
BUY THE THRIFTY 3-LB. BAG Save EVEN MORE!

★ Jane Parker Bakery Buys ★
— Father's Day —
Layer Cake — Fudge Iced Devil's Food — Each 65c
Jane Parker Enriched White Bread — 1-Lb. Loaf 14c
Jane Parker Plain Pound Cake — Each 29c

A&P's "Super-Right" Meats
"Super-Right" Heavy Western Beef Chuck Blade Pot Roast — Lb. 39c
"Super-Right" Heavy Western Beef Sirloin Steak — Lb. 83c
"Super-Right" Boned And Rolled Rib Roast — Lb. 69c
"Super-Right" Freshly Ground Beef — Lb. 35c
Swift's All Meat Premium Franks — 1-Lb. Pkg. 47c
Swift's All Meat Sliced Bologna — Lb. 49c
Choice Milk Fed Cubed or Tendered Veal Steak — Lb. 79c
• Fresh "Super Right" Cut Up Pan Ready • Fryers — Lb. 45c

White House Apple Butter — 28-Oz. Jar 21c
Pillsbury Plain or Self-Rising Flour — 5-Lb. Bag 49¢ — 10-Lb. Bag 93¢
A&P Rindless Short Held Cheese — ½-Lb. Pkg. 27c — 1-Lb. Pkg. 53c
A&P Fancy Tuna Fish — 7-Oz. Can 33c
Iona Tomato Juice — 46-Oz. Can 25c
Angel Soft-Rainbow Facial Tissues — Pkg. of 400 Sheets 23c

. Marcalus Products .
Kitchen Charm Wax Paper — Roll 21c
Marcal Dinner Napkins — Pkg. of 40 15c
Marcal Toilet Tissue — Roll 10c
Marcal Sandwich Bags — Pkg. 10c
Marcal Paper Napkins — 50-Ct. Pkg. 10c

Armour's Star or Libby's Vienna SAUSAGE - - 2 — 4-Oz. Cans 35c
Comstock Pie APPLES - - - - 20-Oz. Can 21c
Armour's Star or Libby's Corned BEEF HASH - 16-Oz. Can 27c

Wesson Oil — Pt. Bot. 35c — Qt. Bot. 67c
Snowdrift — 1-Lb. Tin 32c — 3-Lb. Tin 89c
Ocean Spray Cranberry Sauce — 16-Oz. Can 20c — Delicious With Chicken

Ajax Cleanser - - 2 Pkgs. 25c
Octagon Soap Powder — Lge. Pkg. 21c
Octagon Soap - - - 2 Bars 15c
Fab - - - Lge. Pkg. 29c — Gt. Pkg. 69c
Dreft - - Lge. Pkg. 29c — Gt. Pkg. 69c
Ivory Soap Personal Size - 2 — Lge. Bars 25c
Camay Soap - - - 2 Bath Bars 21c
Ivory Soap - - - - - - Bar 5c
Swift'ning 1-Lb. Tin 32c — 3-Lb. Tin 87c
Dog Food Strongheart - 2 — 15½-Oz. Cans 19c

Fresh Fruits & Vegetables
Heavy With Juice Lemons - - - Lb. 15¢
Fine Yellow Onions - - - - Lb. 6¢
Fresh California Red Plums - - - - Lb. 23¢
BANANAS — 2 Lbs. 25c
WATERMELONS — Each $1.19
JUMBO PEANUTS — 8-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Cracker Jacks 3 Pkgs. 13c
Angelus Marshmallows 10-Oz. Pkg. 19c
Superfine Lima Grands 2 8-Oz. Cans 23c
Swift Jewel 1-Lb. Ctn. 24c — 3-Lb. Ctn. 69c

AMERICA'S FOREMOST FOOD RETAILER . . . SINCE 1859
A&P Super Markets
THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY
These Prices Effective Thru Saturday, June 20th

What Goes On Here

Hospial Tours

The North Carolina Memorial Hospital, a gigantic medical center just opened last Fall, invites guests to tour its plant Monday through Friday at 2 p.m. Go to the information desk at the main entrance for further information.

Puzzles Needed

The Y needs puzzles and other children's games to help in a children's recreational program it is handling. Those having articles should call the Y at 6761 and arrangements will be made to pick them up.

Teachers Jobs

A number of job opportunities for teachers are listed on the bulletin board outside the administrative office of the School of Education in Peabody Hall.

Lost and Found

If it's been lost the Y probably has it. Secretary Irene McDonald keeps a complete file of all articles turned in, including the name of the finder. If you've lose something check by the Y.

Help Needed

Students willing to work with children sometime during the afternoon each week are asked to call the Y at 6761. The children are those of Summer School students and the Y would like to begin recreational program. "Just an hour or two from each person would be fine," a Y official said.

Dancing Class

From 7 to 8:30 tonight, a free dancing class in ballroom and square dancing will be given in the main gym at Woollen. The class will meet again at the same time on Thursday.

Night Swimming

From 7:30 to 9 tomorrow night, there will be swimming at Woollen Gym. Children must be accompanied in the water by their parents.

Stock Racing Opens Speedway In Raleigh This Friday Night

RALEIGH, June 22—The flashy new quarter-mile track at the Raleigh Speedway, kept from opening last week by inclement weather, now is scheduled to offer its inaugural program of amateur and sportsmen's stock car racing this Friday night.

A seven-event race program will be presented on the brilliantly-lighted asphalt track.

The race program originally set for last Friday was called off after several rainstorms delayed work on the elaborate lighting system which will make the quarter-mile track the best-lighted outdoor sports arena in the nation.

Beginning with the inaugural, races will be held each Friday night, starting at 8 o'clock, on the quarter-mile track, which is built within the one-mile track of the huge Raleigh Speedway plant. Children under 12 will be admitted free to each race program when accompanied by adults.

A flock of new faces will appear in the amateur events. A special invitation is out to amateurs—drivers who have never competed in a modified-car race—to try their throttles on the Raleigh track. It is open now for practice runs. Information may be obtained from the Speedway office in the Odd Fellows Building at Raleigh.

The sportsmen's races Friday night will present 30 or more modified-stock drivers including such aces as Curtis Turner, Roanoke, Va.; Billy and Bobby Meyers, Winston-Salem brothers; Shorty York, Mocksville, and Glenn Wood.

CLASSIFIED

ANNOUNCEMENT

OLD AND RARE BOOKS — WE have 'em from three for a quarter on up to a month's rent. Browsing's fun. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St.

GOOD USED COPIES - ST. VINcent Milay, Robert W. Service, Ogden Nash and others at the Unicorn Bookshop over Sutton's. Dial 9-6173.

FOR RENT

FOR RENT: 6 ROOM APARTment including 2 bed rooms, bath, kitchen, study, dining room, living room, gas range & refrigerator; 2 blocks from campus. 307 Ransom Street.

PERSONAL

COME TO THE NEW UNIVERsity Restaurant for the best meals in town. Nice atmosphere. Cool. Combo (Tuesday and Thursday nights). Hours 11:30 a.m. to midnight.

SERVICES OFFERED

JOIN YOUR CLASSMATES AND others on the campus and bring your laundry here where you save money and get your laundry back, washed and dried in one hour. Washed in only 30 minutes. Shirts hand finished. You can't beat our service. Ask the boys who come here regularly. ROSEMARY AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY, 329 W. Rosemary St. Dial 5121.

WANTED

DRIVERS EAGER TO SAVE money on gas, oil, accessories. Hi-Way Service Station on the Carrboro curve has regular at 28.4 and hi-test at 29.4. Lubrication's only $1 and nationally advertised oil is cheaper than anywhere.

JUST RECEIVED

BABY COTTON CORD SLACKS 5.95 & 6.95

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

CHOICE OF YOUNG AMERICA

CHESTERFIELD

1. Chesterfield Quality Highest. Recent chemical analyses give an index of good quality for the country's six leading cigarette brands.

The index of good quality table—a ratio of high sugar to low nicotine —shows Chesterfield quality highest

. . . 15% higher than its nearest competitor and Chesterfield quality 31% higher than the average of the five other leading brands.

YEARS AHEAD OF THEM ALL!

2. No adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield. From the report of a medical specialist who has been giving a group of Chesterfield smokers regular examinations every two months for well over a year.

3. First with premium quality in both regular and king-size. Much Milder with an extraordinarily good taste —and for your pocketbook, Chesterfield is today's best cigarette buy.

BEST FOR YOU

STARTS TODAY

Carolina

Always COOL HERE

Relax in Air-Conditioned Comfort. Escape The Heat While Seeing The Best In Entertainment!

DEPT. STORE Closed Sundays During Summer

WATER
Gibson gets outdoors and lands on page 2. See Fun Spots.

The Tar Heel

WEATHER
Cloudy and humid with 91 high. Yesterday's high, 90; low, 65.

VOLUME 16 NUMBER 4 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, JUNE 23, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Contest Is Slated For Teachers

In celebration of the 50th anniversary of powered flight, a contest for teachers has been announced with four awards in each state.

The contest objectives are:

1. To stimulate classroom teachers to have their students engage in educational activities commemorating the anniverstry of powered flight.

2. To further the public's awareness of aviation's implications in education.

3. To offer a token recognition of the increasingly effective work being done by organized education to develop air-minded citizens.

4. To collect further evidences of effective teaching techniques devised and used by classroom teachers teaching either separate courses in aviation or using the content of aviation to enrich all the school's offerings.

The contest involves the selection of classroom teachers from each state who during the year (Dec. 17, 1952 to Dec. 17, 1953) have done the best work in preparation and/or use of instructional materials for aviation education. The winners will get a three-day all-expense free air trip to Washington to attend the Wright Memorial 50th Anniversary Dinner on Dec. 17 of this year.

Awards will be made in each state for the following grade levels: primary, intermediate, junior high and senior high. Contest rules may be obtained from the bulletin board at the School of Education, Peabody Hall, or by writing to the National Committee to Observe the 50th Anniversary of Powered Flight, 1405 G Street, N. W., Washington, 5, D. C.

The contest opens Sept. 1, 1953.

CAMPUS SEEN

Lovers' embarrassment after being caught on Alpha Gam front porch by early morning paperboy.

*

Peppy blind students walking springily about campus.

*

Silent Gerrard Hall now that Boys Staters are gone.

*

Dr. R. W. Linker Honored With Top Di Award

Robert W. Linker of the University's Romance Languages Department received the 1953 faculty award given annually by the Dialectic Literary Society.

The award goes to the faculty member "who has shown the greatest teaching ability and who has rendered the most service to students during the past year." Previous winners were B. L. Ullman and Preston H. Epps.

Dr. Linker has been a French teacher here for 23 years, during which time he has served in an advisory capacity to a number of student organizations. The award was presented to him at the annual Di-Phi banquet near the end of Spring Quarter.

Community Sing Needs Interested Students

With Sunday night's community sing called a success by those who conducted it, another is being planned for this weekend.

Those interested in helping to plan next week's sing are invited to a meeting at 7 p. m. tomorraw in the Y. Anyone wanting to lead the sing or play accompanments is asked to call the Y at 6761 and an audition will be arranged.

By AFROTC

Top Award Is Given To Pawlik

Harry Pawlik of Albemarle, an outstanding student in the Air Force ROTC unit here, has been awarded the Memorial Scholarship of the Arnold Air Society.

The scholarship, a grant of $300, is awarded each year to one Air Force ROTC cadet selected from institutions throughout the nation. The selection is made on the basis of need, scholastic record and promise as a future Air Force Officer.

Along with the scholarship Pawlik received a congratulatory letter from Mrs. Eleanor P. Arnold, widow of the late General H. H. Arnold, in honor of whom the national society of AF ROTC cadets was formed. Noting that Pawlik was a native of Poland, who only recently received his American citizenship, Mrs. Arnold said, "You have overcome more than the average obstacles to receive this honor."

Pawlik spent much of his time in concentration camps in Germany, Austria, and Czechoslovakia, and was liberated at the age of 14, by soldiers of the American Third Army. During the last stages of the war, he served with the Third Army as an interpreter of Polish, German, and French.

After the war, in 1947, he came to the United States as the ward of Lt. Raymond C. Carpenter, of Albemarle, N. C. Despite the fact that he had had little previous formal education, he entered high school, made an outstanding record and was graduated in 1950.

A self-help student at Carolina, Harry has compiled a noteworthy record scholastically and as an athlete. He has served as president and secretary of the Monogram Club, was co-captain of the soccer team and was a varsity team wrestler during the first three years of his college career.

Vote Starts Today For Melon Queen

Finals Will Be Held Friday; Festival To Feature Student-Faculty Watermelon Eating Contest

The campus digs into its pockets today to buy ballots to vote for its favorites among eight coeds entered in the fifth annual Watermelon Festival queen contest.

The girls' pictures will be posted in the Y lobby with a ballot box under each photo. Each vote is one cent and as many may be bought as the individual desires. Proceeds go toward paying expenses for Friday's Watermelon Festival.

The top five candidates will be voted on Friday. A change in the voting procedure for the runoff was announced yesterday by the election committee. Instead of five cents a vote as originally planned, each student will have one vote —free—and may vote by showing his ID card at the balloting table in the Y lobby this Friday.

Winner of the contest will preside over Friday afternoon's Watermelon festival, a free affair to which all students, faculty and their families are invited. Crowning of the queen will take place about ' o'clock.

Another highlight of the festival Friday will be a student-faculty watermelon eating contest. Judges will be Mayor Ed Lanier, Mrs. Robert B. House, wife of the chancellor, and Daily Tar Heel Editor Rolfe Neill.

The festival will start at 7 o'clock Friday night in front of Josephine Lytle. At present she lar. Bob Cole's folk music outfit will be on hand tuned up and ready to go. Also on hand will be 400 watermelons and coed hostesses. Roy Armstrong, director of admissions, will emcee the program.

Harry Aycock is general chairman of the festival and Nancy Horne is in charge of the program.

Ford Foundation Gives $50,000 To Carolina For Study Of Self

The University has been awarded a grant of $50,000 from the Ford Foundation to be used "to undertake a self-survey of its training and rearch programs for the scientific study of human behavior. The grant is for the academic year 1953-54.

The University was one of five leading American universities receiving grants from the Ford Foundation totalling $249,500 for this purpose. Announcement of the grants was made yesterday by Bernard Berelson, Director of the Behavioral Sciences Division of the Foundation.

Other institutions receiving grants were the University of Chicago, Harvard University, and the University of Michigan, all of which received $50,000 and Stanford University which received $49,500.

"In this self-study program the Foundation is concerned with the total resources of the university for the scientific study of man," Dr. Berelson said. "The inquiries have the purpose of obtaining facts and ideas that can be considered in further planning to strengthen the behavioral sciences at these institutions. Out of these self-studies we hope will come detailed plans at each university for further development and improvement of resources in this field."

The universities will use the funds made available under the grants to inquire into the status, problems, needs, and desirable development of the behavioral sciences at their institutions. The inquiry will be made by a faculty committee at each university assisted by a visiting committee including scholars from other in-

(See MONEY, page 3)

Dalrymple's Piano Recital In Hill Tonight

Mary Alice Dalrymple, graduate student in music from Harrisburg, Pa., will give a piano recital in Hill Hall tonight at 8:30. There will be no admission charge.

Miss Dalrymple graduated from Oberlin College where she studied piano in the Conservatory under Josephene Lytle. At present she is working toward her M. A. degree in the Music Department here, and studying piano with Dr. William S. Newman of the music faculty.

Her program Tuesday will include two sonatas by Scarlatti, Beethoven's Sonata in G, op. 31, No. 1., Chopin's Ballade in F, two pieces by Brahms, the Intermezzo in E and the Capriccio in D Minor, and the Sonata in C-sharp minor by the recent American composer, Beryl Rubinstein.

ART MODELS NEEDED

A dollar an hour is being offered models to pose for University art classes.

Those interested should contact Miss Warren by phoning 2801, Person Hall.

To Commerical Executives

United States Tax Head Talks Tomorrow

In its second day now, the North Carolina School Week conference will hear two outstanding speakers at sessions this afternoon and night.

Dr. W. Carson Ryan of the University faculty will talk on "Education and International Good Will" this afternoon. Tonight Dean Lindley J. Stiles of the University of Virginia School of Education will discuss secondary education.

The meeting this afternoon will be held in Hill Hall rather than Carroll Auditorium as scheduled. All meetings after this afternoon however, will be in the appointed places.

Speaking tomorrow afternoon will be Dr. Thelma Gwynn Thurstone, specialist in the field of mental testing and child guidance. Her topic will be "Measurement in Education." Tomorrow night Stewart Harral, director of public relations studies at the University of Oklahoma, will speak.

School Week will close Thursday, having completed six sessions. Cobb Dormitory is being used as living quarters by the conference participants.

Nearly 300 people are attending the N. C. School Week program.

Another institute in session here this week is the Southeastern Institute Commerical Organization Executivties. Topflight speakers include H. McKinley Conway of Atlanta who will speak today on "The Next 10 Years of Progress in the South" and T. Coleman Andrews who talks tomorrow. Andrews is commissioner of internal revenue for the United States. His topic will be "Taxes and Spending at the National Level."

Chamber of Commerces executives also are holding a confab here this week. Lectures are held each morning and open forums every afternoon. The conference will end Saturday.

their mode of behavior."

Includes a test

The Tar Heel

The Tar Heel, published Tuesday and Friday during the first Summer Session and printed by The News Inc., Hillsboro, N. C., is the official publication of the Summer School of the University of North Carolina where it is published by the students.

STAFF—Al Shortt, Pete Adams, Tom Parramore, Rolfe Neill.

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . ." Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE was lying so doggo under the Davie Oak that I all but missed seeing him. When I allowed to join him, he rolled one of his eight-ball orbs clickingly and wagged his tail. He certainly was doggo!

"I never thought I'd see the day when I'd be a campaign pledge," h chittered, sitting up to display a swollen jaw. "Least of all, a Republican campaign pledge. Loud, sing suckoo! Alas and welladay!"

What was wrong?

"Everything is wrong," The Horse said dolefully. "In Washington, and with me."

How was that?

"In Washington," The Horse said gloomily, "it is General Eisenhower, General Motors and general confusion. With me, it is general disillusion."

I wished he would be specific I didn't like generalities.

"Me, too," The Horse snorted. "Generalities are the kernel of our major problem. How is a man to be captain of his soul not to mention his teeth, if the Lieutenants of government turn things over to sergeants to run? It is corporal punishment cooked up by the Washington generalities for us privates to endure."

I thought his speech had covered all the ranks in the services. What was behind it all?

"I have what the lads call a 'service connected' mouth." The Horse spoke with obvious pain. "Just as if a Nazi or a Nippo had shot my face up. My jaw started bothering me, so I wrote the Vets Administration a lettter. After all, Ike said 'I won't never forget none of you brave fellows who followed me because you couldn't very well do no other way without getting shot."

Ike had been neither so ungrammatical nor so frank. The Vets wrote me back that they were due to take care of my service - connected face," The Horse chittered, "BUT" their 'examination funds' had been amputated, and it was illegal to do anything without first an examination. It couldn't be given me free, nor would I be permitted to pay the few dollars necessary for the examination. That was that."

So?

"So I blew out with a neat adsecc, got a jaw infection and to date it is costing me fifty-four simoleons. Truman Dollars, to you. And have you noticed Dollars are scarcer? Loud sing Cuckoo, I wish Ike had forgotten us Service men! Someone remembered to crop the examination money."

Well, he was better now, The Horse was. Why the rage?

"The oil-lands served up as payment for The Second Lousiana Purchase was a campaign promise," The Horse snarked. "Bonneville Dam going to private Power is another campaign promise. The artificial rubber plants being given to the four leading rubber companies is a campaign promise. But they're going too far when they toss in my teeth for good measure!"

Why didn't he complain to the higher echelon?

"Ugh!" The Horse grimaced. "I'm sick of military terms. Besides, I'd like to catch Ike when he isn't agreeing with McCarthy, which seems to be every other day; and you can't be sure. But we may see things like this improving."

Truly, the Horse sees imperfectly. . . .

Fun Spots In Chapel Hill

John Gibson

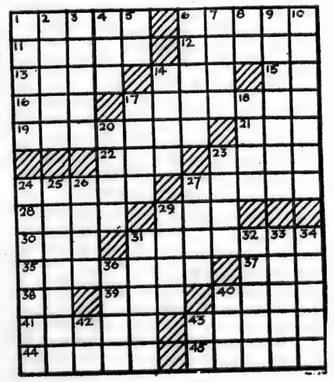
Kessing Pool is a rather elaborate recreational complex Consisting of a large quantity of small children surrounded by a small quantity of water, surrounded by cement and tile, the whole surrounded by half a dozen life guards.

These latter gentlemen are permitted the rare privilege of wearing white canvas shorts over the ridiculously small Woollen gym blue bikinis, thereby turning almost complete nudity into tolerable immodesty. (Women are allowed to wear their own suits, though on request they can use a costume furnished by the school. This consists of what appears to be a green paint job covered most of the torso. (The paint, apparently, is waterproof.)

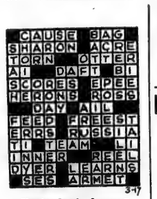
At the gate to the pool is stationed a very pretty young lady who normally is quite pleasant, but goes into an absolute tizzy if one tries to enter the water without "being wet as a results of having taken a shower bath." She can really get quite nasty about this point, and has on more than one occasion sent me scurring back to the locker room to perform this ritual.

I am not sure why she is so insistent about this matter, but it probably is a results of some traumatic experience in her childhood.

Once over this barrier there remains merely getting in the water. Though the pool is at least four feet deep all over, there is almost always a three feet deep layer of children on the bottom, so actually there is only about 12 inches of usable space.. You can exercise either by paddling about on the surface, or jumping up and down in place. Swimming is absolutely out of the question.



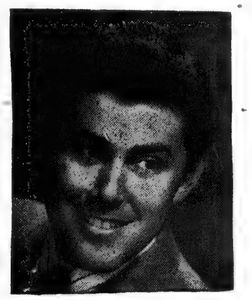
t-b



On the edge of the pool can always be found a fair number of Co-eds who are being carefully watched by the men. The co-eds try very hard to pretend they are not watching back. Of course they are. To strike up an acquaintance it is necessary merely to sit beside one and start things off with a real clever line like "Isn't it a coincidence that we are both at the same pool." That'll do it.

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Enclosures
6. Stop! (naut.)
11. Island in New York harbor
12. One of the 12 apostles
13. Performer
14. Owns
15. Sun god
16. Exclamation
17. Sure
19. A bulwark
21. Fabulous bird (Myth.)
22. Old times (archaic)
23. Chills and fever
24. A grouchy person
27. Silk embroidery thread
28. Musical instrument
29. Male sheep
30. Wine receptacle
31. An elaborate public tableau
35. Long-eared rodents
37. Disfigure
38. At home
39. Half ems
40. Confront
41. Composition for eight
42. Watered silk
44. Rips
45. Sea eagles



DOWN
1. Pinaceous tree
2. Hawaiian greeting
3. Glisten
4. Goddess of healing (Norse)
5. Steamship (abbr.)
6. Aside
7. Waistcoat
8. Close to
9. Sober
10. Stupors
14. Flock
17. Close the seams in a boat
18. Southern constellation
20. Founder of Pennsylvania
23. Egyptian dancing girl
24. Two-wheeled war vehicle (anc.)
25. A kind of tale
26. Native of Arabia
27. Cigarettes (slang)
29. Rodents
31. Half quarts
32. At full speed
33. Mother-of-pearl
34. Woody perennials
36. Malt beverage
40. Because
42. Tantalum (sym.)
43. Personal pronoun

Yesterday's Answer

PERMANENT WAVES OF LASTING BEAUTY

MR. ANGELO
In Our
Durham Salon

Durham, N. C.
Mr. Angelo—Stylist
Miss Rabon—Stylist

Raleigh, N. C.
Mr. Snotherly—Stylist

La Marick Permanent Waves

Super Deluxe Creme Oil Cold Wave ——— 25.00 Value	9.95
DeLuxe Creme Oil Cold Wave 15.00 Value	6.95
Custom Creme Oil Cold Wave 12.50 Value	5.95

(Stylists' Prices Slightly Higher)

We feature only professional and nationally advertised supplies such as Fashion Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Clairol, Revlon and La Marick Cold Wave.

TEMPO PERMANENT ——— $10 up

Each Wave Includes
- Personality Haircut
- Shaping & Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curl
- Oily Neutralizer
- Setting
- Creme Rinse
- Free Consultation

Anytime is Coffee Time with NESCAFE Complimentary in Our Salon

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
PHONE DURHAM 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
PHONE RALEIGH 3-1726
LaMARICK SHOPS

The Nicest People Are Meeting The Nicest People In

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
OPEN EVENINGS

Folk Music Band

The Folk Music Band will practic at 8:30 Thursday night on the Memorial Hall stage. Participants and spectors are invited.

THE STORY OF ELECTRA

Once there was a gal name of Electra Finn, and she had everything. Brains too.

And she was unhappy.

Whenever she was out with some guy and she referred to the Dark Lady of the Sonnets, he'd think she was talking about Harlem, and when she tried to get frisky with a mention of the Canterbury Tales he said he hadn't ever been to Canterbury but he was doing all right.

Poor Electra. She began to fear that Brains and Life wouldn't mix. She developed Complexes.

and then one day Electra, lucky creature, happened to drop in at an establishment whose name can be discovered at the bottom of this advertisment.

Immagine her surprise to find it filled with Men with Brains, and practically all of them understood English. She even got off a couple of mentally adult wisecracks that didn't fall flat on their faces for want of an audience.

Electra's doing all right, now. She's decided that life and Brains are a pretty darn swell combination.

And what's more, she's learned what so many students before her discovered. The finest allround people on the Campus are customers of

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
OPEN EVENINGS

—Money—

(Continued from page 1)

stitutions and laymen.

Dr Berelson stated that the grants would be used to pay for the released time of faculty members on the committee, the costs of the visiting committees, secretarial and research assistance, travel, and other expenses. The five Universities were selected from a number of applications that were invited by the foundation.

The scientific study of factors influencing human behavior is one of the five areas of concentration adopted in 1950 by the Trustees of the Foundation. The other four are advancement of peace, democratic institutions, economic well being, and education.

Vacation Movies are as easy as Snapshots

with the Brownie Movie Camera (made by Kodak)

Stop in now and be ready to start your personal movie diary the week end of the 4th. You'll be able to make gorgeous full-color 8mm. movies the first time. There's only one simple setting to make, and the Brownie Movie Camera is so inexpensive to Operate.

Now only $39.75 including Federal tax.

FOISTER'S CAMERA STORE

Say—

Tried the best steaks in town? You haven't unless you've tried The Pines. Also: Seafood that Slept in the ocean last night.

THE PINES
On The Raleigh Road

41 Enter Tennis Intramurals; 4 Softball Games Slated Today

Officials Are Named For Tilts This Week

Four games are scheduled in softball today.

At 4 p.m. on field 1, the Mountaineers will play the Dekes and on field 3 the Roughies will take on the Squirrel Shooters. At 5 p.m. Grimes Dormitory meets the Polka Dots on Field 1 and on field 3 Pi Kappa Alpha plays Phi Delta Theta.

Tomorrow's schedule: field 1 - Roughies vs. Beach Bums and field 3 Dekes vs. Grimes Dorm, both at 4 p.m.; at 5 p.m. field 1 Kappa Sigma vs. Pi Kappa Alpha and field 3 Phi Kappa Sigma vs. Polka Dots.

Thursday's schedule: field 1 - Phi Kappa Sigma vs. Grimes Dorm and field 3 Polka Dots vs. Old Folks, both at 4 p.m.; at 5 p.m. field 1 Squirrel Shooters vs. Phi Delta Theta and field 3 Beach Bums vs. Kappa Sigma.

Today, Clifton and Schwartz will work field 1 and Smith and Carter will officiate on field 3. Griffith is the spare. Tomorrow, field 1 will be handled by Nadeau and Parker and field 3 will be handled by Clifton and McGinty with Smith as spare. Thursday, Smith and Griffith will be the officials for field 1 and Nadeau and Parker will referee on field 3 with Carter as spare.

meeting the schedule and in case

Officials are responsible for meeting the schedule and in case they cannot they should notify the Intramurals Department a day before they are supposed to officiate.

Players Told About Tennis Regulations

Forty-one players are entered in the intramural tennis program which goes into its second day today.

Both doubles and singles matches are already being played.

Match results should be recorded on the draw sheet posted on the varsity court bulletin board. This responsibility goes to the winner of each match and matches not completed by the deadline set for the various rounds will be recorded as a double forfeit.

The Intramural Department suggests that each contestant, or doubles team, bring three new balls to each first match. Use only three balls for the match with the winner receiving the three unused balls and the loser getting the used balls. By this plan, the Intramural Department notes, no one need furnish more than three new balls for the entire tourney.

Players are responsible for reserving their own courts. This may be done by calling the basket room, 9-1426. Reservation cards may be picked up at the basket room at the gym.

Players entered are Wallace Ashley, Sam Barnard, Frank Bowman, Bill Beckman, Bob Bryan Cowden, Jim Crews, Leslie Da-Henry T. Clark, Jack Cole, D. J. meron, B. W. Dantzler, N. J. Demerath, Bob Fountain.

Ray Gould, Lawton Gresham, Roger Hendrix, Buddy Heins, Otis Hudson, N. E. Jarrard, Larry Ma-Honeycutt, Fred Hooper, J. E. dry, George McGinty, Ted Mc-Laughlin, Charles Miner, John Moore, D. A. Okun, Frank Parks Jr.

H. Reichert, Peter Sprague, Cooper Taylor, Gene Taylor, Donald Taylor, Harry Taylor, Ray Thomas, W. E. Thompson, Harry Wilson, Charles Wickman, Jim Winston and Lee Wiley.

Last Day For GM's Tourney

Entries close at 6 o'clock tonight in Graham Memorial's ping pong tournament. Play begins tomorrow at 6 o'clock.

Tourney officials announced yesterday that three trophies will be given, to the champions in the men's and women's divisions as well as grand champion. The trophies are on display in the Y lobby today.

The tournament will be played on the new ping pong tables recently installed by the student union. Paddles and balls will be furnished by the union. There is no entry fee.

Further information may be obtained at the main office of Graham Memorial.

Tennis Match

Chapel Hill will play Rocky Mount in tennis at 3 p.m. tomorrow on the varsity courts.

GLASSES FITTED AND REPAIRED
Fast Accurate Service in Our Own Laboratary
CITY OPTICAL CO.
121 E. Franklin St.
Tel. 3566

MURALS

Thursday's Scores

League 1: Phi Delta Theta 7, Rougies 0; Kappa Sigma 3, Squirrel Shooters 3 (tie)

Legue 2: Polka Dots 5, Mountaineers 4; Old Folks 11, Phi Kappa Sigma 10.

Watermelon Is Free This Friday

T-O-D-A-Y

An Impudent new gaiety from The Tight Little Island

"Brandy For The Parson"

DISARMINGLY BRAZEN
—N. Y. Times

WED. & THUR.

ROMULUS presents JOSÉ FERRER in John Huston's MOULIN ROUGE
Released thru United Artists
COLOR BY Technicolor

Varsity

JUST RECEIVED
ANOTHER SHIPMENT
—OF—
PALM BEACH SUITS
Several Shades to Choose from including Charcoal Grey

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

10 Cent Beer Everyday 3:30 to 5.

TONIGHT and EVERY THURSDAY and FRIDAY — all the spaghetti and meat balls you can eat plus FREE beer or wine for 99c at the RATHSKELLER.

6 Films On India To Be Shown In Outdoor Theater Tomorrow

Six short films on India will be shown ot 8 p. m. tomorrow in Koch outdoor theater, across from the Monogram Club.

It will be the Summer's first outdoor film program and sponsors yesterday assured students "we won't have the technical difficulties we had at last week's program."

Students from India and University faculty members will answer questions from the audience after the movies. K. V. Ramachandran, Palghat, India, is in charge of the program. He is a mathematical statistics graduate student working on his doctorate. H. B. Walker of Florence, Ala. will be in charge of showing the films.

In case of rain the program will be held in Gerrard Hall, next door to South Building. The program will last an hour and is free.

Movies to be shown are "A New Life", "Handicrafts of India", "Industrial Mysore" (II), "Madhya Bharst" (I) and "Our Heritage" (I & II).

What Goes On Here

Graduate Students

Monday night from 7 to 8 o'clock a meeting will be held in the YMCA Cabinet Room for graduate students and others over the age of 25. Purpose of the meeting is to plan Summer activities. It is in charge of Annie Tom Sowell of Savannah, Ga.

Toys Needed

Used puzzles and games for children from 6 to 11 years old are ased by the YMCA to help in a recreation program. The program is for children who are living with their parents in Alexander Dormitory. Those wishing to donate such items are asked to call the Y at 6761.

Wesley Foundation

Beginning with coffee and donuts, Methodist college students will meet for Sunday School at 9:45 and will continue studying the Apostle's Creed. Wesley Foundation will begin at 5:30 in the student lounge. Vespers will be held Thursday at 5:45 in the chapel.

Baptist

The "Kupples Class" will meet in the Baptist Church student lounge at 10 a.m. Sunday. Claude Shotts, general secretary of the YMCA here, will speak on Europe.

How are you fixed for hot weather clothes? It's a good idea to come in now and get set before the heat's on.

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

FREE WATERMELON TONIGHT

ODD LOT
SHOES
$1.98 UP
BERMAN'S
Department Store

TODAY - SATURDAY
"TORPEDO ALLEY"
Starring
MARK STEVENS DOROTHY MALONE

IT COULD ONLY HAPPEN TO THEM...
BUT IT SHOULD HAPPEN TO YOU!

SUNDAY MONDAY Varsity

FROM TO

BERMAN'S IS CLOSING OUT
WOMEN'S SHOES $1.
STARTING AT
We have your size.

DOZENS OF BEAUTIFUL
DAN RIVER FABRICS
ONLY 69¢ A YD.

WE CAN DRESS THE BABY DIAPER TO BONNET.

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE
Closed Sundays During Summer

HORSE
Old Dobbin rares back and shouts Rhee're being duped. See p. 2.

The Tar Heel

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and hot with 91 high. Yesterday's high, 89; low, 63.

VOLUME 16 NUMBER 5 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, JUNE 26, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Watermelon Festival Set For Tonight

Jimmy Wallace Chosen To Head Student Union; Begins July 1

Jimmy Wallace, graduate history student from Jamesville and a campus leader during his undergraduate days, is the new director of Graham Memorial Student Union. He will take over July 1.

Wallace was named to the job this week by the union's Board of Directors. He replaces Bill Roth who resigned in May to enter professional Boy Scouting. During the interim Jon Ammons has been acting director.

The board picked Wallace from among five candidates. Others applying were Jane Dicks, Pebley Barrow, Bill Amis and Bill Brown. Selection of a new director has been underway since Roth left in early May.

The new director received his BS in physics from the University in 1944. He took his law degree in June 1947 and in August of the same year was awarded an AB in mathematics. From 1947 to 1950 he taught school at Robersonville.

Wallace returned to the University in 1950 as a part-time instructor in social science and to do work on his MA and PhD degrees in history He expects to complete the MA this Summer. In August he will marry Nina Gray of Robersonville, a graduate student in English at the University and associate editor of The Daily Tar Heel.

During his undergraduate years Wallace was on The Daily Tar Heel in every capacity except editor, president of the InterDormitory Council, chairman of the Carolina Political Union, in the Student Legislature and a member of the Golden Fleece. He was on the committee in 1945 which drew up Carolina's student constitution. Wallace currently is advisor for Mangum Dormitory and Scoutmaster for Troop 9 of Chapel Hill.

'Lost Colony' Trip Offered Next Weekend

In response to student requests, a two-day trip to Manteo, N. C. and "The Lost Colony" is being planned by the Summer Activities Council.

Registration for the trip, which will be by chartered bus, will be held Monday at 10 a. m. in the Y lobby. Cost for the trip is $19, not including meals. The fee covers transportation, rooms, a reserved ticket to a presentation of "The Lost Colony" and incidental sight seeing.

The trip is planned for next weekend. The bus will leave Chapel Hill at 7 a.m. on Saturday, July 4 and return to the campus Sunday night. The tour is under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bullock of Kinston. Mr. Bullock is superintendent of Kinston schools.

The schedule calls for a route through Wake Forest, Rocky Mount, Edenton, Elizabeth City.

Saturday night the group will see Paul Green's Indian drama in its amphitheater of natural setting. The night will be spent in either Manteo or Nags Head. Sunday the same route will be used for the return trip with a stop to visit backstage at the amphitheater and time for a swim in the Atlantic at Nags Head.

CAMPUS SEEN

Language prof who is a stickler for beginning class at 9 o'clock exactly but who forgets to begin recess at 8:50 exactly.

*

Confused early morning patrons at bank reading calendar which says: TODAY is Thursday, December 26.

*

Movie patrons laughing as usher removes seven beer cans from just-vacated seat.

Piano Tutors Coming Here For Four Days

The third annual Clinic for Piano Teachers, under the direction of Dr. William S. Newman, associate professor of music and chairman of piano instruction in the University will be conducted here Monday through Thursday.

The clinic, to be held in Hill Music Hall under the sponsorship of the Extension Division in cooperation with the Music Department, is designed as a refresher course for teachers "seeking to keep up to date in the piano world."

There will be illustrated lectures, guest speakers, panel discussions, student auditions, demonstration lessons, recitals by Dr. Newman and other faculty members, recordings slides, movies of pianists, displays of materials, and a new type of listing of teaching pieces.

Advance registrations indicate that teachers representing many sections of the state will again be enrolled for the clinic which is operated on a non-profit basis. Registration also will take place before the 9 a.m meeting each day.

Dr. Newman is widely known as teacher, author and performer.

Final Vote On Queen Entries Is Today; Program Starts At 7

Watermelons, all you can eat; beautiful coeds, as many as you want to look at, and dancing, as long as you can last, are all offered free tonight at the fifth annual Watermelon Festival.

Starting time is 7 o'clock underneath Davie Poplar in front of Alumni Building. Students, faculty and their families are invited to the festival, which is the highlight of Summer Session activities.

Folk music picker Bob Cole and his Orange County Countryboys will entertain the crowd until about 8 o'clock when the program begins. Roy Armstrong, University director of admissions, will emcee tonight's festivities. First on the program will be Chancellor Robert House who will play the harmonica.

The top five of nine watermelon queen candidates go into a run-off today. To be voted on are Perky Putzki, Mase Chapin, Janet Harris, Betty Parsons and Sylvia Eaton. Voting will be by presentation of ID card at a ballot booth in the Y.

Ruth Sutherland, a Woman's College student in Summer School here, will tap dance and will be accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Peggy Riebel. Lanier Davis, now with the Admissions Office and a former student and campus singing star, will sing tonight. He will be accompanied by his wife.

The evening's two top events will be the student-faculty melon eating contest and the crowning of the festival's king and queen.

The chancellor's wife, Mayor Ed Lanier and Daily Tar Heel Editor Rolfe Neill will judge the eating contest. Taking part for the faculty and administration will be Fred H. Harris, R. J. M. Hobbs, J. M. Parrish, James E. Wadsworth, A. F. Jenzano, Irene McDonald, Alberta Snyder, G. E. Shepard O. K. Cornwell and Jimmy Wallace.

Elaborate contest rules have been readied including the installation of scales for "before" and "after" weighing of the rines. The contest will be held on a stage.

Ten points will be awarded one team in each of three categories: for the team finishing first, for the team eating the most and for the team entertaining the crowd most while eating. A mystery prize will go to the winning team.

The festival's king will be one of the men from the faculty eating team and he will be voted on today along with the queen contestants. The king and queen will be crowned by Chancellor House.

After the festival a square dance will be held in the Y Court. It will be called by Max Ballinger. At the same time, a ball room dance will be held at Graham Memorial. This affair will be under the direction of Nancy Murray.

Festival officials yesterday said there would be no more melon eating after the program gets underway, about 8 p.m. Sixteen cutters and 20 hostesses will dispense some 400 melons.

McCorkle Place At 8 P.M.

Another Sing Set Sunday

The second community sing will be held Sunday night at 8 o'clock in front of Graham Memorial on McCorkle Place. Joel Savell of the Wesley Foundation will be song Leader.

Mrs. James D. White of Chapel Hill, formerly Mary Neil Ward, will be piano accompanist for the sing. Mrs. White, before moving here, for four years was on the staff of Vassar Studios in Greensboro and had her own television and radio shows. She is a graduate of Greensboro College and studied at Julliard in New York City.

She wil play several solos, Sunday.

Another feature of the program, according to Chairman Norm Bowles, is a song by the campus "Andrew Sisters." Bowles said other numbers would include songs from "Oklahoma!" and a series of Carolina songs such as "Carolina in the Morning."

Those intersted are invited. They are asked to bring blankets because of a shortage of benches.

MRS. JAMES WHITE
. . .at the piano

Bill Lange, Former Coach Here, Dies In Ohio

William F. (Bill) Lange, former head basketball coach at the University, died at the home of his father in Columbus, O. Wednesday after an illness of several years. He was 56.

Mr. Lange was a native of Huron, O. and a graduate of Wittenberg College. He came here in 1936 as assistant in basketball and football and later moved up to head cage coach, a job he held until 1944 when succeeded by Ben Carnevale.

Be It Therefore Resolved

Korea: Time For Peace?

The Di Senate will meet Tuesday to debate the question of a Korean peace.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Di Hall, third floor of New East. Visitors as well as Senate members are invited.

The Topic:

WHEREAS: Enough blood has been shed by United Nations troops in Korea, and,

WHEREAS: The agressors have been repulsed, and there is no foreseeable benefit in the continuation of hostilities, and,

WHEREAS: The United Nations has no authority to interfere with the internal affairs of North Korea.

Be it therefore resolved that: The United Nations Immediately effect an honorable peace without regard to the objections of the Republic of South Korea.

Queen Without Honor

Lucia Hutchinson of New Bern entered the Watermelon Festival several years ago and was named runnerup.

Last month, as a student at Wesleyan College in Macon, Ga., she entered the Miss Georgia contest and won first place.

2 Graduate Examinations To Be Given By Carolina

Registration dates for two graduate student comprehensive examinations were announced yesterday by W. D. Perry, chairman of the committee.

The two exams wil be held on July 11 and August 8. Registration deadline for the former is July 4 and for the latter, August 1.

their mode of behavior."

includes a tea. On Tuesday

The Tar Heel

The Tar Heel, published Tuesday and Friday during the first Summer Session and printed by The News Inc., Hillsboro, N. C., is the official publication of the Summer School of the University of North Carolina where it is published by the students.

STAFF—Al Shortt, Pete Adams, Tom Parramore, Rolfe Neill.

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . . " Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE was sitting on the grass by a bush at Kessing Pool, and his huge eyes were clicking noisily, a sure sign of emotion in him.

I looked toward the pool and my own eyes clicked a bit. A breath-taking brunette was approaching the diving-board, and even the diving-board was rippling with approval.

"I'm trying to get my mind off Syngman Rhee," The Horse said lamely. "If I can, that is."

I agreed there was little similarity twixt the brunette and President Rhee of Korea. The brunette just then made a feathery spring and soared high over the water. A concerted male sigh stirred the balmy air, punctuated by a splash.

"They're alike that way," The Horse horsed. "They both made a beautiful splash, zounds!"

He referred to Rhee's freeing the Red prisoners?

"You're as sharp as the dome on the Library," The Horse beamed at me. "You gnow what? We are softer in this nation of ours than I had thought; and I had thought we were pretty durn squishy on moral issues, lately."

What did he mean?

"Read our history books!" The Horse snorted. "All our perilous life, we have honored fighters. Nathan Hale, George Washington, Andrew Jackson. John Paul Jones, Captain Barry, Oliver Hazard Perry. Robert E. Lee, George A. Custer; Fighting Bob Evans, of Virginia. Teddy Roosevelt, Sergeant York, Colin Kelly."

So?

"What were they noted for—striking a compromise between full bellies and rough going?"

That was foolish, I thought.

"So is expecting Syngman Rhee to start playing doormat at this stage of his life, foolish," The Horse snapped. "He has been, over fifty years now, beaten, tortured, starved, jailed, mocked, spit upon, ridiculed. Please to excuse him if he does not take kindly to being a campaign pledge. We may have promised to stop the war in Korea; but Rhee is pledged to help all Koreans."

But the prisoners were Reds. The prisoners Rhee freed in defiance of the UN.

"You think it hurts a North Korean less to have his fingernails pulled out and his eyelids burned off, than a South Korean?" The Horse growled. "Suppose the British had won Yorktown—and sometimes I think they did—you think George Washington wouldn't free Royalists that the British were sworn to 'get' but good? We go around popping off about an American saying, 'Don't give up the ship,' when he was taking a good trimming. But when Rhee not alone says it, he is an ingrate and a fadman. Sure, he shocked us! Imagine any man acting on prin*ci*ple when everybody else is worshiping princi*pal*, with interest to boot! Who does he think he is, George Washington, or something?"

Well, The Horse had to admit we had helped him.

"You bet," The Horse horse-laughed. "Because Korea is smack-dab on top of Japan, and we are trying to hold Japan, we had to help. A Tar Heel named John Ehle has done a bang-up movie called 'In The Name Of Freedom.' Maybe Rhee saw it and took it seriously, huh? Rhee did what he did in the name of freedom, too. Anyway, after patiently letting the Commies get bull-headed at Panmunjom for two years or so, what is wrong with letting Rhee get bull-headed for a week or two?"

We thought The Horse was awfully steamed up.

"You bet I am," he grinned, his eyes clicking like bowling-balls mowing down tenpins. "And why not?"

Why didn't he go to Korea himself, then?

The Horse stared, and looked back at the diving-board again. "Let's see this next dive," he murmured. "Shut up, too!"

Sometimes, The Horse sees too well.

Music Confab For Teachers Opens Monday

Elementary teachers and music consultants throughout this and neighboring states are invited to attend the 1953 Summer Workshop in Music Education to be held at the University Monday through next Friday.

Mrs. Adeline McCall, Chapel Hill Music teacher, writer, and director of the educational program for the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, will be director of the Worshop, which is sponsored by the University Extension Division and approved by the state Department of Public Instruction.

Emphasis will be given to music as a part of the whole school program, Mrs. McCall said.

The Workshop is designed to meet the needs of the classroom teacher, the music consultant and the school administrator. "Each will have an opportunity to work with music materials, to exchange experiences, to solve specific problems related to the primary or upper grade curriculum," she sadi.

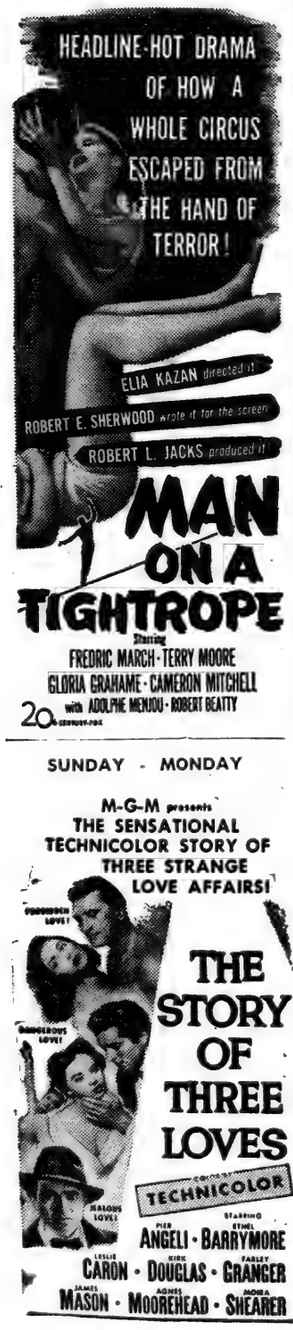
CLASSIFIED

ANNOUNCEMENT

OLD AND RARE BOOKS — WE have 'em from three for a quarter on up to a month's rent. Browsing's fun. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St.

GOOD USED COPIES - ST. VINcent Milay, Robert W. Service, Ogden Nash and others at the Unicorn Bookshop over Sutton's. Dial 9-6173.

SERVICES OFFERED



JOIN YOUR CLASSMATES AND others on the campus and bring your laundry here where you save money and get your laundry back, washed and dried in one hour. Washed in only 30 minutes. Shirts hand finished. You can't beat our service. Ask the boys who come here regularly. ROSEMARY AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY, 329 W. Rosemary St. Dial 5121.

WANTED

DRIVERS EAGER TO SAVE money on gas, oil, accessories. Hi-Way Service Station on the Carrboro curve has regular at 28.4 and hi-test at 29.4. Lubrication's only $1 and nationally advertised oil is cheaper than anywhere.

Carolina

TODAY AND SATURDAY

SUNDAY - MONDAY

M-G-M presents
THE SENSATIONAL TECHNICOLOR STORY OF THREE STRANGE LOVE AFFAIRS!

THE STORY OF THREE LOVES

TECHNICOLOR

STARRING
PIER ANGELI · ETHEL BARRYMORE
LESLIE CARON · KIRK DOUGLAS · FARLEY GRANGER
JAMES MASON · AGNES MOOREHEAD · MOIRA SHEARER

SALE

USED TEXTS

25¢ for first one; then

ALL YOU WANT FOR

1c each

Monday & Tuesday

JUNE 29 and 30

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

OPEN EVENINGS

205 E. FRANKLIN STREET

Closed Sundays During Summer

Want Grand Quality? Great Values? Get A&P's

Dollar-Stretching Values!

A&P

Dash, Pard or Ken-L Ration
Dog Food - - - - - 16-Oz. Can 13c

A&P Delicious Fruit
Cocktail - - - - -2 17-Oz. Cans 45c

Excellent For Frying Purposes
Wesson Oil Pt. Bot. 33c Qt. Bot. 63c

Marcal Paper
NAPKINS 80-Ct. Pkg. 10c

Superfine Cut Green
BEANS - 2 8-Oz. Cans 19c

Libby's Tomato
JUICE - - 2 18-Oz. Cans 23c

Waldorf Tissue
TISSUE - 2 Rolls 15c

Grape Juice
WELCH 2 12-Oz. Bots. 35c

Salted Jumbo
PEANUTS 8-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Golden Crisp
Carrots - - - - - - - - 1-Lb. Bag 12c

California Red
Plums - - - - - - - - Lb. 19¢

Heavy With Juice
Lemons - - - - - - - Lb. 17¢

South Carolina
Peaches - - - - - - - Lb. 15c

★ G. P. Fresh Frozen Concentrate ORANGE JUICE
2 6-Oz. Cans 29c

Pickles Pick of Carolina Sweet Mixed - - - 16-Oz. Jar 19c
Junket Assorted Flavors Freezing Mix - - 2 4-Oz. Pkgs. 25c
Libby's Peas - - - - 17-Oz. Can 21¢
Niagara Laundry Starch - - - - 12-Oz. Pkg. 19c
Camay Soap - - - 3 Reg. Bars 22c
Cheer - - - Lge. 29c Gt. Pkg. 69c
Joy Liquid Dish Washer - - - - - - - 7-Oz. Bot. 29c
S. O. S. Scouring Pads - - - 2 4-Pad Pkgs. 25c

Lux Toilet Soap 3 Med. Bars 22c
Lux Toilet Soap 2 Bath Bars 21c

FOR DEPENDABLE QUALITY AT THE LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES . . . BUY "Super-Right" Meats

Heavy Western Beef
SIRLOIN Steak - - Lb. 79¢

Heavy Western Beef—Chuck Blade
Pot Roast - - - - - - Lb. 39c

"Super-Right" Freshly
Ground Beef - - - - Lb. 35

Choice Milk Fed Veal Cubed Steak Lb. 79c
Choice Milk Fed Veal Chops - - - Lb. 69c
"Super-Right" Loin End Pork Roast Lb. 49c

• MORRELL PRIDE SHORT SHANK •
Skinned Hams - Whole or Half Lb. 69c

Butt Portion Lb. 63c Shank Portion Lb. 59c
Sliced All Meat Bologna - - - - - - - Lb. 49c

Headless & Dressed
WHITING Lb. 12¢

Hearty and Vigorous—Our Own
Tea - - - ¼-Lb. Pkg. 21c 1-Lb. Pkg. 69c

Golden Maid In Quarters
Margarine - - - - - 1-Lb. Ctn. 20c

Iona California Sliced or Halves
Peaches - - - - - - No. 2½ 29-Oz. Can 27c

Jane Parker—Buy Of The Week—Spanish
Bar Cake - - - - - Each 29c

Iona Early June
Peas - - - - - - 2 16-Oz. Cans 25c

Armour's Star
Chopped Ham - - - 12-Oz. Can 57c

A&P's Doller-Stretching
National Dairy Month Values

Mild American
CHEESE Lb. 47c

Sunnyfield Creamery
BUTTER 1-Lb. Pkg. 76c

Whipping Cream
AVOSET Bot. 45c

Breeze Lge. Pkg. 30c Gt. Pkg. 59c

Swan Soap 2 Lge. Bars 25c

Swan Soap 3 Med. Bars 22c

Lipton's Tea ¼-Lb. Pkg. 32c
Tea Bags - - 16-Ct. Pkg. 20c

AMERICA'S FOREMOST FOOD RETAILER . . . SINCE 1859
A&P Super Markets
THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

What Goes On Here

Piano Recital

Miss Marjorie Still will give a piano recital at 8:30 tonight in Hill Hall.

Picnic Signup

Tomorrow is the last day to sign up for a Canterbury Club sponsored picnic for Saturday at Eastwood Lake. Everybody's invited. Sign up at the Y lobby or with John Glover, 104 Winston Dorm.

Folk Music Band

The Folk Music Band meets Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Gerrard Hall. If you'd like to play with the group or just watch you're invited.

Summer Activities Council

The Summer Activities Council will meet tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the Y Cabinet Room instead of today. Chairman Norm Bowles urges council members to be present.

GLASSES FITTED
AND
REPAIRED
Fast Accurate Service in Our Own Laboratary
CITY OPTICAL CO.
121 E. Franklin St.
Tel. 3566

—George—

(Continued from page 1)

only Carolina canine ever able to catch squirrels. A favorite prior to the advent of George was Pete, a Dalmatian by breed, a Phi Gam by preference.

And George too has cut a niche for himself in the Chapel Hill Hall of Fame. Students remember a close brush with the Grim Reaper which almost ended George's reign last fall. A not-so-ardent dog fancier got George in the face with a shotgun. Students and faculty rallied to his aid, however, and enough money was contributed to insure hospitalization until his recovery.

The dogs mentioned here are of course only the most notable of the specie hereabout. There are numerous others to be seen roaming individually and in groups throughout the campus.

4 Softball Games Set For This Afternoon

Four softball games are scheduled for today.

At 4 p.m. on field 2 the Beach Bums meet theSquirrel Shooters and Phi Kappa Sigma plays the Mountaineers on wield 3 at the same hour. At 5 p.m. on field 2 the Rougies take on Pi Alpha and on field 3 Polka Dots will be playing the Dekes.

Officials for field 2 today are Clifton and McGinty while Smith and Carter will work field3. Hooks is spare man.

CLASSIFIED

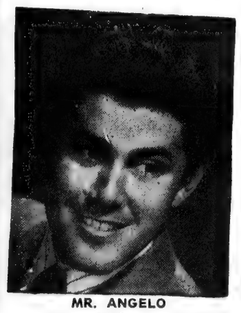
ANNOUNCEMENT

OLD AND RARE BOOKS — WE have 'em from three for a quarter on up to a month's rent. Browsing's fun. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St.

THE UNICORN BOOK SHOP Welcomes summer students to browse, might make a find among our many out of print books. Over SUTTON'S DRUG STORE dial 96173.

HELP WANTED

STUDENT EXPERIENCED IN Selling men's clothes to work part time. Apply manager of the Sport Shop, N. Columbia St.



SERVICES OFFERED

JOIN YOUR CLASSMATES AND others on the campus and bring your laundry here where you save money and get your laundry back, washed and dried in one hour. Washed in only 30 minutes. Shirts hand finished. You can't beat our service. Ask the boys who come here regularly. ROSEMARY AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY, 329 W. Rosemary St. Dial 5121.

WANTED

DRIVERS EAGER TO SAVE. Hi-Way Service Station on the Carrboro Curve has regular at 29.4 and hi-test at 30.4 Lubrication's only $1. Car wash is $1. or U-wash-it for .50.

PERMANENT WAVES OF LASTING BEAUTY

MR. ANGELO
In Our
Durham Salon

Durham, N. C.
Mr. Angelo—Stylist
Miss Rabon—Stylist

Raleigh, N. C.
Mr. Snotherly—Stylist

La Marick Permanent Waves

Super Deluxe Creme Oil Cold Wave ..... 25.00 Value 9.95
DeLuxe Creme Oil Cold Wave ..... 15.00 Value 6.95
Custom Creme Oil Cold Wave ..... 12.50 Value 5.95
(Stylists' Prices Slightly Higher)

We feature only professional and nationally advertised supplies such as Fashion Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Clairol, Revlon and La Marick Cold Wave.

TEMPO PERMANENT ..... $10 up

Each Wave Includes
- Personality Haircut
- Shaping & Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curl
- Oily Neutralizer
- Setting
- Creme Rinse
- Free Consultation

Anytime is Coffee Time with NESCAFE
Complimentary in Our Salon

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
PHONE DURHAM 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
PHONE RALEIGH 3-1726
LaMARICK SHOPS

YEARS AHEAD

1. Chesterfield Quality Highest. Recent chemical analyses give an index of good quality for the country's six leading cigarette brands.

The index of good quality table—a ratio of high sugar to low nicotine —shows Chesterfield quality highest

. . . 15% higher than its nearest competitor and Chesterfield quality 31% higher than the average of the five other leading brands.

OF THEM ALL!

2. No adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield. From the report of a medical specialist who has been giving a group of Chesterfield smokers regular examinations every two months for well over a year.

CHESTERFIELD

3. First with premium quality in both regular and king-size. Much Milder with an extraordinarily good taste — and for your pocketbook, Chesterfield is today's best cigarette buy.

Don't you want to try a cigarette with a record like this?

IS BEST FOR YOU

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE
Closed Sundays During Summer

RED
The Horse sees things of a different color. See p. 2.

The Tar Heel

WEATHER
Hot, humid and hellish. Expected high of 94, low, 69.

VOLUME 16 NUMBER 6 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY JUNE 30, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Rocket Trip To Moon Now Being Offered

The exciting fantasy, "Trip To The Moon", will open at Morehead Planetarium tonight at 8:30.

Final presentation of "Scouting The Skies" was given last night.

The simulated trips to the moon will be made every evening at 8:30, in the afternoons on Saturdays at 3 and 4 and on Sundays at 2, 3, and 4. This new program will continue through July and August.

On each journey, the planetarium rocket ship, "Expanding Galaxy," can conveniently carry 490 passengers in air conditioned comfort, Manager A. F. Jenzano explained. Group reservations are invited and advance reservations may bemade by telephone or letter.

The 480,000-mile "journey" is made in 50 minutes.

Di To Argue Korea Peace Tonight At 8

The Di Senate will meet tonight to debate the question of a Korean peace.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Di Hall, third floor of New East. Visitors as well as Senate members are invited.

The Topic:

WHEREAS: Enough blood has been shed by United Nations troops in Korea, and,

WHEREAS: The agressors have been repulsed, and there is no foreseeable benefit in the continuation of hostilities, and,

WHEREAS: The United Nations has no authority to interfere with the internal affairs of North Korea.

Be it therefore resolved that: The United Nations Immediately effect an honorable peace without regard to the objections of the Republic of South Korea.

CAMPUS SEEN

Most oft repeated remark at Friday's Watermelon Festival: "I wish I'd brought a knife."

*

Digging up grass in front of Post office to "plant more grass."

*

Lingerie hanging in windows where argyles usually are seen as married students take over Joyner Dormitory.

Genial George Is Long-Time UNC Fixture

By Tom Parramore

To some folks, George the dog may be just another mongrel, but to his friends George is the embodiment of all that is good and traditional at UNC.

The rust-colored collie seen so regularly about the Y Court and South Building is today's standard-bearer of a local tradition that is almost as old as the University itself.

Chapel Hill has long been famous for its dog population. George's most famous predecessor was Dan who was Carolina's pride back in the middle '40' when a dog was really somebody.

Dan was so highly regarded that he attended football games with the team and had the University's official sanction to attend all classes and sports events.

When Dan died in 1948, the administration put a ban on Chapel Hill dogs which was lifted only after students had staged angry demonstrations protesting the measure.

A favorite of the Monogram Clubbers a couple of years back was Brownie. Then there was Cap, a boxer with an aversion for coeds, and, later still Radar, who, some folks claim, was the

(See GEORGE, page 4)

Not To Mention Melon Eating

Mase Chapin Is Festival Queen; 1,500 At Varied Music Program

Mase Chapin, a vibrant, blue-eyed beauty from Richmond, Va., was crowned queen of the Watermelon Festival Friday night.

Ruling with her was King Jimmy Wallace, newly elected director of Graham Memorial, who was voted on along with the coed queen contestants. Wallace was chosen from among the faculty melon eating team.

Miss Chapin was sponsored by Kappa Alpha fraternity. She is a sociology major and will graduate in Febraury. Her campus activities include membership on the Graham Memorial board of directors, vice president of the YWCA, officer in Delta Delta Delta social sorority and a member of the Student Council.

As queen she was presented with a silver tray. Miss Chapin won the title in a runoff with four other coeds.

The students beat the faculty in the watermelon eating contest, winning on two out of three points.

Roy Armstrong was master of ceremonies. He frolicked as much on the stage as the audience of some 1,500 did off stage.

Among those on the program were a "quartet" of the Rev. Maurice Kidder, Joel Savell and John Riebel and his guitar. Tap dancer Ann Sutherland and Bob Cole and his folk music band also were on the program.

Armstrong announced a "command performance" for the night, it being Lanier Davis, who works for him. Davis sang several numbers including "Song for a Friend," which was written for him by Hank Beebe, former composer and campus piano wizard. Mrs. Davis, who is Beebe's sister, accompanied her husband at the piano.

Chancellor Robert House played a tune or two on his harmonica, and his better half also took part as she was one of the judges for the eating contest.

Armstrong, highly touting himself as a musician and then bringing daughter Patricia to stage, did a flute duet with his daughter. Another musical personage on the program was Melon King Jimmy Wallace who at the request of his Boy Scouts zipped through a snappy rendition of "Maple Leaf Rag."

Final Examination Schedule Is Listed For Both Sessions

The final examination schedule for both Summer Sessions was released yesterday by Edwin S. Lanier, director of Central Records.

No student may be excused from a scheduled examination, Lanier said, except by the Infirmary, in case of illness, or by his adviser or dean, in case of any other emergency compelling his absence.

FIRST TERM

Thursday, July 16		Friday, July 17
Class	Exam Period	Class	Exam Period
11:00	8 to 10 a.m.	8:00	8 to 10 a.m.
12:00	11 to 1 p.m.	9:00	11 to 1 p.m.
10:00	3 to 5 p.m.	P. M.'s and others not otherwise provided for

SECOND TERM

Friday, August 21		Saturday, August 22
Class	Exam Period	Class	Exam Period
11:00	8 to 10 a.m.	8:00	8 to 10 a.m.
12:00	11 to 1 p.m.	9:00	11 to 1 p.m.
10:00	3 to 5 p.m.	P. M.'s and others not otherwise provided for

3 Big Topics On Today's Agenda For Junior College Workshop

"Junior College Education for Today's World" is the theme of the fifth annual Junior College Work Conference being held at the university through Wednesday It opened Sunday.

The first formal session was held yesterday morning with Dr. Henry W. Littlefield of Bridgeport, Conn. University, speaking. He spoke on "Education for the World of Tomorrow."

A courtesy banquet given by the University, was held last night at the Carolina Inn and President F. O. Mixon of Chowan College talked on "The Moral Tone on Junior College Campuese in 1953."

Three general areas of Junior college interest will be considered today. Speakers this morning will include Mrs. Margaret Durham Robey, president of Southern Seminary and Junior College, who will discuss "Sound Administrative policy for Junior Colleges," and President Rabun L. Brantley, Virginia Intermont College, who will speak on "Selection and Guidance of the Faculty."

FREE MOVIES

Three films will be shown Wednesday night, July 1st, from 8 until 9 o'clock in the Forest Theatre across from the Monogram Club. In case of rain they will be shown in Gerrard Hall at same time. Films entitled "Brazil - Tropical Low Land," "Canadian Cruise" in technicolor and "North Carolina-Variety Vacation Land." Sponsored by the summer Activities Council. Tom Wakefield and John Champion will be in charge of program.

Admission will be free, and everyone is invited.

Last Time On 'Lost Colony'

Registration will continue today for students desiring to take a two-day sightseeing trip this weekend to Manteo and "The Lost Colony."

A table will be set up in the Y Lobby today from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. to take reservations. Cost of the tour, taken by chartered bus, is $19, not including meals. The cost pays the transportation charges, buys a reserved ticket to "The Lost Colony" and pays for a night's lodging.

The tour will leave Chapel Hill Saturday morning at 6 o'clock and return Sunday night. Breakfast will be eaten en route. Those taking the trip are asked to note the time change in the departure schedule. The tour is being sponsored by the Summer Activities Council in response to student requests.

AKPsi Is Rated First In Country On Efficiency By National Office

Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional fraternity in business administration at the University has been ranked the foremost in the nation of 78 college chapters in the 1952-53 efficient rating.

Raymond G. Woolever of St. Paul, Minn. Grand President of the national fraternity, who advised the chapter here of this honor, wrote:

"The Grand Council and Executive Committee believe that Alpha Tau was the top chapter in Alpha Kappa Psi during the past year and although there may be others who will technically accomplish the 100,000 mark in the efficiency rating, the quality of Alpha Tau's work in this accomplisment ranks here at the top of the 78 college chapters I plan to recognize your chapter accordingly at our national convention in New York City in September.

All college chapters are inspected periodically during the school year and final ratings are published in June. The efficiency rating includes professional activities, scholarship, general administration, membership, and finances.

Changes Made

The outdoor pool will not be open tomorrow night, instead there will be a "Splash Party" Friday night from 7:30 to 9 to which everyone is invited

After the swim there will be a watermelon slicing sponsored by the Baptist student union. Those expecting to attend the watermelon slicing are asked to sign at the pool before 8:30 p.m. Friday. The pool party will replace the ususal Friday night square dance at the Y.

different values and [illegible] their mode of behavior."

includes a test on reading [illegible]

The Tar Heel

The Tar Heel, published Tuesday and Friday during the first Summer Session and printed by The News Inc., Hillsboro, N. C., is the official publication of the Summer School of the University of North Carolina where it is published by the students.

STAFF—Al Shortt, Pete Adams, Tom Parramore, Rolfe Neill.

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . . " Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE was sprawled in the lee of the Law Building reading something. I looked around his withers and saw it was a handsome booklet on Leonardo da Vinci, distributed during the Planetarium exhibition of models of the great man's inventions and contrivings and discoveries.

"Yeah, ol' Leonardo was quite a character," The Horse agreed. "But he would have got his whiskers combed for fair by Senator U. A. McCarthy if old U. A. could have got his hooks on him! Leonardo not only knew how to live he knew when to die."

U. A. McCarthy? He meant Josephy L., didn't he?

Un-American Activities fits his method of operation much better," The Horse snorted. "If what he is up to ain't un-American, then Thomas Jefferson should be called a Red."

Well Jefferson did have red hair.

"Hey!" The Horse blinked. "Brother, wait until Holy Joe hears about that. But it is certain he would have taken a work out on Da Vinci, because Holy Joe McCarthy wouldn't have understood the things he was doing, and Holy Joe's gospel is to destroy anything he doesn't understand."

Wasn't that a lot of space to cover, even for Joe?

"How wide is it between the horizons." The Horse laughed. "How high is up?"

Hadn't The Horse left out, 'How low is down?'

"Naw," The Horse chittered inelegantly, "Holy Joe would have that answer. You know, a lot of people are saying Holy Joe is okay because he does snout out occassional pinko now and again."

Didn't The Horse agree?

" Listen, I know a very fine German Shepherd dog," The Horse said sadly, "who will unzip any crooks who comes near where he lives. Unfortunately, he also tries to unzip all the good people into the bargain. But if you want to look at it in the Let's-Be-Friendly-To-McCarthy-Club way, he isn't missing any thing. And who knows, maybe Holy Joe will chop up an occassional Commie along with the decent people he is hounding from behind his Congressional Immunity."

Holy Joe - I meant, - Senator McCarthy - had had a good war record, hadn't he?

"So did Benedict Arnold, up to a point," The Horse growled. "This guy is a sort of Irish Hitler. And speaking of the Irish, rumor has it that The Clan McCarthy, of the Ould Sod, is in a dither over changing their name. A lot of them are said to be dropping the "Mc' to be plain Carthy. Others, who are used to that Irish Cow-catcher on the front of their names and would feel like Nudists without it, are changing theirs to O'Carthy, Fitz-Carthy, and even Kilearthy. Wurra-wurra an' whisht, now it's a grim sadness that has come over the Emerald Isle! Ochone! From Mother Machree to Step-Father McCarthy in one uneasy leap! The Battle of the Boyne was child's play b' comparison, that it was, an' may Saint Patrick open up a shnake farm if Oi'm loying."

I thought we'd better get less Irish because I saw an English sparrow on a tree-branch, and didn't the Irish see Red when something English loomed nigh, Joe wouldn't like that.

"Cut it out," The Horse snapped. "You are supposed to play it straight while I make the remarks. But I got it figured out how he got re-elected. I mean even with Ike shaking hands with him in that smiling and unfriendly way."

How was that.,

"Well, I see how it is that Wisconsin claims to be the bigbest producer of cheese in the United States," The Horse snarked, "but as I see it, they are being too modest, they ought to point to Holy Joe with pride ugh!, and claim the biggest cheese production in the universe."

Yep, sometimes The Horse sees real pert . . . .

Try Counting Sheepskins

This is the end. Tonight at eight,
Across this flawless sward,
With stately acedemic gait,
In gown and mortarboard,
My child will decorously go
(While fathers weep like mothers)
A Bachelor of Arts—and so
Will seven thousand others.
For this is the modern Commencement,
With graduates measures in acres:
The Aarons, who lead them,
The Atkinsons (speed them!),
And maybe, by midnight, the Bakers.
We crawl through the Collins . . the Kingsley . .
And round about dawn through the "P"s . .
The Smathers . . the Smithers . .
And what was that—Withers?
What dreadfully slow degrees!
Somebody plays. Somebody sings.
Somebody snaps a prize up.
Somebody does some other things
But nobody props my eyes up.
Somebody gets an L . L. D.,
And out in the middle distance
Some big shot speaks. Ah, who was he—
The lion of least resistance?
Dear heaven, the wholesale Commencement,
The two-ton economy size,
On a bench behind rows
Of befeathered chapeaus
With binoculars pressed to your eyes!
Whatever became of my offspring?
(I dozed, I admit, around Hicks)
But it's standard behavior—
Who's conscious by Xavier?
Only the zz-
zz-
zz-
Zwicks.

—Kay Hoskins, The New Yorker

Going vacationing? Whether you're going to a fancy place or your favorite fishing spot, we're set with what you need . . . everything from a white dinner jacket to a T shirt.

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

GET YOUR Kodak Film NOW FOR THE BIG 4th of July WEEK END JUST AHEAD and . . . BE SURE TO RETURN YOUR EXPOSED ROLLS TO US FOR DEVELOPING AND PRINTING

FOISTER'S CAMERA STORE

THE NEW SUMMER BARGAINS ARE HERE

Come in and take a look at these money - savers

MIRO by Clement Greenberg with a memoir by Ernest Hemingway. A significant addition to the interpretive literature of Miro with 6 color plates and over 100 monochrome illustrations.
Was $7.50 Our Special $3.00

Love is a Four Letter Word by April Taylor. Another book on the war of the sexes that will furnish food for thought and ammunition for argument. Was $2.50 Now $1.00

The Far Side of Paradise by F. Scott Fitzgerald. The biography that was responisble for the Fitzgerald revival.
Was $4.00 Our Price $1.79

The Threshold of the Abnormal by Werner Wolff A comprehensive survey of all known phases of abnormal conditions clearly presented for the inexperenced readers. Formerly $6.50 Now $2.89

Till Death Do Us Part by William Steig. Humor at its best by the author of the Lonely Ones Originally $2.00 Our Special $1.25

The House at Hyde Park by Clara and Hardy Steeholm. An insight into the daily boyhood life of FDR and of his family background.
$3.75 Reduced to $1.00

A Quest For Gandhi by Reginald Reynolds. An anecdotal biography based upon personal acquaintance.
3.75 a real bargain at $1.00

There's always a tempting bargain in

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St. —:— Open Evenings

Dancing Class

From 7 to 8:30 tonight a dancing class in ballroom and square dancing will be held on the terrace of Woollen Gym. It's free.

10 Cent Beer Everyday 3:30 to 5.

TONIGHT and EVERY THURSDAY and FRIDAY — all the spaghetti and meat balls you can eat plus FREE beer or wine for 99c at the RATHSKELLER.

Tehran Students Pack In For Extension Prof's Course In Audio-Visual Education; He's Amazed

Charles F. Milner, associate director of the University Extension Division, found himself "stumped" when he went to Iran to teach students in the University of Tehran the benefits of audio visual education.

His services were requested by the Iranian government and he spent nine months there.

Expecting to lecture for a period each day then open up for challenging questions, he soon found he had to do far more lecturing than he anticipated. For the students there, like those in the French universities, are accustomed to taking copious notes, memorizing them, and then handing them back to the professor at examination time. If the professor says that black is white, that's the answer he'll most likely get from students on examinations, says Milner.

The professor's word is law and no student questions what he says. Few questions are asked on class.

But Professor Milner was amazed at the interest of the University of Tehran students in audio-visual education — a field relatively new to them.

"Due to the economic conditions of the country, and the 'newness' of education (the University, the first in the country, is only 18 years old), there is a tremendous shortage of educational equipment, especially books.

"I was lucky to have a text book in the courses I taught. The United States Information Service had on hand when I arrived a small 35-page book on audio-visual education translated into farst," he said. "This provided at least a guide.

"When the course was announced, 65 students signed up for the class and the room assigned for audio-visual education had only 18 seats. But we managed to get through because a great many of the students were willing to stand along the side of the walls."

Starting the audio-visual education program in Iran was not a new thing to Milner, because the growth of the program in North Carolina since 1935 has been largely through his efforts. In 1948 he spent several months in Japan as a specialist in audio-visual education representing the Department of the Army. As in Iran, he conducted training programs for Japanese educators in most of the prefectures (states) and succeeded in stimulating the use of motion pictures and other audio-visual aids in civilian education in that country.

Since 1949, Milner has been a member of the Advisory Board to the Panel on Educational Films of the U.S. National Commission for UNESCO. He is also an active member of the Committee on Audio-Visual Aids of the National University Extension Association and serves as a member of the Advisory Committee of the Communication Study Commission of this state.

WINNER OF THE ACADEMY AWARD "Best Sound of 1952"

"BEST ACTOR OF THE YEAR" RALPH RICHARDSON —N. Y. FILM CRITICS AWARD

"A STUNNING FILM FLIGHT INTO THE UNKNOWN!" —TIME MAGAZINE

"THIS STRIKING NEW DRAMA IS A NIGH PERFECT JOB OF FILM-MAKING IN EVERY ESSENTIAL WAY!" —BOSLEY CROWTHER, N. Y. TIMES

The Greatest Adventure Story Of Our Time!

BREAKING THE SOUND BARRIER

Starring RALPH RICHARDSON ANN TODD • NIGEL PATRICK

THURSDAY Varsity

Varsity

Today - Wednesday

COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR

A woman trembled beneath his kiss...an empire withered before his wrath!

COLUMBIA PICTURES presents

PRINCE OF PIRATES

starring JOHN DEREK with BARBARA RUSH CARLA BALENDA

Carolina

TODAY

The Mightiest Adventure of Them All!

HORIZON PICTURES presents HUMPHREY BOGART KATHARINE HEPBURN "THE AFRICAN QUEEN" color by TECHNICOLOR

Released thru United Artists

WEDNESDAY

M-G-M The company that made "Quo Vadis," now brings another great book to life!

SIR WALTER SCOTT'S IVANHOE TECHNICOLOR

starring ROBERT TAYLOR · ELIZABETH TAYLOR · JOAN FONTAINE GEORGE SANDERS · EMLYN WILLIAMS

THURSDAY

The Red Shoes A J. Arthur Rank Presentation

COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR

LAST CHANCE SALE

USED TEXTS

25c for first one; then ALL YOU WANT FOR 1¢ EACH

TODAY ONLY

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
OPEN EVENINGS
Closed Sundays During Summer

Say—

Tried the best steaks in town? You haven't unless you've tried The Pines. Also: Seafood that Slept in the ocean last night.

THE PINES

On The Raleigh Road

Softball Playoffs To Start Monday; Phi Delta Theta Leads Both Leagues

Playoffs in the intramural softball leagues begin Monday afternoon with Phi Delta Theta fraternity the only undefeated team in both leagues.

The schedule and pairing will be announced by the Intramural Department and posted on its bulentin board. Managers are asked to check the times their teams play.

The standings:

League

Team	W	L	Pct.
Phi Delta Theats	4	0	1.000
Squirrel Shooters	3	1	.750
Kappa Sigma	2	1	.667
Pi Kappa Alpha	3	2	.600
Roughies	1	4	.200
Beach Bums	0	3	.000

League 2

Team	W	L	Pct.
Mountaineers	4	1	.800
Polka Dots	3	1	.750
Old Folks	3	1	.750
Phi Kappa Sigma	2	2	.500
DKE	1	4	.200
Grimes	0	4	.000

FOISTER'S
CAMERA STORE

JULY
SHOE SALE
1 GROUP MEN'S DRESS SHOES
$1.98
1 GROUP MEN'S DRESS SHOES
$2.98
Crosley Square Shoe
JULY CLEARANCE SALE
$5.00
ODDS AND ENDS
Crosley Square Shoe
All Summer Shoes ON SALE
$8.95
AND UP
BERMAN'S
DEPT. STORE

Trip Cancelled

Because not enough people signed up to warrent chartering a bus, the trip to Manteo and "The Lost Colony", scheduled for tomorrow and Sunday, has been cancelled.

Weaver At BSU

Dean of Students Fred Weaver will speak at Baptist Student Union Sunday night at 6 o'clock. The 11 o'clock service Sunday morning at the church will be communion.

Community Sing

There will be no community sing Sunday night. However, one is planned for next week and the committee is asked to meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the YMCA to go over plans for it.

Golf

Golf entrants yesterday were reminded by the intramural department to get their matches off before the deadlines.

The second round, which started yesterday, ends Monday. The third round starts Tuesday and ends next Friday and the final ronud will start July 11 and end July 15.

Party Tonight

A "Splash Party"-and everyone's invited-will be held tonight from 7:30 to 9 at Kessing outdoor pool behind Woollen Gym.

After the swim there will be a watermelon slicing sponsored by the Baptist Student Union. Those expecting to attend the slicing are asked to sign up at the pool before 8:30 tonight. A table will be near the pool for registeration of students.

Tonight's swim will replace the square dance usually held in Y court.

BARGAINS
TO FIT YOUR BUDGET
Our Latest Shipment of Remainders at Prices You Can't Resist.
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
OPEN EVENINGS
Closed Sundays During Summer

AF Reserve Seeking Men

Maj. Raymond Gould, commanding officer of the local Air Force reserve unit, yesterday asked interested USAF reserve officers, particularly Korean veterans, to "start the new year off right."

This can be done, he advised, "by attending meeting of the reserve unit regularly, whose current year started this week. Meetings are held every Monday at 5 p. m. in the AF ROTC building behind Emerson Stadium."

To maintain eligibility for promotion and retirement only 35 points are needed in addition to 15 points given for being a member of the reserves, Maj. Gould said. Extra points may be obtained, he added, by participating in various programs throughout the year.

—Retires—

(Continued from page 1)

to Miss Mallett and presented her with a piece of coronation silver from some of her friends in the University faculty and administration. It was a sterling silver replica of the anointing spoon. She also received several gifts from her co-workers and junior staff-members of the institute for research in Social Science.

Smokey Says:

Enough to fire one with indignation!

10 Cent Beer Everyday 3:30 to 5.

TONIGHT and EVERY THURSDAY and FRIDAY — all the spaghetti and meat balls you can eat plus FREE beer or wine for 99c at the RATHSKELLER.

—Book—

(Continued from page 1)

ing days of the Civil War and the first months of Reconstruction, some severe losses were sustained. Its collections were finally brought together and given a safe home in 1892 when the Society was given its present headquarters, The Lee House.

Preliminary arrangements have been made between the University Press and the Virginia Historical Society to publish another book early next year.

The latter volume, by Marshall Fishwick, of Washington and Lee University, is concerned with the life and work of Michael Miley, the Lexington, Va. photographer who documented General Lee's last years. It has been prepared from the large collection of Miley's photographs, now owned by the society.

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

1934 FORD ROADSTER. A SWEET running Mercury engine in her and a honey of a paint job. Yours for $150 at Hi-Way Service Station on the Carrboro Curve.

ANNOUNCEMENT

OLD AND RARE BOOKS — WE have 'em from three for a quarter on up to a month's rent. Browsing's fun. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St.

THE UNICORN BOOK SHOP Welcomes summer students to browse, might make a find among our many out of print books. Over SUTTON'S DRUG STORE dial 96173.

HELP WANTED

STUDENT EXPERIENCED IN Selling men's clothes to work part time. Apply manager of the Sport Shop, N. Columbia St.

SERVICES OFFERED

JOIN YOUR CLASSMATES AND others on the campus and bring your laundry here where you save money and get your laundry back, washed and dried in one hour. Washed in only 30 minutes. Shirts hand finished. You can't beat our service. Ask the boys who come here regularly. ROSEMARY AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY, 329 W. Rosemary St. Dial 5121.

WANTED

DRIVERS EAGER TO FILL UP for the 4th at a SAVING. Hi-Way Service Station on Carrboro Curve has regular at 29.4 and hi-test at 30.4. Wash is only a $1 or u-wash-it for 50 cents. Satisfaction guaranteed.

JULY
SHOE SALE
200 PAIRS LADIES'
ODDS AND ENDS
SPECIAL SALE PRICE
$1.00
BERMAN'S
DEPT. STORE

TODAY - SATURDAY
Varsity

Varsity
SUNDAY
MONDAY

The Tar Heel

VOLUME 16 NUMBER 7 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, JULY 3 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

WOLFE
Writer Kraar gets into Viriginia and a Carolinian's past. See P. 2.

WEATHER
Hot with 94 high. Yesterday's high, 93; low 73.

Kelso Sweeps Diving Meet Held In Ga.

Carolina's diving champion Joe Kelso added another honor last weekend at the Southern Peach AAU Swimming and Diving Champions at LaGrange, Ga.

Kelso won first place in the high board senor men's three meter diving. He participated against 16 other entries, from Michigan to Florida. The Peach meet, held every year at LaGrange, is the largest meet of its type in the South.

Kelso will take in two other meets this summer and he's been defending champion in both of them for the last two years. He will dive at High Point in the Carolina senior swimming and diving meet. At Columbia, S. C.

The diving star will graduate from Carolina in August. He has been on the UNC swimming team for three years, winning numerous titles. He is from Richmond, Va.

Fads, Crazes Are Analyzed By Kattsoff

When a craze or a fad or a style sweeps the country these things cannot be treated as social forces, independent of people, according to Dr. Louis O. Kattsoff of the Philosophy Department.

"The chief reason why a fad takes hold is that it appeals to individuals. Or it may appeal, not directly, but through other motives, such as the desire to mimic celebrities to be considered up-to-the-minute," explains Dr. Kattsoff, who expresses this and other views on human behavior in a new book, "The Design of Human Behavior", just published by the Educational Publishers, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.

"It is difficult to stop a fad, not because the fad takes control of individuals, but because of the complex of motives in individuals which causes them to accept that particular fad," Dr. Kattsoff writes. "In this sense, the abstraction of 'social forces' can be accepted. But in no other sense is it a valid conception.

"The spread of new values, the criticism of old ways of behaving, might induce people to change their values and hence their modes of behavior, but the radio, as an instrument for the propagation of ideas, released no new forces in itself.

"It is only those who speak through the radio and control the means of communication who may so direct the ideas of their listeners that they will tend to adopt different values and hence change their mode of behavior."

CAMPUS SEEN

Enchanted little girl sitting in book store, reading books on children's rack.

Education class forsaking their Peabody classroom for a cooler locale under the trees.

Old Well glistening with a new coat of paint, but water as tepid as ever.

Mabel Mallett Retires After 30 Years Here

One of the long-time secretaries of the University, Miss Mabel Mallett, has retired after more than 30 years of service.

She gave up her job July 1 as secretary to Dr. Gordon Blackwell, director of the Institute for Research in Social Science, a position she had held for the past five years.

But before becoming Dr. Blackwell's secretary Miss Mallett was for 25 years secretary to the Dean of Students.

Through her contract with the office of the Dean of Students, she met and knew personally numbers of students and has an excellent knowledge of alumi for the first quarter century.

Miss Mallett came to Chapel Hill originally in 1914 and worked for four years with the Extension Division. She left in 1918, returning in 1923, and has been here since then.

She was recently honored at a tea given by Dr. and Mrs. Blackwell at their home here. Chancellor Robert B. House paid tribute

(See RETIRES, page 4)

Claude Shotts Is Europe-Bound; Will Participate In Conferences

Claude C. Shotts, general secretary of the YMCA left yesterday on a trip to Europe where he will attend and participate in a round of conferences and seminars under sponsorship of the American Friends Service Committee.

He will travel by ship both going and coming and will be traveling with students who will spend the summer abroad.

Shotts will spend today in Phiadelphia where he will be briefed on his work by the American Friends Service Committee. From there he will go to Quebec from whence he will sail tomorrow aboard the Swiss ship, Arosa Kium. Some 800 students from al, sections of the United States and Canada will be aboard on their way to travel or work in Europe.

The YMCA executive will serve as a member of the orientation staff of the ship going over and his particular responsibility will be to lead special interest groups in discussion of various subjects of their choosing.

The ship is due to dock at Bremerhaven, Germany, July 15, and Shotts will go to Berlin by way of Hamburg. He will spend a few days in Berlin getting oriented for a seminar he will direct there in August.

Then he will go to Goettingen where he will talk with students at the University of Goettingen concerning affiliation with the University at Chapel Hill. This past year a group of students from Goettingen enrolled as special students here.

Next on Shotts' itinerary will be an eibht-day conference in Nuernberg, sponsored by the Friends Service Committee to be held at their Center.

During the various conferences and trips Shotts expects to renew many acquaintances and friendships dating back to 1946, 1947, 1948 when he served as chairman of refief work in Berlin.

CLAUDE SHOTTS

Dance Slated Next Weekend For Graduates

An informal dance for graduate students is planned for next Saturday, July 11, in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial from 8 p.m. to 11:30.

It will be sponsored by the Summer Activities Council with costs defrayed by the council. No reservations for the dance are necessary, "just be there with or without a date," Chairman Annie Tom Sowell said yesterday.

Working with Miss Sowell will be Margie Ballard, Duncan Brackin and Sam Duncan on publicity; Phoebe and Susan Gragg and Billie Woodruff on refreshments; Duncan and Miss Sowell on hopitality; Ted Medlin on music; Duncan, John Chu and James Valsame on decorations.

Phillips Is Winner In Ping Pong

Carter Is Runnerup In GM's Tourney

In a hard - fought finals, Guy Phillips beat Jippy Carter two games out of three to win Graham Memorial's Summer Session ping pong touranment.

The first game went to Carter by the easy score of 21-11 with Phillips' play erratic. In the second game Carter got off to a good start and led 17-13 and then 20-16. That's when Philips got hot holding Carter at 20 points, Phillips tied it up and won finally 22-20.

The third and deciding game was more exciting than the second match. Phillips won it 24-22 after two deuces.

Jon Ammons, acting director of Graham Memorial, presented trophies to both Phillips and Carter.

Carter advanced to the finals by defeating Mac Long two games to none and Phillips eliminated Gil Frutchen by the same score to win the right to oppose Carter.

Early History Is Recounted In New Book

The story of the first recorded settlement by Europeans of what is now Virginia is to be published in book form this September by two well known institutions in North Carolina and Virginia.

The detailed study will be the joint project of the University of North Carolina Press and the Virginia Historical Society, the UNC Press being in charge of the publishing under the sponsorship of the Virginia organization.

Entitled "The Spanish Jesuit Mission in Virginia, 1570-1572," the book was written by Fathers Clifford M. Lewis and Albert J. Loomie, both members of the Society of Jesus, and contains materials heretofore unpublished.

The publication of this definitive book marks the association of the University of North Carolina Press with one of the oldest organizations of its kind in the United States.

The Virginia Historical Society was founded in Richmond in 1831 with John Marshall, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, as its president. During its early history the society moved its headquarters a number of times in an effort to provide a safe repository for its valuable collection of Virginiana.

As a result of these moves and of the confusion during the clos-

(See BOOK, page 4)

Parrish Officially Gets BA Assistant Deanship; He's Friend Indeed When Student Is In Need

J.M. Parrish officially became the assistant dean of Business Administration School this week, but it is a role with which he is very familiar since he has been acting in that capacity since August, 1952 and is known to many of the students on campus as Dean Parrish.

Dean Parrish is well known to most of the students since few are able to meet their requirements without getting a taste of economics. Parrish has been teaching economics 31,32, and 61 alternately for the past four years.

One of the most successful projects initiated by Parrish has been the urging of students to take advantage of the testing service offered by the University Testing Center in Peabody. This service includes a test on reading speed and comprehension which often results in the student enrolling in the reading course offered in conjunction with the testing services. The project has been successful to the extent that most of the students participating have improved their scholastic averages.

Dean Parrish is assisted in his duties by Gladys Cox, consellor and recorder for the school. She maintains a check on the records of the students and attends to the registration of students for each quarter. She also assumes his duties in student relations when Dean Parrish is not available.

Parrish maintains an "open door" policy in which any student is free to enter and have benefit of an interview. If a student is not satisfied with the results of a conference with the assistant dean he is always free and welcome to have an interview with the dean of Business Administration School T. H. Carroll.

Parrish attended the University of Alabama where he received a B. S. and M. S. in business administration. He will receive his PhD in economic theory from the University during the coming Fall Semester.

Since coming to the University in 1949 Dean Parrish has been closely associated with the Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity. He was deputy counsellor for the fraternity this past year. He is also a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary business administration fraternity.

The Tar Heel

The Tar Heel, published Tuesday and Friday during the first Summer Session and printed by The News Inc., Hillsboro, N. C., is the official publication of the Summer School of the University of North Carolina where it is published by the students.

STAFF—Al Shortt, Pete Adams, Tom Parramore, Rolfe Neill.

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . . " Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE had appropriated an adding-machine from the Dean Carroll Building and he was parked with it behind New West and really making a hash of things.

I wondered if I could help him?

"Listen, no insults, please," he growled. "Things are not too good with me, but I ain't that bad off that even you can help me. Stay if you must, but tais-toi, donk."

That rude French should be Tais-toi, donc, not donk.

"When it is you, it is Donk," he chittered. "Nope, I just can't figure this thing out."

What couldn't he figure out?

"This here now Dan'l Reed, Chairman of the House Mays & Weans Committee - -"

Pardon. That was wrong.

"Well, okey," The Horse waved a negligent hoof, "The Mean Ways Committee, or whatever. But anyways and means you choose to call it, he has got a point in his favor about not letting the Excess Profits Law stay on the books. If Adlai had got in, you think the Repubs would have said if he had requested it, 'Why, sure thing, Ad, ol' boy!'? All the more reason they won't when the campaign was run on a basis of reducing taxes."

But they wanted to balance the budget.

"For goodness' sake," The Horse snapped, "the durn budget has been unbalanced so long it is a more favored attraction than The Leaning Tower of Pisa, or Leaner Horne. Whatchu wanna do, ruin one of our great scenic attractions?"

That was Lena Horne.

The Horse sat bolt upright. "Where?" He slumped back to a sprawl with his head on the adding-machine. "Always kidding," he sighed. He grinned hugely at the clouds passing overhead and said, "Some weather is moving in from the Horse Latitudes! I wonder if the Mayor of Carrboro knows about this? It makes me homesick. The way Ike must feel when he looks through his scrapbook and sees some of the Special Orders he cut when he was whipping the world to a frazzle."

Ike had been a great leader.

"He still could be," The Horse said, his eight-ball eyes following the clouds so far that a brunette intersected his gape and carried it along in the other direction with her. "He still could be. But he ain't going to be it listening to every mush-mouth in and around Washington. The way I figure, he got a case of White House-itis and before he could recover, ol' Chuck Wilson was in there telling him how God made little green Chevvies, and then Dulles took off to slurp shiskebab with the A-rabs, and Syngman Rhee frightened him by posing like Washington Crossing The Delaware, and Holy Joe McCarthy heard Ike had bid and made Six Hearts, Redoubled, and that's a Red suit, you know."

I thought there was a limit to fault-finding. What was wrong with Dulles?

"A victim of Grammar," The Horse murmured, trying to pick his teeth with a hoof and ending up by biting himself. "Just a victim of Grammar."

How was that?

"Compare," The Horse invited me, "the adjective 'Dull.'

I didn't go along?

"You have my permission to do so," The Horse yawned. "Ain't you got no eddycation? Dull; Duller; Dulles. John Foster may be an all-right Joe, but if don't look like a fat Harry Truman walking around half-asleep, I give up. Heck, it is an invitation to eucher him, to our so- called friends. One way and another, though, Ike ought to snap out of it and start to bawl out the orders, not just stand around trying to take them."

Maybe he thought Ike played too much golf?

"I'd prefer Polo for him," The Horse said. "Polo is mounted golf, sort of. But I favor his playing golf, especially at that Burning Tree club of his outside Washington. Once, a Burning Bush led a great people out of danger, so maybe he'll get inspired by a Burning Tree. Ike is our President. Not Wilson; not Taft; not Dewey; not Holy Joe and his unholy minions. I want to see him start acting like the old Ike again."

I hope to see what The Horse wants, for once.

on the

Carolina Front

Louis Kraar

DANVILLE — It almost scares you to find so much of yourself in a book. That's the way it was today as I finished Thomas Wolfe's "Look Homeward Angel" on the train.

Wolfe's freshman loneliness, sophomore know-it-all, and senior sophistication were all there. The way he described Chapel Hill would make even Trustees proud today.

"In this pastoral setting a young man was enabled to loaf comfortably and delightfully through four luxurious and indolent years," writes the editor of this paper in 1920.

Later he says, "And they talked, under trees, against the ivied walls, assembled in their rooms, they talked in limp sprawls—incessant, charming, empty Southern talk; they talked with a large easy fluency about God, the Devil, and philosophy, the girls, politics, athletics, fraternities and the girls—My God! How they talked!"

No doubt he'd have added Saturday classes to those conversation topics if he were writing today. He didn't omit anytring else though.

I closed the book as my train slid into the dirty Danville station. I shuffled down a flight of stairs to a dreary looking waiting room.

A tall drawling woman asked me if I wanted a sandwich. "They really supposed to be for service men," she said. And then she added sweetly, "But you can come too."

I went into the room they call a "service lounge"—a small place with a few leather chairs, magazines and a desk.

We ate pimento cheese sandwiches and talked. And talked.

"Oh you're reading "Look Homeward Angel," she said eyeing the book in my hand.

I agreed that I was.

"You know," she bubbled on in her best drawl, "I met him when I was studying at Carolina."

She didn't look that old.

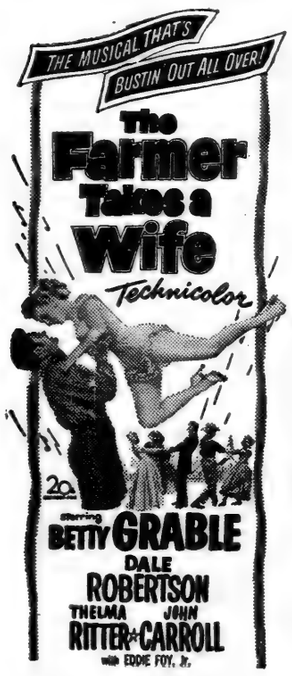
She went on, "He seemed to feel so deeply about things. I told him that I was working on my doctor's in psycholoby. He said to me, 'My god, that's enough of all that stuff. Why don't you quit?' Well you know I never did get my doctorate, but that Carolina is a lovely place. So much going on and all.

"Yes, I know," I couldn't help telling her, "I'm there now."

"You are. You're so lucky. Will, I'll never forget Wolfe. It was in '41, and he died right after that you know."

The train came and I left.

As it finally pulled out, I wondered about the drawling hostess who had talked to wolfe in 1941.



It must have been his ghost. though, because the chronicler of youth, love, sex, Carolina and loneliness died in 1938.

That's one conversation that I'm sorry I missed.

Always GOOD HERE!

Carolina

TODAY AND SATURDAY

SUNDAY - MONDAY

A THOUSAND ROUSIN' CAROUSIN' THRILLS!

BURT LANCASTER

VIRGINIA MAYO

WARNER BROS.

SOUTH SEA WOMAN

with CHUCK CONNORS

Going vacationing? Whether you're going to a fancy place or your favorite fishing spot, we're set with what you need . . . everything from a white dinner jacket to a T shirt.

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

A&P Fancy Light Meat
TUNA FISH 7-Oz. Can 30c

Short Grain
COMET RICE 2-Lb. Pkg. 40c

Bartlett
IONA PEARS 2 16-Oz. Cans 37c

HI-C
ORANGE DRINK 46-Oz. Can 24c

Take Home A Case
COCA COLA Plus Bottle And Case Deposit Per Case 89c

Sweet Mixed
LANG'S PICKLES Qt. Jar 31c

Jane Parker Golden
LOAF CAKE Each 25c

A&P STORES WILL CLOSE ALL DAY SATURDAY, JULY 4

Packer's Label Orange Juice 2 18-Oz. Cans 23c
Scott Paper Towels 2 Rolls 35c
Superfine Cut Green Beans 2 8-Oz. Cans 19c
Everbest - Dills - Kosher Dills or Sour Pickles 3 3½-Oz. Jars 29c
Ann Page Sparkle Mix For Ice Cream 3 4-Oz. Pkgs. 20c
N. B. C. Peanut Creme Patties 6-Oz. Pkg. 25c
Marcal Soda Straws Pkg. 5c
Pillsbury White - Chocolate - Yellow Cake Mix 3 Pkgs. $1.00
Rajah Shredded Cocoanut 4-Oz. Pkg. 14c
Picnic Shoestring Potatoes 4-Oz. Can 19c
Packers' Label Tomatoes 2 19-Oz. Cans 25c

FRESH FRUITS & VEGETABLES

Sweet Jumbo — 36's CANTALOUPES 2 For 35c
Sweet South Carolina Peaches 2 Lbs. 25c
California Red Plums Lb. 19c
Golden Crisp Carrots 1-Lb. Bag 12c
Firm Ripe Bananas 2 Lbs. 25c
Heavy with Juice Lemons Lb. 17c

CUSTOM GROUND to give you BETTER FLAVOR, BETTER VALUE!
Freshly-roasted A&P Coffee is Custom Ground when you buy just right for your coffeemaker . . . you get all the fine flavor you pay for! Yet, compared with others of like quality, it saves you up to 12c a pound!
Mild And Mellow Eight O'clock 1-Lb. Bag 81c
3-Lb. Bag $2.37
Rich & Full-Bodied RED CIRCLE 1-Lb. Bag 82c
Vigorous & Winey BOKAR 1-Lb. Bag 83c

ARMOUR'S MEATS
VIENNA SAUSAGE 4-Oz. Can 19c
ARMOUR'S TREET 12-Oz. Can 45c
CORNED BEEF 12-Oz. Can 49c
POTTED MEAT 5¼-Oz. Can 13c
CORNED BEEF HASH 16-Oz. Can 31c
DRIED SLICED BEEF 2½-Oz. Glass 29c
CHOPPED HAM 12-Oz. Can 57c
16-Ct. Pkg.

A&P's Vegetable SHORTENING dexo 3-Lb. Tin 77c 1-Lb. Tin 28c

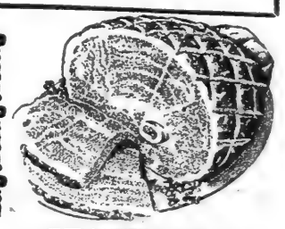
Tetley Tea 4-Oz. Pkg. 31c
TEA BAGS 16-Ct. 19c

Lava Soap Med. Bar 10c

Spic & Span 2 Pkgs. 47c

P&G Soap 2 Lge. Bars 15c



Peter Pan Salted Peanuts 7½-Oz. Glass 29c

★ Krey's Meat Products ★
With Brown Gravy Chopped Beef 10-Oz. Can 17c
With Brown Gravy Sliced Beef 16-Oz. Can 53c
With Brown Gravy Sliced Pork 16-Oz. Can 49c

Swift's JEWEL OIL Pt. Bot. 33c Qt. Bot. 63c

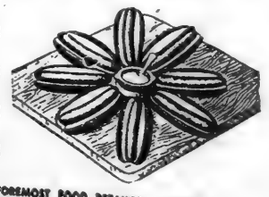
A & P'S "SUPER-RIGHT" MEATS



Morrell Pride Short Shank 12 to 14 Lb. Avg. Smoked Hams Half or Whole Lb. 67c
BUTT PORTION Lb. 63c SHANK PORTION Lb. 59c

"Super-Right" Cut-Up Pan Ready Fresh Fryers Lb. 47c

"Super-Right" Chuck Blade Pot Roast Lb. 39c
SWIFT PREMIUM FRANKS Lb. Pkg. 47c
FRESHLY GROUND BEEF Lb. 35c
SLICED ALL MEAT BOLOGNA Lb. 49c
PICKLE AND PIMENTO LOAF Lb. 49c

210 WEST FRANKLIN STREET

AMERICA'S FOREMOST FOOD RETAILER . . . SINCE 1859
A&P Super Markets
THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

These Prices Effective Thru Fri., July 3rd

WEATHER
Continued hot with 95 high. Yesterday's high, 93; low 67.

The Tar Heel

CLOCK
Ben Ben and Big John tangle. See poem on

What Goes

Class Ring Sale
A representative of the L. G.

UNC Given

TUESDAY, JULY 7, 1953 THE TAR HEEL PAGE FOUR

SHIFTED TO FULLBACK
Alternate captain Bob White of the football squad has been shift-

SHIFTED TO FULLBACK

Alternate captain Bob White of the football squad has been shifted from half back to fullback to give the latter position more depth. White is both a hard and elusive runner.

Always COOL-WEIL

Carolina

TODAY

he could kill a man with his hands... he's the kind of guy that women go for!

BODY and SOUL

JOHN GARFIELD · LILLI PALMER

'Body and Soul'

and introducing HAZEL BROOKS

WEDNESDAY

BURT LANCASTER

SHIRLEY BOOTH

in Hal Wallis' production

Come Back, Little Sheba

Co-starring TERRY MOORE with RICHARD JAECKEL

THURSDAY

UNC Given Money For Big Project

(Continued from page 1)

which political money flows, will take Dr. Heard to Washington, New York, and other parts of the country.

The project will be concerned with political financing on local, state, and national levels. Also tentatively planned as a special phase of the project is a limited comparative study of money in politics in Great Britain and Canada.

Dr. Heard has done extensive research in the field of political behavior, particularly in the area of Southern politics. In addition to writing "A Two-Party South?" he was collaborator with V. O. Key Jr., on "Southern Politics in State and Nation" published in 1949, and was co-editor with Donald S. Strong of "Southern Primaries and Elections," published in 1950.

A two-year study of political behavior in two North Carolina counties, under his direction, is nearing completion. This latter research was made possible by a grant to the University from the Ford Foundation.

Dr. Heard took his Ph.D. in political science at Columbia University.

Other members of the project staff includes Ernest E. Harrill (M. A. University of North Carolina and member of the policital science faculty of Furman University), research fellow, whose special interest is campaign finance in Canada, and Mrs. Peggy Cook, executive secretary, 1953 A.B. graduate in political science at the University of North Carolina.

CLASSIFIED

ANNOUNCEMENT

OLD AND RARE BOOKS — WE have 'em from three for a quarter on up to a month's rent. Browsing's fun. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St.

THE UNICORN BOOK SHOP Welcomes summer students to browse, might make a find among our many out of print books. Over SUTTON'S DRUG STORE dial 96173.

HELP WANTED

STUDENT EXPERIENCED IN Selling men's clothes to work part time. Apply manager of the Sport Shop, N. Columbia St.

SERVICES OFFERED

JOIN YOUR CLASSMATES AND others on the campus and bring your laundry here where you save money and get your laundry back, washed and dried in one hour. Washed in only 30 minutes. Shirts hand finished. You can't beat our service. Ask the boys who come here regularly. ROSEMARY AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY, 329 W. Rosemary St. Dial 5121.

WANTED

DRIVERS EAGER TO SAVE money on good gas. HI-WAY SERVICE STATION on Carrboro curve has regular at 20.4 and hi-test at 30.4. You can't beat it. Lube job only $1. Car wash only $1 or u-wash it for 50 cents.

Class Ring Sale

A representative of the L. G. Balfour jewlry company will be in the Y lobby today from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. to sell class rings.

The ring sale is sponored by the Order of the Grail.

FIRST SINCE 1913

Washington and Lee, a University of North Carolina football opponent for 1953, was met last by the Tar Heels in 1913 and defeated 14-0. The two teams met nine times in the old days, UNC winning four losing three, tying two.

NEW NUMBERS

The University gradually is working toward numbering football jerseys according to positions, in accordance with the current trend. Old boys, accustomed to certain numbers, will be permitted to keep them, but new candidates will be assigned numbers by positions.

What Goes On Here

Summer Activities Council

The summer Activities Council will meet from 7 to 8 p.m. tomorrow in the YMCA Cabinet Room.

Dancing Class

Free dancing classes in ballroom and square dancing are being given from 7 to 8:30 each Tuesday and Thursday nights on the terrace of Woollen Gym.

Get In The Swing

Several dormitories and other groups have had watermelon cuttings and similar activities for their members. Interested groups may obtain help in planning such functions, as well as some money to defray expenses, by contacting Peggy Riebel at the YMCA. Mrs. Riebel is summer activities coordinator.

BARGAINS

TO FIT YOUR BUDGET

Our Latest Shipment of Remainders at Prices You Can't Resist.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

OPEN EVENINGS

Closed Sundays During Summer

YEARS AHEAD OF THEM ALL!

1. Chesterfield Quality Highest. Recent chemical analyses give an index of good quality for the country's six leading cigarette brands.

The index of good quality table—a ratio of high sugar to low nicotine—shows Chesterfield quality highest

. . . 15% higher than its nearest competitor and Chesterfield quality 31% higher than the average of the five other leading brands.

2. No adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield. From the report of a medical specialist who has been giving a group of Chesterfield smokers regular examinations every two months for well over a year.

3. First with premium quality in both regular and king-size. Much Milder with an extraordinarily good taste — and for your pocketbook, Chesterfield is today's best cigarette buy.

Don't you want to try a cigarette with a record like this?

CHESTERFIELD BEST FOR YOU

Copyright 1953, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

CLOCK

Ben Ben and Big John tangle. See poem on p. 2.

The Tar Heel

WEATHER

Continued hot with 96 high. Yesterday's high, 93; low 67.

VOLUME 16 NUMBER 8 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, JULY 7, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

CAMPUS SEEN

Smith Dorm coed on desk duty closing door in faces of two girls and announcing on last note of 11 p.m. bell that "you're late."

Eyes as red as some of the 4th's tonics as classes get back in session after the weekend.

Student Union looking more inviting after an application of paint.

N. C., S. C. Lead Enrollment For Summer Session

An examination of the enrollment figures for the 1953 Summer Session composed of approximately 2,400 undergraduate and graduate students reveals some very interesting facts.

Forty states are represented in the enrollment with from one to 69 students represented. This, of course does not include North Carolina which has 1,898 of the Summer School students enrolled.

The state of South Carolina leads with 69 students, Virginia is second with 66 students, Florida is third with 55, and Georgia is fourth with 54. New York, Maryland, New Jersey, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Alabama come in next fairly large delegations.

Another interesting fact is that there are 22 of the students representing 18 different foreign countries. Puerto Rico has three, Cuba has two, China has two and the other sections one each. Students are here from Parkistan Germany, the Virgin Islands, Brazil, Chile, Denmark and Egypt.

There are 475 male veterans on G.I. benefits. There are eight women veterans with similar privileges. A total of 232 students are veterans but are not on the G.I. benefit list.

There are 935 non-veteran male students and 730 non-veteran women students.

The General College has an enrollment of 572 students, the College of Arts and Science has 416 enrolled, Business Administration has 181, and Education has 189. These are all undergraduate classifications.

The total number of graduate students enrolled including Public Health and Library Science is 719. Of this number 407 are enrolled for graduate work in the School of Education.

The enrollment in education includes elementary teachers, secondary teachers, supervisors of schools and principals of all divisions. It also includes a number of people in special categories of guidance, health education and special services.

Summer Cotillion Announcement

Plans Readied For Barefoot Ball Friday Afternoon At Hogan's

A unique item on the Summer's social agenda is scheduled for this Friday afternoon and night at Hogan's-by-the-lake.

It's the first annual Barefoot Ball, i.e. "midsummers" according to its sponsors, the Chapel Hill Summer Cotillion Club. The club is a new organization just chartered by some jack leg lawyers with the majority of the stock being held by a Tenneseean, Jack Daniels.

The ball will start at 3 p.m. and last until midnight. Music will be by Harold Nall and His Wild Men. Programs cost 75 cents and entitle their holders to admission for themselves and dates. The formal attire, as announced by Cotillion Grand Marshal Steve Trimble, is walking shorts and bare feet.

Others officials in the menagerie are assistant marshals Wood Smethurst of Alpha Tau Omega and Bill Hill of Delta Kappa Epsilon. Trimble is from Phi Delta Theta.

Marshals in absentia are Roger Kingsbury, Sonny Hood, Biff Roberts, Slick McClegnaham, Brooke Lawson and Don Charmichael.

Marshals are John Baldridge, Tom Ruffin, Jim Peerson, Walton Joyner, Fred Mewhinney, Joe O'Brien, E. C. Smith, Mort Cooper, Put Davis, Bob Page, Footsie Wallace and John Frazier.

Honorary sergeants with arms will be Jack Marcus and Nose Jones.

Theme for the occasion is printed on the back of the progarm, attributed to Aristotle. It says: "Let the good times roll."

Swim Party Slated Friday

The last all-campus party for the first session will be held Friday night from 7:30 to 11 o'clock.

Swimming will be in the outdoor pool from 7:30 to 9 and square and round dancing held afterward until 11 o'clock. The square dance will be called by Max Ballinger.

Watermelon will be served as refreshment. Mase Chapin, vice president of the YWCA and queen of the recent Watermelon Festival, is chairman of refreshments. The YWCA will furnish the melons.

Dr. Blackwell Is Elected To Town's School Board

Dr. Gordon Blackwell and Carl Smith were elected to six-year terms on the Chapel Hill school board at Monday evening's joint meeting of the aldermen and the school board. Mr. Smith succeeds himself, and Dr. Blackwell replaces Dr. Ed Hedgpeth, who recently resigned.

Dr. Blackwell is director of the University's Institute for Research in the Social Sciences.

$ In Politics To Be Studied By University

A grant of $60,000 from the Edgar Stern Family Fund has been awarded the Institute for Research in Social Science of the University for a three-year study of the role of money in contemporary American politics.

Director of the project will be Dr. Alexander Heard, professor of political science and research professor in the Institute for Research in Social Science. Dr. Heard is author of the recent book on southern politics, "A Two-Party South?"

The research will investigate not only the obvious role of money in campaigning for office, but also in the operation of political parties, in the functioning of special interest groups, and in the behavior of public officials, as well as the general failure of attempts by state and federal legislation to regulate political finances.

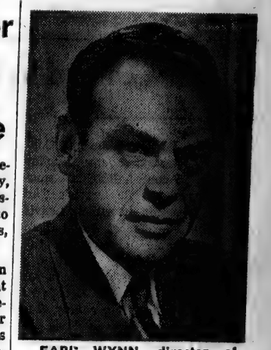
Previous work in this area has often been limited to the investigation of campaign finances and has depended in large part upon official sources for its data.

In this project, official or published sources will be used only in the preparatory stages of research; the main body of data for this study will be collected in the field by Dr. Heard. Personal interviews with political financial managers, the major channels through

(See UNC GIVEN, page 4)

Stuhlman, Heer Retiring After 60 Years Here

After a combined 60-year record of service to the University, Dr. Clarence Heer, Kenan professor of economics, and Dr. Otto Stuhlman Jr., professor of physics, are retiring from the faculty.



Dr. Heer joined the faculty in 1927 after receiving his Ph.D. at Columbia University the year before. He was honored last winter when he and seven other members of the School of Business Administaration were cited for 25 years or more service to the University.

A native of Rochester, Dr. Heer was educated at Rochester and Columbia Universities and at the University of Paris. Before coming to Chapel Hill he was real estate reporter for the Rochester Herald; served as a second lieutenant in the Army Air Force during World War I; did research in the personnel department, Thomas A. Edison Industries; was an economist for Western Union in New York; did research for the National Institute of Public Administration, New York, and taught econimics in the Brooklyn Law School Division, Columbia University.

During the winter of 1950, he served as fiscal consultant for ECA in Korea and was a member of the special presidential mission to Korea to advise on fiscal problems during the spring of 1952.

Dr. Stuhlman, a native of Germany, taught at Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N. J., and at the Universities of Pennsylvania, Iowa and West Virginia before coming to Chapel Hill in 1919. He became full professor in 1924.

Dr. Stuhlman received the Poteat Award presented by the North Carolina Academy of Science in 1947.

EARL WYNN, director of the University Communication Center, will speak on "A New Audience for Old Values" at 8:30 in Gerrard Hall tonight. It will be the Summer Session lecture for the Division of Humanities.

Three Movies Will Be Shown Tomorrow At 8

Three films will be shown tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Koch Outdoor Theatre across from the Monogram Club. Admission is free.

Movies to be shown are "Realm of the Wild," a story of U. S. wild life; "South Africa," depicting life of its people, in its cities and the like, and "Atomic Power," story of the atom.

Tom Wakefield is in charge of the program, which will last for about an hour. In case of rain the film festival will be held in Gerrard Hall.

The films are a weekly presentation of the Summer Activities Council. Anone with suggestions for titles should contact Wakefield or leave their suggestions with the YMCA office.

Harrer, Adams And Palmer Shifted

Dean Of Women Makes Personnel Changes

MISS HARRER

MRS. ADAMS

Several changes have been made in the staff of the Dean of Women's office.

Mrs. Hoyle B. Adams, formerly of Hendersonville has assumed the position of personnel adviser to women. Mrs. Adams has been assistant personal adviser since last September. She replaces Miss Marcella Harrer of Chapel Hill who has taken the position of Assistant Director of the University Service to succeed Miss Betsy Parker, who resigned to go into private business.

Mrs. William White Palmer of Lewisburg, W. Va., and Durham, has taken Mrs. Adams' place as assistant personnel adviser.

Mrs. Adams, the former Miss Katherine Durham, attended Ward Belmont College and the University of North Carolina.

The Tar Heel

The Tar Heel, published Tuesday and Friday during the first Summer Session and printed by The News Inc., Hillsboro, N. C., is the official publication of the Summer School of the University of North Carolina where it is published by the students.

STAFF—Al Shortt, Pete Adams, Tom Parramore, Rolfe Neill.

Conrad In Review

Norman Jarrard

On the back of Joseph Conrad's The Secret Agent (Anchor Book, 75 cents) there is a quotation from F. R. Leavis's The Great Tradition in which Leavis says that The Secret Agent is an unquestionable classic of the first order.

Thus the ostensible reason for reprinting The Secret Agent would be that it is a very fine novel. The real reason, however, is more likely the one revealed by the title.

A novel about secret agents, social revolutionaries, anarchists, and so forth, is very timely in view of present interest in such people. Conrad's story, as a matter fact, is based upon an actual happening in the 1880s (novel published in 1907), as Conrad tells us in his preface, with a few of the characters traceable to real people.

It is the story of an attempt to blow up the Greenwich Observatory. Mr. Vladimir, First Secretary of the Embassy of an unknown European power chooses that way of stirring up trouble it is "an act of destructive ferocity so absurd as to be incomprehensible, inexplicable, almost unthinkable." Adolf Verloc, the secret agent, is ordered to do the actual blowing-up.

Conrad's aim seems to be to show how this act led to a domestic tragedy in which Verloc, like Iago, is foiled in the end from an unexpected direction—by his wife. All of the characters are given full characterizations albeit sometimes in a rather too workmanlike manner Conrad seems to be at fault here. Possibly the only sympathetic treatment is given to Stevie, the half-wit brother of Verloc's wife Winnie and he may be a symbol.

Conrad takes pains to show that the other characters aren't what they seem or to make fun of them in other ways.

There is Karl Yundt, "the famous terrorist (who) had never in his life raised personally as much as his little finger against the social edifice."

Verloc, the famous secret agent, never does anything extravagant, is lazy, and has gotten "out of condition" by getting fat.

The famous Chief Inspector Heat owes his reputation to "unofficial" information he obtains from Verloc.

Of course, Conrad says that he chose to use the ironic method "in the earnest belief that ironic treatment alone would enable me to say all I felt I would have to say in scorn as well as in pity."

But he overdoes it, surely. Part of this is an overuse of paradox. For example, it is said of the "Professor" that "the lamentable inferiority of the whole physique was made ludicrous by the supremely self-confident bearing of the individual." At another place we read that "the mind and the instincts of a burglar are of the same kind as the mind and the instincts of a police officer" A character says, "You revolutionists are the slaves of the social convention."

It even affects style. We read of things like "ferocious discretion" and "eager indecision." The irony of several scenes, such as Winnie"s talk with Verloc about Stevie, and Ossipon's meeting with Winnie, is so lacking in subtlety that it is panful to read.

There are good points to the novel but they are certainly less obvious than what seem to be the bad ones. The picture of the explosive-making Professor approaches satire and is interesting as such. The caricatured Home Secretary who asks his callers to "avoid details" and to "be lucid" is a good job. However, Conrad implies that he tried to avoid caricature in characterization.

THE CLOCK

John Gibson

The campus chimes (with silvered tones.)
Strike quarter to the hour.
Fifteen minutes left to us
According to the tower.

The clock upon the restaurant wall
Reads twenty till eleven.
My wrist watch, on the other hand,
Gives us twenty seven.
The P. O. clock says fourteen to
And that is federal time,
Which every loyal soul should take
As a temporal paradigm.
My Best To You, says Jimmy Capps,
We've still got thirteen minutes,
So here's a pair of keyboard boys
Who'll play a couple spinets.
The gal I'm with, the cautious kind,
Has brought along a clock,
"When we get back", she says to me,
I'd just as soon not knock."
She'd set it by the time piece
In alderman's front hall,
And if Big Ben is working right,
There's still some time to stall.
Of course you know the ending,
And my little one's sad fate.
For with all our careful checking,
My baby got in late.
For Alderman has got a clock
(The one there by the sill)
That, no matter what the others say,
It reads later still.
By some strange secret process,
Perhaps atomic power.
That thing beats all the other clocks,
In racing for the hour.
Some day I'm going to test that clock,
And at ten return my date,
And yet I'll bet my next week's check,
She'll still be seconds late.

TODAY - WEDNESDAY

"Flame of Calcutta"

In Technicolor

Starring

DENISE DARCEL
PATRIC KNOWLES

THURSDAY

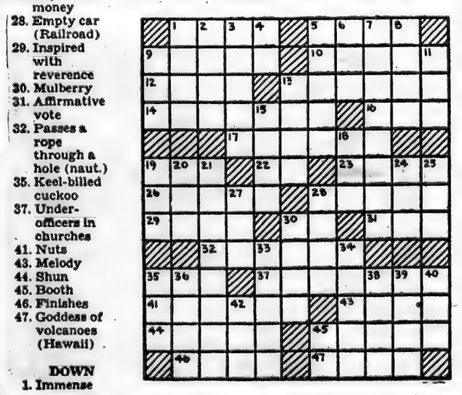
George Bernard Shaw's

"Androcles And The Lion"

Starring

VICTOR MATURE
JEAN SIMMONS
ROBERT NEWTON
ALAN YOUNG

Varsity



CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Book clasp
5. Drag
9. Swallows quickly
10. Sea eagles
12. Exchange premium
13. Agree
14. Corrects
16. Malabar measure
17. Tags
19. Exclamation
22. Buddha (Chin. name)
23. River (Fr.)
26. Pay, as money
28. Empty car (Railroad)
29. Inspired with reverence
30. Mulberry
31. Affirmative vote
32. Passes a rope through a hole (naut.)
35. Keel-billed cuckoo
37. Underofficers in churches
41. Nuts
43. Melody
44. Shun
45. Booth
46. Finishes
47. Goddess of volcanoes (Hawaii)

DOWN
1. Immense
2. Arabic letter
3. Bobbin
4. Postscript (abbr.)
5. State (Ger.)
6. Land-measures
7. Restlessly
8. Furnish temporarily
9. Pikelike fish
11. Pig pen
13. Raised desk (Early Churches)
15. Float
18. Weight (Dan.)
19. Constellation
20. Chop, as wood
21. Of the United States of America
24. Observe
25. Bitter vetch
27. Fish
28. The holm oak
30. Birds, as a class
33. Anglo-Saxon serfs
34. Declare
35. Mimic
36. Granular glacial snow
38. Verbal
39. Team of baseball players
40. Unhappy
42. Sum up
45. Spain (abbr.)

Yesterday's Answer

Say—

Tried the best steaks in town? You haven't unless you've tried The Pines. Also: Seafood that Slept in the ocean last night.

THE PINES

On The Raleigh Road

DON'T MISS THE SPORT SHOP'S MID - SUMMER CLEARANCE

SALE

YOU CERTAINLY DON'T WANT TO PASS UP THIS CHANCE OF A LIFETIME TO SAVE 20% TO 50% ON NATIONALLY ADVERTISED BRAND NAME MEN'S WEAR AND ACCESSORIES . . . EVERYTHING IS SPANKING NEW — NO OLD WORN MERCHANDISE — NOTHING THAT'S BEEN "LEFT OVER." COME I FIRST THING THIS MORNING AND SAVE YOUR HARD - EARNED CASH IN OUR ANNUAL MID - SUMMER CLEARANCE SALE!

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

AIR-CONDITIONED FOR YOUR COMFORT

Alive & Kicking

Contrary to rumor, Dr. J. P. Harland of archaelogy fame has not been involved in a serious auto wreck in Pennsylvania.

The editor saw him yesterday alive and kicking, in front of the post office.

LETTERMEN LINEMAN

The University will have seven lettermen guard and the same number of tackles on its 1953 football squad.

GLASSES FITTED
AND
REPAIRED

Fast Accurate Service in Our Own Laboratary

CITY OPTICAL CO.
121 E. Franklin St.
Tel. 3566

Carolina Caravan

Jake Wade

A day was spoiled by the discovery that Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page was born in East Orange, N. J., instead of right in Chapel Hill, where she has lived all her life . . . Why? . . . Because Helms Athletic Foundation in Los Angeles, picking the "Greatest Woman Athlete" of each state, was about to designate Estelle for that honor from North Carolina when the technically bobbed up . . . It's a technically because Estelle's parents were living and paying taxes here at the time of her birth and her mother merely went back to her own home "To have the baby", promptly returning and rearing the national golf champion-to-be in Chapel Hill, North Carolina . . . Not sure what Helm's ruling will be, under these not unsual Circumstances, but wouldn't it be ironical if Tar Heel Estelle is named "Greatest Woman Athlete" of New Jersey? . . . incidentally, New Jersey's famed Maureen Orcutt actually was born in New York.

ALWAYS WON . . Bill Lange, the former cororful Carolina football-Basketball coach who last week died in Columbus, Ohio, had the unique distinction of never playing on a football team that lost a game . . . As a high school player for four seasons his team was undefeated and then he went on to Wittenberg College and played there on a team which had a similar run of undefeated seasons. . . .Bill's death was especially saddening to O. K. (Ollie) Cornwell, Carolina's chairman of physical education and athletics, because the two had been intimate friends for many years, dating from their own college days.

HOSPITAL VIGNETTE . When Harvie Ward, the former Tar Heel golf captain, was recently hospitalized in Durham, he had lots of company, including his charming mother and wife . . . The latter two were constantly with him, but one night after dinner they mysteriously disappeared .. . .It was late, with visiting hours closed and other guest departed, when Harvie, somewhat concerned, sent nurses out to try to locate them . . . finally they appeared, said that they had made a tour of the hospital and, while circulating about the premises, passed the blood-bank room. Harvie's bride decided to donate a pint of blood, and did . . . Harvie came through his mastoid operation with flying colors, expects to be in the best of shape for the Walker cup matches .

COMINGS AND GOINGS Ralph Casey, Carolina's swimming coach is a Yaleman. This summer . . . . Ralph was awarded a scholarship to the Ivy league school by the State . . . .Carolina trainer Fitz Lutz is back from vacation and taking bows for being named chairman of The College Trainers Association . . . .Incidentally, in listing recently some of Carolina's athletic men who had headed their national associations in recent years, we neglected to mention that Dick Jamerson was president of the College Swimming Coaches Association in 1949-50.

THIS AND THAT If Francis Fredere dosen't make his senior year the big one a Carolina lina tackle, it won't be because he hasn't worked hard to get ready . . .The big Wilmington boy so doubtfully endowed with nature's qualifications for playing football, has been contesting Coach Marvin Bass on the handball courts for conditioning and recreation . . . Tar Hoel opponents can take notice: Fredere's interest in football apparently has been completely revitalized . . . There's a justice around in summer transferred from Tampa to Clearwater.

PERMANENT WAVES OF LASTING BEAUTY

MR. SNOTHERLY
In Our
Raleigh Salon

Durham, N. C.
Mr. Angelo—Stylist
Miss Rabon—Stylist

Raleigh, N. C.
Mr. Snotherly—Stylist

La Marick Permanent Waves

Super Deluxe Creme Oil Cold Wave ..... 25.00 Value 9.95
DeLuxe Creme Oil Cold Wave ..... 15.00 Value 6.95
Custom Creme Oil Cold Wave ..... 12.50 Value 5.95

(Stylists' Prices Slightly Higher)

We feature only professional and nationally advertised supplies such as Fashion Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Clairol, Revlon and La Marick Cold Wave.

TEMPO PERMANENT ..... $10 up

Each Wave Includes
- Personality Haircut
- Shaping & Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curl
- Oily Neutralizer
- Setting
- Creme Rinse
- Free Consultation

Anytime is Coffee Time with NESCAFE
Complimentary in Our Salon

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
PHONE DURHAM 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
PHONE RALEIGH 3-1726
LaMARICK SHOPS

CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

G Y H D S Y D X N U J L H J Q Y A J G Y H X N J Q Q K A O Y M N, Y H O Q Z E E J Q D L J Z U E K — W J U.

THIS IS IT

SALE

This is the right time to buy the right Clothes at the right price.

While you still have 3 months to enjoy them, take your pick of these extra choice clothes at absolutely wholesale cost. Milton doesn't want to carry over a single summer item. No special purchases - all part of our choice regular stock.

Check the following list carefully and you'll see what I mean.

Moygashel Irish linen Suits, $60.00 value, reduced to 32.99
Viscose linen Suits, wonderfully crease resistant, cut from 35.00 to 22.99
Moygashel Irish linen Slacks reduced from 13.95 to 9.99
Viscose linen Slacks reduced from 8.95 to 5.99
Baby cord sanforized cotton Slacks reduced to 5.99
Shell cordovan loafers, never before on sale, reduced from 15.95 to 10.99
Choice calfskin Shoes, fully leather lined $15.00 value, reduced to 6.99
Large group of other Shoes including many cordovans, drastically cut
Our specially made basket weave dress Shirts reduced from 5.00 to only 2.99
$7.00 long sleeve sport Shirts cut to 3.99
Our exclusive oxford gray tropical worsted slacks, $20.00 value, cut to 12.99
$4.00 short sleeve sport Shirts cut to 2.99
Entire stock year round suits and sport coats, nothing held back, cut 20% off list price
Sanforized denim Suits and regular cotton cord suits reduced from 24.50 to 16.99
Dan River Wrinkle-Shed baby cord cotton Suits reduced from 24.50 to 19.99
Large group polo Shirts, cotton, values to 3.50 cut to 1.99

Slight charge for alterations - All Sales CASH

Take this opportunity to discover why Milton's is known throughout the state.

Milton's Clothing Cupboard

—Madry—

(Continued from page 1)

with a gift, and several speakers, among them Ross Bartley of the University of Indiana, lauded the UNC publicity director. Bartley said:

"As publicity director of the Univeristy of North Carolina, where he has rounded out 30 years of distinguished service to his alma mater; as mayor of Chapel Hill for four terms; as district governor of Rotary International; as a former president of this association, and as an all-round good fellow, Bob Madry has compiled a record of outstanding achievement that this association views with great pride."

During sessions of the convention, the association's 36th annual affair, Madry led two panel discussions and was chairman of the nominating committee for new officers.

He has headed UNC's publicity outlet since 1923.

Last Issue Tuesday

Tuesday's Tar Heel will be the last for this Summer.

Due to financial limitations the paper is published only during the first session each year. Deadline for copy is noon Monday in the paper's offices on second floor Graham Memorial.

Men's Dorms Fete Coeds With Picnics This Week

Several male dormitories have been holding picnics for coed residence halls.

Last night Spencer Dormitory was entertained by the boys from Winston Dormitory with a weenie roast at Hogan's Lake. Softball preceeded the picnic part of it. Working on the project were Dot Curran, Max Ballinger, Howard Tickle, Harold Remond, Tommy Hopkins, LaRue Smith, Jack Parks, Ann Parsons, Dot Smothers and Scottie Dickinson. The picnic lasted from 6 to 11 p.m.

Some 75 people attended another outdoor gathering held this week when Old East and West invited the ladies from Smith Dormitory. After a picnic by Navy Field they danced on the terrace of Woollen Gym. Helping out were Bill Venable, Mickey Rouse, Bill Formyduval, Tatum Sparger, Helen Faust, Pat Sewell, Ray Rich, Jackie Batten, Taylor Williams and Betty Shockley.

Room Reservations

Those who have not reserved rooms for the second Summer Session should do so immediately by contacting the Housing Office in New East Annex.

Housing Administrator James Wadsworth yesterday reminded Summer School students that it is necessary to make a separate $6 deposit to reserve a room for the Fall. Most of the rooms for the Fall already are taken, he said.

Dance Saturday Night

Ten trainees in public health here will be given a dance tomorrow night from 8 to 11:30 on the Woollen Gym terrace.

Guest Minister

The Rev. Bernard Munger, formerly pastor of the Congreational Christain Church here, will preach Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service of the Baptist Church. Presently he is pastor of a Presbyterian church in Corinth, Miss. Sunday night BSU's program will be on "Baptist Distinctives."

CLASSIFIED

ANNOUNCEMENT

OLD AND RARE BOOKS — WE have 'em from three for a quarter or up to a month's rent. Browsing's fun. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St.

THE UNICORN BOOK SHOP Welcomes summer students to browse, might make a find among our many out of print books. Over SUTTON'S DRUG STORE dial 96173.

HELP WANTED

QUALIFIED STUDENT HELP TO work part time at Graham Memorial Student Union during the next Summer Session and this Fall. Contact Director Jimmy Wallace or the GM office.

SERVICES OFFERED

JOIN YOUR CLASSMATES AND others on the campus and bring your laundry here where you save money and get your laundry back, washed and dried in one hour. Washed in only 30 minutes. Shirts hand finished. You can't beat our service. Ask the boys who come here regularly. ROSEMARY AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY, 329 W. Rosemary St. Dial 5121.

WANTED

DRIVERS EAGER TO SAVE money on good gas. HI-WAY SERVICE STATION on Carrboro curve has regular at 29.4 and hi-test at 30.4. You can't beat it. Lube job only $1. Car wash only $1 or u-wash it for 50 cents.

THIS IS IT

SALE

This is the right time to buy the right Clothes at the right price.

While you still have 3 months to enjoy them, take your pick of these extra choice clothes at absolutely wholesale cost. Milton doesn't want to carry over a single summer item. No special purchases — all part of our choice regular stock.

Check the following list carefully and you'll see what I mean.

Moygashel Irish linen Suits, $60.00 value, reduced to	32.99
Viscose linen Suits, wonderfully crease resistant, cut from 35.00 to	22.99
Moygashel Irish linen Slacks reduced from 13.95 to	9.99
Viscose linen Slacks reduced from 8.95 to	5.99
Baby cord sanforized cotton Slacks reduced to	5.99
Shell cordovan loafers, ne ar before on sale, reduced from 15.95 to	10.99
Choice calfskin Shoes, fully leather lined $15.00 value, reduced to	6.99
Large group of other Shoes including many cordovans, drastically cut
Our specially made basket weave dress Shirts reduced from 5.00 to only	2.99
$7.00 long sleeve sport Shirts cut to	3.99
Our exclusive oxford gray tropical worsted slacks, $20.00 value, cut to	12.99
$4.00 short sleeve sport Shirts cut to	2.99
Entire stock year round suits and sport coats, nothing held back, cut 20% off list price
Sanforized denim Suits and regular cotton cord Suits reduced from 24.50 to	16.99
Dan River Wrinkle-Shed baby cord cotton Suits reduced from 24.50 to	19.99
Large group polo Shirts, cotton, values to 3.50 cut to	1.99

SLIGHT CHARGE FOR ALTERATIONS—ALL SALES CASH

Take this opportunity to discover why Milton's is known throughout the state.

Milton's Clothing Cupboard

Always COOL INSIDE

Carolina

TODAY & SATURDAY

STARRING PAUL CHRISTIAN • PAULA RAYMOND CECIL KELLAWAY • KENNETH TOBEY JACK PENNICK

Screen Play by LOU MORHEIM and FRED FREIBERGER

Suggested by the sensational SATURDAY EVENING POST story by RAY BRADBURY

SUNDAY — MONDAY

You'll Always Find a Cool Breeze and a Warm Welcome in

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

OPEN EVENINGS

Closed Sundays During Summer

BERMAN'S July CLEARANCE SALE

All Summer Merchandise Greatly Reduced

LADIES' BATHING SUITS ⅓ OFF

Wide Assortment of Ladies SANDALS Many Styles $2.98 pr.

LADIES' DRESSES ⅓ OFF

MEN'S BONDSHIRE BRAND SHOES Formerly Priced up to $12 Now as Low as $6.98 pr.

Crosby Square Shoes For Men $5 pr.

SAMSONITE LUGGAGE In All Colors

Other Luggage at Lower Prices

BERMAN'S DEPARTMENT STORE

COW

R. W. C. saddles up and rides again. See p. 2.

The Tar Heel

WEATHER

Continued hot with 92 high. Yesterday's high 91; low, 71.

VOLUME 16 NUMBER 9 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, JULY 10 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

'Let The Good Times Roll' Motif For Barefoot Ball Today & Night

The theme is "Let the Good Times Roll" and the date is today.

This afternoon at 3'oclock the Chapel Hill Cotillion Club will give its "Barefoot Ball" at Hogan's-by-the-lake. All are invited and admission is by program. Programs may be bought at the gate or from any of the marshals for 75 cents.

Beating out some crazy tunes will be Harold Nall and His Wild Men. ormal attire will be walking shorts and bare feet.

Grand Marshal for the occasion is Steve Trimble of Phi Delta Theta. The day's grand prize will go to the individual who can solve the riddle of BYOL.

Other officials in the menagerie are assistant marshalls Wood Smethurst of Alpha Tau Omega and Bill Hill of Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Marshals in absentia are Roger Kingsbury, Sonny Hood, Biff Roberts, Slick McClegnaham, Brooke Lawson and Don Charmichael.

Marshals are John Baldridge, Tom Ruffin, Jim Peerson, Walton Joyner, Fred Mewhinney, Joe O'Brien, E. C. Smith, Mort Cooper, Put Davis, Bob Page, Footsie Wallace and John Frazier.

Honorary sergeants with arms will be Jack Marcus and Nose Jones.

Municipal Executives' Meeting Opens Here Today For 2 Days

The fifth annual Municipal Executives Conference opened here today at 3 o'clock. It will be a two-day meeting.

Hubert Henderson, recreation director at Thomasville, president of the Municipal Division of the North Carolina Recreation Society, is program chairman. The University Extension Division's Bureau of Recreation, headed by Dr. Harold D. Meyer, will be host to the group.

The conference will be featured by panel discussions. At the opening session this afternoon "Planning and Evaluation" will be the topic with William T. Robertson, Morganton, as chairman. Other participants will be Warren Carroll, Greenville, Walter Parker, Hickory, and John Tate, Newton.

"Directors Problems" will be discussed tonight with Glenn Bannerman, Whiteville, serving as chairman and Augusta Barnett, Asheville, participating.

Selwyn Orcutt, Fayetteville, will serve as chairman of a discussion of "Certification" tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Bill Faxy, Kinston, and Robert Hartley, Shelby, will assist him. General topics will be discussed by chairman J. Willis Nealy, Gastonia, Betty Gabriel, Lincolnton, and Joe Davidson, Burlington.

At 10 o' clock tomorrow morning meeting of the directors of the State Recreation Society will be held. All sessions will be in the Naval Armory.

Nursing, Public Health Students To Be Honored

Students in the Nursing School and School of Public Health will be guests of the Planetarium Monday night for its new show, "Trip to the Moon."

After the movie they will be feted at a reception in Graham Memorial's Rendezvous Room.

The Planetarium regularly invites different campus groups to showings of each new presentation. Manager Anthony Jenzano will conduct the group on a tour of the facilities.

Opens Monday

Conference On Insurance Set For University

A two-week Institute For Advanced Life Underwriting will open at the University Monday continuing through July 24. This is the second annual institute of this type.

It is sponsored by the North Carolina Association of Life Underwriters and the University.

The first week, July 13-17, will be devoted to discussions of formula programming and timely sales ideas and the second week, 20-24, will be devoted to business insurance, taxes and estate planning.

A. R. (Bert) Jaqua, director, Institute of Insurance Marketing, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas, will serve as director of the institute. Other faculty members will be Clarence R. Darling and Sam G. Shackelford, both of Southern Methodist University. They will be assisted by guest lecturers including attorney's trust officers and selected Life Underwriters.

Attendance is limited to full time representatives of legal reserve life insurance companies. Those attending the first week of the institute must have had at least one year of successful experience and those attending the second week must have had at least two years of successful experience.

CAMPUS SEEN

Carr Dorm coed explaining her lateness with: "He told me it was o. k. to stay out past the curfew if I was with someone." It really happened.

*

Male trio practicing golf driving in late afternoon on lawn in front of geography building.

*

Economics instructor and wife wistfully comparing government teaching salaries listed in Post Office with that he brings home from the University.

Dance Planned For Graduates Tomorrow At 8

Graduate students and their friends are invited to the Rendezous Room of Graham Memorial tomorrow night for the first graduate dance of the Summer Session Dancing will began at 8 o'clock and last until 11:30 p.m.

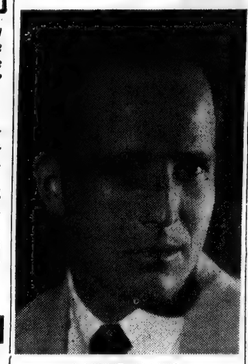
The Summer Activities Council is sponsoring and financing the dance. Chairman Annie Tom Sowell of Carr Dormitory said that the dance is informal and everyone is welcome, with or without a date. This is the first social gathering of graduate students this session and all of graduate age are invited whether enrolled in the Graduate School or not.

Margie Ballard, Duncan Brackin, and Sam Duncan are in charge of publicity. .

Phi Delta Kappa Education Frat At UNC Initiates Twenty-Four

Twenty - four educators have been initiated into Beta Theta chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, national educational fraternity here.

The initiation ceremonies were followed by a banquet at Lenoir Hall in honor of the new members at which Dean Thomas H. Carroll of the School of Business Administration was guest speaker.



JIMMY WALLACE, who last week assumed the duties of director of Graham Memorial. Wallace will have his first meeting since taking over with the GM board of directors, Tuesday at 3 p.m. in the Grail Room.

Those initiated were William L. Anderson Jr., assistant principal, Charlotte Technical High School; Lawrence H. Arney, teacher, Hudson Schools; Harold A. Bentley Jr.,graduate student, UNC; Ralph A. Bostian, teacher, Granite Quarry; Moses Bridges Jr., assi-H. Carriker, teacher, Chapel Hill stant principal, Lewisville; Heath Schools; Charles N. Clark, principal, Shepherds School, Mooresville: Johnnie T. Colones, teacher and coach, Eli Whitney School, Alamance County.

A. C. Dawson Jr., superintendent of schools, Southern Pines; R. B. Gordon, district principal, Nash County; Harold M. Guyot, principal, William R. Davie School,

(See INITIATES, page 2)

Community Sing Sunday Night Will Be Led By Lanier Davis

LANIER DAVIS

Tom Carroll Emcees Program; To Be Held At 8 In Front Of GM

Another Community Sing is planned for Sunday night at 8 o'clock in front of Graham Memorial.

Song leader and soloist will be Lanier Davis, a Carolina graduate of 1950 and presently working with the Admissions Office. While here Davis a member of the Glee Club, in the Playmakers, a cheerleader, a member of th "Harmoneers" and the "Belltones."

In December, 1951 he joined the road show of "South Pacific" as a member of the cast. He will leave the employment of the University this month to return to New York and the theatre.

Ann Beebe Davis will be her husband's accompanist at the piano. She is the sister of pianist Hank Beebe who was in the "Belltones" with Davis. She and Davis preformed at the recent Watermelon Festival.

Master of ceremonies for Sunday's sing will be Tom Carroll. Carroll is another UNC graduate. He majored in radio here and is working for WCHL as an announcer.

The Community Sing is sponsored by the Summer Activities Council. It will be canceled if it rains.

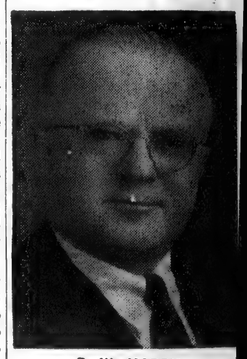
Swim, Dance Are Tonight

The campus' last swimming party for this session will be held tonight in Kessing outdoor pool at the gym.

The aquatic end of it will last from 7:30 to 9 and square dancing will beheld afterward in the Y Court until about 11 o'clock. Max Ballinger will do the calling.

Refreshments, presided over by Watermelon Queen Mase Chapin, will be served.

It's all free and all sponored by the Summer Activities Council.



Music will come from folk tuner Bob Cole and his aggregation, namely E. J. Padgett, Ed Norwood and Pete Yarnell.

UNC Publicist Is Honored By Associates

Robert W. Madry, director of the University News Bureau, recently was praised by his fellow publicitists at the annual meeting of the American College Public Relations Association in Salt City, Utah.

The association presented Madry

(See MADRY, page 4)

R. W. MADRY

The Tar Heel

The Tar Heel, published Tuesday and Friday during the first Summer Session and printed by The News Inc., Hillsboro, N. C., is the official publication of the Summer School of the University of North Carolina where it is published by the students.

STAFF: Al Harrison, Al Shortt, Tom Parramore, Rolfe Neill

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others. . ." Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

THE HORSE was hiding in some bushes near the Arboretum and issuing unhorsely sounds, indeed.

"Moo! Mou-ou! Mou-ou-ou!"

Where did he think he was, we wondered? Cow College?

"I'm trying to fool the National Administration," he said, clicking his eight-ball eyes at me and snatching a faceful of crape myrtle. "I'm trying to sound like a Worthy Devastated Area."

We thought he would look like one if he didn't stop eating the crape mytle.

"This," he said through loud chompings, "is Lager-stroemia indica. Look it up, Bud."

So what if it was the textbook name for it?

"I don't interfere when you are working on your Lager," he said reproachfully. "So kindly do not interfere with mine. Moo Moooo-ou-ooooou!" He gave it up after a bit and sprawled on the ground next to me. "Cows are privileged people, and that is no bull."

How did he figure that?

"Dincha see how Ezra Taft Benson beat it down to Texas to weep over the cowses and the calfses when the drought hit the Lone Star State, But what did he say when North Carolina got hit by hail and wanted to plant some peanuts out of the unused goober allotment?"

What had the Secretary of Agriculture said?

"He said 'Peanuts to you-all.' And in a way you can't blame him. The hungry children of North Carolina farmers are not nearly so appealing as hungry cowses and calves. Besides, North Carolina was not included in the Second Louisiana Purchase. Also this Be-Kind-to-Cattle gesture will line up a lot of Western Democratic Senatorial votes."

Well, I was glad The Horse wasn't claiming any part of this was because Ike was from Texas. Or was it Kansas? No! It was Pennsylvannia he was from, wasn't it?

"Where was he speaking at the time he made the claim?" The Horse horsed. "Aw, it's all part of our losing the Mexican Border War in 1916."

But we won that!

"Yeah?" The Horse asked, Picking his teeth with a hoof. "I thought we fought the Mexicans to make them take Texas back. I wonder if the Mayor of Carrboro knows about this?"

That was beside the point.

"I suppose, in a way, you could say The Bull is the real symbol of the Republicans," The Horse mused, "so you can't blame them for running to the help of a state that has more bull to the square inch than Argentina has to the square mile."

Was he insinuating that midgets were Texans with the air let out of them? But come to think of it, didn't Teddy Roosevelt pose as a Rough Rider? Teddy, the Bull Moose Leader?

"He was one," The Horse said. "Or at least what passed for a rough rider until Pop-Gun MacKay, Chillin' Charlie Wilson, and Bad Ben Benson started to putting on their rodeo stunts. Yeah, it sure is sad to see the changes that forty years can bring."

As for example?

" From Bull Moose to Bull Mouse in one generation," The Horse sighed. He scrambled to his feet and said, "Well, I got to get to work again. I see some prospects of relief, yet. Moo! Moo-ou-ou!"

The poor, myopic Horse!

Fun Spots

John Gibson

Golf is a sado- maochistic game in which otherwise normal people beat the very devil out of a small harmless white ball. The ball, on its part, achieves some measure of revenge by rarely going where it is supposed to. This just makes the golfer madder and so the cycle gets even more intense.

I have always liked the idea of playing golf, but all that walking does not appeal to me. I have been waiting for someone to compress a golf course into a small yard. At last this has been done.

If you hike out on the air-port road a little ways, you will run into Chapel Hill's only miniature golf course. It is located right next door to the Ranch House, and is open from 7 to 11 every night except Monday. It is being run by the local chapter of a business woman's sorority and the proceeds will go to the cancer fund. So you can have some inexpensive fun (two bits for 18 holes) and help a good cause all at the same time.

Par for the course is 43, so you can easily shoot in the 70's. If you don't mention to your friends that you were playing miniature golf, 70 or so is a right respectable score. (And who ever tells their friends all the details of a golf game.) There is lots of parking space, and if you become completely overpowered by thirst you can run next door to the Ranch House and pick up a Coke. (I think the Ranch House sells Cokes.) Most folks like to go out in a group, with a foursome being the preferred arrangement. This provides company, and also you have someone to back you up in case you shoot a real good game. If you do go in a group, try and be the one who keeps score. This itself is worth about five strokes. (So far as I know, "correctin" a golf score is not an honor code offense.)

Anyone who can go around the whole course in 18 strokes will have his (or her) name printed in The Daily Tar Heel. This is about the highest honor that a person can hope for. Good Luck.

—Initiates—

(Continued from page 1)

Roanoke Rapids; Charles Lee Griffith, graduate student, UNC; Gilbert A. Hoffman Jr., elementary principal, Greenwood, S. C.; Vernie F. Horton, principal, Aquadale School, Norwood.

Asa Jackson, teacher, Ft. Bragg; Ralph Kleinspehn Jr., director of athletics, Fillmore Central School, Fillmore, N. Y.; William C. Lee, teacher, Aberdeen City Schools; John H. McClure, assistant principal, Stanley High School; James E. Merritt, principal, Marigold, Miss.; Don H. Parker, reading consultant, School of Education, UNC; J. O. Payne, Derita Junior High School, Charlotte; Charles E. Russell Jr., graduate student, UNC William S. Swiers, principal, Gastonia Junior High School and Thomas F. Templeton, head social studies department, Fayetteville High School.

Varsity

NOW SHOWING

Towering over all!

HOWARD HAWKS'

THE BIG SKY

co-starring

KIRK DOUGLAS

DEWEY MARTIN

ELIZABETH THREATT

ARTHUR HUNNICUTT

Distributed by RKO RADIO PICTURES

SATURDAY-SUNDAY-MONDAY

That Talking Mule and Donald O'connor are BACK in a brand new HIT!

JULY CLEARANCE

SALE

NOW GOING ON

DRASTIC REDUCTIONS ON ALL SUMMER MERCHANDISE

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

AIR-CONDITIONED FOR YOUR COMFORT

BEAT THE HEAT WITH A&P's

Swell Buys

FOR SWELTERING DAYS!

A&P

Orange Juice - Packer's Label 46-Oz. Can 24c

Iona Peaches - - Halves or Sliced No. 2½ 29-Oz. Can 25c

Kleenex Facial Tissues - - - - - 2 300 Sheet Pkgs. 37c

Save on A&P's Farm Fresh

Fruits & Vegetables

California Red Plums Lb. 19c

Sweet Jumbo Cantaloupes, 2 for 35c

Crisp Golden Carrots - - - - 1-lb. Bag 12c

Sweet Juicy Peaches - - 2 lbs. 25c

Nice Juicy Lemons - - - Lb. 17c

Fine Yellow Onions - - - 2 lbs. 11c

Salted Jumbo Peanuts - - - 8-Oz. Pkg. 23¢

Ocean Spray Cranberry Sauce - - - 16-Oz. Can 19c

White House Dry-Nonfat Milk Solids - - - 7-Oz. Pkg. 15c

Swift's Jewel Oil Pt. Bot. 33c Qt. Bot. 59c

A&P Pineapple Juice - - - 46-Oz. Can 30c

Home Style Pickled Beets - - - 16-Oz. Jar 19c

Mustard Turnip or Collard Greens - - - 15½-Oz. Can 10c

Burry's Vanilla Wafers - - - 8-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Our Own Hearty & Vigorous Tea - - - - 1-Lb. Pkg. 69¢

Pie Crust Flako 9-Oz. Pkg. 17c

Tenderleaf Tea 4-Oz. Pkg. 31c

Bug Killer Real Kill Pt. Bot. 69c Qt. Bot. $1.19

Boraxo 8-Oz. Pkg. 19c

20 Mule Team Borax 16-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Libby's Canned Meats

Corned Beef Hash	16-Oz. Can	31c
Vienna Sausage	4-Oz. Can	19c
Deviled Ham	3-Oz. Can	20c
Corned Beef	12-Oz. Can	49c
Potted Meat	5½-Oz. Can	13c
Beef Tripe	11-Oz. Can	25c
Roast Beef	12-Oz. Can	55c

Jane Parker—Large Angel Food RING - - - Large Cake 49c

Chicken of The Sea—Bite Size TUNA 3½-Oz. Can 20c 6½-Oz. Can 33c

Blu White Flakes - - - Pkg. 9c

Camay Soap - - - - 3 Reg. Bars 22c

Joy Dish Washer - - - 7-Oz. Bot. 29c

Crisco - - - 1-Lb. Tin 32c 3-Lb. Tin 89c

Lux Flakes - Reg. Pkg. 12c Lge. Pkg. 27c

Spry - - - - - 1-Lb. Tin 32c 3-Lb. Tin 89c

Silver Dust - Lge. Pkg. 28c Gt. Pkg. 55c

Lifebuoy Soap - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c

Lifebuoy Soap - - - 2 Bath Bars 23c

For Dependable Satisfying Quality, A&P's Famous "Super-Right" Meats are

Your Best Meat Buys!

"Super-Right" Heavy Western Beef Sirloin Steak - - - - - Lb. 79c

"Super-Right" Boneless Brisket—Rolled Pot Roast - - - - - - - Lb. 59c

"Super-Right" bone in Plate Stew - - - - - - Lb. 15c

"Super-Right" Freshly Ground Beef - - - - - Lb. 35c

Smoked Short Shank, 4 to 6-lb. Avg. Pork Shoulder Picnics - - - - Lb. 45c

Choice Milk Fed—Cubed or Tenderized Veal Steak - - - - - - Lb. 75c

Sliced Pickle and Pimento Loaf - - - - - Lb. 49c

Sliced Spiced Luncheon Meat - - - - - Lb. 49c

Nice Thick Fat Backs - - - - - - Lb. 17¢

★ EXTRA SPECIAL ★

Sultana Sliced PINEAPPLE 2 No. 2 20-Oz. Cans 47c

Ann Page Sandwich Spread - - Pint Jar 29c

Ann Page Strawberry Preserves - 12-Oz. Glass 29c

Sultana Small Stuffed Olives - - - - 5½-Oz. Jar 29c

Ann Page Pure Honey - - - - - - 1-Lb. Jar 29c

Duff's or Pillsbury Mix For HOT ROLLS 2 Pkgs. 49c

AMERICA'S FOREMOST FOOD RETAILER SINCE 1859

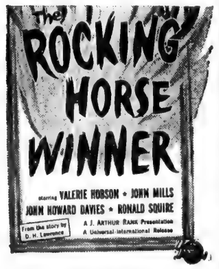
A&P Super Markets

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

These Prices Effective Thru Sat., July 11th

210 WEST FRANKLIN ST.

Carolina



TODAY

Stewart Granger
Deborah Kerr
In
"KING SOLOMON'S MINES"

WEDNESDAY

M-G-M presents
A SLIGHT CASE OF LARCENY
starring MICKEY ROONEY • EDDIE BRACKEN
ELAINE STEWART

THURSDAY

FRIDAY

M-G-M's spectacular fun-in-Sun Valley Musical in color by TECHNICOLOR!

SATURDAY

SUNDAY - MONDAY

NOTHING EVER LIKE IT IN NATURAL VISION
3DIMENSION
WARNER BROS. ASTOUNDING FEATURE PICTURE!
HOUSE OF WAX
color by WARNERCOLOR
starring VINCENT PRICE · FRANK LOVEJOY · PHYLLIS KIRK

Carolina Cashes In: Visiting Prof Has High Praise For Students

By Al Harrison

Each Summer the University welcomes a host of visiting professors to the campus. This year the University of Florida's loss was Carolina's gain when Joe S. Floyd accepted an invitation to teach public finance during the first Summer Session.

The personable young professor might easily classify his Summer stint here as a homecoming since he began his teaching career on these grounds 10 years ago when the Navy V-12 program was underway.

"There is no other place like Chapel Hill," said Floyd. "It's hard to leave and it's great to return."

He has high praise for the new Business Administration buildings and expresses belief that they are the finest in the South.

"The only trouble I have is finding my way around Carroll Hall," he commented.

Floyd extended his praise to the students at UNC. He said, "The students here are of the highest quality to be found in most Southern institutions and it is a pleasure to have the opportunity to teach them."

In comparing the Chapel Hill of today with the one of 1943 he was quick to mention that the greatest change had been made in the expansion of grocery stores. Too, the modern Glen Lennox shopping district rated high in the list of more noticeable changes.

When asked if he had written a book recently, he pulled a book out of the shelf and said, "It's always nice to find your books in someone's office." The tiitle of the book was Effects of Taxation on Industrial Location which was printed by the University Press. He has another book, Study of Economic Effects of Population Changes in the South, which is due to roll off of the presses in the Fall.

Floyd is modest about his ability to write books and insists that research is necessary for keeping up with things going on in the field one is teaching. He points out that continued interest and constructive thinking is much more important than getting a book published.

He summed up his attitude concerning publications by stating "there is too much worship of a hard cover book whereas there should be more emphasis on the quality than on the quantity".

Floyd is an avid baseball fan but finds it difficult to attend as many games as he wants due to his devotion to the teaching profession. He admits in a soft tone of voice that the Philadelphia Athletice have his moral support just as they did when he became wedded to them at an early age.

The amiable professor received his B. S. from the University of Florida and was awarded the M. A. and Ph.D in economics from the University of North Carolina.

Floyd is married and has two children. They are residing at 216 West University Drive during their stay in Chapel Hill.

CHILDREN'S ACTIVITY BOOKS

Are Plentiful At

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

OPEN EVENINGS

Closed Sundays During Summer

CLASSIFIED

ANNOUNCEMENT

OLD AND RARE BOOKS — WE have 'em from three for a quarter on up to a month's rent. Browsing's fun. THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP, 205 E. Franklin St.

SUMMER STUDENTS! HAVE you seen the many interesting books at UNICORN BOOK SHOP? COME IN AND BROWSE. REMAINDERS, RARE AND OUT-OF-PRINT BOOKS, all reasonably priced. Over Sutton's. Dial 9-6173.

HELP WANTED

QUALIFIED STUDENT HELP TO work part time at Graham Memorial Student Union during the next Summer Session and this Fall. Contact Director Jimmy Wallace or the GM office.

SERVICES OFFERED

JOIN YOUR CLASSMATES AND others on the campus and bring your laundry here where you save money and get your laundry back, washed and dried in one hour. Washed in only 30 minutes. Shirts hand finished. You can't beat our service. Ask the boys who come here regularly. ROSEMARY AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY, 329 W. Rosemary St. Dial 5121.

WANTED

DRIVERS EAGER TO SAVE money on good gas. HI-WAY SERVICE STATION on Carrboro curve has regular at 29.4 and hi-test at 30.4. You can't beat it. Lube job only $1. Car wash only $1 or u-wash it for 50 cents.

FOR SALE

26" BALLOON TIRE BIKE. ALSO two 650 x 16 tires. See Chuck Miner, 107 Ruffin Dorm or call 3041. Reasonably priced.

YEARS AHEAD OF THEM ALL

1. Chesterfield Quality Highest. 15% higher than its nearest competitor and 31% higher than the average of the five other leading brands...based on recent chemical analyses giving an index of good quality for the country's six leading cigarette brands. The index of good quality table—a ratio of high sugar to low nicotine—shows Chesterfield quality highest.

2. No adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield. From the report of a medical specialist who has been giving a group of Chesterfield smokers regular examinations every two months for well over a year.

3. First with premium quality in both regular and king-size. Much Milder with an extraordinarily good taste.

CHESTERFIELD BEST FOR YOU

Copyright 1953, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

ADIOS

The journey's over, says The Horse — until September. See p. 2.

The Tar Heel

WEATHER
Warmer with 85 high
Yesterday's high 84,
low, 59.

VOLUME 16 NUMBER 10 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY JULY 14, 1953 FOUR PAGES TODAY

$2,000 Award Is Established In Chemistry

American Viscose Corporation has established a $2,000 predoctoral fellowship in the Department of Chemistry at the University.

Of this amount $1,500 is stipend for the fellow and $500 is to pay his tuition and fees.

This Fellowship is given to the Chemistry Department by American Viscose with no stipulations whatever; the Fellow is chosen by the department on the basis of scholastic ability and research achievements.

The first American Viscose Fellow is Paul T. Von Bramer, who lives here and in Kingsport, Tenn. Von Bramer received his bechelor's degree in chemistry at the University here in 1950, and expects to receive his doctor's degree in June of 1954. He is studing the synthesis and properties of some difloquinolines.

Help For Children

Jan Pruitt, Helen Moutos and Margie Fordham, all Agnes Scott students in Summer School here, are conducting recreation two mornings each week for children in Alexander Dormitory.

Three Movies Offered Free

The first session's final program of free movies will be shown at 8 p.m. in Forest Theatre. In case of rain the films will be exhibited in Gerrard Hall.

"Alaska's Silver Millions" is in color. It is the story of salmon and Alaska. "Western Europe" shows the factories, mines and waterways of Alsace-Lorraine. It's a trip from Strasbourg to Pont-a-Mousson on the Rhine Marne Canal.

The final movie is a trip on the Central Railway of Peru into the Cerro-de-Pasco mining district.

UNC French House Will Observe Bastille Today With Ceremonies

The University Summer Session's French House will observe Bastille Day on July 14, as it has in former years. A supper this evening at the French House will be followed by a public reception at 8 p. m. in the Graham Memorial. Jacque Hardre, director of the French House, said that everybody was invited to the reception, at which the Effie Draper-Savage Memorials Awards will be presenetd to the French House students who have shown the most interest and progress in the study of French. The awards were established several years ago by Edward Draper-Savage in honor of his mother.

The French House's final program of the summer will be held in the Graham Memorial's Rendezvous room at 7 p.m. next Friday, July 17, when two French plays will be given and books given by the French Embassy will be presented as prizes to several students. The program is also open to the public.

The French House, located this summer in the Kappa Delta sorority house, is being attended by about 20 students, including several Chapel Hillians. This is its ninth session.

They May Be Yours

The YMCA has several lost and found articles.

Among the prominent items are an expensive men's wrist watch, three fountain pens and two sets of car keys. They're yours for the identifying.

Victory Village Nursery Opens In Fall

Will Have Capacity Of 60 Children; To Serve Hot Meals; Building Still Needs Many Items

A nursery for children aged two to six will be opened in Victory Village in September with a capacity for 60 children. Preregistration already is underway.

It will be located in a building on the south side of Mason Farm Road. Hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and until 1 p.m. on Saturdays. It will be closed during University holidays.

A hot meal will be served the children from the nursery's kitchen. Cost figured on a non-profit basis, will be about $7.50 to $8 a week, including the meals.

The nursery will be under the direction of Mrs. Joy Taylor. She will have five teachers. They include Mrs. Mildred Phillips (wife of Dean Guy Phillips of the School of Education), Mrs. Pat Adams, Mrs. Sue Mahoney and Miss Shirley Badger. The fifth teacher, who will be head of the teaching staff will be announced later.

Mrs. Taylor said they expect the nursery to open about Sept. 15.

The first day of preregistration was held last Saturday with Daniels Road residents signing up. This Saturday Jackson Circle will preregister and Saturday July 27 will be for residents of Polk, Bagley, Mason Farm Road, Johnson and King Streets as well as any stragglers. There are about 200 children in the village between tw and six years old.

Preregistration hours are from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Victory Village rental office . Birth certificates must be brought for two year olds

The nursery is built in the form of a "T". The building and work were donated by the University under the supervision of P. L. Burch. The building was one of the temporary structures recently removed from beside the Library. The building has five group classrooms and a large assembly room.

(See NURSERY, page 3)

CAMPUS SEEN

Confederate soldier's musket muzzled with a milkshake cup.

•

Winston Dorm residents cartwheeling on front lawn.

•

Students standing by, enraptured with the chant of auctioneer as Franklin Street frontage goes for $26,000.

More Activities Being Planned For New Term

Several major activities are beand the picnic will end by 7:15. ing planned for the second session of Summer School.

On the first Friday night (a week from this Friday) of the next session, an open house will be held in Graham Memorial with refreshments. A water carnival is being planned by the Summer Activities Council for the weekend of Aug. 7 and the movies will continue to be shown every Wednesday night from 8 to 9 in the Forest Theatre.

The Tuesday and Thursday night dancing classes, held on Woollen Gym terrace, also will be held second session. Another dancing opportunity will be offered by Miss Ruth Price who will instruct modern dancing each day at 10 a. m. at the gym. The class is open to both men and women.

At 4 p.m. every day a coed swimming class will be held under the tutelage of Mary Kellam.

The Summer Activities Council, coordinating and sponsoring unit for most of the campus events during Summer Session, will meet Wednesday night of next week to discuss furthur plans.

FRED W. GREENE

Bankers Meet In Second Day At University

Agricultural trends, the present economic picture, the outlook for bank credit and problems involved in various types of loans are being discussed and analyzed at sessions of the 17th annual Carolnas Bankers Conference at the University this week.

Some 200 bankers from the tw Carolinas and several other southern states are attending the sessions which opened yesterday and continue through Friday.

The conference is sponored by the North and South Carolina Bankers Associations, the North and South Carolina State Banking Departments, and the Univerity.

The morning sessions will be divided into three divisions: commercial banking, agricultura' banking and credits. The afternoons will be devoted to lectures on internal and customer relations.

Special programs have been arranged for each night. Last night Fred W. Greene, vice-president, Union National Bank, Charlotte, spoke on "The Big Chance." Tonight J. Harvie Wilkinson Jr., vice president and director of the State Planters Bank and Trust Company, Richmond, Va., will speak on "Government Bonds Today."

All sessions will be held in Carroll Hall.

Among the well known out-of-state lecturers will be Melvin C. Miller, deputy manager, American Bankers Association in charge of Bank Management Commission and of State Bank Division, New York; Joseph M. Naughton, president, second National Bank, Cumberland, Md.; illiam G. F. Price, vice-president, Bank of Manhattan Company, New York, and faculty member, Graduate School of Banking.

Dr. Preston H. Scott, chairman Department of Accounting-Banking and Finance Insurance, Government His Field, Population A Problem

Indonesian Visiting In United States To See How It's Done, Then Go Home & Do It; On Campus Now

Hassan Datu Manoppo, a man with a newly independent country but almost no local government, is on campus as part of a United States tour to get ideas for his home land of Indonesia.

He arrived at the University last week and will leave Saturday. He will head for home July 26 after nearly three months in this country as guest of the State Department.

Manoppo's visit in Chapel Hill is designed to give him opportunities to visit with officials of city and county government and to study the processes by which their functions are accomplished. His special emphasis is in the area of public finance.

Manoppo's governmental job in Indonesia is regent of the territory of Sangihe and Talaud Islands, a job corresponding to our governor. It takes 28 days to make the trip to the inhabited 98 islands in his territory, Manoppo said in an interview yesterday. And he has another 100 which are uninhabited.

When the Dutch gave the Indonesians their independence in 1949 they left a country with a 90 percent illiteracy rate. After only four years the Indonesians have trimmed this down to 60 percent.

Another problem which they are attacking, Mannoppo said, is the over-population burden. The island of Java contains two-thirds of the 75 million population yet comprises only 18 percent of the land area. Efforts already are underway, he related, to spread the populace to the more sparsely settled islands.

Indonesia expects to make economic headway with her rich deposits of oil and tin, and exportation of tea, quinnine (she produses 95% of the world's supply) and rubber. The Dutch fedual system which bonded her farmers is narly broken up and nearly all of the farmers own the land they till.

Those interested in talking to the Indonesian official may make an appointment at the YMCA office by calling 6761.

The Tar Heel

The Tar Heel, published Tuesday and Friday during the first Summer Session and printed by The News Inc., Hillsboro, N. C., is the official publication of the Summer School of the University of North Carolina where it is published by the students.

STAFF: Al Harrison, Al Shortt, Tom Parramore, Rolfe Neill

The Eye Of The Horse

Roger Will Coe

("The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others. . ." Hipporotis; circa 500 B. C.)

The Horse was reading a newspaper in the lee of Graham Memorial when I found him. I didn't speak for a moment because The Horse was alternately reading (he lip-reads, and with his lips that is something!) and chortling in high glee.

What was funny?

"Darned if the Russkies aren't going Capitalistic, for fair!" The Horse brayed, his piano-key teeth flashing delight. This program they have announced for Poland is quite a dish, and a dish stolen straight from an American Political Party!"

Would he elucidate further on his cerebrations?

"I will not move over," The Horse snapped. "There's lots of room without I should move. Hey, listen to this one: 'Wages of workers will be increased, and prices of commodities will go down; people will be encourageed in free-enterprise, and the government will ruthlessly punish all profiteers.' Echoes of Chicago, if that ain't familiar!"

Did The Horse mean we did like that?

"Why, sure," The Horse chittered, balling the newspaper into a pillow and resting his head on it. "A political platform is sort of like a game of verbal tick-tack toe where everybody is happy but nobody ever wins. Anything the candidate says is immediately cancelled out by the next thing he says."

Wasn't that cynical?

"Nope, only comical," The Horse laughed. "Look—if you raise wages, the price of goods should go up, yes? So how can you both raise wages and lower prices? Another campaign favorite is, 'We will encourage trade with the world; but our tariffs will be raised against encroachment.' Ain't that a lulu? And how about this one: 'The natural resources of the pee-pul will be preserved for their benefit; and Bonneville Dam and Niagara Falls will be turned over to private power combines.' "

Well, it seemed to be the custom to go on like that.

"Sure," The Horse agreed equably, "and no harm in it at all until one or another candidate gets it into his noggin he is expected to keep all those high-flung campaign promises. Then it becomes a case of 'Who Threw The Overalls In Mrs. Murphy's Chowder?' The last guy I know who tried to keep all his campaign promises was Hoover, and he ended up pleasing nobody."

Was The Horse suggesting some current parallel?

"Parallels give one a lot of Latitude, as Geography 38 ably demonstrates," The Horse pontificated, "so I'll help myself to one small such. I don't doubt Bob Taft has some hip trouble, and I'm sorry he has; but it strikes me that Mr. Republican took to those crutches awfully fast after a quick re-cap of what was going on on the Campaign Promise front. And Dewey has not only got himself exceedingly interested in the New York City Subway situation, from the looks of things he's living in one of those thunder-tubes. A whole lot of hard-boiled professional politicians are playing ostrich, and any time they quit looking, the political barometer must be tossing out storm-warnings like a candidate making with the promises."

What did The Horse think such doings portended?

"I see trouble," The Horse said soberly, his eight-ball eyes clicking. "In trying to keep one Campaign Promise, Big Steel is having its head fed into the Power-Combine hopper out West. Clipping Big Steel's hair is like giving a wildcat a hot-foot."

So?

"So Big Business is realistic," The Horse shrugged. "It is no trick for it to play tick-tack-toe right back and throw the next Congressional elections to the Demon Democrats and cancel out the Power Lads. I see trouble, because Taft and Dewey and Kaiser and Reynolds and Mellon and Knowland see trouble."

I wondered what McCarthy saw?

"Holy Joe is color-blind, he sees nothing but Red," The Horse horsed. "Well, I'll be seein' ya next Fall.

I hope The Horse will be seeing better by that time. . .

No One Cares But . . .

Al Harrison

NO ONE CARES BUT—

1. It's mucr too warm to tussle with books, projects, or quizzes. Student's point of view is that quizzes are unfair to the professors who have to grade them.

2. Beer drinking remains the favorite extra curricular activity—indications are that it is here to stay until something better comes along.

3. If you must study to pull up quality points, make the Dean's List or graduate, we advise you to do it in the afternoon and take advantage of the air conditioning in the North Carolina room of the Library.

4. The suspense as to who will be appointed new Dean of Journalism is getting us down—hope the committee keeps it in the journalism school family.

5. what has become of the "dog pack" which was so prominent during the spring quarter? Could it be that they are taking advantage of summer school to visit relatives at Duke, Woman's College, or State. If so, odds are that they will return to Carolina for obvious reasons.

6. The Senate Internal Security Committee didn't add any prestige to the University with its latest investigation but in the main it may have served a good purpose—perhaps it will open the eyes of those formerly unaware and likely to wander off the narrow path.

7. Victory Village residents should pick up their copies of the Daily Tar Heel from the DTH box bocated near the traffic light at the intersection of Pittsboro Road and Mason Farm Road.

8. J. P. Harland will be teaching several archaeology courses during the second session of summer school. It's ironic that he should teach Archaeology of the Bible in Murphey room 111 which gets as hot as the pits of hell.

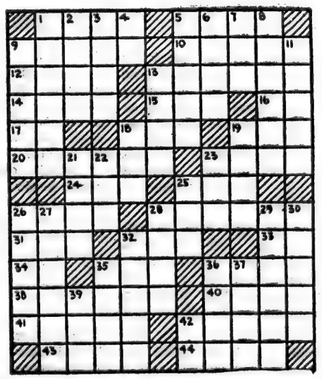
9. If you leave the University without taking a history course under the able Dr. Hugh Lefler, you have missed one of the better professors in the University. There is a touch of magic in his ability to make history interesting.

10. The Nursary being built in Victory Village is a much needed project. The $64 question is "who knows what is going on regarding the planned program for next year?"

11. There is a much seen female around campus who would or perhaps it should be, could, give Marilyn Monroe a good race for figures or bust. We don't know her name but in such a contest names wouldn't be important to the judges.

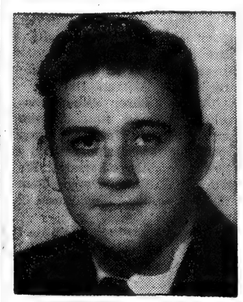
CROSSWORD

ACROSS



1. Not working
5. A plant cutting
9. A drone
10. Mimicks
12. Greedy
13. Small, natural hollow in the skin
14. Bryophytic plant
15. Linen vestment (Eccl.)
16. Music note
17. All correct
18. Lixivium
19. Bog
20. Trojan hero (Class. Myth.)
23. Conceal
24. Sash (Jap.)
25. Fuel
26. The grave
28. A spend-thrift
31. Open (poet.)
32. Kind of meat
33. Greek letter
34. Tantalum (sym.)
35. Audience
36. Rodent (So. Am.)
38. Matches
40. Leave out
41. Coarse, edible seaweed
42. Girl's name
43. Fresh-water tortoise
44. Native of Media

DOWN



1. To cite
2. Raised platform
3. Covers
4. Elevated train
5. A pleasant look
6. Branch
7. Mischievous spirit
8. Threw, as missiles
9. Islands (S. Pacific)
11. River (Fr.)
13. Periods of time
18. Medieval type of short tale
19. Clenched hand
21. City (Alaska)
22. Subside
23. Owns
25. Herd of whales
26. Carried
27. Obscure
28. Conflicts
29. Stir up
30. Lariat
32. Compelled to go along
35. Not difficult
36. Cornmeal bread
37. Among
39. City (S. Ger.)
42. Part of "to be"

Yesterday's Answer

PERMANENT WAVES OF LASTING BEAUTY

MR. SNOTHERLY
In Our
Raleigh Salon

Durham, N. C.
Mr. Angelo—Stylist
Miss Rabon—Stylist

Raleigh, N. C.
Mr. Snotherly—Stylist

La Marick Permanent Waves

Super Deluxe Creme Oil Cold Wave ____ 25.00 Value 9.95

DeLuxe Creme Oil Cold Wave 15.00 Value 6.95

Custom Creme Oil Cold Wave 12.50 Value 5.95

(Stylists' Prices Slightly Higher)

We feature only professional and nationally advertised supplies such as Fashion Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Clairol, Revlon and La Marick Cold Wave.

TEMPO PERMANENT ____ $10 up

Each Wave Includes

- Personality Haircut
- Shaping & Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curl
- Oily Neutralizer
- Setting
- Creme Rinse
- Free Consultation

Anytime is Coffee Time with NESCAFE Complimentary in Our Salon

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
PHONE DURHAM 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
PHONE RALEIGH 3-1726
LaMARICK SHOPS

—Nursery—

(Continued from page 1)

Besides the kitchen it has its own heating plant and space for the children to take naps in the afternoon.

Mrs. Taylor said it is hoped the building "will also become a community center-not just a nursery."

The nursery needs dozens of items with which to furnish it. A complete list may be obtained from Mrs. Taylor at 160 Daniels Road or by calling the Village rental office. Those wishing to donate items may do so by leaving their name with the rental office or by contacting Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Chris Waddell, 157 Daniels Road, Mrs. Sue Gilchrist, 163 Daniels Road, or Watts Scott on Jackson Circle.

Among the more urgently needed items are three-comparment sink or sterlizer, 60 aluminum frame rest cots, 60 small chairs, and play ground equipment.

GLASSES FITTED
AND
REPAIRED
Fast Accurate Service in Our Own Laboratory
CITY OPTICAL CO.
121 E. Franklin St.
Tel. 3566

Closed Shop

This is the last issue of the Tar Heel for the Summer. Due to financial limitations it will not be published during the second session.

The Daily Tar Heel will resume publication with the first day of classes Fall Semester, Monday, Sept. 21.

Swim Schedule

This week's swimming schedule is the same as usual except there will be no Friday night party at the pool.

Say—

Tried the best steaks in town? You haven't unless you've tried The Pines. Also: Seafood that Slept in the ocean last night.

THE PINES
On The Raleigh Road

JULY CLEARANCE

SALE

NOW GOING ON

DRASTIC REDUCTIONS ON ALL SUMMER MERCHANDISE

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

AIR-CONDITIONED FOR YOUR COMFORT

Final Examination Schedule

No student may be excused from a scheduled examination, Lanier said, except by the Infirmary, in case of illness, or by his adviser or dean, in case of any other emergency compelling his absence.

FIRST TERM

Thursday, July 16

Class	Exam Period
11:00	8 to 10 a.m.
12:00	11 to 1 p.m.
10:00	3 to 5 p.m.

Friday, July 17

Class	Exam Period
8:00	8 to 10 a.m.
9:00	11 to 1 p.m.
P. M.'s and others not otherwise provided for

SECOND TERM

Friday, August 21

Class	Exam Period
11:00	8 to 10 a.m.
12:00	11 to 1 p.m.
10:00	3 to 5 p.m.

Saturday, August 22

Class	Exam Period
8:00	8 to 10 a.m.
9:00	11 to 1 p.m.
P. M.'s and others not otherwise provided for

Phis Delts Meet Mountaineers In 2nd Round Softball Today

The championship playoffs in campus softball go into their second round today with Phi Delta Theta meeting the Mountaineers at 4:30 p. m. It is a best two out of three series and play started yesterday.

Officials for today's game are Miner, Smith and Clifton. If a playoff tilt is needed tomorrow, officials will be Carter, Shaw and Clifton.

Phi Delta Theta won the pennant in League 2 by beating Kappa Sigma in two out of three games, the Phi Delts taking the third game by 8 to 1. They had a 5-0 record for the season.

The Mountaineers, with a 4-1 average, beat the Old Folks to win their place at the head of League 1. The Mountaineers swept two straight games.

The games are played on Fetzer Field and spectators are invited. The field is located on east side of Woollen Gym.

Hooper Wins 'Shoe Singles, Zetes Doubles

Fred Hooper of Phi Delta Theta won the singles championship in horseshoes and Thad Eure and Bud Wallace of Zeta Psi took the doubles.

Hooper bested George White of Conner Dorm to win his title. Eure and Wallace whipped Hooper and Gene Gunter to gain the doubles victory.

Finals in the tennis matches were played yesterday afternoon. Norman Jarrad met W. E. Thompson for the singles laurel and Thompson and Les Dameron took on Norwood and Charles Wickham for the doubles match.

Trophies will be presented th winners by the Intramural Department.

Help Needed In Publicity

With no Tar Heel, publicity for the second session will be difficult.

To meet these needs, the Summer School Administration and Summer Activities Council will print a weekly news bulletin "of some sort," an official said yesterday. It will be written and edited by a committee of students.

Students interested in trying their skill at journalism are invited to join the committee. It will meet this morning at 10 o'clock in the YMCA office. Those who cannot attend are asked to leave their names at the Y office on the bulletin board.

Picnic Today Will Honor Summer Activity Leaders

Members of the Summer Activities Council—the crew that has provided the large number of activities this session—will be feted with a picnic supper tonight in Battle Park.

Those expecting to attend are asked to check by the YMCA office by noon today to sign up. The group will meet at the Y at 5:15.

ART

BOOKS AND PRINTS ARE PLENTIFUL AT

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
OPEN EVENINGS
Closed Sundays During Summer

TODAY & Wednesday

Varsity

Also
As An Added Attraction

A Most Extraordinary Film! In Magnificent New Eastman Color!

THURSDAY

We think this is one of the BEST COMEDIES Ever to play this THEATRE. It Compares with the BEST ALEC GUINESS PICTURES

—The Management

ALASTAIR SIM who ponicked you in "Happiest Days Of Your Life"... now in the most hilarious role of a lifetime!

"Laughter in Paradise"

ALASTAIR SIM
FAY COMPTON
BEATRICE CAMPBELL

Dean's List

(Continued from page 1)

ton, Gus D. Stefanadis, and John H. Sweeney.

Salisbury—Lloyd B. Ennis, John L. Rendleman, and Marcia A. Zachary.

Other North Carolininas—Roger W. Ackerman, Wallace; James E. Adams, Warrenton; Mary Frances Allen, Statesville; Albert L. Allred, Mount Airy; Katherine B. Armistead, Kinston; Harry H. Arnold, Dover; Bonnie M. Baker, Carrboro; Mary Alice Ballew, Denton; William J. Barefoot, Jr., Benson; Alexander H. Barnes, Murfreesboro; Benjamin C. Berry, Jr., Hertford; Hiram B. Black, Matthews;

Jerry C. Brown, Rich Square; Robert C. Bryan, Dunn; William R. Bullock, Jr., Bethel, Charles E. Cain, Elizabethtown; Jerry A. Campbell, Taylorsville; Jane T. Carswell, Spring Lake; William D. Cherry, Gastonia; Robert S. Cline, Hickory; Luther H. Clontz, Morganton; Patricia G. Coley, Newton; Abner M. Cornwell, Jr., Lincolnton; Cecil E. Cowan, Jr., Morganton;

Janet R. Cozart, Wilson; Dwight L. Cranford, Albemarle; Frederic M. Crawford, Jr., Sanford; Bobby Lee Deal, Rockingham; Jane D. Dicks, Rockingham; Harold F. England, Kings Mountain; Andre J. Evans, Ahoskie; Billy E. Faggart, Concord; Thomas A. Farmer, Jr., Smithfield, Joel E. Fleishman, Fayetteville; Henry L. Fowler, Jr., Mount Holly; David G. Futch, Monroe;

Julius A. Green, Jr., Thomasville; Arthur W. Gregory, Jr., Halifax; William G. Grimes, Smithfield; John M. Guilbert, Tryon; Frederick D. Hamrick, Rutherfordton; James L. Haney, Jr., Glenwood; Charles J. Hartsall, Jr., Oakboro; Malcolm P. Hoover, Pineville; Florence K. Howard, Dunn; John R. Ingle, Siler City; Henry C. Jackson, Tarboro; Thomas M. Johnson, Clayton; Larry T. Justus, Dana; Nora Frances Lackey, Mount Airy;

Thomas H. Long, Statesville; Walter N. Long, Jr., Belmont; Harvey O. Lowe, Ponzer; Peter D. McMichael, Reidsville; Thomas McMillan, Rocky Mount; Addison G. Mangum, Gastonia; Etta R. Mann, Whiteville; James W. Maynard, Burlington; Margaret A. Mebane, Burlington; Mary L. Menius, Monroe; Arthur L. Miller, Landis; Max G. Miller, Hamlet; McLendon G. Morris, Oxford; Joseph L. Murad, Wilson; Catherine Newlin, Haw River; Mary B. Noblitt, Shelby; Thomas L. Ormand, Monroe; Morris F. Osborne, Arden; Dewey Fate, Bayboro; Louie L. Patseavourges, Rocky Mount;

Archibald L. Patterson, Maxton; Robert B. Peck, Concord; James R. Pritchett, Creswell; Raeford T. Pugh, Asheboro; Nathan R. Roberson, Robersonville; James L. Rollins, Rostic; Henry T. Rosser, Hamlet; Alva W. Steward, Marshville; William R. Story, Wilkesboro; David S. Sumner, Asheboro; Carlos P. Surratt, Toast; Raymond M. Taylor, Washington; Zebulon B. Trexler, Concord;

John C. Vernon, Summerfield; Raphael W. Vinson, Ahoskie; Charles D. Wallace, Smithfield; William A. Waller, Fair Bluff; Edward C. Warren, Roanoke Rapids; Wisner M. Washam, Cornelius; Ralph C. Wiggins, Hendersonville; Susan F. Wilkins, Sanford; Billy R. Wilkinson, Newton; Elizabeth R. Wood, Edenton; and Joe H. Woody, Bessemer City.

YOUR VACATION

will be more enjoyable if you take along our

CHILDREN'S BOOKS

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

OPEN EVENINGS

Closed Sundays During Summer

SALE

IMPORTED

LINEN SLACKS

$8.95

Values to $12.95

Several shades to choose from including charcoal grey.

THE Sport SHOP

N. COLUMBIA ST.

Social Dance Class Holds First Meeting

The social dancing class held its first meeting last Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. Miss Margaret Taylor, who is a teacher in the Arthur Murray Studio in Durham and a student here this summer, is teaching the class. These classes are held on the terrace outside the men's gym. Everyone is invited to attend. The probable meeting time will be Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 o'clock.

The life you save may be your own—drive safely-

SPORTS

Kelso to Dive At High Point

Joe Kelso, Southern Conference diving champion, will be off to High Point this weekend to compete in the Carolina AAU swimming and diving meet. The meet will be held Friday and Saturday, July 26 and 27, when he will be competing against divers from all over North and South Carolina. Sue Fink, Chapel Hill swimming ace and a sophomore at UNC, will be swimming in the meet.

Coed Swimming Class

A coed swimming class will be held at 4 p.m. each day, Monday through Friday, throughout second session of summer school. All stages of swimming will be taught.

No tuition will be charged but all participants must hold swimming privilege cards. The class is primarily for students, but others may join if they desire.

This program will be under the able supervision of Miss Mary Frances Kellam.

All-Campus Swims

The first of a series of all-campus swims will be held this Thursday night, July 23, from 7:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. These "swim togethers" will be in the Kessing Outdoor Memorial Pool. This program is open to everyone, but children must be accompanied in the water by their parents.

Intramural Sports

The intramural program for the second session of summer school will feature competition in softball, tennis and golf. Horseshoes will not be offered in competition.

Softball entries opened on Monday, July 20, and will close on Saturday, July 25. Play will begin Tuesday, July 28.

Tennis entries opened Monday, July 20, and will close on Monday, July 27. Play will begin on Wednesday, July 29.

Golf entries opened Wednesday, July 22, and qualifying rounds must be in by Wednesday, July 29.

All entries for softball and tennis can be made at 315 Woollen Gym. Be sure to register in order to avoid class conflicts in the different events.

Swimming Schedules

Children's Program:

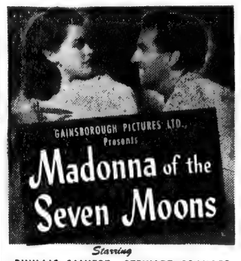
Instruction: 11:00-12:00 Monday-Friday.

Recreation: 12:00-12:30 Monday-Friday; 11-:00-12:30 Saturday; 2:00-3:00 Sunday.

Other hours the pool is open when accompanied by parents.

Adults' Program:

Instruction: 4:00-5:00 Monday-Friday.



Recreation: 12:00-6:00 Monday-Friday; 11:00-5:00 Saturday; 2:00-5:00 Sunday.

Plan to attend church this Sunday.

THE COOLEST SPOT IN TOWN!

Carolina

TODAY

Starring PHYLLIS CALVERT STEWART GRANGER PATRICIA ROC and PETER GLENVILLE JOHN STUART

FRIDAY-SATURDAY

SUNDAY-MONDAY

M-G-M's big vacation-time musical!

"DANGEROUS WHEN WET"

It's a refreshing plunge into Fun and Romance, Son, and Hilarity! Color by TECHNICOLOR!

TUESDAY-WEDNESDAY

The Weekly Tar Heel

Volume I THURSDAY, JULY 23, 1953 Number 1

OPEN HOUSE TO BE FRIDAY NIGHT

DEAN'S LIST ANNOUNCED

Old East students gazing forlornly through binoculars at window in Carr Dorm while Old West students cast mournful eyes towards Smith Dorm wishing it were open the second session.

Couple joyously dancing in Y office.

Student giving Chapel Hill police department as a credit reference. Thought his credit must be good because of the number of unpaid parking tickets in his collection.

Two hundred and eighty-two students, 194 of them North Carolininas, made the Dean's List of the College of Arts and Sciences, made up of juniors and seniors, at the University of North Carolina during the past quarter, Dean Clifford P. Lyons announced today.

To be on the Dean's List, a student must make a grade of B or higher on all courses during the quarter.

North Carolinians listed are as follows:

From Asheville—Marvin B. Berry, Mary Lee George, Elizabeth L. Gregg, John S. McGirt, Gerald T. McMahon, Gwen L. Norment, Dale S. Ryon, Arnold C. Shaw, Thomas R. Summer, and Jean B. Williamson.

Chapel Hill—Derith L. Alexander, Marion W. Benfield, Jr., Barbara G. Cline, Jacquelin B. Crawford, Charlotte L. Davis, John M. DuBose, James Edmonds, III, Mary Edith Finley, Fletcher M. Green, II, Marilyn Habel, Charles L. Haywood, Robert W. Heath, David C. Huntley, Charles S. Jarrett, Katherine E. Jante, Hubert E. McAllister, Frederick L. McGee, Sylvia R. Maddox, Robert Midgett, Albert Mims, Jr., Rolfe Neill, Patricia Noah, Makis Papas, Lewis A. Phillips, Ernest E. Russell, Julia E. Shields, Iva L. Stinson, George F. Styron, Jr., Margaret L. Taylor, John T. Wettach.

Charlotte—John M. Bullard, Ronald B. Goodman, Gerald L. Haughton, James P. Hurst, Philip H. Kennedy, Thomas A. McAllister, Pete N. Maycanis, Lambros C. Rigas, Benson R. Wilcox, Willis D. Wilkinson.

Durham—Harold C. Bowden, Richard Carmichael, Peggy L. Cook, Leonard H. Grodsky, Andra Joy Hamilton, Fanchon S. Lewis, Victor B. Moore, William H. Ruffin, Jr.

Greensboro—Anna M. Beeson, Jr., John C. Lowry, Vernon W. McJr., John S. Lowry, Vernon W. McFalls, Richard J. Painter, John R. Patterson, James Webb, and William E. Zuckerman.

Raleigh — Thomas F. Ashcraft, Richard L. Bostian, Robert L. Green Connelly, Charles C. Crittenden, John D. Duke, Vallin D. Estes, Jr., Norman W. Goldin, Robert F. Hook, Earl Johnson, Jr., Walton K. Joyner, Carol May Libby, Robert E. Marshall, Alfred L. Purrington, Edith C. Shanklin.

Winston-Salem—Bradley J. Cameron, James P. Crews, Bernard D. Herman, Thomas A. Hosick, Henry A. Lowet, John N. Mickle, Kenneth M. Pruitt, and Earl P. Welch.

High Point—Marilyn R. Bulla, George T. Davis, Richard L. Harris.

Wilmington—John H. Debnam, Nick S. Pantazis, Marjorie W. Pen-

(See DEAN'S LIST, page 3)

First Community Sing

The first community sing of the second term will be held Sunday night at 8 o'clock on the grass in front of Graham Memorial. Tom Carroll, popular WCHL announcer, will be master of ceremonies. Miss Mary Neil White, also of the WCHL staff, will play the piano.

John Park, noted tenor and director of the summer chorus, will sing several selections.

Another highlight of the evening's entertainment will be some authentic Indian dances in native costume by two lovely sisters, Sipra and Purabi Bose.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend. This event is sponsored by the Summer Activities Council.

In case of rain, the sing will be cancelled.

Summer Activities Council Meeting

The Summer Activities Council will meet Monday night, July 27 at 7:00 o'clock in the YMCA Cabinet room. This Council is a coalition of the YMCA and Graham Memorial.

Norman Bowles, chairman of the Council, extends an invitation to all students who are interested in assisting in the various projects for the second term to attend.

Once A Week

Issues of the weekly Tar Heel will appear hereafter on Thursday of each week during the second summer session. They may be picked up at several places. Copies will be placed in Lenoir Hall, the "Y" lobby, Graham Memorial, and in the dormitories. Those interested in working on the paper should contact either Bill Formyduvall or Tate Sparger at the newspaper office on second floor Graham Memorial or call 9-3361.

Marian Parkins To Give Recital Tonight

Marian Parkins, student in the University Music Department, will present a piano recital on Thursday, July 23, at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Hill Hall. The program will include "Three Sonatas Op. 101, Papillons" by Schumann, two pieces from the "1922 Suite" by Hindemith, "La Vallee des Cloches" by Ravel, and two Scriabin Etudes.

Mrs. Parkins has appeared in many of the departmental recitals. Last September she assisted Mr. George Bennete in a violin recital and in December played the third movement of the Beethoven Third Piano Concerto with the University Symphony Orchestra.

Before coming to Chapel Hill, Mrs. Parkins studied piano with Aaron Gross in Pittsburgh, Pa. She also studied at Chicago Musical College under Margery Giles. At the University she is a student of Dr. William S. Newman.

Round-Trip to Moon Offered by Planetarium

A forecast of the future is being experienced in the Morehead Planetarium where summer students are taking advantage nightly of round-trips to the moon.

The performance, under the direction of Planetarium Manager A. F. Jenzano, is "Trip to the Moon," which will continue through August. Trips are scheduled each evening at 8:30 and on Saturday afternoons at 3 and 4 and on Sunday afternoons at 2, 3, 4.

Manager Jenzano says that excurisons to the moon, as depicted in this performance, will probably become a reality for human beings on this planet in 25 years. Trips into outer space now are theoretically conceivable, he added.

The present-day "fantasy" is given startling reality by the performance the Planetarium is now showing.

Travelers are escorted to their seats under the vast dome by a trim "airline" stewardess, the "pilot" operates the controls of the space ship in full view of the passengers, and the sound effects give a vivid impression of an actual take-off in a tremendous atomic-driven machine.

The illusion is continued on the trip to the moon, with the lecturer and the stewardess advising on what to do and not to do when one travels beyond the bounds of the earth's gravitation.

Landing on the moon becomes an actuality when one looks through the pilot's "port-hole" and sees the lunar surface bobbing into view. As the space ship comes nearer and nearer the horizon of the moon changes with the angle of the ship, just as the earth's horizon appears to tilt at all angles when landing in an airplane.

The lecturer explains the various areas of the moon are shown, and the lunar meterology explained in detail.

On the return trip, one is almost glad to be coming back to the earth's surface, and when the passengers reach the earth's gravitation the ship comes in fast for a perfect landing—not before the ship's signs blink "no smoking—fasten safety belt."

The first all-campus get-together will be held Friday night at 8 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. All are invited to come and get acquainted with their fellow students. After the reception and refreshments in the main lounge, there will be informal entertainment in Rendezvous room, presented by Miss Nancy Horne, a popular campus leader.

Following this, there will be round dancing in the Rendezvous room and a square dance in the "Y" court.

Hostesses for the open house will be Berta Fuqua, Miriam Harris, Blanche Shehee, Lou Rogers, Mary Wilburn, Sarah McCormick, Sarah Lore, Loy Malone, Jackie Batten, Nancy Kerster, Joyce Quillan, Bess Peeler, Rosemary Ragmer, Bernadine Winstead, Bryan Bowman, Gladys Harris, Florence Comaron, and B. G. Williams.

Graham Memorial and the Summer Activities Council wish to extend a cordial invitation to all to attend. This function is sponsored by Graham Memorial, the Summer Activities Council and the YMCA.

Second Session Summer School in Full Swing

The second session of summer school began this past Tuesday with a total enrollment of 1834 students. Guy Phillips, summer school director, along with the YMCA and the weekly Tar Heel extend to all new students a hearty welcome and best wishes for a successful stay at Carolina. Welcome back is given to all those students who have attended UNC before and have returned for this session.

Saturday Classes

There will be classes held in all departments on two Saturdays of the second session of summer school. The first will be on Saturday, July 25, and the second will be on Saturday, August 15.

Business Institute

(Continued from page 2)

Earlier institutes held this summer were the Realtors Institute, the Southeastern Institute for Chamber of Commerce Executives, the Carolinas Bankers' Conference, and two Institutes in Advanced Life Underwriting.

Dean Carroll announced that an Institute for Wholesalers is in the process of formation and will hold its first session in October. The Executive Program, a new program of advanced management training for senior executives, is also scheduled to begin in October.

TODAY

FRI. & SAT.

ADVENTURE!
SPECTACLE!
BIGGER THAN "WAKE OF THE RED WITCH"

HERBERT J. YATES presents
FRED MacMURRAY · VERA RALSTON
in
FAIR WIND TO JAVA
TRUCOLOR
BY CONSOLIDATED
A REPUBLIC PICTURE
Republic Pictures Corporation

with
ROBERT DOUGLAS · VICTOR McLAGLEN
JOHN RUSSELL · BUDDY BAER
CLAUDE JARMAN, JR. · GRANT WITHERS
Screen Play By RICHARD TREGASKIS
Based on the novel by GARLAND ROARK
Associate Producer-Director JOSEPH KANE

Varsity

Modern Dance Class

A modern dance class will be held at 10 a.m. each day under the direction of Miss Ruth Price in the dance studio of Woollen Gym.

Credit for the course is optional and may be obtained by registration. The class is open to both men and women.

Student Supper Forum

The Baptist Student Union will hold its regular supper forum Sunday night, July 26 at 6:00 in the basement of the First Baptist Church. After the supper there will be an open discussion on distinctive Baptist doctrines. The discussion will be led by J. C. Herrin, student chaplain. To cover the costs of the supper, 50 cents per person will be charged. Everyone is invited.

Movies to Be Shown In Forest Theatre

The second group of a series of movies will be shown at 8 p.m. Wednesday night in the Forest Theatre. In case of rain the film will be shown in Gerrard Hall.

"Guadalajara" is a trip through Mexican cities. This film is in technicolor. "Winter Wonderland" is the story of winter sports. "Hunting with a Camera" is a story of Canadian wildlife shown in technicolor.

These movies are previewed and are shown by Tom Wakefield and John Champion, under the auspices of the Summer Activities Council.

10 Cent Beer Everyday
3:30 to 5.

TONIGHT and EVERY THURSDAY and FRIDAY — all the spaghetti and meat balls you can eat plus FREE beer or wine for 99c at the RATHSKELLER.

SHOES REPAIRED
See us for all types of repairing.
LACOCK'S SHOE SHOP
E. Franklin Phone 9-2976

UNC Press Celebrated 30th Anniversary Of Publication First Book Last Tuesday

The University of North Carolina Press celebrated the 30th anniversary of its first published book last Tuesday.

On July 21, 1923, the now famous imprint of "Chapel Hill" first appeared in a bound volume. Since that memorable date more than 630 titles have been added to the late Dr. W. C. Coker's "Saprolegniaceae With Notes on Other Water Molds," and the total number of volumes sold has far exceeded one million.

The idea for the University Press came from Dr. Louis R. Wilson, then University Librarian. Together with nine other faculty members and three trustees, he incorporated the organization in 1922 "to publish periodicals devoted to the advancement of learning. . . .To promote generally, by publishing deserving books, the advancement of the arts and sciences, and the development of literature."

Wilson First Director

Dr. Wilson became the first Director, and the operations of the Press were centered in one of the crowded file drawers in his office. He is now a member of the Board of Governors, but none of the original staff is still with the Press.

The organization grew rapidly in its early years and before long needed additional room. Larger office and storage space was made available to the Press in Alumni Building in 1927. At the time of the transfer, Mrs. Alice T. Paine, who heads the editorial department, joined the staff. She well remembers the offices in Alumni. As an editor she shared her office with the shipping clerk.

Although Alumni Building afforded better working conditions for a while it, too, was outgrown. As the Press continued to publish more and more books storage facilities became less and less adequate until 1939 when the PWA finished remodeling Bynum Hall, the old gymnasium. Since then the Press has occupied most of the two lower floors. Mrs. Paine has her office downstairs—in the old swimming pool!

Extensive Labors of Publishing

When a book comes "from Chapel Hill" it marks the end of intensive effort by many people in widely scattered places. First and most important of all, are the author's labors which have extended, in some cases, through an entire lifetime. A manuscript under consideration by the Press is read by outside experts who appraise its value. Their opinions help the Board of Governors—members of the faculty and administrative officers of the University—to decide upon publication of the book.

The accepted manuscript is turned over to the editorial department where it is prepared for the printer. Months may be required to complete the initial editing on a long or complex manuscript. When the editorial department turns the edited manuscript over to the production manager the printing contract is let and the final six or eight months of work begin.

Book in Final Process

Once the printer starts his work the book takes form and the rest of the staff gets busy. The author and editor correct the printer's proofs together—through two complete sets. The pages are printed in their final form after the printer receives the second set of corrections. The finished pages are sent next to the binder who puts the pages in order and attaches the cloth cover around them. The last step is that of adding the paper dust jacket.

While the actual production has been going on the sales and advertising staff have been preparing to sell the book. News releases, author appearances, advertising space and perhaps a direct mail campaign are mapped out. All of these procedures are repeated 20 or so times a year, as each book is published, most of them appearing in the spring and fall.

Publications from All Over

The University of North Carolina Press publishes books from all over the United States and even occasional ones from foreign countries. Most of the manuscripts come from North Carolina and the University campus but many come from authors in other states. All of them have one thing in common—they are "deserving books which add to the advancement of the arts and sciences and the development of literature."

Several Best Sellers

A few of the Press books, "Mexican Village" and "I Rode With Stonewall," for example—have become best sellers, but most of them must depend on a steady sale over the years before production costs are recovered. Occasionally, especially fine books whose sales are likely to be small are subsidized by institutions interested in the subject of the book. Profits do not exist in that kind of publishing. It is a service rather than a business.

An explanation for the existence of this service and of publishing was made by the founder of Charles Scribners Sons years ago. He said, "Publishing is not a business and it's not a profession—maybe it's a career."

Compliments
of ORANGE
PRINTSHOP
★
Printers of this
Tar Heel

The Weekly Tar Heel

Published every Thursday during the second term of the summer school, is printed by the Orange Printshop of Chapel Hill. It is the official publication of the summer school of the University of North Carolina and is published by the students.

STAFF

EDITOR ..... Bill Formyduvall
MANAGING EDITOR AND BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Tate Sparger
NEWS EDITOR ..... Bill Venable
SPORTS EDITOR ..... John Rhoades
SOCIETY EDITOR ..... Laura Holoman
CIRCULATION MANAGER ..... Jackie Batten
HONORARY EDITOR ..... Pat Sewell

The Eye of the Horse

by
ROGER WILL COE

(The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . ." Hipporotis; circa 500 B.C.)

THE HORSE came charging into the showers at Woollen Gym, braying: "Fire! Fire!"

I came out of my hot shower to ask about it.

"Why, right here, the fire seems to be!" The Horse snorted, clicking his huge eyes at me. "See all the smoke, doncha?"

That was steam. I was taking a hot shower.

The Horse screamed and bolted off, only to come tip-hoofing back and peer at me from a safe distance. "You feel okay, Roger? I mean, a hot bath with the thermometer at nearly one hundred in the shade?"

That was why I was taking a hot shower. A cold shower made you feel better for a few minutes; but then you would be hotter than ever. A hot shower—or bath—opened the pores, and soon you felt cool. It was a sort of effortless perspiration that left you eased, relieved.

"Aw!" The Horse chittered. "You're kidding."

Indeed, I was not. Also, a cup of hot tea was infinitely more cooling than a cool, or iced, drink.

"What course did you learn all this in?" The Horse asked, sprawling out on the tile floor and effectively blocking ingress, egress and regress. "Hygiene Eleven, or some equally advanced study?"

An English acquaintance had first told me that, years ago. Then, I had observed the British officers doing that very thing at an African airbase.

"That's what has the Irish and the Scots so red-faced, perhaps," The Horse mused. "The English have had the Irish and the Scots in hot water for centuries."

Did he mean they appeared boiled?

"Boiled or sober," The Horse yawned, "they appear red-faced. Hey, maybe that's what has Ike acting so cool these days? McCarthy, Syngman Rhee and John Foster Dulles have him in a perpetual kettle of hot water. I get a laugh out of Holy Joe McCarthy, though."

How was that?

"He's a sort of Don Quixote in reverse," The Horse snarked. "For the way Holy Joe puts the act on, it is the Wisconsin Windmill charging the poor donkeys he drags up before his committee."

Could The Horse suggest a solution?

"Sure. Ike ought to send Holy Joe to Korea to confer with Rhee. Holy Joe would convince Rhee that he, Rhee, was a Red; Rhee would convince Joe that he, McCarthy, was a Wisconsin Cheese sent as part of a Reciprocal Trade Agreement; and everything would iron out."

I didn't catch?

"Well, Rhee would sign with the Reds, and Holy Joe would be kept in Korea, and everybody would be happy except the State Department. I can't for the life of me see who would burn Dulles' books for him, with Holy Joe gone from the festive scene."

For once, I can't see any better than The Horse.

Business Institute To Be Held at UNC

Completion of plans for the summer institute program of the School of Business Administration of the University of North Carolina was announced today by Dean Thomas H. Carroll.

The Business Management Institute for owner-managers of smaller businesses will be held July 27-31.

A special feature of this Institute will be a free showing of sales training films, open to the public, at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 30, in Room 2, Carroll Hall.

Other institutes scheduled for the remainder of the summer are: Management Institute of the Southern Retail Furniture Association, August 3-7; Credit Bureau and Merchants Association Management Institute, August 10-14; Institute in Property and Casualty Insurance, August 17-21.

The summer institute program began in 1946 as an adult education service for North Carolina business, Dean Carroll pointed out.

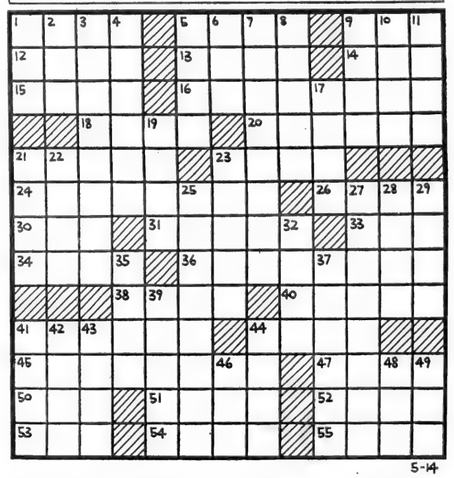
(See INSTITUTE, page 4)

Life At Carolina

Second session summer school is now well under way. It should be interesting to note what new ideas and fashions will be found around the campus. Last quarter saw the boys casting aside traditional trousers and sporting Bermuda shorts (stripes and plaids, as well as solid colors) to class and to parties at Hogan's in the boondocks. The boys, however, have no prerogative as far as the Bermuda shorts are concerned, for the girls have been wearing them in zig-zag stripes and all imaginable colors. Bare feet, a long-time popular fashion, became well entrenched during last quarter, and reached a peak at the Barefoot Ball.

Hogan's seems to be holding its own as the favorite party place. Swinging on the ring out over the water offers thrills to anyone daring enough to try it. Eastwood has proved to be popular, too. In the afternoon, everyone can find their friends basking in the sun at Kessing Pool.

Bridge games can be found at almost any time and place, the favorite place seems to be on the front porches of dorms, fraternity and sorority houses, as well as in Graham Memorial, and the time preferred seems to be any time there are four willing people available.



Beach parties are frequent and can be (and often are) planned on the spur of the moment. Weekends find the Carolina populace well represented at Myrtle, Wrightsville, Carolina, and Morehead City beaches. A weekend will probably not exist this summer that does not see numerous campus folk enjoying the sand and surf.

The tennis courts and theaters are both popular gathering places. The first for those students who are athletically inclined and the latter for those who simply want to enjoy themselves while cooling off.

The Rathskellar still holds its own with those of us who love beer, spaghetti, and atmosphere.

In the mornings, the favorite locale is the well known "Y" court.

CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer

5-14

HORIZONTAL
1. religious denomination
5. side-post of door
9. contend
12. fruit tree
13. spoken
14. extra
15. singing voice
16. cone (Bot.)
18. an epic poem
20. where flowers are grown
21. craze
23. very small amount
24. compulsory levy
26. unite closely
30. hold session
31. hourly
33. a dessert
34. fish sauce
36. beguiling
38. elliptical
40. attribute
41. expert
44. game fish
45. piglike
47. continued pain
50. wing of house
51. burden
52. brace
53. wholly
54. stake
55. instead

VERTICAL
1. town in Belgium
2. bold fish
3. jink
4. of torrid zone
5. Chinese idol (Pidgeon English)
6. branch of learning
7. of a boundary
8. puff up
9. vacuum
10. vain
11. paradise
17. concoct
19. sworn statement
21. tableland
22. angle formed by union of leaf and stem
23. edible fungus
25. a treating with iodine
27. over the focus of an earthquake
28. subsist
29. wild animal
32. draw
35. calm
37. Mexican blanket
39. suburban detached cottage
41. on open water
42. lifeless
43. streamlet
44. surrender
46. man's nickname
48. of that man
49. before

BEET
DOOK

AIR-CONDITIONED FOR YOUR COMFORT

N. C. Teachers Meet

(Continued from page 3)

meetings scheduled there. Prof. Lou LaBrant, of New York University, first vice-president, National Council of English Teachers, will speak at Duke Friday night on "The Language World of Today's Youth."

Visiting teachers at the initial meeting at Duke Thursday morning, August 6, will be welcomed by Summer Session Director Dr. Paul H. Clyde. Presiding will be Miss Eunice Riggins, Technical High School, Charlote, NCETA president.

Work conferences will consider and revise experimental drafts for a new edition of "Language Arts in the Public Schools of North Carolina". NCETA committees have been working for the past three years on revision of the content in this bulletin which was published by the State Department of Public Instruction in 1945. Miss Jessie Belle Lewis, Chapel Hill, is chairman of the steering committee on revision of the bulletin.

Answer To Today's Cryptogram

Answer: He that doth not love wine, women, and song; remains a fool his whole life long.

It's smart not to wait until you're past your prime to prime yourself for the future.

Varsity

— NOW SHOWING —

"The Hidden Room"

Starring

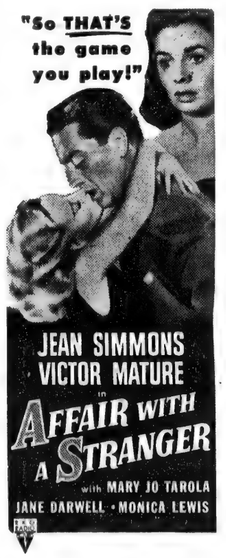
ROBERT NEWTON

—Friday—

"Repeat Performance"

Starring

JOAN LESLIE
LOUIS HAYWARD



—Saturday—

"San Antone"

Starring

ROD CAMERON
ARLENE WHELAN

—Sunday-Monday—

10 Cent Beer Everyday
3:30 to 5.

TONIGHT and EVERY THURSDAY and FRIDAY — all the spaghetti and meat balls you can eat plus FREE beer or wine for 99c at the RATHSKELLER.

BOOKS YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS

History of the South, Francis Simkins—A complete story from Jamestown to present.

History of the Middle Ages, Sidney Painter — A scholarly narrative covering 284-1500 A.D.

INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings
Closed Sunday During Summer

Campus Bookshop Proves Interesting

By Lou Rogers

Take a stroll into Bull's Head Bookshop and you will find Mrs. Charles Valentine, the manager, helping an individual child find the right book; a group who came together chattering excitedly over which books to take out; or a teenager stretched out in a comfortable chair, book in hand, oblivious to the world. The Bull's Head Bookshop, a department of the Extension Division of the University Library, is alert to the reading needs of children as well as adults, especially during the summer months. A small group of children depend heavily on this shop for reading materials.

"The children's lending library has not been emphasized," said Mrs. Valentine, "because they have access to such a wonderful school library. Ordinarily the Bull's Head caters to the reading tastes of students, faculty, and faculty wives. However we do try to have the right book for each individual child in our group."

The children have the same rules as adults, 10 cents a week or 3 cents a day.

Many of them buy books for themselves and their friends. "When buying children's books," said Mrs. Valentine, "we have to consider the parents. They are very definite about what they want their children to read or buy, or give for gifts.

"We keep a list of every birthday book, by whom it was bought and for whom it was a gift. In this way parents can depend on us to select a welcome book."

The smaller children go in for little Golden Books. On a whole those of elementary school age like biography. The most popular books are the Bobbs Merrill biographies and the Landmark Series of Rando House. Young girls like mysteries and stick with an author whose books they like. The Bull's Head makes a special effort to find well-written and wholesome mysteries.

Only a few adolescent boys patronize the Bull's Head but those who do go in for adventure and are especially fond of Manley, Wade Wellman's books.

The most difficult problem in the children's library, according to Mrs. Valentine, is to get books adult enough for the adolescents. They want adult books but many of these books are too hard for them.

The second problem is the bright second or third grader who wants to read for himself. The material in many of the books written for him is too childish, yet his reading vocabulary has not developed fast enough to keep up with his interest such as airplanes and adventure. "He then turns to comics," she added, "which he can read from the pictures."

In selecting children's books Mrs. Valentine tries to strike a balance between the classics and the bright new ones and to find for the child, a good substitute for a requested poor one.

THE SPORT SHOP

JULY CLEARANCE

SALE

The news that THE SPORT SHOP is running a store-wide sale affects you directly. There's not a man in Chapel Hill who doesn't stand to gain from this money-saving event.

And we do mean gain. You get your pick of an enormous selection of America's most famous spring and summer clothing and furnishings. You do your own picking at sale prices that amount to bargains within bargains—because THE SPORT SHOP prices reflect "the smallest margin of profit known."

Good news? You bet! And best of all, you're in on it—the moment you step into THE SPORT SHOP!

The Weekly Tar Heel

Volume I THURSDAY, JULY 30, 1953 Number 2

BIG HOUSING SHORTAGE

Murray To Sing

Community Sing Sunday

Miss Nancy Murray, star of the Playmakers production "Princess Ida" here in the spring, will be soloist for the second community sing of this term to be held Sunday night Aug. 3 at 8 o'clock on the lawn of Graham memorial.

These sings, which have been very popular with the students this summer, are being sponsored by the summer activities council and there is a possibility that they will be continued during fall semester.

Mrs. Mary Neil White, wife of law student James D. White, will again be pianist for the program and Tom Carroll, A '53 UNC graduate in Radio, will be master of ceremonies. A section of the program will consist of group songs without slides which will be led by Scotty Hester, a rising sophomore.

Miss Murray, a rising senior is from Raleigh. She is noted for her parts in light opera and has played in many such productions in her home town and while a student at St. Marys. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority.

Outdoor Dramas Plentiful In N. C.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is contributing in large measure to the entertainment, culture, and edification of thousands of tourists through its connection with the outdoor dramas now in full swing in this and other states.

This is revealed in an article appearing in the current issue of the University Report, a bi-monthy publication for trustees, faculty, alumni, and parents of students of the University.

The article states that six members of the Carolina Playmakers staff and the Department of Dramatic Art and the chairman of the Department, Samuel Selden, are helping produce three of the dramas in this State, four graduate assistants serve on the staffs, and approximately 70 dramatic art students are taking part as actors, dancers, singers and technicians.

Professor Selden is supervisory director of "The Lost Colony" at Manteo and Adviser to "Horn in the West" in Boone.

Mrs. Irene Smart Rains is costumer and William I. Long is technical director of "The Lost Colony." Kai Jurgensen is director and William M. Hardy is business manager of "Horn in the West" and Harry Davis is director and Foster Fitz-Simons is associate director and member of the cast of "Unto These Hills" at Cherokee. All are either on the Dramatic Art faculty or the staff of the Playmakers.

Kermit Hunter, author of "Horn in the West" and "Unto These Hills," is a parttime instructor in the Department and Paul Green, author of "The Lost Colony," was formerly a faculty member in the Departments of Dramatic Art and Philosophy. Green is also author of "The Common Glory," being given at Williamsburg, Va., and "The 17th Star," a special centennial play for the state of Ohio.

Professor Thomas Patterson of the Department of Dramatic Art is author of "The Aracoma Story" which will be given several weeks during August in Logan, W. Va.

Two former Playmakers are involved in the production of "Florida Aflame" in Lake Wales, Fla. John Caldwell is author of this drama and Edgar Loessin is director.

Professor Selden says that this season some 250,000 tourists and North Carolinians are expected to attend the outdoor shows in this State.

YOU ARE NEEDED

If you have ever desired to work on a newspaper, or if you are an old hand at the job, you are needed. The Weekly Tar Heel needs more staff members. If you are interested, let us know either by coming by the offices between 2 and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday or by calling 9-3361. Thank you.

International Open House Sunday

The all campus socials which have provided entertainment and helped bind together the summer school students will continue this week in the form of international open house. The event will be held Sunday, August 2 from 4:30 to 6 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

People on the campus will have the opportunity of meeting some forty-six international students, faculty members, and their wives who help make up the cosmopolitan student body. These people represent China, Japan, England, Canada, India, Burma, Pakistan Sweden, Greece, Estonia, Denmark, Puerto Rico, Hawaii, Columbia, Chile, Ecuador, Brazil, Panama, Peru, Germany, Bolivia, Costa Rica, Mexico, Holland, and France.

Many of the students will arrange small exhibits depicting their native customs. Others will dress for the occasion in native costumes. A group of students from the cosmopolitan club and summer activities council, sponsors of the event, will introduce the foreign students.

Everyone, including townspeople, are invited to take advantage of this occasion to meet and become acquainted with the many students and faculty members and their families from outside the United States who have in recent years become so much a part of the University. Refreshments will be served by the sponsoring organizations.

Williams Elected In Coed Dorm Meet

Elizabeth Williams of Charlotte is the newly elected social chairman of Carr Hall. She was elected last Thursday night by the students living in that graduate dormitory, and will serve as chairman for the second session of summer school.

Council members are the same as last term. They are Mrs. Dorothy Eables, Wilson; Mrs. Jeanne McKinnon, Charlotte; Miss Gertrude Pierce, Hallsboro; Dorothy Piland, Conway, S. C.; Stella Randall, Blacksburg, S. C.

Miss Berta Fuqua of Madison presided at the meeting.

Playmaker Tryouts

Tryouts for three original one-act plays written by the summer playwriting class in dramatic art will be held in the Playmakers Theater at 3 pm, Monday, August 3rd.

All persons interested in acting are cordially invited to attend.

Housing Shortage Acute

Students who have rooms the second session of summer school do not necessarily have a room for next fall. Housing officer James E. Wadsworth said today. All students who plan to attend UNC next fall must make a room deposit of six dollars with the University cashier in the basement of south Building.

Any student who is attending summer school on the condition that if he passes his work that he will be admitted for the fall term, should make a deposit in order that he will be eligible for a room next fall.

At the present time all dormitory rooms have been filled for next fall and there is a waiting list of 110 persons who desire housing in dormitories. Relief from this situation is being found through homes in town and the temporary use of basements in dormitorys.

Victory village requests have far exceeded anything ever before experienced. The increased number of graduate students and Korean veterans constitute the chief reason for the housing shortage in victory village. Wadsworth stated that there are 252 Housing units in victory village. These units were built by the federal housing authority with the objective of providing quarters for World War II veterans. Since that time the units in victory village have been turned over to the University with preference to be given to veterans when the distribution of the housing units occur.

At the present time all units are filled and an applicants position on the waiting list is determined by the time he enrolled in college and the date of his application. Preference is given to veterans and families with children.

CAMPUS SEEN

Two girls leaving Rathskellar with dazed look and big smiles.

Modern girl matching escort to determine who pays for meal.

Same lovely couple seen dancing in Y office again.

Wesley Foundation

Everyone is invited to attend a vesper program given in the Little Chapel of the Methodist church this evening at 6:00 P. M.

There will be coffee and donuts served at 9:45 A. M. in Sunday school at the Methodist church. Sunday evening at 6:00 P. M. the Wesley Foundation will have a supper meeting at the church, and will hold a short program following the supper. Everyone is invited to attend.

The Weekly Tar Heel

Published every Thursday during the second term of the summer school, is printed by the Orange Printshop of Chapel Hill. It is the official publication of the summer school of the University of North Carolina and is published by the students.

STAFF

EDITOR ..... Bill Formyduvall
MANAGING EDITOR AND BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Tate Sparger
NEWS EDITOR ..... Bill Venable
SPORTS EDITOR ..... John Rhoades
SOCIETY EDITOR ..... Laura Holoman
CIRCULATION MANAGER ..... Jackie Batten
CIRCULATION ASSISTANT ..... Jo Ann Tatum
HONORARY EDITOR ..... Pat Seawell

The Eye of the Horse

by

ROGER WILL COE

(The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . ." Hipporotis; circa 500 B.C.)

THE HORSE was lounging against the front of Davie Hall, munching some grass and reading a newspaper. Suddenly, The Horse horse-laughed.

I hadn't heard anything funny since Dr. Holt McPherson, the Enterprising High-Point journalist, revealed his plans for the face-lifting of our School of Journalism.

"What's funny," The Horse echoed my query, "is Earson's idea to run a Food Drop to the Iron Curtain people."

Earson?

"Yeah," The Horse nodded. "Droop, himself."

I looked over his withers at what he was reading.

That was Drew Pearson!

"That's what I said, Droop Earson," The Horse said equably. "We could use some of that Air Drop stuff here at UNC."

For example?

"In fact," The Horse mused, balling up the newspaper and kicking it into the Botany One classroom, "we might work up an Exchange Air Drop with neighboring universities and colleges. We might talk Everett Case, at State, into dropping us some of his surplus ectomorphs for our basketball team."

And, in exchange?

"Panties," The Horse said, "contributed by UNC co-eds. That would take the pressure off Meredith College and the Raleigh police."

Maybe Case claimed the panty-demand had dropped?

"Then we'll arrange a three-way Drop," The Horse offered. "Panties for State students, from our co-eds; panty-waists from Duke to State, to wear them; and we drop a supply of denim levis and openneck shirts to the Dooks to help distinguish their Eds from their co-eds; and some ectomorphs for Frank McGuire, from State to us."

I wasn't sold.

"Of course you aren't sold," The Horse horsed, "I can't even give you away. But you are missing the real significance of this Air Drop business. Once it becomes routine, we can start really stirring up the animals. In a broadening way, too."

How?

"Well, entire faculties, boards of trustees, whole student bodies, even, can be air dropped. Think of it! Some fine morning, the Wake Forest lads wake up to find the Holy Cross Jesuits have taken over at Baptist Hollow. The Notre Dame chappies awake to find G. Bromley Oxnam is their new president. And John Washington Clark gets up to discover he is President of The Consolidated Universities of Fiske, Howard and Virginia Union. It would be the greatest forward step in Education since the School of Business Administration started changing the answers in examinations, instead of the questions."

Could it be used to expedite our current Drop-Add system?

"If you're seeing some good in it," The Horse sighed, "let's drop the whole thing. It must be a dud. Well, I'll be seein' ya!"

SALE

SHORT SLEEVE

SPORT SHIRTS

Very Special 2.95

A great selling event of cool, short sleeve shirts. Values like this — you'll want a whole dresser full.

varsity MEN'S WEAR FRANKLIN ST.

CLASSIFIED

ANNOUNCEMENT

JENKINS' "ADAM SMITH TODAY" and many other good books on economics, political science, philosophy, history, etc. The Unicorn Book Shop. Over Sutton's Drug Store. Dial 9-6173.

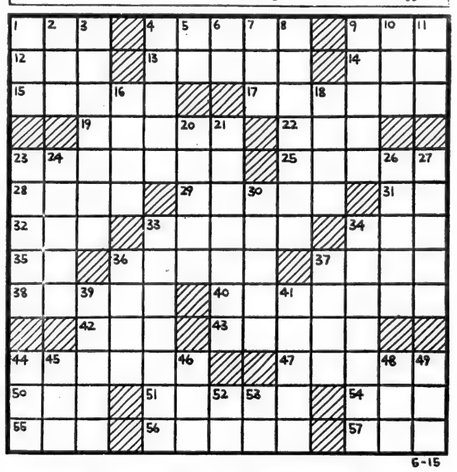
SERVICES OFFERED

JOIN YOUR CLASSMATES AND others on the campus and bring your laundry here where you save money and get your laundry back, washed and dried in one hour. Washed in only 30 minutes. Shirts hand finished. You can't beat our service. Ask the boys who come here regularly. ROSEMARY AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY, 329 W. Rosemary St. Dial 5121.

HELP WANTED

ARE YOU A COLLEGE GRADUATE with a law degree? If you are and do not propose to follow the general practice of law we have available an administrative position that offers a bright future and responsible dignified work with a large insurance company in its mortgage loan department. Write giving qualifications and include age, marital status, address and phone number. A-150, Weekly Tar Heel.

WANTED: MALE APPRENTICE, stage managing experience preferred. No salary, but will furnish room and board. Contact immediately Carolina Circle Theatre, Ocean Forest Hotel, Myrtle Beach, S. C.



WANTED: CASHIER AND CANDY attendant. Apply Carolina Theatre.

Today's Cryptogram

Hint: This is a much seen quote appearing in a well known campus hangout.

Ac hath quha guh juic ksgc kuacg tgq ougr dcatsgo t zuuj aso kaujc jszc jugr.

CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer

6-15

HORIZONTAL
1. young bear
4. masculine persons
9. eccentric wheel part
12. eggs
13. habituate
14. fourth caliph
15. flat-bottomed freight boat
17. tough knots
19. wash lightly
22. river in Brazil
23. ironer
25. marine carnivore
28. sword handle
29. fleshy fruits
31. international language
32. donkey
33. athletic contests
34. daunt
35. symbol for selenium
36. island in New York harbor
37. measured medication
38. gnaw away
40. overtopped
42. mountain in Crete
43. excess of solar year
44. Italian sausage
47. Celts
50. grow old
51. rub out
54. Tibetan gazelle
55. lump
56. one of the Cyclades
57. eternity

VERTICAL
1. male swan
2. grape
3. round vessels
4. faces
5. indefinite article
6. symbol for lutecium
7. unit of work
8. upper classmen
9. unit of gem weight
10. full amount
11. prefix: wrong
16. main idea
18. deeds
20. calyx leaf
21. hermit
23. stage of development
24. vertical part of stair
26. appearing gnawed
27. propelled with oars
30. Greek fabulist
33. shone
34. retinue
36. Icelandic literature
37. ten: comb. form
39. lubricated
41. labor remuneration
44. observed
45. Turkish title
46. wrath
48. game of chance
49. river in Poland
52. diminutive for Alfred
53. therefore

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

5-15

Average time of solution: 24 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

THE COOLEST SPOT IN TOWN!

Carolina

TODAY and FRIDAY

GREAT STARS IN A LOVE STORY OF SHOW PEOPLE!

M-G-M presents

MAIN ST. TO BROADWAY

A LESTER COWAN PRODUCTION

The famed stars as themselves in a big drama!

SATURDAY

SUN.-MON. TUE.

WEDNESDAY
AVA GARDNER
HOWARD KEEL
in
"SHOWBOAT"

N. C. English Teachers Meet

When the English teachers arrive for the 11th annual summer North Carolina English Institute August 6-8, they will find the University of North Carolina ready with its part of a full program, according to Dr. E. H. Hartsell, of the University English Department, executive secretary of the North Carolina English Teachers Association.

Luncheon and afternoon sessions will be held in Chapel Hill on Friday, August 7.

Dr. Charles F. Carroll, State superintendent of public instruction, will speak on "The Indispensability of Language Instruction" at the luncheon Friday, August 7, at 1 p.m. at the Carolina Inn. Miss Eunice Riggins, president of the North Carolina English Teachers Association, will preside.

At 2:30 Friday afternoon, "As Others See Us," a panel appraisal of the required program of English instruction, promises to be a stimulating session for teachers who welcome thoughful, sympathetic criticism from well-informed sources. Appraisers will include UNC professors M. T. Van Hecke, former Dean, School of Law; Thomas H. Carroll, dean, School of Business administration; Claiborne S. Jones, zoology department; and Duke professor of history, William B. Hamilton, now teaching in the UNC Summer Session.

These educational leaders in academic fields other than languages will be asked to judge the required English program as a whole—elementary, secondary, and general college—in terms of its observed results in fitting students for various non-teaching careers most familiar to the panel participants, who represent the broad areas of Law, Business and Industry, the Natural Sciences, and the Social Studies.

George M. Harper, UNC English department, will be moderator of the panel. Mrs. Ottis M. Hedrick, chairman of the NCETA composition committee, will preside.

After the two Chapel Hill programs Friday afternoon, the group will return to Duke campus for other

(See N. C. TEACHERS, page 4)

CLEARANCE SALE

ALL SPRING AND SUMMER MERCHANDISE

NOW IN PROGRESS

— at —

Robbins

REDUCTIONS OF UP TO ½ AND MORE ON

Dresses . . . . . Suits
Beachwear . . . . . Sportswear
Millinery . . . . . Lingerie
Shoes

Robbins

ONE OF CAROLINA'S REALLY FINE STORES FOR WOMEN

Air-Conditioned for Your Comfort

AIR-CONDITIONED FOR YOUR COMFORT

bulletin board.

THE COOLEST SPOT IN TOWN!

Carolina

TODAY

The story of Lily James, the girl who really lived...

M-G-M presents

LANA TURNER RAY MILLAND

A Life Of Her Own

FRIDAY-SATURDAY

TRUE! THRILLING! The story of the great daredevil!

HOUDINI

COLOR BY Technicolor

starring

TONY CURTIS AND JANET LEIGH

SUNDAY-MONDAY

THE GIRL AND THE GUNFIGHTER... Spectacular hot-blooded drama!

ROBERT TAYLOR AVA GARDNER HOWARD KEEL

In M-G-M's RIDE, VAQUERO!

with ANTHONY QUINN KURT KASZNAR

in flaming COLOR!

TUESDAY-WEDNESDAY

YOU'LL LOVE... "LILI"

FROM M-G-M

STARRING LESLIE CARON MEL FERRER JEAN PIERRE AUMONT

IN COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR

Library Features News Pictures

Is there a camera bug in the house? If so, the university library is now featuring an exhibit which should prove to be of great interest to the clan of lens dusters.

The exhibit consists of the prize winning news photographs of the ninth annual competition and exhibition sponsored by the school of journalism of the University of Missouri. Probably the most familiar by-line included is David Douglas Duncan, famed for his outstanding coverage of the Korean War. Two excellent photographs dealing with the retreat of the first marine division are, to this writer, the eye-catchers of the exhibit. These appeared first in life magazine and later in Mr. Duncan's book Retreat Hell!

The subjects are not limited to war and other political events. The exhibit includes mountain climbing, children in sports, and an especially fine action shot from the basketball game between Duke and Temple.

So, my colleagues of the light meter, take an hour off to gaze upon the work of the scion of the modern photographic society!'

10 Cent Beer Everyday
3:30 to 5.

TONIGHT and EVERY THURSDAY and FRIDAY — all the spaghetti and meat balls you can eat plus FREE beer or wine for 99c at the RATHSKELLER.

CASH FOR YOUR OLD POCKET BOOKS

Bring Them in Now

INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

Closed Sunday During Summer

UNC RATED HIGH

(Continued from page 2)

North Carolina, with very modest resources, loom head and shoulders above dozens of universities with larger annual budgets. I have just counted 36 universities with larger annual budgets than either of these two. . .They and a few others of their calibre manage to pick promising young scholars and keep them, and then see to it that the 'promise' becomes a reality or that the 'promiser becomes a casualty and spends the rest of his career in places more suited to his genial temperament than an institution that expects him to act like an intellectual leader."

According to Dr. B. L. Ullman, head of the Classics Department here, the death last year of Dr. Richard Jente, head of the German Department, "undoubtedly prevented a higher rating in German."

The reason North Carolina was not ranked among the foremost in some other fields of the mediaeval and Renaissance culture was because there are no departments in these subjects here or because the emphasis may be on phases other than the mediaeval, Dr. Ullman said.

In the opinion of some respondents, Dr. Thomson said, the library facilities at Harvard and Yale were a large factor in the high rank assigned them. . . ."The factor of research facilities and funds will eventually affect the attractiveness of any given institution to an active and ambitious scholar."

Chancellor Robert B. House, commenting on the report, said: "This report is significant, not only for the general standing of this University, but as a sign that the humanistic studies are in much better shape at Chapel Hill than has been supposed. I am glad for people to know what we are doing. We have in B. L. Ullman, U. T. Holmes, Loren MacKinney and Robert Pratt and others some of the men who are outstanding in the world in scholarship in the humanities."

Round-Trip to Moon Offered by Planetarium

A forecast of the future is being experienced in the Morehead Planetarium where summer students are taking advantage nightly of round-trips to the moon.

The performance, under the direction of Planetarium Manager A. F. Jenzano, is "Trip to the Moon," which will continue through August. Trips are scheduled each evening at 8:30 and on Saturday afternoons and 3 and 4 and on Sunday afternoons at 2, 3, and 4.

Persons Features Art Exhibit

The best of student art work done over the past year is being shown now at Person Hall Gallery is the 17th annual student exhibit. Included are selected examples of drawing, painting, sculpture and textile design. In general the exhibit reflects the modern school of art and the students are encouraged to apply personal interpretation to what they are taught.

In the field of oil painting this is illustrated by using burlap to paint on as Tom Brame did, or pouring a sand-and-glue mixture on the canvas before painting, as done in work by Jane Bolmeier and Daisy Wade. Other advanced painting students whose works are displayed are David Huntley and Katherine Sledge.

The bulk of the work in the exhibit is studies in composition, realistic and abstract, in tempera, charcoal and crayon, in which the students are encouraged to organize line, tone, shape, area, texture and other factors in various combinations.

The sculpture on display are varied, modern, and interesting, including examples of wire and string composition, bas-relief plaques, applied concrete or plaster on wire, and various types of metal sculpture.

The classes in advertising art have unusual displays of three-dimensional layout as well as posters and magazine ads. Life drawing of the human figure is represented by studies in charcoal and ink. Also included in the exhibit are colorful examples of linoleum block printing on textiles.

Intramurals

Participation in the intramural program at UNC this second session of summer school has not been up to the standards desired.

Softball participation has been hampered by some teams not reporting at the scheduled times of play.

Golf and tennis are underway and are moving along with the scheduled program as planned. The first round of singles and doubles tennis play were completed this past Monday and the second round is now underway.

The golf program is being guided by Edward Kenney, who is the local pro at Finley Golf Course. Contestants' scores are posted in the clubhouse at the golf course.

Everyone should be thankful they have Keg Wheeler, who is doing an excellent job at guiding the intramural program this second session of summer school. Keep up the good work, Keg.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

I shall pass through this world but once. If, therefore, there be any kindness I can show, and good thing I can do, let me do it now.

Let me not defer it or neglect it, for I will not pass this way again.

The Weekly Tar Heel

Volume I THURSDAY, AUGUST 6, 1953 Number 3

FINAL FLING TO BE HELD Top Social Event

Wednesday Night Movies

Nile River Valley: A 17 minute feature in color showing the lower half of the Nile River from a semi-arid plain of central Sudan thru the dry desert land of Egypt to the mouth of the Nile, in the Mediterranean Sea. The annual flood of the Nile and its effects on the life of the people. Includes scenes of irrigation projects, the temples of Karnak, the pyramids of Giyek, cities of Khartosum, Luxor and Cairo.

Happy Valley: 11 minutes. Depicts the peaceful pattern of the life in an Acadian Valley of Nova Scotia. Happenings of everyday life filled with picturesque charm and mellow color of this Canadian province in brilliant color.

California and its Natural Resources: The final of an all color showing presenting the resources, products and industries of our native state, contrasting the present development with the barrenness and wasteland of California's early history. Shows transformation of desert wastes into productive fields by means of irrigation, rugged mountains into mineral mining and milling activities and cliff scarred coast lines into petroleum production facilities.

Summer Activities Council Meeting

The Summer Activities Council will meet Monday night, August 10 at 7:00 o'clock in the YMCA Cabinet room. This Council is a coalition of the YMCA and Graham Memorial.

Norman Bowles, chairman of the Council, extends an invitation to all students who are interested in assisting in the various projects for the second term to attend.

CAMPUS SEEN

Corn-eating coed while watching Marilyn M. in movie: "What's she got that I haven't?"

Young man told her.

Student's finger bitten by squirrel.

Overheard in local soup kitchen: "That will be a nickel extra for catsup."

Shoes sailing down the halls of Spencer (3rd floor).

Two small boys fleeing from Old West like they had seen a ghost.

93 Register For Freshman Camp

More than 51 rising freshmen throughout the State who will enter the University of North Carolina at the fall term in September have already registered for the annual Freshman Camp to be sponsored by the YMCA at New Hope Camp near Chapel Hill September 9-12.

The camp is designed to give the incoming students an opportunity to meet administrative officials, professors, faculty counselors, ministers and student leaders before the regular campus orientation program September 14-16.

Registration for the fall term will be held September 17-19, placement tests and examinations September 18-19, and classes will begin Monday, September 21.

The growing popularity of the Freshman Camp at New Hope has made it necessary to accept applicants on a first-come, first-serve basis since there are facilities for only approximately 100 boys.

Conducted entirely by students for students, the camp is being directed this year by Bernie Theiling, Charlotte.

Announcing plans today, Chairman Theiling said that among those whom the new students will meet at camp this year will be President Gordon Gray, Chancellor R. B. House, Football Coach George Barclay, Basketball Coach Frank McGuire, and Baseball Coach Walter Rabb, in addition to a number of the newly-appointed 50 faculty counselors.

"The boys will have a real introduction to the way student activities are conducted at Carolina," Theiling said. "They will make friends here for life. The 15 to 20-man cabin groups are completely democratic, allowing freedom to bring up all problems and participate in discussions, recreation, worship and other parts of this program which make the boys feel they already belong to the Carolina family.

Included on the program will be talks by administrative officials and faculty members and student leaders, discussion of individual problems and questions, devotional services each evening, and recreation will include swimming, football, volleyball, softball, ping-pong, shuffle-board, badminton, campfires, and a Student-Faculty softball game.

YOU ARE NEEDED

If you have ever desired to work on a newspaper, or if you are an old hand at the job, you are needed. The Weekly Tar Heel needs more staff members. If you are interested, let us know either by coming by the offices between 2 and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday or by calling 9-3861.

Housing Still Acute

Housing Officer James E. Wadsworth said there are two basic problems confronting him in the housing of students at UNC. First, providing rooms for students who desire to live in dormitories, and second, the housing of married students.

At the present time the dormitories are full and rooms in town are being sought as the next best thing for students. Wadsworth said there has never been enough dormitory space at UNC and the people in Chapel Hill have been very cooperative in helping with the housing of students. This is nothing new, Wadsworth said, but as it always has been in the past.

Wadsworth said the housing for married students at UNC does not look good for those students who are now applying for rooms. He stated further that with no money being set aside by the University, the housing of married students is the best at UNC that could have been accomplished. Nothing has ever been set aside for housing of married students other than the renovation of Abernethy Hall and back during the depression the PWA built 12 apartments at Carolina Inn. Since that time nothing has been done by the University to provide housing for married students.

There has been nice living quarters set aside for single interns in the new Medical School, but no arrangements have been made for married interns.

When the question was raised about there being no store at Victory Village for the residents living there, Wadsworth gave the following answer: He said there was the Umstead Law which prohibited any private individual from operating a store in Victory Village. Up until a few years ago there was a cooperative store in Victory Village. Because of a low amount of capital caused by the rapid turnover of personnel in Victory Village, the store was forced to close. If the store had been leased out to some private indiivdual then it would have been able to operate on a satisfactory basis.

Community Sing Sunday

There will be a community sing on the lawn in front of Graham Memorial this Sunday night at 8:00 p.m. Mrs. Mary Neil White, wife of law student James D. White, will be pianist for the program and Tom Carroll of the WCHL staff will be master of ceremonies.

An all-campus, semi-formal dance will be held on Saturday night, August 15, 1953, from 9 til 12. The dance will take place in the air-conditioned ballroom of the Carolina Inn and is being sponsored by the Summer Activities Council and Graham Memorial. Jimmy Perkins, a well known band leader from Burlington, will bring his nine-piece band down to play for the dance. Tickets for the hop are now on sale in the "Y" lobby, Lenoir Hall, Graham Memorial and in each of the men's dormitories. The price of the ducats is $1.00 for stag or couples. In keeping with Carolina tradition, Dean Carmichael, the dean of women, has extended the coed curfew to one a.m. for the night of the dance. The committee for the dance is made up of Norman Bowles and Nancy Horne, co-chairmen; Bill Formyduvall, Pete Yarnell, Nancy Murray, Tate Sparger, Becky Seward, Dot Currin, Bob Cole, Bob Farrell, Farrar Parker, Harry Aycock, Scotty Hester and Tom Wakefield.

Rev. Jones Accepts Ministerial Post

Rev. Charles M. Jones, former pastor of the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church, has accepted a call to the new non-denominational church organized here last Sunday and tentatively named the Chapel Hill Community Church.

Mr. Jones, dismissed from his duties at the Presbyterian Church March 1 after charges by an Orange Presbytery judicial commission, resigned from the Presbyterian ministry last month. The commission charged that he and his church were departing from denominational doctrines.

A group of representatives from the new church will meet tonight with officers of the local Congregational-Christian Church to discuss plans to use their church building for a meeting place. The first services of the new church will be held Sunday, August 16, with Mr. Jones preaching.

Fifty-eight persons were present at the organizational meeting Sunday, including a group who left the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church upon the dismissal of Mr. Jones and 22 church officers. Raymond F. Gould, professor at UNC and a former officer in the Presbyterian Church, presided over the meeting and was named chairman of a temporary organizing committee. Other members of the commitee include UNC professors and staff members Dr. Lee Brooks, Mrs. Gustave Harrer, Dr. Sidney Chipman, T. M. Stanback, Dr. S. B. Knight, W. A. Terrill, Dr. T. H. Carroll, H. J. Elam, and Mrs. Clarence Heer and Orville Campbell.

The Weekly Tar Heel

Published every Thursday during the second term of the summer school, is printed by the Orange Printshop of Chapel Hill. It is the official publication of the summer school of the University of North Carolina and is published by the students.

STAFF

EDITOR ..... Bill Formyduvall
MANAGING EDITOR AND BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Tate Sparger
NEWS EDITOR ..... Bill Venable
SPORTS EDITOR ..... John Rhoades
SOCIETY EDITOR ..... Mary Stewart
CIRCULATION MANAGER ..... Jackie Batten
CIRCULATION ASSISTANT ..... Jo Ann Tatum
HONORARY EDITOR ..... Pat Seawell

The Eye of the Horse

by
ROGER WILL COE

(The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . ." Hipporotis; circa 500 B.C.)

THE HORSE wasn't looking well. I eyed him critically, as he lay sprawled in the shade of Kessing Pool, and thought it was quite apparent what ailed him.

"An optical disturbance," The Horse chittered weakly. "A malaise of the vision attributable to the wrong glasses. It is sadly ironic, is it not? How many people suffer from not having glasses; and how many more from having too many glasses!"

I thought the cause and the cure were as simple as ABC.

The Horse groaned. "If you'd made a miserable pun such as that when I was wealthy, I would have had my slaves to rend you limb from limb!"

Had The Horse really been wealthy, once?

"I owned the Mediterranean Sea Bottling Company, I did," he said, his eyes coming slightly more open. "I did. I actually owned it!"

So what? People would never pay for bottled sea-water, would they?

"My people would, and did," The Horse grinned happily. "You see, on old Roman and Italian maps, the Mediterranean was named 'Mare Nostrum.' I bottled and labeled it just that way."

That was said, Mair-ray Noze-strum. It was Latin for, 'Our Sea.' I thought everybody knew that?

"Just me and the Mayor of Carrboro knew it," The Horse snarked. "And maybe a few other noble Old Romans. But the entire horse world thought it was an equine Lydia Pinkham's Compound. Catch . . .? Ain't 'nostrum' a term for a cure-all? And a 'mare' a lady horse? Our sales in the Horse Latitudes were terrific."

Wasn't that dishonest?

"Are you a Commie?" The Horse snapped. "Don't you believe in Free Enterprise? If you make someone think they want or need your product, isn't that the same as if they really did need it? When you analyze it, a salesman of unwanted or useless items is a boon to humanity. You sit around wondering what there is you can be unhappy about, and along comes a salesman to sell you that what you need is a fur-lined Sanskrit Dictionary, complete with hot-and-cold running water and neon lights, and a combination corkscrew-beer opener in a back flap; and you are unhappy until you own one."

And unhappier when you did own one?

"That's Civilization, Buster," The Horse shrugged. "But you get happily unhappy again when some other salesman comes along with something else you don't need but got to have. It is a milestone of the world's progress. Primitive Man was unhappy because he didn't have anything, but it takes real Culture to be unhappy with everything."

Like The Horse was unhappy now?"

"Jeff and Jimmy misunderstood me," The Horse muttered. "They musta thought I asked for a half-case of Blitz."

So what would The Horse do? Just die here?

"I wish," The Horse muttered, "I had some of my good old Mare Nostrum to brace me up a little."

I couldn't help him there, but I thought I knew where I could obtain a thimble or three of, if he would pardon my Latin, Aqua vitae.

Divots of chernozem rose in the air, so prompt was The Horse's acceptance of my offer.

"I see this isn't such a bad life, after all," The Horse observed, as he raced madly after me.

But as Hipporotis observed two-and-a-half centuries ago, The Horse doesn't see very well . . .

Swimming Schedules

Children's Program:

Instruction: 11:00-12:00 Monday-Friday.

Recreation: 12:00-12:30 Monday-Friday; 11:00-12:30 Saturday; 2:00-3:00 Sunday.

Other hours the pool is open to children when accompanied in the water by parents.

Adults' Program:

Instruction: 4:00-5:00 Monday-Friday.

Recreation: 12:00-6:00 Monday-Friday; 11:00-5:00 Saturday; 2:00-5:00 Sunday.

Plan to attend church this Sunday.

UNC Rated High In Scholarship

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is ranked second among state universities in the nation in overall scholarship in the mediaeval and renaissance fields, according to the results of a survey based on a questionnaire sent to scholars in these fields.

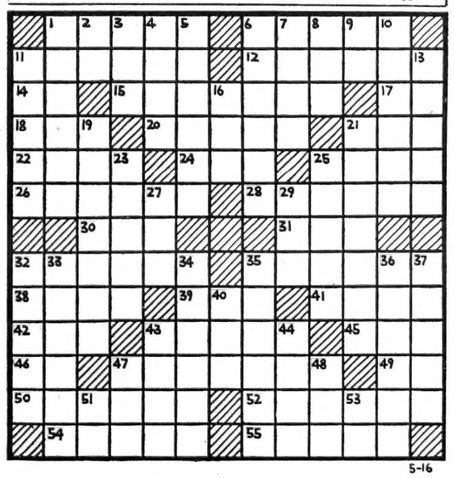
Only Wisconsin was ranked ahead of North Carolina, and no other Southern institution except Johns Hopkins is in the final list.

The survey made by The Bulletin of Mediaeval and Renaissance Studies of which Dr. S. Harrison Thomson of the University of Colorado is editor. Results of the study are published in the current issue of the Bulletin.

With both private and state-supported universities included in the survey, the University of North Carolina was ranked seventh in these two fields, preceded only by Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Princeton, Johns Hopkins, and Wisconsin.

North Carolina was also ranked second, next to Harvard, in Latin culture.

Dr. Thomson said in the ranking of Latin culture "the difference between Harvard and North Carolina was so little that two respondents ranking North Carolina first and Harvard third would have reversed the final order."



The survey also rates the University of North Carolina as third in Romance Languages (after California and Columbia); in Renaissance culture (history, literature, classics) sixth, Latin culture second (after Harvard); in history tenth; in English fifth (after Harvard, Yale, Hopkins, Columbia); in history of science fifth, and in German eleventh.

Dr. Thomson emphasized in his report that "it should be made quite clear that quality university performance is not primarily a matter of money.

"On our lists, Johns Hopkins and

(Continued on page four)

CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer

5-16

HORIZONTAL
1. equilibrium
6. agitates
11. pendant ornament
12. blasting explosive
14. correlative of either
15. leas
17. paid notice
18. prefix: wrong
20. asterisks
21. salutation
22. deduct
24. female sheep
25. so be it
26. cut off closely
28. emphasis
30. steep flax
31. prevail
32. English painter
35. braver
38. the dill
39. exist
41. antitoxins
42. among (poet.)
43. monetary units of Iran
45. fragment
46. neuter pronoun
47. braying implements
49. symbol for selenium
50. descendant of Levi
52. gnawed away
54. sand hills
55. stitched

VERTICAL
1. outcast
2. bone
3. doctrine
4. observes
5. exalted
6. supplies
7. hauls
8. those in office
9. New England state (abbr.)
10. barrel hoops
11. graves
13. paradises
16. jackdaw
19. was prominent
21. reviser
23. happening
25. accessory seed coverings
27. summer (Fr.)
29. cardinal numeral
32. ancient Dravidian
33. joined
34. erects
35. reigning beauties
36. rubbed out
37. stormed
40. rodent
43. network
44. series of plant changes
47. transfix
48. female hog
51. Odin's brother
53. prefix: down

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

C	U	B		M	A	L	E	S		C	A	M
O	V	A		I	N	U	R	E		A	L	I
B	A	R	G	E			G	N	A	R	L	S
		R	I	N	S	E		I	C	A
P	R	E	S	S	E	R		O	T	T	E	R
H	I	L	T		P	E	A	R	S		R	O
A	S	S		G	A	M	E	S		C	O	W
S	E		E	L	L	I	S		D	O	S	E
E	R	O	D	E		T	O	W	E	R	E	D
		I	D	A		E	P	A	C	T
S	A	L	A	M	I			G	A	E	L	S
A	G	E		E	R	A	S	E		G	O	A
W	A	D		D	E	L	O	S		E	O	N

5-16

Average time of solution: 26 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Varsity
NOW PLAYING
JOSEPH KAUFMAN presents
Joan Crawford in Sudden Fear!
with JACK PALANCE · GLORIA GRAHAME · BRUCE BENNETT VIRGINIA HUSTON · TOUCH CONNORS
Friday-Saturday
EIGHT GUNS FACED THE SHERIFF ...The Ninth Was Aimed At His Back!!
COLUMBIA PICTURES presents
THE LAST POSSE
starring BRODERICK CRAWFORD · JOHN DEREK · CHARLES BICKFORD · WANDA HENDRIX
Sunday-Monday
"FORT ALGIERS"
Starring
YVONNE DE CARLO
CARLOS THOMPSON

SALE
SHORT SLEEVE
SPORT SHIRTS
Very Special 2.95
A great selling event of cool, short sleeve shirts. Values like this — you'll want a whole dresser full.
varsity MEN'S WEAR
Support your Y.M.C.A.!

What Goes On Here

Square Dance

A square dance will be held Friday night at 8:00 in the Y court. The folk music band, under the direction of Bob Cole, will provide the music and Max Ballinger will call the dances. In case of rain the band will give a concert in Gerrard hall.

Higher Education

The social dancing class will continue to meet this week. The next class will be Thursday night from 7:00 to 8:30 on the terrace of Woollen gym. Miss Margaret Taylor, instructor, extends an invitation to anyone who is interested in learning to dance or in improving their steps.

Baptist-Methodist

Members of the Wesley Foundation will meet with the BSU Sunday at 6:00 p.m. at the Baptist church dining hall for a supper program.

Methodist Breakfast

The Methodist student class will meet for its regular class Sunday morning at 9:45. Cocoa and donuts will be served.

Presbyterian Supper

The Presbyterian student group will assemble as usual in the Y court at 6:00 p.m. Sunday and proceed to the Home of one of the members of the church for supper. Later in the evening the group will continue its study of the Westminster Confession of Faith.

Open House

Open House will be held at the Episcopal Parish House Friday night beginning at 8:00. The Canterbury Club will meet Sunday night in the cloister garden, if weather permits, for supper.

The Feast of the Transfiguration will be commemorated Thursday with Holy Communion at 7:00 and 10:00 a.m. at the church.

Swimming

Mr. Rodman of the physical education staff announces that he will conduct a men's swimming class in the indoor pool at 4:00 p.m. If as many as ten men are interested. Mr. Rodman can be reached at Woollen gym or those interested may sign up in the Y lobby.

Interested?

Anyone interested in a trip to Manteo this weekend should contact Norm Bowles at the YMCA, phone 6761, immediately. The group will leave Saturday morning, August 8, and anyone desiring to go must let it be known at once.

Today's Cryptogram

AVKHF PZ AOL AVTVYYVD, FVB DVYYPLK HIVBA FLZALY-LHF.

Answer to Today's Cryptogram

Today is the tomorrow, you worried about yesterday.

Sports

Fredere Ready For Big Year

Last October when sports writers at the Wake Forest-Carolina football game here saw Francis Fredere, apparently hale and hearty, peddling programs in the stands and not even in uniform, there was a buzz in Kenan Stadium press box. The conversational line: What goes?

Fredere was the giant junior tackle from Wilmington who had been in the starting offensive lineup for the opener with Texas. The two games scheduled after that, with Georgia and N. C. State, had been cancelled because of the flurry of polio on the campus. Now the Tar Heels were in business again, but Fredere wasn't.

The story was simple. Conference rules last year limited the dressing for conference games to 40 players. In the opinion of Carolina coaches, big Francis hadn't shown enough since the Texas game to warrant one of the 40 berths. It did seem strange that a player should slip from the first team out of the picture in so short a time. But the case of Francis Fredere was strange anyway.

Francis had a glittering high school career, coming along fast in his senior year to peg All-America recognition. He had a great season on Jim Camp's 1950 freshman team which tied for the state championship. When he came up to the varsity, he was the biggest lineman on the squad, at 230 pounds, and also the fastest. But he failed to make a letter as a sophomore and last year his fate was strange, indeed.

Big Francis, who had gained the reputation of being too nice a fellow on the football field, for all his heft and strength, not only didn't dress for the Wake Forest game. He also failed to make the Notre Dame trip. Then the desperate winless Tar Heels combed the lists again and Francis was called on against South Carolina and was one of the game's most outstanding players. He never was a starter again but he played in all the remaining games of the season.

Either Fredere has changed or the opinion of the new Carolina coaching staff is at variance with that of its predecessor. Francis is down for a first string berth this year and it's a hundred to one that he will not be selling programs at any game and that he will make all the trips. Coach George Barclay and his aides, in short, believe he will be one of the really fine tackles in the land this season. They're counting on big things from him.

Fredere, who is in summer school, appears to be a changed young man in every way. Where his spirit drooped last year, it's at the peak now. He has been playing handball daily this summer and working in other ways to keep in shape. He is confident that he will make his senior year a big one. His coaches are just as sure.

Tar Heel Netmen Third In Nation

The University of North Carolina and Miami University 1953 tennis teams are co-ranked third nationally by Hamilton P. Chambers in the current issue of "The Racquet Magazine."

Chambers, presenting his "Fourth Annual Intercollegiate Review," gives the top spot to California and number two rating to U.C.L.A., ahead of the undefeated North Carolina and Miami teams. Southern California and Princeton, the latter defeated by the Tar Heels, are co-ranked fifth.

"It is difficult to split North Carolina and Miami," Chambers writes. "The teams did not meet. A wide variety of opinion existed among our contacts as to which team packed the most power."

He adds: "Both schools defeated Duke, Yale and Amherst by comparable scores. A prominent coach in that (Southern) area told us that in his opinion if a match were played in Florida, Lufler's team (Miami) would win but if the match were played at Chapel Hill, he would go along with Carolina."

He points out that the Tar Heels "played a tougher schedule" in winning 23 straight matches. (Miami had a 14-0 record). Freshmen Tommy Bradford, eastern intercollegiate winner Don Thompson and Pete Green are described as having been of great help to such veterans as Del Sylvia, Bill Izlar, Herbie Brown and Bobby Payne.

In the same issue of "Racquet," former Tar Heel captain Vic Seixas is given a big play for his Wimbledon win.

The magazine carries a picture of the Tar Heel team and also a full page action picture of Seixas.

Student Wife Season Tickets

Athletic season tickets for wives of Carolina students will go on sale at the Athletic Association ticket office on Monday, August 10.

Any student who plans to be in school during the 1953-1954 season and whose wife will be in residence at Chapel Hill is entitled to make application for a season ticket. A deposit of $10 will be required, and the ticket will be held at the ticket office until the student returns in the fall, completes his registration, and presents evidence that his wife will be in residence here for the school year. When the student makes application, he will be required to present evidence of his marriage.

In the fall, date tickets to individual games will be available to students.

34 LETTERMEN TO RETURN

Thirty-four lettermen are included on the list of 60 football candidates invited to pre-season practices at Carolina this fall.

Then it becomes a case of 'Who Threw The Overalls In Mrs.

44. Native of Media

AIR-CONDITIONED FOR YOUR COMFORT

bulletin board.

Varsity

TODAY

"OUTCAST OF THE ISLANDS"

Starring

RALPH RICHARDSON

FRIDAY and SATURDAY

"VICE SQUAD"

Starring

EDWARD G. ROBINSON — PAULETTE GODDARD

SPECIAL

Late Show Saturday Night

Also

Sunday and Monday

The picture everyone is talking about!

Our Biggest Attraction of the Summer

WEDNESDAY

WARNER BROS. present ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S

I Confess!

STARRING

MONTGOMERY CLIFT · ANNE BAXTER

with KARL MALDEN · BRIAN AHERNE

80 OFFICERS TO ATTEND

(Continued from page 1)

Pentagon, "PW and the Army in Korea"; and Col. James Anderson, USAF, "The Air Force and PW."

Wednesday: John Hulley, Chief, European Regional Staff, Mutual Security Agency, "Economics and PW"; Lawrence Schlesinger, Director of PW Research, George Washington University, "The Organizational Target in PW," and Dr. Howard Page, Director, Human Resources Branch, Office of Naval Research, "Naval Research and PW."

Thursday: Dr. Max F. Millikan, Director, Center for International Studies, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, "PW Research"; and Capt. C. W. Schilling, USN, "Biological Sciences and PW."

Friday: Prof. John Honigman of the University Department of Sociology and Anthropology, "Cultural Differences and PW"; Col. John Paul Dickson, "PW in World War II," and Gen. Millard F. Young, USAF, "Case History of a Problem in PW."

The seminar will come to a close Friday, August 14, following reports of the work groups, with a banquet address by C. D. Jackson, Special Assistant to President Eisenhower.

10 Cent Beer Everyday
3:30 to 5.

TONIGHT and EVERY THURSDAY and FRIDAY — all the spaghetti and meat balls you can eat plus FREE beer or wine at the RATHSKELLER.

Is Your Dorm Too Hot?

THEN ENJOY YOUR EVENINGS BROWSING at the

INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

Closed Sunday During Summer

News Conference Slated For September

The second annual News and Feature Writers Conference, sponsored by the North Carolina Press Association, will be held at the University of North Carolina Friday and Saturday, September 11-12.

Sessions will be held at the Carolina Inn.

An informal entertainment program has been planned for Friday night, September 11. The main session will get under way with registration Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

The morning session will feature a critique on "News Stories, Good and Bad," by Arthur Edson, a star reporter of the Washington Bureau of the Associated Press, followed by comments and a question-and-answer period to be conducted by Prof. Walter Spearman of the University Journalism School.

Saturday afternoon two panel discussions will be held, one on feature writing, the other on freedom of information.

Participants in the panel on feature writing will be Roy Thompson of the Winston-Salem Journal, Roy Parker of Ahoskie, W. C. Burton of Reidsville, and Charles Craven of the Raleigh News and Observer.

Freedom of information will be discussed by Weimar Jones of the Franklin Press, Holt McPherson of the High Point Enterprise, Pete McKnight of the Charlotte News and Jay Jenkins of the Raleigh News and Observer.

The concluding dinner session Saturday night at 7 o'clock will be highlighted by a talk on libel law by William C. Lassiter, Raleigh, general counsel for the N. C. Press Association.

Members of the Conference committee are Woodrow Price of the Raleigh News and Observer, chairman; Jim Parker of Siler City, J. Hart Snyder of Asheville, William Rhodes Weaver of the Greensboro Daily News, and Mrs. Bernadette Hoyle of the Smithfield Herald.

Delegates from various newspapers planning to attend are requested to notify Walter Spearman at the School of Journalism by September 1.

Walt Pupa Joins Petroleum Company

Walt Pupa, popular former football star and coach at the University of North Carolina, has retired from coaching to accept a position with the Mexican Petroleum Corporation and will be located at Columbia, S. C.

Pupa was a great plunging and passing fullback with the Tar Heels for four years, with 1947 his last year. The next year he was made a member of the football coaching staff and served under Carl Snavely five years, until Snavely resigned after the 1952 season.

Pupa was made some attractive coaching offers but after long consideration decided to go into the business field.

A native of Pennsylvania, but reared on Long Island, N. Y., Pupa has made his year-round home here since he finished college. He and Mrs. Pupa plan to move to Columbia within the next few weeks.

The Weekly Tar Heel

Volume I THURSDAY, AUGUST 13, 1953 Number 4

FINAL FLING LOOMS

Big Night Expected

"Final Fling," the University dance sponsored by the Summer Activities Council, is expected to be the biggest event in the history of UNC summer schools.

Dancing, to the music of Jimmy Perkins and his nine-piece Burlington band, will begin promptly at nine Saturday night and will continue until midnight. Due to the expected crowd and the limited accommodations of the air-conditioned Carolina Inn ballroom, tickets will be only for advance sale and no tickets will be available at the door. However there is ample opportunity for all to purchase tickets either in the lobby or office of the "Y" or from representatives canvassing the men's dormitories. The price of the ducats is only $1.00 for stags or couples.

Special permission has been given by the dean of women's office and the Women's Residence Council for late curfew of 1 a.m. for all coeds on the night of the dance.

The semi-formal attire for the dance has been specified by the committee to include evening dresses or party dresses for the women and coat and tie for the men.

Refreshments in the form of punch will be served at the dance and there will be hostesses representing each of the women's dormitories and open sorority houses at the dance. Every possible effort is being made to make this a dance that will be enjoyed by all and one of the best to be seen on this campus.

Members of the committee working on the dance are: Norman Bowles, chairman; Nancy Horne, co-chairman; Nancy Murray, Tate Sparger, Pete Yarnell, Becky Seward, Dot Currin, Bob Cole, Bob Farrell, Scotty Hester, Farrar Parker, Harry Aycock, Tom Wakefield and Bill Formyduvall.

Three One-Act Plays Slated For Tonight

An experimental bill of three one-act plays will be presented tonight in the Playmaker Theater at eight o'clock.

The plays which will be given are "Fellow Immigrant" by Evelyn Bozeman da Parma, directed by Stan Ferber and featuring Charlotte Davis and Ann Miller Birch, both from Chapel Hill, in the starring roles; "The Crowin' Hen," written by Mellrose Higgenbotham and directed by William Troutman; Ruth Lewis, Don da Parma, Ann Miller Birch and Jim Leonard taking the leads; and "The Candy-Striped Umbrella" by James Gillikin, starring Rick Faw and Jean McKinnon and under the direction of Evelyn da Parma.

As has been the custom in the past, no admission will be charged for the plays.

An audience discussion of the three plays will follow the presentation of each one. The dramas will also be presented again tomorrow night at the same time.

Attendance Is High At Planetarium

During July, five and one-half thousand visitors to the Morehead Planetarium have made scheduled trips to the moon in the huge rocket ship "Expanding Galaxy." The program will continue to be given every evening at 8:30 and in the afternoons on Saturdays at 3:00 and 4:00 and on Sundays at 2:00, 3:00 and 4:00 p.m. through August.

Many Lost Articles To Be Found At "Y"

If you have lost any valuables in the past it might be a good idea to check by the YMCA. The "Y" is holding quite a few things, such as fountain pens, keys, books and watches that someone has lost. If you think that you fall into this category, drop by the "Y" as soon as possible and check.

Social Dance Class To Meet Tonight

The social dance class will meet tonight from 7:30 until 8:00 on the terrace of Woollen Gym. This class is being taught by Miss Margaret Taylor who is a teacher in the Arthur Murray Studio in Durham and a UNC summer student. Everyone is invited to attend.

Methodist Meeting

The Methodist College Group Sunday School Class will meet at the church for coffee and donuts at 9:45 Sunday morning.

Yarnell And Murray Featured In Sing

The last community sing of the summer will be held this coming Sunday night on the lawn in front of Graham Memorial. In addition to a number of very popular songs for group singing, Pete Yarnell, a very accomplished violinist and summer school student, will play "Csardas," a hungarian dance by V. Monti and "Wanting You" by Sigmund Romberg. Nancy Murray, star of the Playmaker production "Princess Ida," will sing two solos. Mrs. Mary Neil White will accompany the entire sing at the piano. Tom Carroll of Radio Station WCHL will be master of ceremonies and summer "Y" president, Norman Bowles, will operate the slides. The sing will start at 8 o'clock and will be cancelled in case of rain. The sing is sponsored by the Summer Activities Council.

80 Officers To Attend Seminar At University

The second Psychological Warfare Seminar, conducted by the Naval Reserve Research Company 6-6, which has headquarters at the University of North Carolina, will be held here Monday, August 3, through Friday, August 14.

The program of the seminar, which will bring 40 Naval and 40 Air Force Reserve officers here from many sections of the country, was announced today by the officer-in-charge, Lt. Comdr. Robert Schenkkan, commanding officer of 6-6 which has branches at Duke University and N. C. State College.

Registration will take place at 9 a.m. Monday in Cobb dormitory. At 11 a.m. the first session will begin in Gardner Hall where the officers will be welcomed by Chancellor Robert B. House, Capt. W. E. Guitar, representing the Commandant of the Sixth Naval District, Charleston, S. C., and Admiral C. M. Bolster, Chief of Naval Research, Washington.

Speakers Monday will include Edmond Taylor of the Psychological Strategy Board, Washington, on "Theory of Psychological Warfare," and Admiral Bernard Austin, Director of the International Affairs Division, Office of Chief of Naval Operations, on "International Affairs in the Defense Establishment."

Through Friday of the first week the program will be devoted to lectures and during the second week the officers will be divided into work groups for study of topics discussed.

Tuesday's speakers and their subjects will be Capt. Charles H. Smith, USN, "Navy Operations and PW"; Col. Wendell W. Fertig, USA, Acting Chief of Psychological Warfare, The

(Continued on page four)

Educational Exhibits Being Shown In Library

The Library of the University of North Carolina has opened several new educational exhibits which are on display in the halls of the building.

These exhibits are open to the public day and night on week days, all day on Saturdays, and on Sunday afternoons and evenings.

One of them is on the various bookplates used by the Library to identify special collections of books and various gifts of books.

Bookplates in current use as well as those of the early days of the Library are shown. Among the historic bookplates displayed in some rare books are those belonging to General William R. Davie, often called the "father of the University."

Shown also are bookplates that identify books once owned by Edward Moseley, early North Carolina political leader; William Hooper, one of the North Carolina signers of the Declaration of Independence; and James Haswell, a colonial chief justice and acting governor of North Carolina.

Another exhibit deals with the ninth annual contest for the best news pictures of the year, sponsored by the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri and the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Among the pictures selected for this honor is one by Max Thorpe, North Carolina freelance photographer and a native of Statesville.

Another display concerns the 300th anniversary of the founding of New York City. This exhibit contains a number of books about the famous city as well as a group of pictures of New York scenes.

Among the illustrations in the New York exhibit is one called "Manhattan Minarets," a drypoint engraving done by the noted artist, Walter Tittle.

This is one of a group of pictures that Tittle donated to the Library in memory of the late William Meade Prince, Chapel Hill author and illustrator.

A fourth display is on the Ainus, an aboriginal race, who were probably the first humans who lived in what is now known as Japan. The materials on the Ainus were collected in Japan by Carlos U. Lowrance, a University alumnus who was with the Eighth Army in Yokohama from 1946-49.

This display consists of Ainu weapons, clothing, carvings, trinkets, and household implements. Many of these items are centuries old.

Help yourself by helping the YMCA. Support your student activities.

Final Exam Schedules

Second term exams will be held in all departments as follows:

8 to 9 a.m. class—8 to 10 a.m., Saturday, August 22, 1953.

9 to 10 a.m. class—11 to 1 p.m., Saturday, August 22, 1953.

10 to 11 a.m. class—3 to 5 p.m., Friday, August 21, 1953.

11 to 12 a.m. class—8 to 10 a.m., Friday, August 21, 1953.

12 to 1 p.m. class—11 to 1 p.m., Friday, August 21, 1953.

Afternoon and all other classes not otherwise provided for will be given their exams from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday, August 22, 1953.

No student may be excused from a scheduled exam except by the University Infirmary in case of illness, or his General College adviser in case of any other emergency compelling his absence.

The Weekly Tar Heel

Published every Thursday during the second term of the summer school, is printed by the Orange Printshop of Chapel Hill. It is the official publication of the summer school of the University of North Carolina and is published by the students.

STAFF

EDITOR ..... Bill Formyduvall
MANAGING EDITOR AND BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Tate Sparger
NEWS EDITOR ..... Bill Venable
SPORTS EDITOR ..... John Rhoades
SOCIETY EDITOR ..... Mary Stewart
CIRCULATION MANAGER ..... Jackie Batten
CIRCULATION ASSISTANT ..... Jo Ann Tatum
HONORARY EDITOR ..... Pat Seawell

The Eye of the Horse

by
ROGER WILL COE

(The horse sees imperfectly, magnifying some things, minimizing others . . ." Hipporotis; circa 506 B.C.)

THE HORSE was clattering about the file-section of the UNC Library. I was impressed. Research work for the Second Summer Quarter Exams, or I missed my guess?

"You missed your guess," The Horse chittered. "I am trying to ascertain the victim of Ike's copyright infringements."

President Eisenhower had been guilty of copyright infringements? In his best-selling book?

"In his worst-selling look," The Horse corrected. "Or haven't you been reading the newspapers these last few months? Every time a picture of Ike is printed, it shows him in a facial contortion of mirth ranging anywhere from beaming joy to basso belly-laughs."

Didn't he approve of presidents laughing?

"Sure, when they have reason to," The Horse shrugged, giving up his shuffling of the file-drawers to lie down under a table. "The way Congress has been going on, though, and the beatings Chilling Charlie Wilson, and Can-You-Spare-a-Dime Humphrey, and Jawn Foster Dullest, have been taking, you'd wonder what he had to laugh about."

Well, would crying over these defeats help Ike?

"Of course not," The Horse said impatiently, his eight-ball eyes clicking as they swivelled to follow the sparkling ankles of a lass who went co-educationally past the table. "But you recall those marvelous Ike campaign-photos, don't you? More facial expression than a piano has keys! It's a Dewey plot, I tell you."

Dewey? New York's Governor Tom Dewey?

"Sure. He lent Ike his press-secretary, Jim Hagarty, didn't he? I bet you Hagarty hangs around and every time a photog shows up to take a pic of Ike, Hagarty says, 'Hey, Mr. President, smile! Wider, wider! Laugh! Look happy and insouciant! Aw, come on, laugh!' "

Why would Dewey have Hagarty do this?

"Why?" The Horse echoed. "You know Dewey's mustache lost him millions of votes, when he ran for President. Even Alice Roosevelt Longworth said Dewey looks like the little toy man who plays the part of the bridegroom on wedding cakes, with that lip-insulation he affects. Such a hirsute anti-climax didn't happen to Hitler."

But, where would there be any plot in this?

"Dewey probably figures," The Horse shrugged, "that after four years of Ike grinning himself frazzled in photos, the public would be glad to settle for even a Dewey mustache."

Perhaps; but what about this infringement-of-copyright talk?

"I think it is Oliver La Farge," The Horse mused, "who might have grounds for suing Ike for infringement."

Oh? So? And what part of a La Farge book had Ike infringed?

"The whole durn title," The Horse snorted. " 'Laughing Boy.' You see a picture of Ike talking with Humphrey—and Ike is laughing. General Mark Clark presents Ike with the so-called Korean Treaty—and Ike is laughing. Governor Stivers of Texas is pictured shaking Ike down for Drought Relief; and Ike is laughing. The Americans like a cheerful man and they like a pleasant man; but there are those who hold you shouldn't laugh when there is nothing to laugh about. For if there is anything funny about the Korean Armistice, General Mark Clark and Syngman Rhee seem to have missed the point, and they were there, Charlie!"

I thought The Horse was unnecessarily severe.

"Not me," The Horse chittered surging up from under the table, "but maybe La Farge will be when he hears this. His 'Laughing Boy' is in grave danger of being eclipsed, if this keeps up. The way I see it, anyway."

But The Horse doesn't always see perfectly, as Hipporotis pointed out . . .

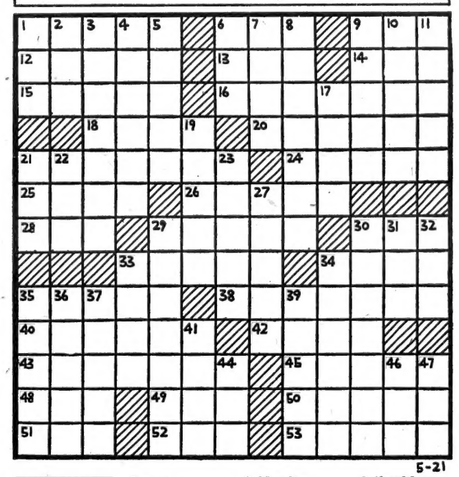
All-Campus Swim

An all-campus swim will be held tomorrow night, Friday, August 14, from 7:30 to 9. This "swim together" will be in the Kessing Outdoor Memorial Pool. This activity is open to everyone, however children must be accompanied in the water by their parents.

Carroll To Address English Teachers At Annual Institute Lunch

Dr. Charles F. Carroll, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be the principal speaker at a luncheon session here Friday of the North Carolina English Teachers Institute being held at Duke University and the University of North Carolina this week. His subject will be "The Indispensability of Language Instruction."

Sessions opened at Duke Thursday and will continue there through Saturday. The luncheon and afternoon sessions Friday are scheduled at Chapel Hill.



Following the luncheon, scheduled at 1 p.m. at the Carolina Inn, there will be a panel on "Required English Instruction as Preparation for Various Careers," with Dr. George Harper, UNC English Department, as moderator. Mrs. Ottis M. Hedrick, Lexington high school, will preside.

Participants on the panel will be Prof. M. T. Van Hecke, UNC Law School; Dean Thomas H. Carroll, UNC School of Business Administration; Prof. William B. Hamilton, Duke University History Department, and Prof. Claiborne S. Jones, UNC Zoology Department.

Commenting on the panel, Moderator Harper said "periodic soul-searching to avoid becoming complacently compartmentalized" will be recommended to teachers of all subjects. 'Soul-searching' on the part of the English teachers is expected to begin when the panel tackles their question: 'How can we provide better preparation in English for careers in your special fields' "

Special guests for the luncheon, in addition to Dr. Carroll, will be Dean K. Manchester, Duke University, Undergraduate Studies; Dr. Paul H. Clyde, Duke University, Director of Summer Session; Prof. Jay B. Hubbell, Duke Department of English; Dean Guy B. Phillips, Director, UNC Summer Session; Dean Clifford P. Lyons, UNC College of Arts and Sciences; Russell M. Grumman, Director, UNC Extension Division.

CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer

HORIZONTAL
1. desist
6. Hebrew high priest
9. one of Haggard's books
12. crude tartar
13. secure
14. loose
15. triple
16. impress deeply
18. insipid
20. more serious
21. covering
24. deputy
25. pier
26. stale
28. useful insect
29. fishing net
30. for
33. explode
34. correct
35. malicious burning
38. small dog
40. pay
42. range
43. exaltation
45. proverb
48. white tip of fox's tail
49. woo
50. counter-irritant
51. organ of vision
52. before
53. step

VERTICAL
1. anchor tackle
2. blunder
3. perturb
4. musical composition
5. gum resin
6. lamb's mother
7. buffalo cod
8. thankless person
9. drudge
10. port
11. bring to bear
17. storm
19. record
21. covered part of locomotive
22. united
23. grain to be ground
27. bury
29. dawn's climax
30. archbishop
31. bitter herb
32. over (poet.)
33. water craft
34. merchant
35. sharp mountain spur
36. fresh set
37. metal-worker's tool
41. sullen in
39. heat to excess
aspect
44. born
46. Tibetan gazelle
47. outcome

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

P	O	S	E		A	S	P		C	H	O	W
A	M	E	N		M	I	R		H	A	V	E
P	E	R	T		I	S	O	L	A	T	E	S
A	N	V	I	L	S		T	A	L	E	N	T
		I	C	E	S		E	T	E
R	A	C	E	S		M	A	T	T	I	N	G
A	G	E		S	E	I	N	E		M	O	A
P	O	S	T	E	R	S		R	A	I	N	Y
			A	N	A		S	L	I	T
C	R	O	N	E	S		T	Y	R	A	N	T
R	E	I	N	D	E	E	R		L	I	T	E
E	L	S	E		R	E	A		N	O	V	A
E	Y	E	D		S	L	Y		G	R	A	Y

5-21

Average time of solution: 27 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Then it becomes a case of 'Who Threw The Overalls In Mrs.

44. Native of Media

THE COOLEST SPOT IN TOWN!
Carolina
TODAY
NOW AT POPULAR PRICES
JOSÉ FERRER
Academy Award Winner
because... he was the three musketeers in one...and one lover in a million!
Cyrano de Bergerac
Co-starring MALA POWERS
Released thru United Artists

FRIDAY-SATURDAY
THE STORY OF GRACE MOORE!
So This is Love
COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR

FROM WARNER BROS.
STARRING KATHRYN GRAYSON
15 SONGS!
MERV GRIFFIN · JOAN WELDON · WALTER ABEL
SUNDAY-MONDAY
FERNANDO LAMAS • PATRICIA MEDINA
in
"SANGAREE"
IN 3 DIMENSION
Color by Technicolor
TUESDAY-WEDNESDAY
Hello Fans!!!
It's M-G-M's Love-Happy, Youthful Musical!
"THE AFFAIRS OF DOBIE GILLIS"
Starring
DOBBIE REYNOLDS
BOBBIE VAN

Sports Parade

Carolina Caravan

By JAKE WADE

Four University of North Carolina football coaches and one ex, a retired member of the fraternity who has turned to business for his meat and potatoes, early this week pushed the football season and did an afternoon's work for free.

If you will pardon the filian reference, we will tell you how it came about. One Lt. Ham Wade of the 82nd Airborne Division is the backfield coach of his regimental team in a 10-team Fort Bragg post league which is plenty hot, mister. Being new at the business, he has been seeking all the help possible.

On a weekend visit here, he consorted with Tar Heel coaches and his own old head coach at Davidson, automobile dealer Crowell Little. With a little help from poppa, he persuaded the group to pay a visit to one of his practices and help him outline some workout patterns, play patterns, etc.

So we loaded up a pretty fair collection of football brains and experience in the Messrs. Little, Bill Edwards, Marvin Bass and Steve Belichick and headed for the reservation. There was a morning of golf but in the afternoon the visiting coaches not only observed the 325th regiment workout, but donned monkey clothes and took over. Bass had the linemen, Edwards and Belichick the backs and Little the ends, and they really got down in the trenches and gave those 'troopers the business. The Tar Heel coaches said it made them work-conscious again and geared them for the grim business ahead, starting September 1.

ALSO PRE-PRACTICE!—It's getting closer and closer, the early fall practice, but there will be at least one final day of fun and recreation for the football folks, coaches and writers, before the show is put on the road.

Carolina's Athletic Association again is playing host to them with its annual football round-up golf tournament. The gay golf-grid party is scheduled this year on Thursday, August 20. Atlantic Coast Conference coaches will compete for the William Muirhead trophy, writers for the A. E. Finley trophy and photographers for the Nello Teer trophy. One hears that the boys have been practicing up.

All football writers and photographers of the area are invited and if you were overlooked on the invitation list, let us know, and we will put you down. Those who have been here before will tell you that it's an affair that shouldn't be missed. Everyone seems to enjoy it, including the hosts. Finley course is ready to take a beating, and a good party is planned after the slaughter.

THIS AND THAT!—Nice note from Bunn Hearn, Carolina's veteran baseball coach, and his many friends will be glad to hear that he's having a good summer . . . Basketball Coach Frank McGuire is in the area this week after vacationing at his summer home in New York . . . His guest here is Ben Carnevale, the Navy coach, and the two are taking in the Greensboro sports activities . . . Maryland Coach Jim Tatum, who heads the football clinic at Greensboro, stopped over to visit friends at his alma mater and give his son an allergy check-up at Memorial Hospital . . . Dr. O. K. (Ollie) Cornwell, chairman of athletics and physical education at Carolina and secretary of the new Atlantic Coast Conference, has been elected president of a new Chapel Hill bank . . . Ted Hazelwood, former Carolina football star and coach, has joined the Washington Redskins at Los Angeles for pre-season training . . . He'll be a teammate of Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice, also already at work.

Allen To Coach Soccer In 1953

Marvin Allen, physical education professor at the University of North Carolina, will coach the Tar Heel soccer team next fall, taking over a post he held until called back in the Navy two years ago. He has just received his naval discharge and returned from Washington, where he was stationed with administrative duties.

Allen was soccer coach here four years prior to being called back in active naval duty. His teams made a good record despite the newness of the sport here. His 1948 team won the Southern Conference championship and his 1949 team was runner-up for the title. During the four years the Tar Heel soccer team won approximately 75 per cent of its matches.

Allen was honored by being named a vice-president of the National Soccer Coaches Association while coaching here.

While he was on leave of absence, Alan Moore coached both the soccer and lacrosse teams, which Allen had handled.

Football Round-Up Golf Meet Is Set

The fourth annual football round-up golf tournament, the colorful football-fairway fiesta for press and coaches, will be played on the University of North Carolina's Finley course Thursday, August 20.

Athletic Director C. P. (Chuck) Erickson said invitations would go out this week to football coaches, trainers and athletic directors in the new Atlantic Coast Conference and to sports writers, sportscasters and press photographers of the area.

In the past the coaches invited were mainly from the Southern Conference but with the University's new affiliation with the Atlantic Coast Conference, it's this league receiving the blanket invitation this year. The University Athletic Association, host to the invitational event, also plans to invite representatives from other schools on its football schedule, along with a few special guests.

Plan to attend church this Sunday.

Streamlined 18-Game Schedule Is Arranged For U.N.C. Cagers

A streamlined 18-game schedule, in addition to competition in the Dixie Classic and the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, will face the University of North Carolina Tar Heels this winter.

Director of Athletics C. P. (Chuck) Erickson announced the card today. The regular season opens here on December 4 with a game against McCrary's Eagles and closes with a game with The Citadel at Charleston on February 27.

All foes will be from either the Atlantic Coast or Southern Conferences except McCrary and Virginia.

Coach Frank McGuire, who took over the Tar Heels last season and made an excellent first year's showing with them, will have a discouraging material shortage for the coming campaign, but believes the team should do well with the schedule arranged. McGuire is building for the future and the incoming freshman class will include some excellent basketball prospects.

The 1953-54 schedule:

Dec. 4—McCrary at Chapel Hill
Dec. 11—William and Mary at Chapel Hill
Dec. 12—South Carolina at Chapel Hill
Dec. 19—Clemson at Chapel Hill
Dec. 28—Dixie Classic at Raleigh
Dec. 29—Dixie Classic at Raleigh
Dec. 30—Dixie Classic at Raleigh
Jan. 8—Citadel at Chapel Hill
Jan. 9—Wake Forest at Wake Forest
Jan. 11—Davidson at Davidson
Jan. 16—Virginia at Chapel Hill
Jan. 19—N. C. State at Chapel Hill
Feb. 2—Washington and Lee at Lexington
Feb. 4—Duke at Durham
Feb. 8—Virginia at Charlottesville
Feb. 11—Wake Forest at Chapel Hill
Feb. 13—Clemson at Clemson
Feb. 16—Davidson at Chapel Hill
Feb. 20—Duke at Chapel Hill
Feb. 24—N. C. State at Raleigh
Feb. 27—Citadel at Charleston

Big Year Is Seen For UNC Halfback

Larry Parker, junior halfback from Charlotte, may find himself in a new role on the University of North Carolina football team this fall. Chances are he will do much of the punting, a chore he has not handled since he was one of the nation's most widely publicized schoolboy players at Charlotte Central High.

1953 Grid Schedule

*September 26—N. C. State
*October 3—Washington & Lee
October 10—Wake Forest
*October 17—Maryland
October 24—Georgia
*October 31—Tennessee
November 7—South Carolina
*November 17—Notre Dame
November 21—Virginia
November 28—Duke at Durham
* Denotes home games.

AIR-CONDITIONED FOR YOUR COMFORT

bulletin board.